LOC. AM.—[OUDH.] Added by Oudh Chief Court. O. 21, rr. 104-114:—

104. The Court may, in the case of any debt due to the judgment-debtor (other than a debt secured by a mortgage or a charge or a negotiable instrument, or a debt recoverable only in a Revenue Court) or any movable property not in the possession of the judgment-debtor, issue a notice to any person (hereinafter called the garnishee) liable to pay such debt, or to deliver or account for such movable property, calling upon him to appear before the Court and show cause why he should not pay or deliver into the Court the debt due from or the property deliverable by him to such judgment-debtor or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the decree and the cost of execution.

105. If the garnishee does not forthwith or within such time as the Court may allow, pay or deliver into Court the amount due from or the property deliverable by him to the judgment-debtor, or so much as may be sufficient to satisfy the decree and the cost of execution and does not dispute his liability to pay such debt or deliver such movable property, or if he does not appear in answer to the notice, then the Court may order the garnishee to comply with the terms of such notice, and on such order execution may issue as though such order were a decree against him.

106. If the garnishee disputes his liability, the Court, instead of making such order, may order that any issue or question necessary for determining his liability be tried as though it were an issue in a suit ; and upon the determination of such issue shall pass such order upon the notice as shall be just.

107. Whenever in any proceedings under these rules it is alleged or appears to the Court to be probable, that the debt or property attached or sought to be attached belongs to some third person or that any third person has a lien or charge upon, or an interest in it, the Court may order such third person to appear and state the nature of his claim, if any, upon such debt or property and prove the same, if necessary.

108. After hearing such third person and any other person who may subsequently be ordered to appear, or in the case of such third or other person not appearing when ordered, the Court may pass such order as is hereinbefore provided or make such other order as it shall think fit, upon such terms in all cases with respect to the lien, charge or interest, if any, of such third or other person as to such Court shall seem just and reasonable.

109. Payment or delivery made by the garnishee whether in execution of an order under these rules or otherwise shall be a valid discharge to him as against the judgment-debtor, or any other person ordered to appear as aforesaid, for the amount paid, delivered or realised although such order or the judgment may be set aside or reversed.

110. Debts owing from a firm carrying on business within the jurisdiction of the Court may be attached under these rules, although one or more members of such firm may be resident out of the jurisdiction :

Provided that any person having the control or management of the partnership business or any member of the firm within the jurisdiction is served with the garnishee order. An appearance by any member pursuant to an order shall be sufficient appearance by the firm.

111. The costs of any application under these rules and of any proceedings arising therefrom or incidental thereto, or any order made thereon, shall be in the discretion of the Court.

112. (1) Where the liability of any garnishee has been tried and determined under these rules, the order shall have the same force and be subject to the same conditions as to appeal or otherwise as if it were a decree.

NOTES.

O. 21, R. 104 (Oudh C.C. rules).
—It cannot be contended that until a debt is ascertained, it cannot be called a "debt" within the meaning of R. 104 of O. 21. This rule does not involve any question of attachment. 179 I.C. 601=1939 O.W.N. 82=

A.I.R. 1939 Oudh 86.

O. 21, R. 107 (Oudh).—An appeal is allowed under R. 112 against an order of a Civil Court proceeding under R. 107. No right of second appeal is allowed under the Code. 160 I.C. 42=1936 O.W.N. 114=1936 Oudh 167.

(2) Orders not covered by sub-rule (1) shall be appealable as orders made in execution.

Illustration.—An application for a garnishee order is dismissed either on the ground that the debt is secured by a charge or that there is no prima facie evidence of debt due. This order is appealable as an order in execution.

113. All the rules in this Code relating to service upon either plaintiffs or defendants at the address filed or subsequently altered under O. 7 or O. 8 shall apply to all proceedings taken under O. 21 or S. 47.

LOC. AMS.—[PATNA.] Add the following rule to O. 21 :—

" R. 104.—For the purpose of all proceedings under this order service on any party shall be deemed to be sufficient if effected at the address for service referred to in O. 8, r. 11, subject to the provisions of O. 7, r. 22 provided that this rule shall not apply to the notice prescribed by r. 22 of this Order."

[CALCUTTA.] Insert the following as O. 21-A :—

ORDER XXI-A.

1. Every person applying to a Civil Court to attach movable property shall, in addition to the process-fee, deposit such reasonable sum as the Court may direct, if it thinks necessary for the cost of its removal to the Court-house for its custody, and if such property is livestock, for its maintenance according to the rates prescribed in r. 2 of this Order. If the deposit, when ordered, be not made, the attachment shall not issue. The Court may, from time to time, order the deposit of such further fees as may be necessary. In default of due payment the property shall be released from attachment.

2. The following daily rates shall be chargeable for the custody and maintenance of livestock under attachment :—

Goat and pig	Annas 2 to Annas 4.
Sheep	" 2 " 3.
Cow and bullock	" 6 " 10.
Calf	" 3 " 6.
Buffalo	" 8 " 12.
Horse	" 8 " 12.
Ass	" 3 " 5.
Poultry	" 2 " 3-6.

Explanation.—Although the rates indicated above are regarded as reasonable the Courts should consider individual circumstances and the local conditions and permit deposit at reduced rates where the actual expenses are likely to fall short of the minima or maxima. If any specimen of special value in any of the above classes is seized a special rate may be fixed by the Court. If any animal not specified is attached, the Court may fix the cost as a special case.

3. Where the property attached consists of agricultural implements or other articles which cannot conveniently be removed and the attaching officer does not act under the proviso to r. 43, O. 21, he may, unless the Court has otherwise directed, leave it in the village or place where it has been attached—

(a) In the charge of the judgment-debtor or decree-holder or of some other person, provided that the judgment-debtor, decree-holder or other person enters into a bond in Form No. 15-A of Appendix E to this schedule with one or more sureties for the production of the property when called for, or

NOTES.

O. 21, R. 112 (Oudh).—An appeal is allowed under this rule against an order of a Civil Court proceeding under Rule 107

(Oudh). No right of second appeal is allowed. 160 I.C. 42=1936 O.W.N. 114=1936 Oudh 167.

(b) in the charge of an officer of the Court, if a suitable place for its safe custody be provided and the remuneration of the officer for a period of fifteen days paid in advance.

4. If attached property (other than livestock) is not sold under the proviso to r. 43 of O. 21, or retained in the village or place where it is attached, it shall be brought to the Court-house at the decree-holder's expense and delivered to the proper officer of the Court. In the event of the decree-holder failing to make his own arrangement for the removal of the property with safety, or paying the cost thereof in advance to the attaching officer, then, unless such payment has previously been made into Court, the attachment shall at once be deemed to be withdrawn and the property shall be made over to the person in whose possession it was before attachment.

5. When livestock is attached it shall not, without the special order of the Court, be brought to the Court or its compound or vicinity but shall be left at the village or place where it was attached in the manner and on the conditions set forth in r. 3 of this order :

Provided that livestock shall not be left in the charge of any person under cl. (a) of the said rule unless he enters into a bond for the proper care and maintenance thereof as well as for its production when called for, and that it shall not be left in charge of an officer of the Court under cl. (b) of the said rule unless in addition to the requirements of the said clause provision be made for its care and maintenance.

6. When for any reason, the attaching officer shall find it impossible to obtain compliance with the requirements of the preceding rule so as to entitle him to leave the attached livestock in the village or place where it was attached and no order has been made by the Court for its removal to the Court, the attaching officer shall not proceed with the attachment and no attachment shall be deemed to have been effected.

7. Whenever it shall appear to the Court that livestock under attachment are not being properly tended or maintained, the Court shall make such orders as are necessary for their care and maintenance and may if necessary direct the attachment to cease and the livestock to be returned to the person in whose possession they were when attached. The Court may order the decree-holder to pay any expenses so incurred in providing for the care and maintenance of the livestock and may direct that any sum so paid, shall be refunded to the decree-holder by any other party to the proceedings.

8. If under a special order of the Court livestock is to be conveyed to the Court, the decree-holder shall make his own arrangement for such removal and if he fails to do so, the attachment shall be withdrawn and the property made over to the persons in whose possession it was before attachment.

9. Nothing in these rules shall prevent the judgment-debtor or any person, claiming to be interested in attached livestock from making such arrangements for feeding, watering and tending the same as may not be inconsistent with its safe custody, or contrary to any order of the Court.

10. The Court may direct that any sums which have been legitimately expended by the attaching officer or are payable to him, if not duly deposited or paid, be recovered from the sale proceeds of the attached property, if sold, or be paid by the person declared entitled to delivery before he receives the same. The Court may also order that any sums deposited or paid under these rules be recovered as costs of the attachment from any party to the proceedings.

11. In the event of the custodian of attached property failing, after due notice, to produce such property at the place named to the officer deputed for the purpose or to restore it to its owner if so ordered or failing in the case of livestock to maintain and take proper care thereof, he shall be liable to be proceeded against for the enforcement of his bond in the execution proceedings.

12. When property other than livestock is brought to the Court, it shall immediately be made over to the Nazir, who shall keep it on his sole responsibility in such place as may be approved by the Court. If the property cannot from its nature or bulk be conveniently stored, or kept on the Court premises or in the personal custody of the Nazir, he may subject to the approval of the Court, make such arrangements for its safe custody under his own supervision as may be most convenient and economical. If any premises are to be hired and persons are to be engaged for watching the property, the Court shall fix the charges for the premises and the remuneration to be allowed to the persons (not being officers of the Court) in whose custody the property is kept. All such costs shall be paid into Court by the decree-holder in advance for such period as the Court may from time to time direct.

13. When attached livestock is brought to Court under special order as aforesaid it shall be immediately made over to the Nazir, who shall be responsible for its due preservation and safe custody until he delivers it up under the orders of the Court.

14. If there be a pound maintained by Government or local authority in or near the place where the Court is held, the Nazir shall, subject to the approval of the Court, be at liberty to place in it such livestock as can be properly kept there, in which case the pound-keeper will be responsible for the property to the Nazir and shall receive from the Nazir the same rates for accommodation and maintenance thereof as are paid in respect of impounded cattle of the same description.

15. If there be no good pound available, or, if in the opinion of the Court, it be inconvenient to lodge the attached livestock in the pound, the Nazir may keep them in his own premises or he may entrust them to any person selected by himself and approved by the Court.

16. All costs for the keeping and maintenance of the livestock shall be paid into Court by the decree-holder in advance for not less than fifteen days at a time as often as the Court may from time to time direct. In the event of failure to pay the costs within the time fixed by the Court the attachment shall be withdrawn and the livestock shall be at the disposal of the person in whose possession it was at the time of attachment.

17. So much of any sum deposited or paid into Court under these rules as may not be expended shall be refunded to the depositor.

ORDER XXII.

Death, Marriage and Insolvency of Parties.

No abatement by party's death, if right to sue survives. 1. The death of plaintiff or defendant shall not cause the suit to abate if the right to sue survives.

NOTES.

O. 22: SCOPE.—O. 22 is confined to question of the continuance of suit by virtue of devolution of the deceased's right to sue on other persons during pendency of the suit. But there may be cases in which suit can be continued by other persons who have an independent right to sue on same cause of action. 31 Punj.L.R. 973=1931 L. 79 (2)=12 L. 275=1931 L. 79. If, after an appeal is filed in a Court which has no jurisdiction to entertain it, a respondent dies and his L. Rs. are not brought on record, no question of abatement arises. Question of abatement can only arise when the appeal is pending in a Court having jurisdiction to entertain it. 152 I.C. 939=1935 A. 92=4 A.W.R. 1460 (Rev.). Non-compliance with procedure laid down in O. 22 would not involve want of jurisdiction, but would be a mere irregularity so long as the decree is passed between living persons. 133 I.C. 303=1931 A. 746. Under O. 22 an application is necessary to bring on record the L.R. of a deceased party and Court cannot proceed out of its own accord to ascertain who the heirs are and bring them on record. 151 I.C. 755=1934 A.L.J. 16=1934 A. 465. Rules of abatement laid down in O. 22 apply to appeals against orders on the execution side. 55 M. 1006=1932 M. 574=63 M.L.J. 827; 1935 A. 27=154 I.C. 920=4 A.W.R. 1025. Where certain family disputes are referred to arbitration and the parties intend to proceed with the arbitration to a decision, the death of one of the parties to the arbitration will not bring the arbitration to an end. So long as a dispute is pending before arbitrators on a private reference, the proceedings before them are not governed by O. 22, and there can be no question of the legal representative of a deceased party being brought on the record. 1940 M.W.N. 1083=52 L.W. 556=1941 Mad. 129=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 520. The provisions of O. 22, C. P. Code, do not apply where a party dies after a final decree has been passed. If a plaintiff sues and dies after his suit has been dismissed, his legal representatives may appear from the decree without making any application to be brought on the record in his place. 40 P.L.R. 767.

APPLICATION OF RULE.—O. 22 applies to joinder of L.R. of a person who is properly on record and dies pending the suit or appeal as the case may be but not to the case where a person is dead long before suit or appeal. 26 S.L.R. 362=1932 S. 220. Quære.—

Whether on death of the manager of a Hindu joint family his sons should be brought on record in accordance with the provisions of O. 22. 145 I.C. 164=35 Bom.L.R. 388=1933 B. 245. O. 22 cannot be applied to a case instituted or defended by a few persons on behalf of numerous persons not on record under O. 1, R. 8, or to suit instituted under S. 92. 168 I.C. 113=17 Pat.L.T. 926=1937 P. 149. O. 22 has no application to applications for leave to appeal to Privy Council. (4 I.C. 454, Ref.) 28 S.L.R. 150=148 I.C. 819=1934 S. 36. Applicability of O. 22 to proceedings under U.P. Encumbered Estates Act. See 1939 A.W.R. (H. C.) 713; 1940 O.A. 518; 1941 O.W.N. 418 (F.B.). O. 22, under which substitution proceedings are taken is not applicable to execution proceedings. A decree-holder has an absolute right to execute the decree for the benefit of himself and other decree-holders and if any one of the other decree-holders dies, it is not strictly necessary that his heirs should be brought on the record. 4 A.W.R. 1025. Proceedings in appeal from any decree or order in proceedings in execution are not proceedings in execution and they are proceedings in appeal and R. 11 of O. 22, makes the whole of O. 22 applicable to appeals. 150 I.C. 425=11 O.W.N. 917=1934 O. 337. See also 55 M. 1006=63 M.L.J. 827. The provisions of O. 22 about abatement of suits and appeals do not apply to applications for revision. 144 I.C. 883 (2)=1933 S. 200; 1939 A.W.R. (C.C.) 149=1939 Oudh 277; 1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 126=1940 R.D. 367. The death of one or more of several plaintiffs or defendants or several appellants or respondents in a suit or appeal, who are suing or being sued in a representative character does not lead to the abatement of the suit or appeal on failure to bring on record the legal representatives of the deceased party or parties within the time limited by law. O. 22 cannot be applied to a case instituted or defended by a few persons on behalf of numerous persons not on record under O. 1, R. 8, C.P. Code, or to suit instituted under S. 92, C.P. Code. 17 Pat.L.T. 926=A. I.R. 1937 Pat. 149. See also 1940 Pat. 180; 1939 L. 572; 1940 A.M.L.J. 63. Municipality—Suit by Municipality represented by Special Officer—Decree—Appeal by defendant—Administration vested in commissioner pending appeal—Latter not impleaded in place of Special Officer—Effect—Held, that the Municipality was a corporate body and it never died. The Commissioners who had taken charge of the Municipality could not be said to be representatives of the Special Officer, who was made a respondent. No substitution was therefore necessary in such a case and the appeal therefore did not abate. 171 I. C. 691=A.I.R. 1937 Pat. 588. In a suit by A and a mutawalli of a mosque for declaration that the mosque was wakf a decree was passed. During the pendency of the appeal the mutawalli died. Since the death of the mutawalli, A had been managing the mosque and the properties and performing the same duties as the deceased mutawalli was alleged to have performed in his lifetime. Held, that A could be treated as a legal representative or prosecuting the appeal. A.I.R. 1941 Lah. 36.

O. 22, R. 1: SCOPE OF RULE.—In order to work abatement of a suit or appeal it is not necessary for the Court to pass any order. 48 A. 334=93 I.C. 313=1926 A. 217. Rules 1 to 10 do not contemplate the representatives of judgment-debtor being placed on record after the appellate decree has been passed. 18 B. 224. The cause of action of the original and revived suit must be the same, and no fresh cause of action can be imported into the revised suit. 22 C. 92 (97). Substitution of L.R. of a deceased plaintiff or defendant at one stage of a suit, as for instance, on an appeal from an interlocutory order in the suit, is effective for all future stages of the suit. 45 C. 94=33 M.L.J. 486=44 I.A. 218 (P.C.); 1928 L. 784. A suit ordinarily abates only against the deceased defendant, unless there are circumstances which would cause an abatement as against one to operate as an abatement against all. 18 R.D. 553=15 L.R. 667 (Rev.); 155 I.C. 602=1935 A.L.J. 509=1935 A. 640; 164 I.C. 971=1936 L. 578. A suit for ejectment of several defendants who are collaterals of the deceased tenant by reason of the death of one defendant who is a remoter collateral than the surviving defendants, because the latter who are nearer than the deceased have precedence. (Ibid.) Where in appeal in a suit brought in a representative capacity one of the original plaintiffs dies, the surviving plaintiffs are competent to prosecute the appeal. 37 P. L.R. 85. So also in suits instituted with leave under O. 1, R. 8, C.P. Code. 39 C.W.N. 303=60 C.L.J. 556=1935 C. 413. The fact that an application by appellant for setting aside the fancied or imaginary abatement has been dismissed does not affect the competency of the appeal. (Ibid.) When in an appeal against a decree dismissing suit, one of the appellants and one of the respondents die pending appeal, and all heirs of the deceased appellant and respondent are already on record, the case is governed by R. 2 of O. 22, and not by Rr. 3 and 4; no application for substitution is therefore necessary in such a case. Appeal cannot therefore abate by reason of the omission to apply for substitution. 15 P. 326=17 Pat.L.T. 584=1936 P. 548. Even if it be that there are other heirs of deceased appellant besides those on record there cannot be a total abatement of the appeal, when the shares or interests of several appellants are separate. The surviving appellants, if successful, will get a decree to the extent of their shares. (Ibid.) Where a plaintiff after the institution of a suit transfers his entire rights but continues as co-plaintiff with his transferees and dies during the pendency of the suit and a decree is passed in ignorance of such death, the decree does not become a nullity because of that plaintiff's death, for the reason that after his transfer he was not a necessary party to the suit. 1939 O.W.N. 500=1939 Oudh 196.

RIGHT TO SUE.—This is based upon facts which go to make up what is called "the cause of action". 22 C. 92. It includes a "right to appeal", and "a right to prosecute by law or to obtain relief by means of legal procedure". 26 B. 597 at 599 and 607; 33 I.C. 45=38 M. 1064; 9 Bur.L.T. 38=34 I.C. 249. See also 74 I.C. 14; 50 C. 650=74 I.C. 929=27 C.W.N. 621. The words "if the right to sue survives" mean, if the cause of action survives or continues. 26 B. at 599. See also 2 Luck. 464=4 O.W.N. 235=1927 O. 156; 104 I.C. 308=1927 N. 343.

BURDEN OF PROOF as to survival of right to sue is on the person desiring to prosecute the suit or appeal. 48 A. 630=24 A.L.J. 796=1926 A. 610.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—When the cause of action against the deceased defendant is based on a tort or breach of contract of personal service, and the deceased has not left any personal assets, the right to sue does not survive. 8 M.L.J. 180. See also 9 Bur. L.T. 38=34 I.C. 249 (action for slander); 62 P.R. 1915=28 I.C. 455 (action for personal injuries); 48 A. 630. There are certain types of wrongs which, though a remedy for them is available against the wrongdoer during his lifetime, does not permit of a remedy against his representatives after his death. By English law an executor represents the debts and the property of his testator but not his person. And that in general, is true of the position of a legal representative in India. Generally the only cases, apart from cases of contract in which a remedy for a wrongful act can be pursued against the estate of a deceased person is one in which the wrong consists of the appropriation by the deceased of property, or the value of property belonging to another. To those special types of wrongs which have produced for the wrongdoer either property or money which has accrued to his estate, the English law has refused to apply the maxim of "factio personalis moritur cum persona". These principles are applicable to

NOTES.

India as well. Wherever it is found that a deceased person has by his wrong diverted either property or the proceeds of the property belonging to some one else into his own estate, recourse can be had to that estate, through his legal representatives when he is dead to recover it—subject of course, to the limitation that any decree obtained will be limited to the assets of the deceased wrongdoer's estate. Further wherever a relationship based on contract, quasi contract or fiduciary relationship or some obligation to perform a duty, is found to exist that also is alone sufficient to entitle a remedy to be pursued against the legal representatives of the wrongdoer. 1941 A.L.J. 93. Death of one joint tort-feasor does not cause the suit to abate as against the other tort-feasors. 1930 L. 709=120 I.C. 9. Personal right does not abate after decree. 59 I.C. 939; 1929 L. 807=11 L. 1. Decree is properly capable of inheritance. (Ibid.) Actions which are not personal to the plaintiff survive after the death of minor plaintiff (as, suit by minor repudiating will of father). 27 I.C. 396=27 M.L.J. 674; 33 C. 1163. The right to an office as mahant is purely personal and comes to an end on the death of the person claiming it. 12 L. 1=125 I.C. 891=1930 L. 703 (2). Right to sue in forma pauperis is a personal right and does not survive to the heirs of the pauper. 64 I.C. 63; as also a suit for damages for breach of contract of marriage. 44 B. 446=55 I. C. 624. The cause of action in a suit by a father for the custody of his minor children, who are in the custody of the defendant does not survive against the widow of the deceased defendant. 25 B. 574. See also 1941 A.L.J. 93 (claim in respect of minor's property misappropriated by guardian). When a submission to arbitration has been made a rule of Court, and the right is one which is not personal the proceedings do not abate by reason of the death of a party. In such cases the procedure laid down in R. 5 should be followed. 13 M.L.J. 311. When a defendant in a suit for damages for wrongful arrest and malicious prosecution dies pending suit, the suit abates. 13 B. 677; 65 I.C. 66; 4 P.L.J. 676=52 I.C. 348; 38 I.C. 823=31 M.L.J. 772. PARTITION SUIT—DEATH OF MINOR PLAINTIFF—RIGHTS OF HEIRS TO CONTINUE.—Where a minor plaintiff dies during the pendency of a suit for partition instituted on his behalf, his L. Rs. are not entitled to continue the suit; for the rule that the institution of a partition suit effects a severance of the joint status of the family is not applicable to a suit filed on behalf of a minor, as in such a suit it is for the Court to determine whether a decree for partition will be beneficial to the minor. 152 I.C. 715=36 Bom.L.R. 738. But see 65 M.L.J. 630 (F.B.) infra. The suit did not abate in such a case but the Court should proceed with the trial of the suit; and if it should come to the conclusion on the evidence that the suit as instituted was for the benefit of the minor, it should pass a decree, the benefit of which will go to the legal heirs of the deceased minor; hence the mother who instituted the suit on behalf of the minor could bring herself on record and ask for a decision on the issue whether the suit would be for the benefit of the minor. PRO FORMA DEFENDANT.—Omission to bring on record the L. O. 22, Rr. 2, 3 and 4: DIFFERENCE BETWEEN.—In all cases where the right to sue is fully represented by the surviving plaintiff or against the defendant already on record. R. 2 applies; when it would not be fully represented unless some person not already on record is added as a party. R. 3 or 4 applies. The application of R. 2 or Rr. 3 and 4 does not depend upon the distinction between the right to sue surviving to a person in his own name or accruing after the death of the party pending the suit, but on whether the right to sue fully vests in the surviving plaintiffs or is fully available against the surviving defendants. 29 N. Where the right which a person claims does not accrue to him on the death of the plaintiff but on a lease obtained by him from her in her lifetime, it is obvious that he cannot come in as a man entitled to have his name substituted in consequence of the death of the original plaintiff. (Ibid.) All L.Rs. must be brought on record as plaintiffs or appellants, or if any refuses to join, as defendants or respondents. 20 I.C. 366=11 A.L.J. 719; 16 A. 211. See also 28 Punj. Though joint purchasers may have equal shares in the property they buy, and may as between themselves, each, be liable to pay a half of the revenue; each of them is so far as the Government is concerned liable to pay the whole. So when both of such persons sue as one entity to recover from the defendant the revenue which they had been wrongly compelled to pay, there is no presumption that each of them has paid one half of it. When such a suit is decreed and pending the appeal one of the plaintiffs respondents dies, the whole appeal abates as no presumption could be made about the payment made by the dead person. 183 I.C. 479=1939 O.A. 622=1939 R.D. 430=1939 A.W.R. Where however some of the heirs make such an application disputing the right of the other persons to claim as heirs it cannot be said that the Court cannot make an order for substitution in their favour. 145 I.C. 170=37 C.W.N. 138=1933 C. 498. There is nothing in O. 22, R. 3 (1), to suggest that an application under that rule can only be made by one who is legal representative. The right to make an application under the rule is not confined to the heirs of a deceased plaintiff. An application by a person who claims to be a legal representative, although he does not turn out to be one after full inquiry or by one who claims to have an interest in the continuance of the suit must be held to be such as would not allow the suit to abate. NOTES.

If a mortgagee dies pending his suit to bring the mortgaged property to sale, a person claiming under his will can be brought on the record as a legal representative without taking out probate first. It would, however, be necessary for him either to take out probate or obtain a succession certificate before proceeding to take out a personal decree, if this becomes necessary. 43 P.L.R. 16. When a person sues for a debt and dies pending suit, his widow holding a succession certificate is alone entitled to be brought on record as his L.R. 26 M. 224. Where the executor applying for probate dies during the pendency of such a proceeding his sons, who claim as legatees, or as representatives of the deceased legatee, can intervene and continue the proceeding. The test to determine whether or not failure to bring on record the heirs of one of several parties who had died has the effect of causing the entire appeal to abate or not is, can the appeal be decided, without bringing the L.Rs. of the deceased party on to the record without bringing into existence two decrees contrary to each other. If the result of hearing and deciding the appeal would be to bring into existence two decrees of Courts of competent jurisdiction contrary to each other, the appeal would abate as a whole. 1935 P. 4=158 I.C. 56. On the death of the pauper plaintiff the right to sue will survive as in all other cases, but the personal right to sue as a pauper will not survive, and the L.R. will have to continue the suit either as a pauper on a fresh application that he is a pauper or on payment of Court-fees. 146 I. C. 235=1933 N. 334. See also 1936 P. 591. Where one of the petitioning creditors having once been impleaded as a party to an insolvency proceeding dies pending an appeal it is necessary to implead his representatives. It cannot be said that he is merely a pro forma defendant. The inclusion of his name and that of his representatives in the appeal is, therefore, essential. 145 I.C. 474=34 P. L.R. 827=1933 L. 642 (2). In a suit for malicious prosecution the plaintiff's right, which is a mere right to sue for damages for a personal injury, changes its character once it is merged in a decree. It then becomes a matter of record which is a right of higher nature. The rights and liabilities arising under a decree awarding damages for malicious prosecution therefore continue when the plaintiff dies during the pendency of an appeal against the decree, so far as the appeal is concerned, but as regards the cross-objections they abate. 30 N.L.R. 186=1934 N. 119. Where a suit for accounts ended in a decree and some of the defendants appealed and one of them died pending the appeal but his L. Rs. were not brought on record within time. Held, that the appeal abated and that O. 41, R. 4 did not apply. 15 L. 667=1934 L. 206. The L.R. or a deceased decree-holder who dies during the pendency of an execution petition filed by him can be substituted in his place in the execution petition and be allowed to continue it. 57 B. 616=35 Bom.L.R. 769=1933 B. 358. A Hindu widow suing to recover a mortgage debt due to her husband sues as a representative of her husband's estate. If she dies pending the suit, the right to sue survives and devolves on the reversioners who are her legal representatives within the meaning of S. 2 (11), C.P. Code, inasmuch as the estate vested in them on her death. If the reversioners do not apply to be substituted in time, the suit abates under O. 22, R. 3 (2) and they are, therefore, debarred from instituting a fresh suit on the mortgage under O. 22, R. 9. A purchaser of their interest is under the same disability. 45 C.W.N. 105. Where one of three appellants, who are members of a joint Hindu family, dies, but the right to sue does not survive in the remaining members, although the members of the joint family are already on the record and represent in a sense the interest of the deceased member of the same family, yet it is necessary to bring them on the record in the capacity of representatives of the deceased. And if they are not so brought on record, the appeal abates as a whole. 1933 P. 702. See also 1939 R.D. 310=1939 A. W.R. (B.R.) 259. A body of reversioners had obtained a declaration during a widow's lifetime that certain alienations were not binding on them. After her death some of them brought a suit for possession of their share and the remaining reversioners were made defendants. One of the plaintiffs died and his L.R. was not brought on record in time. Held, that the suit did not abate as a whole as the remaining plaintiff's shares were ascertainable and also because any of the previous plaintiffs could have brought a suit in respect of his share only (1928 L. 572, Ref.) 1933 L. 938. The fact that the legal representative of a deceased defendant is already on the record, but not as such (but in another capacity) does not prevent the abatement of the suit, and a plaintiff is not thereby relieved from the duty of applying within the time limited for the substitution of the legal representative of the deceased defendant under O. 22, R. 4. 39 Bom.L. R. 1156. See also 1938 Oudh 259. There is no justification enlarging the words of O. 22, R. 3, so as to cover a case where all that is required is formal amendment of the record, and not the addition of new parties. There is no justice in holding that a suit abates for want of parties when all parties interested are in fact before the Court. A person who is already a party cannot be made a party over again. If the proper parties are not before the Court, the suit cannot proceed; but if a party is on the record, he can appear either in person or by counsel and make any representation which seems good to him whether in one capacity or in more than one capacity, and being on the record, it is competent to him to put in a plaint or written statement stating his attitude in the different capacities in which he is suing or is being sued. On its being brought to the notice of the Court that the record does not show that he is suing or is being sued in more than one capacity, it is the duty of the Court to have the record amended. An amendment of that sort can be made at any time. The fact that the interest of the party pleading has not been properly shown on the record does not justify an order striking out the pleading. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 497=42 Bom.L.R. 494=1940 Bom. 259. Where in a suit brought in a representative capacity, one of the plaintiffs dies during the pendency of the appeal by defendants and no steps are taken to bring his L.R. on the record, the appeal does not abate in toto. 152 I.C. 817=1935 A.L.J. 139=1935 A. 106. Where one of plaintiff-respondents dies during the pendency of appeal and the right to sue does not survive the defendant-appellants cannot possibly apply under R. 3 for bringing on the record the L.Rs. of the deceased inasmuch as no such representatives in the eye of the law exist and the omission to do what could not legally be done cannot be fatal to the appeal. (Ibid.) When trial Court decree declared that plaintiff and defendants were entitled to certain areas out of the joint holding and one of the respondents died pending appeal and his L.R. was not brought on record within limitation period. Held, that as the decree affected all the respondents, the appeal abated in toto and not merely against the deceased respondent. 157 I.C. 994=1935 Pesh. 126. Contract to sell land in favour of two persons—Shares not specified—Decree dismissing suit by vendees for specific performance—Appeal by both—Death of one—Heirs not impleaded. Held, that the right to enforce the contract vested, on the death of one of the appellants, under S. 45 of the Contract Act, in his L.Rs. along with the other and not in the latter alone; it was therefore impossible to give any relief to the surviving appellant in the absence of the heirs of the deceased appellants on the record. The appeal therefore abated not only as regards the deceased appellant, but in toto. 15 L. 355=37 P.L. R. 400=1935 L. 478.

O. 22, Rr. 3 and 8.—Suit by daughter for possession of father's estate—Dismissal—Appeal by plaintiff—Death of appellant leaving insolvent son—Application by Official Receiver to be impleaded—Subsequent withdrawal—Subsequent application by insolvent son for permission to continue appeal in his own right as reversioner not maintainable. 47 L.W. 363=1938 Mad. 420=(1938) 1 M. Death of the sole plaintiff in a mortgage suit and the omission to bring his heirs on the record within the period of limitation results in an abatement of the suit. The abatement is automatic and does not require any formal order by the Court. 129 I.C. 545=1931 A. 154=53 A. 374=1931 A.L.J. 153. Propriety of order setting aside abatement of suit. See 47 B. 92=1922 B. 449. What is sufficient cause for setting aside order of abatement, see 1 L.L.J. 26. The rule relates to the case of plaintiff dying before judgment. See also 27 B. 579. The question of abatement must be considered with reference to the subject-matter of the suit; where the suit relates to a sum of money the suit need not abate in its entirety merely because all the heirs of one of the plaintiffs have not been brought upon the record. 1932 A.L.J. 1029=16 R.D. 583. Death of one of several defendants (appellants) causes the appeal to abate only so far as the deceased appellant is concerned and not the whole. 10 I.C. 27. it cannot be decided in the absence of the deceased defendant the whole appeal abates. 32 C.W.N. 229=107 I.C. 726; 56 C. 622=33 C.W.N. 359=1929 C. 519. Where there are several appellants, any single one of whom is competent to maintain and prosecute the appeal, the death of one of them does not cause an abatement on failure to implead his L.Rs. The right to sue in such case survives to the other appellants alone. 1935 L. 879. Decree obtained against wrong L.Rs. cannot be enforced as against the proper L.Rs. 139 I.C. 465=63 M.L.J. 319. But see 29 N.L.R. 89=1933 N. 73 (1926 M. 487, Dist.) An objection that a person is not the L.R. of the deceased plaintiff must be taken at the earliest opportunity. When once the name of a person is entered on the record under this rule, the Court is bound to proceed with the suit. 26 M. 224. See also 70 I.C. 209=1923 N. 209. An ex parte order under this rule does not preclude the defendant from urging at the hearing that the suit has abated. 11 C.W.N. 698. See also 94 I.C. 243. It would be open to a defendant or respondent to apply to bring on record the L.R. 90 I.C. 72. A person who allows his benamidar to sue in his own name and not in a representative character cannot come in on his death as his L.R. 1930 M. 221=58 M.L.J. 57.

ESTOPPEL against original party also binds L. R. 19 I.C. 258. L.R. of a deceased plaintiff is confined to pleadings and the case of the deceased plaintiff. 1930 M. 593=127 I.C. 127.

APPEAL.—An appeal lies against an order passed under this rule. 17 M. 209. But see also 1 L. 493=2 L.L.J. 738; 49 M. 450=50 M.L.J. 485=1926 M. 586 (F.B.). An order stating that certain persons cannot be substituted in the place of a deceased plaintiff is not appealable. 140 I.C. 529=1932 A.L.J. 308=1932 A. 466. Joint decree in pre-emption suit—Appeal—Death of one vendee pending—L.R. not brought on record—No abatement. Mere fact that one of the vendees had dropped out, would not prevent the other vendees from prosecuting their appeal, because they were interested in the property transferred and were entitled to press their appeal as against the plaintiff on a ground common to all the vendees and that the appeal did not abate as a whole. 146 I.C. 511 (2)=1933 A.L.J. 1049=1933 A. 733. An appeal by a deity is not incompetent merely by reason of its being allowed to abate as against the heirs of one of the shebaites who died pending the appeal. 42 C.W.N. 837=1938 Cal. 541.

REVISION.—An order passed by a District Judge dismissing an appeal from the order of a Munsif that the name of a representative already brought on the record be struck out, is liable to revision under S. 115. 26 M. 224.

LIMITATION.—See Limitation Act, Art. 176. 3 I.C. 438; 5 Bur.L.T. 77=15 I.C. 366; 13 I.C. 313=22 M.L.J. 169. (If one L. R. be brought on record in time, there is no bar of time if others are brought in subsequently.) 52 I.C. 614; 71 I.C. 176=1923 N. 166. Under R. 3, the suit abates so far as the deceased plaintiff is concerned when there is no application within 90 days under Art. 176 for the substitution of his L.R. and if within the 90 days an application in that behalf has been made then the Court under O. 1, R. 10 can afterwards permit other persons who are also L.Rs. to be joined as co-plaintiffs in the suit in spite of the fact that their application is presented more than 90 days after the death of the original plaintiff. 145 I.C. 693=1933 R. 234. See also 1937 Rang. 199. The procedure laid down in Rr. 3, 4 and 11 for substitution of L.R. of appellant or respondent is not exhaustive. Such application can be made at any time within the period prescribed by Art. 181, Limitation Act. 9 P. 372=122 I.C. 148=1929 P. 565 (F.B.).

DISCRETION OF COURT.—See 43 M.L.J. 147=45 M. 703.

O. 22, Rr. 3 and 4.—See 1937 Rang. 199. O. 22, R. 12 excludes Rr. 3 and 4 from execution proceedings and does not prohibit the substitution of the name of the L. R. of the deceased decree-holder in execution on the latter's death. An execution proceeding does not abate on the death of the decree-holder and there is no bar to the execution continuing at the instance of his representative. A fresh application for execution is not necessary. 13 P. 777=155 I.C. 969=1935 P. 117. The provisions of Rr. 3 and 4 have no applicability to a case where the plaintiff dies after securing a preliminary decree and before the passing of the final decree in a mortgage suit. 17 L. 817=1937 L. 164; 1935 L. 712. A final decree passed in a mortgage suit against a defendant who has died after the passing of the preliminary decree and without substitution of his heirs is not a valid decree. 39 C.W.N. 1284. See also 17 Lah. 817=39 P.L.R. 168=1937 Lah. 164; 1937 Pat. 612; 1940 Bom. 318.

O. 22, Rr. 3 and 4.—The provisions of O. 22, C. P. Code, apply to Civil revision-petitions under S. 115, C. P. Code, where the petitioner in a civil revision petition dies, and his legal representatives do not apply to be brought on the record and to continue the revision petition, within the period of 90 days prescribed therefor, the revision petition abates. After the said 90 days there is no revision petition pending in the High Court. If the High Court in ignorance of the death of the party disposes of and passes an order on that petition, after it has abated, that order is without jurisdiction and a nullity. 1937 M.W.N. 787.

4. (1) Where one of two or more defendants dies and the right to sue does not survive against the surviving defendant or defendants alone, or a sole defendant or sole surviving defendant dies and the right to sue survives, the Court on an application made in that behalf, shall cause the legal representative of the deceased defendant to be made a party and shall proceed with the suit.

NOTES.

O. 22, Rr. 3 4 and 11.—Where a suit against several defendants for a declaration that the plaintiffs were entitled to water their lands from a particular stream at a specified point and for a perpetual injunction that the defendants should remove their dam in order to enable the plaintiffs to do so is decreed, the decision jointly affects all the defendants and if in appeal by them one of them dies and his legal representative is not brought on record within time, the appeal does not abate against all the appellants. 1941 Pesh. 36.

O. 22, Rr. 3 and 9.—O. 22, R. 3 read with R. 9 deals with representation of deceased appellant. Upon the death of the appellant, if one of his legal representatives is properly brought on record, this would prevent the appeal from abating. Applications to place other legal representatives on record can be made and allowed even after the period of limitation has expired and such applications do not operate as an automatic abatement of the appeal. I.L.R. (1939) Lah. 433=41 P.L.R. 843=1939 Lah. 439.

O. 22, Rr. 3 and 11.—Where a sole defendant in a suit against whom a decree is passed, dies pending the appeal filed by him, and some only of his heirs are substituted, within time as appellants, the appeal abates unless the existence of the other heirs are unknown. If any of them are unwilling to proceed with the appeal, they must be made respondents. 43 C.W.N. 1088.

O. 22, Rr. 3 and 10: DIFFERENCE BETWEEN.—There is a difference between R. 3 and R. 10. In case there is a death of a party to a suit, the Court, on a proper application, is bound to substitute the L.R. of the deceased party under R. 3, while R. 10 refers to cases of assignment, creation or devolution of an interest during the pendency of a suit other than on death, etc. In this case the Courts have a discretion to give leave for the suit to be continued by or against the person to or upon whom such interest has come or devolved. 15 P. 82=17 Pat.L.T. 73=1936 P. 123.

O. 22, Rr. 3 and 11 are not overridden by O. 41, R. 4. 1940 P.W.N. 361=1940 Pat. 346.

O. 22, R. 4: SCOPE OF RULE.—See 1930 M. 930. The rule is applicable to insolvency proceedings. 7 A. 734. But see 10 A. 264 (F.B.). It is sufficient compliance with R. 4, if one L. R. alone is brought on the record on the death of a defendant. It is not necessary that all his L. Rs. should be impleaded. An abatement under the rule as against a particular defendant cannot operate as an abatement of the whole suit as against all the defendants. 37 Bom.L.R. 288=1935 B. 287. See also 1941 O.W.N. 1195=1941 O.A. 891 (test to find whether abatement of appeal is total or partial). 1938 Oudh 62. So also where the appellant has impleaded all the persons known to him and bona fide omitted one subsequently brought on record. 7 L. 438=28 Punj.L.R. 287=1927 L. 6. See also 7 Pat.L.T. 746=94 I.C. 209=1926 P. 376; 4 P. 320=89 I.C. 280=1925 P. 551; 1935 L. 712 (1933 L. 356, Dist.; 1927 L. 6 and 1933 L. 380. Rel. on.) 59 M. 660=43 L.W. 500=1936 M. 336. Hence where on the death of a defendant his two sons are brought on record as his L. Rs. but one of them dies and this is not known to the plaintiff who continues the suit and the subsequent proceedings bona fide with the two sons on record and the other son contests all proceedings, the subsequent proceedings taken are not null and void. (Ibid.) On this rule, see also 36 C.W.N. 1007=56 C.L.J. 365. Words 'right to sue' in the rule means 'right to appeal' in case where a party dies after decree but pending appeal. 1934 A.L.J. 933=1934 A. 1029. Decree in favour of Hindu son that decree against father not binding on his share—Appeal by defendant—Death of plaintiff—Effect—Abatement. (Ibid.) Although the decree appealed against is common to all the defendants against whom the suit was dismissed, the abatement of appeal against one of the defendants-respondents does not have the effect of the abatement of the entire appeal if the interest of that defendant is quite distinct and separate from that of the other defendants. 1938 O.W.N. 40=1938 Oudh 62. See also 1938 Sind 239. The failure to implead all the legal representatives of a deceased defendant does not cause the suit to abate as against him. There is no provision in O. 22, R. 4, allowing a suit to abate when an application has been made, merely because the application does not include all the legal representatives of the deceased. 40 P.L.R. 90=1938 Pesh. 4. If a decree is made jointly in favour of all the defendants, and their interests inter se are neither separate nor separable, it may lead to two conflicting decrees, if an appeal is allowed in the absence of some of the defendants in whose favour the original decree stands. In cases like these therefore, the non-inclusion of some of the defendants as respondents must naturally result in the failure of the whole appeal. But where this is not the case and there is no danger of coming into conflict with any other recognized principle of law, there is no bar against an appeal proceeding in the absence of some of the defendants who are not impleaded as respondents. 18 Lah. 746=40 P. L.R. 273=1938 Lah. 35. See also 1938 Nag. 42=I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 266; 1941 Pesh. 41. Where the death of one of the respondents to an appeal does not make the representation of the interests involved incomplete, the appeal does not abate and can proceed; but where such death renders the representation incomplete, the appeal as a whole abates. In an appeal against a decree for partition, when one of the co-sharer-respondents dies and his heirs are not impleaded in time, the appeal abates as a whole because no decree for partition can be made in absence of even a single co-sharer. 16 Pat.L.T. 308=154 I. C. 856. Where, on the death of one of several respondents, the appellant withdraws his appeal as against him instead of bringing his L. Rs. on record, the whole appeal will abate and become incompetent if it will result in two inconsistent decrees being made. 1936 A.M.L.J. 19. Death of defendant—Omission to implead all L. Rs.—Effect—Subsequent order allowing withdrawal of the suit with liberty—Legality. 43 C.W.N. 1019.

APPLICABILITY.—Suit for accounts.—Death of defendant after preliminary decree and before final decree—Suit if abates. 87 I.C. 818=1926 C. 308; 1937 Lah. 615. As to mortgage suit see 89 I. C. 236=1926 S. 20. But see infra 51 M. 701 (F.B.). O. 22, R. 4, does not apply to a case in which a preliminary decree has been passed. Where in a mortgage suit, the mortgagor dies after the preliminary decree, and his heirs are not brought on the record within the time limited, there is no abatement of the suit. The preliminary decree is a good decree although the mortgagor dies on the same day on which judgment is pronounced but the decree is passed only the next day. O. 22, R. 6 applies to the judgment based on arguments which have been concluded before the death and such judgment may be the judgment founding either a preliminary decree or a final decree. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 689=42 Bom.L. R. 663=1940 Bom. 318. A suit does not abate on account of the death of a defendant after a preliminary decree is passed. The word "suit" means only such proceedings as are antecedent to the passing of a preliminary decree or otherwise. 2 Luck. 464=101 I.C. 174=1927 O. 156; 1929 N. 206; 1929 C. 648; 11 R. 446=1933 R. 318. See also 132 I.C. 31=1931 A. 235; 1937 Lah. 423; 1938 Sind 239; 1938 Nag. 42; 1937 Lah. 615. Where mortgagors obtain a preliminary decree for redemption, and some of them die and the rest are their representatives in interest by right of survivorship, R. 10 and not this rule applies and there is no period of limitation for the right to apply for the substitution of the representatives of the deceased. (Ibid.) See also 29 Bom.L.R. 244=101 I.C. 129=1927 B. 156. But see contra 49 A. 310=100 I.C. 288=25 A.L.J. 175=1927 A. 272. A final decree in a mortgage suit is a "decree" within the meaning of S. 2 (2), C. P. Code, and as such, is subject to the general rule that a decree made against a dead defendant, i.e., a defendant dead at the date it was made, is a nullity. The L.R. can properly raise the question of validity of the decree so made in an independent suit, and cannot be prejudiced by the fact that their interests were technically represented in the execution by an administrator appointed pendente lite. It is not necessary that they should take steps in the mortgage suit itself. 63 C. 472. Wrong representative brought on record—No fraud or collusion—Decision binds real representative as well. 1930 M. 930=60 M.L.J. 97; 29 N.L.R. 89=1933 N. 73; 1933 L. 380=141 I. C. 580=34 P.L.R. 511. It not uncommonly happens, in a suit for administration, that for one reason or another a particular interest is not represented before decree, but is either provided for by the decree, or is asserted at a later stage under the decree, or is given effect by a party being permitted to attend certain accounts and enquiries so as to be bound by the result. A Mahomedan brought a suit against his co-heirs for administration. One of the defendants who had the same interest and was in the same position as that of the plaintiff died and no application was made by the plaintiff to bring his heir on the record. Held, that the suit for administration did not come to an end by reason of abatement as against the deceased defendant. A.I.R. 1940 P.C. 215=67 I.A. 406=45 C.W.N. 226=53 L.W. 1. When the defendant mentioned in an application to sue in forma pauperis dies, the applicant is not affected by the provisions of this rule. 7 B. 373. The rule does not apply to cases in which an assignment or creation of an interest pending the appeal plus the death of the assignor, arises. Such cases fall under R. 10. 9 B. 151. This rule and not R. 9 applies to the bringing on record of the L.Rs. of a deceased defendant, in a suit for dissolution of a partnership. 16 B. 27. As to applicability of rule to partition suit after the passing of preliminary decree, see 1933 C. 696=60 C. 940. See also 11 O.W.N. 1487; 1938 Sind 239. Death of one of the defendants in a partition suit after preliminary decree and before final decree does not cause abatement. But this is not applicable to appeal from preliminary decree. In such an appeal in which the preliminary decree is put in jeopardy it is necessary that all the parties interested should be joined; and if a respondent who was one of the alienees impleaded in the suit dies during the pendency of the appeal and if his L.Rs. are not impleaded as parties within the time limited, the appeal must necessarily abate. 30 S.L.R. 428; 11 O.W.N. 1487=1935 O. 36; 1935 O.W.N. 401=1935 O. 329. O. 22, cannot be applied to a suit or appeal instituted or defended by a few persons on behalf of numerous persons not on record under O. 1, R. 8, C.P. Code, where certain respondents to an appeal are allowed by the Court to defend the appeal on behalf of all the respondents who are a large number, the death of some of such respondents defending the appeal will not result in the abatement of the appeal by reason of the omission to implead or substitute their heirs within the time limited. It is for the Court in such a case to decide whether it will permit the remaining respondents to continue to defend the appeal or whether it will insist on the original number of respondents being maintained by adding some of the respondents. 18 Pat. 723=21 Pat.L.T. 637=1940 Pat. 180. See also 1940 A.M.L.J. 63. Where a person is appointed by the Court on an application under O. 1, R. 8 to be sued and defend the suit on behalf of a class, he is not a party to the suit in his personal capacity, but is impleaded as a representative of a class and derives authority to do so from the order of the Court. This right is personal to him, and on his death, it does not survive to his personal heirs who, without another order by the Court appointing them, or any of them, co nomine have no authority to act as representatives of the class. In such a case the right to sue does not survive, and therefore the provisions of O. 22, Rr. 3 and 4 do not apply. Hence it is not necessary for the plaintiff under the law to bring his legal representatives on the record as defendants, as required by O. 22, R. 4 within the period of 90 days prescribed under Art. 177, Limitation Act. 1939 Lah. 572. See also 1937 Pat. 149. The ordinary test to see whether the suit abated against other defendants was that if the continuation of the suit would result in conflicting decrees, then the suit must abate against the other defendants as well, but if there would be no such contradiction, then it would not abate against all. 1936 N. 292. See also 1935 O.W.N. 297; 1936 P. 191; 1936 R.D. 473. Where in a suit on a mortgage for sale certain defendants are impleaded as being in possession and occupation of the mortgaged properties and not because they are interested in the equity of redemption such defendants are only proper but not necessary parties to the suit. If, therefore, one of such defendants dies pending an appeal from the decree in the suit, and heirs are not brought on record, the appeal would abate only as against that particular defendant and not as a whole. 16 Pat.L.T. 893=1935 P. 383. Where the legal representative of a deceased defendant is already on the record, an application to bring his legal representative on record within three months is not necessary. It is enough if the fact is brought to the notice of the Court and is recorded. 1938 O. W.N. 1043=1938 Oudh 259. Where there are several defendants to a case, only some of whom are contesting the case actively the knowledge of the silent defendants may be presumed from the fact that other co-defendants are actively contesting the proceedings. But this presumption can hardly apply to a deceased defendant. Neither his knowledge nor that of his heirs can be presumed from the fact that some of the other defendants, who are alive, are contesting the proceedings. The provisions of O. 22, R. 4 are mandatory and it is necessary before the proceedings can continue that when one of the defendants dies his heirs must be brought on the record. 1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 195=1940 O.A. 1021. A counter-claim stands in the same category as a cross-suit for the purposes of the C. P. Code, and counter-claim would abate by reason of the omission to bring the heirs of the deceased defendant to the counter-claim on record in the counter-claim. On the plaintiff's death (the plaintiff in the suit) his heirs can come on record and amend the plaint which is their pleading. But it is no part of their duty to amend the title of the written statement. If the defendant who counter-claims wants to amend the title of his counter-claim and his written statement, it is his duty to obtain an order for that purpose. I.L.R. MISCELLANEOUS.—An application under O. 22, R. 5 praying for decision as to who the L. R. is, may be treated as one under R. 4, to bring on record any particular person as L. R. 38 L.W. 792=1933 M. 920=65 M.L.J. 798. Cause of action for breach of trust survives against L.R. of deceased trustee. 40 L.W. 122=1934 M. 448=67 M.L.J. 222. Where one of the tort-feasors dies during the course of the suit and his L. Rs. are not brought upon the record within time, the suit can proceed without them, as the death of one tort-feasor cannot affect the case against another. 36 P.L.R. 182=1934 L. 941. Plaintiffs formerly a firm—Subsequent dissolution—Suit in individual capacity by all partners but not in name of firm—Death of one pending appeal—L. R. not added in time. Held, that O. 30, R. 4 did not apply and suit abated as a whole. 148 I.C. 333=1935 P. 121. So also where defendants constituted a firm but sued on individually. 14 L. 543=1933 L. 356. Where several L.Rs. of a deceased party have been brought on the record, if one of them dies and the estate continues to be represented by the remaining L.Rs. the omission to implead the heir of the deceased L.R. does not cause abatement of the case. In such a case there is no lack of representation, because, the remaining representatives can as well represent the estate as the original group did. 1934 M. 730 (2)=67 M. L.J. 681. If the petitioning creditor dies, no valid order of adjudication can be made. But where a person, who is not directly participating in the insolvency proceedings, dies pending an appeal, the first step for the insolvent-appellant to take is to bring his own appeal into order by getting the L.R. of deceased petitioning creditor impleaded before urging that the order of adjudication itself is a nullity. 145 I.C. 474=34 P.L.R. 827=1933 L. 642 (2).

Where only some of the L.Rs. of the deceased persons are brought on record within the time the suit does not abate though other L.Rs. are left out. 1928 M. 1199=117 I.C. 138. Meaning of L.R.—Only one of several representatives added. Held appeal abated. 14 L. 543=142 I.C. 649=34 P.L.R. 11=1933 L. 356. Where an applicant under S. 21-A of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act omits to implead the L.Rs. of one of the necessary parties thereto who is dead, the application abates under O. 22, R. 4 (3), C. P. Code. 1935 L. 443. So also in suit under S. 44, Agra Tenancy Act. 1936 R.D. 473. See also 1940 O.W.N. 622=1940 Oudh 365.

Under O. 22, R. 9 (3) which specifically applies the provisions of S. 5 of the Limitation Act to the application to set aside abatements, the Court has power to extend the time to the applicant to bring the L.Rs. on records. 1935 L. 443.

a suit had abated is maintainable but such an appeal is one against the decree in the suit and it should be accompanied by a copy of the decree. 26 S.L.R. 81. But see 34 P.L.R. 221=1933 L. 152. An order setting aside an abatement in the course of trial and allowing substitution of the heirs of a deceased party, cannot be questioned in appeal from the decree in the suit whether such an order is passed before or simultaneously with the decree. 14 L. 361=141 I.C. 337=34 P.L.R. 221=1933 L. 152.

REVISION.—See 26 M. 224; 21 L.W. 21=1925 M. 456; 101 I.C. 84=1927 O. 221.

O. 22, R. 4 (4) (Madras).—O. 22, R. 4 (4) is applicable to appeals also as provided by R. 11. The power which the rule gives to the Court to grant exemption is of course only discretionary and probably it rarely will be exercised in the case of a single respondent. But where there are several respondents whose interests are common, and some contest and others do not enter appearance, it is fairly safe to assume that the defence of the decree has been left in the hands of some on behalf of all. Hence where on the death of one of the respondents, the appellants fail to bring on record his L.R. the appellate Court has jurisdiction to exempt his being brought on record and the appellate decree has the same force and effect as if it had been passed before he died. 58 M. 752=1935 M. 236=68 M.L.J. 318.

O. 22, Rr. 4 and 5.—O. 22, Rr. 4 and 5, do not apply to a case where the defendant dies after the passing of a preliminary decree as the rights of the parties are already determined by the passing of the preliminary decree. 1937 Lah. 615. See also 42 Bom.L.R. 663=1940 Bom. 318. A decree obtained against a wrong legal representative might bind the true representative who was no party to the decree, if it be shown that the plaintiff had acted bona fide and was ignorant of the true facts, that there was no fraud or collusion and that the person wrongly impleaded was impleaded in a representative capacity, the decree also being passed against him as representing the state. 22 Pat.L.T. 338=1941 Pat. 299.

O. 22, Rr. 4 and 11.—Where in an appeal the relief claimed against the respondents is joint, and one of the respondents dies but his L.Rs. are not added within the time allowed by law, the whole appeal will abate under O. 22, R. 4 read with R. 11. 1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 128=1940 O.A. 779. Where an appellant claims correction of the khatauni and wants his name to be entered as the exclusive holder of the sir and khudkasht situated in patti and for the expunction of the names of all the respondents, and one of the respondents dies pending appeal and his legal representatives are not brought on record, under O. 22, R. 4 read with R. 11, the appeal abates not only against the legal representatives of that respondent but also as against the remaining respondents inasmuch as the relief claimed against the various respondents is not separate but joint. 1940 R.D. 217=1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 82. If in an appeal, the absence of the legal representatives of a deceased party from the record would result in the possibility of two inconsistent and contradictory decrees or will make it impossible effectively to execute a decree that may be passed in the appeal, the appeal must fail. Where a joint relief is being sought for by the plaintiff against all the defendants on whose joint act the cause of action for the suit is based, and one of the defendants dies during the pendency of the appeal against the dismissal of the suit, and where his legal representatives are not brought on record, the appeal is incompetent. In the absence of the legal representatives it is not possible to grant the relief prayed for by the plaintiff appellant, because it involves the taking of action which cannot be completed without their joining in it. I.L.R. (1939) All. 921=1939 A.L.J. 807=1939 All. 698.

O. 22, Rr. 4 and 12.—The failure to bring the legal representative of the judgment-debtor on record does not necessarily make the proceedings a nullity. 1938 N.L.J. 166=1938 Nag. 308.

5. Where a question arises as to whether any person is or is not the legal representative of a deceased plaintiff or a deceased defendant, such question shall be determined by the Court.

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] Add the following as a proviso to r. 5 of O. 22 :—

"Provided that an appellate Court before determining it, may direct any lower Court to take evidence thereon and to return the evidence so taken together with its finding and reasons and may take such finding and reasons into consideration in determining the question."

NOTES.

O. 22, R. 5: SCOPE OF RULE.—Under O. 22, R. 5, it is the duty of the Court to go into the matter as to who is the proper person to be substituted in place of a deceased party. It is not sufficient for the Court to merely substitute one petitioner (who applies for substitution) in preference to another. That is clearly wrong. The order of substitution can be made only after enquiry. 18 Pat.L.T. 763 = 1937 P. W. N. 756 = 1937 Pat. 530. The dispute need not be between persons claiming to represent the deceased plaintiff. 18 M. 496. See also 21 B. 162 (168). The rule applies even when there is but one claimant and the defendant denies his representative character. 17 M. 209 (210). Contest as to who is L.R. The dispute should be decided at or before the final hearing on the merits. 27 B. 162; 21 L.W. 21 = 1925 M. 456. See also 150 I.C. 425 = 11 O.W.N. 917 = 1934 O. 337 (Case where the L.R. of deceased respondent was appellant himself). L.R.—Court's order after due notice to parties—Same whether can be re-opened on the ground that there are other heirs. 111 I.C. 238. Intermeddler cannot be recognised as L.R. 21 L.W. 21 = 86 I.C. 178. See 42 M. 76 = 35 M.L.J. 732; 44 I.C. 987 = 1918 M.W.N. 198; 180 I.C. 812 = 1939 Pat. 117; 1938 P.W. N. 803. Where the appellant in an appeal dies and one of his heirs is, on his application, substituted as the legal representative of the deceased appellant after notice to the other heirs and without any objection on their part, the question so far as the appeal is concerned, is final and cannot be re-opened; and it must be held to have been constructively decided that the substituted heir is the legal representative of the deceased and competent to prosecute the appeal in that capacity. 19 Pat. 433 = 1940 Pat. 516.

Chatterji, J.—Under O. 22, R. 5, the question as to who is the legal representative has to be decided, and the person substituted shall, for the purpose of the suit or appeal be deemed to be his legal representative. An ex parte order is as much binding as a contested order, and the order of substitution cannot be challenged by the other heirs in the suit or appeal. 19 Pat. 433 = 1940 Pat. 516. When two persons claim to represent the judgment-debtor, both of them might be placed on the record with the consent of the decree-holder. 13 B. 22. See also 8 M. 300; 18 B. 224; 26 M. 224. The appointment of a L.R. of a deceased plaintiff under this rule is not a determination of an issue which is properly raised in the suit. 28 A. 109. As to delegation of powers of inquiry as to who is L.R. see 39 I.C. 893. Wrong L.R. brought on record—Proper L.R.'s, rights. 43 M.L.J.

"COURT."—The word "Court" means the Court before whom the question arises, viz., the trial Court if the question arises at the trial stage or the appellate Court if the question arises in appeal. 3 Pat.L.T. 380 = 65 I.C. 131. The effect of allowing an appeal to be heard and a decree passed in ignorance of the death of one of the joint plaintiffs is that the judgment and decree become a nullity. 53 I.C. 548. Death after hearing but before judgment does not affect the decree. 106 P. R. 1915 = 32 I.C. 18. See also 1933 A. 111 = 1932 A.L.J. 1069.

APPEAL.—An order refusing to implead a person as a L.R. of a deceased plaintiff is an adjudication of his claim and hence appealable. 43 M. 812 = 39 M.L.J. 218. See also 10 P. 471 = 133 I.C. 767 = 1931 P. 353; 12 A. 200. But see contra 131 I.C. 294 = 1931 L. 235 [1926 M. 856, Ref.; 128 P.R. 1916 (F.B.) RES JUDICATA.—Orders passed under O. 22, R. 5, regarding the choice of a legal representative do not finally determine the rights of any claimants to the property in suit. Such orders are limited to the purpose of carrying on the suit and do not have the effect of conferring any right to heirship or to property. Even if the claimants choose to put directly in issue any such right, the decision on such an issue does not operate as res judicata. 43 P.L.R. 16. A decision under O. 22, R. 5, as to whether a person is not a legal representative though not res judicata, is final so far as the suit in which it is made is concerned, not on the ground of res judicata, but because of S. 47, C. P. Code. That question alone is not finally concluded by a decision under O. 22, R. 5, except in so far as it concerns the suit in which the decision is made. But no subsequent decision in a separate suit can be used to affect the rights of the parties so far as questions relating to the 'execution', discharge or satisfaction of the decree in connection with which the order concerned was made. I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 165 = 1939 N.L.J. 82 = 1939 Nag. 147. See also 1940 Pat. 516. Where in a proceeding under O. 22, R. 5 a certain person is (or is not) held to be the L.R. of a deceased party the same question

6. Notwithstanding anything contained in the foregoing rules, whether the cause of action survives or not, there shall be no abatement by reason of the death of either party between the conclusion of the hearing and the pronouncing of the judgment, but judgment may in such case be pronounced notwithstanding the death and shall have the same force and effect as if it had been pronounced before the death took place.

7. (1) The marriage of a female plaintiff or defendant shall not cause the suit to abate, but the suit may notwithstanding be proceeded with to judgment, and, where the decree is against a female defendant, it may be executed against her alone.

(2) Where the husband is by law liable for the debts of his wife, the decree may, with the permission of the Court, be executed against the husband also; and, in case of judgment for the wife, execution of the decree may, with such permission, be issued upon the application of the husband, where the husband is by law entitled to the subject-matter of the decree.

8. (1) The insolvency of a plaintiff in any suit which the assignee or receiver can be re-agitated in separate suit and is not barred by the rule of res judicata. 1934 L. 465; 166 I.C. 393=1937 O.W.N. 17=1937 O. 220 (F.B.) (8 Luck. 477 Overr.); 169 I.C. 798=1937 O.W.N. 782.

O. 22, R. 6: SCOPE OF RULE.—The rule supersedes the ruling in A.W.N. (1904), p. 4 and follows the rulings in 19 B. 807. A decree passed after defendant's death without L.R. representing him afterwards, is a nullity. 17 C.L.J. 634; 17 I.A. 150=13 A. 53 (P.C.); 1930 S. 259. See also 182 I.C. 208=5 B.R. 732 (case of decree for amount admitted by defendant). Death of a party to a legal action—Decision on the merits of the action after the death and before abatement—L.Rs. not brought on record on the date of the decision—The decision not valid. 1929 M. 802=57 M.L.J. 424=120 I.C. 374. The decree might be impeached in execution without resorting to separate suit. 20 I.C. 506=17 C.L.J. 634; 16 I.C. 58=16 C.L.J. 571; 2 L. L.J. 144; 38 M.L.J. 413=42 I.C. 530; 31 I. C. 198=38 M. 682; 40 A. 423=45 I.C. 21. Decree against a dead person is void ab initio—Execution proceedings also void. 11 I.C. 782=4 Bur.L.T. 164. An appellant died on the day fixed for the hearing of the appeal but before the hearing. Held, his L.Rs. were not bound by the decree and the appeal must be reheard. 55 I.C. 498. See also 43 I.C. 161=14 N.L.R. 71. Death during argument—Judgment pronounced without L.R. is bad. 48 I.C. 859; 106 P.R. 1915. Death of party before judgment—Withdrawal of suit. 4 Pat.L.J. 240=50 I.C. 529 (F.B.). Where a defendant dies after the hearing of a case and arguments but before the pronouncement of the judgment and the plaintiff files an appeal, he can bring on record the L.R. of the deceased defendant without making an application to the Court for the purpose and the appeal does not abate on the ground that he has not so applied, if the appellant has substituted the name of L.R. in place of the deceased defendant. 144 I.C. 618=1933 L. 710. See also 42 Bom.L.R. 663=1940 Bom. 218=

I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 689. Death of party after hearing and before decree—Decree passed is not bad—No application for substitution of names necessary. 1932 A.L.J. 1069=1933 A. 111. See 32 I.C. 18. Where one of the appellants to His Majesty in Council died before the passing of the Privy Council decree, and no substitution was made, the Privy Council decree could not be held void by the Courts in India. 58 I.C. 212=1 P.L.T. 426 (1 Pat.L.T. 325=5 P.L.J. 314. Foll.) Failure to substitute would have rendered the decree void only in so far as it was in favour of the deceased appellant. 1 P.L.T. 426. Where during the interval between the last date of hearing of the suit and the date on which the judgment is pronounced, the Court makes local inspection of the site in suit and makes a reference to it in its judgment, the hearing of the suit cannot be said to have concluded on that date of hearing within the meaning of O. 22, R. 6. 164 I.C. 971=1936 Lah. 578. Nor can the preliminary decree in a mortgage suit be regarded as the conclusion of the hearing, within the meaning of O. 22, R. 6. 39 C.W.N. 1284. Where on an application to set aside ex parte decree, a conditional order was passed that if R. 15 was deposited by a certain date the ex parte decree would be set aside, and otherwise it would stand, between the date of the order and the time fixed for deposit one of the plaintiffs died. L.R. was not added, and the Court recorded the final order setting aside the ex parte decree. Held, that failure to implead L.R. did not affect the final order which was merely formal, and that the matter was covered by the principles underlying O. 22, R. 6. 62 C. 1057=39 C.W.N. 863=61 C. L.J. 319=1935 C. 506.

O. 22, R. 8: SCOPE AND APPLICATION OF RULE.—The rule applies only to a case where there is an actual bankruptcy or insolvency in which there is an assignee or Receiver appointed. It does not apply to a case where there has been a mere application. 27 C. 219. See also 31 Bom.L.R. 357=1929 B. 202, R. 8 applies to an insolvent plaintiff and is confin-might maintain for the benefit of his creditors, shall not cause the suit to abate, unless such assignee or receiver declines to continue the suit or (unless for any special reason the Court otherwise directs) to give security for the costs thereof within such time as the Court may direct.

(2) Where the assignee or receiver neglects or refuses to continue the suit and to give such security within the time so ordered, the defendant may apply for the dismissal of the suit on the ground of the plaintiff's insolvency, and the Court may make an order dismissing the suit and awarding to the defendant the costs which he has incurred in defending the same to be proved as a debt against the plaintiff's estate.

ed to suits when the events mentioned therein happen (97 I.C. 486, overruled.) 146 I.C. 521 = 1933 Mad. 851 = 65 M.L.J. 719 (F.B.). O. 22, R. 8 applies to the case of a suit or an appeal which has already been filed before insolvency occurs. It has no application where the insolvency occurred before the appeal was filed and indeed before the suit was brought. 151 I.C. 579 = 1934 A. 1011. A right to appeal against a money-decree is not affected by the insolvency of the appellant debtor. The words "might maintain" in O. 22, R. 8 (1) mean has the power, or is entitled, to maintain. Where pending an appeal against a money-decree the appellant is adjudicated insolvent, the Official Assignee cannot continue the appeal for the benefit of the insolvent's creditors and the appeal cannot abate under O. 22, R. 8. 43 Bom.L.R. 644. Where plaintiff was adjudicated insolvent subsequent to suit—Notice to Official Receiver should be given. 12 L.W. 551 = 61 I.C. 300; 109 I.C. 589. Official Assignee must be given an opportunity to prosecute the suit. 12 B. 257. For form of order, see 16 B. 404. But where the Receiver after due notice took no steps to bring himself on the record and a third person, claiming to be an assignee from the Official Receiver applied to be brought on the record in place of the original plaintiff and wanted to maintain the suit for his own benefit. Held, that the Official Receiver not having chosen to continue the suit, the Court had no option but to dismiss the suit under R. 8, that the Receiver who was no party to the suit had no interest in the suit which he could validly assign under R. 10, which applies only to those cases which were not specifically provided for by the prior rules. 157 I.C. 900 (Lah.). Where pending an appeal the appellant becomes insolvent the appeal can be continued only by the Receiver in insolvency. 18 I.C. 922. See also 1928 L. 596. No limitation for Official Assignee to apply for substitution. 43 A. 621 = 19 A.L.J. 685. Where a plaintiff after instituting a suit in forma pauperis is adjudicated an insolvent the Receiver in insolvency can continue the suit in the same way as the insolvent. 47 I.C. 577 = 16 A.L.J. 440. The general principle on which the Courts act is not to order further security for the costs of the appeal to be given merely on the ground that the appellant is poor. 43 Bom.L.R. 644. See also 46 L.W. 550. As to what constitutes costs for which the Official Assignee is to give security, see 28 Bom.L.R. 1074 = 97 I.C. 797 = 1926 B. 533. Suit instituted by insolvent after adjudication—Receiver cannot continue it. 23 I.C. 813. Held, that the guardian was not debarred by virtue of his being adjudicated insolvent from acting as guardian of the minor decree-holder. 1930 L. 205 = 125 I.C. 186. As execution proceedings do not abate on the decree-holder being adjudicated an insolvent, it follows that such proceedings should continue in his name. But so far as a judgment-debtor is concerned, it does not lie in his mouth to claim that the execution proceedings should be dropped merely because the decree-holder has been adjudicated insolvent and the Official Receiver does not care to continue them. (Ibid.) See also 55 A. 509 = 144 I.C. 391 = 1933 A. 388; 9 P. 372 = 122 I.C. 148 = 1929 P. 565 (F.B.) cited under O. 22, R. 12.

O. 22, R. 9: SCOPE OF RULE.—The rule does not apply to a case in which the defendant or respondent dies. 7 M. 195. See also 8 C. at 842. The rule applies only to orders passed under Rr. 4 and 8. 9 C. 163. A Court after declaring that the suit has abated under R. 4 does not become functus officio, but retains the right of setting aside the abatement if it is moved by an application under R. 9. 1935 Lah. 712. R. 9 is a disabling rule and should be construed strictly. 31 P.L.R. 973 = 1931 L. 79 (2). It is open to the Court in a proper case to treat an application under O. 22, R. 4 as an application under R. 9. 26 S.L.R. 81. No fresh cause of action can be imported into a revived suit. 22 C. 97. See 9 A. 229 under R. 10. The abatement of a suit under this rule has not the force of res judicata. 6 Bom.L.R. 638. An abatement takes place automatically and does not require an order of the Court to be passed to that effect. Where the decree-holder died after the preliminary decree and the sons without applying within time to implead themselves applied for a final decree, held, that the Court could in spite of the abatement pass a final decree. 1932 A.L.J. 883

(2) The plaintiff or the person claiming to be the legal representative of a deceased plaintiff or the assignee or the receiver in the case of an insolvent plaintiff may apply for an order to set aside the abatement or dismissal; and if it is proved that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from continuing the suit, the Court shall set aside the abatement or dismissal upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit.

is not "sufficient cause" and cannot be considered to be an adequate ground to excuse the delay in applying or to extend the time under S. 5 of the Limitation Act. 155 I.C. 610=37 P.L.R. 400=1935 L. 478. If it is due to applicant's negligence, 1935 R.D. 5=16 L.R. 173 (Rev.). There may be circumstances in which ignorance might be excusable. It is for the appellant to make out such circumstances. 1935 O.W.N. 371. See also 1939 Pat. 623=1939 P.W.N. 680; 1940 O.W.N. 219; 15 Luck. 580=1940 O.W.N. 411. An appellant, in the prosecution of his appeal, is under an obligation to keep himself informed as to the existence of the opponent. Mere ignorance of the death of the opposite party is never a sufficient ground for setting aside an order of abatement. 1940 O.W.N. 219=1940 A.W. R. (C.C.) 120=15 Luck. 580. See also 1940 O.L.R. 213=1940 O.W.N. 411. Ignorance on the part of an appellant of the death of the respondent to the appeal is a sufficient cause within the meaning of O. 22, R. 9. The appellant is no doubt required to be diligent in prosecuting his appeal, but when he has succeeded in getting the notice of appeal served on the respondent before his death, he must be taken to have done all that was expected of him in connection with the appeal. The appellant cannot reasonably be expected and is not required to inquire from day to day as to the movements of the respondent or to the state of his health or as to whether he is dead or alive. 17 Pat. 84=18 Pat.L.T. 1014=174 I.C. 40=4 B.R. 379=10 R. P. 471=A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 125. See also 39 Bom. L. R. 444=1937 Bom. 401. There is no justification for holding that ignorance on the part of an appellant of the death of the respondent to the appeal, in the absence of any negligence or other act or omission for which the appellant can be held responsible, is not a sufficient cause within the meaning of O. 22, R. 9 (2), C. P. Code, and S. 5 of the Limitation Act, affording a ground for setting aside the abatement. It is incumbent upon an appellant to make periodical inquiries as to whether the respondent is alive. If the appellant therefore does not become aware of the death of the respondent for a long time after the death, and if there is no delay in filing the application under O. 22, R. 9 (2) after the news of the death is received, the appellant is entitled to have the abatement set aside. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 275=46 L.W. 898=1938 Mad. 218=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 54. Under O. 22, R. 9 (2), read with S. 5 of the Limitation Act, the Court has a discretion to excuse delay. In exercising the discretion, which must be judicially exercised, the Court should construe the words "sufficient cause" liberally, having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case. Ignorance of the legal representatives of a deceased domiciled in a Native State or a foreign place may be a sufficient cause for excusing delay in seeking to set aside an abatement, unless there is clear negligence or carelessness or unnecessary delay. I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 704=40 Bom. L.R. 658=1938 Bom. 408. The number of parties to the case was very large and the appeal had remained pending for a long time. There was no negligence in making applications for substitution of L.Rs. Held, that in the peculiar circumstances of the case the delay in making the application should be condoned and the abatement set aside. 165 I.C. 521=38 P.L.R. 915=1936 L. 710. An application to bring on record the L.Rs. of a deceased respondent in an appeal was out of time by 9 days. The reason for the delay was alleged to be that the appellant was a minor and his next friend was a pardanashin lady and that she did not come to know in time of the respondent's death which took place in a different district. Held, that sufficient cause was shown for the delay in making the application and that the abatement of the appeal should be set aside. 36 P.L.R. 156=1934 Lah. 998. The plaintiff died after the decision in the lower Court and an application for substitution of the plaintiff's heirs was not made until five months afterwards. The defendant-appellant applied for setting aside the abatement of the appeal. The facts were that the village of the plaintiff and the village of the defendant were only 15 miles apart and the parties were related by marriage. Held, dismissing the application, that there could be no excuse for people in the position of the defendant not knowing of the death of the plaintiff when they were living so closely together and that knowledge ought to and must have come to him within 90 days which was the prescribed time for filing an application for the substitution of names, and that the appeal had abated. 151 I.C. 147=1934 Lah. 934 (1). Minor party represented by pardanashin lady as next friend—Mistake due to negligence or ignorance of pleader—Delay—If excusable. 19 N.L.J. 273. Delay in applying to bring the L.R. on record caused by a slip on the part of the party's vakil should be excused if the party himself is not at fault. 41 M.L.J. 65=62 I.C. 795. Fraud of agent would be sufficient cause. 53 I.C. 585. Bona fide mistake of fact is sufficient cause, as well as bona fide mistake of law. 1923 L. 475; 55 I.C. 883=1 L. 481; 8 P.R. 1916=32 I.C. 829; 67 I.C. 306=2 Lah.L.J. 44; 54 M.L.J. 234=1928 M. 404=108 I.C. 288. Mere ignorance of law that an application is necessary or mere ignorance of the death of a respondent is not sufficient cause within the meaning of R. 9 (Case-law referred.) 14 L. 543=142 I.C. 649=1933 L. 356 (2). Sufficient cause—Doubtful construction of old Act and ignorance of new amendment is sufficient cause. 43 C.W.N. 1143. A suit for partition cannot be proceeded with in the absence of the alleged co-sharers. The failure to implead the L.Rs. of a deceased party will in such a case entail abatement. It is no excuse for the party seeking to set aside the abatement to say she was not aware of the law. 147 I.C. 1187=35 P.L.R. 95. The Court has wide powers to set aside an abatement and these powers should be used somewhat liberally unless there is clear proof of laches. Where the plaintiff has had difficulties in keeping in touch with all his adversaries it does not lie in their mouth to object if the Court should condone delay. 26 S.L.R. 81. Quarrel among L.Rs. is no sufficient cause to excuse delay in applying to be brought on record as L. Rs. under R. 9. 31 I.C. 38. That succession certificate was obtained after the expiry of time fixed for addition of L. Rs. is sufficient reason to excuse delay. 73 I.C. 215=26 O.C. 244. Appellant's carelessness and the culpable means adopted by him to conceal it are sufficient to reject his application to set aside order of abatement. 30 I.C. 717=155 P.L.R. 1915.

DISCRETION OF COURT.—The discretion of the Court under this rule, if exercised in favour of the party in default, is open to scrutiny and interference by the appellate Court only if the discretion has been exercised in a perverse or an unjudicial manner and where this is not the case, the order once made cannot be declared to be illegal, merely because the application to bring the L.R. on the record was submitted beyond time. 1935 L. 712. In an appeal against a decree dismissing a suit for injunction against several defendants, the cause of action being precisely the same against all, if some of the defendants die, it is the duty of the Court to set aside the abatement under R. 9 (2) and (3); if that is not done, the second appellate Court will do so under O. 41, R. 23. 13 L.L. T. 22.

LIMITATION.—The period of limitation is that prescribed by Art. 177 of the Limitation Act, 2 P. 168; 84 I.C. 1001. See 5 C. 139, where the suit was revived after the expiry of 3 years. See also 8 C. 837; 30 C. 609; 8 C. 420; 51 I.C. 534. Petition to add L.Rs. presented after the prescribed period should be treated as one to set aside the abatement. 1928 L. 746=112 I.C. 5; 117 I.C. 884=1929 L. 129=10 L. 816. See also 1933 N. 85=29 N.L.R. 118.

PROCEDURE.—Where a suit has abated and an application is made not as an application to set aside the abatement but for substitution of a L.R. and the application is treated as one to set aside the abatement would have been within time, the application for substitution may be considered as an application under R. 9 (2), for setting aside the abatement. 1933 N. 85=29 N.L.R. 118; 14 L. 543=34 P.L.R. 11. See also 1928 L. 746=112 I.C. 5; 117 I.C. 884=1929 L. 129; 1937 Lah. 455. Where an appeal abates by reason of the death of the respondent and the failure to bring his L.Rs. within time, but the Court in ignorance of the fact hears and allows the appeal and the L.Rs. of the deceased respondent file a petition for review of the appellate judgment and along with it an application under R. 4, for their substitution on record, the order granting the application for substitution is not tantamount to an order setting aside the abatement, as the sole object of the L.Rs. in making that application was to have it declared that the appeal had abated and that the order accepting it was a nullity in the eye of the law. 152 I.C. 227=35 P.L.R. 457=1934 L. 442. See also 1939 Lah. 572=42 P.L.R. 731. If the L.R. is not brought on record in time, the appeal against him abates automatically and unless that abatement is set aside within sixty days or a period extended under S. 5 of the Limitation Act, the appeal is dead and it is not necessary that an order should have been passed declaring that the appeal has abated. 14 L. 543=142 I.C. 649=1933 L. 356 (2). Death of appellant—Impleading of widow and minor son—Subsequent death of widow—Failure to appoint fresh next friend—Effect—Procedure—Application of respondents for appointment of next friend. 17 P. L.T. 86. Death of appellant—Court ordering substitution of minor heirs without application and appointing Court guardian—Competency—Appeal—If abates—Remedy of minor heirs. 17 P.L.T. 129.

REVIEW.—An order setting aside abatement by a Division Bench cannot be reopened at a subsequent stage of the case by a different Bench even though the order was made ex parte. The proper remedy is by a review. 29 M.L.J. 574=30 I.C. 669.

APPEAL.—An order refusing to set aside an abatement in an appeal cannot be appealed against. 121 I.C. 564=33 C.W.N. 881=1929 C. 532 (2). See also 40 Bom.L.R. 658. An application to bring on the record the legal representatives of a deceased party after the expiry of the time fixed for this purpose must be deemed to be an application to set aside the abatement and an order refusing to set aside an abatement is appealable. 147 I.C. 699 (1)=1934 L. 315. The fact that the Court went outside the considerations which are necessary for disposal of an application seeking an order under O. 22, R. 4, that the suit had abated would not bar plaintiff from filing the application to set aside abatement which R. 9 of O. 22 permits him to make. An appeal under O. 43, R. 1 (k) lies from an order passed under O. 22, R. 9 and not from an order passed under R. 4 of that order; and although it may be said that an order under R. 4 may amount to a decree and therefore be appealable, yet R. 9 provides a concurrent remedy of which the party aggrieved may avail himself. 191 I.C. 447.

FRESH SUIT.—Where a suit abates or is dismissed under O. 22, no fresh suit can be brought on the same cause of action nor can the same rights be set up in defence in a subsequent suit. 144 I.C. 605=1933 L. 752. It is true that a suit by a reversioner is a suit on behalf of the whole body of reversioners, but the abatement of a suit instituted by a reversioner to set aside an alienation by a widow does not bar a fresh suit for the same

10. (1) In other cases of an assignment, creation or devolution of any interest during the pendency of a suit, the suit may, by leave of the Court, be continued by or against the person to or upon whom such interest has come or devolved.

(2) The attachment of a decree pending an appeal therefrom shall be deemed to be an interest entitling the person who procured such attachment to the benefit of sub-rule (1).

relief by another reversioner. The provisions of O. 22, R. 9 as to abatement do not apply to such a case. (A.I.R. 1931 Lah. 79, Rel. on.). A.I.R. 1939 Lah. 580.

O. 22, R. 10: SCOPE AND APPLICATION OF RULE.—A person who institutes a litigation may prosecute it to its conclusion notwithstanding a devolution of his interest in the property. The litigation will continue in his name for the benefit for his successor. 15 P. 607=17 P.L.T. 564=1936 P. 420.

Per Costello, J.—O. 22, R. 10 can only apply before a final decree or order has been passed or made in the suit. 42 C.W.N. 1183.

Per Derbyshire, C.J.—Under O. 22, R. 10 the Court has discretion in the matter of ordering substitution of a party. It has to look at the position and see what is contemplated and what is likely to happen. 42 C.W.N. 1183. The language of O. 22, R. 10 is wholly inapplicable to a case where some one is seeking to come into the proceedings in order to put forward a claim adverse to that of the original parties in the proceedings. 42 C.W.N. 1183. "Suit" in O. 22, R. 10 means also an appeal and a second appeal; and a second appeal may be continued by or against a person who has acquired the interest of one of the parties to the appeal in the subject-matter of the suit, though the original parties to the appeal have compromised the matter, when the party seeking to come on record has a substantial interest which is in danger of being injured by the proposed compromise. 178 I.C. 205=47 L.W. 728=1938 Mad. 576=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 882. R. 10 makes it discretionary with the Court to allow an application for substitution in the circumstances of a particular case. Where lower Court struck off the name of one of the defendants on the ground that he was an insolvent and that his interests had vested in the trustee in bankruptcy in England, held, that the order was valid. Unless the law casts a duty on the plaintiff to bring the Receiver or trustee on the record it cannot be said that the insolvent must be represented in the suit. He has no right to remain on the record as a defendant and he cannot insist that he must remain on the record through his trustee. 34 C.W.N. 53=1930 C. 388. Leave should not be unreasonably refused. 15 P. 607=17 P.L.T. 564=1936 P. 420. The discretion of the Court must be exercised judicially. When the application is made after long delay—there being interminable, unexplainable and unnecessary delay and dallying since the commencement of the suit for nearly 10 years—the Court will rightly exercise its discretion by refusing leave to the applicant. 44 L.W. 263=1936 M. 714=71

M.L.J. 307. See also 1936 L. 652. Court would be justified in refusing such an application if fraud is alleged and proved against the person applying under the rule. 156 I.C. 152=42 L.W. 340=1935 M. 423. R. 10 applies only to cases which do not fall under the preceding rules of the same order. 45 M. 872=42 M.L.J. 301; 91 I.C. 166=1926 L. 181. See also 22 L.W. 860=49 M.L.J. 704. R. 10 has no application to a case where the devolution of interest is by death. 1933 S. 371. By consent of parties and the leave of the Court a suit may be amended to cover an increased claim. 9 A. 229. The rule does not apply to cases of assignment of interest which is the subject-matter of litigation between the date of decision of the first Court and the filing of appeal. 38 I.C. 511=20 O.C. 31; 1 P.L.J. 596=38 I.C. 237. See also 1939 P.W.N. 863. The first four rules of O. 22 cannot apply to a case in which the death of the defendant occurs between the passing of preliminary and final decrees in a suit, as there is then no right to sue surviving. 64 I.C. 307=17 N.L.R. 81; 116 I.C. 657=1929 N. 152; 123 I.C. 473. The rules in this order deal with the devolution of interest by the operation of law and not by act of parties. 53 M. L.J. 142=1927 M. 693; 27 A.L.J. 921=1929 A. 444. See also 1937 Sind 47; (1941) 1 M.L.J. 22. R. 10 empowers the Court to give leave to a person who has taken an assignment from a party to continue the suit. The "party" there obviously refers to a party already on the record. Where the L.R. of a deceased plaintiff, instead of coming forward and himself taking up the responsibility of the suit, transfers his interest to another man, it will be defeating the object of the law to permit that man to continue the suit. 15 P. 82=17 P.L.T. 73=1936 P. 123. So also in the case of assignee from Official Receiver. 157 I.C. 900. Where after the passing of a preliminary decree for dissolution and accounts of a partnership the plaintiff widow died and certain ultimate reversioners applied to be substituted. Held, that the Court could permit them to continue the case. 58 C. L.J. 240. A creditor of a decree-holder who has attached the decree pending an appeal against it is not entitled to be made a party respondent to the appeal under this rule. 20 A. 38. On this rule, see also 5 A. 212; 9 A. 229; 20 A. 38; 23 A. at 335; 5 C. 720; 30 C. 609; 10 A. 97. The words "other cases" mean cases other than those specifically mentioned in the previous rules. 9 C.W.N. 171. As to effect of order, see 43 M. 37=37 M.L.J. 449. The position of the party substituted is exactly the same as that of the original person. 16 I.C. 567=17 C.W.N. 862. A deed of compromise filed during the pendency of a suit cannot be regarded as an "assignment". 5 A. 209 (212). As to Court's power to decide dispute as to assignment, see 94 I.C. 926=1925 L. 574. Death of plaintiff after decree but before appeal—Substitution of his widow on basis of evidence in case—Failure to file special affidavit—Effect. 51 C.L.J. 25=1930 C. 270. Where once application is allowed under this rule and substitution is made, the original party ceases to have any locus standi in matters relating to the suit. 1935 O.W.N. 842=156 I.C. 990=1935 Oudh 486. A deed of relinquishment does not amount to any assignment, creation or devolution of an interest within the meaning of R. 10 of O. 22. 160 I.C. 801=1936 O.W.N. 183=1936 Oudh 224. Where after the passing of a preliminary decree, but before the decree was made absolute the person against whom the decree was passed relinquished his interest or rights in favour of another and the relinquisher did not inform the Court or the decree-holder of the relinquishment. Held, that the decree was not nullity against the person in whose favour the relinquishment was made. 159 I.C. 725=1935 Pat. 488.

PENDENCY OF SUIT.—Whether the expression 'the pendency of the suit' in R. 10 covers the period between the original and an amended decree, see 43 M.L.J. 559=69 I.C. 977=1923 M. 57. Rule applies to cases of devolution of interest pending suit and not to cases of persons acquiring interest after decree. 40 I.C. 846; 1917 M.W.N. 306; 64 I.C. 307=17 N.L.R. 81; 43 M.L.J. 589=27 C.W.N. 29=49 I.A. 220=1 P. 581 (P.C.). See also (1940) 2 M.L.J. 376; 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 598; 1926 C. 173; 1934 A.L.J. 832=1934 A. 442. Nor to cases of persons who have acquired interest in the subject-matter prior to the institution of the suit. 25 A.L.J. 985=108 I.C. 699=1928 A. 120. R. 10 is not one of the rules in O. 22, which declare the abatement of a suit but it is merely a provision enabling the assignee to continue the suit if, during the pendency of the suit, the interest of the plaintiff has been assigned to him. It is merely a permissive provision for the benefit of an assignee and not a punitive one to the detriment of the assignor. There is no provision in the Code which shows that a plaintiff who has assigned his interest in the property in suit during the pendency of the suit or an appellant who has assigned his interest in the property being the subject-matter of the litigation during the pendency of the appeal, loses his right of further prosecuting the suit or appeal. Where a plaintiff after dismissal of his suit and before filing an appeal against it, assigned his interest in the subject-matter of the suit, it was held, that it was not incompetent for him to prefer an appeal against the dismissal. 1941 Rang.L.R. 366. See also 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 598=

1941 R.D. 518. A simple mortgagee subsequent to suit of the share of a party in a partition suit cannot be allowed to be added as plaintiff and continue the suit after the original plaintiff has withdrawn the suit under R. 10 or under the residuary provisions of S. 146. A person who applies to be made a plaintiff under R. 10 must show that the original plaintiff's interest in the suit has devolved on or has been assigned to him absolutely and not merely that he has obtained a derivative interest in the subject-matter like a simple mortgagee. While on the one hand assignees of fractional interests, if absolute, would be entitled to be added as parties, assignees of derivative title, like lessees or mortgagees are not entitled to be so added. [6 L. 388 (P.C.) and 1 P. 581 (P.C.), Rel. on]. 38 L.W. 280. In the case of an application by the mortgagee of the rights of the plaintiff it was held that the petitioner was a person on whom an "interest" as contemplated by R. 10 had devolved that he might be allowed to continue the appeal, and that on the dismissal of the appeal, he should pay the costs of the respondents. [1 P. 581 (P.C.), Dist.]. 56 M. 469=1933 M. 411=64 M. L.J. 489.

"INTEREST".—The interest must be the interest in the property, which is the subject-matter in the suit. 30 C. 961; 30 S.L.R. 170=165 I.C. 305 (2)=1936 Sind 166. Where, during the execution of a decree against the estate of a deceased person, a posthumous son is born to him, there is no devolution of interest on him in the subject-matter of the suit, and R. 10 does not apply to an application made on his behalf that he should be brought on record in the execution proceedings pending before the Court. 1936 S. 166. The "interest" contemplated is any interest which will be vitally affected by the suit. 43 I.C. 811. The 'interest' referred to in R. 10 is the interest of a person who was a party to the suit. It is the transfer by assignment, creation or devolution pendente lite of the interest of such a person to the applicant, which entitles the latter to make an application to continue the suit or appeal, as the case may be and not the creation of an independent right in him. A suit was filed by a presumptive reversioner challenging an alienation by the limited owner as not affecting his interest. The period of 12 years for such a suit elapsed before Act II of 1929 came into force. On death of the plaintiff reversioner, a sister of last male holder sought to continue the suit on the ground that she had been included under R. 10, in the line of heirs by Act II of 1929. Held, that there was no transmission by assignment, creation or devolution of the interest of a party to the litigation to her within the meaning of R. 10, and that she was not competent to apply for permission to continue the suit. 1936 Lah. 652. Where a person whose suit is dismissed in the trial Court assigns his interest to a third party during the period intervening between the passing of the decree and the institution of the appeal, the assignor has no subsisting interest which would entitle him to prefer an appeal. R. 10 has no application to such a case as the assignment does not take place during the pendency of the appeal but before the appeal is instituted. To such a case S. 146 is of no assistance and the appellate Court could not allow the assignee to be made an appellant at the time of hearing the appeal, as S. 146 would become applicable only if the appeal could have originally been filed by the assignor. 1935 L. 119. Similarly an application by an assignee for his substitution as a co-appellant in appeal is not maintainable where the assignment was made during the pendency of the suit in the trial Court and not during the pendency of the appeal. 160 I.C. 801=1936 O.W.N. 183=1936 O. 224. O. 22, R. 10, applies to execution proceedings. An order, made under that rule dismissing an application to add a party to the execution proceeding is appealable under O. 43, R. 1 (1), but is not subject to second appeal in view of S. 104 (2), C.P. Code. 43 Bom.L.R. 719. The rule does not apply to assignments after decree. 10 A. 97. An assignee of a decree need not therefore apply under the rule for recognition of his assignment. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—A judicial order which may possibly affect or prejudice any party cannot be finally made unless the party affected has had an opportunity of being heard. It is based on the plainest principles of justice. An order for substitution may be made ex parte without notice and such an order made ex parte can be re-called upon objection of parties interested. 16 I.C. 567=17 C.W.N. 862. No order for substitution should be made upon an application which is not supported by affidavit or is not verified. (Ibid.) A person may, under this rule, be added or substituted as a party either on his own application or on the application of one of the parties already on the record. 18 A. 285. Deliberate delay in applying for the addition of a party will be a ground for rejecting the application. 43 I.C. 811. See also 71 M. L.J. 307=1936 M. 714. LIMITATION.—Limitation for impleading assignees. 27 C.W.N. 710=75 I.C. 255=1924 C. 90. See also 32 C. 612; 30 C. 609; 22 A. 231; 8 C. 837. An appellant should not, after the appeal has abated for not bringing the L. Rs. on record, be allowed to bring the transferee of the defendant on the record when he was not impleaded as a defendant though the plaintiff came to know of the transfer during the pendency of the suit and was not given an opportunity of defending the suit. 149 I.C. 1103=1934 L. 190. An assignee can appeal though the decree was passed ex parte against the assignor. 22 A. 380; 35 C.W.N. 296. But see 24 A. 532. DISCRETION OF COURT.—The applicant obtained a preliminary decree for partition in 1878. Subsequently however no steps were taken beyond the appointment of a Commissioner who died in or about 1896 having done nothing towards the execution of the Commission. In July, 1932, i.e., some 53 years after the preliminary decree, the plaintiff applied by notice of motion asking among other things that certain names of parties, defendants to the suit, now dead, be struck out and the name of K be substituted in their place and for the appointment of a Commissioner to partition certain properties. Held, that irrespective of whether the suit for partition had abated or not the Court had a discretion whether to allow the decree to be resurrected or not. 60 C. 940=1933 C. 696. See also 34 C.W.N. 53; I.L.R. 1940 Cal. 383.

The estate of the deceased had originally vested in trustees who filed a suit. Subsequently the Official Receiver was appointed Receiver of the estate which then vested in him. He refused to be joined as a party to the suit filed by the trustees. Held, that there was no objection to the suit being continued by the trustees. Even though the Official Receiver declined to be added as a plaintiff,

11. In the application of this Order to appeals, so far as may be, the word "plaintiff" shall be held to include an appellant, the word "defendant" a respondent, and the word "suit" an appeal.

LOC. AMS.—[CACLUTTA.] In O. 22, after. 11, add the following proviso to r. 11 :—

"Provided always that where an appellate Court has made an order dispensing with service of notice of appeal upon legal representatives of any person deceased under O. 41, r. 14 (3), the appeal shall not be deemed to abate as against such party and the decree, made on appeal shall be binding on the estate or the interest of such party."

he would be bound. 1933 S. 232. A suit for recovery of money due to an estate instituted by a trespasser cannot be continued by the real owner. 38 I.C. 154=2 P.L.J. 199. The assignees of a right to recover mesne profits given by a decree in a suit ought to apply for continuance of the suit under R. 10. 1 P.L.J. 427=37 I.C. 998. Liability of assignee of a party's right who continues to conduct suit or appeal to pay costs, see 63 M.L.J. 489.

O. 22, Rr. 10 and 4.—It is not competent to a party who has allowed his opportunity to apply under O. 22, R. 4 to go by owing to his negligence, to fall back on O. 22, R. 10. There may be cases in which it is legitimate for one party to apply under R. 10 for substitution in the ranks of the opposite parties, but that is not speaking generally the purpose of R. 10. In ordinary cases of devolution by death R. 4 applies. In cases of assignment, creation of interest or devolution of an interest other than by death, it would normally be the party in whose favour the assignment has been made or the interest created or had devolved who would apply under R. 10. Generally speaking it would not ordinarily be open to the opposite party to apply under R. 10. 1941 O.A. 583.

O. 22, Rr. 10 and 11.—No doubt it is true that parties who have assigned the whole of their interest pendente lite cannot ask for judgment in respect of an interest which is no longer theirs. But it does not follow that their assignees are thereby precluded from recovering. 66 I.A. 210=I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 503=43 C.W.N. 869=A.I.R. 1939 P.C. 170=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 366. Under O. 22, Rr. 10 and 11, unless the assignment, creation or devolution referred to in R. 10, has occurred during the pendency of the appeal, the rules would not entitle a person to be impleaded as a party in the appeal; where such party has acquired the suit property as his separate and absolute property by virtue of a partition decree in a suit, during the pendency of the suit and before the filing of the appeal, it cannot be said that he acquired any title during the pendency of the appeal as contemplated by R. 10, read with R. 11. The accrual of exclusive title to the party in respect of the suit property under the partition decree can properly be regarded as the "creation" of an interest within the meaning of R. 10, but if he has failed to make his application to be impleaded during the pendency of the suit (the devolution of interest having been pending the suit), he cannot be allowed to make his application during the pendency of the appeal from the decree in the suit. A.I.R. 1940 Mad. 876=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 349.

O. 22, R. 11.—The principle recognised in R. 11 applies not only to suits but to revision proceedings as well. 21 I.C. 407=18 C.L.J. 141. A rule issued at the instance of a party who is dead at the time is a nullity. 21 I.C. 407=18 C.L.J. 141. [N.B.—See also under R. 10.] O. 43 R. 1 (k) has to be read with reference to O. 22, R. 11. 17 Pat. 84=18 Pat.L.T. 1014=1938 Pat. 125. Death of respondent pending appeal unknown to Court—Appeal dismissed after hearing—Unsuccessful appellant is not entitled to re-hearing. 123 I.C. 607=1930 M. 719. Right of surviving appellants having a common ground of appeal to continue appeal without bringing on record L. Rs. of deceased appellant. See 15 R.D. 629=12 L.R. (Rev.) 273. Where a decree is for joint possession without specification of shares and there is no mention in it of any specific share to which a co-plaintiff who dies pending appeal is entitled and the appeal has admittedly abated against the deceased co-owner the appeal abates as a whole. (Case-law referred.) 148 I.C. 889=1934 Pesh. 14. Two independent appeals against single decree—Joinder of L. Rs. in one appeal does not enure for the benefit of the other appeal as well—The other appeal abates—To such a case the analogy of appeal and memo. of objections is not applicable. 130 I.C. 764=1931 M. 277=60 M.L.J. 267. See also note under O. 22, R. 4. After abatement of an appeal, the trial Court has no jurisdiction to go on with the proceedings taken in pursuance of an order of the appellate Court which was intended to operate only during the pendency of the appeal. 161 I.C. 212=1936 L. 618.

PROCEDURE.—Where a party is already impleaded both in the appeal and the memorandum of objections two separate applications are not necessary to bring his L. Rs. on the record. 1934 M. 448=67 M.L.J. 222.

O. 22, Rr. 11 and 12.—An appeal from an order in execution proceedings does not stand on a footing different from other classes of appeals, for, O. 41, which provides the procedure relating to appeals does not make any such distinction. Hence R. 11 of O. 22 should apply to appeals falling under S. 47; R. 12 of O. 22 cannot apply to such appeals, for an appeal which arises from execution proceedings cannot be regarded as a 'proceeding in execution'. R. 12

[MADRAS.] In O. 22, after r. 11, add the following as r. 11-A :—

"11-A. The entry on the record of the name of the representative of a deceased appellant or respondent in a matter pending before the High Court in its appellate jurisdiction, except in cases under appeal to the King in Council shall be deemed to be a quasi-judicial act within the meaning of S. 128 (2) (i) of the Code of Civil Procedure and may be performed by the Registrar, provided that contested applications and applications presented out of time shall be posted before a Judge for disposal."

Application of Order to proceedings.

12. Nothing in rules 3, 4 and 8 shall apply to proceedings in execution of a decree or order.

LOC. AM.—[ALLAHABAD AND OUDH.] At the end of the rule add the words—

"or to proceedings in the original Court taken after the passing of the preliminary decree where a final decree also requires to be passed having regard to the nature of the suit."

of O. 22 must therefore be construed as referring only to the proceedings in the executing Court and not to those in the appellate Court which hears appeals arising from execution proceedings. I.L.R. 1939 Nag. 119.

O. 22, R. 12.—The rule does not apply to execution proceedings. 87 I.C. 21=1925 O. 448. See also 30 C.W.N. 735=96 I.C. 378. Appeals in proceedings relating to execution of a decree are mere continuation of execution proceedings and there can be no doubt that R. 12, is applicable to such appeals and consequently Rr. 3, 4 and 8 cannot apply. An appeal arising out of an order passed in the course of proceedings in execution of a decree or order does not abate on the death of respondent if the appellant fails to apply to make the L.R. of the deceased respondent a party to the appeal within time prescribed by law. 9 P. 372=122 I.C. 148=1929 P. 565 (F.B.); I.L.R. 1940 Nag. 198. See also I.L.R. (1939) Nag. 119; 1938 N.L.J. 312; 1938 Nag. 528; 1938 Nag. 502; 1933 All. 388. O. 22, R. 12, does not exempt pending appeals from the operation of R. 8 of that order, though the appeals arise out of execution proceedings. An appeal stands on a different footing, in this respect, from an application for execution. R. 12 does not contemplate that, if an appeal has been preferred from an order in execution then also Rr. 3, 4 and 8 would never apply. 15 Luck. 580=1940 O.W.N. 411. R. 12 of O. 22 does not exempt pending appeals even though they arise out of execution proceedings and R. 8 applies to them (1923 L. 560 and 1929 P. 565, Diss. from; 51 M. 858, Ref.) 55 A. 509=1933 A.L.J. 706=1933 A.L.J. 388. See also (1938) Nag. 502. The words "proceedings in execution" in R. 12, mean proceedings provided for in Part II and O. 21 of the Code, that is, they are proceedings in the Court which passed the decree or in the Court to which the decree has been sent for execution. An appellate Court may have to consider the propriety of the orders passed by these Courts but the proceedings in the appellate Court cannot properly be described as proceedings in execution. They are separate proceedings, merely testing the validity of the order made by the executing Court. 164 I.C. 605=1936 L. 1022. Further, Rr. 3, 4 and 8 apply in terms to suits while R. 11 makes these provisions applicable to all appeals. As no distinction is made in the Code between appeals from orders in execution and appeals generally, and as R. 11 is without qualification or exception, Rr. 3, 4 and 8 apply to appeals in execution matters. 1936 L. 1022. Where pending an application for execution of a decree the decree-holder dies, it is open to his heir and L.R. to continue execution proceedings provided he applies to the Court and obtains an order under O. 21, R. 16. He need not be compelled to resort to a separate proceeding. 134 I.C. 720=33 Bom.L.R. 818=1931 B. 423. (50 M. 1, Foll.; 34 C.W.N. 437, Ref.) But see 60 M.L.J. 628=131 I.C. 610=1931 M. 303. Abatement does not apply to execution proceedings. The result of that is, however, that the heirs need not take steps for substitutions under O. 22, R. 3, but may apply to carry on the proceedings or may file a fresh application. 1938 N.L.J. 99=A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 528. Appeal in execution proceedings—Death of appellant pending—L.R. can be brought on record by the ordinary procedure applicable to appeals. 51 M. 858=1928 M. 772=55 M.L.J. 497. Decree capable of execution without final decree—Substitution of L.Rs. need not be within three months of party's death. 82 I.C. 604=1925 A. 66. Application for execution—No abatement—Substitution of names in pending execution proceeding is permissible. O. 21, R. 16 applies only to substitution along with execution and there is no other rule barring the substitution of names by an executing Court when an execution is pending. 50 A. 621=1928 A. 299.

O. 22, R. 12 (Allahabad).—Amendment, if retrospective. The amendment of R. 12 under which there would be no abatement once a preliminary decree has been passed, does not have a retrospective effect and cannot have the effect of automatically reviving all suits which had abated previous to the amendment. Where the abatement has taken place under the old law the preliminary decree becomes non-existent, and without the abatement having been set aside on a proper application being made within time, no final decree can be prepared. 1935 A. 180.

ORDER XXIII.

Withdrawal and Adjustment of Suits.

Withdrawal of suit or abandonment of part of claim.

1. (1) At any time after the institution of a suit the plaintiff may, as against all or any of the defendants, withdraw his suit or abandon part of his claim.

NOTES.

O. 23, R. 1: APPLICABILITY OF RULE.—As regards applicability of R. 1, see 132 I.C. 224. O. 23, R. 1 applies to suits and not to defences. A defendant in a previous suit who raises a claim for set-off but withdraws it without the leave of the Court, is not thereby precluded from raising it again in a subsequent suit against him. 1937 O.W.N. 831 = 1937 Oudh 394. The rule clearly contemplates an application by plaintiffs and the decision in the presence of the parties. A mere remark in the judgment cannot be construed to be a permission of the Court. 1937 O.W.N. 1146. This rule does not apply to suits before the Revenue authorities under Act X of 1859. 21 C. 428. See also 21 C. 514. It applies to rent suits in the N.W.P. 5 A. 406. Also to ejectment suits filed under the Agra Tenancy Act. L.R. 6 A. 65 (Rev.). But see 15 R.D. 177 = 12 L.R. 53 (Rev.); 1940 R.D. 364 (applicability to proceedings under U.P. Land Revenue Act); 1940 R.D. 390 (applicability to Agra Ten. Act). O. 23 applies to S. 92. 1925 C. 187. As to application of principles of the rule in case of withdrawal of an application to Court for amendment of specification under S. 18, Patent and Designs Act (II of 1911), without leave to apply again, see 61 C. 450 = 38 C.W. N. 729 = 1934 C. 735. As to whether such an order could be made in a suit for judicial separation, when an amicable settlement has been come to after suit, see 9 Beng. L.R. App. at 6. An application under R. 20 of Sch. II can be withdrawn under this rule. 31 C. 516. Second suit is barred even against a sub-tenant, when the latter had raised in the prior suit a plea of rights of a permanent character. 18 R.D. 338 (1) = 15 L.R. 440 (Rev.). See also 18 R.D. 1 = 15 L.R. 1 (Rev.). But the recorded chief tenants are entitled to bring a suit against the recorded sub-tenant even though the previous suit brought by some of them against two persons alleged to be sub-tenants had been withdrawn without permission to bring a second suit. 18 R.D. 338 (2) = 15 L.R. 488 (Rev.). Where proceedings under S. 86 of Agra Tenancy Act were withdrawn without liberty to file fresh suit, held, a fresh suit even under S. 121 of the Tenancy Act was barred. 18 R.D. 235 = 15 L.R. 263 (Rev.); 1940 R.D. 390. An application which has been registered as a suit under any of the provisions of the Code can be allowed to be withdrawn with liberty to file a fresh suit. 5 M.H.C. R. 298. When a suit has been dismissed in the lower Court, the appellate Court cannot in appeal allow the plaintiff to withdraw his suit. 11 M. 322. Nor in second appeal. 147 I.C. 441 = 1934 A.L.J. 821 = 1934 A.C.C.M. — 144

With respect to the application of R. 1, a suit for partition should be treated differently from other suits, and a subsequent suit for partition of the same property involved in the previous suit is not barred under R. 1, by the dismissal of the prior suit, even though no permission to institute a fresh suit was obtained when the prior suit was dismissed as withdrawn on the ground of compromise. The right to bring a suit for partition is a continuing right, and as soon as the defendant fails to carry out the compromise the parties are relegated to their rights as they existed prior to the compromise. 42 L.W. 843 = 1935 M. 909 = 69 M.L.J. 401. Where a previous suit for declaration that certain share in property sold by decree-holder was plaintiff's and hence not liable to execution is withdrawn and subsequently a fresh suit for partition of that property is brought, O. 23, R. 1 is not applicable and the fresh suit is not barred. 41 P. The procedure of withdrawal laid down in R. 1 applies only to pending suits and before the decree has been made. (29 B. 13; 35 B.

(a) that a suit must fail by reason of some formal defect, or

(b) that there are other sufficient grounds for allowing the plaintiff to institute a fresh suit for the subject-matter of a suit or part of a claim, it may, on such terms as it thinks fit, grant the plaintiff permission to withdraw from such suit or abandon such part of a claim with liberty to institute a fresh suit in respect of the subject-matter of such suit or such part of a claim.

CONSTRUCTION OF SECTION—O. 23, R. 1 (2), CLS. (a) AND (b).—The two clauses of sub-R. (2) of R. 1 of O. 23 must be read together. Cl. (a) of sub-R. (2) of R. 1 of O. 23 is illustrative of the "grounds" referred to in Cl. (b), and although the "grounds" in Cl. (b) need not be ejusdem generis with the ground mentioned in cl. (a), they must be at least analogous to it. The ground in Cl. (a) requires that the suit must fail by reason of some formal defect; whereas the grounds contemplated in Cl. (b) need not necessarily be fatal to the suit, but must be analogous to a formal defect. The expression "formal" defect must be given a wide and literal meaning and must be deemed to connote every kind of defect which does not affect the merits of the case, whether that defect is fatal to a suit or not. Where the ground of withdrawal is a defect of substance as distinguished from a defect of form, the suit should not be allowed to be withdrawn. If a Court allows a suit to be withdrawn on the ground of defect of substance arising out of the plaintiff's inability to prove the title on which the claim is based, the Court acts without jurisdiction, and its order can be corrected in revision under S. 115. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 299=42 Bom. L. R. 143=1940 Bom. 121 (F.B.). The two sub-Cls. (a) and (b) of sub-R. (2) of R. 1 of O. 23 are worded in an entirely different manner and they are intended to cover different circumstances. Cl. (b) is not limited to cases in which the Court thinks that the suit must necessarily fail. There may be other sufficient grounds on which it is proper to allow the plaintiff to withdraw his suit. 1938 Rang.L.R. 270=1938 Rang. 389.

AS TO SCOPE OF SUB-R. (2).—See 15 M.L. J. 452; 2 A.L.J. 59. The main object of sub-R. (2) of R. 1 of O. 23 is to prevent the defeat of justice on technical grounds and the words "sufficient grounds" refer to as the Court may award and shall be precluded from instituting any fresh suit in respect of such subject-matter or such part of the claim.

NOTES.

some defect in the suit, which had the effect of shutting out a fair trial on the merits and arose out of some error made in good faith by plaintiff or by the Court at the instance of either party which could only be effectively set right by a trial de novo. In a case where there was no defect which shut out a fair trial, but the plaintiff's cause of action disappeared and he out of an abundant caution to meet a possible claim by the other side made a request for permission to bring a fresh suit it was held that under those circumstances permission ought not to be reserved to the plaintiff to bring a fresh suit. 1941 N.L.J. 382.

SCOPE OF SUB-R. (3).—10 M. 160; 8 C. 871; 9 B. 346; 1928 A. 689; 1939 P. 225=1939 P.W.N. 41; 1941 O.W.N. 692. Sub-R. (3) applies only to withdrawal of suits and not to those of applications. The withdrawal of an application for final decree does not bar a fresh application. 1928 M. 1165=115 I.C. 825. ABANDONMENT OF PART OF CLAIM.—A suit can be withdrawn in part with liberty to sue again in respect of it. But the whole suit cannot be withdrawn with liberty to sue again in respect of part only. When only part of a suit is withdrawn, the remaining part must be proceeded with and if not, it must be dismissed as to it. 5 Bom.L.R. 223; 15 M. L.J. 462. Where plaintiff withdrew part of a claim without permission, his suit for the same is barred. 40 I.C. 408=29 C.L.J. 11. A plaintiff may withdraw his claim against some defendants only at any time before actual judgment. 31 I. C. 312; 62 I. C. 25; 52 I.C. 870; 1940 O. 43=1939 O. W. The phrase "other sufficient grounds" would not cover any ground wholly dissimilar to some formal defect. The words must be taken to mean ejusdem generis with the words in cl. Where a suit in which some of the defendants are minors is referred to arbitration without the leave of the Court and the arbitrators give an award, the Court has no jurisdiction to allow the suit to be withdrawn against the minor defendants with permission to bring a fresh suit against them. O. 23, R. is inapplicable in such circumstances. 40 P.L.R. 498=1938 Lah. 582. Once a suit has been referred to arbitration, so long as that reference stands, the Court which has made the reference has no power to pass any order which in any way would affect the subject-matter of the suit. The Court has consequently no jurisdiction after the suit has been referred to arbitration and as long as the reference subsists, to intervene and give the plaintiff permission to withdraw his suit under O. 23, R. 1, I.L.R. The dismissal on the ground of misjoinder cannot operate as res judicata; and there will be even less scope for the application of R. 1, if the Court is held to have dismissed the suit, for no question of abandonment will then arise. Suit for declaration as to plaintiff's title to suit property—Evidence closed—Application for withdrawal alleging third party having taken possession decree would be infructuous—Held no formal defect existed and withdrawal should not be allowed. 1934 L. 735. SUBJECT-MATTER.—Subject-matter is equivalent to phrase cause of action. 1930 L. 937. And does not refer to suit property. 151 I.C. 458=38 C.W.N. 133=1934 C. 433. This means clearly "the subject of legal action, consideration, complaint or defence, or the fact or facts constituting the whole or a part of a ground of action or defence". (Ibid.) See also 21 M. at 37; 21 C. 265; 30 L. W. 562=1929 M. 798; 74 I.C. 56=1924 O. 180; 92 I.C. 358=1926 M. 490. The bar in R. 1 (3) is in respect of the subject-matter and not the cause of action; subject-matter means the series of acts and transactions alleged to exist giving rise to the relief claimed. 1938 A.L.J. (Supp.) 2. Where a suit on a promissory note is withdrawn by the plaintiff without obtaining the permission of the Court to bring a fresh suit in respect of the same subject-matter, a second suit by him on a fresh promissory note, the consideration for which is the same consideration which is embodied in the promissory note which formed the subject-matter of the former suit, is barred by R. 1, sub-Cl. (3) of the Code. The subject-matter of the two suits is the same, the only difference being that it is embodied in different promissory notes. 156 I.C. 17=1935 O. 434. See also 1938 Rang. 210.

CAUSE OF ACTION DIFFERENT.—O. 23, R. 1 (3) does not bar a suit on a different cause of action. 36 M. 325=23 M.L.J. 658; see also 184 I.C. 808=1939 A.L.J. 892=1939 All. 584; 1929 A. 689; 1934 L. 721=16 L. 27; 1933 L. 943=144 I.C. 864 (first suit by reversioners to declare alienation by widow invalid—Death of widow—Suit withdrawn without permission—Subsequent suit for possession maintainable) (Ibid.) See also 9 B. 346 (different title). "Shall" in the rule is not mandatory and is merely directory. 2 O. W. N. 901=1925 O. 699. Withdrawal without leave—Subsequent suit on different ground not barred. 59 I.C. 84. The withdrawal of a suit in which a right of ownership is asserted does not preclude the plaintiff from suing again upon a claim based upon an easement. 2 A.L.J. 59. Where plaintiff withdraws suit without permission with consent of defendant in the hope of the matter being settled out of Court by arbitration but the arbitration proves abortive and he files a fresh suit on the same cause of action, simply because of the arbitration, the cause of action does not alter and the subsequent suit is barred. 156 I.C. 386=1935 C. 157 (2). The withdrawal of a suit instituted by partners who have not been registered as a firm under the Partnership Act is no bar to a fresh suit filed by them on the same cause of action after they get themselves registered as a firm. The later suit is technically a suit by a different plaintiff. 164 I.C. 748=44 L.W. 247 (1)=1936 M. 697.

EFFECT OF WITHDRAWAL.—The withdrawal of a suit bars only the plaintiff and his privies from bringing a fresh suit but not a person who has purchased the plaintiff's interest at a sale in execution under an attachment prior to the withdrawal. 39 I.C. 276. Order granting withdrawal with permission to institute fresh suit will not be binding on heirs of one of the original defendants who were not impleaded and against whom the suit had abated. 1935 A.L.J. 1286=1935 A. 853. Where the defendants have failed to prove that the withdrawal of previous suit, with reference to which the bar under R. 1 has been pleaded, was without permission to bring a fresh suit, the suit is not barred by reason of R. 1. 1935 C. 744. First suit withdrawn while second suit is pending—Second suit not barred unless the conditions of R. 1 are fulfilled. 1930 L. 599 (2); 110 I.C. 818 (2)=1928 L. 710. suit is barred. 1 P. 228. Withdrawal by unnecessary plaintiffs from a suit does not necessitate the dismissal of the suit. 60 I. C. 592; 1 P. 228.

NEXT FRIEND.—A next friend can withdraw a suit on behalf of a minor, and any withdrawal by him would have precisely the same effect as the withdrawal of a suit by a person of full age. 10 C. 357. Two plaintiffs—One of them a minor and the other acting as his next friend—The other plaintiff cannot withdraw the suit. 107 I.C. 431 (2) = 1928 M. 496 (1). Suit by one on his behalf and on behalf of his minor brother—Withdrawal of major brother—Appointment of another as next friend to continue suit—Held proper. 148 I.C. 1171 = 1934 O. 257. But a withdrawal by him without the leave of the Court is voidable at the instance of the minor. 27 M. 377. As to the courses open to the minor when his next friend has fraudulently withdrawn a suit without leave to file a fresh suit, see 10 C. 357.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—Orders under—Need for exercise of judicial discretion. 1931 A. 19; 42 P.L.R. 785. Where leave to withdraw is granted without express liberty to sue again a fresh suit on the same cause of action is barred. 58 I.C. 271 = 129 P.R. 1919; 40 M.L.J. 126 = 62 I.C. 833; 46 I.C. 913. A Judge cannot give leave to a plaintiff to file a fresh suit upon the dismissal of an earlier suit but only upon its withdrawal. 1941 Rang. 118; see also 42 P. L. R. 785. Where a person applies for permission to withdraw his suit and the application is referred to the other side and on the other side stating that they have no objection provided that they get their costs the Court allows the application, it cannot be said that the Court fails to exercise any jurisdiction invested in it. It would be called upon to go into the question whether a formal defect or other sufficient cause exists only if the opposite party denies that there is any such defect or sufficient Cause. 1938 A. L. J. 652 = 1938 All. 450. Order permitting the withdrawal of suit without liberty to bring fresh suit is not warranted by law. The proper order is to dismiss the application and proceed with the suit. 107 I.C. 469 (2) = 1928 C. 273 (1); 1931 A.L.J. 966; 18 R.D. 415 = 15 L.R. 538 (Rev.) = 10 O.W.N. 1102. The power of an appellate Court to allow withdrawal of suit proceeds from S. 107 (2), and it has the same powers as the trial Court. The proper procedure would be for an appellate Court to set aside the decree of the trial Court and then grant permission to withdraw. 39 C.W.N. 586; see also 40 Bom. L.R. 895. Where an application signed by the parties and filed in Court by the defendant is not an application under R. 3 but an application under R. 1 for the dismissal of the suit as having been settled out of Court, the Judge is not entitled to examine the plaintiff in regard to the terms of the settlement they being not relevant to the matter before him. His only course is to dismiss the suit. 150 I.C. 721 = 1934 R. 108.

FORM OF ORDER.—The suit cannot be dismissed with liberty to file a fresh suit. 9 A. 690; 1931 M.W.N. 1008 = 1931 M. 830; and the fact that such an order has not been appealed against will not give it any effect. 11 A. 187 (F.B.). An order cannot be passed directing the plaintiff to institute a new suit. 9 A. 191 = 13 I.A. 134 (P.C.). Where it is clear from the application that the suit was being withdrawn with permission to file a fresh suit but the Court fails to state that such permission has been given, it can be implied, for it need not be in express terms. 1939 A.L.J. (Supp.) 88. There is no distinction between the cases where a suit is simply allowed to be withdrawn and the cases where the Courts though allowing the suit to be withdrawn add that the suit is dismissed. 41 P. L. R. 486 = 1939 Lah. 472. See also 1941 Lah. 192. Dismissal of a suit "in the form in which it is brought" does not amount to permission to sue again. 5 A. 595. Application for permission to withdraw a suit with liberty to bring a fresh suit—Court giving permission to withdraw but not giving in terms liberty to bring a fresh suit; held, the order should be read along with petition and construed as granting permission to file a fresh suit. 5 P. 23 = 93 I.C. 1001 (1) = 1926 P. 259. See 1931 M.W.N. 1148 = 1932 M. 155 (1). See also 148 I.C. 879 = 1934 A. 292; 1938 M.W.N. 785. What is important in each case is the terms in which the permission to institute fresh suit is granted. The permission in each case is conditional and the right under the permission cannot be said to have accrued to the plaintiff until the conditions are fulfilled. Hence, where permission is given to bring a fresh suit after payment of the costs of the case, the fresh suit is barred unless costs are paid. 41 P.L.R. 594 = 1939 Lah. 148. See also 1941 Lah. 192; 1935 Nag. 56. Prohibition as to a second suit when the first suit is withdrawn without liberty to bring a fresh suit does not apply to ejectment suits by tenants against sub-tenants. NOTES.

COSTS.—Where a plaintiff who has been allowed to withdraw a suit under O. 23, R. 1, C.P. Code, with permission to bring a fresh suit has been ordered to pay costs to the defendant but no time limit has been fixed for such payment, and such payment has not been made a condition precedent to the institution of a fresh suit, the failure of the plaintiff to pay costs is no bar to the maintainability of a fresh suit. I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 331=1941 Lah. 192. See also 41 C.W.N. 1336. When leave to withdraw the suit with liberty is granted, costs must follow the event. See 25 Bom.L.R. 242=47 B. 559=72 I.C. 324; 40 A. 612=46 I.C. 71; 14 I.C. 97=9 A.L.J. 358. See also 15 B. 160; 1 M.H.C.R. 247; 1939 Lah. 472. But see 2 O.W.N. 901=1925 O. 699. Court can extend the time to pay costs when it is absolutely impossible for the party to pay such costs on or before the day so fixed. 29 M. 370. When a suit is withdrawn with liberty to sue again "on payment of costs, and a subsequent suit is filed without payment of costs", subsequent payment cures the irregularity. Court can refuse to proceed with the suit till the costs are paid. 31 C. 965 (968); 157 I.C. 287=31 N.L.R. 266=1935 Nag. 56 (where no date was fixed for payment of costs). On this point, see also 39 C.W.N. 330; 41 C.W.N. 1336; 68 C.L.J. 75; 66 C.L.J. 275; 1939 Lah. 192; 1941 Lah. 192; 1938 Rang. 378=1938 Rang.L.R. 749; 1935 N. 56; 5 P. 306=96 I.C. 942=1926 P. 409; 95 I.C. 875=1926 P. 472; 1929 A. 692; 55 B. 206=33 Bom.L.R. 278=1931 B. 257; 139 I.C. 167=1932 M.W.N. 1244=1932 M. 714. Where the order was that costs "must be paid within one month as a condition precedent to the fresh suit" and the plaintiff did not pay the costs within the time fixed, but paid the same only after the fresh suit was filed, held that the Court would have no jurisdiction to entertain the new suit unless the costs have been paid within the period fixed and payment at a subsequent stage would not confer jurisdiction, although there might be no express order for dismissal on default of the condition attached. 39 C.W.N. 330. Withdrawal of suit with permission on condition of costs being paid before second suit—Costs paid after institution of second suit—Second application to withdraw second suit with liberty allowed. Next day the plaintiff stated that he was unable to pay the costs and prayed that the suit be tried on its merits. Defendant did not object to the disposal on the merits. But first Court dismissed the suit on the ground that the costs had not been deposited in time. On appeal, case was remanded for trial on the merits. Held, that (i) the question whether the deposit was in time was one that depended on the construction of the first order and lower Court was justified in holding that it had been substantially complied with; (ii) the application of plaintiff to have the suit tried on merits can be treated as one for review and the order restoring the suit by consent of parties was perfectly valid. 1933 A.L.J. 1350=1933 A. 810. But see 38 C.W.N. 133=1934 C. 433, where it was held that non-payment of costs within time ordered, had the effect of revoking the liberty granted for fresh suit.

POWER OF APPELLATE COURT.—Court of appeal has power to grant permission to withdraw a suit with liberty to file a fresh suit. 74 I.C. 894=1924 A. 260; 41 C.L.J. 186=1925 C. 711; 45 I.C. 913; 45 M.L.J. 212=46 M. 811=1924 M. 79; 40 M. 259; 37 I.C. 414=32 M. L. J. 447 (F. B.); 40 Bom. L. R. 895. Before doing so, it must be set aside the decree of the first Court. 95 I.C. 424 (2)=1926 N. 444; 39 C.W.N. 586. Where, however, an appellate Court allows an appeal setting aside the decree of the trial Court without expressly dismissing the suit, and then grants permission to withdraw the suit, the order so granting permission is irregular but not without jurisdiction or illegal. Nor would the findings recorded in the judgment permitting withdrawal operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit. 39 C.W.N. 586. On an appeal against an order of remand, the Court can, at the plaintiff's request, allow him to withdraw the suit with liberty to bring a fresh suit under O. 23, R. 1. 38 P.L.R. 319. Where an appellate Court calls for a finding on a new issue, and an application is made by the plaintiff under R. 1, the appellate Court has jurisdiction to pass orders on it. 156 I.C. 799=1935 Mad. 445. The Court must be very cautious in granting permission. 24 A.L.J. 721=96 I.C. 480=1926 A. 548. An appellant is not entitled to withdraw his suit in the appeal Court under R. 1 (1) as a matter of course. 61 I.C. 584=1923 O. 252. R. 1 does not allow a plaintiff who has appealed to get rid of the decree that has been made by the simple process of withdrawing the suit. 47 I.C. 817=12 S.L.R. 14. See also 11 M. 322; 41 C.L.J. 186. An appellate Court has no jurisdiction to allow a suit to be withdrawn under O. 23, R. 1, with liberty to institute a fresh suit after passing an order dismissing the appeal. 42 P.L.R. 785. See also 1941 Rang. 118. In proper cases High Court on appeal can take action under R. 1. 40 A. 7=42 I.C. 856=15 A.L.J. 809.

APPEAL.—An order made by an appellate Court giving permission to withdraw a suit with liberty to bring a fresh suit is not a decree, and is not appealable. 18 C. 322; 88 I.C. 1029 (1)=1926 O. 185 (1); 1939 Lah. 472. No appeal lies against an order passed under R. 1 (1) dismissing a suit as withdrawn by the plaintiff. 1935 O.W.N. 842=156 I.C. 990=1935 Oudh 486. Withdrawal of appeal does not amount to confirmation of lower Court's order. 50 A. 608=108 I.C. 564=1928 A. 679. If such an order is passed by a Court of first instance, and District Court on appeal sets aside the order and dismisses the suit, the order of Limitation law not affected by first suit.

NOTES.

District Court is a decree and is appealable. 27 C. 362. An order permitting the withdrawal of an appeal is not a decree. 15 B. 370 (373). No appeal lies against an order for costs passed under R. 1. 105 I.C. 733=1927 N. 399; 1939 Lah. 472. Where one of several plaintiffs withdraws from the suit and the Court dismisses the entire suit on the grounds that the other plaintiffs who only derived title from the one who had withdrawn, had no case to go on with, the order is not one under O. 23, R. 1 but a dismissal of the suit on merits. Though a decree is not drawn up in such a case, an appeal lies because the decision amounts to a decree. 1941 N.L.J. 179.

REVISION.—An order granting leave to withdraw without considering or recording any grounds for allowing withdrawal is a wrong exercise of jurisdiction and a revision would lie. 20 A.L.J. 90=64 I.C. 948=1922 A. 185. See also 25 Bom.L.R. 242=47 B. 559; 1941 N.L.J. 179; 1941 O.W.N. 558; 42 Bom.L.R. 143=1940 Bom. 121; 40 A. 612=16 A.L.J. 493; 14 I.C. 97=9 A.L.J. 358; 15 A. 169; 11 M. 322; 85 I.C. 548=1925 A. 272; 87 I.C. 175=1925 A. 466. Where there was proper exercise of jurisdiction by lower Court no revision lies. 19 A.L.J. 47=60 I.C. 899; 13 L. 537=1932 L. 360; 1939 Lah. 472. In certain circumstances an application in revision lies against an order passed by a Court under O. 23, R. 1, and in such a case it is necessary to see whether the Court has been guilty of material irregularity in passing the order. Where a suit dismissed by the trial Court is allowed by the appellate Court to be withdrawn with liberty to file a fresh suit on the ground that there were certain formal defects, when as a matter of fact they were material defects, the lower appellate Court must be held to have acted with material irregularity in allowing the withdrawal of the suit and its order can be set aside in revision. 1941 O.W.N. 558. High Court has power to revise the order granting withdrawal of suit with liberty to bring a fresh one without any formal defect. 41 I.C. 934; 40 I.C. 77; 44 C. 454=39 I.C. 969=25 C.L.J. 455; 35 I.C. 843; 34 I.C. 934; 10 I.C. 346; 27 M.L.J. 480=26 I.C. 57; 3 P.L.J. 460=46 I.C. 179. See also 1925 L. 497; 3 Luck. 403=107 I.C. 887=1928 O. 482; 1934 A.L.J. 42=1934 A. 137. Where a Court passes an order of withdrawal with liberty in a case which is not brought within the specific provisions of this rule it is without jurisdiction and will be set aside in revision. 155 I.C. 210=1935 P. 251. The failure of lower Court to see whether the necessary conditions are existing, entitles High Court to interfere in revision. (3 P.L.J. 651; 3 P.L.J. 460, Foll.; 34 C. 51, Dist.) 158 I.C. 986=1935 P. 438.

REVIEW.—An order permitting the withdrawal of an appeal can be reviewed. 15 B. 370.

REVIVAL OF SUIT.—If a plaintiff simply wishes to withdraw from suit he can do so without asking for any permission from the Court. But if he wishes to withdraw his suit with liberty to institute a fresh suit in respect of the same subject-matter, he has to ask for permission from the Court, and it can be given only on such terms as it thinks fit. It is clear that the permission relates not to the withdrawal of the suit but to the filing of another suit when once the suit is withdrawn it is no longer pending. After the order is made permitting the withdrawal of the suit on certain conditions, it is not open to the plaintiff to ask the Court to modify or to annul the conditions, the suit having already ended when the order is made. Once the order for permission to withdraw is made and the suit has ceased to exist it is not open to the plaintiff to revive the suit on the ground of non-acceptance of the terms. This should be before and not after the order of withdrawal is formally made. 43 Bom.L.R. 646.

RES JUDICATA.—Where on an application for withdrawal of a suit under O. 23, R. 1, the Court passes an order granting permission to the plaintiff to withdraw the suit with liberty to bring a fresh suit, and also adds that "the suit stands dismissed," these words are really a surplusage and possess no significance whatever, and a fresh suit is not barred by res judicata. I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 331=1941 Lah. 192. Where on dismissal of the suit the plaintiff files an appeal and in appeal the appellate Court passes an order that the parties agree that the appeal may be dismissed and further states in the order that the plaintiff is permitted to bring a fresh suit and ultimately concludes the order by stating that the appeal is dismissed, it cannot be said under these circumstances that the suit is withdrawn under O. 23, R. 1 and not dismissed. On the dismissal of the appeal, the suit automatically is dismissed and the Court ceases to have any further jurisdiction in the matter and it ceases to have any power to grant permission to the plaintiff to institute a fresh suit on the same cause of action. A subsequent suit brought by the plaintiff on the basis of such order is barred by principles of res judicata. 178 I.C. 319=1938 Lah. 52. See also 1938 Rang. 210.

O. 23, R. 2.—The effect of this rule is that limitation is to apply to the second suit as if it was the first. 29 B. 219; 69 C.L.J.

3. Where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that a suit has been adjusted wholly or in part by any lawful agreement or compromise, or where the defendant satisfies the plaintiff in respect of the whole or any part of the subject-matter of the suit, the Court shall order such agreement, compromise or satisfaction to be recorded, and shall pass a decree in accordance therewith so far as it relates to the suit.

540; 1937 Mad. 438. Limitation for fresh suit. 25 I.C. 188=12 A.L.J. 989. The fact that a suit is withdrawn does not entitle the plaintiff in a fresh suit to any deduction of time during which the former suit had been pending. 20 I.C. 205. See also 23 I.C. 458=163 P.L.R. 1914. Adjustment—Award—Supersession of—Subsequent reference through Court—Effect of. See 24 Bom.L.R. 361=46 B. 854. Plaintiff obtained a decree and in execution certain property was put up for sale. Before the sale was confirmed decree-holder and judgment-debtor made a joint application to Court by which they asked that defendant having agreed to pay the whole of the decretal amount together with interest and costs before a certain date the confirmation of the Court-sale should be held over. If defendants did not pay, the sale was to be confirmed without further delay. The order of Court set out the terms and provided that on that basis the darkhast was allowed to be withdrawn and also provided that if judgment-debtor failed to pay, confirmation of sale might be applied for. Held, that no fresh darkhast was necessary for the application for confirmation after the default of judgment-debtor. 57 B. 616=35 Bom. L. R. 769=1933 B. 358.

O. 23, R. 2 and Lim. Act, S. 14.—There is really no conflict between S. 14 of the Limitation Act and R. 2 of O. 23, C. P. Code. S. 14 of the Limitation Act applies to a case where the Court by its own order has terminated a suit or proceeding on the ground that it has no jurisdiction to entertain it or that there is some other cause of a like nature which makes it impossible for the Court to entertain it. O. 23, Rr. 1 and 2 apply to a case where the plaintiff on discovering that his suit must fail either by reason of some formal defect or because of some other sufficient grounds for withdrawal applies voluntarily for the withdrawal of the suit and asks for permission to file a fresh suit and the Court grants his prayer. Where a suit is filed in time in the proper Court, but the Court orders its return for presentation to the proper Court, as, the plaintiffs having, by amendment, reduced their claim for interest, the Court ceases to have jurisdiction, there is neither withdrawal of the suit nor abandonment of part of the claim within the meaning of O. 23, R. 1 (2) and O. 23, R. 2 will not apply. S. 14 of the Limitation Act applies to such a case. I. L. R. (1940) 1 Kar. 225=1940 Sind 125. See also 40 Bom.L.R. 377=1938 Bom. 281. The C. P. Code and the Limitation Act are rules of procedure and must be interpreted strictly. A plaintiff who prays for an order for withdrawal of his suit with leave of the Court under O. 23, R. 1, must face R. 2 of O. 23, and cannot have the benefit of S. 14 of the Limitation Act. In a suit under the High Court the defendant pleaded that they were agriculturists. The plaintiff applied for leave to withdraw the suit under O. 23, R. 1 with liberty to file a fresh suit, and the Court granted the same. Subsequently the plaintiff filed a suit in a Subordinate Court in the moffussil and claimed the right to deduct the period during which he was prosecuting the first suit, under S. 14, Limitation Act. Held, that the High Court in the prior suit had jurisdiction to decide the plea raised by the defendant as to their status, and that the case fell under O. 23, R. 2, but not under S. 14 of the Limitation Act, and the plaintiff could not therefore avail himself of the benefit of S. 14, Limitation Act. I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 327=40 Bom.L.R. 377=A.I.R. 1938 Bom. 281.

O. 23, R. 3: APPLICABILITY OF RULE.—As to whether this rule is an exception to S. 89, see 16 P.L.T. 280=1935 P. 243. Non-compliance with provisions of this rule—Effect on decree—If makes decree other than one on compromise—Registration—Necessity. 40 C.W.N. 1176. The rule applies to cases referred to arbitration. 1925 M. 50. The provisions of R. 3 are imperative and the special procedure therein prescribed is not affected by the general procedure laid down in R. 1. The mere circumstance of a person not being actually on record is not a bar to his filing an application under R. 3. If there is a question common to the parties on record and a stranger as regards the subject-matter of the suit or any portion thereof, it should be tried once for all by allowing the stranger to be made a party. 57 M. 892=1934 M. 337=66 M.L.J. 517. See also 1935 L. 168. R. 3 is mandatory in its terms, and if the Court is satisfied that the parties executed the compromise, the terms of which were known to them and which is a perfectly valid and binding document, adjusting the suit or appeal, Court has no option but to order the compromise to be recorded and to pass a decree in accordance therewith. The rule does not provide for an enquiry into disputed facts collateral to the terms of the compromise. A party alleging fraud cannot be allowed to avoid the compromise admittedly executed by him with consent in proceedings started on application under R. 3. Such an enquiry is not within the purview of the rule. If the compromise is lawful, having regard to its terms, Court must give

“Where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that a suit has been adjusted wholly or in part by any lawful agreement or compromise, or where the defendant satisfies the plaintiff in respect of the whole or any part of the subject-matter of the suit, the Court shall order such agreement, compromise or satisfaction to be recorded, and shall pass a decree in accordance therewith so far as it relates to the suit :

Provided that the hearing of a suit shall proceed and no adjournment shall be granted in it for the purposes of deciding whether there has been any adjustment or satisfaction, unless the Court for reasons to be recorded in writing, thinks fit to grant such adjournment, and provided further that the judgment in the suit shall not be announced until the question of adjustment or satisfaction has been decided :

Provided further that when an application is made by all the parties to the suit, either in writing or in open Court through their counsel, that they wish to compromise the suit, the Court may fix a date on which the parties or their counsel should appear and the compromise be recorded, but shall proceed to hear those witnesses in the suit who are already in attendance, unless for any other reason to be recorded in writing, it considers it impossible or undesirable to do so. If upon the date fixed no compromise has been recorded, no further adjournment shall be granted for this purpose, unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded in writing considers it highly probable that the suit will be compromised on or before the date to which he proposes to adjourn the hearing.”

Where a decree though it did not set out the text of the compromise either in the body or in any schedule, directed that effect should be given to the whole compromise, it must be taken that the decree has recorded the compromise. A reference to the compromise in the decree is a sufficient compliance with S. 375 of the Code of 1882. 67 I.A. 179=I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 330=1940 P.C. 70=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 769 (P.C.).

MEANING OF WORDS.—“Adjustment,” meaning of. 45 M.L.J. 763=28 C.W.N. 930=1923 P.C. 178 (P.C.). “Award is no adjustment”. See 47 A. 637=23 A.L.J. 561 (F.B.). Where a defendant offers to bind himself by the statement of the plaintiff and the plaintiff makes the statement, it follows that the Court is entitled to decree the claim against the defendant, as the only condition laid down by him has been fulfilled. The statement of the plaintiff has to be accepted as an adjustment of the claim and a decree passed accordingly. 1938 A.L.J. 449=1938 All. 353. If in a pending suit the parties go to a private arbitrator without the consent of Court and the arbitrator makes an award there is nothing to prevent the Court from giving effect to the award as if it were an adjustment by common consent and it amounts to an adjustment under O. 23, R. 3. 31 N.L.R. (Supp.) 72=1936 N. 8. The power given by Para. 20 of Sch. II, C.P. Code (see now Arbitration Act, 1940) cannot override the general power given to parties under O. 23, R. 3, C.P. Code, to adjust their disputes by a lawful compromise at any time after suit. The award is not entertained as an award but as an agreement between the parties disposing of their dispute and it is this agreement which the Court has power under O. 23, R. 3 to record and pass a decree in terms thereof. In principle there is no difference between an agreement of the parties and an award by arbitrators who are appointed by the parties themselves to settle their dispute, because in either case the parties are bound by their own agreement. An award therefore assumes the character of an agreement as soon as it is delivered whether the parties accept it or not. 178 I.C. 29=1938 Nag. 492. See also 1939 Rang. 300. The landlord filed a suit against the tenant for damages. The tenant also filed a cross suit maintaining that he was the owner himself. The parties meant that the issue as to ownership of land should be decided on merits. Tenant's suit was dismissed. Held, that such agreements had nothing to do with adjustments of suits within the meaning of R. 3. It includes the appellate stages and execution proceedings following the decree. 62 I.C. 608=6 P.L.J. 253. ‘Lawful’ means lawful within the meaning of the Contract Act. parties for payment of mesne profits from that date was a matter “relating to the suit” although no past mesne profits were claimed by the plaintiff in the suit, and could, therefore, be given effect to under O. 23, R. 3. 1938 O.W.N. 348=1938 Oudh 103.

LAWFUL AGREEMENT, ADJUSTMENT OR COMPROMISE.—“Lawful” in R. 3 does not merely mean binding or enforceable. The rule refers to agreements which in their very terms and nature are not “unlawful”, and may include agreements voidable at the option of one of the parties. A compromise is not otherwise than lawful under R. 3, merely because it is alleged that the appellant who is one of the parties to it had given an assurance to the respondent, other party, that no other defendant would file any cross-objection, and that contrary thereto he caused another respondent to file a cross-objection. That does not take the agreement out of the rule, when the agreement has been executed and registered freely and with full knowledge of its terms. Nor can the compromise be said to be not “verified,” simply because one of the parties declines to give effect to it. 57 A. 426=1934 A. L.J. 1183=1935 A. 137. In an application to record a compromise under O. 23, R. 3 the Court has to be satisfied on two points: first, that there was an agreement between the parties, and secondly, that it was “lawful”. The term “lawful agreement” in the rule excludes not only unlawful agreements (the object or consideration for which is unlawful as defined in the Contract Act) but also all agreements which on the face of them are void and therefore will not be enforced by Courts. For this purpose no inquiry is necessary because the terms of the agreements themselves will show the defect. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 13=41 Bom. L.R. 1290=1940 Bom. 60. “To determine whether a compromise is lawful” it is necessary to consider the facts of the litigation, the terms of the compromise, and the circumstances under which it is entered into. “Where a compromise by a trustee involves a breach of trust, it is not lawful.” 12 M.L.J. 360. See also 60 I.C. 22. An agreement which purports to deal with the rights of certain minors who are not parties to the suit is not a lawful agreement which can be recorded under R. 3. As it involves and implies injury to the property of minors it is unlawful within the meaning of S. 23 of the Contract Act; and consequently it is void. 61 C.L.J. 88. Mere offer not enough to constitute adjustment. 9 I.C. 426. An agreement between the parties to a suit to abide by the decision which may be made in another proceeding amounts to an adjustment. 8 L.W. 470=51 I.C. 540; 37 M. 408=22 M.L.J. 447. See also 1929 M. 416. A joint petition by both the parties to a suit requesting Court to adjourn the case for enabling the parties to arrive at the terms of a contemplated settlement is not by itself a compromise when nothing further was done by the parties in furtherance of their original intention. A decree based on the original petition itself as if it were a compromise is without jurisdiction. 34 C.W.N. 1068. Agreement to abide by the sums fixed by the other side may be good agreement. 25 I.C. 935=8 S.L.R. 91. to be satisfied of its existence, still the more complicated the compromise, the more desirable it is that its terms should be drawn up into writing, before they could strictly be proved. There must be in the nature of things, compromise about small matters, which may be capable of proof orally, but the Court must always look with some suspicion on cases of elaborate compromises which are sought to be proved purely by oral evidence, when one of the parties to the suit strenuously denies that he entered into any compromise at all. 181 I.C. 54=A.I. R. 1939 Rang. 149.

SUBJECT-MATTER OF THE SUIT.—Whether a particular matter is the subject-matter of or relates to a suit is primarily a question of fact depending upon the circumstances of each case. Although a matter is not strictly the subject-matter of a suit, it may relate to or have reference to the suit if it forms part of the consideration. 1937 P. 232. In a suit by a plaintiff one of whom was a minor, a compromise was arrived at, whereby the plaintiff, in consideration of her giving up her right to an account of the whole property from the defendant manager agreed to facilitate enjoyment, to take her share of the income from only some villages out of the whole property, and also that, in case no agreement could be arrived at on reference to the vakils, the parties had a right to obtain partition from the Court. Held, that the arrangement arrived at to 'facilitate management' being in consideration of the plaintiff's giving up her right to an account, was one having reference to the suit within the meaning of O. 32, R. 7 and was therefore the subject-matter of the suit within the meaning of R. 3. 1937 P. 232.

EFFECT OF COMPROMISE AND DECREE.—Intention of parties to have a formal document drawn up will not affect settled compromise. 56 I.C. 26=11 L.W. 179. A compromise is a binding agreement between the parties and none the less so binding, because followed by a decree. 21 I.C. 538=18 C. L.J. 187; 53 M.L.J. 345; 32 C.W.N. 93=1927 P.C. 204 (P.C.). A consent order is only an order of the Court carrying out the agreement between the parties. 29 I.C. 156=19 C.W.N. 565. A consent order or decree is a mere creature of agreement and no greater sanctity can be placed upon the decree than upon the agreement itself. 1930 P. 234. The provisions of this rule, whenever they are applicable, must be given effect to even in cases which are governed by the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act. 24 Bom.L.R. 88=46 B. 560. See also 57 I.C. 751. Effect of decree on rights of absent respondents. 19 I.C. 915. A decree passed under R. 3 in terms of a compromise arrived at between parties to suit becomes final and conclusive if not appealed against. 29 I.C. 156=19 C.W.N. 565; 21 I.C. 538=18 C. L.J. 187; 19 I.C. 915; 40 M. 177=30 M. L.J. 274; 31 I.C. 21. A defendant who is a party to the suit, but not a party to the compromise is bound by the decree if it is not appealed against. 24 I.C. 491, following 31 M. 474. Effect of decree on compromise, when there has been a misapprehension as to right. See 24 I.C. 491. Where a Court which passed a compromise decree orders the compromise to be made part of the decree, but in the operative part of it incorporates only so much of the compromise as related to the actual subject-matter of the suit, it cannot be said that the compromise has been embodied in the decree. Where a relief is required in such a case in respect of a matter omitted in the operative part of the decree, it would not be available by way of execution of the decree. 1939 O.W.N. 936=1940 Oudh 27. A contract of a compromise which has passed into a decree is governed by the same principles as are applicable to the construction of contracts. 12 I.C. 334=35 M. 75=21 M.L.J. 709. Where a compromise decree is made by means of which the whole amount is to be discharged by payment in certain instalments on fixed rates, Court has no power to grant any extension of time for the payment of any of such instalments. 146 I.C. 411=1933 P. 677 (2). The question whether time was of the essence of the contract embodied in consent decree would depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. 1930 P. 234. Setting aside of compromise decree by third party—Procedure. 15 L. 626=1934 L. 393.

POWERS AND DUTY OF COURT.—Under R. 1 Court has to deal with plaintiff alone, but under R. 3 Court has to deal with plaintiff and defendant and has to find out if there is any agreement between them for compromise. 37 I.C. 421. The terms of settlement must be examined with care and caution. 16 I.C. 611. If the compromise is fraudulent, Court may refuse to pass a decree thereon. 52 I.C. 105. Court must be satisfied that the agreement is lawful and it can pass a decree in accordance therewith only in so far as it relates to the suit. 25 C.W.N. 806=34 C.L.J. 96. A Court making a decree by consent is performing a judicial and not a ministerial act. (Ibid.) Also 50 I.C. 363. Where no injustice of any kind is established and it is established that a suit has been adjusted either wholly or in part by a lawful compromise, it is the duty of Court to record the agreement and pass a decree in accordance therewith. 57 I.A. 133=57 C. 1311=1930 P.C. 158=58 M.L.J. 551 (P.C.). Where a party has no further interest in the property in dispute his agreement to the compromise is not necessary; such a person has no locus standi whatever. 148 I.C. 171=1934 L. 34 (2). The Court must satisfy itself by the evidence taken that the agreement or compromise is a lawful one. 23 M. 101. See also 17 A. at 532; 24 A.L.J. 210=1926 A. 278. Beyond that, Court cannot examine the terms of the compromise. 91 I.C. 790

NOTES.

=1926 A. 278. Court has no jurisdiction, except in the case of minors, etc., to investigate the fairness or unfairness of a compromise which has been accepted by both the parties. 43 L.W. 386=1936 M. 347=70 M.L.J. 471. Ordinarily when investigating the fact and lawfulness of a compromise under R. 3 it is irrelevant to examine the strength or weakness of the suit itself. When a compromise is in dispute, the party repudiating it, on whatever ground it may be cannot reasonably ask that the entire suit be re-opened. 12 P. 359=1933 P. 306. Court is not bound to record compromise or adjustment not assented to by all the parties. 86 I.C. 361=1925 L. 280. Compromise effected between parties to suit who are majors—Court need not consider whether such compromise will affect the interests of persons who are not parties to suit and who are not sui juris. 55 C. 210=104 I.C. 219=1927 C. 870. Court has jurisdiction to pass a right as well as a wrong decree and if it decides wrongly, the wronged party can only take the course prescribed by the law for setting matters right. 51 I.C. 439. A consent decree wrongly passed owing to some legal or technical defect is not a nullity. (Ibid.) Where a compromise effected by the parties is conveyed to Court by pleaders on both sides, the parties cannot object on the ground that the pleaders had no such authority. 60 I.C. 22=12 L.W. 562. Court has power to frame an additional issue to decide whether a lawful compromise has been effected between the parties. 20 B. 304; 19 M. 419. See also 8 M. 482; 9 M. 103; 7 B. 304. Where a compromise is filed in Court but repudiated by some of the parties to it, Court must hold an enquiry under R. 3. 1934 P. 582=152 I.C. 288. After an ex parte decree had been passed, containing a direction for ascertainment of mesne profits, the parties compromised the matter and presented a petition to Court obviating the necessity for an enquiry. Court, however, did not pass a final decree in accordance with the same. Held, that the decreeholder should not be deprived of the fruits of his action by the omission of the Court, and that he had the right to execute the compromise. 15 Pat.L.T. 457=1934 P. 380.

LEGALITY OF COMPROMISE.—R. 3 does not always compel the Court to pass a decree in accordance with a compromise. 4 P.L.J. 580=53 I.C. 833. Court must see that the compromise is a lawful agreement and will look into the merits when necessary to determine its bona fides. 53 I.C. 833. The word "lawful" does not mean merely binding or enforceable. It refers to agreement which in their very terms or nature are not unlawful and may therefore include agreements which are voidable at the option of one of the parties because they have been brought about by undue influence, etc. Court is bound to pass a decree in the absence of any evidence that the compromise is unlawful. 50 A. 748=26 A.L.J. 691 1928 A. 494. See also 1932 A.L.J. 509=1932 A. 478; 1937 Pat. 39. Where the claim is beyond the jurisdiction of trial Court, it is not competent to pass a compromise decree. Its duty is to return the plaint under O. 7, R. 10. 66 I.C. 837=16 L.W. 155. The compromise may be regarded as an abandonment of the claim so far as it was beyond the jurisdiction of the Court and the decree on the compromise may be valid. (Per Coutts-Trotter, J.) 16 L.W. 155. Compromise is not unlawful merely because the parties do not get the shares to which they would be legally entitled. 55 I.C. 716. An agreement which carries a penal clause such as may be caused by S. 74 of the Contract Act is not "unlawful". 24 A.L.J. 210=1926 A. 278. Nor an agreement to drop an appeal. 18 R.D. 336. The Court in recording a consent decree is bound to consider whether the compromise is a lawful one. 35 M. 75=21 M.L.J. 709; 26 M.L.J. 315=23 I.C. 72; 16 L.W. 155=66 I.C. 837; 55 I.C. 716; 38 C.L.J. 272=1924 C. 159. No compromise can prevent the law of limitation from taking effect. 92 I.C. 732=1926 O. 311. All terms in a contract which are opposed to public policy are invalid and will not be enforced by the Courts. 26 M. at 33. The principles of compromise under Divorce Act are considered in 10 A. 559. See also 22 M. 214.

ESTOPPEL.—There is nothing in law to prevent the parties to a suit from agreeing, apart altogether from the Oaths Act, to abide by the statement of a third person. The agreement of the parties to abide by such statement and the statement given in pursuance of the agreement amount in effect to an adjustment of dispute, within the meaning of O. 23, R. 3 and each party is estopped from subsequently impugning the same and from challenging the statement of the referee. 1937 A.L.J. 1066=1937 A.W.R. 801=A.I.R. 1937 All. 701.

MATTERS OUTSIDE SUIT.—The only compromise which Court is bound to enforce is that which adjusts the suit wholly or in part, not one which goes beyond the suit. 13 C. 170. Where a compromise covers both matters relating to the suit and also others extraneous to it, the decree should either recite the whole of the agreement and then conclude with an order relative to that part that was subject of the suit or introduce the agreement in a schedule to the decree. 1941 N.L.J. 207. Under O. 23, R. 3 all terms which form the consideration for the adjustment of the matters in dispute, whether they form the subject-matter of the suit or not, become related to the suit and can be embodied in the decree. A.I.R. 1941 Rang. 316. Where a term of the compromise is plainly outside the scope of the suit, Court may refuse to incorporate it. But where it is a consideration of the compromise and so intimately connected with it, Court has the power to include it in the decree, even though the consideration may be entirely outside the scope of the suit. 132 I.C. 434=33 Bom.L.R. 463=1931 B. 295. SO FAR AS IT RELATES TO THE SUIT.—As to the meaning of these words, see 33 Bom.L.R. 1457. See also 146 I.C. 145=1933 A.L.J. 728=1933 A. 649 (F.B.); 1937 Sind 190. These words must be restricted to relief which Court could have given in the suit, and will not include reliefs which could only have been given in a suit based upon different cause of action. 18 M. 410 (414); 5 M.L.J. 145. See also 5 C.W.N. 485; 22 M. 214; 9 A. 229; 1937 Sind 190; 30 M. 478; 3 P.L.J. 43=43 I.C. 282. Where there is a compromise beyond the scope of a suit and the compromise has not been registered but the parties have acted on it, there is an equitable estoppel and the parties cannot resile from the compromise. 42 C. 801=42 I.A. 1=28 M.L.J. 548=28 I.C. 980 (P.C.). See also 1928 A. 534; 1939 All. 454. Compromise—Decree passed in terms of—Provisions in compromise impliedly incorporated—Compromise whether requires registration. 118 I.C. 395=1929 L. 527. A compromise decree constitutes an estoppel, though it relates to matters outside the suit. 42 I.C. 223=33 M.L.J. 615. Where a compromise goes beyond the subject-matter of the suit, the proper procedure for the Court is to recite the compromise in the decree but to make part of the decree only so much of the compromise as relates to the subject-matter of the suit. 65 I.C. 47. Where a compromise collateral to suit offered by one party in the course of the appeal was accepted by karpardaz of the other party, but the document of compromise was not recorded and a decree was merely drawn up and it was the only document brought into existence, Held, that the provisions of O. 23 were not complied with and that the Court should not in pursuance of R. 3 make a decree. 62 I.A. 196=14 P. 545=39 C.W.N. 1185=1935 P.C. 119 (P.C.). Where a petition includes matters not in suit, the Court should pass a decree with regard to matters in suit only and not to reject the petition entirely. 78 P.R. 1917=40 I.C. 675. See also 145 I.C. 441=14 Pat.L.T. 23=1933 P. 176. Where demolition of the wall not in suit was the consideration for the abandonment by the plaintiff of his right to have the wall in suit demolished, the compromise with regard to the wall not in suit should be deemed to relate to the suit within the meaning of R. 3. 1934 L. 623. An objection to the inclusion of a term in a compromise decree, on the ground that it goes beyond the subject-matter, ought to be taken by way of appeal and cannot be urged when execution is sought. 38 M. 959=26 M.L.J. 331=23 I.C. 581; 30 I.C. 263=2 L.W. 608; 53 I.C. 354=1919 M.W.N. 356; 1925 M. 1101=49 M.L.J. 490; 29 O.C. 276. Court should record the entire compromise filed by the parties and draw up a decree giving the parties the right to execute the decree in respect of the matters which properly fall within the scope of the rule. 3 P.L.J. 255 (F.B.); 52 I.C. 20=4 P.L.J. 667; 38 M. 959=26 M.L.J. 331. But even in cases where a part of the compromise does not, strictly speaking, relate to the suit and nevertheless the Court decides that it relates to the suit and incorporates it into the operative portion and passes a decree in terms of it, the decree is not a nullity and not one passed without jurisdiction, but would be binding upon the parties to the decree and its validity cannot be questioned in the execution department, nor can any title derived under it be attacked. 146 I.C. 145=1933 A.L.J. 728=1933 A. 649 (F.B.).

PARTIAL COMPROMISE.—Partial compromise to which some of the parties only agree is good as to them. 34 I.C. 518; 123 I.C. 693=1930 S. 217; 12 P. 359=1933 P. 306. But see 38 L.W. 280. Others can object to it on showing good grounds. 85 I.C. 678=1926 C. 193. Partial compromise is not binding on persons not parties to the compromise. 45 I.C. 33.

ORAL COMPROMISE.—The mere fact of an oral compromise having been come to cannot supersede a mortgage unless the Court accepts it and passes a decree in accordance with it. 24 I.C. 93=12 A.L.J. 672. S. 92, Evidence Act, does not prevent oral evidence of the terms of the compromise being given. 29 I.C. 860.

COUNSEL'S AUTHORITY TO COMPROMISE.—Express authority is not needed for a counsel to enter into a compromise within the scope of the suit; and where there is limitation of authority and that limitation is communicated to the other side, consent by counsel outside the limits of his authority would be of no effect. 1 P. 480=67 I.C. 96; 4 P. 766=92 I.C. 179=1926 P. 73. See also 19 A.L.J. 63=60 I.C. 912; 60 I.C. 22=12 L.W. 562; 41 C.L.J. 213=29 C.W.N. 597. Compromise by counsel out of Court without consent of party is not valid. 52 C. 386=29 C.W.N. 566. The implied authority of agents extends only so long as the litigation proceeds in the ordinary way, but they cannot consent to a decree on compromise without special authority. 36 I.C. 375=21 C.W.N. 386. Pleader confessing judgment on party's behalf—Court passing consent decree thereon—Burden of proof as to authority of pleader. 1929 O. 211. Where there is misunderstanding between a party and that party's advocate, the advocate being under the impression that the party was expressly assenting to a compromise on certain terms while the party did not appreciate that she was consenting to a compromise in the same sense, it is open to the Court to refuse to give effect to the compromise. 13 Rang. 319=156 I.C. 665=1935 Rang. 150.

ARBITRATION.—An award made in an arbitration without the intervention of the Court in a pending suit is not a compromise within the meaning of O. 23, R. 3, C. P. Code. All the rules relating to arbitration lie within the compass of the Arbitration Act. If the parties to a dispute purport to go to arbitration but ignore these rules, there can be no award of which the Courts will take notice as such. Nor can there be any adjustment of the dispute by lawful agreement by reason of a submission alone, unless the third party to whom they have recourse brings them in fact to an adjustment by lawful agreement. If, however, subsequent to the making of the award, the parties agree to accept the award and thus by a lawful agreement arrive at an adjustment of their disputes, the Court would be enabled to record it as an adjustment upon that basis alone. 1939 Rang.L.R. 280=1939 Rang. 300 (F.B.). See also 1938 Nag. 492. Where the parties to a suit for partition compromise it by agreeing to refer the matter to arbitration, there is an end of the suit and the Court cannot supersede the decree and proceed with the suit, if arbitration fails. 33 A. 743=38 I.A. 181=21 M.L.J. 1151 (P.C.). See also 25 Bom.L.R. 452=1923 B. 401; 32 Bom.L.R. 389. Where, in a suit, a reference to arbitration is made by the parties without the intervention of Court and an award is made thereon, it can be recorded as an adjustment and a decree can be passed in terms of the award. 45 B. 245=22 Bom.L.R. 1043. PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—The general rule, that evidence should be recorded before a decision is made and not after, should also be followed in cases in which the Court records compromises arrived at between the parties. 29 S.L.R. 437=1936 S. 59. The Court should first pass an order directing the compromise to be recorded and then pass a decree in accordance therewith. 24 I.C. 630=96 P.R. 1914; 33 I.C. 759=43 C. 85; 1928 R. 43. The procedure under O. 23, R. 3 consists of two steps: first the agreement or compromise has to be recorded, and secondly a decree must then be passed in accordance therewith so far as it relates to the suit. When the agreement has been recorded a decree can be passed any time. A. I. R. 1941 Rang. 316. Absence of formal order recording the compromise is not fatal to the validity of the decree passed in pursuance thereof. 111 I.C. 619; 72 C.L.J. 287 (what amounts to recording a compromise). If the compromise that is filed is a valid and lawful one, the Court is bound to pass a decree in terms thereof and cannot add a new party afterwards. 50 M.L.J. 59=92 I.C. 311=1926 M. 341. A Court to whom a petition of compromise is presented should not delay passing order for recording the compromise. Under R. 3, the Court is to pass an order directing the compromise to be recorded and this should be done at once. 15 P. 456=163 I.C. 675=1936 P. 401. The passing of the decree may, if necessary, be postponed till the hearing of the suit if there is a question as to how the interests of other parties to the suit, who have not entered into the compromise, would be affected by it, but this is no reason to defer the actual recording of the agreement of compromise. 15 P. 456.

RECORD OF COMPROMISE.—What is. 29 I.C. 860. Order recording compromise—If consent decree—Appeal—If barred by S. 96 (3). 1936 S. 59. Where the parties enter into a compromise and the suit is decreed in the terms of the compromise, the omission to record the compromise is not fatal to the validity of the decree. The omission to record the compromise does not affect the merits of the case or the jurisdiction of the Court, and the defect, therefore, is cured by S. 99. 1935 A.L.J. 962=1935 A. 738. See also 14 P. 356. There is no specific provision in the Civil Procedure Code or the High Court rules which prevents a defendant from taking out a notice of motion to record a compromise propounded by him. Such a procedure is permissible to the defendant. R. 150 of the Bombay High Court Rules (O.S.) enabling

An appeal lies from the order recording the compromise at the instance of a party who denies the truth of the compromise. 1925 M. 606=48 M.L.J. 249. But see 12 P. 359=1933 P. 306; 57 B. 206=144 I.C. 448=35 Bom.L.R. 127=1933 B. 205. Order recording a compromise not open to second appeal. 119 I.C. 422=1929 L. 472; 60 C.L.J. 173. A decree dismissing the suit on the ground that a plea in bar of the suit on the basis of an alleged compromise is established cannot properly be said to be one made under R. 3. 46 I.C. 775. See also 62 I.C. 608. Order rejecting application for recording compromise is appealable. 1928 L. 39=104 I.C. 561; 1929 N. 275=119 I.C. 673. When the parties to the suit request the Court to adopt a certain procedure and to decree the suit in case a certain event happened, and make an endorsement to that effect on the plaint, they cannot afterwards go behind it or appeal against the decree passed in pursuance of that agreement. 1936 M. 856=71 M.L.J. 281. Quaere.—Whether the agreement and endorsement of the plaint would amount to an adjustment of the suit under R. 3. (Ibid.) Where the Court after deciding the issues as to the validity of the award made by a private arbitrator remarks that "there is no adjustment of claim in suit out of Court as alleged", it amounts to an order refusing to record an adjustment under R. 3, and the order is appealable under O. 43, R. 1 (m). 31 N.L.R. (Supp.) 72=160 I.C. 202=1936 N. 8.

REVISION.—An award in an arbitration whether with or without the permission of Court cannot be recorded as an adjustment by compromise under O. 23, R. 3, and therefore an order superseding an award is not appealable. Nor it is revisable under S. 115, O. P. Code, because there is no 'case' decided. 1941 N.L.J. 333.

MISCELLANEOUS.—As to the power of a Court to grant relief against a forfeiture clause inserted in a compromise decree, see 31 B. 15 (F.B.). Even when only a money decree was prayed in the plaint there is nothing in the rule to prevent the Court from making the sum decreed a charge on immovable property. 16 M.L.J. 354=30 M. 478. See also 17 M.L.J. 255; 116 I.C. 651. The decree is conclusive only so far as it relates to so much of the subject-matter of the suit as is dealt with by the compromise. 18 M. 410 (414); 30 M. 421. See 31 B. 15 (F.B.); 1928 R. 43. A compromise can be set aside in a regular suit on the ground of fraud. 5 C. 27. Even when the party may have been under a mistaken belief and may have failed to exercise due care and caution. 17 M.L.J. 82. Or by review of judgment. 10 C. 612. See also 15 B. 594. A suit will also lie to set aside a compromise decree upon grounds other than that of fraud, i.e., on the ground that the pleader engaged by the guardian of a minor compromised the suit against the express wishes of the guardian. 34 C. 83. Also on the ground that the Court sanctioned the compromise under a misapprehension of material facts. 6 C. 687. The rule cannot be extended by analogy to proceedings held under S. 83, T. P. Act. 13 M. 316. A judgment by consent operates as a waiver of any defect or irregularities provided it does not go to the jurisdiction. 35 M. 75=21 M.L.J. 709. This rule does not override the provisions of O. 34, Rr. 3 and 4—Payment out of Court between preliminary and final decrees—Legality. 30 L.W. 551. See also 136 I.C. 732=33 P.L.R. 138. A compromise though not recorded as required by R. 3 can still be looked upon as an agreement between the parties and a party taking advantage of such an agreement and getting the suit of another party thrown out is estopped from pleading in a subsequent suit that he was not bound by that agreement. 152 I.C. 263=1934 L. 218. A compromise cannot be recorded under this rule on the basis of a draft compromise petition filed in Court, when it is found that the suit was not really completely adjusted. 61 C. 910=59 C.L.J. 421=1934 C. 846. On passing an order recording a compromise under R. 3, Court is to pass a decree not for the specific performance of the original contract but for the specific performance of the new contract to have the suit disposed of in a particular manner. But the analogy should not be carried far. There is one difference: while the Specific Relief Act gives the Court discretion to refuse specific performance of a contract, no such exception has been made in R. 3. The specific performance of an agreement to end the suit by a compromise decree is different from specific performance of agreed acts to be performed after such decree, which the Court may or may not be in a position to supervise or enforce. If after a compromise decree is passed, the consenting party disobeys the decree, the decree-holder has his remedy under O. 21, R. 32 and where the contract is not specifically Payment into Court.

Deposit by defendant of amount in satisfaction of claim.

1. The defendant in any suit to recover a debt or damages may, at any stage of the suit, deposit in Court such sum of money as he considers a satisfaction in full of the claim.

2. Notice of the deposit shall be given through the Court by the defendant to the plaintiff, and the amount of the deposit shall (unless the Court otherwise directs) be paid to the plaintiff on his application.

3. No interest shall be allowed to the plaintiff on any sum deposited by the defendant from the date of the receipt of such notice, whether the sum deposited is in full of the claim or falls short thereof.

On the plaint being filed, A pays the money into Court. B accepts it in full satisfaction of his claim, but the Court should not allow him any costs, the litigation being presumably groundless on his part.

Afterwards A pays the money into Court. B accepts it in full satisfaction of his claim. The Court should also give B his costs of suit, A's conduct having shown that the litigation was necessary.

On the plaint being filed A pays Rs. 100 into Court and disputes only his liability to pay the remaining Rs. 50. B accepts the Rs. 100 in full satisfaction of his claim. The Court should order him to pay A's costs.

ORDER XXV.

Security for Costs.

1. (1) Where, at any stage of a suit, it appears to the Court that a sole plaintiff is, or (when there are more plaintiffs than one) that all the plaintiffs are residing out of British India, and that such plaintiff does not, or that no one of such plaintiffs does, possess any sufficient immovable property within British suit of the amount due must be followed by payment into Court in order to stop the running of interest. 55 M. 458=62 M.L.J. 266. In the case of mortgages, the rule is different and a tender alone has the effect, under S. 84, T. P. Act, of stopping interest from the date of tender. 55 M. 458. It is doubtful whether this rule applies to cases where the tender is made direct to the creditor. 3 C. 468. A deposit by the defendant in a suit for arrears of maintenance, charged upon certain property, of the decretal amount after the passing of the preliminary decree, is a deposit during the pendency of the suit under R. 3, and interest therefore ceases to run from the date on which the deposit is made. 10 Luck. 350=11 O.W.N. 1550=1935 O. 93. Where the defendant deposits the amount in Court but stipulates such conditions as will make it impossible for plaintiff to get payment and is thus himself responsible for non-payment to plaintiff, he cannot escape payment of interest from date of such deposit. And R. 3 has no application to such a case. 1936 L. 76.

O. 24, R. 4.—In cases not being suits to recover a debt or damages, where money is paid into Court, the principle underlying this rule ought to regulate the discretion of Court in directing the payment of costs. 21 B. 502.

"DEBT OF DAMAGES".—What are. 21 B. 502.

O. 25, R. 1: SCOPE OF RULE.—The rule applies to cases where the plaintiff brought a suit for partition of property in which he was entitled to a share, the extent of the share alone being in dispute. 10 Ben.L.R. at 25. The power given under this rule is discretionary. 21 C. at 836. See also 17 C. 610. The discretion is unfettered and unqualified. 63 C. 897=164 I.C. 560=40 C.W.N. 511. The power given to the Court under O. 25, R. 1 is discretionary, and in deciding whether to exercise that power, the Court must have regard to the circumstances of each case, and unless it be shown that an order for security is necessary for the protection of the defendant, it ought not to order security to be taken from the plaintiff. I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 688=42 C.W.N. 270. If a party to a suit or appeal desires to apply for security for costs, he must do so promptly. Otherwise the order

India other than the property in suit, the Court may, either of its own motion or on the application of any defendant, order the plaintiff or plaintiffs, within a time fixed by it, to give security for the payment of all costs incurred and likely to be incurred by any defendant.

(2) Whoever leaves British India under such circumstances as to afford reasonable probability that he will not be forthcoming whenever he may be called upon to pay costs shall be deemed to be residing out of British India within the meaning of sub-rule (1).

(3) On the application of any defendant in a suit for the payment of money, in which the plaintiff is a woman, the Court may at any stage of the suit make a like order if it is satisfied that such plaintiff does not possess any sufficient immovable property within British India.

[MADRAS.] The following shall be inserted as sub-rule (4) :—

"(4) In all cases in which an element of champerty or maintenance is proved, the Court may, on the application of the defendant, demand security for the estimated amount of the defendant's costs, or such proportion thereof, as from time to time during the progress of the suit, the Court may think just."

[NAGPUR.] R. 1 (1).—In r. 1 (1) insert the words "or that any plaintiff is being financed by a person not a party to the suit" between the words "other than the property in suit" and "the Court may."

[OUDH.] O. 25, r. 1, sub-rule (4).—Add the following as sub-clauses (4) and (5) :—

(4) Where the plaintiff has, for the purpose of being financed in the suit, transferred or agreed to transfer any share or interest in the property in suit to a person who is not already a party to the suit, the Court may order such person to be made a plaintiff to the suit if he consents, and may either made on such an application may have the effect of stifling the suit or appeal and should not be passed. 1930 C. 520. Poverty or insolvency of plaintiff is not by itself ground for ordering security for costs. 26 S.L.R. 21 = 140 I.C. 233 = 1932 S. 33. See also I.L.R. (1938) Bom. 743 = (1938) Bom. 510 = 40 Bom. L.R. 1025 (Power to order security for costs in revision application). The rule should not be so applied as to drive away all poor plaintiffs. The Court should see whether at first sight the suit appears bona fide and whether the defence is such as is likely to succeed. 6 Bom.L.R. 1072. Liability of person standing surety for security for costs. See 92 I.C. 546 = 1926 A. 657. Security for costs from plaintiff—"Residing out of British India"—Evidence. 1930 B. 220 = 32 Bom.L.R. 411. R. 1 (3) cannot apply to a suit where there are more plaintiffs than one, and only one of them is a woman. A suit in which there is also a male plaintiff cannot properly be described as "a suit in which the plaintiff is a woman", within the meaning of the rule. 63 C. 809. As regards a plaintiff who is a woman, the legislature has specifically laid that security may be taken from her in certain circumstances in a suit for payment of money. Inclusio unius exclusio alterius, and therefore security cannot be taken from a female plaintiff in a suit for property. There is no discretion left in the Court for taking security in any case or in any set of circumstances other than those specifically provided for. 1941 A.L.J. 249 = 1941 O.W.N. 628.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—A Court has power to demand security for costs where it finds that the plaintiff is not the real litigant but a puppet in the hands of others. 32 I.C. 786 = 18 C.W.N. 119; 20 I.C. 703 = 19 C.L.J. 59; 2 Bur.L.J. 78 = 1923 R. 244. If an insolvent sues as nominal plaintiff for the benefit of somebody else, which somebody is a female minor who is also a party to the suit, he must give security. 27 B. 100. Where the plaintiff has got a substantial interest in the suit, the order for security should not be made nor should it be made merely because the plaintiff is a poor man and cannot pay the costs if he loses. 18 C.W.N. 119 = 19 C.L.J. 59; 75 I.C. 309 = 1923 R. 244; 36 I.C. 320; 10 Bur.L.T. 105; 13 Bom. L.R. 955 = 36 B. 415. Save in exceptional cases security for costs ought not to be required from an infant female plaintiff, nor from her next friend. 23 B. 100. Security for costs of appeal, when to be demanded. 32 I.C. 786; 46 C. 156 = 22 C.W.N. 1018. See also 41 L.W. 135. Security for the defendant's costs cannot be ordered if there are grounds tending to prove that the defence is true. 18 I.C. 217. No order should be made before the written statement is filed. 18 I.C. 217. Suit by undischarged bankrupt for after-acquired property if security for costs can be demanded. 46 C. 126 = 22 C.W.N. 1018. As to how security given is to be realised, see S. 145; also 16 C. 323.

SUIT FOR PAYMENT OF MONEY.—A suit for dissolution of partnership on account and for the recovery of the stridhan property belonging to a female plaintiff is not a suit for payment of money within R. 1 (3). 68 I.C. 607 = 1923 C. 316 (2). So also a suit for administration of an estate consisting largely of its own motion or on the application of any defendant order such person within a time to be fixed by the Court to give security for the payment of all costs likely to be incurred by any defendant. In case of his default, the Court may dismiss the suit so far as his right to, or interest in, the property in suit is concerned or may declare that he shall be debarred from claiming any right to, or interest in, the property in suit.

(5) If such person declines to be made a plaintiff, the Court may implead him as a defendant and may order him, within a time to be fixed by the Court to give security for the payment of all costs likely to be incurred by any other defendant. In case of his default, the Court may declare that he shall be debarred from claiming any right to, or interest in, the property in suit."

[RANGOON.] The following shall be substituted for O. 25 :—

"Costs and security for costs in special cases.

(1) Where, at any stage of a suit, it appears to the Court that a sole plaintiff is, or (when there are more plaintiffs than one) that all the plaintiffs are residing out of British India, and that such plaintiff does not, or that no one of such plaintiff does, possess any sufficient immovable property within British India other than the property in suit, the Court may, either of its own motion or on the application of any defendant, order the plaintiff or plaintiffs, within a time fixed by it, to give security for the payment of all costs incurred and likely to be incurred by any defendant.

(2) Whoever leaves British India under such circumstances as to afford reasonable probability that he will not be forthcoming whenever he may be called upon to pay costs shall be deemed to be residing out of British India within the meaning of sub-rule (1).

(3) On the application of any defendant in a suit for the payment of money, in which the plaintiff is a woman, the Court may at any stage of the suit make a like order if it is satisfied that such plaintiff does not possess any sufficient immovable property within British India."

2. (1) In the event of such security not being furnished within the time fixed, the Court shall make an order dismissing the suit unless the plaintiff or plaintiffs are permitted to withdraw therefrom.

Effect of failure to furnish security.

(2) Where a suit is dismissed under this rule, the plaintiff may apply for an order to set the dismissal aside, and, if it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from furnishing the security within the time allowed, the Court shall set aside the dismissal upon such terms as to security, costs or otherwise as it thinks fit, and shall appoint a day for proceeding with the suit.

(3) The dismissal shall not be set aside unless notice of such application has been served on the defendant.

LOC. AMS.—[BOMBAY.] O. 25 r. 2 (4).—Add the following sub-rule :—

"The provisions of S. 5 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1908, shall apply to applications under this rule."

PAUPER PLAINTIFF.—A woman allowed to bring a pauper suit cannot be required to furnish security for costs, as an order of security would mean a refusal of permission to sue as a pauper. 36 I.C. 320=10 Bur.L. See also 4 B. 244; 3 M. 66 and 7 A. 542. There is no absolute rule that a pauper plaintiff cannot be asked to furnish security under R. 1 (3). Such order would not be improper where the allegation in the petition praying for security is that the plaintiff is a mere puppet in the hands of her husband and that as the husband does not wish to pay the Government stamp duty nor to be mulcted with costs in case he fails, he had put forward the plaintiff to sue in forma pauperis and the circumstances are sufficient to show that she is bringing the suit for her husband and not bona fide on her own behalf. 1935 M. 230=155 I.C. 317=69 M.L.J. 38.

"RESIDING"—The residence intended by this rule is residence under such circumstances as will afford a reasonable probability that the plaintiff will be forthcoming when the suit is decided. 3 B. 227. See 14 B. 541. Temporary residence in British India for purposes of suit is not residence within the rule. 46 B. 589=64 I.C. 703.

APPEAL.—An order passed on the Original Side of High Court requiring plaintiff to give security for costs is a judgment within the meaning of S. 15 of the Letters Patent, and is appealable. 26 M. 502.

O. 25, R. 2.—Next friend of minor plaintiff unable to give security for costs—Suit should not be stopped. 13 Bom.L.R. 480=35 B. 329. [NAGPUR.] New R. 3. After r. 2, add the following new rule :—

"3. (1) Where any plaintiff has, for the purpose of being financed in the suit, transferred or agreed to transfer any share or interest in the property in suit to a person who is not already a party to the suit, the Court may order such person to be made a plaintiff to the suit, if he consents, and may either of its own motion or on the application of any defendant order such person, within a time to be fixed by it, to give security, for the payment of all costs incurred and likely to be incurred by any defendant. In the event of such security not being furnished within the time fixed, the Court may make an order dismissing the suit so far as his right to, or interest in, the property in suit is concerned or declaring that he shall be debarred from claiming any right to, or interest in, the property in suit.

(2) If such person declines to be made a plaintiff the Court may implead him as a defendant and may order him, within a time to be fixed by it, to give security for the payment of all costs incurred and likely to be incurred by any other defendant. In the event of such security not being furnished within the time fixed, the Court may make an order declaring that he shall be debarred from claiming any right to, or interest in, the property in suit.

(3) Any plaintiff or defendant against whom an order is made under this rule may apply to have it set aside and the provisions of sub-rules (2) and (3) of r. 2 shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to such application."

(Notifications Nos. 2563 and 2564 dated the 21st March, 1929)

[RANGOON.] Substitute for r. 2 and add the new rule 3.

R. 2. Where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the plaintiff is deriving assistance from, or is being maintained by a person in consideration of a promise to give to such person a share in the subject-matter or proceeds of the suit, or in consideration of having transferred his interest in the subject-matter of the suit, the Court may, either of its own motion or on the application of any defendant—

(a) award costs on a special scale to be decided by the Court, and approximating to the actual costs reasonably incurred by the defendant;

(b) at any stage of the suit, order the plaintiff within a time fixed by it, to give security for the payment of the estimated amount of such costs or such proportion thereof as the Court may think just.

R. 3. (1) In the event of security demanded under r. 1 or r. 2 not being furnished within the time fixed, the Court shall make an order dismissing the suit unless the plaintiff is permitted to withdraw therefrom.

(2) Where a suit is dismissed under this Rule, the plaintiff may apply for an order to set the dismissal aside, and, if it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from furnishing the security within the time allowed, the Court shall set aside the order of dismissal upon such terms as to security, costs or otherwise as it thinks fit, and shall appoint a day for proceeding with the suit.

(3) The order of dismissal shall not be set aside unless notice of such application has been served on the defendant.

ORDER XXVI.

COMMISSIONS.

Commissions to examine witnesses.

1. Any Court may in any suit issue a commission for the examination on interrogatories or otherwise of any person resident within the local limits of its jurisdiction who is exempted under this Code from attending the Court or who is from sickness or infirmity unable to attend it.

NOTES.

O. 26, R. 1: SCOPE OF RULE.—O. 26 amplifies and explains S. 75. 3 L. 209=1922 L. 47. Examination of witnesses on commission is in the discretion of the Court. 46 M. 574=44 M.L.J. 202. See also 32 C.W. N. 128. A Court acts judicially and not administratively when it appoints a Commissioner and fixes his remuneration under O. 26. If it has acted according to rules laid down, and the High Court is unable to interfere under S. 115, C. P. Code, the High Court could not interfere at all. 1940 N.L.J. 93. Court should not allow witness to be examined on commission without adequate reason, and the grounds on which a commission can issue are ordinarily those specified in R. 1, O. 26. 42 B. 136=43 I. C. 729. Especially so when he is a material witness or a plaintiff or defendant. 39 C. W.N. 595. As to the obligation of a Court to issue a commission, see 8 Beng.L.R. App. at 16. A commission to examine witnesses may issue when a case is referred to arbitration. 7 Bom.L.R. 560. See also 8 Beng.L.R. App. at 16; 18 W.R. 230; 15 C. 775. There is nothing in O. 26 which prevents a Court from accepting evidence on a debatable point between the parties where a Commissioner has been appointed to examine and report on the accounts. 53 A. 54=1932 A. 128. There is nothing in law to authorize a commissioner to try the issue referred to him with the aid of assessors. 1932 A.L.J. 117=1932 A. 264.

MEANING OF TERMS.—The word "may" means "is given authority to". 46 M. 574=44 M.L.J. 202.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—In the case of a witness not under the control of the party who resides beyond the limits fixed, commission should issue as a matter of right, unless the Court is satisfied that the party is merely abusing the Court's power. 46 M. 575=44 M.L.J. 202=1923 M. 321. Court ought to issue commissions for the examination of witness at the instance of a party if all the conditions requisite therefor are fulfilled, irrespective of whether that party will be ultimately benefited thereby. 12 I. C. 74=21 M.L.J. 889; 46 M. 574=44 M.L.J. 202. If a pardanashin lady can be examined in Court in her palki, no commission need be issued. 18 W.R. 230. See also 15 C. 775. But see contra 86 I.C. 513=1925 M. 905. A pardanashin lady should not be compelled either to appear in Court personally or attend Court even although she may have failed to observe the restraints of the parda system on previous occasions. She should, therefore, be examined on commission. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 155. Court has no power to insist that a pardanashin lady must attend and give evidence in Court. It is the right of a pardanashin lady to refuse to attend the Court and to say that if she is to be examined, her statement should be taken on commission. She cannot be compelled to attend the Court either as a party or as a witness and a Court acts wrongly in insisting on the personal attendance of a pardanashin lady in Court. The Court has no such power under O. 5, R. 3 or O. 10, R. 4. (56 C. 865, Diss.) 55 A. 666=1933 A.L.J. 1384=1933 A. 551. Where the allegation that a pardanashin lady examined on commission was being tutored by somebody behind the parda is established, the Court has the discretion to exclude the evidence. But there is no justification for Judge to insist on the attendance of the pardanashin lady in Court. (Ibid.) A pardanashin woman cannot claim to be examined on commission as a witness at a place of her own choice. 48 C. 448. Where however on an application filed by the defendant pardanashin lady who was living beyond the jurisdiction of the Court, for her examination on commission at K (her place of residence), as she was ill, the Court insisting on her examination on commission at R (place of suit), rejected her application. Held, that the order was bad and could be set aside on revision. 166 I.C. 729=1937 P. 21. The mere fact that a woman lost her husband a few months ago does not justify the issue of a commission. 14 B.

584. Issue of commission to Hindu lady recently widowed—Witnesses being old as a ground for examination on commission—Principles applicable—Erroneous order—Interference in revision. See 1927 M.W.N. 218=1927 M. 524. In the case of an old man of feeble health the Court can order an examination on commission at his own house. 85 I.C. 619=1925 C. 1118. A commission should issue to examine the head of a Mutt who is an ascetic; 28 M. 28; as to a religious preceptor, see 42 B. 136. A commission will not issue for the examination of an infant of tender years. 23 B. 626. A commission will not be issued for the examination of a plaintiff on his application except under very strong circumstances. 1 Ind. Jur. N. S. 357; 57 I.C. 955=13 Bur. L.T. 33. But the case is different when the application is made by a defendant. 57 I.C. 955. See also 1935 P. 220 (as to principles governing the issue of commission for examination of plaintiff and defendant). In the case of a defendant outside jurisdiction the Court will not regard the case with the same strictness as the case of the plaintiff who has instituted his suit in a forum of his choice though he resides beyond the jurisdiction of such Court. [Ross v. Woodford, (1894) 1 Ch. 38 and New v. Burns, 64 L.J.Q.B. 104, Ref.]; 35 C.L.J. 78=68 I.C. 9=1922 C. 42; 73 I.C. 923=1924 L. 475. See also 46 M.L.J. 131. Where the witness is the servant of the party applying, it is not reasonable to issue a commission. 20 W.R. 253. Where an application is filed to examine on commission a witness which is a company, the Court can direct the party to name the individual, as distinguished from a company, whose evidence is desired to be taken. The Court can also insist on the documents to be produced being specified. But such application cannot be refused on ground of lapse of time. 1934 A. 37 (2)=154 I.C. 391.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—Mere inconvenience or great distance from the Court to the plaintiff's place of residence is not a sufficient ground. 57 I.C. 955=13 Bur. L.T. 33. Remand order for examining expert in handwriting—Discretion to issue commission. 120 I.C. 335=1930 N. 27. Where commission is issued to examine a specific witness and a witness not named is examined, Court would ignore such evidence. 59 I.C. 539=47 C. 583. When handwriting expert is to be examined on commission by written interrogatories, the Court acts without jurisdiction if it orders the defendants to file cross-interrogatories. The defendant can insist on an opportunity to cross-examine the witness orally. 150 I.C. 788=1934 P. 60. There is nothing prohibiting the granting of copies of cross-interrogatories to the opposite party before a commission is issued for the examination of a witness and it is reasonable that each side should know the questions the other desires to put. 39 I.C. 944=10 S.L.R. 210. Com-

2. An order for the issue of a commission for the examination of a witness may be made by the Court either of its own motion or on the application, supported by affidavit or otherwise, of any party to the suit or of the witness to be examined.

3. A commission for the examination of a person who resides within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court issuing the same may be issued to any person whom the Court thinks fit to execute it.

Persons for whose examination commission may issue. 4. (1) Any Court may in any suit issue a commission for the examination of—missioner's report—Objection to, should be heard by the Court. 14 L.W. 620=68 I. C. 469. Order as to issue of commission—Power of succeeding Judge to modify. A Judge has the power to alter an order of his predecessor with regard to the issue of a commission. Such an order is not a final one and it relates more to the routine of the case than to the merits of the case. 1930 R. 315. Objections to Commissioner's report—If can be taken for first time in appeal. 114 I.C. 232=1929 M. 492.

DELAY.—Long unexplained delay would be a ground to disallow an application for examining a witness on commission. 35 C.W. N. 705. As a general rule, the plaintiff is within his rights if he refrains from giving his evidence, assuming it is otherwise possible for him to do so, before the settlement of issues and the production of all the documentary evidence. An order refusing to issue a commission for the examination of the plaintiffs on the ground of lapse of one year since the filing of the suit is not therefore just and reasonable. 1934 A. 37 (2)=154 I.C. 391. See also 67 M.L.J. 878.

WITNESS IN NATIVE STATE.—There is no law by which witnesses in a Native State which have made arrangements for mutual service of processes with British India can be compelled to obey the processes, i.e., punished if they fail to do so. If the witnesses so summoned fail to appear the only way to take their evidence is by commission. The rule as to 200 miles is not applicable in such a case. 1933 M. 366=63 M.L.J. 334. See also 1924 Lah. 475; 1938 Mad. 646= (1938) 1 M.L.J. 769; 21 Pat. L. T. 197.

APPEAL.—An order refusing to issue a commission to examine a witness whose personal attendance cannot be enforced is a judgment within the meaning of S. 15 of the Letters Patent, and is appealable. 30 C. 143. But see contra 35 M. 1; 3 R. 293=1925 R. 290; 152 I.C. 264=36 Bom.L.R. 272=1934 B. 168.

REVISION.—An order refusing a commission cannot be the subject of revision. 9 M. 256; 1927 S. 267. Interlocutory order appointing Commissioner is not open to revision. 74 I.C. 812. Court has jurisdiction to dispose of the application for examination of witnesses on commission. An order rejecting the application cannot be said to be without jurisdiction nor can the Judge be considered to have exercised it illegally or with material irregularity only because he took an erroneous view on a question arising in the case. An interlocutory order like the one in question cannot be said to amount to a "decision" of the case within the meaning of S. 115. 1934 A. 37 (2)=154 I.C. 391.

O. 26, R. 2.—Rule 2 does not say that the application for commission must be supported by the affidavit of the party or of the witness, but only says that the application of a party or of a witness is to be supported by affidavit or otherwise. 103 I.C. 141=1927 R. 175. Court can issue a commission to a person directing him to hear a woman singer and her musical talents. 139 I.C. 804=1932 A.L.J. 117=1932 A. 264.

O. 26, R. 3.—Where a defendant who has made a counter-claim applies to be examined on commission the mere advantage of observing the defendant's demeanour in the box is not a sufficient reason for refusing a commission. Failure to distinguish between applications of the plaintiff and of the defendant in such matter is an irregular exercise of jurisdiction in which High Court can interfere in revision. 57 M. 705=1934 M. 399=67 M.L.J. 95.

O. 26, R. 4: SCOPE OF RULE.—This rule is exhaustive and provides for all cases in which the legislature intends that a commission should issue. 28 M. 28. The issue of a commission to examine a witness is matter of judicial discretion and will not be granted unless the application is made bona fide. 19 I.C. 643; 103 I.C. 141=1927 R. 175. The power of Court to issue commission is not more restricted under R. 4 than under R. 1. 114 I.C. 843=1929 M. 192. Examination of a witness on commission as provided under R. 4, stands on a slightly different footing from the issuing of summons to a witness under O. 16, R. 1. In the former case the matter is in the discretion of the Court, whereas in the latter case summonses are to be issued as a matter of course though the Court may not permit an adjournment of the case if the application is made too late. 51 A. 341=113 I.C. 266=1929 A. 449. In cases under this rule a distinction has been observed between an application by a plaintiff asking for commission to examine himself and an application

- (a) any person resident beyond the local limits of its jurisdiction ;
 (b) any person who is about to leave such limits before the date on which he is required to be examined in Court ; and
 (c) ¹[any person in the service of the Crown] who cannot in the opinion of the Court, attend without detriment to the public service.

(2) Such commission may be issued to any Court, not being a High Court, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such person resides, or to any pleader or other person whom the Court issuing the commission may appoint.

(3) The Court on issuing any commission under this rule shall direct whether the commission shall be returned to itself or to any subordinate Court.

5. Where any Court to which application is made for the issue of a commission for the examination of a person residing at any place by a defendant asking for a commission to examine himself. 35 C.L.J. 78=1922 C. 42. See also 21 Pat.L.T. 197; 3 P. 863=84 I.C. 993=1925 P. 125. Where the defendant is his own sole witness and applied for a commission to have himself examined as he was living more than 200 miles away in a Native State, the application should be allowed. 73 I.C. 923=1924 L. 475; 16 I.C. 750. See also 21 Pat.L.T. 197. An application for the issue of a commission to examine the applicant's witnesses residing in Bangalore in the Native State of Mysore falls within the ambit of R. 5 of O. 26. O. 26, R. 4 has no application to such a case. If the Court thinks that the evidence of those witnesses is necessary, it has no further discretion in the matter, it must order the commission to issue as a matter of course. If the Court in such a case refuses to issue a commission, the High Court would, under S. 115, interfere with the order in revision. 47 L.W. 656=A.I.R. 1938 Mad. 646=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 769. "It is a very unusual thing to grant a second commission and it ought never to be allowed except upon substantial grounds". 7 Times Rep. 653. See also 1939 Pat. 270. A de bene esse examination of a witness about to leave the jurisdiction of the Court must be taken by the Court unless the parties consent to the evidence being taken on commission. 5 B. L.R. 252. A commissioner for the examination of witness is entitled to note his observation as to the demeanour of the witnesses examined by him. 48 I.C. 561=28 C.L.J. 306. Report of a commissioner appointed by an Assistant Collector in a suit for profits under S. 164 of the Agra Tenancy Act cannot be admitted in evidence. 39 A. 694=42 I.C. 720. Where what was required was a decision on the question as to whether what was asserted by one of the parties, namely, that certain structures standing on the land were recent and not old structures, was a true assertion or not and the Court issued a commission for local investigation, held, that the appropriate procedure was under O. 39, R. 7 and not under R. 4 or 9 of O. 26. 37 C.W.N. 143=144 I.C. 870=1933 C. 475. A Court of appeal should exercise great caution when invited to interfere with an order of trial Court made with jurisdiction in the exercise of its discretion as to granting a commission. 35 C.L.J. 78=1922 C. 42. The provisions of O. 26, R. 4, are not applicable to execution proceedings and have not been made so by S. 141. O. 26, R. 4 empowers a Court to issue a commission only in any suit. An application in execution proceedings by the transferee of a decree to be brought on record as the transferee-decree-holder is neither a proceeding in a suit nor an original proceeding within the meaning of S. 141. 49 L.W. 549=A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 578=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 724.

APPEAL.—A party asking for the issue of a commission to examine witnesses is not entitled as of right to such an order and an order refusing the issue of a commission to examine witnesses is not a "judgment" within Cl. 15 of the Letters Patent, and no appeal lies from such an order. [35 M. 1 (F.B.); 1920 C. 894; 3 R. 293; 3 R. 605, Foll.; 2 I.C. 157, Expl.] 152 I.C. 264=36 Bom.L.R. 272=1934 B. 168.

O. 26, R. 5.—Ordinarily a defendant residing abroad should be permitted to be examined on commission. The mere fact that he was within the jurisdiction of the Court about a month before the presentation of the application to examine him on commission, is not a sufficient reason for a departure from the ordinary rule. A.I.R. 1937 Mad. 24. The costs of a commission to England should be taxed on the same scale and principle as would be adopted in England. 15 B. 209. Proper procedure for examination of witnesses in England would appear to be the issue of a commission in accordance with the provisions of Statute 22 Vict., Ch. 20, as laid down in Court to examine witness pursuant to commission.

6. Every Court receiving a commission for the examination of any person shall examine him or cause him to be examined pursuant thereto.

7. Where a commission has been duly executed, it shall be returned, together with the evidence taken under it, to the Court from which it was issued, unless the order for issuing the commission has otherwise directed, in which case the commission shall be returned in terms of such order; and the commission and the return thereto and the evidence taken under it shall (subject to the provisions of the next following rule) form part of the record of the suit.

When depositions may be read in evidence.

8. Evidence taken under a commission shall not be read as evidence in the suit without the consent of the party against whom the same is offered, unless—

(a) the person who gave the evidence is beyond the jurisdiction of the Court, or dead or unable from sickness or infirmity to attend to be personally examined, or exempted from personal appearance in Court, or is ¹[a person in the service of the Crown] who cannot, in the opinion of the Court, attend without detriment to the public service, or

(b) the Court in its discretion dispenses with the proof of any of the circumstances mentioned in clause (a), and authorizes the evidence of any person being read as evidence in the suit, notwithstanding proof that the cause for taking such evidence by commission has ceased at the time of reading the same.

NOTES.

Para. 1, Part E, Ch. 10 of the Rules and Orders of the Lahore High Court, Vol. I, 1930. Of course, the issue of a commission for examination of a witness in a distant country is bound to cause delay and a Court will be fully justified in satisfying itself that the evidence is really relevant and necessary for the purposes of the case before issuing process. But a party cannot obviously be deprived of the opportunity of producing his evidence merely on the ground that it may involve some delay. Such a procedure would be nothing short of denial of justice. 39 P.L.R. 345=1937 L. 73. See also 1924 Lah. 475; 1938 Mad. 646= (1938) 1 M.L.J. 769.

O. 26, R. 6.—A party who has not joined in a commission is entitled to cross-examine the witnesses who are examined under it. 14 W.R.O.C. 17.

O. 26, R. 8.—The evidence taken on commission does not ipso facto become evidence in a case. It has to be offered by the party who has examined the witness on commission and it has to be accepted by the Court after hearing the opposite party and unless it is tendered by the party and accepted by the Court it is not to be considered as evidence in the case. 37 C.W.N. 1045. Where the witness who is examined on commission, is beyond the jurisdiction of the Court, the consent of the party is not necessary to make it admissible. Even if a party objects, it is of no use. 1938 N.L.J. 392=A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 530. In the case of consent of the parties, it would not be necessary that the conditions and limitations prescribed in R. 1 of O. 26 should exist. It will appear from R. 8 of O. 26, that with the consent of the parties, the evidence of a person in cases where the conditions and limitations laid down in R. 1 or Cls. (a) and (b) of R. 8, do not exist may be admissible in evidence. I.L.R. 1938 All. 370=1938 A.L.J. 390=A.I.R. 1938 All. 266. When a defendant examines a witness on commission and the commission is returned to the Court, the plaintiff in opening his case is entitled to treat the evidence as part of the record, without treating it as his own evidence. 26 C. 591. That the evidence was given in the absence of the other side is not enough to make the deposition of a witness taken on commission inadmissible. 10 W.R. 236. A Court may refuse to hear read in evidence the deposition of a defendant taken on commission, where there is no evidence to prove that the defendant was unable to attend personally at the time of the trial. 22 W.R. 331. A party, who wishes to rely on evidence taken on commission, must either obtain the consent of the party against whom he offers it, to its being read as evidence in the suit, or have it read as evidence in the suit after complying with one of the conditions laid down in R. 8 (a) or persuade the Court in its discretion to dispense with the proof of any of the circumstances mentioned in R. 8 (a) and to authorize the evidence being read as evidence in the suit, notwithstanding the want of proof of the existence of such circumstances. Each of the alternatives involves a request to have the evidence read

Commissions for local investigations.

9. In any suit in which the Court deems a local investigation to be requisite or proper for the purpose of elucidating any matter in dispute, or of ascertaining the market-value of any property, or the amount of any mesne profits or damages or annual net profits, the Court may issue a commission to such person as it thinks fit directing him to make such investigation and to report thereon to the Court:

as evidence in the suit. 122 I.C. 396=1930 S. 89. See also 63 C. 914. Evidence taken on commission, until tendered and admitted as evidence in the suit, cannot be made use of by either party. 30 C. 999 (1003); 9 C.W.N. 794. On this point, see also 1926 S. 34; 44 C.L.J. 288=1927 C. 43; 32 C.W.N. 128. Deposition of sick person admitted without objection—Appellate Court should not reject deposition. 1929 C. 591. Where a witness is examined on commission on the ground that he is ill, the case falls within the exception referred to in Cl. (a) of R. 8 of O. 26, and the evidence so taken on commission can therefore be taken into account. 21 Pat.L.T. 340=A.I.R. 1940 Pat. 563. A Court has no power under O. 26, R. 8 to reject the report and evidence in a commission enquiry. 14 R.D. 548. The expression "beyond the jurisdiction of the Court" in O. 26, R. 8, C.P. Code, has reference to the question whether or not the witness is in reach of the compelling or disciplinary powers of the Court in his capacity of a witness or potential witness; and the matter would therefore fall within the purview of O. 16, R. 19, C.P. Code, under which no witness is to be ordered to attend in person unless he is resident within a certain distance from the Court. 63 C. 914.

O. 26, R. 9: APPLICATION OF RULE.—The rule applies to proceedings under S. 158 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. 17 C. 277. There is no error of law when a judge does not direct a local investigation of his own motion in a case where he is not moved to do so by the parties. B.L.R. (Sup.) Vol. 358. It is within the discretion of the Court to order or refuse a local inquiry. 12 W.R. 76. The issue of commission is a matter in the discretion of Court, and if the discretion is wrongly exercised, the question ought to be raised, before Court of first appeal. It cannot be agitated for first time in second appeal. 1933 P. 542. Application for local investigation by Court on the day set down for trial would not be granted. 13 I.C. 194. The local investigation pre-supposes the existence on record of independent evidence which requires to be elucidated. 16 M. 350. The rule does not authorize Court to delegate to a commissioner the trial of any material issue which it is bound to try. 16 M. 350. Object of local investigation is to obtain evidence which from its peculiar nature can only be obtained on the spot. 2 N.-W.P. 196. A commission for local investigation cannot be issued after the evidence is closed and the case is ready for judgment. 51 I.C. 399. Where a party to a local investigation goes on with the trial he cannot at the last moment ask for giving fresh evidence against report of such investigation. 16 I.C. 39. Restitution—Commissioner appointed to ascertain mesne profits—Commissioner taking evidence as to possession and recording finding—Court acting on the same is illegal and ultra vires. 9 Pat.L.T. 258=1928 P. 278. On this rule, see 37 C.W.N. 143=144 I.C. 870=1933 C. 475, cited under R. 4, supra.

WHO CAN BE APPOINTED TO MAKE LOCAL INVESTIGATION.—A Judge from whose decision an appeal is pending, is a most unsuitable person to make a local investigation. 17 W.R. 300. A Judge may make a local inspection in person at his discretion. Under the present Code, a Judge may issue a commission in any case where he deems it fit to do so irrespective of his own convenience. 44 M. 640=40 M.L.J. 554. The District Judge can appoint a Munsiff to be Commissioner. 11 C.L.R. 533. For instance of improper appointments, see 6 W.R. 81.

OBJECTIONS TO REPORT.—Parties are entitled to object to the Commissioner's report and prove their objection by examining the Commissioner or other witness. 42 I.C. 221=164 P.W.R. 1917; 38 I.C. 491; 19 C. L.J. 87=18 C.W.N. 697; 72 P.L.R. 1914=22 I.C. 526. It is within the discretion of a Judge to accept the report of a Commissioner. 47 I.C. 650=28 C.L.J. 203. A defendant who does not appear before a Commissioner cannot ordinarily object to his report. 60 I.C. 434. Court has a discretion to permit or refuse a party to examine the Commissioner. 47 I.C. 650=28 C.L.J. 203. Objections to the report of a Commissioner cannot be raised for the first time in second appeal. 27 I.C. 598=70 P. L.R. 1915.

SUPERSEDING COMMISSIONER.—A local Commissioner appointed by consent of parties cannot be superseded simply on the ground that he is incompetent to go into the accounts being ignorant of the language. 27 I.C. 598=70 P.L.R. 1915.

SECOND INQUIRY.—When an inquiry is being carried on, a second inquiry should not be ordered without setting aside the first. 23 W.R. 93; 120 I.C. 737=1930 M. 236. But see 1937 Pat. 670. Where the result of a local investigation is unsatisfactory the Court is not bound to order another inquiry. It can decide the case on the evidence. 50 I.C. 301. See also 18 Pat. L. T. 837=1937

Provided, that, where the Provincial Government has made rules as to the persons to whom such commission shall be issued, the Court shall be bound by such rules.

LOC. AM.—[Calcutta.] Omit the proviso to rule 9.

10. (1) The Commissioner, after such local inspection as he deems necessary and after reducing to writing the evidence taken by him, shall return such evidence, together with his report in writing signed by him to the Court.

NOTES.

Pat. 670. When a Judge has ordered his successor should not interfere with the order but should carry it out. 1 W. R. 102. The appellate Court should not order local investigation where the parties refused to have one in the lower Court. 12 C. 45. Practice in Malabar of issuing successive commissions in cases under Malabar Compensation for Tenants' Improvement Act, for arriving at valuations is not regular. 55 M. 656=1932 M. 482=62 M.L.J. 629.

O. 26, R. 9 and S. 99.—O. 26, R. 9 does not provide for the presence of the parties when a commission is issued and merely leaves it to the discretion of the Court. But natural justice requires that such acts should not be done without notice to one of the parties. S. 99, C. P. Code, provides a decree could not be varied or reversed because of an irregularity in the proceedings which does not affect either the merits of the case or the jurisdiction of the Court. If there has been no prejudice, the decree could not be attacked. 1938 N.L.J. 392=A.I.R. 1938 Nag. 530.

O. 26, Rr. 9 and 10.—In this case their Lordships of the Privy Council remarked that the following is a correct statement of the principle to be adopted in dealing with the Commissioner's report. Interference with the result of a long and careful local investigation except upon clearly defined and sufficient grounds is to be depreciated. It is not safe for a Court to act as an expert and to overrule the elaborate report of a Commissioner whose integrity and carefulness are unquestioned, whose careful and laborious execution of his task is proved by his report and who has not blindly adopted the assertions of either party. 42 Bom.L.R. 387=51 L.W. 135=1940 P.C. 3 (P.C.).

O. 26, R. 10.—[N.B.: See also under R. 9]. A commission issued to an Amin to hold local investigation is not a process within the meaning of Cl. (1) of S. 20 of the Court-Fees Act. 17 C. 281. When a Commissioner is appointed to prepare a map of a locality, statements of village officers made to him with regard to the right in suit are admissible in evidence. 24 B. 43. Commissioner for ascertainment of mesne profits may rely on local inspection but must record witnesses' evidence. 47 M. 800=1925 M. 145=48 M. L. J. 89=92 I. C. 792. Evidence taken should only be with reference to points for the determination of which local inspection is required. 9 W.R. 83. See also 17 W.R. 282. A Commissioner should give to the parties notice of the time when the local investigation is to be held. 12 M. 139; 17 W. R. 236. See R. 18. Commissioner's report is only evidence and not binding on the Court—If report is not satisfactory Court can order another commission. 7 Pat.L.T. 795=96 I.C. 327=1926 P. 462; 157 I.C. 530=1935 A.L.J. 427=1935 A. 422. It is in the power of the trial Court, when it is dissatisfied with the report of the first Commissioner, to send out a second or even a third commission; and when all the materials are before the Court, it may, at the time of delivering judgment, attach very little or no weight to the first Commissioner's report; but it is not necessary that before issuing a second or third commission, the Court should wipe the previous Commissioner's report off the record, and treat it as not being evidence at all. There is nothing in O. 26, R. 10, C. P. Code, to justify such a contention. 18 Pat.L.T. 837=1937 P.W. N. 862=A.I.R. 1937 Pat. 670. See also 23 W.R. 93; 1930 Mad. 236. A second commission should not be issued by the Court for the same purpose for which the first was issued, unless the Court is dissatisfied with the report of the first, in which case, the Court should not take into consideration the report of the first Commissioner. 54 M. 239=1931 M. 73=60 M.L.J. 450. See also 1939 Pat. 270. An appellate Court rejecting a Commissioner's report, is not bound in law to issue another commission. In every case the superior Court is to see whether the subordinate Courts have exercised their discretion judiciously or capriciously. 180 I.C. 134=1939 Pat. 270. Decree based on incomplete report of Commissioner can be set aside. 104 I.C. 369=9 Lah. L. J. 339. Evidence of possession recorded by a Commissioner who is appointed in a suit for possession of land, not for the purpose of examining witnesses, but for the purpose of relaying the settlement boundaries and to ascertain and determine whether the suit land was within a particular patta, is not admissible in evidence in the suit to prove the possession of the land. 40 C.W.N. 582. The report submitted by a Commissioner after a local investigation is not admissible in evidence without the the Commissioner's verification in Court. 1935 R.D. 319. The report of a Commissioner in a previous suit is not admissible in evidence in a subsequent suit, unless its accuracy be proved. 12 C.L.R. 50. The report cannot be rejected in case the Commissioner's remuneration has not been paid. 17 C. 281; and his report is evidence only on the point to which the commission refers. 14 W.R. 493; 24 W.R. 208. APPEAL.—No appeal will lie from an order directing a local investigation. 7 W.R. 425. See also 12 W.R. 76.

O. 26, R. 11: [N.B.: See also under R. 9].—This rule merely entitles the Court to appoint a Commissioner to examine accounts when it is necessary to examine the accounts, but it has first to be shown that it is necessary to examine them. When in a suit on a promissory note the defendant puts in no defence, it is impossible to say whether it is necessary to examine the accounts or not. 1937 N. 136=I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 266. As regards the procedure to be adopted in taking accounts, see 7 C. 654. See also 6 C. 754; 14 C. 147; 87 I.C. 764=1926 C. 349; 91 I.C. 766=1925 S. 265. It is not open to a Court to refer for decision to a Commissioner for accounts, an issue as to whether there was a mutual, open and current account between the parties. Such procedure is unauthorized by O. 26. All that can be referred to the Commissioner is an enquiry into the nature and course of dealings and the amount, if any, due. The further question whether the dealings constituted in law a mutual account is one of law and cannot be referred to a Commissioner. 177 I.C. 442=A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 270. Commissioner is to determine only the quantum and not the factum of a liability of an agent. 52 C. 766=1925 C. 1069. Where in a suit for dissolution and settlement of accounts of a partnership business, a dispute arises as to which of the parties is in possession of the account-books, the Court should not leave it to the Commissioner, who is appointed to examine accounts and to submit a scheme for the winding up, to decide that question as it does not fall within his ordinary duties. It is the duty of the Court to record the evidence and to decide that question itself, and not to appoint a commissioner for that purpose. 160 I.C. 642=1936 L. 458. Decree based on incomplete report of Commissioner can be set aside. 104 I.C. 369=9 L.L.J. 339. No objection can be taken to the order of a Judge appointing a Commissioner for taking accounts from a guardian of property. 1929 P. 626.

MIXED QUESTIONS OF FACT AND LAW.—It is as a rule expedient to refer to a local Commissioner mixed questions of fact and law, e.g., whether a particular business was of a gambling nature. The distinction between contracts which are legitimate and genuine trading transactions of a speculative character and contracts which are simply gaming and wagering transactions is frequently a narrow one and difficult of determination even after the examination of the parties

Court to give Commissioner necessary instructions.

Proceedings and report to be evidence.

Court may direct further enquiry.

(2) The proceedings and report (if any) of the Commissioner shall be evidence in the suit, but where the Court has reason to be dissatisfied with them, it may direct such further inquiry as it shall think fit.

Commissions to make partitions.

13. Where a preliminary decree for partition has been passed, the Court may, in any case not provided for by section 54, issue a commission to such person as it thinks fit to make the partition or separation according to the rights as declared in such decree.

Commission to make partition of immovable property.

14. (1) The Commissioner shall, after such inquiry as may be necessary, divide the property into as many shares as may be directed by the order under which the commission was issued, and shall allot such shares to the parties, and may, if authorised thereto by the said order, award sums to be paid for the purpose of equalizing the value of the shares.

Procedure of Commissioner.

(2) The Commissioner shall then prepare and sign a report or the Commissioners (where the commission was issued to more than one person and they cannot agree) shall prepare and sign separate reports appointing the share of each party and distinguishing each share (if so directed by the said order) by metes and bounds. Such report or reports shall be annexed to the commission and transmitted to the Court; and the Court, after hearing any objections which the parties may make to the report or reports, shall confirm, vary or set aside the same.

(3) Where the Court confirms or varies the report or reports it shall pass a decree in accordance with the same as confirmed or varied; but where the Court sets aside the report or reports it shall either issue a new commission or make such other order as it shall think fit.

LOC. AM.—[PATNA.] O. 26, r. 14.—Substitute the following for sub-rules (2) and (3) :—

“(2) The Commissioner shall then prepare and sign a report or the Commissioners (where the commission was issued to more than one person and they cannot agree) shall prepare and sign separate reports appointing the share of each party and distinguishing each share (if necessary) by mete and bounds. The Commissioner or Commissioners shall append to the report, or where there is more than one, to each report, a schedule showing the plots and areas allotted to each party and also unless otherwise directed by the Court, a map showing in different colours, the plots or portions of plots allotted to each party. In the event of a plot being sub-divided, the area of each sub-plot shall be given in the schedule and also measurements showing how the plot is to be divided. Such report or reports with the schedule and the map, if any, shall be annexed to the commission and transmitted to the Court; and the Court, after hearing any objections which the parties may make to the report or reports, shall confirm, vary or set aside the same.

(3) Where the Court confirms or varies the report or reports it shall pass a decree in accordance with the same as confirmed or varied and, when drawing up the final decree shall incorporate in the decree the schedule and the map, if any, mentioned in sub-rule (2) above, as confirmed or varied by the Court. The whole report or reports of the Commissioner or Commissioners shall not ordinarily be entered in the decree. When the Court sets aside the report or reports it shall either issue a new commission or make such other order as it shall think fit.

General Provisions.

15. Before issuing any commission under this Order, the Court may order such sum (if any) as it thinks reasonable for the expenses of the commission to be, within a time to be fixed, paid into Court by the party at whose instance or for whose benefit the commission is issued.

NOTES.

for execution. 2 L.W. 693=30 I.C. 380. A casting of lots for the purpose of allotting shares to the parties is not opposed to R. 14. 29 I.C. 245=2 L.W. 430. The most equitable way by which properties could be assigned to coparceners will be to draw lots after dividing the properties with reference to the number of shares. 29 I.C. 245=2 L.W. 430. Commissioner cannot prepare a number of schemes and ask the Court to accept one. 6 Bom.L.R. 586. Commissioner, allotment by—Approved by order of Court—Effect. 14 M.L.T. 157=20 I.C. 908. Objections are entertainable to the report of the Commissioner under R. 14. 25 I.C. 277. In dealing with the objections to the report of a Commissioner an appellate Court has the same power as the original Court. 56 I.C. 972=12 Bur.L.T. 228. A party cannot be heard in the appellate Court unless he had filed his objections in the original Court. 56 I.C. 972=12 Bur.L.T. 228.

APPEAL.—An application under this rule for the appointment of a Commissioner is not a matter coming within the scope of S. 47 and appeal lies from an order made on it. 17 M.L.J. 144. But no appeal lies against an order of Court confirming or varying a report of a Commissioner made in a partition suit under R. 14 (3). 91 I.C. 317=1926 O. 195.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—R. 14 entitles the parties to substantiate their objections to the report of the Commissioner, but in such cases as a rule of practice the Commissioner should first be examined with reference to the objections, if any, and if it appears from the statement of the Commissioner that there is ground for further enquiry into any matter which is raised in the objections, then the parties should be allowed to produce evidence or the Commissioner directed to amend the report accordingly. 157 I.C. 480 (2)=1935 L. 501.

O. 26, R. 15.—Court has got power to impose any terms that it chooses as condition precedent to granting prayer for local investigation. 104 I.C. 814=1927 C. 907.

SELECTION OF COMMISSIONERS—REMUNERATION—PRINCIPLES GOVERNING.—Thorough competence should be the sole criterion in the selection of commissioners and fees fixed should not be oppressive. Judge should not, in the exercise of his discretion, alter behind the backs of the parties, fees to which they had agreed. 1933 P. 681. As to the fee for execution of a Civil Court commission, Court is to fix a sum commensurate with the difficulty and importance of the work done. If only nominal or worthless work has been done, manifestly there can be no payment at all. There is always the understanding that the commissioner possesses the knowledge and puts forth the exertion requisite to execute the commission efficiently and has in fact executed the same in workmanlike manner. The remuneration is not for labour expended or for days spent but for an efficient piece of work. If he fails in the respects mentioned and merely executes the commission nominally, he is not entitled to any fees, whether he is a pleader or professional surveyor. It is incumbent on Court scrupulously to protect the person who has deposited money towards commissioner's fee and all the more since he is powerless to protect himself against the commissioner. And where a commissioner has already taken payments provisionally, he must refund them if it is subsequently found that they have not been earned by real work but that the commissioner has executed the commission only nominally. 150 I.C. 630=15 P.L.T. 320=1934 P. 316 (2). The Court should also take into account the return which the party has got for

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] Re-number the existing r. 15 in O. 26, as r. 15 (1) and insert the following as sub-rule (2):—

“(2) Before executing and returning any commission issued by foreign Courts under the provisions of S. 78, the Court or the Commissioner required to execute the commission may levy such fee as the High Court may from time to time prescribe in this behalf in addition to the fees prescribed for the issue of summons to witnesses and for expenses of such witnesses under r. 2 of O. 16.”

16. Any Commissioner appointed under this Powers of Commissioners. Order may, unless otherwise directed by the order of appointment,—

(a) examine the parties themselves and any witness whom they or any of them may produce, and any other person whom the Commissioner thinks proper to call upon to give evidence in the matter referred to him ;

NOTES.

his money paid towards commissioner's fees. 63 C.L.J. 563=40 C.W.N. 1216. The commissioner is not a party to the suit, and an order directing one of the parties to pay a certain sum to the commissioner cannot be made a part of the decree. If at the end of an enquiry there is money due to the commissioner, then that is due to non-observance of the provisions of O. 26, R. 15 by the Court and the failure of the commissioner to look after his own interests, because a sum sufficient to cover the commissioner's expenses ought to be deposited in the Court before the commission is taken. A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 254. See also 1937 P. 614. On the application of the petitioner, A was appointed commissioner for local investigation in a suit; he did not finish the work within the time fixed by the Court, and time was therefore extended to him on several occasions. Ultimately after taking further time, he died without submitting any report at all to the Court and the Court had to direct a fresh local investigation. A's widow having applied to the Court for payment to her of the balance of the fees due to A who had already drawn Rs. 700 out of Court during his lifetime, out of the amount deposited by the petitioner prior to the issue of the commission under R. 15, the Court directed the petitioner to deposit into Court a sum of Rs. 2,050. The value of the property in suit was Rs. 7,800. Held, in revision, that the Court, in view of the facts, was not justified in making the order summarily, calling on the petitioner to deposit the amount, and that therefore the order must be set aside without prejudice to the rights of the widow to take such steps as were open to her under the law to recover any excess amount which might justly be due to her husband A, in respect of the work done by him. 63 C.L.J. 563=40 C.W.N. 1216.

COMMISSIONER'S FEES.—Under R. 15, Court has to order the parties to make the deposits for the necessary remuneration of the Commissioners and as it has to be entered in the decree, it is necessary to determine the fee of the Commissioner before the final disposal of the case. 57 I.C. 291=1 P.L.T. 170. There must be some confidence reposed in the Commissioners, who are pleaders and officers of the Court, and their report. 47 I.C. 291=1 P.L.T. 171. It is not proper that the Commissioner should be left to realise his fees by execution. 9 I.C. 313=15 C.W.N. 221. See also 52 C. 269=1925 C. 57. The proper course is to call on the plaintiff to deposit the full amount in Court and refuse to draw up the decree before the sum is so deposited. 9 I.C. 313=15 C.W.N. 221. If the defendant also is liable to pay a share, the plaintiff ought to be made to deposit it in Court and such sum ought to be allowed to the plaintiff in the decree. (Ibid.) The Court will not order the costs of a commission to examine a defendant who is a parda lady, to be paid by her. 5 C. 866; 10 C.W.N. 234. The Court has power to grant the examination of witness on commission, on condition of the applicant depositing the costs of the other party in attending the commission. 159 I.C. 179=1936 P. 33. But the money should not be paid directly to the party but must be deposited in Court as security for such costs as may be payable to the opposite party in the matter of commission. 159 I.C. 179=1936 P. 33.

SUIT.—A Commissioner can sue for the recovery of his remuneration. 4 M. 399. But cannot seek to recover it by way of execution. 10 M.L.J. 241. Where money is not deposited in Court, an order passed on the Commissioner's application directing payment to him is covered by S. 36 and is a decree under S. 47. 52 C. 269=1925 C. 57=84 I.C. 724.

EXECUTION.—Court has jurisdiction to pass an order demanding commission fee after the return of the commission and such order can be executed by the Commissioner. 147 I.C. 784 (2)=34 P.L.R. 1043=1934 L. 46. The order of a Court directing the parties to a partition suit to deposit the Amin's fees is not capable of execution. 21 I.C. 191. See also 9 I.C. 313=15 C.W.N. 221. District Judge has no power to disallow a portion of the remuneration claimed by a Commissioner for local investigation in connection with a suit pending in the Court of the Subordinate Judge. 44 I.C. 496=23 C.W.N. 295. On this rule see also 3 M. 259; 17 C. 281 and 15 B. 209.

O. 26, R. 16.—R. 16 (a) has nothing to do with the question of title of the parties to shares other than those admitted in the pleadings or declared in the preliminary

(b) call for and examine documents and other things relevant to the subject of inquiry ;

(c) at any reasonable time, enter upon or into any land or building mentioned in the order.

17. (1) The provisions of this Code relating to the summoning, attendance and examination of witnesses, and to the remuneration of witnesses before commission of, and penalties to be imposed upon, witnesses, shall apply to persons required to give evidence or to produce documents under this order whether commission in execution of which they are so required has been issued by a Court situate within or by a Court situate beyond the limits of British India, and for the purposes of this rule the Commissioner shall be deemed to be a Civil Court.

(2) A Commissioner may apply to any Court (not being a High Court) within the local limits of whose jurisdiction a witness resides for the issue of any process which he may find it necessary to issue to or against such witness, and such Court may, in its discretion, issue such process as it considers reasonable and proper.

18. (1) Where a commission is issued under this Order, the Court shall direct that the parties to the suit shall appear before the Commissioner in person or by their agents or pleaders.

(2) Where all or any of the parties do not so appear, the Commissioner may proceed in their absence.

LOC. AMS.—[ALLAHABAD AND OUDH.] In O. 26, r. 18, sub-rule (1) after the words "by their agents or pleaders," substitute a comma for the fullstop and add the following words:—"and shall direct the party applying for examination of the witness, or in its discretion any other party to the suit, to supply the Commissioner with a copy of the pleadings and issues."

[RANGOON.] The following shall be substituted for O. 26, r. 18, sub-r. (1):—

"When a commission is issued under this order, the parties to the suit shall appear before the Commissioner in person or by their agents or pleaders, unless otherwise directed by the Court, within fifteen days."

The following shall be added as rr. 19 to 26 of O. 26 respectively. (This was added before the amendments of rr. 19 to 22 by the Indian Legislature in 1932, Act X of 1932.)

"Fees to Commissioners for Local Investigation and Commissioners for partition or to take accounts or for the examination of witnesses."

19. Civil Courts in issuing commissions will be guided by the provisions of r. 15, and subject to the provisions of r. 23 will exercise their own judgment in fixing a reasonable sum for the expenses of the Commission.

decree. 146 I.C. 353=1934 P. 32. Where a case is remanded to lower Court for taking accounts the latter Court has jurisdiction to appoint a Commissioner for such purpose. 1934 P. 35. An Amin appointed to hold a local investigation has power to examine witnesses relative to the matter he has to inquire into. 1 B.L.R. (S.N.) 2. The Commissioner cannot deal with the case as if he is the judge or arbitrator. If the report does not show what the accounts are, it is waste paper. 6 C.L.J. 105. The delegation of power to Commissioner by Court cannot extend to the delegation to the Commissioner of the Court's duty of deciding questions which have been raised or which are sought to be raised as definite issues in the suit. 159 I.C. 23=42 L.W. 574=1935 M. 888. Where statements recorded on commission were not read over to the witness they are admissible in evidence and it is open to the Court to grant sanction for perjury in respect of such statements. 74 I.C. 445=1923 O. 119.

O. 26 Rr. 16 and 17.—The provisions of

O. 26, R. 16 are permissive in the sense that they vest a discretion in the Commissioner to examine or not to examine a witness. But when once the Commissioner has decided to examine a witness, then the mandatory provisions of R. 17 come into play which in their turn attract the provisions of O. 18 of the C.P. Code and of S. 138 of the Evidence Act. As such it is certainly not permissible for a Commissioner to record the statements of witnesses secretly and in the absence of parties. 1938 A.L.J. 131=A. I.R. 1938 All. 215.

O. 26, R. 17.—See 23 C. 404. Examination of witness on commission—Death of party during examination—Commissioner proceeding with examination and returning commission—Legality—Examination to be taken out afresh and not continued. 115 I.C. 240=10 P.L.T. 51=1929 P. 101.

O. 26, R. 18.—O. 26, R. 18 is mandatory and the Court cannot issue an ex parte commission. 40 L.W. 358=151 I.C. 941=1934 M. 548. A party refusing to appear before an Amin is not at liberty afterwards to take any objection to his report. 6 W.R. 130.

20. Under Government of India, Resolution in the Home Department (Judicial No. 101101, dated the 21st July, 1875) Judicial Officers are prohibited from accepting any remuneration for executing commissions issued by Courts of other provinces.

21. It is to be understood that no part of the fees sent for the execution of a commission is to be accepted, either personally or on behalf of Government. The execution of a commission is an official duty which Judicial Officers are bound to perform when called upon, and is not work undertaken for a private body.

22. In all cases the unexpended balance, which remains after all charges have been deducted, should be returned to the Court issuing the commission.

23. The following fees are to be allowed to Commissioners of Partition or to take accounts or for the examination of witnesses, namely :—

Commissioners' fees for every effective meeting shall not exceed three gold mohurs for the first two hours and one gold mohur for each succeeding hour.

Fees to Commissioners for administering an oath or solemn affirmation to a declarant of an affidavit.

24. When under the orders of a Court in the town of Rangoon, or of a District Court, an oath or solemn affirmation is administered to a declarant of an affidavit at his request elsewhere than at the Court, a fee of Rs. 16 shall be paid by the said declarant : provided that—

(a) the administration of the oath or of solemn affirmation elsewhere than in Court shall be authorized by the Court by order in writing ;

(b) if more than one affidavit is taken at the same time and place, the fees shall be Rs. 8 for each affidavit after the first ;

(c) in no case shall the fees for taking any number of affidavits at the same time and place exceed Rs. 80 ;

(d) in pauper suits and appeals, when the affidavit of a pauper is taken, no fee shall be charged.

25. Affidavits taken under r. 24 shall be taken out of Court hours. The fees shall be retained by the Commissioner for administering the oath or solemn affirmation.

26. No fees shall be charged for the administration of an oath under the order of any Court other than those specified in r. 24."

O. 26, r. 26.—After r. 26, insert the following headings and rules, namely :—

Commission issued at the instance of Foreign Tribunals.

27. (1) If a High Court is satisfied—

(a) that a foreign Court situated in a foreign country wishes to obtain the evidence of a witness in any proceeding before it ;

(b) that the proceeding is of a civil nature ; and

(c) that the witness is residing within the limits of the High Court's appellate jurisdiction, it may, subject to the provisions of r. 28, issue a commission for the examination of such witness.

(2) Evidence may be given of the matters specified in cls. (a), (b) and (c) of sub-rule (1)—

(a) by a certificate signed by the consular officer of the foreign country of the higher rank in India and transmitted to the High Court, through the Governor-General in Council ; or

(b) by a letter of request issued by the foreign Court and transmitted to the High Court through the Governor-General in Council ; or

(c) by a letter of request issued by the foreign Court and produced before the High Court by a party to the proceeding.

28. The High Court may issue a commission under r. 27—

(a) upon application by a party to the proceeding before the foreign Court ; or

(b) upon an application by a law officer of the Local Government acting under instruction from the Local Government.

29. A commission under r. 27 may be issued to any Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the witness resides, or where the High Court is established under the Indian High Court's Act, 1861, or the Government of India Act, 1915, and the witness resides within the local limits of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction to any person whom the Court thinks fit to execute the commission.

30. The provisions of rr. 6, 15, 16, 17 and 18 of this Order in so far as they are applicable shall apply to the issue, execution and return of such commission, when any such commission has been duly executed, it shall be returned, together with the evidence taken under it, to the High Court, which shall forward it to the Governor-General in Council, along with the letter of request for transmission to the foreign Court."

⁵ The words "soldier or airman" were substituted for the words "or soldier" by Act X of 1937.

⁶ The word "sailor" inserted by Act XXXV of 1934.

⁷ Substituted for "serving the Government" by A.O., 1937.

⁸ Substituted for "a military or air force" by Act XXXV of 1934.

NOTES.

O. 28, R. 1.—The written authority must be filed in the suit. 6 Bom.H.C. 20.

(2) The authority shall be in writing and shall be signed by the officer ¹[soldier, ²[sailor] or airman] in the presence of (a) his commanding officer, or the next subordinate officer, if the party is himself the commanding officer, or (b) where the officer ¹[soldier, ²(sailor) or airman] is serving in military, ²[naval] ³[or air force] staff employment, the head or other superior officer of the office in which he is employed. Such commanding or other officer shall countersign the authority, which shall be filed in Court.

(3) When so filed the counter-signature shall be sufficient proof that the authority was duly executed, and that the officer ¹[soldier, ²[sailor] or airman] by whom it was granted could not obtain leave of absence for the purpose of prosecuting or defending the suit in person.

Explanation.—In this Order the expression “commanding officer” means the officer in actual command for the time being of any regiment, corps, ⁴[ship], detachment or depot to which the officer ¹[soldier, ²(sailor) or airman] belong.

2. Any person authorized by an officer ¹[soldier, ²(sailor) or airman] to prosecute or defend a suit in his stead may prosecute or defend it in person in the same manner as the officer ¹[soldier, ²(sailor) or airman] could do if present; or he may appoint a pleader to prosecute or defend the suit on behalf of such officer ¹[soldier, ²(sailor) or airman].

Person so authorized may act personally or appoint pleader.

3. Process served upon any person authorized by an officer ¹[soldier, ²(sailor) or airman] under rule 1 or upon any pleader appointed as aforesaid by such person shall be as effectual as if they had been served on the party in person.

ORDER XXIX.

Suits by or against Corporation.

1. In suits by or against a corporation, any pleading may be signed and verified on behalf of the corporation by the secretary or by any director or other principal officer of the corporation who is able to depose to the facts of the case.

Subscription and verification of pleading.

NOTES.

O. 29, R. 1: SCOPE OF RULE.—O. 29, R. 1, is only a permissive rule and does not exclude the operation of O. 6, Rr. 14 and 15 of the Code. A plaint signed by the constituted agent of a party, who holds a power of attorney is properly signed. I. L.R. (1939) Bom. 295=41 Bom.L.R. 530=A.I.R. 1939 Bom. 347. R. 1 comes into operation only after the proceedings have been validly started and cannot be utilized to authorize an unauthorized person to institute suits on behalf of the corporation. 158 I.C. 346=1935 L. 345. Under O. 29, R. 1, the Secretary of a Municipality can sign and verify the written statement, and the fact that he has been generally empowered to institute and defend suits is enough to authorize him to engage a counsel to defend actions against the Municipality. Defending an action is certainly different from instituting an action. The latter step requires initiative which should certainly come from the Municipality itself and not from its agent. Hence a special authorization by the Municipality is not necessary as is required for instituting suits. A.I.R. 1941 Pesh. 76. Where the manager of a Bank is authorised by the Articles of Association to file a suit with the previous sanction of the executive board, a suit instituted by him without such sanction is instituted without proper authority and the fact that the act of the manager was ratified by a resolution of the Board of Directors after the expiry of the period of limitation, is of no avail. 37 P.L.R. 446. Rule is clearly permissive and not imperative in its terms and it lays down mere procedure. The rule, however, does not exclude the operation of Rr. 14 and 15 of O. 6. 38 Bom.L. 894=1936 B. 418. R. 1 requires that a suit against companies should be framed, so as to describe them by the proper names. 43 C. 441=22 C.L.J. 241; 22 I.C. 674=20 C. L.J. 39. See also 49 C. 524; 25 Bom.L.R. 1081=1924 B. 155; and that a pleading filed by a Corporation should be verified by a principal officer of the Company. But there is nothing to suggest that the heading of the plaint should contain any further particulars

LOC. AMS.—[MADRAS.] Insert the following as r. 1-A of O. 29.—

"1-A. In suits against a Local Authority the Court in fixing the day for the defendant to appear and answer shall allow not less than two months' time between the date of summons and the date for appearance."

showing the name and description or place of residence of the person who represents such Corporation. 26 S.L.R. 431=142 I.C. 361=1933 S. 102. Suit against unregistered body—All members must be impleaded. 47 A. 342=23 A.L.J. 37. The plain terms of O. 6, R. 14 do apply to a company, which is a party to an action; under that rule the pleading must be signed by the party, but where the party is a company and therefore unable to sign, having regard to the words "or for other good cause" the last part of the section applies in the case of a company. The company can, therefore, always authorise some person to sign on behalf of the company. If the company does not choose to do that, it can act under R. 1, i.e., it can rely on that order as in fact constituting an agent to sign without the necessity of giving an express authority. In that way O. 29 is read as merely permissive and not mandatory. 32 Bom.L.R. 1305. But see 32 P.L.R. 655 (O. 29, R. 1 is permissive and O. 6, R. 14 applies to the case of companies as well as private persons. A plaintiff which satisfies the requirements of O. 6, R. 14 should be taken to have been properly signed. See also 134 I.C. 1170=1931 S. 178. Suit to recover possession of property by Secretary of Brahma Samaj—Need for permission of Court. 49 C.L.J. 357=1929 C. 445.

A STATE BANK IN A NATIVE STATE which is not a corporation as distinct from the State or Maharaja cannot sue in a British Indian Court through its Secretary or manager. 143 I.C. 348=34 P.L.R. 470=1933 L. 456.

"CORPORATION".—The term "corporation" is used with reference to S. 41, Companies Act. 12 C. 41. The corporation contemplated by this rule is a corporation as known to English law, that is, a corporation created with the express consent of the Sovereign, or of such antiquity that the consent of the Sovereign may be presumed. 20 A. 167. A corporation duly created according to the law of one State may sue and be sued in its corporate name in the Courts of other States. 30 C. 103. The Cantonment Committee of Poona is a body corporate. 14 B. 286.

RAILWAY COMPANY.—Suit against Railway Company in the name of agent, if proper. See 90 I.C. 680=5 P. 128=1926 P. 40. Form of suit against Railway Company. 64 I.C. 125=2 P.L.T. 679; 52 C. 783=29 C.W.N. 614=1925 C. 716.

WHO CAN SUE OR VERIFY PLEADINGS.—Permission to enable a principal officer of a corporation to verify a plaint or written statement is not necessary. 22 C. 268. In a suit by corporation a plaint signed by principal officer who is also an Am-Mukhtar is good. 22 I.C. 674=20 C.L.J. 39. See also 100 I.C. 450=1927 S. 263; 26 S.L.R. 431=1933 S. 102; 1927 C. 773; 1927 C. 780=31 C.W.N. 1030. An attorney appointed by the company has no power to sign and verify a plaint on its behalf. 100 I.C. 450=1927 S. 263. Rule does not require a principal officer to verify from actual personal knowledge. He may do so on his information and belief. 9 C.W.N. 608. Secretary of a non-proprietary club cannot sue in his own name for goods supplied to a member. 14 M. 362. See also 6 A. 284. Director of company—Authority to sign pleadings. See 130 I.C. 843=1931 R. 54. See also Companies Act, S. 86.

UNREGISTERED SOCIETY.—All members must be made parties. 103 I.C. 45 (1)=1927 A. 789.

PAUPER SUIT.—It is open to a company in liquidation to sue in forma pauperis through its liquidator. 41 M. 624=34 M.L.J. 421.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—Plaintiff is bound to serve notices after amendment of plaint has been made and the suit properly constituted. 43 C. 441=22 C.L.J. 241. In the case of a suit by a corporation all that the law requires is that the plaint should be verified by a principal officer and that he should be able to depose to the facts of the case. But it is not necessary for the plaintiff corporation to state in the body of the plaint or by affidavit that the person verifying the plaint is a principal officer of the corporation able to depose to the facts of the case. There is nothing in the Code which requires this. 38 Bom.L.R. 894=1936 B. 418. It is no doubt open to the defendant to object to the verification as insufficient and to show that the person who has verified the plaint is not a principal officer, or if he is such, that he is not able to depose to the facts of the case, either by cross-examination or otherwise. (Ibid.) Where in a suit on behalf of a registered company the secretary verifies a plaint under authority obtained from the Articles of Association of the plaintiff company which empowers the Secretary to do all acts necessary for the conduct of suits and inasmuch as there is averment in the plaint to that effect. Held, that no affidavit was necessary to establish such authority for verification. (22 C. 268 and 22 C. 60, Foll.; 1927 C. 758, Dist.) 1935 C. 770=40 C.W.N. 930. A suit on behalf of a company incorporated under the Companies Act is properly instituted, if the plaint is duly signed and verified by the secretary who has a letter from the chief officer of the company expressly authorizing him to conduct and defend suits on behalf of and against the company, when such officer is given by the Memorandum and Articles of Association extensive powers to manage and conduct the Suits by or against Firms and Persons carrying on business in names other than their own.

1. (1) Any two or more persons claiming or being liable as partners and affairs and business of the company and also to appoint and employ for such purposes a secretary or secretaries with such powers and duties as he should think fit. 39 P. L.R. 173=1937 Lah. 751.

O. 29, R. 2.—The service of summons on a junior assistant of a company which acted as agents of the primary company is not sufficient service on the principal company. 108 I.C. 660=1928 S. 111. "The place where the corporation carries on business" in R. 2 (b) refers to the principal place of business of the corporation in British India. (Ibid.) Where a corporation is sued as a defendant plaintiff should be accompanied by a separate application under O. 29, R. 2 or O. 30, R. 3 duly stamped stating where and in what manner and on whom the plaintiff wishes the summons to be served. 26 S.L.R. 431=142 I.C. 361=1933 S. 102.

O. 30: GENERAL.—The policy underlying O. 30 is no more than to afford facilities in the joinder of parties who may be numerous. 1937 A.W.R. 1142. O. 30 does not only deal with the question whether the subsequent disclosure of the names of the partners in the plaint is a case of misdescription or non-joinder, but on the contrary it gives legislative sanction to suit being filed and decided by or against firms without disclosing the names of partners, subject however to certain limitations. (1928 B. 191, Not Foll.) 1935 S. 225. The Code does not allow the firm to sue or to be sued. It only allows the individuals constituting the firm to sue or to be sued in the name of the firm. The privilege is given to persons, but the Code does not treat the firm as a juristic person. A suit by or against a firm is therefore really a suit by or against a group of individuals, and the name of the firm is the collective name of the individuals. 158 I.C. 25=16 P.L.T. 649. The word "partner" in O. 30 applies to persons who are partners by contract and not by virtue of their personal law, and the word "firm" means a business carried on by persons who have contracted to do so and does not include a Hindu joint family business. 1936

N. 292=I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 423. See also 19 Pat.L.T. 686=1938 Pat. 270; 1937 A.M.L.J. 41. There is no rule of law which lays down that a suit brought in the name of a joint Hindu family business should be brought in the name of the firm. O. 30, C. P. Code, does not apply to a joint Hindu family firm as the rights and liabilities of such a firm are not exclusively regulated by the Contract Act. Such a firm must sue and be sued in the name of its members. 40 P.L.R. 456=A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 563. By virtue of Explanation added by the Punjab Chief Court to R. 1 of O. 30, C. P. Code, that rule is made applicable to a "joint Hindu family trading partnership". In the Punjab, therefore, a joint Hindu family firm can sue and be sued in its "firm name", like any other contractual partnership. 42 P.L.R. 418=A.I.R. 1940 Lah. 425. See also 42 P.L.R. 278=1940 Lah. 256. If a suit is brought under O. 30 against a partnership firm, where a minor has been admitted to some kind of benefit, the minor can in no sense be regarded as a party to the suit. When all the owners of the firm happen to be minors there is no partnership as contemplated by the Partnership Act, and the procedure prescribed by O. 30 cannot apply, so as to make the minors liable under a decree passed in a suit in the firm name. 44 L.W. 310=1936 M. 707=71 M.L.J. 373. Although O. 30 permits of a suit being filed by or against a firm in the firm's name if such firm carries on business in British India and is silent with regard to a suit by or against a foreign firm carrying on business outside British India, it does not follow that a suit by or against a foreign firm is not instituted or not deemed to have been instituted, until and unless the partners of such firm are placed on the record or that until that is done limitation runs against the plaintiffs. 1935 S. 225.

O. 30, R. 1: SCOPE OF.—87 I.C. 992=1925 S. 298; 8 L. 1=1927 L. 115; 9 P. 717. A firm need not sue or be sued only in the form prescribed in this rule. A plaintiff bringing a suit against a firm may implead all the members of the firm as defendants carrying on business in British India may sue or be sued in the name of the firm (if any) of which such persons were partners at the time of the accruing of the cause of action, and any party to a suit may in such case apply to the Court for a statement of the names and addresses of the persons who were, at the time of the accruing of the cause of action, partners in such firm, to be furnished and verified in such manner as the Court may direct.

NOTES.

in that suit. Conversely, such members could sue jointly in their individual names. 42 P.L.R. 278=A.I.R. 1940 Lah. 256. The position of a firm is materially different from that of a registered company when it sues or is sued. O. 30 makes it clear how far a firm, as distinguished from a registered company, can be represented by its individual partners. 55 A. 719=145 I.C. 812=1933 A.L.J. 1264=1933 A. 523. It is implicit in O. 30, R. 1, that a suit can be brought in the name of a firm only where the firm consists of more than one person. Where a firm consisted of a sole or single proprietress a suit brought in the name of the firm, the addition of the words 'through Mst. Munia, proprietress' was held to remove the defect in the frame of the suit. A. I. R. 1940 Oudh 443=1940 O. W. N. 901. A Hindu joint family is not a firm in the name of which proceedings may be commenced under R. 1, that rule being confined to firms of merchants carrying on business in British India. 35 Bom. L. R. 569=1933 B. 304. See also 1937 A.M.L.J. 41. O. 30 only applies to a firm or a contractual partnership and does not apply to a joint Hindu family business; and an undivided Hindu family carrying on business is not entitled to sue as a firm. 61 C. 975=152 I.C. 991=38 C.W.N. 914=1934 C. 810. See also 1936 N. 292; 1938 Lah. 563; I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 39; 7 Cut.L.T. 21; 1940 Lah. 425; 1940 Lah. 256. In the case of a firm of father and son who form a joint Hindu family, the father as manager can act on behalf of the family by signing and verifying a plaint. 1935 A.W.R. 32=1935 A.L.J. 260=1935 A. 280. Any company, partnership or association unregistered in violation of the Companies Act is an illegal body and its existence cannot be recognised by law and a suit is, therefore, not maintainable against it. The provisions of O. 30 evidently assume that the so-called "firm" is legally constituted and do not have any bearing on the question of the maintainability of a suit against an "illegal" association. 36 P.L.R. 149=1934 L. 882. The provisions of R. 1 are not applicable to foreign firms. 36 Bom.L.R. 983=1934 B. 467. See also 1935 S. 225 (noted under 'O. 30—General,' supra). Although the firm consisted of two partners at the time when the cause of action arose, a suit cannot be lodged in the name of the firm, where there is only one partner left, the other partner having severed his connexion before the institution of the suit. The defect in the form can however be easily removed by a slight amendment and the suit should not be thrown out on the technical ground. 1934 L. 157 (1). As to proper parties in a suit relating to a partnership transaction, see 132 I.C. 860=1932 S. 78. In cases of suits by or against firms properly represented, the addition of the names of individual partners is not obligatory and the suit can proceed even in the absence of the partner's names. A. I. R. 1938 Lah. 823. One person carrying on business in the name of a firm cannot sue in the name of the firm. 25 I.C. 131=12 A. L.J. 1020; 1930 B. 216=32 Bom.L.R. 212; 1940 O.W.N. 901=1940 Oudh 443; 16 Luck. 357; 140 I.C. 519=34 Bom.L.R. 1112=1932 B. 516; 159 I.C. 138=1935 R. 240. He may be sued, but unless there are two or more persons in the firm the plaintiff cannot sue in the firm name. 38 Bom.L.R. 529. Suit by foreign firm represented by one of its partners—Not maintainable—Amendment so as to join other partners as plaintiffs can be ordered on payment of costs up-to-date of amendment to defendants. 30 Bom. L.R. 117=109 I.C. 99=1928 B. 191. Two or more persons carrying on business in the name of a firm in British India are liable to be sued in British India in the name of the firm and would be amenable to the jurisdiction of any competent Court in British India irrespective of whether they are British subjects or foreigners. 28 N.L.R. 118=140 I.C. 63=1932 N. 114. Suit against firm and partner personally—Procedure. 27 Bom.L.R. 998=1925 B. 494. A firm must consist of two or more persons and one partner can sign and verify the plaint in a suit by the firm. 25 I.C. 131=12 A.L.J. 1020. The mere recital of the firm's "vilsam" before the name of the agent of the firm who is the plaintiff, does not suffice to make the suit one by the firm. 17 M.L.J. 116. Where the plaint describes the plaintiff himself as the "firm X, situate in Y, etc., through B, proprietor of the said firm" and the plaint is signed by B, as the plaintiff cannot be deemed to be suing in the firm's name but in his own name, the mere fact of the firm's name being mentioned, in no way affects the matter. 161 I.C. 516=1936 P. 140. The correct way of bringing a suit under R. 1 is to bring it in the name of the firm as plaintiff, and no other name should be mentioned as plaintiff at the head of the plaint, but in the signature and verification of the plaint, the person signing and verifying should describe himself as one of the partners of the firm which brings the suit. 157 I.C. 166=1935 R. 209. The firm's

(2) Where persons sue or are sued as partners in the names of their firm under sub-rule (1), it shall, in the case of any pleading or other document required by or under this Code to be signed, verified or certified by the plaintiff or the defendant, suffice if such pleading or other document is signed, verified or certified by any one of such persons.

Where a party elects to go against a firm, the question whether a particular person is, or is not a partner of such firm, and is bound by the decree or the award as the case may be is a question which can be dealt with either in execution proceedings or in a separate suit. 140 I.C. 761=1932 B. 375=34 Bom.L.R. 737. Procedure to be adopted in suit against firm and partner personally. See 94 I.C. 969=1925 B. 494=27 Bom.L.R. 998.

ARBITRATION.—Authority of one of the partners to refer matters to arbitration. 140 I.C. 519=34 Bom.L.R. 1112=1932 B. 516.

PAYMENT OF DECREE AMOUNT TO ONE PARTNER in a suit filed in the name of a firm gives valid discharge. 92 I.C. 387=1926 S. 167. But see 57 M. 692, infra. One of the joint decree-holders cannot, though they are partners, give a valid discharge by receiving decree amount out of Court without concurrence of the other decree-holders. Payment to one of them may under the general law relating to partnership be valid and binding on the firm but that circumstance is not enough to validate the payment made to one of them against the other joint decree-holders. 57 M. 692=1934 M. 330=66 M. L.J. 656.

2. (1) Where a suit is instituted by partners in the name of their firm, the plaintiffs or their pleader shall, on demand in writing by or on behalf of any defendant forthwith declare in writing the names and places of residence of all the persons constituting the firm on whose behalf the suit is instituted.

(2) Where the plaintiffs or their pleader fail to comply with any demand made under sub-rule (1), all proceedings in the suit may, upon an application for that purpose, be stayed upon such terms as the Court may direct.

(3) Where the names of the partners are declared in the manner referred to in sub-rule (1), the suit shall proceed in the same manner, and the same consequences in all respects shall follow, as if they had been named as plaintiffs in the plaint:

Provided that all the proceedings shall nevertheless continue in the name of the firm.

firm, if can be set-off. 29 Bom.L.R. 396=1927 B. 255.

EXECUTION.—When a suit is brought against a firm and judgment obtained against it, the action is really against the persons who constitute the firm and the judgment is really a judgment against the individuals. 42 C.W.N. 310=A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 316. O. 21, R. 50 should be read subject to the provisions of O. 30. It is not open to a partner, against whom execution is applied for of a decree obtained against the firm, to deny in the first instance that he is a partner and then if it be found against to plead in the alternative that none of the partners had any authority to enter into the transaction which gave rise to the liability. 36 Bom.L.R. 617. A firm is dissolved by the death of one of the partners but a decree passed in its favour is nonetheless executable at the instance of the surviving partners. 33 P.L.R. 290. A decree obtained by a firm consisting of one partner only cannot be executed by the son of the decree-holder without the production of a succession certificate. 140 I.C. 519=34 Bom.L.R. 1112=1932 B. 516.

APPEAL.—In the case of a decree against a firm where the decree-holder is entitled to recover money due under it, jointly and severally from the individuals composing the firm any member of the firm could appeal against the decree as against the firm. 1939 A.L.J. 1016=1940 All. 81.

O. 30, Rr. 1 and 4.—R. 1 is merely permissive. If it is followed, R. 4 applies but not otherwise. So where the defendants, though members of a firm, are sued individually, it is necessary, in the event of the death of one of them to implead his legal representatives. 14 L. 543=34 P.L.R. 11=1933 L. 356 (2).

O. 30, R. 2.—Under R. 2 once partners have been declared, they are to be regarded parties to the suit. There is however nothing to prevent a party from making a further declaration the effect of which might afterwards fall to be considered by the Court. But if it is made after the period of limitation it will have no effect and the Court would regard the suit as being one by the parties whose names were originally declared. 60 C. 1217=37 C.W.N. 1105. A firm is not a legal entity or a "person" capable of becoming, as a firm, a partner in another firm. But at the same time, once a declaration of partners has been made under R. 2, a suit for dissolution can proceed although the plaintiffs in the first instance had described themselves as a firm. It is true that a firm is nothing but an association of individuals; but that is no obstacle or bar to a partnership suit instituted in the name of the firm; there is no reason why two or more individuals should not be allowed to have their shares separated in one lump if they so desire. 157 I.C. 1113=37 P.L.R. 663. Plaintiff furnishing only initials of partners—No objection by defendant—Suit, not bad for non-joinder of parties. The duty of the trial Court at most was to stay the case until the names of the partners had been properly furnished and the case could not be dismissed for non-joinder of parties. 171 I.C. 622=1937 Rang. 137.

O. 30, R. 2 (3).—R. 2 is applicable only to plaintiffs—Whether R. 2 (3) controls O. 21, R. 50, see 29 Bom.L.R. 921. Provisions not contradictory. 48 C.L.J. 357=114 I.C. 156=1929 C. 11. Suit by firm—Plaint affirmed by Munim of firm—Application by partner to re-affirm plaint—Maintainability. 32 Bom.L.R. 56=1930 B. 150 (1).

O. 30, R. 3.—The provisions of R. 3 refer to a time anterior to the decree and are not applicable to an award which has been filed and which has become enforceable as a decree. The omission, therefore, to give notice of the filing of the award to the individual partners of a firm does not destroy the operative character of the filed award or make it inexecutable against a partner who has not been served with such notice. 62 C. 833=61 C.L.J. 515. Although R. 3 provides that there must be individually the service of summons upon a person who was a partner of a dissolved partnership, it cannot be said that the decree

(a) upon any one or more of the partners, or

(b) at the principal place at which the partnership business is carried on within British India upon any person having, at the time of service, the control or management of the partnership business there, as the Court may direct; and such service shall be deemed good service upon the firm so sued, whether all or any of the partners are within or without British India:

Provided that, in the case of a partnership which has been dissolved to the knowledge of the plaintiff before the institution of the suit, the summons shall be served upon every person within British India whom it is sought to make liable.

4. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 45 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, where two or more persons may sue or be sued in the name of a firm under the foregoing provisions and any of such persons dies, whether cannot be both against the firm and the partner personally. The question is to be decided by the form of the plaint. If in the plaint the plaintiff sues not only the firm but also a partner personally, then there may be decree not only against the firm but against the partner individually in his personal capacity. 30 S.L.R. 296=165 I.C. 907=1936 S. 206. O. 30 contemplates a suit against a firm as such, and even if the firm be dissolved before the institution of the suit, there may still be property of the firm against which execution may proceed, and merely because the partnership has been dissolved, the whole form and nature of the suit is not altered. Where the partner appears not only on behalf of the firm but also in his personal capacity and puts in a personal defence, the Court is entitled to pass a decree not only against the firm but also against him. (Ibid.) When a corporation is sued as a defendant, the plaint should be accompanied by a separate application under O. 29, R. 2 or O. 30, R. 3 duly stamped stating where, in what manner and on whom the plaintiff wishes the summons to be served. 26 S.L.R. 431=142 I.C. 361=1933 S. 102. The rule has no application when the suit is against the partners of a firm individually. 88 I.C. 489=1925 C. 1136. Summons to be served at the place of the business of the firm on manager or managing partner—Service effected by affixing summons at managing partner's residence by affixing—Not proper service. See 95 I.C. 149=1926 S. 208. Suit against firm—Service of process—Liability of partners not personally served. 27 Bom.L.R. 541=87 I.C. 1051. Suit against firm—Firm dissolved before institution of suit—Service of summons on one of the partners individually—Limitation. 105 I.C. 854=1928 S. 97=23 S.L.R. 54. Appearance under protest. 99 I.C. 495=50 B. 665. A person who has been served as a partner and entered appearance under protest is not entitled to file a written statement on his own behalf denying that he is a partner. 54 C. 1057=31 C.W.N. 1004=1927 C. 758. See also 140 I.C. 40=1932 S. 199. Suit against firm—Service on agent of partners authorised to act not only on behalf of the firm but also on behalf of each partner individually must be deemed to be service on each partner. 108 I.C. 528=1928 L. 528. Whether enlarges scope of O. 21, R. 50 (2). 57 M.L.J. 344=52 M. 885 (F.B.).

"AS THE COURT MAY DIRECT."—Where service has in fact been made upon a partner of a firm, the service is not merely bad because the directions of the Court under R. 3 have not been first obtained. 59 C. 496=138 I.C. 637=1932 C. 541.

O. 30, R. 3, Proviso.—All that the proviso to R. 3 requires is that the summons shall be served upon every person whom it is sought to make liable which means every person "whom it is sought to make personally liable." It must be read along with and in the light of O. 21, R. 50, and so far as the property of a dissolved firm is sought to be made liable, there is no need for serving each and every partner of that firm. Therefore, it is not open to a person to challenge the decree passed against his dissolved firm as a nullity on the ground that he was not personally served, or on the ground that the property of the firm was not liable for the decree. 161 I.C. 324=1936 S. 34. A decree obtained against a firm after service of summons upon one of the partners only is a good decree against the firm, although the plaintiff had notice of the dissolution of the partnership and he had not served all the partners individually. The only effect would be that it could not be executed individually against the partner who had not been served, nor could the plaintiff get leave under O. 21, R. 50, to have it executed against him personally. 42 C.W.N. 820. In a summary suit against a firm where several partners have been served individually and leave to defend is granted to some and not to others, a decree can be passed against those partners to whom leave is refused and also against the firm. 187 I.C. 373=A.I.R. 1940 Sind 19.

O. 30, Rr. 3 and 8.—Suit against firm—Parties—Joinder of—Person not served but claiming to be interested in firm though denying to be partner—Right to intervene and defend suit on merits—Court's power to add without plaintiff's consent. 40 C.W.N. 677.

O. 30, R. 4.—R. 4 applies only to a case before the institution or during the pendency of any suit, it shall not be necessary to join the legal representative of the deceased as a party to the suit.

(2) Nothing in sub-rule (1) shall limit or otherwise affect any right which the legal representative of the deceased may have—

(b) to enforce any claim against the survivor or survivors.

Rs. of the deceased sole proprietor under the provisions of O. 22, R. 3. 103 I.C. 142=1927 L. 556. The surviving partner of a firm is entitled to maintain a suit under O. 30, R. 4, without joining as parties to the suit the legal representatives of the deceased partner or partners of the firm; and a suit by such a partner cannot be dismissed on the ground of non-joinder of the legal representatives of the deceased partner or partners. 1937 M.W. A person who sues some of the partners in their individual capacity cannot change his front and sue for a relief against them as partners. 76 P.R. 1915=31 I.C. 209. The L.R. of a deceased partner is not a necessary party in suits by the surviving partner for recovery of the debts due to the firm, but they may apply to Court to be joined as parties. 7 Bur.L. L.J. 219. Suit by two members of firm—Compromise decree—Death of one member subsequently—L.Rs. not impleaded—R. 4 makes them unnecessary as parties—No abatement. 48 C.L.J. 357. See also 148 I.C. 462. O. 30, R. 4, does not apply to a joint Hindu family firm. "Partner" is one who is a partner by contract and not by virtue of his personal law, and "firm" means a business carried on by persons who have contracted to do so and does not include a Hindu joint family business. If one of the defendants sued as a joint family firm dies, his legal representatives must be brought on record, and if no application for substitution be made within the time limited, the suit must be held to abate as against him; and if the continuation of the suit would result in conflicting decrees, the suit abates against the other defendants as well. I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 423.

LEGAL REPRESENTATIVE.—The whole scheme of O. 30 is against the theory that a suit against a firm is a suit against the L. Rs. of a deceased partner. R. 4 must not be carried any further than what it expressly states. If it is sought to fix liability on the private estate of the deceased partner, apart from his interest in the partnership assets, then his L.Rs. must be added. In such a case the L.Rs. of the deceased partner are served with the summons though not added as parties, leave cannot be obtained to issue execution against them under O. 21, R. 50 (2) of the Code. See 29 Bom.L.R. 1296=105 I.C. 305=1927 B. 581.

O. 30, R. 5.—The concluding words in R. 5 lay down a definite rule of law that service on a person without notice is equivalent to service as a partner. 19 C.L.J. 581=19 C.W.N. 1008. The provisions of O. 30 are applicable to suits only and do not apply to proceedings of an arbitrator under Arbitration Act. 115 I.C. 536=1929 L. 228. 6. Where persons are sued as partners in the name of their firm, they shall appear individually in their own names, but all subsequent proceedings shall, nevertheless, continue in the name of the firm.
 Appearance of partners.
7. Where a summons is served in the manner provided by rule 3 upon a person having the control or management of the partnership business, no appearance by him shall be necessary unless he is a partner of the firm sued.
 No appearance except by partners.
8. Any person served with summons as a partner under rule 3 may appear under protest, denying that he is a partner, but such appearance shall not preclude the plaintiff from otherwise serving a summons on the firm and obtaining a decree against the firm in default of appearance where no partner has appeared.
 Appearance under protest.

NOTES.

O. 30, R. 6.—Under R. 6, in a suit against a firm in the name of firm name, the appearance of one partner is appearance of the firm, i.e., of all partners of the firm. 62 C. 510=39 C.W.N. 606. It implies the right of any partner who has been sued against in the name of a firm to appear in the suit. If any partner considers that his rights will not be adequately represented by the other partner who has been impleaded, or that his interest is adverse to that of the other partner it is just and fair that he should be allowed to appear individually and resist the claim. 1930 A.L.J. 1212=52 A. 951=1930 A. 701 (2). It entitles a plaintiff suing a firm to know who the persons are who constitute that firm and the information cannot be withheld. 78 P.R. 1918=47 I.C. 422. The word "individually" in R. 6 is not synonymous with "in person". (Ibid.) No partner can be forced to appear in person, but, in his absence, after service of summons, he will be dealt with ex parte. (Ibid.) See also 108 I.C. 528=1928 L. 528. In an ordinary suit against the firm, each partner has a right to come in and defend. He has an individual right to come in and defend although he defends on behalf of the firm. Each partner may file separate defences, one partner may defend, while another admits. Though not clearly stated this is involved in O. 30, R. 6. 42 C.W.N. 820. Under O. 30, R. 6, after appearance all steps in the suit must be in the name of the firm. Though the appearance in such circumstances is individual by each partner, that appearance is an appearance on behalf of the firm. Hence where a warrant of attorney is given by one partner to enter appearance on his behalf, the warrant of attorney is and is intended to be on behalf of the firm. A.I.R. 1938 Cal. 377. Suit against firm—Summons on a person as partner—Defence in partner's name but containing nothing individual—There is technical flaw which can be corrected by Court even at argument stage. 1929 S. 192.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—Where some only of a large number of partners who have been sued under the name of the firm put in appearance, the fact will be duly recorded; and if appearance has not been put in by all the partners, the case will be one in which some only of the partners have appeared and others have not. The suit being one in which the entire firm is sued, the liability of each partner is not several but a collective liability, unless any particular partner is impleaded for some reason in his individual capacity, in which case he should figure as party wholly apart from his capacity as a partner. Each of the partners who has entered appearance as such has precisely the same rights as regards the conduct of the case as one of several defendants having a common defence. The name of the firm is only a compendious description of the partners in reference to the common interest which they possess in a certain concern. When the firm is arrayed as a defendant, all the partners should be deemed to be in the array of the defendants in their capacity as partners. 55 A. 719=1933 A.L.J. 1264=1933 A. 523.

O. 30, R. 7.—R. 7 must be read subject to R. 5 and it contemplates a case where service is on a manager. 19 C.L.J. 581=19 C.W.N. 1008.

O. 30, Rr. 7 and 8.—In a suit against a firm and its partners, there is nothing in law to prevent the Court from arriving at a finding in the suit itself, that a particular person is a partner in the firm, although such person appears in protest and although his protest is not struck off. 30 S.L.R. 296=1936 S. 206.

O. 30, R. 8.—Appearance under protest. 64 I.C. 688=23 Bom.L.R. 1249. A person served as a partner, who enters an appearance under protest denying that he is a partner, is not entitled to dispute the liability of the firm, and cannot therefore obtain an order for an issue to try the question of his partnership before the other issues in the action. 42 Bom.L.R. 935=A.I.R. 1940 Bom. 390. Where plaintiff files a suit against the firm, the alleged members of which put in their appearance under protest, he has the option of applying to strike out their appearance under protest. If he does not do so but simply obtains a decree against the firm, the defendants are entitled to apply to Court for provision to be made for their costs of appearance in the event of the plaintiff not applying for leave to issue execution against

9. This order shall apply to suits between a firm and one or more of the partners therein and to suits between firms having one or more partners in common; but no execution shall be issued in such suits except by leave of the Court, and, on an application for leave to issue such execution, all such accounts and inquiries may be directed to be taken and made and directions given as may be just.

10. Any person carrying on business in a name or style other than his own name may be sued in such name or style as if it were a firm name; and, so far as the nature of the case will permit, all rules under this order shall apply.

them within a reasonable period or so applying but failing to prove they were partners. 138 I.C. 777=34 Bom.L.R. 640=1932 B. 269. A surety bond executed in a partnership suit enures for the benefit of all those who eventually get a decree. 4 I.C. 436.

O. 30, R. 9.—The scope of R. 9 is not to lay down when and under what circumstances suits can be laid as between partners. It only lays down the possibility of such suits and the procedure to be followed therein. 45 I.C. 36=34 M.L.J. 408. Each of the parties to a partnership suit is really in turn plaintiff and defendant and in both capacities comes before the Court. 42 I.C. 436. No suit lies as between partners or between firms having common partners for recovery of money without asking for accounts. 45 I.C. 36=34 M.L.J. 408. A suit lies by one firm against another firm notwithstanding that the firms have common partners. 44 I.C. 428=34 M.L.J. 32. Where an individual happens to be a common partner in two houses of trade or firms, no action can be brought by one firm against the other upon any transaction between them while such individual is a common partner. 163 I.C. 579=38 Bom.L.R. 486=1936 B. 246. This rule, however, is subject to an exception in equity in certain cases where it might be possible to ascertain the rights and liabilities of a member of a firm when all the parties are before the Court, and provided all interested parties are before the Court either as plaintiffs or as defendants, the Court would adjust and determine their rights. 1936 B. 246. This equitable exception cannot be extended to a case which cannot be adequately dealt with merely by a declaration of a right to a credit in the partnership accounts. A suit for specific performance of an oral agreement for a lease entered into between a firm and one of its partners is a suit to which the equitable principle cannot be applied. Nor does R. 9 entitle the firm to institute such a suit on such an agreement. Such a suit is therefore not maintainable in law. 1936 B. 246. An action for balance of a settled account is not barred merely because there are other unsettled accounts between the partners. Where, therefore, a partner of a firm is doing business with the firm on his own behalf and has struck a balance in favour of the firm after settling his account, a suit by the firm for the balance is maintainable. 164 I.C. 832=38 P.L.R. 857=1936 L. 648. The provisions of R. 9 which provide that execution will not be taken without the leave of the Court and that the Court may order all accounts to be taken and give such directions as it considers just are sufficient to safeguard the interest of the defendant. (Ibid.)

O. 30, R. 10: SCOPE OF RULE.—R. 10 of O. 30 simply justifies the introduction of the assumed name instead of the real name of the defendant but does not absolve plaintiff from his liability to propose a proper guardian, if the defendant represented by such a name is really a minor. 57 M. 973=1934 M. 386=66 M.L.J. 609. R. 10 is subject to the same restrictions as R. 1. The case of a single proprietor doing business in a name other than his own who has to be treated as a firm for the purpose of O. 30, is covered by R. 1, which requires that the firm should be carrying on business in British India. Consequently, if a person carries on business outside British India in a name other than his own, a suit against him in the name of the firm is not maintainable. 36 Bom. L. R. 983=1934 Bom. 467. See also 149 I.C. 998=1934 L. 147; 1939 Sind 172.

APPLICABILITY OF RULE.—A plaintiff is entitled to sue a defendant, in the name of the firm, in respect of a firm transaction under R. 10; his residence is of no importance to determine jurisdiction. 10 I.C. 895. Death of sole proprietor of firm—Suit in the name of firm when can be instituted. 89 I.C. 22=23 A.L.J. 961. When a firm is only of one person a suit in the name of the firm is incompetent and will not lie under O. 30, R. 10. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 275=A.I.R. 1939 Sind 172. See also 158 I.C. 25. and administrators.

2. Where there are several trustees, executors or administrators, they shall all be made parties to a suit against one or more of them :

Provided that the executors who have not proved their testator's will, and trustees, executors and administrators outside British India, need not be made parties.

NOTES.

is carried on by another adult person as guardian or agent in the old name of their father, the name becomes the name of the minors. They are not, however, partners, which relationship can be created only by contract. A hundi drawn in favour of the business name is really in favour of the minor sons; and if the hundi becomes payable when they are still minors, they can avail themselves of S. 6 of the Limitation Act, and bring a suit on it after the minority ceases. The mere fact that there was a manager who could have sued during their minority cannot make any difference. Nor will the fact of the hundi being in a name not their own disentitle them to the benefit of S. 6, Limitation Act. 158 I.C. 25=16 P.L.T. 649. See also 160 I.C. 893=1936 O.W.N. 221=1936 O. 245. Business conducted by guardian on behalf of minors in firm name. A decree obtained ex parte in a suit instituted against the firm in the firm name is not a decree against the minors and cannot be executed against them or their property, because the minors are not parties to the decree. 44 L.W. 310=1936 M. 707=71 M.L.J. 373. Sole proprietor of firm, death of.—Suit in name of the firm, when can be instituted. 1926 A. 161 (2). See also 149 I.C. 998=1934 L. 147. Suit under—Right of defendant to set up counter-claim—Counter-claim whether need be given separate title. 32 Bom.L.R. 212.

O. 31, R. 1: SCOPE AND APPLICATION OF RULE.—R. 1 is not applicable to a suit for a declaration of the plaintiff's right to worship in a temple and for an injunction restraining the defendant from interfering with his right. 63 I.C. 963=13 Bur.L.T. 183. See also 2 Pat. L.J. 306=39 I.C. 779.

TRUSTEE.—Under R. 1 a beneficiary is not a necessary party to a suit as he can be represented by his trustee. 18 I.C. 959=17 C. L.J. 233. Where the interest of the trustees is adverse to that of the beneficiaries, the beneficiaries must be added as parties. 13 M. 197. See also 12 M.L.J. 355.

BENEFICIARIES.—In suits between beneficiaries of property vested in trustees of executors and third persons, beneficiaries must be represented by trustees or executors. 50 I. C. 509=11 Bur.L.J. 249. Where an administratrix creates a mortgage without sanction of Court, beneficiaries are necessary parties to the same. 51 B. 16=98 I.C. 915=1927 B. 49.

SHEBAIT.—Shebait of an idol can sue for possession of property belonging to the idol. 18 I.C. 959=17 C. L. J. 233. In a suit against a temple all the trustees are necessary parties even though there is an agreement between them authorising one of them to represent the temple. 1922 M. 405=77 I.C. 942.

EXECUTOR.—No one but an executor is competent to prosecute a suit as representative of the deceased. 55 I.C. 504.

ADMINISTRATION SUIT.—In an administration suit by a legatee the executor is the only necessary party. The other legatees need not be joined as parties defendants. It would suffice for a decree to be made and the other parties either brought on record or notice given to them if that would suffice at the time of the reference if their interests were likely to be affected. 58 C. 77=132 I. C. 904.

ADMINISTRATOR.—One of co-administrators of an estate can sue to recover rent with consent of the other administrators who are impleaded as pro forma defendants. 53 I.C. 478 (1).

O. 31, R. 2.—Where a suit is instituted against a trustee, all the trustees should be impleaded. If not, no decree can be made against any of the trustees. O. 1, R. 9 which provides that no suit can fail for non-joinder of parties does not mean that only one trustee may be sued in contravention of O. 31, R. 2, and a decree passed against the trustee singled out for the suit. 55 A. 687=1933 A.L.J. 1393. Where a suit is not one by or against trustees, executors or administrators, but a suit against the Idol, it seems doubtful whether O. 31, R. 2 has any application, for it cannot be said that the property in such a case is vested in a trustee executor or administrator. 1939 O.W.N. 346=A.I. R. 1939 Oudh 145.

Husband of married executrix not to join.

3. Unless the Court directs otherwise, the husband of a married trustee, administratrix or executrix shall not as such be a party to a suit by or against her.

ORDER XXXII.

Suits by or against Minors and Persons of Unsound Mind.

1. Every suit by a minor shall be instituted in his name by a person who in such suit shall be called the next friend of the minor.

NOTES.

O. 32; R. 1: APPLICATION OF RULE.—O. 32 has no application when the minor happens to be a ward under the Court of Wards, and a Civil Court in which such a minor is sued has no power to appoint a guardian ad litem for him or to remove a guardian who has been acting for him. 15 Pat. 667=17 Pat. L.T. 899. O. 32 does not directly apply to proceedings in execution. 64 I.C. 25=35 C.L.J. 9. See also 104 I.C. 357. Therefore, in determining whether the minor is sufficiently represented in the execution proceedings, Court is at liberty to look at the substance of the transaction. 109 I.C. 521; 64 I.C. 25=35 C.L.J. 9; 1929 M. 275.

SCOPE OF RULE.—This order lays down the form in which a minor should appear as a party and this form should be strictly followed. 5 C. 450. Where plaintiff is really a minor, case could not be proceeded with until a next friend comes on record. 3 R. 239=1925 R. 325. Suit by minor in forma pauperis—Next friend need not be a pauper. 37 C.L.J. 394=1923 C. 656. Suit must be brought in name of minor and not in name of next friend as representing the estate of the minor. 11 C.L.R. 15; 14 C. 159 (F.B.). See also 13 M. 480; 19 M. 127. General rule is that, although a minor may appear by an attorney or pleader, he can only plead or conduct the suit by his guardian. 16 M. 344. Consent of a minor to institution of a suit by next friend is immaterial. 3 M. 34. Suit filed against minor as major—Ex parte decree—Objection raised in execution—Restoration of suit—Guardian ad litem appointed and suit decreed—Suit taking effect from date of original filing. 1930 A. L.J. 938=1930 A. 644. Suit on behalf of alleged minor—Plaintiff found to be major—Procedure to be followed. See 1938 O.W. N. 779. There is no true analogy between the position of a de facto guardian of a minor under the Mahomedan Law and the position of a next friend or guardian ad litem under O. 32, C.P. Code. The next friend or guardian ad litem under O. 32 is not a party to the suit in the true sense of the word. He is there to look after the interests of the minor. Though a de facto guardian as such cannot give a valid discharge, if he is the next friend or guardian ad litem in the suit, he can, with the leave of the Court, give a valid discharge or settle or compromise on behalf of the minor. I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 200=190 I.C. 253.

EVIDENCE.—Question whether a person is a minor or not should be decided by positive evidence, and not by his appearance. 1864 W.R. 304. A certificate of guardianship is not evidence of minority, nor a horoscope. 17 C. 842.

COSTS.—Court may direct costs to be paid by next friend personally in proper cases. See 1927 M. 1023=106 I.C. 131.

DEMAND OF SECURITY FOR COSTS.—There is no provision in Code for calling upon next friend to provide security for costs though it is open to Court to make an order, after the hearing, for costs against a next friend and to call on him to provide security in the event of his retiring. [O. 32, Rr. (4) and 8 (1)]. Interest of the other parties to the suit are sufficiently protected by the power they have in a proper case of moving the Court either to stay the suit as not being for benefit of the infant, or if there is a just cause other than the poverty of the next friend, to have him removed. It is undesirable to call on the next friend to provide security for costs. 1934 A. 458 (1).

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—Where Court appointed a person other than a certificated guardian, the next friend of the minor, defective service of notice upon the guardian under R. 4 (2) is only an irregularity and the minor is properly represented. 13 I.C. 594. When plaintiff although a minor sues in her own name, and defendants take no objection till suit has been disposed of by appellate Court, they cannot raise any objection in second appeal, and after plaintiff has become a major. 19 M. 127. Objection as to minority cannot be taken after remand, if the point was not urged in appellate Court. 13 C. 189. Guardian ad litem—Gross negligence—Effect. 33 I.C. 481. Where a minor files a plaint and before it is put up before the Court, attains majority, and applies to be allowed to proceed with it, the plaint must be deemed to have been properly presented on the day of application to proceed with the plaint. 46 I.C. 747=16 A.L.J. 737. Appeal by an infant not represented by a guardian ad litem is not entertainable. 52 I.C. 985=29 C.L.J. 419. It is no doubt open to the minor on attaining majority to drop the suit as not properly instituted, but he is not bound to do so; he could affirm the previous proceeding and continue the suit. 44 M.L.J. 515=1923 M. 553. To reject the plaint filed by a minor without a next friend is improper. Court has to grant time for next

LOC. AM.—[LAHORE AND N.-W.F.P.] To O. 32, r. 1, the following paragraph shall be added:—

“Such person may be ordered to pay any costs in the suit as if he were the plaintiff.”

2. (1) Where a suit is instituted by or on behalf of a minor without a next friend, the defendant may apply to have the plaint taken off the file, with costs to be paid by the pleader or other person by whom it was presented.

Where suit is instituted without next friend, plaint to be taken off the file.

(2) Notice of such application shall be given to such person, and the Court, after hearing his objections (if any), may make such order in the matter as it thinks fit.

Guardian for the suit to be appointed by Court for minor defendant.

3. (1) Where the defendant is a minor, the Court, on being satisfied of the fact of his minority, shall appoint a proper person to be guardian for the suit for such minor.

NOTES.

friend to come in, 4 L. 490=75 I.C. 1028. Decree against a properly represented minor is binding upon him, but if he has not been properly represented, the decree is a nullity. 15 I.C. 903=9 A.L.J. 653. Certificated guardian of a minor must be appointed guardian ad litem unless for special reasons Court thinks that some one else should be appointed in the interests of the minor. 22 I.C. 240. Decree obtained on behalf of a minor cannot be set aside merely on the ground of non-compliance with R. 3 (1) and (2). 49 I.C. 954. Minor attaining majority during pendency of suit—Decree based on compromise passed with guardian ad litem as party—Minor can set aside the same. 1928 M. 294=55 M.L.J. 374=51 M. 763.

O. 32, R. 2.—R. 2 applies to cases under the Punjab Tenancy Act. 35 P.L.R. 428. When suit is brought by a minor as a major and it is found that plaintiff is a minor, Court can allow a next friend to come in and proceed with the suit. 16 M.L.J. 13. See 13 B. at 11. See also 3 R. 239=1925 L. 325. Where suit is instituted by a person who is not the proper next friend of a minor, Court must take the suit off the file and should not proceed to try other issues in the suit. 115 I.C. 456. Minor cannot be next friend of other minors. 1925 O. 178. As to how the question whether a person is a minor or major is to be decided, see under R. 1. As to when objection is to be taken, see 19 M. 127 and 13 C. 189. Where a suit is filed by a minor, it is open to the defendant to apply to have the plaint taken off the file under O. 32; R. 2. But if he fails to avail himself of this, he cannot be heard afterwards to say that the proceedings were null and void because the plaintiff was a minor. 1939 N.L.J. 577=A.I. R. 1940 Nag. 99. Persons sued as members of firm—Minor member impleaded as major—Decree in suit not bad. 27 A.L.J. 204=114 I.C. 881=1929 A. 148.

O. 32, Rr. 2 and 15.—Where a suit was instituted in the name of joint family firm consisting of R and his minor son by N. holding a power of attorney on behalf of R, and it was found during the pendency of the suit that R was of unsound mind but was not so at the time the suit was instituted. Held, that in the absence of any finding that the suit had not been properly instituted, Court had no power to order the plaint to be taken off the file. Held, further, that the rules relating to suits on behalf of minor could not be strictly applied under R. 15 to the circumstances of the case and that R. 2 did not apply as the suit was properly instituted. 161 I.C. 646=1936 L. 7.

O. 32, R. 3: MEANING OF WORDS.—“On being satisfied” meaning of. 16 M. 344. See 14 C. 204 (209). Also 17 C. 849, under R. 1. “Proper person”. 24 A. 386. The words “any guardian of the minor appointed or declared by an authority competent in that behalf” in sub-r. (4) apply to a guardian appointed under a will of a Hindu father. 31 B. 413; 14 C. 212.

SCOPE OF RULE.—Provisions of this rule are imperative, and if not substantially complied with, any decree passed against the minor is a nullity. 28 A. 137; 30 C. 1021 (P.C.); 151 I.C. 1066=11 O.W.N. 1036=1934 Oudh 475; 29 A. 328; 29 A. 290; 28 A. 416; 11 C. at 405; 24 C. 25; 30 C. 613; 1929 C. 586; 139 I.C. 113=1932 L. 521; 1937 Rang. 126. Before it is competent for Court to appoint a guardian, there must be a suit in which the minor is a defendant in existence. 11 C. at 405. Suit against minor—Absence of appointment of guardian ad litem—Decree is a nullity as against him. See 55 C. 124; 57 M. 973. But see 10 Luck. 293=11 O.W.N. 1403=1935 Cudh 183, where it was held that the absence of a formal order by the Court appointing a guardian ad litem for a minor defendant is only an irregularity and not an omission fatal to the suit. See also 1935 N. 235; 100 I.C. 468=28 Punj.L. R. 627; 92 I.C. 241=1926 N. 267; 15 I.C. 903=9 A.L.J. 653; 22 I.C. 240; 61 P.R. 1915=31 I.C. 45; 1940 A.L.J. 85=1940 All. 202. Where a person acts as the de facto guardian ad litem of a minor defendant, the mere absence of an order formally appointing him as guardian ad litem is not fatal to the validity of the proceedings. 40 P.L.R. 403=A.I.R. 1938 Lah. 709.

(2) An order for the appointment of a guardian for the suit may be obtained upon application in the name and on behalf of the minor or by the plaintiff.

(3) Such application shall be supported by an affidavit verifying the fact that the proposed guardian has no interest in the matters in controversy in the suit adverse to that of the minor and that he is a fit person to be so appointed.

NOTES.

Where the defendant in a suit is a minor that Court has to see not merely that a guardian is appointed, but also that the guardian has consented to act. Where notices are served on minor defendants through their mothers as guardians, but no appearance is made on their behalf, nor any order of Court passed appointing the mothers as guardians, or showing that the proposed guardians consented to act as such on behalf of the minor defendants, the decrees passed in the suits against the minors must be held to be mere nullities. 16 Pat. 632=19 Pat.L.T. 259=A.I.R. 1938 Pat. 97. Though mere absence of recording or formal order of appointment does not vitiate proceedings; where minor had good defence but no such defence is raised and guardian's interest is adverse, the proceedings may be vitiated. 55 C. 1241=32 C.W.N. 665=1928 C. 844; 57 M. 973=1934 M. 386=66 M.L.J. 609. Setting aside decree—Grounds—Notice not served to all parties—Wrong entry of nature of suit in notice—Guardian appointed and minor represented—Decree whether liable to be set aside: 113 I.C. 829=26 A.L.J. 834=1928 A. 621. A guardian must be appointed by the Court, even in cases, when a guardian has been appointed under the Guardian and Wards Act. 24 C. 25. See also 1930 C. 455. The rule contemplates a case where the guardian appointed under the Guardian and Wards Act sues to have it declared that the minor was not adopted by her husband. 30 C. 613. The provisions of O. 32 relating to "suits by or against minors" are not directly applicable to proceedings in execution. 64 I.C. 25=35 C.L.J. 9. See also 104 I.C. 357; 143 I.C. 228=1933 Pesh. 63. R. 3 applies to the institution of suits and not for the mere service of notices. 15 L.R. 8 (Rev.). R. 4 and other rules as to appointment of guardian must be read with R. 3. 36 I.C. 794=4 L.W. 362. O. 32 is not exhaustive and Court can dismiss a suit filed by a next friend, if it is not in the interests of minor. 25 I.C. 738=1 L.W. 875. R. 3 does not apply to commutation proceedings under Bengal Tenancy Act. 100 I.C. 146=1927 C. 374. As to applicability to proceedings under U. P. Encumbered Estates Act; see 1939 A.L.J. 411. Where a minor is not in any way prejudiced by not having a guardian during the comparatively short period of three months when he was a minor, suit does not fall under R. 3. 149 I.C. 986=15 L. 645=36 P.L.R. 315=1934 L. 274 (2). Where a suit is instituted against certain persons on the footing that they were minors the Court, by appointing guardian ad litem under O. 32; R. 3; must be taken to have arrived at a finding of fact of their minority and the onus of proving that they were majors at the time of the institution of the suit is on the persons alleging it to be so. A.I.R. 1938 Rang. 468. A decree passed against a minor girl for restitution of conjugal rights is a nullity. (31 A. 572 (P.C.); Rel. on.). 170 I.C. 532=A.I.R. 1937 Rang. 226.

OBJECT OF RULE.—The object of Rr. 3 and 4 is that the minor in suit should be represented by a fit person so that his interests will be properly guarded. 7 O.L.J. 219=56 I.C. 313. It is obligatory on the Court under R. 3 (1) to appoint a proper person to be guardian of a minor defendant for the suit. 34 C.L.J. 293=26 C.W.N. 781. See also 26 A.L.J. 777; 1927 L. 861. Where a person purposed as a guardian ad litem appeared and represented the minor in the proceedings against him, the absence of a formal order appointing him as guardian would not be much material. 69 C.L.J. 288=43 C.W.N. 519=A.I.R. 1939 Cal. 471. See also 1938 Lah. 709=40 P.L.R. 403. Where decree is obtained against a minor without having a guardian appointed for him or with a disqualified person so appointed the result is if the minor was not represented, that the decree must be regarded as a nullity. But where a qualified person was appointed guardian but there was some irregularity in the proceedings or where, on account of the fraud of the opposite party, the appointment of one person as guardian was obtained instead of another who would have conducted the case better on behalf of the minor; the decree is not ipso facto a nullity. In such a case, the irregularity or fraud must be shown to have prejudiced the minor before he is entitled to appropriate relief. 134 I.C. 188 (2)=1931 M. 674. (Case-law reviewed.) The appointment of guardian by a Court of First Instance enures not only for the term of the proceeding in that Court but also for purposes of appeal. 22 M. 187; 39 C.L.J. 590; see also 59 C. 1108=1932 C. 888; and for purposes of execution proceedings. 41 C.W.N. 531=1937 C. 259. Defective appointment—Representation of minor in suit—No order appointing guardian—Compromise by person professing to act as guardian—Invalid. 35 A. 487=40 I.A. 182=25 M.L.J. 492=21 I.C. 288 (P.C.); 33 I.C. 805=14 A.L.J. 589; 26 O.C. 113=74 I.C. 409. Where a father acted as the guardian ad litem of his minor son, the fact that there was no formal order of Court appointing him will not vitiate the proceedings, if the minor was in no way prejudiced thereby. 74 I.C. 821=1924 O. 178; 26 O.C. 113; 74 I.C. 409=1923 O. 206; 4 Pat.L.J. 213=48 I.C. 245; 35 I.C. 868; 33 I.C. 941. Where no formal order was made appointing a guardian ad litem as required by R. 3; and no sanction was sought; or granted by the Court to the compromise as required by R. 7, the irregularities are very serious, and the compromise is not binding upon the minor. The fact that the minor was near his majority, that he took an active part in the proceedings and that he was effectively represented by his grandmother although no order of appointment was made, will be of no avail. 39 P.L.R. 125=170 I.C. 831. Absence of formal order—Reference to arbitration—Minor substantially represented in proceedings by guardian—Award not a nullity. 71 I.C. 7. See also 152 I.C. 839; 42 P.L.R. 114 (Filing award against minor). Representation of minor member of a joint Hindu family by the manager. See 53 A. 427=129 I.C. 560=1931 A. 136; 143 I.C. 228=1933 Pesh. 63. A decree based on the award was held to be not binding on the minor if he was not properly represented as required by R. 3 and the irregularity cannot be condoned. 44 B. 202=22 Bom.L.R. 266. Mere fact that leave of Court was not obtained for a reference to arbitration on behalf of a minor will not vitiate the reference and the award where the interests of the minor have in no way been prejudiced. 71 I.C. 7. The appointment of father as guardian ad litem without his consent and who does not appear and passing decree ex parte even against the minor is illegal. 52 I.C. 636; 38 A. 315=35 I.C. 707=14 A.L.J. 353; 25 I.C. 620. A father should not be appointed guardian of his minor son, where there is a clear conflict of interest between them. 15 C.L.J. 446=17 C.W.N. 219. See also 26 A.L.J. 777. The fact that a respondent decree-holder was not properly represented at the instance of the appellant judgment-debtor does not make a decree passed in the appeal in favour of that respondent void and incapable of execution. 37 A. 179=13 A.L.J. 179; 34 A. 321=9 A.L.J. 290. Defective appointment—Omission to consult minor's wishes is not a defect. 56 I.C. 313; 2 P. 273=4 Pat.L.T. 329. Defective appointment—Ex parte decree—Suit to set aside. 4 Pat.L.T. 147=2 P. 335. No person can be appointed guardian without his consent. Where Court has given sanction and approval for appearance of a person as guardian, the absence of formal order of appointment is not always fatal to the proceeding. 3 Pat.L.T. 451=66 I.C. 137. A mere irregularity in the appointment of guardian ad litem will not render the decree passed against minor null and void, unless it is proved that the minor's interest has suffered thereby. 66 I.C. 137. Where no notice or summons is served on the guardian of the minor, and no order was made appointing guardian and there was no appearance by the so-called guardian at any stage of the proceedings a decree passed against minor is not binding on him. 3 Pat.L.T. 451=66 I.C. 137.

See also 26 C.L.J. 258; 37 A. 179; 20 C.L.J. 469; 2 P. L. T. 617. For determining whether a minor was sufficiently represented in the execution proceeding, Courts can look at the substance of the transaction. 64 I.C. 25=35 C.L.J. 9=109 I.C. 521. An execution sale held of a minor's property without appointing a guardian ad litem is materially irregular and the guardian of the minor can set it aside. 29 I.C. 211. A duly appointed guardian for a suit is fully entitled to represent the minor in all proceedings which take place in execution of the decree. 48 I.C. 39; 41 C.W.N. 531=1937 C. 259. A decree against a minor without a guardian ad litem at the time is void, as also all further proceedings. Subsequent appointment of a guardian in execution proceedings will not validate the decree nor other proceedings in its execution. 35 I.C. 154=31 M.L.J. 39; 18 C.L.J. 18=17 C.W.N. 549. See also 1928 M.W.N. 275. Failure to appoint guardian for the minor does not vitiate execution proceedings since the provisions of O. 32 do not in terms apply to execution. 190 I.C. 513=1940 Lah. 241. Court has no jurisdiction to sell the minor's interests even though they were safeguarded by other defendants having a common defence. 35 I.C. 154=31 M.L.J. 39. If notice of appointment of guardian ad litem is not given to the minors concerned or their mother, they are not bound by the decree passed against the guardian ad litem who was a Court Nazir and who had no funds or instructions to defend the suit. 41 A. 235=17 A. L. J. 249.

DUTY OF COURT.—When defendant in a suit is a minor, it is the duty of Court not only to appoint a guardian ad litem for him, but also to satisfy itself that the proposed guardian is a fit and proper person to represent the minor in the suit; to put in a proper defence, and generally to act in the interests of the minor. 36 Bom.L.R. 844=1934 B. 396.

FIT PERSON—ADVERSE INTEREST.—The provisions of R. 3 are mandatory and leave no option to Court and they cannot be ignored or overlooked. In a suit against an adult member of a joint Hindu family and his minor nephew on a hundi executed by the former (and not by the minor's father), the uncle is not the proper person to be appointed as guardian of the minor inasmuch as his interests are necessarily adverse to those of the minor. The appointment of another guardian ad litem is therefore imperative in such a case. 151 I.C. 1066=11 O.W.N. 1236=1934 O. 47. As to adverse interest see also 1937 A.L.J. 340=1937 All. 374; 1937 A.L.J. 468=1937 All. 562; 1938 Pat. 437; 1938 Rang. 468. The fact that the guardian of the minor is his step-brother would not alone be sufficient justification for holding that he is intentionally harming the interests of the minor or that his interest is in any way adverse to that of the minor, especially where he himself is to be equally affected by the decree with the minor. 1935 L. 44. The fact that the person appointed as guardian ad litem of a minor defendant happens to be an executant of the deed on which the suit is brought is not invalid. It cannot be said that he is not a fit person to be appointed. 10 Luck. 293=1935 Oudh 183. Where a mortgage debt due to a Mahomedan was fraudulently assigned to the plaintiff by his widow without regard to the interests of her minor daughter who was also entitled to the debt, and the assignee sued to recover the mortgage debt making the mother and daughter parties thereto, held, that the mere fact the mother executed the assignment was not, as a matter of law, sufficient to hold that her interest was adverse to that of the minor or to invalidate the appointment of the mother as the guardian ad litem of the minor. 38 L.W. 539=1933 M. 806=65 M. L. J. 548. When a person has executed a document on behalf of a minor, and a suit is filed on that document against the minor, the question whether that person can be validly appointed guardian ad litem is not a pure question of law, but one of fact, and no hard and fast rule of law can be laid down. There is, however, nothing in the Code, or in the authorities laying down that such a person cannot be appointed guardian; under certain circumstances, he may be a proper person to act as a guardian. 36 Bom.L.R. 844=1934 B. 390; 52 M. 275=1925 M. 213=56 M.L.J. 175 (F.B.); 29 L.W. 393=1929 M. 393. There is nothing in the Code permitting the appointment of joint guardian ad litem. Where, in a suit on mortgage against two persons and their minor children, the Court, without issuing any notice to the minors or other persons who might be fitted to act as guardians of the minors and without taking any steps to comply with the provisions of Rr. 3 and 4, passes an ex parte order appointing the two persons as guardians ad litem jointly for the same minors and the interests of the guardians ad litem are adverse to those of the minors, the appointment of the guardians ad litem is defective. 163 I.C. 499=1936 R. 237.

PROCEDURE.—Defendant alleged to be minor—Issue to be framed and decided—Court's opinion about defendant's appearance is not sufficient. 96 I.C. 273=1926 P. 489. It is not necessary for appointment of a guardian under R. 3 (6) that the list of relatives mentioned in sub-R. (3) should be exhausted. 142 I.C. 629=1933 L. 337. Nor will the appointment be irregular merely because the wishes of the natural guardian were not considered by Court. 61 C. 227=1934 C. 474. In a suit brought by a next friend on behalf of a minor, the real question to be considered by Court is whether the suit is on its merits in the interests of the minor, and the Court is not justified in dismissing the suit on the ground that the suit was filed by the next friend for his own ends or that the next friend had an adverse interest. 1933

M.W.N. 839. When a certificated guardian of a minor is properly appointed as guardian ad litem of the minor in a suit he does not ipso facto cease to be guardian ad litem; merely because some other person has got himself appointed guardian of the person and property of the minor by some other Court. There is no inherent disqualification in all persons other than the certificated guardian to be a guardian ad litem. 61 C. 1023=39 C.W.N. 293=1935 C. 160; 58 M. 802=1935 M. 795=69 M.L.J. 177. See also 18 Pat. 593=1939 Pat. 601. Where a guardian ad litem is appointed for a minor defendant and a decree is passed in order that the decree may be set aside, it must be shown that actual prejudice was caused to the minor. Mere possibility of prejudice is not enough. 1934 L. 132. The order for the appointment of a guardian should be made before the minors are asked to file a written statement and not at a late stage of the case when it comes up for hearing of the evidence. The procedure is defective. But in such a case the decree will bind the minor unless it is shown that the defect of procedure has prejudiced him. 148 I.C. 456=11 O.W.N. 393=1934 O. 171.

PRACTICE IN CALCUTTA HIGH COURT.—According to the practice of the Calcutta High Court up to the year 1936, a guardian ad litem appointed in a suit ceased to be the guardian on the passing of the decree and the decree-holder was bound to have a new guardian ad litem appointed at the execution stage. 69 C.L.J. 288=43 C.W.N. 519=1939 Cal. 471.

NOTICE.—R. 3 (4) imperatively requires service of notice upon the minors. 43 I.C. 728. See also 15 P.L.T. 380=1934 Pat. 427; 14 P.L.T. 441=1933 P. 473. Failure to comply is only an irregularity and where the minor is not prejudiced the proceedings are not vitiated. 88 I.C. 294=1925 A. 548; 15 P.L.T. 380=1934 P. 427. See also 42 I. C. 421=6 L.W. 272. In absence of proof of fraud or collusion, the mere fact that notice of appointment of a guardian ad litem was not issued to the minor, does not entitle him to treat the proceedings as a nullity. There is nothing in the Code requiring plaintiff to issue a fresh summons to a minor defendant after he attains majority. (Ibid.) When appointment of a guardian ad litem is proposed, notice must always be sent to the natural guardian of the minor or the person with whom he lives. 36 I.C. 795=4 L.W. 362. The appointment of a guardian ad litem for a minor defendant before the date fixed for the hearing of the notice issued to the minor under O. 32, R. 3 (4) and without the consent of the minor may under certain circumstances be regarded as defects or irregularities condonable under S. 99. 154 I.C. 961=1935 O.W.N. 333=1935 Oudh 287. (4) No order shall be made on any application under this rule except upon notice to the minor and to any guardian of the minor appointed or declared by an authority competent in that behalf, or, where there is no such guardian, upon notice to the father or other natural guardian of the minor, or, where there is no father or other natural guardian, to the person in whose care the minor is, and after hearing any objection which may be urged on behalf of any person served with notice under this sub-rule.

LOC. AMS.—[ALLAHABAD AND OUDH.] Add as a proviso to O. 32, r. 3 (4):—

"Provided that if the minor is under ten years of age no such notice shall be issued to him."

[BOMBAY.] The words "to the minor and" in line 2 of sub-r. (4) of r. 3 of O. 32 shall be deleted.

[LAHORE.] The following sub-rules were substituted for sub-rr. (3) and (4).

"(3) The plaintiff shall file, with his plaint a list of relatives of the minor and other persons with their addresses, who prima facie are most likely to be capable of acting as guardian for the suit for a minor defendant. The list shall constitute an application by the plaintiff under sub-r. (2) above.

(4) The Court may, at any time after institution of the suit, call upon the plaintiff to furnish such a list, and, in default of compliance, may reject the plaint.

(5) Any application for the appointment of a guardian for the suit and any list furnished under this rule shall be supported by an affidavit verifying the fact that the proposed guardian has no interest in the matters in controversy in the suit adverse to that of the minor, and that each person proposed is a fit person to be so appointed.

(6) No order shall be made on any application under this rule, except upon notice to any guardian of the minor appointed or declared by an authority competent in that behalf, or, where there is no such guardian, upon notice to the father or other natural guardian of the minor, or, where there is no father or other natural guardian, to the person in whose care the minor is and after hearing any objection which may be urged on behalf of any person served with notice under this sub-rule:

Provided that the Court may, if it sees fit, issue notice to the minor also."

[MADRAS.] O. 32, rr. 3 and 4. Substitute r. 3 for old rr. 3 and 4:—

Qualifications to be a next friend or guardian. 3. (1) Any person who is of sound mind and has attained majority may act as next friend of a minor or as his guardian for the suit:

Provided that the interest of that person is not adverse to that of the minor and that he is not in the case of a next friend a defendant, or in the case of a guardian for the suit, a plaintiff.

(2) Where a minor has a guardian appointed or declared by competent authority, no person other than the guardian shall act as the next friend of the minor or be appointed his guardian for the suit unless the Court considers, for reasons to be recorded, that it is for the minor's welfare that another person be permitted to act or be appointed as the case may be.

(3) Where the defendant is a minor, the Court, on being satisfied of the fact of his minority, shall appoint a proper person to be guardian for the suit for the minor.

(3a) A person appointed under sub-rule (3) to be guardian for the suit for a minor shall, unless his appointment is terminated by retirement, removal or death, continue as such throughout when a Court sanctions a compromise entered into by such a guardian, which, on the face of it, is injurious to the interests of the minor, it acts illegally in that it fails to consider whether the minor's interests have been properly safeguarded by his would-be guardian. It is quite open to the Court to make an order appointing the mother as guardian of her minor sons on the application from their father stating that he did not desire to be their guardian but he desired that his wife in whose charge the minors were to be their guardian. It is not necessary for the mother in whose care the minors are to notify to the Court her willingness to Act. 1940 All. 467. See also 16 Pat. 623=1938 Pat. 97=Pat. L. T. 259. (4) An order for the appointment of a guardian for the suit may be obtained upon application in the name and on behalf of the minor or by the plaintiff. The application, where it is by the plaintiff shall set forth, in the order of their suitability, a list of persons (with their full addresses for service of notice in Form No. 11-A set forth in Appendix H hereto who are competent and qualified to act as guardian for the suit for the minor defendant. The Court may, for reasons to be recorded, in any particular case, exempt the applicant from furnishing the list referred to above.

(5) The application referred to in the above sub-rule whether made by the plaintiff or on behalf of the minor defendants shall be supported by an affidavit verifying the fact that the proposed guardian has not or that no one of the proposed guardians has any interest in the matters in controversy in the suit adverse to that of the minor and that the proposed guardian or guardians are fit persons to be so appointed. The affidavit shall further state according to the circumstances of each case, (a) particulars of any existing guardian appointed or declared by competent authority; (b) the name and address of the person, if any, who is the de facto guardian of the minor; (c) the names and addresses of persons, if any, who in the event of either the natural or the de facto guardian or the guardian appointed or declared by competent authority, not being permitted to act, are by reason of relationship or interest or otherwise, suitable persons to act as guardians for the minor for the suit.

(6) An application for the appointment of a guardian for the suit of a minor shall not be combined with an application for bringing on record the legal representatives of a deceased plaintiff or defendant. The application shall be by separate petitions.

Application for appointment of guardian to be separate from application for bringing on record the legal representatives of a deceased party.

(7) No order shall be made on any application under sub-r. (4) above except upon notice to any guardian of the minor appointed or declared by an authority competent in that behalf, or where there is no guardian, upon notice to the father or other natural guardian of the minor, or where there is no father or other natural guardian, to the person in whose care the minor is, and after hearing any objection which may be urged on behalf of any person served with notice under this sub-rule. The notice required by the sub rule shall be served six clear days before the day named in the notice for the hearing of the application and may be in Form. No. 11 set forth in Appendix H hereto.

and 14. is to provide that minor's interest should not suffer and that he should be properly represented in a suit filed against him. The object of giving notice to minor is that the person may not be a minor at all and the plaintiff may have by mistake sued him as a minor. Notice to guardian and other persons interested is given for the reason that a person who is guardian or who has the custody of the minor is the person best fitted to represent the minor. It is obligatory on the Court that no order should be made appointing a guardian ad litem unless and until the necessary notice is given under R. 3. 29 Bom.L.R. 1357=105 I.C. 537=1927 B. 613; 1934 L. 132. “ 3. (1) Where any of the defendants is a minor, the Court, on being satisfied of the fact of his minority, shall appoint a proper guardian for the suit for such minor.

Such list shall be in the form of an application duly verified and requesting that one of such persons may be appointed guardian of the minor for the suit, and shall state for each of such persons whether he is a guardian appointed or declared by competent authority, or a natural guardian, or the custodian of the minor, or a stranger, and shall give the address of each of such persons.

Where a guardian appointed by Court for a minor is still due to function, not having been removed and being alive, an appeal filed by the minor under the guardianship of another person is illegal and of no effect. 1941 A.W.R. O. 32, R. 3: NAGPUR AMENDMENT.—See 1941 N.L.J. 115.

O. 32, Rr. 3, 5 and 7.—If a guardian ad litem has been appointed for a minor, then the karta of the family of the minor or the father of the minor cannot enter into a compromise on behalf of such minor so as to bind the minor unless the guardian ad litem is a party to it. It is clear from O. 32, Rr. 3 and 5, that the guardian ad litem alone can represent the minor. Where a compromise is entered into by the natural guardian of a minor defendant, but the guardian ad litem appointed for the suit is not a party to it, such compromise is not binding on the minor though the Court may have approved of it. 19 Pat. 343=1940 Pat. 663.

O. 32, Rr. 3 and 4: GUARDIAN—ABSENCE OF VALID APPOINTMENT—BINDING NATURE OF DECREE.—In cases where in fact a guardian was appointed and in fact the guardian had acted for the minor the appointment may not be capable of being called in question, on the ground of any irregularity. But where no one has appeared for the minor at all and there has been no valid appointment and the notices sent to the nominated guardian have been refused, any decree that may be passed against the minor in such circumstances cannot be regarded as a mere irregularity. It is a wholly illegal procedure and no minor can be bound by such a decree. 1941 R.D. 658.

O. 32, R. 4: SCOPE AND APPLICATION.—R. 4 does not apply to a non-contentious proceeding in probate. 59 I.C. 435=24 C.W.N. 538. Irregularities in the appointment of guardian ad litem do not vitiate the proceedings in the suit. 93 I.C. 848=1926 L. 435. If personal interest of next friend conflicts with his duty towards minor, then unless there be uberrima fides, he cannot act as the minor's next friend. In such a case minor is not properly represented and decree in the suit would not bind him. (22 W.R. 290, Foll.) 56 I.C. 97. It cannot be stated as a universal proposition of law that in a suit on a mortgage executed by a Hindu father impleading his minor son as a defendant the father's interests are necessarily adverse to those of the minor and the father cannot properly represent the minor son in the mortgage suit. That is a question of fact; if the father-guardian fails to raise the defences open to the minor son, it follows that the minor is not properly represented and the decree made in the suit would not bind him. 17 Pat. 236=1938 Pat. 437. Under R. 4 it is necessary to see first that the father or any other person, the mother, with whom the minor is living, should be appointed as guardian. Where a father or mother is not appointed guardian of the minor nor are grounds shown for not appointing them but an uncle who has an interest adverse to the minor is appointed, there is no proper appointment of the guardian of the minor. 149 I.C. 988=1934 A. 212. Where a mortgage is executed by a guardian on behalf of himself and minors in respect of property in which they were jointly interested and in a suit brought against them on the mortgage the guardian is appointed guardian ad litem, his interest is adverse to that of the minors as they are sued as joint-debtors, and every joint-debtor has an interest in seeing that his co-debtors do not escape from their joint liability. This being so, the decree obtained against minors is a nullity on the ground that they were not represented in the suit. 1938 Rang. 468. It is doubtful whether R. 4 can be applied to the case of a Hindu idol. 27 A.L.J. 1251=1929 A. 887.

O. 32, R. 4 (1), Allahabad Amendment.—The leave of the Court as contemplated by sub-S. (1) of R. 4 of O. 32, need not necessarily be in writing and an oral granting of leave may be inferred from the circumstances of particular cases. Where the existence of a certificated guardian for a minor is not brought to the notice of the Court in a suit by a next friend on behalf of such a minor, it cannot be held that such a next friend was acting as such with the leave of the Court as contemplated by O. 32, R. 4 (1). 1940 A.L.J. 85=1940 All. 202.

WHO CAN ACT AS NEXT FRIEND.—Next friend should be a person residing in British India. A guardian who cannot be served is useless, and where a guardian has left the country a fresh guardian should be appointed. 17 M.L.J. 179. The representation of a minor by a non-consenting guardian is no representation at all and all proceedings while the minor is under such guardianship are null and void against him. (1927 C. 488, Rel. on; 1922 P. 448 and 31 A. 572, Cons.) 161 I.C. 200=1936 Pesh. 40. The fact that the guardian of the minor is his step-brother would not alone be sufficient justification for holding that he is intentionally harming the interests of the minor or that his interest is in any way adverse to that of the minor especially where he himself is to be equally affected by the decree with the minor. 157 I.C. 801=1935 L. 44. A mother cannot act as next friend in a suit brought by minor sons against their father. 11 C. 733. Natural father of adopted son as guardian. See 49 M.L.J. 549=91 I.C. 742=1925 M. 1285. Mortgage by father before son's birth—Suit against father and minor son—Father's interest is not adverse to minor son. 97 I.C. 703=1926 M. 1146. Married woman under the old Act of 1882. See 29 A. 728; 6 C.L.J. 36. The rule of Mahomedan Law that an uncle cannot be guardian of the property of a minor does not prevent an uncle representing his infant nephew as next friend in a suit. 6 C.L.R. 413. The interest of every litigant in a partition suit is mutually exclusive and comes into direct conflict with that of the other. In such suits, therefore, it cannot be presumed as a matter of course that a minor sister can safely and properly be represented by an adult brother, especially when he happens to be a step-brother. The interest of one is clearly adverse to that of the other and as such one is legally disqualified to act as the next friend of the other. 37 P.L.R. 112. A guardian may refuse to litigate on his ward's behalf a claim which he knows to be false and unfounded. 56 I.C. 97. Where it appears to appellate Court on an examination of the record that a minor has not been properly represented in the suit, the decree cannot be allowed to stand even though there has been no appeal by minor. 51 I.C. 583. A minor, who is represented by a guardian who is the nominee of a party whose interest is adverse to the minor's, is not properly represented in the suit. 45 C. 538=41 I.C. 503=21 C.W.N. 1043. A minor can sue to set aside a decree on the ground that he was not properly represented in the suit. 23 A. 459. Court guardian—Omission to record reasons for appointment of. 44 M.L.J. 515=1923 M. 553. No written permission need be given to the next friend to enable him to act as such. 12 C. 531. Defect in following the rule as to representation of minors is not necessarily fatal to the proceeding and does not render invalid a decree passed against the minors. 43 M. 842=39 M. L.J. 375.

SUB-RULE (2).—See 31 B. 413; 20 A. 162; 23 B. 403; 10 C. 627 (P.C.). Guardian ad litem—Failing to furnish security—Effect of. 54 I. C. 368. Mere omission to obtain the consent of the person whom it is proposed to appoint guardian of a minor is not fatal to the proceeding unless the minor was prejudiced thereby. 2 P.L.J. 390=40 I.C. 227; 15 C.L. J. 446=17 C.W.N. 219; 37 I.C. 389; 34 C. L.J. 293=26 C.W.N. 781; 43 A. 104=18 A. L.J. 956. See also 155 I.C. 365=1935 A. 649. When a certificated guardian of a minor is properly appointed as guardian ad litem of the minor in a suit, he does not ipso facto cease to be guardian ad litem merely because some other person has got himself appointed guardian of the person and property of the minor by some other Court. There is no inherent disqualification in all persons other than the certificated guardian to be a guardian ad litem. 61 C. 1023=39 C. W.N. 293=1935 C. 160. Where there is no appointment and appearance of a guardian ad litem for a minor, the decree passed is, as against the minor, a nullity and not binding on him. 2 P.L.T. 617=62 I.C. 494.

(3) No person shall without his consent be appointed guardian for the suit.

(4) Where there is no other person fit and willing to act as guardian for the suit, the Court may appoint any of its officers to be such guardian, and may direct that the costs to be incurred by such officer in the performance of his duties as such guardian shall be borne either by the parties or by any one or more of the parties to the suit, or out of any fund in Court in which the minor is interested, and may give directions for the repayments or allowance of such costs as justice and the circumstances of the case may require.

LOC. AMS.—[ALLAHABAD AND OUDH.] Substitute the following for R. 4 of O. 32 :—

4. (1) Where a minor has a guardian appointed or declared by competent authority, no person other than such guardian shall act as next friend, except by leave of the Court.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sub-rule (1) any person who is of sound mind and has attained majority may act as next friend of a minor, unless the interest of such person is adverse to that of the minor, or he is a defendant, or the Court for other reasons to be recorded considers him unfit to act.

(3) Every next friend shall, except as otherwise provided by clause ["in Oudh" read "sub-rule" for "clause" (5)] of this rule, be entitled to be reimbursed from the estate of the minor any expenses incurred by him while acting for the minor.

(4) The Court may, in its discretion, for reasons to be recorded, award costs of the suit or compensation under S. 35-A, or S. 95 against the next friend personally as if he were a plaintiff.

(5) Costs or compensation awarded under clause [in Oudh read "sub-rule"] (4) shall not be recoverable by the guardian from the estate of the minor, unless the decree expressly directs that they shall be so recoverable.

Add the following as R. 4-A of O. 32 :—

4-A. (1) Where a minor has a guardian appointed by competent authority, no person other than such guardian shall be appointed his guardian for the suit unless the Court considers for reasons to be recorded that it is for the minor's welfare that another person be appointed.

(2) Where there is no such guardian, or where the Court considers that such guardian should not be appointed, it shall appoint as guardian for the suit the natural guardian of the minor, if qualified, or where there is no such guardian the person in whose care the minor is, or any other suitable person who has notified the Court of his willingness to act, or failing any such person, an officer of the Court.

Explanation.—An officer of the Court shall for the purposes of this sub-rule include a legal practitioner on the roll of the Court.

NOTES.

SUB-RULE (3).—The Court has no power to appoint, against his or her will, any person, to be a next friend or guardian. 5 B. 306. Guardian cannot be appointed without his consent. 34 C.L.J. 293=65 I.C. 18=26 C.W. N. 781; 13 I.C. 414=15 C.L.J. 3; 29 I.C. 579=18 M.L.T. 401. Consent need not be express, it may be implied. 4 O.W.N. 356=101 I.C. 632; 4 O.W.N. 791=104 I.C. 814. (47 M. 783; 43 A. 104; 2 P. 296; 101 I.C. 632, Rel. on). Effect of guardian ad litem not consenting to appointment. See 54 C. 450=31 C.W.N. 634=103 I.C. 124=1927 C. 488.

SCOPE OF.—R. 4 (3) is mandatory and a Court has no jurisdiction to appoint a guardian ad litem on behalf of minor without his consent. [16 C.L.J. 318=20 I.C. 578, Foll.; 30 C. 1021 (P.C.), Dist.] 40 I.C. 2; 2 P. 7=4 P.L.T. 575; 4 Pat.L.T. 127=2 P. 296; 37 C.L.J. 496; 20 C.L.J. 469=19 C.W. N. 537; 59 I.C. 664=24 C.W.N. 541. Consent—Need not be express. 43 A. 104=18 A.L.J. 956; 47 M. 783=47 M.L.J. 273; 83 I.C. 290=1923 P. 231; 129 I.C. 175=1931 O. 50. As to cases where consent is implied, see 43 I.C. 563; 4 Pat.L.T. 127=2 P. 296. There is nothing however in sub-cl. (3) which requires Court to obtain the express consent of the guardian; where the guardian so appointed is a certificated guardian whom Court was bound to appoint, consent may be properly presumed when he makes no objection. 4 Pat.L.T. 127=2 P. 296; 1927 O. 560. But see 87 I.C. 238=1925 O. 633. Where interests of a minor have not been prejudiced, any defect in procedure for appointment of his guardian is not fatal. 2 P. 296=4 Pat.L.T. 127. Appointment of officer of Court—Absence of inquiry—Proceeding whether vitiated. 8 P. 558=1929 P. 360. Appointment of an officer of Court as guardian ad litem of minors in a suit without requiring the party at whose instance he is appointed to deposit necessary funds to enable the guardian to defend the case is a farce. 13 A.L.J. 179=37 A. 179. See also 110 I.C. 346. Where appeal is filed against a minor under the guardian ad litem, appellant must pay to the guardian such sum of money as would enable him to oppose the appeal. 28 I.C. 852. The wishes of minor should be considered and given due weight in appointment of a person as next friend. If pleader of the minor does not make the application, Court may appoint a proper person bearing in mind the wishes of the minor. 113 I.C. 901=1929 L. 257.

SUB-RULE (4).—A vakil is an officer of the Court for purposes of R. 4. 45 A. 395. When an officer of the Court is appointed as guardian, Court cannot pass a decree against him

(3) No person shall without his consent be appointed guardian for the suit; provided that in all cases the consent of such person shall be presumed, unless within fifteen days of receipt of notice from the Court he notifies to the Court his refusal to accept appointment as such guardian. Refusal to accept notice shall be presumed to be refusal to act.

(4) Where an officer of the Court is appointed guardian for the suit under sub-rule (2) the Court may direct that the costs to be incurred by such officer in the performance of his duties as such guardian shall be borne either by the parties or by any one or more of the parties to the suit, or out of any fund in Court in which the minor is interested, and may give directions for re-payment or allowance of such costs as justice and the circumstances of the case may require.

[CALCUTTA.] Substitute the words "Except as otherwise provided in this Order" for the words "Where there is no other person fit and willing to act as guardian for the suit."

[LAHORE.] Sub-rule (2-A) was inserted:—

"(2-A) Where a minor defendant has no guardian appointed or declared by competent authority, the Court may, subject to the proviso to sub-rule (1), appoint as his guardian for the suit a relative of the minor.

If no proper person be available, who is a relative of the minor, the Court shall appoint one of the other defendants, if any, and failing such other defendant, shall ordinarily proceed under sub-rule (4) of this rule to appoint one of its officers."

The following words were added to sub-rule (3):—

[MADRAS.] See Madras Amendment to Rule 3, supra.

[NAGPUR.] Substitute the following:—

Who may act as next friend or guardian for the suit.

"4. (1) Any person who is of sound mind and has attained majority may act as next friend of a minor or as his guardian for the suit:

Provided that the interest of such person is not adverse to that of the minor and that he is not, in the case of a next friend, a defendant, or, in the case of a guardian for the suit, a plaintiff.

(2) Where a minor has a guardian appointed or declared by competent authority, no person other than such guardian shall act as the next friend of the minor or as his guardian for the suit unless the Court considers, for reasons to be recorded, that it is for the minor's welfare that another person be permitted to act in either capacity."

Add the following as R. 4-A:—

Procedure for appointment of guardian for the suit.

"4-A. (1) No person except the guardian appointed or declared by competent authority, shall, without his consent, be appointed guardian for the suit.

NOTES.

as guardian of the minor. 4 B. 638; 28 B. 626. Negligence in conduct of suits on behalf of minors resulting in prejudice to interest of minor—Minor can avoid the decree. 48 A. 44=1926 A. 36. Appointment of Court guardian—Decree passed—Proof of fraud necessary before a suit to set aside decree is allowed. 46 C.L.J. 287=105 I.C. 199=1927 C. 865. In suit for restitution of conjugal rights by husband against his wife where the wife is a minor, a person who is alleged to have been responsible in bringing about the marriage of the defendant with the plaintiff should not be appointed as guardian ad litem of defendant. 100 I.C. 468=9 Lah.L.J. 206=28 P.L.R. 627.

COSTS.—Court has power to order an unsuccessful infant plaintiff to pay defendant's costs or to direct it to be paid out of minor's estate and vice versa. Court can also order next friend or guardian ad litem to pay costs personally. 61 C. 227=59 C.L.J. 9=151 I.C. 399=1934 C. 474. Court may provide for costs incurred by guardian in order to obtain legal assistance, even when guardian is himself a pleader. But no guardian should make a profit out of his office. 146 I. C. 986=16 N.L.J. 206=1933 N. 329.

REVISION.—Appointment of a guardian ad litem is a matter of procedure, and an error therein is not revisable ordinarily. 46 I.C. 816=5 P.L.W. 92.

O. 32, R. 4-A (Allahabad Amendment): FUNDS FOR COURT GUARDIAN—PROCEDURE FOR OBTAINING.—Where an advocate appointed guardian of a minor and the matter comes up to the High Court in which the minor is a respondent it is the duty of the advocate to make a formal application to the High Court at the earliest stage for funds and not wait till the appeal comes on for hearing and then communicate orally to the Court through an advocate appearing for another respondent, his request for funds. The Court cannot take notice of it. 1941 A.L.J. 370.

(2) An order for the appointment of a guardian for the suit may be obtained upon application in the name and on behalf of the minor or by the plaintiff.

(3) Unless the Court is otherwise satisfied of the fact that the proposed guardian has no interest adverse to that of the minor in the matters in controversy in the suit and that he is a fit person to be so appointed, it shall require such application to be supported by an affidavit verifying the fact.

(4) No order shall be made on any application for the appointment as guardian for the suit of any person, other than a guardian of the minor appointed or declared by competent authority, except upon notice to the proposed guardian for the suit and to any guardian of the minor appointed or declared by competent authority, or where there is no such guardian, the person in whose care the minor is; and after hearing any objection that may be urged on a day to be specified in the notice. The Court may, in any case, if it thinks fit, issue notice to the minor also.

(5) Where, on or before the specified day, such proposed guardian fails to appear and express his consent to act as guardian for the suit, or where he is considered unfit, or disqualified under sub-rule (3) the Court may, in the absence of any other person, fit and willing to act, appoint any of its officers or a pleader to be guardian for the suit.

(6) In any case in which there is a minor defendant, the Court may direct that a sufficient sum shall be deposited in Court by the plaintiff from which sum the expenses of the minor defendant in the suit shall be paid. The matter shall be adjusted in accordance with the final order passed in the suit in respect of costs."

[PATNA.] In sub-rule (4) for the words "Where there is no other person fit and willing to act as guardian for the suit" in the first sentence of the sub-rule substitute the following :—

"Where the person whom the Court, after hearing objections, if any, under sub-rule (4) of R. 3, proposes to appoint as guardian for the suit, fails within the time fixed in a notice to him, to express his consent to be so appointed."

[RANGOON.] The following shall be substituted for r. 4 :—

4. (1) Any person who is of sound mind and has attained majority may act as next friend of a minor or as his guardian for the suit; provided that the interest of such person is not adverse to that of the minor and that he is not, in the case of a next friend, a defendant, or, in the case of a guardian for the suit, a plaintiff.

(2) Where a minor has a guardian appointed or declared by competent authority, no person other than such guardian shall act as the next friend of the minor, or be appointed his guardian for the suit unless the Court considers, for reasons to be recorded, that it is for the minor's welfare that another person be permitted to act or be appointed, as the case may be.

(3) In the event of there being no such guardian, the natural guardian of the minor, or, if there is no natural guardian, the person in whose care the minor is, should, subject to the proviso to sub-rule (1), ordinarily be appointed his guardian for the suit.

(4) No person shall without his consent be appointed guardian for the suit.

(5) Where none of the aforementioned persons, or of the persons mentioned by the plaintiff in the list filed by him under sub-rule (2) of r. 3, is fit and willing to act as guardian for the suit; and where no application is made on behalf of the minor under sub-rule (3) of r. 3, the Court may appoint any of its officers to be such guardian, and may direct that the costs to be incurred by such officer in the performance of his duties as such guardian shall be borne either by the parties to the suit, or out of any fund in Court in which the minor is interested, and may give directions for re-payment or allowance of such costs as justice and the circumstances of the case may require. An advocate or pleader of the Court shall be an officer of the Court for this purpose.

Representation of minor by next friend or guardian for the suit.

5. (1) Every application to the Court on behalf of a minor, other than an application under rule 10, sub-rule (2), shall be made by his next friend or by his guardian for the suit.

NOTES.

O. 32, R. 5: ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—When a guardian ad litem has been once appointed by Court for a minor defendant his appointment continues until revoked and an appeal against a decree passed against minor can only be preferred by him. Suit by authorised agent of guardian on behalf of minor is not a suit in which minor is effectively represented. Judgment in such a suit is not conclusive against minor. 128 I.C. 763=1930 A. 875. O. 32, R. 5 was made for the benefit and protection of a minor and not for his prejudice. 32 S.L.R. 215. Quære.—Whether R. 5 of O. 32 compels the Court in every case to discharge an order made at the instance of a minor without a guardian or next friend even when such order is for the benefit of the minor? 32 S.L.R. 215. See also 1939 Sind 332. Where certain minors were sued as majors but they appeared in the suit through their mother as guardian and filed a written statement and Court accepted the guardian by permitting her to compromise, held, that the omission to formally amend the cause title of the suit as originally instituted was a mere irregularity. 13 Pat.L.T. 737. It is open to a minor against whom a decree has been passed on the basis of an award without the appointment of a guardian, to put in an application under O. 32, R. 5 to have the decree declared a nullity. 189 I.C. 254=1940 Lah. 164. Minor not represented, effect of—Ignorance of decree-holder,

(2) Every order made in a suit or on any application, before the Court in or by which a minor is in any way concerned or affected, without such minor being represented by a next friend or guardian for the suit, as the case may be, may be discharged, and, where the pleader of the party at whose instance such order was obtained knew, or might reasonably have known, the fact of such minority, with costs to be paid by such pleader.

Receipt by next friend or guardian for the suit of property under decree for minor.

6. (1) A next friend or guardian for the suit shall not, without the leave of the Court, receive any money or other movable property on behalf of a minor either—

NOTES.

27 I.C. 425. An order for execution passed against a minor without a guardian ad litem is invalid; and when it is brought to the notice of Court that such order has been passed, Court should immediately discharge the order. 9 M.L.J. 144. See also 13 B. 234. The words of the Code appear to give discretionary power to Court to discharge the application made by minors who appear without a next friend. 22 C. 270 (274). A next friend is not a party to the suit, and cannot appeal in his own name. 9 C. 629. Nor can he execute the decree after the death of the minor. 14 W.R. 162; 22 M. 187; 29 A. 675. As to compromise by guardian, see 18 Pat. 708. Court has no power to make minor's estate liable for costs. 13 B. 234. But see 11 C. 213. Where there has been gross negligence of guardian, and minor was not really represented in the suit, it is open to minor to avoid the order. 138 I.C. 465=1932 A.L.J. 437=1932 A. 293 (F.B.). Sale in execution of decree against minor—Guardian ad litem neglecting his duties—Person interested in minor must be allowed to set it aside (O. 21, R. 90). 1930 N. 185. See 1929 M. 275 (280) (This Order has no direct application to execution petitions if rights of the parties have merged in a valid decree).

O. 32, R. 5 (2).—Sub-R. (2) to R. 5 of O. 32 does not say that an order on any application made by a minor where no next friend or guardian is appointed 'shall' be discharged; it says 'may' be discharged. The sub-rule cannot be so construed as to deprive the Court of its discretion to allow proceedings, which are in the interests of the minor, to go on, or to permit them to be frustrated by mere accident or technicality. Hence, where a minor has made an application for execution of rent decrees and there is no guardian appointed, the Court may allow the receiver appointed in the proceedings to recover rent on behalf of minor. 1939 Sind 332.

O. 32, R. 6.—R. 6 prohibits next friend of a minor decree-holder from realising money due under a decree without leave of Court. 19 L.W. 686=1924 M. 279. Where a decree, even in the case of a compromise decree in favour of minors sanctioned by the Court as being beneficial to the minor parties, provides that a certain payment shall be made to the minor plaintiff's next friend, it must be understood as meaning that the payment shall be made under the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code, and that the next friend must apply to the Court to receive the money, and, if not a statutory guardian, must furnish the requisite security. O. 32, R. 6 is imperative on this point. The next friend at the time of payment of the money need not be the same person who was the next friend when the compromise decree was sanctioned. It is necessary therefore that the Court sanctioning the receipt of money on behalf of the minor should apply its mind to circumstances as they exist at the time of the receipt and not as they existed at the time when the decree was passed. Where a compromise includes acts which are unlawful, e.g., in respect of payments of money to a minor's next friend or guardian direct, out of Court, the promisor is entitled to ignore such part of the contract by way of analogy to S. 56, Contract Act, as being unlawful and therefore void. 50 L.W. 384=1939 Mad. 814=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 262. Next friend accepting money on behalf of minor from judgment-debtor without obtaining leave of Court—Certification cannot be made. 39 P.L.R. 714=1937 Lah. 387. On an application to enforce a security bond executed by certain sureties hypothecating immovable properties in respect of a certain amount drawn by next friend of the minor plaintiffs on their behalf, held, that (i) S. 145 was not applicable, as the sureties had not made themselves personally liable and the matter was not connected with the execution of a decree and was not a question between the parties to the suit; (ii) as it was not executed in favour of any named person, it could not be assigned by Court and the only mode of enforcing it was by Court making an order in the suit upon an application to which the sureties are parties and by directing sale of the properties for the realisation of the amount due; (iii) no such direction could however be made till the extent of the liability of next friend was determined in a separate suit. [46 I. A. 228=38 M.L.J. 302 (P.C.), Appl.] 57 M. 803=1934 M. 262=66 M.L.J. 540. A bond executed by a surety for a guardian under R. 6 to the Judge of the Court described by his title, e.g., to the District Munsif, being one to a judicial person can be assigned by the District Munsif. The fact that his full name is not given makes no difference, he being a persona designata described by his title of District Munsif. The assignment by the Judge is valid and enables the assignee to maintain a suit on the bond to enforce it against the surety. 44 L.W. 621=1936 M. 953.

- (a) by way of compromise before decree or order, or
 (b) under a decree or order in favour of the minor.

NOTES.

=71 M.L.J. 675. Even though the terms of O. 32 do not apply to execution proceedings, the procedure laid down in that order and the principle which underlies the provisions contained in that order must be taken to apply not only to suits but to execution proceedings as well. Accordingly a guardian ad litem who represents a minor in a mortgage suit and obtains a final decree for sale, is not in a position to give a legal and valid discharge of the decree without the leave of the Court obtained under O. 32, R. 6. 65 C.L.J. 381=1937 Cal. 649. Where next friend of a minor decree-holder was merely ordered to be allowed to draw money paid into Court by judgment-debtor in satisfaction of decree, and to purchase Government Promissory Notes for the balance and deposit the same into Court but there was no order by the Court granting leave to the next friend to receive any property on behalf of the minor, R. 6 does not apply. [41 M. 40, Dist.] 56 M. 687=1933 M. 678=65 M.L.J. 142 (F.B.). In interpreting O. 32, R. 6 (1), the widest meaning of which the words are capable must be attributed to it. The word "receive" occurring there should be taken as "receive either directly or indirectly". The protection given to the minor would be reduced to a farce if the guardians, while restrained from receiving any money directly from the judgment-debtor, were free to assign the decree to a third party and receive money from the assignee, who would then recover it from the judgment-debtor. To permit any such assignment without leave of the Court would be to defeat the plain purpose of the rule. It is open to the judgment-debtor to attack the assignment on the ground that it falls within O. 32, R. 6 (1) (b), and to contend that the assignee has no right to apply for execution or to substitute himself in pending execution. 43 C.W.N. 962=70 C.L.J. 115=1939 Cal. 588. Payment to manager of joint Hindu family towards a decree in favour of manager and minor coparcener cannot be recognized unless sanctioned by Court. 1925 M. 230 (2)=47 M.L.J. 498. See however, 1927 P. 329 (payment to Karta, valid discharge). Whatever the case as regards a compromise without the leave of the Court under R. 7, as regards a valid discharge the question must be one of construction of the decree in each case as to whether the manager has or has not power to receive payment. 31 Bom.L.R. 963=1929 B. 382. Manager of a joint Hindu family acting as next friend, if should furnish security. 103 I.C. 460. When he is not acting as next friend, 43 L.W. 390=1936 M. 434=70 M.L.J. 700. In a suit for partition by two brothers, one of whom was a minor, there was an award made by arbitrators which was made a decree of Court. The major plaintiff settled the claim under the decree with the defendants who applied to have satisfaction of the decree recorded in terms of the settlement. Court entered satisfaction as prayed for with the full knowledge of the fact that the plaintiff had received from the defendants moneys in full satisfaction of the claim under the decree. The major plaintiff did not, however, obtain sanction of Court for receiving money outside Court on behalf of his minor brother. The minor plaintiff after becoming a major, applied to execute the decree. Held, he could not do so, and that the Court having made an order recording satisfaction knowing full well that the money had been received without its previous sanction, must be taken to have approved of the receipt by the major plaintiff of the money on behalf of the minor brother; the defendants were therefore entitled to the full benefit of that order and to claim full discharge by reason of the same. 44 L.W. 486=1936 M. 861=71 M.L.J. 388. Order for attachment of surety's property under R. 6 cannot fall within the words "such directions as will, etc." 41 M. 40=39 I.C. 928. Court cannot order payment of money to a person not appointed guardian by any competent authority without demanding security from him. 29 I.C. 475. The guardian ad litem of the minor is a trustee and must act strictly in the interests of the minor. If minor is injured by reason of guardian not carrying out his duties efficiently, minor can sue for redress and claim that so far as equity demands, the decree should be set aside or modified. (35 P.R. 1898, Foll.; 2 P. R. 1912, Ref.) 14 I.C. 150. Creditor—Minor plaintiff—Right of debtor to demand security. 64 I. C. 385. As regards the procedure to be followed, see 17 A. 531; 21 M. 309. See also 43 C.W.N. 962=1939 Cal. 588. An award can only be enforced as if it were a decree, and when enforced, all the provisions relating to enforcement of a decree apply. Where therefore an award is made in favour of a certain person on behalf of himself and as representing his minor brothers, the award is one made in favour of all such persons, and when out of the amount payable to such person under such award, some amount is deposited in Court for payment to him, and when such person applies for withdrawal of the said amount from Court, the security which he can be called upon to furnish under O. 32, R. 6, is in respect of the amount payable to the minors according to their shares in the amount so deposited. 169 I. (2) Where the next friend or guardian for the suit has not been appointed or declared by competent authority to be guardian of the property of the minor, or, having been so appointed or declared, is under any disability known to the Court to receive the money or other movable property, the Court shall, if it grants him leave to receive the property, require such security and give such directions as will, in its opinion, sufficiently protect the property from waste and ensure its proper application.

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] O. 32, r. 6.—Add proviso to sub-rule (2):—

"Provided that the Court may, in its discretion, dispense with such security in cases where the next friend or guardian for the suit is the manager of a joint Hindu family or the karnavan of a Malabar tarwad and the decree is passed in favour of the joint family or the tarwad."

7. (1) No next friend or guardian for the suit shall, without the leave of the Court, expressly recorded in the proceedings, enter into any agreement or compromise on behalf of a minor with reference to the suit in which he acts as next friend or guardian.

Agreement or compromise by next friend or guardian for the suit.

NOTES.

O. 32, R. 6 (2).—When a Hindu father or manager of a joint Hindu family is himself a next friend or guardian of the minor, his powers are controlled by the provisions of the Code relating to next friends and guardians ad litem and he cannot do any act in his capacity as father or managing member which he is debarred from doing as next friend or guardian without the leave of Court. 1930 M.W.N. 1240. [36 M. 295 (P.C.), Foll.; 29 I.C. 475 and 47 M. 920, Ref.]. See also 43 C.W.N. 962=70 C.L.J. 115=1939 Cal. 588. Payment to such guardian without leave of Court is invalid. O. 32, R. 7: SCOPE AND APPLICATION.—It is the duty of the Court to see that the interests of minors are adequately protected, and when a compromise is effected to which a minor is a party, it is of considerable importance that the conscience of the Court should be satisfied that the compromise is really in the interests of the minor. In ordinary circumstances, when the Court records an order to the effect that a compromise has been allowed, it may be assumed, unless there are clear indications to the contrary, that the Court has exercised its judicial discretion in dealing with the matter. In cases, however, in which the circumstances are peculiar or suspicious, it is clear that a heavy duty lies upon the Court to scrutinise with care the terms of the proposed compromise and the circumstances connected therewith. In the latter case, a mere order permitting the compromise is not sufficient to show that the Court applied its mind judicially to the question as to whether or not the compromise was really for the benefit of the minor. 1937 Cal. 658=I.L.R. (1937) 1 Cal. 586; 1941 A. 431=1941 A. L. J. 605. There is a heavy duty cast upon the counsel appearing for a minor to satisfy himself that the compromise is for the benefit of the minor, and a similar duty is cast upon the Court to scrutinize the compromise and satisfy itself before sanctioning it. 156 I. C. 153=1935 S. 95. A compromise of suit made on behalf of a minor without strict compliance with the provisions of R. 7 is not enforceable against minor. 125 I.C. 587. See also 14 L.R. 513 (Rev.)=16 R.D. 660; 18 Pat. 708=1940 P. 59. The directions in R. 7 are not intended to be merely formal and it is incumbent on the Court to protect the interests of a minor and of a person of unsound mind and to apply its mind to any compromise which is offered on their behalf in order to ascertain as far as possible that the compromise is really for the benefit of the minor. 1933 A. 149. See also 136 I. C. 350=35 L.W. 171=1932 M. 303; 33 Bom.L.R. 1033=134 I.C. 1221=1931 B. 500. The provisions of R. 7 are imperative. 33 Bom.L.R. 1033=1931 B. 500. But see 136 I.C. 254=7 Luck. 493=1932 O. 44.

Contra.—Under O. 32, R. 7 (2), a decree based on an agreement or compromise entered into by a guardian of a minor without the leave of the Court is not void, but only voidable at the instance of the minor concerned. 18 Pat. 708=1940 Pat. 59. It is enough if the attention of the Court is directed specifically to the fact that there is a minor involved in the suit and the compromise entered by the guardian ad litem on behalf of the minor is brought to its notice; if thereafter a decree is ordered to be passed in terms of the compromise it must be assumed that the Court has complied with the requirements of the law. 175 I. C. 75=1938 Pat. 202. 'With reference to the suit'—Meaning of. See 1937 P. 232=1937 P.W. N. 51. A matter which is not strictly the subject-matter of a suit may relate to or have "reference to the suit" if it forms part of the consideration. 1937 P. 232. Where a petition for leave is filed under R. 7 Court should consider whether the compromise is or is not in the interests of the minors. If it is satisfied that the petition of compromise is for the benefit of the minors then it should grant leave. If it is not so satisfied it should refuse leave. If leave is granted Court has no option, but to record the compromise and to pass a decree in accordance therewith. In so deciding whether the petition of compromise is for the benefit of the minors, it will be open to Court to make such alterations in the terms of the compromise, agreed to by the parties, as it deems expedient. (17 A. 531, 28 A. 585, 47 I.A. 88 and 1929 B. 350, Ref.) 1934 R. 168. See also 142 I.C. 751=34 P.L.R. 409=1933 L. 468; 152 I.C. 715=36 Bom.L. R. 738. The provisions of this rule are not applied en bloc to proceedings under Land Revenue Act. But the adult parties who are co-obligees with the minor are not on that account exonerated from liability. 7 Luck. 493=136 I.C. 254=1932 O. 44; 39 M. 409=43 I.A. 99=31 M.L.J. 18=34 I.C. 213 (P.C.). As the provisions of O. 32 have been extended to all proceedings under the Land Revenue Act with a few minor exceptions, a compromise arrived at the partition proceedings on behalf of a minor is invalid if the provisions of R. 7 have not been complied with. 14 L.R. 464 (Rev.)=17 R.D. 625. See also 1937 A.L.J. 1284=1938 All. 74; 42 C.W.N. 154; 1940 A.M.L.J. 25; 1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 96; 1941 R.D. 196; 1939 A.L.J. 624=1939 All. 607. The rule applies to an agreement to refer a suit to arbitration, and to an agreement to be bound by an oath. 27 C. 229; 24 M. 326; 12 M. 483; 27 P.L.R. 729=96 I.C. 748=1926 L. 665; 40 P.L.R. 498=1938 Lah. 582; 1941 A.L.J. 596; 1941 N.L.J. 601; 1938 Lah. 582=40 P.L.R. 498. But see 38 P.L.R. 629=162 I.C. 921=1936 L. 235, where it was held that agreement by next friend to relinquish claim of the minor should the opposite party take a certain oath, was only a special method of proof and not a compromise, and that as the interest of the minor was identical with that of the next friend, sanction under this rule was not necessary. In the case of a reference to arbitration by a guardian without leave of Court and a decree passed on the basis of an award thereon, the only person who can repudiate guardian's act is the minor and he should on attaining majority do so by an application for review or by a separate suit and not by way of appeal. 58 C. 628=130 I.C. 209=35 C.W.N. 238=1931 C. 211; 38 L.W. 927=1933 M. 862=65 M.L.J. 755. But see 28 A. 35. The provisions of O. 32, R. 7 are by virtue of S. 141 applicable to miscellaneous proceedings. Hence where a decree is adjusted before execution by means of a compromise and one of the parties to the litigation happens to be a minor, the consent of the Court is necessary, if the minor is to be bound thereby. 1940 All. 16=1939 A.L.J. 1019. Agreement or compromise must be lawful. (See O. 32, R. 3.) Abandonment of an issue does not amount to a compromise. 22 M. 538; 22 M. 378; 27 C. 229; 24 M. 326; 12 M. 483. But see 28 A. 35. No sanction is necessary for agreement by guardian to be bound by statement of certain witnesses. 49 A. 842=25 A.L.J. 729=1927 A. 584; 34 C.W.N. 310. Effect of want of sanction—Compromise without leave—Invalid, though supportable on other grounds. 39 M. 115=29 M.L.J. 856=20 C.W.N. 201=32 I.C. 258 (P.C.); 47 A. 782=23 A.L.J. 523. See also 1939 P.W.N. 631; 1938 Lah. 709. The provision of law making it necessary to obtain leave of Court is of great importance to protect the interests of minors and in absence of such leave, a compromise cannot be supported. 39 M. 115=29 M.L.J. 856 (P.C.). See also 40 P.L.R. 403=1938 Lah. 709. Where no application for sanction to enter into a compromise was filed by the guardian ad litem of a minor defendant and there was no order expressly recorded by the Court granting such sanction and there is nothing to indicate that when the terms of the compromise were placed before the Court and accepted by it, it applied its mind to the question that the compromise was for the benefit of the minor, the provisions of R. 7 are not complied with and the compromise and the decree passed thereon are not binding on the minor. The fact that the minor himself has signed the statement embodying the terms of the compromise is of no avail. 40 P.L.R. 403=1938 Lah. 709. In absence of an order granting permission the presumption is that no permission was granted. 50 I.C. 752=17 A.L.J. 789. Where Judge wholly failed to consider whether the terms of a compromise were for benefit or prejudice of the minor, held, the compromise decree was not binding on minor. See 139 I.C. 113=1932 L. 521; 1933 A. 149. Where minor comes forward to set aside the compromise, Court has no power to uphold it on the ground that it was for the benefit of the minor. 35 B. 322=13 Bom.L.R. 280; 44 B. 202=56 I.C. 399; 50 I.C. 752=17 A.L.J. 789. When suit is compromised by Court of Wards on behalf of a minor ward, the compromise does not require the leave of Court in order that it may be binding. 37 I.C. 971=44 C. 829. Court should be very jealous of the interest of minors and should not allow a suit or part of a suit to be withdrawn without being satisfied that it is for their benefit. (27 M. 377; 29 C. 735, Rel. on.) 47 I.C. 508=59 P.R. 1919. A suit lies at the instance of a minor to set aside such a compromise effected by his guardian ad litem. (2 P.R. 1912, Ref.) 47 I.C. 508=59 P.R. 1919. In a suit by the plaintiff on attaining majority for a declaration that a compromise decree passed against him is not binding on him on the ground that the provisions of O. 32, R. 7 had not been complied with, the granting of a declaration simpliciter is incomplete. It should further be ordered that the proceedings in the original suit be revived from the stage at which they were when the irregularity above mentioned was committed. 40 P.L.R. 403=1938

(2) Any such agreement or compromise entered into without the leave of the Court so recorded shall be voidable against all parties other than the minor.

An assignment of a decree passed in favour of a minor to a third person by the guardian ad litem of the minor without the leave of the Court, though not covered by O. 32, R. 7 (1), falls within O. 32, R. 6 (1) (b), and is, therefore, invalid. The word 'agreement' in O. 32, R. 7 (1) means an agreement with a party to the suit and must be in reference to the proceedings in the suit. An agreement with a third party, as also an agreement outside the scope of the suit, does not come within the scope of the said rule. 43 C.W.N. 962=70 C. L.J. 115=1939 Cal. 588.

SCOPE OF SUB-RULE (2).—41 C.L.J. 213=29 C.W.N. 597. Under R. 7, Cl. (2) an agreement or compromise entered into by the guardian of a minor without the sanction of the Court is voidable. 47 I.C. 508=59 P.R. 1919; 2 P.R. 1912=11 I.C. 523; 1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 96; 1940 A.M.L.J. 25; 41 M.L.J. 75=63 I.C. 285; 12 I.C. 499=34 M. 314; 58 I.C. 178; 44 I.C. 164; 61 I.C. 118=14 S.L.R. 245; 60 C.L.J. 173. The provisions of O. 32, R. 7 are mandatory and if a compromise is entered into on behalf of a minor without leave of the Court, it is null and void so far as the minor is concerned. 1940 R.D. 497=1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 197. A guardian ad litem of a minor defendant cannot enter into a compromise without the leave of the Court, and such leave must be expressly recorded by the Court. The terms of O. 32, R. 7 are not complied with by merely asking the Court to approve of a compromise which has been actually entered into under that rule, the Court must consider the proposed terms before they are agreed to by the parties and must grant leave to the guardian ad litem to enter into the compromise. Approving the terms of a compromise after it has been entered into is not sufficient compliance with O. 32, R. 7. 19 Pat. 343=1940 Pat. 663. The real meaning of R. 7 of O. 32 is that the express leave of the Court must be obtained before the compromise entered into becomes a valid one for future eventualities. The result of this is that subsequent express leave of the Court granted will validate a compromise entered into on behalf of a minor. 1940 A.M.L.J. 25. Where a minor is represented in mutation proceedings by his elder brother who bona fide enters into a compromise with the other party without the leave of the Court as required by R. 7, the compromise is not bad for want of such leave. 7 Luck. 493=136 I.C. 254=1932 O. 44. Where a compromise petition is presented by a respondent on his own behalf and on behalf of two minor respondents and the compromise is an indivisible one so far as all the three respondents are concerned, if the compromise is held to be bad for the minors it must be held to be bad so far as the other respondent also, as it would be useless to pass a decree on the compromise petition against him only. 1934 R. 168.

EXECUTION PROCEEDINGS.—The rule applies to a compromise of execution proceedings. 26 B. 109. See also 64 M.L.J. 437 (F.B.); [29 M. 309; 26 B. 109; 31 M.L.J. 207, Rel. on; 55 M. 17 (F.B.), Dist.]; 17 Pat.L. T. 743=1936 P. 506. And contemplates the existence of a guardian and a pending litigation. 26 B. 298. See also 27 B. at 291; 29 M. 309. Proceedings in execution are proceedings in suits and R. 7 applies to execution proceedings as well. An agreement varying terms of a decree between parties some of whom are minors is not enforceable unless sanctioned by Court. 40 I.C. 820=1917 M.W.N. 327. A compromise effected after the passing of a decree is governed by R. 7. Sanction of the Court is necessary where the minor is a party to the adjustment. 35 I.C. 70=31 M.L.J. 207. A managing member of a joint Hindu family cannot without leave of the Court, do any act which he is debarred from doing as guardian ad litem. Where a manager and a minor for whom he was a next friend are joint decree-holders and an application is made by the manager for entering up satisfaction of the decree, O. 21, R. 2 does not empower a Collector executing the decree to certify payment as satisfying the decree as far as the minor was concerned, unless leave of the Court had been obtained according to O. 32, R. 7 and such leave cannot be implied but must be expressly recorded. 1938 N.L.J. 363.

SHALL BE VOIDABLE.—A compromise not properly sanctioned can be annulled before a minor attains majority. 26 B. 109. See 23 B. 62 and 13 B. 137. See also 60 C.L.J. 173; 30 C. 613. There is no justification for extending the provisions of O. 32, R. 7 by analogy or on considerations of policy. 45 L.W. 722=1937 Mad. 446=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 384. condition of the same being granted waived his right to a fresh proclamation and such waiver was effected both on behalf of himself and his minor sons, held, that the waiver did not require leave of Court. 150 I.C. 1134=1934 M. 260=66 M.L.J. 464. If guardian has wrongly settled the suit out of Court, that may be a ground for further steps being taken, but that must be at instance of the minor after attaining majority or a next friend or a guardian during minority. The attorneys who received their instructions from guardian cannot go behind those instructions and continue to represent the minor. 34 Bom.L.R. 614=1932 B. 401 (1). Compromise sanctioned by Court, when can be set aside. 28 Bom. L.R. 1225=50 B. 716=1927 B. 11; 104 I.C. 222=1927 L. 685. In a suit to enforce the terms of the compromise, it is open to the minor to plead in defence the invalidity of the compromise. There is nothing in law to prevent him from taking such a plea in defence. 1936 A.L.J. 1366=1936 A. 811.

POWERS OF NATURAL GUARDIAN.—After appointment of a guardian ad litem the powers of a natural guardian to deal with minor's interest so far as they are involved in suit are suspended. 22 Bom.L.R. 725=57 I.C. 417=44 B. 574. Even if a natural or a certificated guardian appointed by the District Judge, is appointed guardian ad litem, he is bound by the provisions of O. 32, R. 7. It is not all the rules of O. 32 that have been made applicable to proceedings under the Land Revenue Act and as such a compromise of mutation proceedings on behalf of a minor without the sanction or permission of the Court is not fatal to the validity of the compromise. 1939 A. L.J. 624=1939 All. 607. See also 7 Luck. 493=1932 Oudh 44. A compromise even by a father and managing member as guardian ad litem requires leave of Court. 36 M. 295=40 I.A. 132=25 M.L.J. 150 (P.C.). But not so when he is not the guardian ad litem. (1937) 1 M.L.J. 384. The natural guardian can on behalf of a minor enter into an arbitration so as to be binding on the minor if it is proper, reasonable and for the benefit of minor. 44 B. 202=22 Bom.L.R. 266.

PROOF OF SANCTION.—There ought to be evidence that the attention of Court was directly called to the fact that the minor was a party to the compromise, and it ought to be shown, by an order on petition (or in some way not open to doubt) that leave of Court was obtained. 35 A. 487=40 I.A. 182=25 M.L.J. 492=21 I.C. 288 (P.C.); 56 I.C. 97; 16 I.C. 397; 2 P. 538=4 Pat. The fact that the Court, when sanctioning a compromise entered into by the next friend of a minor, omitted to use the words that it was for the benefit of the minor, is not a sufficient ground to invalidate the compromise, when there is good reason for thinking that it applied its mind to the question. 1937 O.W.N. 1012=1937 O. 521. As to who can apply for sanction in partition suit by minor, see 91 I.C. 521. A decree passed under a misapprehension of a material fact as to the true position of the minor is not binding on minor. 1 L. 314=56 I.C. 878; 1929 L. 279. An omission to record the sanction does render the compromise ultra vires especially in the absence of prejudice to the minors, who could only apply for review. 5 Pat.L.J. 379=1 Pat.L.T. 663. See also 111 I.C. 156=1928 A. 534. R. 7 does not compel Judge to reduce this matter to writing, though it is exceedingly desirable he should do so. (29 M. 104; 17 A. 531; 8 C.L.J. 31, Ref.) 39 I.C. 53=36 P.R. 1917. Mere recording a compromise and passing a decree according to it is no sanction by Court and therefore not binding on the minor. 39 M. 853=30 M.L.J. 465. See also 21 M. at 93; 17 A. at 532; 28 A. 585 (P.C.). It is not necessary that the sanction of Court, if otherwise proved, must be in express terms. 14 I.C. 6. See also 1935 S. 235 (noted infra). The attention of Court must be expressly drawn to the fact and its approval obtained. 6 Pat.L.J. 199=60 I.C. 980. Leave of the Court must be expressly recorded. 35 I.C. 675=1917 P. 77; 2 Pat.L.T. 325=60 I.C. 980. Even if leave of Court is not expressly recorded that would not make the decree a nullity. It would only make the decree voidable at option of the minor. 2 P. 538=4 Pat.L.T. 311. No particular formula is necessary to be used by the Court in order to grant leave. 2 P. 538. See also 1939 Pat. 387; 1941 N.L.J. 601. It is a salutary rule that the Judge must on the face of his order show that he has considered the question of the minor's benefit and give reasons for his thinking that it is. But the omission to record reasons will not make the order a nullity. R. 7 does not give the minor an unqualified right to have the matter avoided but vests the Court with the discretion to avoid or not to avoid it. An agreement which offends R. 7 in that the Court had not given reasons for its granting leave, cannot be avoided by a separate suit in the absence of fraud upon the Court, for there is only an irregularity and not an illegality. 1941 N.L.J. 601. Compromise—Sanction of Court—Some terms, not embodied in decree—Sale in pursuance of compromise—Sale by father and guardian ad litem—Effect. 53 I.C. 354=1919 M.W.N. 356. Court is not obliged to pass a formal decree in the exact form which the parties propose. It may make such alterations as may be necessary. Very often it is convenient to set out in a schedule the precise compromise the parties have agreed to and then in the order itself merely to state what the parties actually want as an operative order, e.g., for payment of money. 31 Bom.L.R. 621=119 I.C. 663=1929 B. 350. Sanction of compromise—Permission of Court under S. 29, Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, not necessary. 122 I.C. 103=1930 L. 250.

TRANSFER OF DECREE.—Decree is property and hence the guardian can transfer a decree in favour of the minor without the sanction of Court. 40 M.L.J. 124=62 I.C. 255; 56 I.C. 313. But see 1938 N.L.J. 363.

REFERENCE TO ARBITRATION.—Where a reference, in which property of minor is involved, is under the Arbitration Act and not with reference to a pending suit, no leave of the Court is necessary. R. 7 contemplates agreement or compromise with reference to a pending suit. (26 B. 298 and 1918 B. 123, Rel. on; 1921 S. 61, Dist.) 1935 S. 235. The leave of the Court under O. 32, R. 7 is necessary if an agreement is to be entered into or a compromise is to be effected on behalf of a minor in a pending suit or proceeding. A reference to arbitration out of Court at a time no suit or proceeding is pending in Court, does not require the sanction of any Court. Where the guardian of a minor and a creditor of the estate refer their dispute regarding the debt to arbitration, and, the arbitrator having given his award, the creditor presents the award in Court and applied to have it filed, if the minor's guardian voluntarily appears in Court and consents to the award being filed, the decree made by the Court in terms of the award cannot afterwards be challenged as not binding on the minor on the ground that no leave of the Court was obtained in the case under O. 32, R. 7. It does not follow that the consent of the guardian to the filing of the award is given as a result of any agreement entered into by the guardian with the creditor after the latter files his application in Court for filing the award. It is only when an agreement is entered after the award is presented in Court that there would be a Court to sanction or not to sanction it. Till then there would be no Court whose sanction can be sought. 1940 Bom. 33=41 Bom.L.R. 1208. If a guardian ad litem of a minor defendant enters into an agreement of reference to arbitration on behalf of the minor without obtaining the leave of the Court as required by O. 32, R. 7 the proceedings and the award resulting therefrom would be voidable against all the parties at the option of the minor defendant. This option is not intended to be given to the very persons who may enter into an agreement in contravention of R. 7 with a next friend or guardian ad litem of a minor party. It is only the minor who alone is entitled to resile from the agreement, if he may choose to do so, either on attaining majority or even before that through a next friend or guardian. Obiter.—The question of the legality of the reference and of the award can be raised on behalf of the minor by the same guardian or next friend who agreed to the reference resulting in the award. 1940 M.W.N. 191=1940 Mad. 650. See also 187 I.C. 860=1940 Pesh. 12; 41 Bom.L.R. 485=1939 Bom. 296. It is the minor alone who can challenge the award and the decree based thereon and the other parties to the reference cannot. If the decree based thereon is subsequently set aside at the instance of the minor, the effect would be to re-open the whole suit in respect of all the parties from the point at which the matter was referred to arbitration. 18 Pat. 271=1939 P. 278. See also 1939 Pat. 387; 40 P.L.R. 498=1938 Lah. 582. Where a dispute to which minors are parties is referred to arbitration and a party makes an application for an order directing the arbitrators to file the award and for a decree in accordance therewith and the guardian ad litem of the minors makes a petition that they have no objection to the decree the provisions of R. 7 are not attracted and the Court is under no necessity to sanction anything as a condition precedent to filing the award and passing a decree upon it. (22 Mad. 538, Rel. on.) 1939 Cal. 500. Neither S. 141 nor O. 32, R. 7 applies to a reference to an arbitration when the subject-matter of the proceedings in Court cannot possibly be said to be the same as covered by the reference to arbitration, and the award is not, therefore, invalid for want of leave of the Court for the reference. 41 P.L.R. 201=1939 Lah. 308. Where an application requesting that the Court should decide the case after local inspection and local inquiry as an arbitrator is signed by the pleaders duly authorised to compromise make a reference to arbitration and so forth and the fact that some of the defendants are minors and the application is for their benefit is clearly stated, the Court's sanction is presumed from the acceptance of the application. 15 L. 726=1934 L. 176. See also 59 C.L.J. 521=1934 C. 845. Where one of the parties to an arbitration is a minor, no particular form of sanction that the suit is for the benefit of the minor is required under R. 7. Where the Court appoints a guardian of the minor when it accepts an award it shows that

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] Add the following in O. 32, r. 7 as sub-rule (1-A) :—

"(1-A) Where an application is made to the Court for leave to enter into an agreement or compromise or for withdrawal of a suit in pursuance of a compromise or for taking any other action on behalf of a minor or other person under disability and such minor or other person under disability is represented by counsel or pleader, the counsel or pleader shall file in Court with the application a certificate to the effect that the agreement or compromise or action proposed is, in his opinion, for the benefit of the minor or other person under disability. A decree or order for the compromise of a suit, appeal or matter, to which a minor or other person under disability is a party, shall recite the sanction of the Court thereto and shall set out the terms of the compromise as in Form No. 24¹ in Appendix D to this Schedule.

interests of the minor are in its mind. (1926 S. 128, Rel. on.) 1935 S. 235. In the case of a minor party leave of Court need not be obtained before making an application to refer a dispute to arbitration. (28 A. 25, Foll.) 36 A. 69=12 A.L.J. 57; 43 B. 258=20 Bom.L.R. 970. See also 59 C.L.J. 521=1934 C. 845; 15 L. 726=1934 L. 176; 44 B. 202=22 Bom.L.R. 266. Where after suit on behalf of a minor was referred to arbitration, and a compromise was then entered into by parties and the same was accepted by the arbitrators who passed an award in its terms, the minor is not entitled to have the decree on the award set aside on that ground, especially when there is nothing to show that his guardian was negligent or that the compromise was not advantageous or beneficial to him. 42 L.W. 612=1935 M. 1068=69 M.L.J. 523. But see 1935 S. 235. Where under similar circumstances it was held voidable at the option of the minor on attaining majority. See also 19 I.C. 424=15 Bom.L.R. 223. Such an order of reference and the award can be assailed by the minor either in the suit itself or by a separate suit. 1936 A.L.J. 1333=167 I.C. 99=1937 A. 65 (F.B.). Agreement by pleaders of both sides to abide by decision of Munsif after inspection—Reference or compromise. A joint application signed by the pleaders for both the parties by which they agreed to abide by the decision of the Munsif after personal inspection of the locality is not a reference to arbitration but amounts to a compromise between the parties. 125 I.C. 587. Though one member of firm is minor, sanction of Court is not necessary to refer a suit against that firm to arbitration. 1923 L. 103. Where guardian of a minor party to a suit wishes to refer the matter to arbitration, Court ought to fully apply its mind to the matter and consider if the reference would be for minor's benefit. 59 I.C. 31=5 P.W.R. 1921; 52 I.C. 327=145 P.R. 1919; 17 I.C. 388=125 P.R. 1912; 15 S.L.R. 165=1922 S. 1; 39 M. 853=30 M.L.J. 465; 1929 L. 257. An application of next friend of a minor under Sch. II, para. 1, C. P. Code, comes within R. 7. 52 I.C. 327=145 P.R.

1919; 15 I.C. 161=95 P.R. 1912; 30 M.L.J. 465. Application to refer a question to arbitration is an agreement within the meaning of R. 7 because the rule has reference to the suit. 95 P.R. 1912=15 I.C. 161 (F.B.); 39 M. 853=30 M.L.J. 465. Where a decree is given on award, there is neither an appeal nor a revision. 15 S.L.R. 165=1922 S. 1. An agreement to refer to arbitration in a case where a minor or lunatic is concerned is an 'agreement' within the meaning of R. 7, and hence before the matter could be referred to arbitration, the leave of the Court must be expressly got recorded in the proceedings. Before granting the leave, the Court should exercise a judicial discretion as to propriety of the reference to arbitration in the interests of the minor or lunatic. All available materials should be placed before the Court and the materials must satisfy the mind of the Court that the action proposed is for the benefit of the minor or lunatic. Though it is not possible to lay down any hard and fast rule as to what should be done in such matters, this much can be said, that all facts necessary for the exercise of a judicial discretion by the Court should be placed before it and nothing should be concealed, for where the matter is being referred to arbitration and one of the parties is a lunatic, there should be abundant good faith. 1941 A.L.J. 596.

WITHDRAWAL OF SUIT.—The withdrawal of a suit by a next friend in pursuance of an agreement or compromise entered into with the defendant without leave of Court is voidable at instance of the minor. 27 M. 377; 14 M.L.J. 442; 3 C.L.J. 119; 1 A.L.J. 130. It is necessary that leave should be given after the Court's attention is directly called to the fact that a minor is a party to it, and the Court should apply its mind and ascertain whether the compromise is for the minor's benefit and then has to exercise its discretion; it is to be seen in each particular case from the application and the order thereon as to whether the Court intended to grant such leave. If no such leave is given the compromise or withdrawal is voidable at the instance of the minor by a suit to avoid it, and the minor, on the decree being set aside, will be restored to his original position in the suit. 152 I.C. 715=36 Bom. L. R. 738. When a next friend of a minor plaintiff withdraws from the suit, it is open to the minor through another next friend to have the suit reopened or reviewed. 29 C.

8. (1) Unless otherwise ordered by the Court, a next friend shall not retire without first procuring a fit person to be put in his place and giving security for the costs already incurred.

Retirement of next friend.

(2) The application for the appointment of a new next friend shall be supported by an affidavit showing the fitness of the person proposed, and also that he has no interest adverse to that of the minor.

9. (1) Where the interest of the next friend of a minor is adverse to that of the minor or where he is so connected with a defendant whose interest is adverse to that of the minor as to make it unlikely that the minor's interest will be properly protected by him,

Removal of next friend.

A suit was filed by a person on his own behalf and on behalf of his minor brother to set aside an alienation by their father, the major brother withdrew from the suit as far as he was concerned, whereupon Court appointed another person who had been impleaded as third plaintiff as next friend of minor. Held, that neither O. 32, R. 7 nor O. 23, R. 1 (2) applied to the case, that the institution of the suit for the benefit of the minor made him a ward of the Court, that the withdrawal of the suit on his behalf was not in his interest and that the order appointing third plaintiff as next friend was proper. 148 I.C. 1171=1934 O. 257.

WITHDRAWAL OF APPLICATION.—Guardian can withdraw his petition to enter into a compromise at any time before the leave is granted. 35 I.C. 675=1917 P. 77. See also 7 L.R. 162 (Rev.). But see 107 I.C. 477=1928 C. 247.

APPEAL.—If the parties come to an agreement to settle an appeal on certain terms which puts an end to it, such a settlement, if it affects the interests of a minor, must under R. 7 be subject to the leave of the Court. 161 I.C. 751=43 L.W. 601=1936 M. 494.

SECURITY.—A next friend of a minor even if he is the managing member is not entitled to draw money from Court on behalf of the minor without furnishing the security. [36 M. 295 (P.C.), Foll.] 29 I.C. 475.

COSTS.—Where a next friend has acted bona fide he is entitled to his costs out of the infant's estate. 11 C. 213; 10 C. 248. But see 13 B. 234. As to whether a minor is liable for the costs of an attorney retained by the next friend, see 7 C. 140.

O. 32, R. 7: MADRAS AMENDMENT, R. 7 (1-A).—Leave of the Court is not necessary under R. 7 of O. 32, before a decree passed in favour of a Hindu minor plaintiff can be assigned or transferred by his guardian. R. 7 does not affect the rights of a natural guardian or a legal guardian who also happens to be the next friend in the matter of dealing with a decree as part of the property belonging to the minor. The scope of R. 7 has not been extended by R. 7 (1-A) added by the Madras High Court. Though the minor may challenge the validity of the transfer made by the guardian, that cannot make the judgment-debtor who has paid to the assignee-decree-holder liable to pay the amount again. Payment made in accordance with the Court's order would protect him. I.L.R. (1938) Mad. 819=1938 Mad. 539=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 775 (F.B.).

O. 32, R. 8: SCOPE OF RULE.—See 1931 A. 656. Where a guardian ad litem to a minor defendant has once been appointed such appointment continues for the whole of the lis or until it is revoked by Court and the guardian so appointed is the only person who can file an appeal on behalf of the minor. 41 A. 619; 45 A. 623=21 A.L.J. 691. But see also 16 R.D. 553 (Irregularity in superseding one guardian and appointing another is curable and cannot be interfered with in second appeal. 16 R.D. 553). Absence of an affidavit is not sufficient to render the proceeding illegal and void as against the minor on the ground that he was not properly represented. 55 I.C. 833=1 L. 27. Where the next friend of a minor sues in forma pauperis Court can order next friend to pay the costs of defendant. 1923 N. 43. An application on behalf of a minor, made by a guardian ad litem discharged long before the date of application, should not be entertained. 6 Pat. L.J. 171=62 I.C. 235.

Court should remove a next friend under R. 9 if it thinks his interest is adverse to that of the minor and should stay proceedings under R. 10 until the appointment of another next friend. 63 I.C. 736=6 Pat.L.J. 317. A suit does not abate by the next friend's death and Court should either appoint a new next friend or keep suit pending till minor attains majority. 27 M.L.J. 405=25 I. C. 597. Appeal heard after death of guardian of minor defendant but without a fresh guardian on record—Appeal does not abate—But the appellate decree is invalid. 1928 P. 168=106 I.C. 540=9 P.L.T. 547.

MINOR NOT PROPERLY REPRESENTED—REMEDIES OPEN TO.—When a minor is made a defendant, it is the minor who is a party and not his guardian ad litem. It is not correct to say that the minor is not a party and cannot be allowed to be heard in the suit itself and if he is not properly represented his remedy is only to bring a separate suit. On the other hand, a minor, if not represented or where he does not do his duty, or, during the pendency of the suit, ceases to reside within British India, or for any other sufficient cause, application may be made on behalf of the minor or by a defendant for his removal; and the Court, if satisfied of the sufficiency of the cause assigned, may order the next friend to be removed accordingly, and make such other order as to costs as it thinks fit.

(2) Where the next friend is not a guardian appointed or declared by an authority competent in this behalf, and an application is made by a guardian so appointed or declared, who desires to be himself appointed in the place of the next friend, the Court shall remove the next friend unless it considers, for reasons to be recorded by it, that the guardian ought not to be appointed the next friend of the minor, and shall thereupon appoint the applicant to be next friend in his place upon such terms as to the costs already incurred in the suit as it thinks fit.

10. (1) On the retirement, removal or death of the next friend of a minor, further proceedings shall be stayed until the appointment of a next friend in his place.

Stay of proceedings on removal, etc., of next friend.

(2) Where the pleader of such minor omits, within a reasonable time, to take steps to get a new next friend appointed, any person interested in the minor or in the matter in issue may apply to the Court for the appointment of one, and the Court may appoint such person as it thinks fit.

11. (1) Where the guardian for the suit desires to retire or does not do his duty, or where other sufficient ground is made to appear, the Court may permit such guardian to retire or may remove him, and may make such order as to costs as it thinks fit.

Retirement, removal or death of guardian for the suit.

or if not properly represented, has several remedies open to him. He may appeal, apply under O. 9, R. 13, apply for review, apply under O. 32, R. 5 (2) or bring a separate suit. The power of the Court under R. 11 to remove the guardian for the suit of a minor defendant and appoint a new guardian instead may be exercised at any time during pendency of the suit and same is not taken away by the fact that an order to try the suit ex parte has previously been passed. 1920 M.W.N. 241=55 I.C. 945. Inability on the part of the guardian ad litem to provide funds is sufficient cause. 9 I.C. 435=9 M.L.T. 333. The mere fact that the guardian ad litem did not appeal at the hearing of the suit and prosecute the defence would not necessarily go to show that the guardian was grossly negligent. When a guardian appointed in the Court below fails to appear before High Court, the Court may, in order to safeguard the interests of the minor, appoint another person as guardian and such an appointment will operate as removal of the other guardian who has not appeared. 37 C. Appeal—Misconduct of guardian ad litem—Removal—Jurisdiction of trial Court—Procedure to be adopted—Application for removal made to appellate Court long after appeal was filed—Grounds for removal not set out—Application liable to be dismissed. 1930 A. 456. After a suit is decided the Court is functus officio and cannot pass any orders for removal of any guardian ad litem of the minor. If any person desires to file an appeal against the decision, he must apply to the appellate Court to remove the original guardian and appoint him in his place so as to enable him to appeal. 122 I.C. 445=1930 N. 177. Removal—Admission of claim by guardian ad litem who had been removed—Whether admissible as against subsequently appointed guardian. 6 O.W. N. 1060=1930 O. 110=5 Luck. 453. Where during the pendency of the appeal, the guardian for the minor respondents dies and no effort is made by the Court, under R. 11 to appoint a guardian ad litem for them, and a decree is passed, that must be set aside as made during the absence of a guardian ad litem and the suit must be remanded to the same lower appellate Court. 1936 P. 570=165 I.C. 581 (1). Defendant of unsound mind represented by his brother defendant as guardian ad litem—Suit dismissed—Appeal—Both defendants impleaded as respondents but omission to describe one of them as guardian ad litem—Death of guardian ad litem pending appeal—No fresh guardian appointed—Held, that there was only a misdescription in the heading of the appeal and that the defendant was represented by the guardian ad litem but as the appeal had proceeded in the absence of a guardian ad litem after his death, the defendant was not represented and the decree passed in the appeal was a nullity and not binding on him. (38 P.L.R. 320=161 I.C. 987, Reversed.) 1936 L. 861.

COSTS.—Costs cannot be decreed against the guardian of a defendant except in the case referred to in this rule. 3 M. 263; 1929 A. 18. Costs cannot be decreed against a guardian who has not been appointed with his previous consent. 5 B. 306. Guardian ad litem who is also a party on record can be made to pay costs—O. 32, R. 11 does not control S. 35, C. P. Code. 1928 M. W.N. 318=110 I.C. 310=1928 M. 590. The appellants in the lower appellate Court who are respondents in the second appeal, not being under a duty to appoint guardian ad litem for the minor respondents in the lower Court, should not be made responsible for costs of the appellants in second appeal. 165 I.C. 581 (1)=1936 P. 570.

O. 32, R. 12.—The title of the suit or application should only be corrected when the suit or application is pending. No correction need be made after final decree, and when it only remains to proceed in execution. 22 C. 274. R. 12 does not contemplate the giving of an opportunity to a person who is not on record to continue the suit. The rules apply to cases where a suit has been filed by a minor who becomes a major during the course of the trial. A suit was filed by an uncle in the name of his nephew for the purpose of making it appear that the nephew was a minor on the date of a decree of a Panchayat Court against the nephew which was sought to be set aside in the suit. It was found that the plaintiff's nephew was a major on the date of the decree as well as of the suit. Held, that the plaintiff being a major at the time

13. (1) Where a minor co-plaintiff on attaining majority desires to repudiate the suit, he shall apply to have his name struck out as co-plaintiff; and the Court, if it finds that he is not a necessary party, shall dismiss him from the suit on such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit.

Where minor co-plaintiff attaining majority desires to repudiate suit.

(2) Notice of the application shall be served on the next friend, on any co-plaintiff and on the defendant.

(3) The costs of all parties of such application, and of all or any proceedings theretofore had in the suit, shall be paid by such persons as the Court directs.

(4) Where the applicant is a necessary party to the suit, the Court may direct him to be made a defendant.

14. (1) A minor on attaining majority may, if a sole plaintiff, apply that a Unreasonable or improper suit instituted in his name by his next friend be dismissed on the ground that it was unreasonable or improper.

(2) Notice of the application shall be served on all the parties concerned; and the Court upon being satisfied of such unreasonableness or impropriety, may grant the application and order the next friend to pay the costs of all parties in respect of the application and of anything done in the suit, or make such other order as it thinks fit.

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] In O. 32, after r. 14 add the following as r. 14-A:—

Minor defendant attaining majority during pendency of suit but not electing to come on record and conduct defence himself—Decree in suit passed on foot of his being a minor—Validity against him—Decree after contest—Decree based on compromise—Distinction—Leave of Court under O. 32, R. 7—Effect. 1928 M. 294=51 M. 763=29 L.W. 455.

O. 32, Rr. 12-14: SCOPE—NEXT FRIEND AND GUARDIAN AD LITEM—DIFFERENCE.—Under O. 32, Rr. 12-14, C. P. Code, a plaintiff or applicant, on attaining majority, is given by the Statute an option to abandon the suit or to proceed with it, and there is no anomaly if some similar liberty to ratify or to repudiate the act of guardian on his behalf is not given to a minor defendant. The reason is that the plaintiff suing through a next friend is put in a different position from a defendant against whom a suit is brought through a guardian ad litem. The next friend of a minor plaintiff, unless he happens to be a certificated guardian under the Guardians and Wards Act or the Court of Wards Act, takes upon himself the responsibility of instituting a suit in the name and for the benefit of the minor. But a guardian ad litem for a minor defendant is a person appointed to act as such by the Court. 1937 P.W.N. 720=1937 Pat. 625.

O. 32, R. 13.—Minor attaining majority during pendency of appeal—Counsel engaged by next friend not appearing on date of hearing—Fresh engagement not given to counsel by quondam minor—Dismissal of appeal for want of prosecution—Legality—Proper procedure. 1929 L. 555 (2)=30 P.L.R. 273.

O. 32, Rr. 13 and 14.—If a minor plaintiff, on whose behalf a suit has been filed by his next friend, elects, on attaining majority, not to proceed with the suit, he can only do so on submitting to an order to pay the costs of the defendant and also the costs of the next friend. The defendant is placed in exactly the same position as he would be in if the plaintiff had never been a minor. It is only in a case of misconduct by the next friend, which falls within R. 14 of O. 32, that any order for payment of costs can be made against the next friend after the minor has attained majority. I.L. R. (1940) Bom. 135=41 Bom.L.R. 1296=1940 Bom. 58.

O. 32, R. 14.—Next friend of a minor plaintiff died during the pendency of the suit. Suit was subsequently dismissed owing to the indifference of the plaintiff's relations and costs were ordered to be paid out of the estate of the deceased next friend. Held, that the order as to costs was made without jurisdiction. 20 O.C. 300=43 I. to the King in Council, shall be deemed to be a quasi-judicial act within the meaning of S. 128 (2) (i) of the Code of Civil Procedure and may be performed by the Registrar, provided that contested applications and applications represented out of time shall be posted before a Judge for disposal."

15. The provisions contained in rules 1 to 14, so far as they are applicable, shall extend to persons adjudged to be of unsound mind and to persons who though not so adjudged are found by the Court on inquiry, by reason of unsoundness of mind or mental infirmity, to be incapable of protecting their interests when suing or being sued.

NOTES.

O. 32, R. 15: SCOPE AND APPLICATION.—Court must be satisfied of the title of next friend to intervene and it ought to be satisfied that the person is of unsound mind and that he stands in need of protection. 23 B. 658. See also 1941 A.L.J. 596. The fact that there is some evidence in the shape of statements found on the record indicating that a person is of unsound mind is not enough to enable a suit to be maintained on his behalf by a next friend. R. 15 requires that it should be found on enquiry that by reason of unsoundness of mind or mental infirmity that person is incapable of protecting his rights as plaintiff or a defendant as the case may be. Such a finding will have to be arrived at, and it must be arrived at upon an enquiry properly held. 38 C.W.N. 1081. In cases coming under R. 15, it is desirable that the Court should, before admitting the plaint, insist upon an independent application and an affidavit disclosing the facts relating to the unsoundness of mind of the person on whose behalf the plaint is presented; it is also open to the Court to direct the next friend to produce witnesses before it in order that it may satisfy itself as to the mental capacity of the person on whose behalf the plaint is presented. All that is needed that there should be some prima facie proof to satisfy the Court that the person was, by reason of unsoundness of mind or mental infirmity, incapable of protecting his interests, because an order permitting the next friend to represent such a person is not final. It is always open to the defendant to take out an independent application to have the said order revoked, when the Court can go fully into the matter. But when once the Court permits the next friend to sue on behalf of such person, it is not open to the Court to raise an independent issue in the trial as to the competency of the next friend to represent the plaintiff in the suit. 53 L.W. 258=(1941) 1 M. L.J. 354. Where an application is made to a Court after the final decree in a suit has been passed by the mother of the judgment-debtor for appointing a guardian ad litem for the judgment-debtor who is alleged to be mentally infirm and unable to manage his affairs for the purpose of enabling the guardian to ask the Court to apply the provisions of Madras Act IV of 1938 to the decree passed in the Court, the Court should hold a judicial inquiry as contemplated by R. 15.

C. C. M.—153

It is not proper for the Court to dismiss the application by merely relying on the previous history of the litigation and on its opinion after looking at the judgment-debtor and questioning him. When the applicant is desirous of adducing evidence such as a doctor's certificate, an opportunity must be given to adduce such evidence. Since the consequence of the dismissal of the application would be to prevent the applications of the provisions of the Madras Act IV of 1938, to a case to which they may apply it is incumbent on the Court to hold a regular inquiry and to invite the parties to proper evidence even if the parties are somewhat indifferent, as otherwise justice could not be done. 53 L.W. 193=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 234. Where the respondent to an appeal dies during its pendency, but no enquiry is made, as no information is given to the Court which would lead to an enquiry, the provisions of the rule are not directly contravened by the omission to appoint a guardian ad litem. 1936 O. 67=11 Luck. 486. It is not to be assumed as a matter of course that if a plaintiff alleges that a defendant is of unsound mind the Court must immediately accept it and appoint a guardian ad litem under R. 15. Court has to appoint a guardian ad litem only when a defendant has been adjudged a lunatic in an inquisition under the Lunacy Act or when the Court itself on inquiry has found that the defendant is of unsound mind. 38 C.W.N. 900=1934 C. 833. Where there was no adjudication that a person was of unsound mind, nor was there any enquiry resulting in the finding of the Courts that he was by reason of unsoundness of mind or mental infirmity incapable of protecting his interest in the suit, a suit by a person posing himself as the next friend of the lunatic and on his behalf is not competent. 161 I.C. 665=1936 R. 121. See also 1937 M.W.N. 398. Inquiry under R. 15—Scope of—Act IV of 1912—Lunacy proceedings under—Scope of—Distinction—Finding in latter—Not conclusive in former. 50 A. 335=25 A.L.J. 1082=1928 A. 108. The rule applies to execution proceedings. 19 M. 219 (226). The provisions of R. 15 do not apply in terms to the proceedings before Privy Council, though their Lordships would ordinarily require an insane person to be adequately represented before them so that his interests might be protected. 158 I.C. 338=1935 O. W.N. 1071. Where one of the parties to the suit is a person of unsound mind, but a major, the Judge should in the first place ascertain whether he is a person of unsound mind, and whether he is to be represented by a guardian or not, and should then proceed with the hearing of the suit. 1933 A. 149. The fact that a person of high position had renounced the world and become a sanyasi, devoting himself wholly to spiritual things and entirely neglecting his worldly affairs, would not of itself, however unusual such conduct might be in a man of high position of a zamindar possessing considerable landed property, justify the Court in holding that by reason of unsoundness of mind or mental infirmity he was incapable of protecting his interests, when suing or being sued within R. 15. But a persistent delusion of being haunted by demons, of persecution by imaginary voices attributed to gases issuing from various parts of his body and the religious megalomania which led him to regard himself as destined to be in some sort of a saviour of the world are symptoms which would justify the conclusion that the person is suffering from systematic delusional insanity and incapable of managing his own affairs. 31 C.W.N. 1087=101 I.C. 363 (2)=1927 P.C. 123 (P.C.). Applicability—Deaf and dumb persons. 1930 L. 425=126 I.C. 579.

THE POSITION OF LUNATIC AND MINOR IS THE SAME.—A sale of a lunatic's property in execution of a decree against him in a suit in which he was not represented by a guardian ad litem is a nullity and the lunatic can resist an action for possession without setting aside the sale. [32 C. 296=32 I.A. 23 (P.C.); 38 M. 1076, Dist.]; 34 I.C. 551=4 L.W. 228; 33 C. 1094; 18 C.W.N. 1329=20 C.L.J. 291. Where guardian of respondent died before appeal was argued and appeal was subsequently decided, held that it was not valid and binding. 1936 L. 861 (Reversing 38 P.L.R. 320=161 I.C. 987). But see 1936 A.L.J. 964=1936 A. 806. (Where it was held that it was only an irregularity and that if there was no prejudice to any party the decision cannot be set aside; and that in any event the appeal could be revived and proceeded with with proper guardian or next friend appointed). Where a decree is obtained against a lunatic on the refusal of Court to appoint a guardian ad litem for him, the representatives of the lunatic cannot after his death raise an objection in execution that the decree was null and void. 45 I.C. 219. The provisions of this rule are not exhaustive and lunatic can sue through his next friend though not adjudged a lunatic under any law. 33 C. 1094; 24 M. 504; 23 B. 658. See also 13 B. 656. Omission to appoint a guardian ad litem for a man of unsound mind does not render the whole suit invalid ab initio. 22 I.C. 673. Rule applies whether the lunatic is adjudged or not. 3 L.W. 301=34 I.C. 428; 16 I.C. 885; 29 I.C. 595=13 A.L.J. 562; 34 I.C. 551=4 L.W. 228 (7 C. 242; 13 B. 656; 24 M. 504, Foll.) Defendant alleged to be of unsound mind by one party denied by the opposite party—Judicial inquiry is necessary. 1922 C. 86. There is no established rule of practice requiring that suits relating to a lunatic's property should be brought by the lunatic manager and not by himself. On the contrary the code contemplates suits by persons of unsound mind whether so adjudged or not. Though it is true that a person so incapacitated has to sue by a next friend, yet next friend is not a party and the absence of a next friend is immaterial. 27 I.C. 459=19 C.W.N. 45. Person of weak mind can sue through a next friend. 83 I.C. 253=1925 N. 245. See also 48 L.W. 610=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 810. Power-of-attorney granted by plaintiff—Plaintiff incapable of protecting his interests—Suit by next friend for revocation is maintainable. 48 L.W. 610=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 810. Notice of unsoundness—Duty to appoint guardian—Decree. 50 I.C. 109=17 A.L.J. 257. Lunatics are under the peculiar protection of the Court and from the mere fact that by reason of the ignorance of the Court no enquiry was made, the decree passed against a lunatic without the appointment of a guardian cannot be said to be binding upon him. Such a decree is a nullity. The lunatic so aggrieved is not confined to the solitary remedy by way of review only; he can through his next friend institute a suit for a declaration that the decree is not binding on him. 1937 A.L.J. 17=1937 A. 29.

ABSENCE OF ENQUIRY INTO UNSOUNDNESS OF MIND—EFFECT ON PROCEEDINGS.—The inquiry contemplated by R. 15, should precede the filing of the plaint. 1937 M.W. N. 398. Non-compliance with R. 15—Effect—Defendant alleged to be of unsound mind

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] Add as r. 17 of O. 32 :—

"17. In suits relating to the person or property of a minor or other person under the superintendence of the Court of Wards, the Courts in fixing the day for the defendant to appear and answer shall allow not less than two months' time between the date of summons and the date for appearance."

ORDER XXXIII.¹

Suits by Paupers.

Suits may be instituted in forma pauperis.

1. Subject to the following provisions, any suit may be instituted by a pauper.

LEG. REF.

in midst of hearing of suit—Issue as to unsoundness of mind not raised and tried—Finding on written statement subsequently filed and without taking evidence is not binding—Decree is liable to be set aside. 1938 P.W.N. 705=1939 P. 25. Where a suit on behalf of a person of unsound mind has been tried out, without any inquiry into or finding as to the plaintiff's unsound mind, the appellate Court which finds out the defect must itself hold the enquiry, and not direct the trial Court to hold it; and if as a result of the enquiry the appellate Court finds that unsoundness of mind as required by R. 15 is made out, it must hold the trial to be in order and must dispose of the appeal on the merits; but if on the other hand the unsoundness of mind is not made out, the suit must be held to be not in order, and the proceedings being illegal the decree must be held to be a nullity. 38 C.W.N. 1081=1935 C. 224. See also 1937 M.W.N. 398.

REVISION.—Application for enquiry under R. 15—Wrongful dismissal—High Court can set aside by virtue of inherent powers. 23 A.L.J. 1082=50 A. 335=1928 A. 108.

O. 33.—This order applies to pauper suits; and O. 44 applies to pauper appeals. As to applicability of this order to pauper appeals, see 1936 Pesh. 69=161 I.C. 954. There is no machinery in O. 33 by which Court is enabled to allow plaintiff to continue as a pauper a suit instituted in the ordinary way. 1932 C. 655=36 C.W.N. 567. But see 36 C.W.N. 1035=56 C.L.J. 148=60 C. 827; 64 M.L.J. 728; 161 I.C. 359=43 L.W. 380=1936 M. 158 (Partition suit); 40 C.W.N. 747=162 I.C. 689=1936 C. 221 (contra). See also 57 M.L.J. 677. An application for the grant of probate or letters of administration, which is clearly a proceeding in a Court of civil jurisdiction, is subject to the provisions of O. 33, C.P. Code, and the rules of that order are therefore applicable to such an application. The mandatory language of S. 19-I of the Court-Fees Act is subject to the provisions of O. 33. The Court has power to order letters of administration or probate to issue in forma pauperis making the fees payable to Government under S. 19-I, Court-Fees Act and any other Court-fees payable as a first charge upon the subject-matter of the grant pursuant to O. 33, R. 10. 47 L.W. 731=1938 Mad. 486.

VAKALATNAMA.—When an application for leave to sue as a pauper is granted, a vakalat filed by a pleader in the application must be considered to have become a vakalat given for the suit as well, unless it is distinctly limited and confined to the pauper petition alone. No fresh vakalat is necessary to conduct the suit. 1934 M. 690=67 M.L.J. 594.

O. 33, R. 1.—Person entitled to property—If a pauper. 119 I.C. 697=1929 N. 319.

SCOPE OF RULE.—An applicant to be disqualified to sue as pauper must be possessed of means sufficient to pay Court-fees, and not merely entitled to property. 105 I.C. 30. Whether a suit instituted in the ordinary way may be continued as a pauper suit. See notes under O. 33, supra. Whether S. 141 makes the general provisions of the Code applicable to proceedings for the grant of succession certificate under the Succession Act of 1925. 155 I.C. 1118=1935 A. 735. In 5 C. 819 it was held that Court had power to allow a defendant to defend in forma pauperis. English law is different from Indian law. 2 P. 879=4 Pat.L.T. 538. No Court-fee is payable upon a bill or plaint in England and only the costs of conducting the litigation such as payment of fees to lawyers, etc., has to be incurred. 2 P. 879.

WHO CAN SUE AS A PAUPER.—A person who has obtained leave to sue under S. 18 of the Religious Endowments Act can be permitted to sue in forma pauperis. 24 M. 419. Where a suit is filed on behalf of an estate and the estate is not a pauper, the trustee representing such estate may claim to be allowed to file a suit in forma pauperis. (7 M. 390, Foll.) 1933 M. 883=65 M.L.J. 781. A minor can sue as a pauper although his next friend has substantial means. 3 M. at 4; 1929 L. 746 (2); 37 C.L.J. 394=1923 C. 656. A next friend who is a pauper can sue in forma pauperis. 11 B. L.R. 373. Leave to sue in forma pauperis—No assets as executor—Grant of leave. 1930 L. 735 (2)=125 I.C. 611. An executor may be allowed to petition for, and, if entitled thereto, obtain probate in forma pauperis. 18 B. 237. An administrator of an estate can also sue as a pauper. 7 M. 390. An Official Receiver in whom the estate of an insolvent has vested under S. 28 (2) of the Provincial Insolvency Act by virtue of an order of adjudication made by the Court, can institute a suit as a pauper for recovery of the said estate, provided he fulfils the conditions laid down in the Explanation.—A person is a “pauper” when he is not possessed of sufficient means to enable him to pay the fee prescribed by law for the plaint in such suit, or, where no such fee is prescribed, when he is not entitled to property worth one hundred rupees other than his necessary wearing-apparel and the subject-matter of the suit.

explanation to O. 33, R. 1. The word “person” in the rule would include both natural and legal persons and would not exclude the Official Receiver. The test is not whether he is the legal owner, but whether as legal owner, as distinct from his personal capacity, he is a pauper or not. The fact that he is not a pauper in his individual capacity is immaterial. 1 L. R. (1937) Mad. 784=1937 Mad. 549=(1937) 1 M. L. J. 727 (F. B.). Order 33 applies to suits by companies. The term ‘persons’ in the order includes companies also. 41 M. 624=34 M.L.J. 421. Firm can be considered to be ‘person’ under R. 1. Where a firm brings a suit for recovery of certain amount by way of damages for certain wrongful acts but afterwards becomes insolvent and the suit is dismissed as Official Assignee refused to prosecute it the firm can be granted leave to appeal as a pauper even though there is possibility that some of the assets will come back to the firm later. 1930 R. 272. A shebait suing his co-shebait and an alienee for recovery of endowed property may be allowed to sue in forma pauperis; the fact that his co-shebait is possessed of means is perfectly immaterial. 11 I.C. 892. An idol is a “person” who comes within the meaning of R. 1. 31 N. L.R. 413=1935 N. 209. Where the shebait is suing for recovery of possession of debutter properties with an application for permission to bring the suit as a pauper the question that requires consideration is whether the trust property vesting in the idol is sufficient to pay Court-fees or not. 152 I.C. 241 (1)=1934 P. 531. The question whether the shebait has funds of his own is irrelevant. 31 N.L.R. 413 (noted supra). (1927 C. 309, Foll.).

EXPLANATION.—See 30 B. 593; 10 B. 207; 10 A. 467; 1936 O.W.N. 237=1937 O. 431. It cannot be laid down that the subject-matter in dispute in the suit can in no circumstances be taken into account in considering whether the plaintiff is possessed of sufficient means to enable him to pay the Court-fee or not. The Explanation to R. 1 consists of two distinct parts, and while under the second part the legislature has advisedly excluded the subject-matter of the suit, it has obviously refrained from excluding it in the first part. In cases coming under the first part, it is not possible to hold that the subject-matter of the suit must always and of a necessity be excluded from consideration. Whether or it should or should not be excluded is a matter for the consideration of the Court. The words “possessed of sufficient means to enable him to pay the fee” are not equivalent to “possessed of sufficient property to enable him to pay the fee.” 1937 A. L. J. 1171=1937 All. 740. The two clauses in explanation to R. 1 are disjunctive. Hence where there is a fee prescribed in the plaint, possession of a part of the subject-matter can be considered and the words “subject-matter of the suit” in Cl. (2) cannot be imported into Cl. (1). 149 I.C. 1004=1934 A. 323. See also 1933 P. 203; 67 M.L.J. 581. The comma after the word “suit” in the explanation to O. 33, R. 1, separates the first part of the explanation from the second part; it would therefore follow that the words “other than his necessary wearing apparel and the subject-matter of the suit,” qualify only the second part of the explanation and not the first. Where it is found or agreed that the plaintiff has a saleable interest in certain items of the property in suit it would be contrary to the spirit of O. 33, if the plaintiff could ignore that property on which money could be raised. 51 L. Where an applicant for leave to appeal as a pauper is in possession of the subject-matter of the suit, the Court should take into consideration its value in determining whether or not he should be allowed to appeal as a pauper. 42 P. L. R. 266=1940 Lah. 310. In deciding whether an applicant for permission to sue in forma pauperis is possessed of sufficient means to enable him to pay the Court-fee prescribed by law, the possession by the applicant of an occupancy holding must be taken into consideration. The Court will have to consider whether the applicant can convert the occupancy holding into cash so as to enable him to pay the Court-fee. 1 L. R. (1938) Nag. 171=1938 Nag. 176. The word “persons” in O. 33 has reference to all those who have a right to institute a suit under the Code. O. 33 applies to all prospective plaintiffs or persons in whom any right to relief exists within the meaning of O. 1, R. 1 of the Code. (1930 R. 272 and 1918 M. 362, Foll.; 1930 R. 259, not Foll.) 31 N.L.R. 413=1935 N. 209. A person who applies for leave to sue as a pauper is not bound to try and raise funds by mortgaging his claim. 3 M. 249. Where an applicant for permission to sue as pauper is shown to own considerable properties, but all of them are heavily mortgaged, some being with possession and some being the subject of suits, evidence has to be taken to enable the Court to judge whether any money can be raised on the properties. If it cannot be reasonably held that the applicant can raise the amount necessary for the suit, he will be allowed to sue as a pauper. 152 I.C. 260=40 L.W. 273=1934 M. 562 (1). LOC. AMS.—[BOMBAY.] The following sentence shall be added to the Explanation to r. 1 of O. 33, namely:—

“In determining whether he is possessed of sufficient means the subject-matter of the suit shall be excluded.”

[MADRAS.]

Explanation (i).—A person is a pauper—

(a) when he is not possessed of sufficient means to enable him to pay the fee prescribed by law for the plaint in such suit, or

(b) where no fee is prescribed when he is not entitled to property worth one hundred rupees other than his wearing apparel and the subject-matter of the suit.

Explanation (ii).—Any part of the subject-matter of the suits which the opposite party relinquishes and places at the immediate disposal of the plaintiff shall be taken into account in considering the question of the possession of sufficient means by the plaintiff.

Explanation (iii).—Where the plaintiff sues in a representative capacity the question of pauperism shall be determined with reference to the means possessed by him in such capacity.

cannot be laid down as an abstract proposition that in every case where plaintiff has got a mortgage or similar claim, he cannot be regarded as a pauper. It all depends on circumstances of each case, but until it is shown that plaintiff can raise money, he is a pauper and entitled to permission to sue as such. 152 I.C. 938=40 L.W. 370=1934 M. 561. REVISION.—Order, either rejecting or granting an application for leave to sue in forma pauperis, amounts to case decided and if the order falls within the purview of Cls. (a), (b) or (c) revision is competent. 1931 R. 318. See also 1938 O.W.N. 561=1938 Oudh 146; 1941 O.A. 427; (1941) 2 M.L.J. 505; 7 Cut. L. T. 28. From an order allowing a pauper application defendant can have no possible grievance, assuming the order was wrong. The only person really affected is the Crown High Court can interfere in a proper case, but it would be slow to move at the instance of the opposite party. 151 I.C. 316=1934 L. 295. 139 I.C. 520. Once application to sue as a pauper is admitted, plaintiff can only be dispaupered under O. 33, R. 9 on the grounds mentioned therein. If during the trial of the suit, it appears to Court that plaintiff has got no cause of action, the plaintiff's suit will be dismissed and he will not be merely dispaupered. 157 I.C. 520=1935 Pat. 449.

BURDEN OF PROOF.—As to pauperism is on the applicant himself, see 1926 N. 273.

LIMITATION.—An application for leave to sue as a pauper presented five years after attaining majority is barred, and cannot be allowed. 26 I.C. 90=1 L.W. 668.

LEGAL REPRESENTATIVE of pauper plaintiff cannot continue suit after plaintiff's death unless such legal representative is also a pauper. 104 I.C. 347=1927 L. 665; 24 L.W. 550=1925 M. 819; 1928 M. 66; 36 B. 279=11 I.C. 724=13 Bom.L.R. 577; 25 A. 137; 33 C. 1163; 26 I.C. 714; 64 I.C. 63. Where one of the applicants to sue as pauper dies during pendency of the application, his legal representative is entitled to be brought on record in his place, and to continue the proceedings as a suit by substitution on payment of Court-fees, or else by filing a fresh application for leave to sue as pauper. Court, not allowing the applicants time for substituting the heirs of deceased applicant, acts with material irregularity. 15 Pat. 738=1936 Pat. 591.

O. 33, R. 2.—A petition to sue in forma pauperis which fails to comply with the provisions of R. 2 ought to be rejected. 6 Bur.L.T. 141=20 I.C. 640. The Court has power to allow a plaintiff to continue in forma pauperis a suit which has been instituted in the ordinary way, but before he can do so, there must be an application for permission which must comply with O. 33, R. 2. 196 I.C. 40. R. 2 is mandatory. An applicant who is a member of a joint family must enter all the joint family properties in a schedule under R. 2 for information of all Courts inasmuch as he is entitled to a share of that property on partition. The same proposition holds good in respect of a minor member of a joint family. 1934 A.L.J. 247=1934 A. 396. The property which is the subject-matter of the suit is not exempted from the operation of R. 2. 177 I.C. 311=1938 Pesh. 50. O. 33, Rr. 2 and 5.—Omission to include one solitary item of property in schedule of properties attached to an application for leave to sue as a pauper is not such a defect in the form or frame of the application as to call for rejection under R. 5 (a), where the application is otherwise regular. 151 I.C. 635=38 C.W.N. 548=1934 C. 640. His personal and representative capacities must be kept distinct. 1940 O.W.N. 259=15 Luck. 365=1940 Oudh 148 (F.B.).

O. 33, R. 2 and S. 149: PAUPER PETITION—SUBSEQUENT APPLICATION TO PAY COURT-FEES—EFFECT OF—DISCRETION OF COURT.—Under O. 33, C. P. Code, as amended by the Rangoon High Court, a pauper applicant is required to present a plaint together with his application to sue as a pauper. He may at any time apply to the Court under S. 149, C. P. Code, for leave to pay the Court-fee payable on the plaint. By making such application his prior application to sue as a pauper must be taken to be abandoned and will accordingly stand rejected. It is then incumbent upon the Court to deal with the application under S. 149. The Court must exercise its discretion judicially and must consider all the circumstances of the case, including, of course, the fact that, if the application is granted, the plaintiff may, by presenting and subsequently abandoning a petition for leave to sue as a pauper, have obtained a valuable extension of time, and that the Court, by exercising its discretion in the plaintiff's favour, may in effect be extending the limitation of time imposed by statute. 1938 Rang.L.R. 629. If presented by agent, Court may order applicant to be examined by commission.

the Nazir is sufficient and proper. 58 I.C. 961=17 N.L.R. 22. See also 47 M.L.J. 522. It is the ordinary practice for revenue Courts to accept the natural guardian of a child as the guardian for purposes of petty litigation and not, except in important cases, take action as mentioned in O. 33, R. 3 (4). But where a landlord brought a suit for ejectment of minor tenant from what he claimed to be his 'sir' land, an agreement by which the mother of the minor gave up her defence that the minor was a perpetual lessee and gave up possession is one which requires sanction of Court for its validity. 14 L.R. 69 (Rev.)=17 R.D. 64.

O. 33, R. 3 (Rangoon).—Where a petition for leave to sue in forma pauperis, although otherwise in proper form does not state the date on which the verification was signed, Court has jurisdiction under R. 3, as amended by the Rangoon High Court in 1935, to allow an amendment of the petition to enable plaintiff to put in the date upon which the petition was verified. 14 R. 311=63 I.C. 842=1936 R. 279.

O. 33, R. 4.—Where the applicant who seeks for permission to sue as pauper, is examined under R. 4, the opposite party has right to cross-examine. 60 I.C. 738. Court can enter into merits of a case under R. 4 and for that purpose Judge can examine plaintiff who applies for permission to sue as a pauper. 3 P. 275=1925 P. 30. For that purpose Court may avail itself of such help he may render. The opponent has no right to examine applicant on merits of the claim. 108 I.C. 657=1928 S. 118. In an inquiry under O. 33 Court cannot take evidence except that of the applicant himself on merits of the claim. 46 C. 651=52 I.C. 610. But Court cannot examine witness for deciding the question of limitation or any other question than the pauperism of the applicant. 52 I.C. 610=46 C. 651. But see 50 I.C. 676, contra.

O. 33, R. 4 (as amended by Rangoon High Court, 1935).—R. 4 of the new rules under O. 33, C.P. Code, as amended by Rangoon High Court in 1935, does not give any express authority to the Court to reject a plaint on the ground that it does not show a cause of action after enquiry held under the rule; but when on the face of the plaint itself it does not show a valid cause of action, it does not stand to reason that the Court cannot act upon that finding at any stage of the proceedings provided it has not infringed the rule that it should not adduce matters extraneous to the plaint in determining whether it shows a valid cause of action or not. Since the reference to certain proceedings in the High Court cannot be deemed to be tantamount to adducing of matters extraneous to the plaint where those proceedings are themselves mentioned in the plaint and the applicant himself asks that those proceedings be read as part of the plaint, there is nothing which renders the order dismissing the application illegal. 1937 Rang. 365.

O. 33, R. 5.—R. 5 of O. 33 is by no means exhaustive; it merely states a series of circumstances any of which if proved compels the Court to reject the application. 20 Pat.L.T. 720=1939 Pat. 385. site Court-fee under S. 149 and treat the application as a plaint. Per Allsop, J.—The Court, having once passed an order refusing to allow an applicant to sue as a pauper, may after the proceedings have been reopened, exercise jurisdiction under S. 149. 164 I.C. 305=1936 A.L.J. 760=1936 A. 584 (F.B.). See also 38 P.L.R. 79.

ADMINISTRATION SUIT.—That the applicant under O. 33 was unable to name all the persons in possession of the property left by the deceased in an administration suit is no ground for dismissing the application to conduct the administration suit as a pauper. 138 I.C. 335=1932 L. 328.

SUIT UNDER FATAL ACCIDENTS ACT.—S. 3 of the Fatal Accidents Act requires that full particulars of all the beneficiaries must be given in a plaint in a suit for damages under that Act. Therefore an application for leave to file a suit, as a pauper, for damages in respect of a fatal accident, which does not contain such particulars, is liable to be rejected. 59 C.L.J. 394=1934 C. 712.

JOINT APPLICATION.—The fact that a joint pauper application by two persons to conduct a certain suit was dismissed is no ground for dismissing a subsequent pauper application by one of them. 138 I.C. 335=1932 L. 328.

AMENDMENT OF APPLICATION.—Provisions of O. 6 as to amendment of pleadings apply to applications under O. 33. 138 I.C. 652=1932 L. 548. Where a pauper application is in right form Court may at a subsequent stage allow plaint to be amended as to substance at the instance of the applicant's pleader. 11 R. 414=1933 R. 410 (2). It is doubtful whether the provisions of R. 5 were intended to take away the general power of allowing amendment, conferred on Courts by O. 6, R. 17. (138 I.C. 652, Ref.) 141 I.C. 570=34 P.L.R. 557. Under R. 5 the Court can reject an application if defective and if the defect could not be amended, but not without affording an opportunity to the applicant to correct the defect. Court has got ample powers under Ss. 99, 152 and 153 to afford opportunity to rectify defect in pleadings and under S. 153 is bound to do so. 55 A. 216=1933 A.L.J. 110=1933 A. 295.

O. 33, R. 5, cl. (a).—See 26 L.W. 546; 51 M.L.J. 79=50 M. 63. Value for Court-fee wrongly calculated—Application must be dismissed—Right of fresh application may subsist. 7 R. 359=118 I.C. 415 (2)=1929 R. 128 (2). Only such defects of form as unfavourably reflect on the merits of the application must be regarded as justifying an order refusing to allow the applicant to sue as a pauper. 31 N.L.R. 386=157 I.C. 294=1935 N. 168. Where an application is defective in form by the list of property not being duly verified, the lack of verification might be due to the carelessness or ignorance, or might be deliberate. Whether the formal defect was unintentional or designed could be detected only by giving the applicant an opportunity to regularise the list of property by appending the required verification. If he made the amendment, the formal defect would have been cured, but if he fails to amend, his failure could be considered as cogent evidence of his having withheld information regarding his resources. This circumstance is such as can be reasonably considered as justifying an order of refusal under sub-R. (3), R. 7. 1935 N. 168. It is only when the Court is in a position to find that an opportunity to rectify the error of form was not availed of by the applicant that it would be reasonable to apply the bar of res judicata provided in R. 15. 1935 N. 168. Where opposite party opposes the application on any of the grounds under O. 33, R. 5 (b) or (c), the primary burden of proof is on the opposite party (defendant). 1938 Nag. 210=I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 463.

O. 33, R. 5, cl. (c): MEANS—ASSETS FULLY SPENT PRIOR TO LITIGATION.—The petitioner sold his house for Rs. 10,000, on 6th July, 1931. From that date up to 22nd August, 1931, he disbursed the amount to his creditors though they were not pressing him. On 23rd August, 1931, he applied for permission to sue as pauper. Held, that the petition should be dismissed as R. 5 (c) second part covered the case. 148 I.C. 527=1934 L. 681.

O. 33, R. 5, cl. (d).—If the allegations of the applicant prima facie disclose a cause of action Court ought not to embark upon the consideration of a complicated or doubtful question of law or fact that may arise upon the allegations for the purpose of determining whether they show a cause of action. 10 R. 357=139 I.C. 265=1932 R. 107 (F.B.). Per Full Bench.—To permit Court when considering whether the case falls within R. 5 (d) to take into account other matters of which it has received notice aliunde would be to travel outside the scope of O. 33 and in effect to allow it to try the suit on the merits of an application. 10 R. 357. See also 1935 M.W.N. 1270=69 M. L.J. 816. The words "cause of action" imply a good and subsisting cause of action and if at the time of the enquiry into the pauperism, Court finds that apart from merits, the suit is on the face of it hopelessly barred by limitation, application must be dismissed. [10 R. 357, Foll.; 54 A. 525, Diss.] 12 R. 124=151 I.C. 826=1934 R. 111; 1941 N.L.J. 473; 1937 Oudh 481; 1937 Cal. 516. So also if it is found to be barred by res judicata. 161 I.C. 47=1936 Pesh. 39 (19 M. 197, Foll.) The cause of action may be defined as the bundle of facts which would enable plaintiff to succeed in his suit. Where therefore a plaint sets out that succession to a particular math is regulated by custom of nomination followed by election but bases the cause of action on nomination merely, no cause of action is disclosed. Judge should in such a case confine himself to the case of plaintiff as set out in plaint. 14 Pat. L. T. 338=1933 P. 284; 1937 C. 516. Where an application for leave to sue in forma pauperis, itself does not disclose any want of cause of action, the Court should grant leave to the applicant, if other conditions are satisfied. The Court is not entitled to look into other evidence, such as documents, at that stage and to dismiss the application under O. 33, R. 5 (d), C. P. Code, on the ground that the suit would be barred by res judicata. The dismissal of the application being on a ground not contained in O. 33, R. 5, C. P. Code, the Court acts without jurisdiction and the order is therefore liable to be set aside by the High Court in revision. (1941) 1 M.L.J. 31. As to data and method of ascertaining existence of cause of action, see 101 I.C. 18=1927 M. 441=52 M.L.J. 330. For purpose of deciding whether the allegations of the applicant show a cause of action, under R. 5 (d), Court must take into consideration the averments in the application and any statements by the applicant regarding the merits of the claim made in the course of the examination by the Court under R. (4), but Court is not entitled to take into account any other evidence, oral or documentary, in considering whether the allegations disclose a cause of action. [10 R. 357 (F.B.), Rel. on.] 151 I.C. 429=1934 R. 214. See also 41 C.W.N. 1087=1937 Cal. 516. Where an application is made for leave to sue as a pauper, Court has no jurisdiction to go into the merits of the cause of action. 131 I.C. 64=1931 R. 79; 10 R. 357=139 I.C. 265=1932 R. 107 (F.B.); 1935 L. 961. It should not be rejected in limine, even though it may be that on the merits, the plaintiff has no claim. That is a matter for investigation by Court at the trial. 157 I.C. 753 (2)=1935 L. 124 (1). But where on the face of it the plaint shows no cause of action petition should be rejected. 138 I.C. 269=1932 A. L. J. 303=1932 A. 487; 30 S. L. R. 314=164 I.C. 571=1936 S. 130. In an application to sue in forma pauperis the Court is entitled to see whether the petitioner has any cause of action and if it is found that the petitioner is in fact acting for somebody else the Court is perfectly justified in holding that his application is barred by O. 33, R. 5, Cl. (d). If this were not the law, and such persons were allowed to proceed with their suits in forma pauperis, every one who can afford to pay the Court-fee, would put up some pauper to sue as his transferee and avoid paying duty. (1919 Pat. 58, Foll.) 188 I.C. 31=1940 Pesh. 13.

O. 33, R. 5, cl. (e) is designed in aid of bona fide litigants only, and it must be strictly confined to such litigants. 8 P.L. T. 810=103 I.C. 448=1927 P. 352. See also 1932 R. 68; 37 I.C. 172. The agreement referred to in Cl. (e) of R. 5 of O. 33, C. P. Code, must not only be an agreement with reference to the subject-matter of the litigation, but it must also be an agreement under which any other person "has obtained" an interest in such subject-matter. In other words, the interest acquired must be subsisting and the agreement operative and not rescinded and the claim thereunder not renounced. If an applicant for leave to appeal in forma pauperis has by agreement assigned his interest or part thereof in the entire assets (the subject-matter of the litigation) to a third party to finance the litigation at any stage of the proceedings or even before the suit, his act comes within the ambit of O. 33, R. 5 (e), and he cannot claim exemption on the ground that he has reduced his claim to the unassigned share in the property. He cannot therefore be allowed to file the appeal in forma pauperis. 41 Bom. L. R. 1305=1940 Bom. 49. O. 33, R. 5 (e) contemplates an agreement entered into after the cause of action for the suit has arisen and enforceable at the time when the application for leave to sue in forma pauperis is filed. 44 C.W.N. 470. The provisions of C. P. Code which provide the machinery of leave to sue or to appeal in forma pauperis are not intended for the purpose of promoting the interest of champertors or for the benefit of such persons as are really working behind the applicant, but only for the purpose of protecting and giving assistance to people who are genuinely paupers and have no one to help them out of their difficulties. A chela of a deceased mahant in a math may be a pauper and may have no property, but if a suit by him claiming the right of mahantship of the math is really promoted by others who merely use him as a tool—it being also found that the plaintiff is only a nominal plaintiff, and that the backers with whom he has entered into an arrangement are to derive substantial advantages—he cannot be permitted to sue or appeal in forma pauperis. 20 Pat.L.T. 720=1939 P.W.N. 261=1939 Pat. 385. See also (1937) 2 M.L.J. 789. The agreement contemplated by sub-cl. (e) of R. 5 of O. 33, is an agreement which is subsisting and effective on the date of the application for leave to sue as pauper. But when the agreement pleaded is no longer subsisting or effective at the time the application is made, it cannot be a bar to the applicant being allowed to sue as a pauper. 152 I.C. 417=11 O.W.N. 1356. The word “interest” in O. 33, R. 5 (e), is used in its ordinary and general sense, and not in the technical sense of an interest of a transferee or mortgagee, co-owner or charge holder under the combined operation of the T. P. Act and Registration Act. The “interest” need not be a vested and completed interest. The provisions of O. 33 are intended to aid a pauper suing for his own benefit, but not to enable an ostensible pauper to figure as plaintiff, when in the fruits of the litigation a third party has been given an interest. 47 L. W. 405=1938 Mad. 491=(1938) 2 M. L. J. 137. The appellant transferred the whole of his interest in the subject-matter of the litigation to a third party when the suit was pending. After the decree he sought to appeal against it in forma pauperis and applied for leave. Held, the case fell precisely within the words of R. 5 (e), because though there was no appeal in contemplation at the time of the agreement transferring his interest, an appeal was now “proposed” and the would-be appellant had entered into an agreement under which another person had obtained an interest in the subject-matter of appeal. 162 I.C. 840=43 L.W. 717=1936 M. 665. The agreement referred to in R. 5 (e), which authorises a Court to reject an application for permission to sue as a pauper is one which is champertous. A mortgage bond executed by a lady applicant after the presentation of the application for leave to sue in forma pauperis, not for money paid to her in cash, but under pressure for previous loans of her husband does not come under the clause in question, so as to justify Court in rejecting the application. 152 I.C. 514=38 C.W.N. 1069=1934 C. 740. But see 44 L.W. 856=1937 M. 161=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 147, where it was held that the agreement need not be of a champertous character, and that it mattered little with what purpose the agreement has been entered into. A man may advance money to another out of sympathy and because he considers that such other has been unfairly dealt with, and that if he can bring his case before a Court of law, he will have justice done to him. This he can very well do without entering into an agreement with such other which will give him an interest in the subject-matter of the proposed suit. He may expect such other to repay to him, if he is successful, the money which he has advanced, but unless the re-payment can be shown to be secured on the subject-matter of the suit, there is nothing illegal in such an understanding, and such an understanding would not come within the definition of R. 5 (e). (9 B. 371, Dist.) 151 I.C. 429=1934 R. 214. Where applicant in his examination makes the following statement: “I have not yet paid any fees to him (his pleader) but I have undertaken to pay him his fees when I obtain a decree for my share,” the statement does not amount to giving any definite interest in the subject-matter to the pleader within the meaning of R. 5 (e) and does not justify dismissal of the application. 138 I.C. 831=1932 R. 68.

LIMITATION.—Though pauper application be dismissed, the plaint remains still pending until it is actually dismissed and if Court-fees are paid, limitation will count from date of the presentation of the petition which will be regarded as the date of plaint. 146 I.C. 566=1933 M. 883=65 M.L.J. 781. See also 1933 N. 237; 1939 O.W.N. 920; I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 68=1939 Cal. 394. A Court is competent to reject an application to sue in forma pauperis under R. 5 (d) on the ground that the claim is barred by limitation. 11 I.C. 857=4 Bur.L.T. 1919; 57 I.C. 9=31 C.L.J. 351; 53 I.C. 441 (1)=134 P.R. 1919; 18 I.C. 491=58 P.L.R. 1913. But see 54 A. 525, contra.

TIME FOR PAYMENT OF COURT-FEES.—On a pauper application being dismissed, the person so applying cannot claim that time must be granted for giving necessary Court-fees. But it is customary to allow some time to pay Court-fees when a pauper application is dismissed. 1933 M. 883=65 M.L.J. 781. See also 1933 N. 237.

APPEAL.—No appeal lies from an order rejecting an application for leave to sue in forma pauperis but the applicant can bring a suit in the ordinary way. 39 I.C. 942. An order passed by a single Judge of the High Court sitting in Chambers rejecting an application for leave to sue in forma pauperis is appealable under the Letters Patent. 130

6. Where the Court sees no reason to reject the application on any of the grounds stated in rule 5, it shall fix a day (of which notice of day for receiving evidence of applicant's pauperisms. at least ten days' clear notice shall be given to the opposite party and the Government pleader) for receiving such evidence as the applicant may adduce in proof of his pauperism, and for hearing any evidence which may be adduced in disproof thereof.

NOTES.

I.C. 24=32 Bom.L.R. 1647=1931 B. 166. After grant of leave to sue as pauper, it was found during trial that the suit had been under-valued and the Munsif returned the plaint for presentation to proper Court. When it was presented in sub-Court, it was rejected on the ground that as an application for leave to sue in forma pauperis, it should be presented in person. Held, that the order of the sub-Court was appealable but that as the plaint was not presented in person, the sub-Court was justified in rejecting it. 1933 M.W.N. 197.

Court has jurisdiction to consider the merits of the case on an application to sue in forma pauperis; the fact that Court placed reliance on evidence which might not be relevant to a pauper application is not an irregularity affecting its jurisdiction and no revision lies. O. 33, Rr. 5, 7 and 15.—The rejection of an application under O. 33, R. 5, on the ground that the application was not framed and presented in the manner prescribed by Rr. 2 and 3 does not bar a subsequent application. The refusal contemplated by R. 15, which would have the effect of debarring a subsequent application, is the one that is provided for in R. 7. I.L.R. (1940) All. 253=1940 A.L.J. 118=1940 A. 251. A Court has, undoubtedly, power to permit during its pendency, an application for leave to sue in forma pauperis to be converted into a plaint by payment of the necessary Court-fees. This power can also be exercised at the time of rejecting the application, if in one single order the Court declines leave to sue as a pauper and also gives time for payment of Court-fee. This will be within the discretion allowed by S. 149, C. P. Code. But when once an order finally disposing of the application for leave to sue as a pauper has been passed, it is no longer open to that Court to give any further time so as to revive the proceedings already completely disposed of and to permit them to be resumed. 17 Pat. 281=19 Pat. O. 33, Rr. 6 and 7.—An order to furnish security for Court-fee as a condition of being permitted to sue as a pauper would stultify the granting of such permission and is not proper. 1933 A.L.J. 757=1933 A. 779. 6. Notices of day for enquiring into the applicant's right to sue as a pauper.—Where the Court sees no reason to reject the application on any of the grounds stated in rule 5, it shall “nevertheless” fix a day (of which at least ten days' clear notice shall be given to the opposite party and to the Government Pleader) for receiving such evidence as the applicant may adduce to prove that the application is not subject to any of the prohibitions in rule 5 and for hearing any evidence which may be adduced to the contrary.

7. (1) On the day so fixed or as soon thereafter as may be convenient, the Court shall examine the witnesses (if any) produced by either party, and may examine the applicant or his agent, and shall make a memorandum of the substance of their evidence.

NOTES.

R. 6 is confined to the question of pauperism. 56 B. 585=34 Bom.L.R. 1273=1932 B. 584. (45 A. 548; 46 C. 651; 3 P. 275; 7 R. 361, Foll.) It is not proper that a Court in deciding as to whether the plaintiff is entitled to sue as a pauper or not, should take into consideration the weakness of the merits of the plaintiff's case; the strength or weakness of the case on the merits must necessarily be left for decision on the merits when the application for pauperism is admitted. I. L. R. (1940) Nag. 549=1940 Nag. 258. A report of a Tahsildar to the effect that an applicant for permission to sue in forma pauperis is a pauper merely forwarded by the Collector of the district who has been appointed to perform the functions of the Government Pleader under O. 33, R. 6 is not in itself evidence in the case. It is for the Government Pleader who appears in the case for the defendant Secretary of State to decide whether to accept that report or to oppose the application. If he chooses the latter course, the Court has jurisdiction to enter upon a further enquiry in the matter and come to the conclusion that the applicant is not a pauper. 187 I.C. 134.

O. 33, R. 7.—The materials for forming an opinion whether applicant is or is not subject to any of the prohibitions specified in R. 5 are (1) the application and (2) the evidence of the applicant under R. 4 or R. 7, which is, however, confined to the question of pauperism. Then Court has to hear arguments, if any, offered on the face of (a) the application and (b) the evidence (if any) taken. There is no provision in O. 33 for allowing opponent to put in a written statement or to give evidence. If Court went into merits of the case and actually relied upon the evidence of two witnesses and that of the opponent himself and came to the conclusion that there was no subsisting cause of action, the procedure is unwarranted and illegal and the order should be set aside. 140 I.C. 381=34 Bom.L.R. 1273=1932 B. 584. Court has under O. 33, R. 7 power to dismiss the application either because on the evidence produced it is not satisfied that the petitioner is a pauper or because the petition falls within some of the prohibitions specified in R. 5. Hence there is no objection to the Court in dealing with the technical objections mentioned in R. 5 before hearing the evidence as to whether the petitioner is actually a pauper or not.

177 I. C. 311=1938 Pesh. 50. An order granting leave to sue as pauper on payment of costs to the other side when the applicant could afford it is an extraordinary order. I.L.R. (1940) All. 253=1940 A. L. J. 118=1940 All. 251. See also 1933 All. 779. The power to allow a case to be continued as a pauper suit is included in the power given to Court to allow a suit in forma pauperis to be instituted. A suit for partition was filed with a Court-fee of Rs. 10. Plaintiff, who was out of possession, was directed to pay ad valorem Court-fee and time granted for that purpose. On the last day fixed for payment, plaintiff applied to be allowed to proceed with the suit as a pauper. Held, that Court had jurisdiction to allow the application. 36 C.W.N. 1035=56 C.L.J. 148. See also 60 C. 827; 64 M.L.J. 728. But see 139 I.C. 520=36 C.W.N. 567=1932 C. 655. See also 1929 M. 828=57 M.L.J. 677. Suit in forma pauperis—Subsequent payment of Court-fee—Institution deemed to have been made on the date of the original presentation. 18 N.L.R. 44=1922 N. 600; 37 I.C. 921=3 O.L.J. 647; 1937 Rang. 185. If an application for leave to sue in forma pauperis is disallowed under R. 7 (3) as not being in conformity with R. 5 (a), the order dismissing the application operates as a bar to fresh application in that behalf by virtue of R. 15. 10 R. 475=140 I.C. 162=1932 R. 195. It is essential for granting of permission to pay Court-fees that there should be a pending proceeding before Court. Where therefore an application for leave to sue in forma pauperis is rejected under R. 7, there is no proceeding before the Court and the plaint cannot be said to remain, and an order granting plaintiffs permission to pay Court-fees cannot be deemed to be one under S. 149 and the suit must be held to have been instituted on the day on which Court-fee is paid. (1922 N. 160 and 1924 M. 118, Rel. on; 1929 P. 637, Diss. from.) 147 I.C. 732=1933 N. 237. See also 65 M.L.J. 781=1933 M. 883; 62 C. 711; 17 L. 831=1937 L. 151. Although a bona fide applicant to sue in forma pauperis, whose application has not been already refused, may be allowed to convert his application into a plaint which, after it has been so converted, should be deemed to have been filed on the date on which the original application was presented to the Court, the position would be different if the pauper application had been refused under O. 33, R. 7 or if the applicant had

(2) The Court shall also hear any argument which the parties may desire to offer on the question whether, on the face of the application and of the evidence (if any) taken by the Court as herein provided, the applicant is or is not subject to any of the prohibitions specified in rule 5.

(3) The Court shall then either allow or refuse to allow the applicant to sue as a pauper.

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.]

(4) Where the application is for leave to sue in a representative capacity under Explanation (iii) to rule 1, or under sections 91, 92 or under Order I, rule 8, the Court may, if it thinks fit, for reasons to be recorded in writing, direct that the plaintiff shall give security for the payment of Court-fee.

8. Where the application is granted, it shall be numbered and registered, and shall be deemed the plaint in the suit, and the suit shall proceed in all other respects as a suit instituted in the ordinary manner, except that the plaintiff shall not be liable to pay any Court-fee (other than fees payable for service of process) in respect of any petition, appointment of a pleader or other proceeding connected with the suit.

9. The Court may, on the application of the defendant, or of the Government pleader, of which seven days' clear notice in writing has been given to the plaintiff, order the plaintiff to be dispaupered—presented his application mala fide or with intent to defraud the revenue. Where an application for leave to sue in forma pauperis is rejected under O. 33, R. 7, there is no proceeding before the Court and the plaint filed along with the original application cannot be said to remain. In such a case an order granting the applicant permission to pay Court-fees cannot be deemed to be one under S. 149 and the suit must be held to have been instituted on the day on which the Court-fee is paid. (62 C. 711, Dis. from.) I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 68=43 C.W.N. 686=1939 Cal. 394. See also 1938 Pat. 120. If facts come into existence since the date of the application for leave to sue as a pauper, on which the plaintiff can be dispaupered under O. 33, R. 9, there is no reason why the Court cannot make such an order in anticipation by straight away refusing the leave asked for. But if the Court allows the plaintiff to sue as a pauper refusing to take into account those facts, it cannot be said to act so clearly without jurisdiction that the High Court should be bound to interfere in revision. 45 C.W.N. 551.

O. 33, R. 8.—Application for leave to sue as a pauper is not a plaint till leave is granted and till then it cannot be returned under O. 7, R. 10. If so returned, High Court will interfere in revision. 52 I.C. 688. Application for leave to sue as pauper—Court-fees subsequently paid—Deduction of time when pauper application pending—If allowed. 12 I.C. 875. Where plaintiff applied to the Munsif and got leave to sue as pauper but subsequently during the course of trial it was found that the suit was under-valued and plaintiff was directed to re-present the plaint to proper Court, held, that the proceedings before the Munsif, being without jurisdiction, were mere nullities and that the leave granted by the Munsif was of no avail to plaintiff and that he should once more apply to sub-Court for leave to sue in forma pauperis. 56 M. 689=64 M.L.J. 493=1933 M. 417. A Court under O. 33, R. 7, ought not to go into complicated questions of fact or law such as questions of res judicata; but if the Court does embark upon such an inquiry as that the Court cannot be said to be acting beyond its jurisdiction so as to justify interference in revision under S. 115, C. P. Code. 1937 M.W.N. 415. An application for review of judgment passed in a suit or appeal in forma pauperis must, under the law, be considered to be one in continuation of the suit or appeal, as the case may be, which was in forma pauperis. Such an application must be held to be maintainable without payment of any Court-fee. 40 C.W.N. 1407=1936 C. 752.

O. 33, R. 9.—There is nothing in O. 33, which contemplates a fresh inquiry into

- (a) if he is guilty of vexatious or improper conduct in the course of the suit ;
 (b) if it appears that his means are such that he ought not to continue to sue as a pauper ; or
 (c) if he has entered into any agreement with reference to the subject-matter of the suit under which any other person has obtained an interest in such subject-matter.

pauperism merely from the fact that other defendants are subsequently added to the suit. Although an added defendant can apply under R. 9 for dispaupering the plaintiffs for one of the reasons given in R. 9 yet, in absence of such application, Court has no jurisdiction to pass an order requiring evidence of pauperism to be produced again. 161 I.C. 51=1936 Pesh. 51. Dispaupering, grounds for. 2 P. 879=4 Pat.L.T. 538. The mere fact that the issue will be decided again in the suit is no reason why it should not be decided in the proceeding for dispaupering. 149 I. C. 1004=1934 A. 323. The provisions of O. 33 are designed in aid of bona fide litigants and must be strictly confined to them. Where a pauper plaintiff enters into an agreement with a stranger under which the latter advances a sum of money to the plaintiff towards the expenses already incurred by him in conducting the suit till then, and also agrees to advance another like sum "for taking steps and for the expense that may be necessary hereafter till the disposal of the suit," and the plaintiff in consideration of the advances so made and promised to be made, agrees to repay the amounts with interest within three months, and in default, to sell one-fourth of the properties to which he might be held entitled, the agreement falls within the language of O. 33, R. 9 (c), and affords a ground for dispaupering the plaintiff. O. 33, R. 9 (c) is wide enough to cover such an interest as is created by the plaintiff under the agreement in favour of the stranger. 46 L.W. 649=1938 M. 153=1937) 2 M.L.J. 789. See also 1939 Pat. 385=1939 P.W. N. 261=20 Pat.L.T. 720. See 131 I.C. 828=1931 M. 324. Where plaintiff in a suit (in forma pauperis) dies, his executor is not liable to be dispaupered. 87 I.C. 372=1925 M. 768=48 M.L.J. 390. The word "means" in Cl. (b) is to be interpreted with the help of the definition of pauper referred to above. 2 P. 879=4 Pat.L.T. 538. The word "plaintiff" in O. 33, R. 5 (c) means, in both places in which it occurs, "the plaintiff or his representative." The application of the clause is not confined to the party who has entered into the agreement. A legal representative of the original plaintiff or appellant can be dispaupered for an agreement of the nature mentioned in the clause entered into by his predecessor-in-interest. 47 L.W. 405=1938 Mad. 491=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 137. R. 9 is intended to prevent the pauper continuing his suit when a third party has obtained an interest in the property and hence able to pay Court-fees. 21 I.C. 536=7 S.L.R. 52. R. 9 (c) must be construed as meaning that a person cannot sue as a pauper if at the time of the petition some other person has under an agreement an interest in the subject-matter of the suit. It must be a subsisting interest at the time of the suit. Where therefore a pauper plaintiff, after he has been given leave to sue as pauper, executes a mortgage over the properties affected by the suit, that is a good ground for dispaupering the plaintiff. 59 M. 901=1936 M. 662=71 M.L.J. 355. R. 9 (c) contemplates an agreement in and by which an interest is transferred or created in the subject-matter of the suit in favour of a person who is not entitled to it, and does not cover a case where by virtue of a family settlement between the parties there is a recognition of an antecedent title in one of the parties to the suit. Where a suit is filed in forma pauperis by C on a mortgage executed in favour of A and B claiming that the same was executed in their favour benami for the plaintiff's father and that plaintiff was therefore entitled to the full amount, impleading as parties to the suit, among others, the mortgagors and B's son who pleads that it is not benami, and pending the suit the plaintiff and B's son file a joint memorandum in Court by which the plaintiff agrees that the son of B is entitled to half the amount of the mortgage, such a case is not affected by R. 9 (c) and affords no ground for dispaupering the

O. 33, R. 10.—Order 33, R. 10 creates two distinct and separate rights in the Crown, one right in rem against the property and the other right in personam against the pauper. 50 I.C. 315=4 P.L.J. 166. Where an appeal in forma pauperis is partially accepted, the Government is entitled under R. 10 to the full amount of Court-fee which was payable on the memorandum of appeal if appellant had not been allowed to appeal in forma pauperis. Court-fee leviable on the amount of the subject-matter of the appeal and not on the amount awarded to appellant would therefore be recoverable by Government. 36 P.L.R. 22 (1). chaser of a decree obtained by a pauper takes it subject to the charge. The charge however is only for the Court-fees and not for the fees of the Government pleader also. 147 I.C. 751=1934 A. 438. The Court-fee payable in a case is the Court-fee leviable upon the plaint. Where the plaintiff in a suit filed as a pauper succeeds only in part, there is nothing improper in the trial Court ordering the defendant to pay the whole Court-fee, if the Court thought that it was a proper order. If the defendant thought that order unjust, he could appeal against that portion of the order. 1941 Oudh 66=1940 O.W.N. 1010.

O. 33, Rr. 10, 11, 12 and 14: SCOPE OF—REMEDY OF PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT AGGRIEVED BY ORDER AS TO PAYMENT OF COURT-FEE.—The provisions of Rr. 10, 11 and 14 of O. 33 are mandatory. Though orders under Rr. 10 and 11 usually must be passed suo motu, R. 12 gives the Provincial Government a right to apply, as a precautionary measure for an order as to payment of Court-fee under Rr. 10 and 11. 1939 A.L.J. 125=1939 All. 327. The effect of the concluding portion of O. 33, R. 10, C.P. Code, is that it not merely declares the right of the Government to recover the Court-fees but also authorises the Court to make an order as to the party or parties from whom the Court-fees are to be recovered. It follows, therefore, that after the suit is disposed of, the Court is at liberty, whether the Government is represented or not before it at the time, to make an order in favour of Government for payment of Court-fees; and in making such an order, the Court will no doubt be entitled in the exercise of its discretion to direct which of the parties shall be liable for the payment of such Court-fees. If no such order is incorporated in the decree of the Court, Government can seek to obtain such an order by an application made under R. 12. 43 C.W.N. 164=1938 C. 776. Court-fee ought to be calculated on the basis of the valuation at the date of the filing of the suit which is the valuation upon which the plaintiff would have had to pay 'if he had not been permitted to sue as pauper.' Hence where a pauper plaintiff gets his valuation amended to a figure less than that given originally in his plaint, and the suit is compromised subsequently, the Court-fee payable to the Government is to be calculated not on the amended valuation but on the original valuation given by the pauper plaintiff. 1941 A.L.J. 253..

Whenever a suit is dismissed, whether at the request of parties or not, plaintiff is the party defeated and must pay Court-fees to Government. (Ibid.) Court may, in disposing of a pauper suit, direct next friend of a minor pauper plaintiff to pay the costs of the suit; but such an order cannot have the effect of depriving Government of the right expressly given to Government by Rr. 11 and 12 to have an order that plaintiff shall pay Court-fee payable on plaint to Government. Government may, therefore, apply for such an order in spite of the order of Court directing next friend to pay the costs of suit. 45 L.W. 234=1937 M. 145=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 151.

the Court shall order the plaintiff, or any person added as a co-plaintiff to the suit, to pay the court-fee and in the case of abandonment of part of the claim the proportionate court-fee, which would have been payable by the plaintiff if he had not been permitted to sue as a pauper.

In cases where the plaintiff is dispaupered the Court may, instead of proceeding under the previous paragraph, order the plaintiff to pay the requisite court-fee within a time to be fixed by it and in default dismiss the suit and make an order for the payment of court-fee as in the previous paragraph.

Where the Court finds that the suit has been instituted unreasonably or improperly by a next friend on behalf of a minor plaintiff on a cause of action which accrued during the minority of such plaintiff, the Court may order the next friend to personally pay the Court-fee.

12. The ¹[Provincial Government] shall have the right at any time to apply to the Court to make an order for the payment of court-fees under rule 10 or rule 11.

Provincial Government may apply for payment of court-fees.

13. All matters arising between the ¹[Provincial Government] and any party to the suit under rule 10, rule 11 or rule 12 shall be deemed to be questions arising between the parties to the suit within the meaning of section 47.

Provincial Government to be deemed a party.

14. Where an order is made under rule 10, rule 11 or rule 12, the Court shall forthwith cause a copy of the decree to be forwarded to the Collector.

Copy of decree to be sent to Collector.

NOTES.

O. 33, R. 12.—R. 12 of O. 33 is confined in its operation to cases in which the Court has not already suo motu passed an order either under R. 10 or R. 11 of that order. 1939 A.L.J. 125=1939 All. 327.

O. 33, Rr. 12 and 13.—It is not the function of a Court of appeal to give effect to the right of the Government conferred by R. 12, in respect of Court-fee and some other costs incurred by and due to the Government in the trial Court. R. 13 makes it clear that Government should proceed in trial Court for recovery of Court-fee and other costs due to it to which its right has been declared by R. 12. 1937 A.L.J. 171=1937 A. 280. Where a pauper plaintiff, whose suit has been dismissed and who has become liable to pay to Government Court-fee due on the plaint and other costs incurred by Government, prefers an appeal from the decree paying the necessary Court-fee on appeal, appellate Court which has registered the appeal cannot enforce the right of the Government in the matter of Court-fee and other costs either by issuing a process or by directing appellant to pay the said sums on pain of his appeal being dismissed. 1937 A. 280. If after having so directed the appellant, it dismisses the appeal on default of compliance with the direction, the order of dismissal is wholly without jurisdiction, subject to revision and interference by High Court under S. 115. The order of dismissal of the appeal under such circumstances is not a "rejection" and does not amount to a "decree" within the meaning of S. 2 (2), so as to be open to second appeal. 1937 A. 280.

O. 33, R. 13.—Where a pauper plaintiff whose suit has been dismissed has been allowed to appeal in forma pauperis, there is no scope for the intervention of Government in the matter of Court-fee, and an application by Government for an order directing appellant to furnish security for payment of Court-fee due to Government in lower Court and appellant is unsustainable. The provisions of O. 41, R. 10 should not be made available or utilised for the benefit of the Government in order to enable it to collect the Court-fee due. Court-fee payable to Government is not the costs incurred by a party within the meaning of O. 41, R. 10. Nor can O. 33, R. 13 be invoked to support such an application by Government. 45 L.W. 186=1937 M. 267.

O. 33, R. 14.—All that the Code directs the Court to do is to send to Collector a copy of the decree which it has passed and which contains an order that plaintiff shall pay a certain sum to Government. What Collector does after receipt of the copy of the decree is no concern of Court. Collector is not the agent of the Court nor is the Court concerned with the collection of revenue. Therefore a decree drawn up in these terms: "It is ordered that a copy of this decree be sent to Collector for recovery of Rs. 700 from appellants" with a forwarding letters containing the words "for necessary action" is not justified by the Code. 8 R. 294. R. 14 appears to have been enacted with a view to enable the Provincial Government to appeal against the order passed by the Court as to the calculation or the payment of Court-fees in the event of being aggrieved by the same. Where the right of appeal is not however exercised by the Provincial Government within the time allowed by law, and the decree of the trial Court, had thereby become final, it cannot be allowed to be reopened by means of an application for amendment of the decree. 182 I.C. 337=1939 A. L.J. 125=1939 All. 327.

by him in respect of the same right to sue; but the applicant shall be at liberty to institute a suit in the ordinary manner in respect of such right, provided that he first pays the costs (if any) incurred by the

LEG. REF.

NOTES.

O. 33, R. 15.—The provisions of R. 15 are imperative. A person instituting a suit in the ordinary manner cannot do so unless he pays the costs incurred in the application to sue in forma pauperis which was dismissed. 54 A. 390=1932 A.L.J. 254=1932 A. 312. See also 1939 M.W.N. 178=1939 Mad. 316; 41 Bom.L.R. 1269; 1940 A.L.J. 118. But where Court in dismissing the application has either disallowed costs or made no order as to costs, he is entitled to maintain his suit as an ordinary litigant without making any payment to Government or to the opposite party in respect of the costs incurred in opposing the application. 157 I.C. 150=1935 A.L.J. 857=1935 A. 723 (F.B.). The proviso in R. 15 of O. 33, requiring the unsuccessful applicant for leave to sue in forma pauperis can only come into play when there is a formal order of the Court drawn up, stating the amount of costs payable by him to the Government and the opposite party. The provision, though mandatory, has to be strictly construed, inasmuch as it puts a fetter on the inherent right of an individual to resort to a Court of law for the redress of the wrong done to him. 1937 A.L.J. 1208=1937 All. 781. See also 1939 Mad. 316. Where the Court dismisses an application for leave to sue in forma pauperis but at the same time directs that "the Court-fee shall be paid within two weeks and the plaint will then be registered", the Court really intends that the application to sue in forma pauperis should itself be treated as a plaint on the requisite Court-fee being paid. O. 33, R. 15 cannot apply to such a case, as there can be no question of the institution of a fresh "suit in ordinary manner" in such a case. The proviso in that rule as to payment of the costs of the Government and the opposite party cannot come into operation at all in that case, and if the applicant pays the Court-fee due within the time fixed, the Court cannot dismiss the suit on the ground of non-payment of the costs. 1937 A.L.J. 1208=1937 All. 781. The provisions of O. 33, R. 15 are mandatory, and when failure to comply with the rule is brought to the notice of the Court, the suit must be dismissed, if the objection as to the non-compliance of the rule has not been waived. The failure to comply with the condition in O. 33, R. 15, as to prior payment of costs is an irregularity in the initial procedure which does not affect the inherent jurisdiction and competence of the Court to entertain the suit, and it may be waived. If the defendant in the subsequently instituted suit with Court-fee does not raise the objection, that the condition in O. 33, R. 15 as to payment of costs has not been complied with, at the initial stage of the trial, he cannot subsequently dispute the Court's jurisdiction. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 17=1940 Bom. 44=41 Bom.L.R. 1269. R. 15 should be read along with Rr. 5, 6 and 7. 57 I.C. 9=31 C.L.J. 351. See also 43 P.L.R. 257; 7 Cut.L.T. 34. The refusal which is contemplated by R. 15 of O. 33, is a refusal to allow the applicant to sue as a pauper under sub-R. (3) of R. 7 of that order which must be the result of an inquiry into the merits of the application as directed by sub-Rr. (1) and (2) of R. 7. Dismissal for default of appearance of applicant cannot amount to such a refusal. R. 15 of O. 33 only authorises the application of the principle of res judicata to an application to sue in forma pauperis and prohibits the entertainment of a fresh application when the first has been dismissed on the merits. It does not contemplate that a summary order passed without inquiry or contest should be given the force of res judicata. 1941 A.W.R. (H.C.) 56=1941 A.L.J. 103. Orders under R. 5 or 7 bar fresh proceedings under R. 15. 33 I.C. 812=20 C.W.N. 669. But see 10 O. W.N. 1145=1933 O. 534; 31 N.L.R. 386=157 I.C. 294=1935 N. 168 (ex parte order of rejection). LOC. AM.—[RANGOON.] Substitute the following :—

“ORDER XXXIII.

Pauper Suits.

1. Subject to the provisions of this Order any suit may be instituted without payment of the Court-fee prescribed by law for the plaint if the plaintiff is a pauper, “Pauper” exempted from Court-fee. that is to say if his property is not of the value of Rs. 100 or of the amount of the Court-fee (if more than Rs. 100), excluding from the computation the subject-matter of the suit and property exempted from attachment under S. 60.

Explanations.—(i) In a mortgage suit the subject-matter shall be estimated at the amount due on the mortgage ;

(ii) any part of the subject-matter of the suit which the opposite party relinquishes and places at the immediate disposal of the plaintiff shall be included in the computation of the plaintiff's property ; and

(iii) where the plaintiff sues in a representative capacity, such as trustee, executor or administrator or liquidator, the question of pauperism shall be determined with relation to the property of the estate which is so represented.

2. (1) A plaintiff may obtain leave to sue as a pauper by presenting his plaint with a petition signed and verified in the manner prescribed for the signing and

Application for leave to sue as a pauper. verification of plaints stating (i) that the plaintiff is a pauper and that all the property of the plaintiff consists of the items set out and valued in the schedule to the petition; (ii) that the plaintiff has not within two months next before the presentation of the petition disposed of any property fraudulently or in order to enable him to plead pauperism; and (iii) that the plaintiff has not entered into any agreement with any person whereby such person has or will have an interest in the proceeds of the suit.

(2) The plaint and petition shall be presented by the plaintiff in person unless he is exempted from appearing in Court, in which event the petition may be presented by an authorized agent who can answer all questions relating to the application.

3. Subject to the jurisdiction of the Court to allow amendments to be made the Court shall reject the petition in any of the following cases:—

(a) where the plaint is not in the form prescribed ;

(b) where the plaint does not disclose a cause of action within the jurisdiction of the Court ;

(c) where the claim appears to be barred by any law ;

(d) where the applicant has within two months next before the presentation of the petition disposed of any property fraudulently or in order to be enabled to plead pauperism ;

(e) where the applicant has entered into any agreement with any person whereby such person has or will have an interest in the proceeds of the suit.

4. (1) If the petition is not rejected under r. 3 the Court shall fix a day (of which at least ten days' notice shall be given to the opposite party and the Government pleader) for the examination and cross-examination of the plaintiff (or his agent, where the plaintiff is allowed to appear by an agent) and the witnesses (if any) produced by either party in proof or disproof of the statement made in the petition.

NOTES.

ment in opposing the application before a regular suit can be entertained; there should be a demand for it. Where there has been no such demand, suit should not be dismissed. 1935 R. 336. Where costs are not paid before institution of suit but afterwards, the suit should not be dismissed but must be treated at least as one instituted on the date on which the costs are paid and dealt with on that basis. Even an appellate Court has power to make such an order in an appeal from an order dismissing the suit; the appeal cannot be treated as not competent. 69 M.L.J. 791. Where an application for leave to sue in forma pauperis is dismissed, as not pressed, it bars a fresh application in respect of the same right. (20 B. 86, Foll.) 1924 L. 312. But see 56 I.C. 207=1 L.

151. Fresh application can be made if the application to sue in forma pauperis is dismissed for default. 1924 R. 161; 56 I.C. 207=1 L. 151. See 85 I.C. 982=1925 M. 986. See also 98 I.C. 26=4 R. 245=1926 R. 200; 96 I.C. 962=1920 M. 875=51 M. L.J. 79. If the Court rejects the petition ex parte on any of the grounds laid down in O. 33, R. 5, a second application is competent; but if the Court proceeds to issue notice to the respondent and takes evidence and finally refuses to allow the petition on merits, no second application is competent. 173 I. C. 647=1937 Pesh. 85 (2). See also 1941 A. L. J. 103. The words “right to sue” in R. 15 have substantially the same meaning as the words “cause of action”. The cause of action in the suit for specific performance of a contract is not the same

(2) Where the plaintiff appears by an agent the Court may, if it thinks fit, order that the plaintiff be examined on commission.

(3) The Court shall make a memorandum of the substance of the evidence taken at the hearing, and shall make an order allowing or rejecting the petition.

(4) Subject to any amendment which the Court may allow the petition shall be rejected under this rule if the Court is not satisfied of the truth of any of the statements made in the petition: provided that the Court may admit the plaint on payment of the Court-fee due thereon.

(5) If the petition is rejected the plaintiff shall be precluded from filing any further petition to sue as a pauper in respect of the same cause of action: provided that if the petition is rejected for default of appearance or due prosecution it may be revived on good cause being shown.

5. If, in any suit an order is made for the payment of an additional Court-fee in respect of the plaint, the plaintiff may apply by petition, for leave to continue the suit as a pauper; and the provisions of this Order shall apply to such petition.

Pauperism pending suit.

6. In a pauper suit the Court may, at any time, on the application of any party or of the Government pleader (on seven days' notice to the plaintiff) order that the suit be stayed until the Court-fee prescribed for the plaint is paid, on proof that the circumstances existing at the time when leave was given to the plaintiff to sue as a pauper were such that the leave ought not to have been given, or that the plaintiff has ceased to be a pauper or has made an arrangement with any person whereby the latter has or will have an interest in the proceeds of the suit, or where a new plaintiff who is not a pauper is substituted or added as a party.

7. (1) At the conclusion of a pauper suit the Court shall order the Court-fee prescribed for the plaint to be paid to the Collector by any party to the suit or by the parties in any proportion as may seem to the Court to be just, and shall cause a copy of the order to be forwarded to the Collector.

Recovery of Court-fees after decree.

(2) The Collector may at any time after the conclusion of the suit apply to the Court to make or amend an order under sub-r. (1).

(3) Without prejudice to the right of the Collector to take proceedings for execution of an order under sub-rule (1) the Court which executes the decree the suit shall cause the Court-fee or the proportion thereof ordered to be paid by any party to the suit under sub-r. (1) to be paid to the Collector out of any money or other property held or recovered by the Court on behalf of such party or his representative."

ORDER XXXIV.

Suits relating to Mortgages of Immovable Property.

NOTES.

as in a suit for refund of the consideration. Hence where leave to sue in forma pauperis for specific performance of a contract to sell immovable property is refused, a subsequent application for leave to sue for refund of money paid under the contract is not barred. 1936 N. 280. Limitation is computed from the date when the pauper petition is filed, a pauper suit being converted into a regular suit. 28 I.C. 504=1915 M.W.N. 228. The Court should not refuse leave to an applicant to sue in forma pauperis on the ground that he has not stated in accordance with the provisions of O. 33, R. 2, the estimated value of his property and that he has not disclosed all his movables, when it is not apparent that he has deliberately concealed his assets. In such circumstances, the Court should allow the applicant to amend his list of property. 39 P.L.R. 665. Application to sue as pauper dismissed—Court-fee paid beyond limitation but within time granted by Court—Date of institution of suit is date of petition—Notes under S. 149, supra. 1938 Cal. 730.

O. 34: GENERAL.—It is this order and not S. 34, which determines the question of the rate of interest in the case of mortgages. 54 I.A. 1=54 C. 161=1927 P.C. 1=52 M.L.J. 373 (P.C.). The fact of an instalment decree being passed in a mortgage suit on the consent of the parties does not appear to be a circumstance which can per se exclude application of this order. 111 I.C. 294=25 N.L.R. 175. This order does not apply to decrees passed in accordance with an award on a reference to arbitration. 121 I.C. 79=1930 L. 116; 33 P.L.R. 975. Nor to a mortgage executed in favour of a Co-operative Society which is enforceable in the manner prescribed by the Co-operative Societies Act (IV of 1912). 142 I.C. 487=1933 N. 211. Nor to compromise decrees. 14 P. 488=16 Pat.L.T. 311=1935 P. 385. As to applicability of O. 34 to charges created by decrees, see 1941 Bom. 71. The principles underlying O. 34, although they may not strictly apply in the case of a charge, may be applied and ought to be applied by analogy to charges created by a decree, unless indeed the terms of the decree make it clear that the remedy of recovering the decretal amount from the property charged was not given in lieu of the personal remedy, but in addition to it. In every case it is essentially a question of construction of the decree. 42 Bom.L.R. 1113.

SCOPE AND OBJECT.—O. 34 was substituted for sections in the T. P. Act which dealt only with mortgages of immovable property. A presumption can therefore be drawn that in taking those provisions out of an Act relating to property

1. Subject to the provisions of this Code, all persons having an interest either in the mortgage-security or in the right of redemption shall be joined as parties to any suit relating to the mortgage.

Parties to suits for foreclosure sale and redemption.

Explanation.—A puisne mortgagee may sue for foreclosure or for sale without making the prior mortgagee a party to the suit; and a prior mortgagee need not be joined in a suit to redeem a subsequent mortgage.

NOTES.

and incorporating them in an Act relating to procedure the legislature did not intend to extend the scope of the provisions. The heading of O. 34 defines the general words in the substantive provisions and limits their operation to mortgages of immovable property. 34 Bom.L.R. 1615. But see 59 C. 667=36 C.W.N. 263=1932 C. 524. As regards scope and object of O. 34, see also 25 C.L.J. 553=40 I.C. 845=21 C.W.N. 920; 1925 N. 15. Order 34 is self-contained and meant to provide for all matters it refers to. Its provisions do not allow of the application provided by O. 40 and a Receiver cannot, therefore, be appointed in execution of a mortgage decree. (100 I.C. 735, Foll.) 14 L. 457=34 P.L.R. 815=1933 L. 687.

O. 34, R. 1: OBJECT AND APPLICABILITY.—The object of R. 1 is that all claims affecting equity of redemption should be disposed of in one and the same suit. 54 I.A. 68=50 M. 180=1927 P.C. 32=52 M.L.J. 338 (P.C.) and to prevent the multiplicity of mortgage suits. 31 C. at 432; 33 C. 425 (433); 28 B. at 16; 32 C. 746; 28 A. 174 (F.B.); 21 A.L.J. 701=1924 A. 107; 50 M. 180. For scope and object of, see 53 M.L.J. 647; 25 C.L.J. 553=21 C.W.N. 920; 1925 N. 15. R. 1 is a rule of procedure and does not purport to deal with substantive rights of parties or the extinguishment of such rights. 30 S.L.R. 42=164 I.C. 69=1936 S. 87. This rule does not require that in a suit on a mortgage, the owner of equity of redemption must always fill in the roll of a defendant. It is enough if all the interests in the property are represented in the suit. A suit by a purchaser of mortgaged property to enforce a mortgage which he has paid off is competent. 59 M. 1042=1936 M. 814=70 M.L.J. 719. The provisions of this rule do not apply to a suit under S. 12 of the Punjab Redemption of Mortgages Act (II of 1913). 14 L. 218=34 P.L.R. 149=1933 L. 179. A charge which has been created by the decree in a suit for money does not convert the suit into a mortgage suit and make this order applicable. 49 M.L.J. 490=1925 M. 1101. As to the effect of S. 22 of the Limitation Act, see 1929 A. 941=121 I.C. 106. As to whether rule requires that persons whose rights are admitted should be made parties, see 29 M. 84; 29 M. 217 at 224; 27 A. 511; 28 C. 517; 25 M. 568; 25 M. at 113; 30 M. 353. But see 20 A. 322. Persons not impleaded as parties to mortgage suit cannot be proceeded against in execution proceedings. 153

I.C. 870=1935 L. 203. Rule only lays down a principle as to who must be made parties, and does not prohibit the joinder of any person as a party. 55 I.C. 433. In a case where the question is who may be made parties or whether an existing party may raise a particular defence, this rule does not apply. 1928 M. 764=113 I.C. 865. It is well known that people are often joined as parties to a mortgage suit to prevent further complications, but the mere fact that a person is joined as a party to the suit, possibly pro forma, does not necessarily give the plaintiff a right to sell his interest in the property, particularly when he has entered into no contract with the plaintiff and has no privity of estate with him. 167 I.C. 449=1937 R. 56. When the purchaser is obstructed from taking possession in execution of a mortgage decree, by an alleged purchaser from the mortgagor, his only remedy is a suit for possession against him, giving him an opportunity to redeem. A mortgage suit will as well lie if it is in time. 11 I.C. 74=16 C.L.J. 33. Also 1923 A. 232=65 I.C. 654. Mortgagor cannot bring separate redemption suits for redemption of a single mortgage debt where the interest of mortgagees is divided among several co-sharers. 104 I.C. 648=1927 Bom. 513.

MEANING OF TERMS.—"Mortgaged security" does not mean the mere lands which the mortgagor professes to mortgage, nor the physical object; but it means the interest therein which the mortgagor is competent to transfer by way of mortgage at the date of the transaction. (1926 R. 208, Foll.) 162 I.C. 731=1936 R. 198.

NON-JOINDER—EFFECT OF.—If a person interested in equity of redemption is known, he ought to be made a party to a redemption suit in order to safeguard his right. But if he is not known or if it was not possible to have made him party, due provision may be made in the decree for safeguarding his rights. Where he is deliberately omitted, still relief can be given to the parties before Court. 1936 M.W.N. 1005=1937 Mad. 136. See also I.L.R. Where in a mortgage suit the plaintiff had failed to bring all the parties concerned on the record and had also failed to bring before Court materials sufficient to enable it to work out the account, the suit should not, on a Letters Patent appeal, be sent back to the trial Court for the addition of the parties and for accounts to be taken on a proper basis, as that would mean a complete rehearing involving the leading of a considerable amount of new evidence. The suit, in such circumstances, can rightly be dismissed. (59 I.A. 106, Rel. on,) 1937 R.L.R. 13=1937 Rang. 220; 1940 N.L.J. 151. Although it is ordinarily undesirable to implicating in a mortgage suit persons claiming adversely to either the mortgagor or the mortgagee, this does not apply to the case of a person who has an interest in the mortgage security and whose claim is not in any way in derogation of the rights of the mortgagee or the mortgagor, notwithstanding that his claim is adverse to the plaintiff in the mortgage suit. If the person applying to be impleaded as a party in a mortgage is interested in the mortgage suit, he should be added as a party before a decree is given in the suit. O. 34, R. 1 requires that all persons having an interest in the mortgage security shall be joined as parties to any suit relating to the security. (1941) 1 M.L.J. 626. A suit can be filed by a second mortgagee without impleading the first. Similarly if the prior mortgagee brings his suit without impleading the subsequent mortgagees, decree that he may obtain would not prejudicially affect the rights of any person interested in the property. This would be so irrespective of the fact whether he had or had not notice of the subsequent incumbrances. 56 M. 846=1933 M. 583=65 M.L.J. 108 (F.B.). See also 156 I.C. 318=1935 R. 139; 1937 Cal. 717. If a decree can be passed and given effect to in so far as the rights of the parties actually before the Court are concerned without interfering with the interests of others, there is no reason why the suit should not proceed. 10 P. 341=132 I.C. 100=1931 P. 164. Also 21 A.L.J. 701=1924 A. 107; 43 C.W.N. 458=1939 Cal. 403=I.L.R. (1939) 1 Cal. 493; 1923 N. 234. O. 1, R. 9 provides that no suit shall be defeated by reason of non-joinder of parties and O. 34, R. 1 is subject to O. 1, R. 9. (1923) 2 P. 175=69 I.C. 677. See also 54 C.L.J. 113=1932 C. 34; 15 Luck. 399=1940 O.W. N. 209=1940 Oudh 235; 1940 Sind 195; I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 447; 36 C.W.N. 1138. Non-joinder due to want of notice ought not to be penalised. 66 I.C. 631=1922 N. 89 (F.B.). Non-joinder of parties is no ground for reversal of decree by an appellate Court. 5 L.W. 615=40 I.C. 414. Even if non-joinder is a fatal defect, it can be cured under O. 1, R. 10 (2). 27 A. 75; 30 C. 755; 161 I.C. 579=1936 Pat. 153. See also 30 S.L.R. 42=164 I.C. 69=1936 Sind 87. Failure to join some of the heirs of the mortgagor in an appeal by one of the heirs for redemption is not fatal to appeal and a decree can be passed which will bind all the heirs of the mortgagor. In such cases plaintiff will be deemed to be litigating, in absence of fraud or collusion, in the common interest of himself and the other heirs of the mortgagor. 148 I.C. 903=11 O.W.

N. 524=1934 O. 220. Non-joinder of one of two divided heirs of deceased mortgagor, enjoying in separate shares is not fatal and the whole amount can be recovered from the impleaded son's share. 35 A. 441=20 I.C. 41; 43 B. 575=51 I.C. 223. Non-joinder of all heirs is not fatal. A decree for a proportionate share of money as against heirs on record should be passed. 66 I.C. 312=25 C.W.N. 594; 89 I.C. 121. But see 1940 N.L.J. 151. Similarly where some of the co-mortgagors owning distinct shares were not made parties, a decree for a sum proportionate to the interest of the parties impleaded could be given. 35 A. 247=19 I.C. 614. But see 90 I.C. 80; 89 I.C. 121; 48 A. 171; 66 I.C. 312. Where the terms of a lease contain a clear stipulation that the rent is a charge on the property and the lease further stipulates that half rent shall be paid to one party and half to the other, decree for charge attaching to whole property in respect of the demand of one party cannot be refused, merely because the other party has not joined as plaintiff and is impleaded as pro forma defendant. 163 I.C. 175 (1)=1936 Pat. 306. In a suit for redemption, if one of the mortgagees was exonerated the suit must be dismissed. 45 I.C. 650=4 Pat.L.W. 291. Where a mortgagee in a suit for enforcement of his mortgage fails to implead a purchaser of a part of equity of redemption, though he has notice of the purchase, and does not take steps to implead him even after objection is taken to such nonjoinder, he cannot be granted a decree for the entire mortgage money. There should be proportionate abatement of the mortgage money in the decree. 159 I.C. 159=61 C.L.J. 560=1935 Cal. 667. The mortgagee-purchaser is not entitled to eject the purchaser of the equity of redemption when in the suit such purchaser has not been made a party. 25 I.C. 1. But see 20 I.C. 184=11 A.L.J. 362; 49 C. 1048; 22 C.W.N. 543=44 I.C. 521; 1927 A. 611. In a suit for possession from the purchaser by persons interested in the equity of redemption who have not been made parties, no decree can be passed without a provision for what may be due to the defendants under the mortgage. 29 I.C. 742. Where owner of equity of redemption was not a party to the mortgage suit, his subsequent dispossession in execution is wrongful. 36 I.C. 744. See also 1940 Sind 195; I.L.R. Where the first mortgagee obtained a decree on his mortgage without impleading the second mortgagee and purchased properties in execution including the one mortgaged to the latter, and, on failure to get possession, brought a suit against the second mortgagee, who claimed to redeem all the properties, held, that the second mortgagee could only redeem the property mortgaged to him. 134 I.C. 959=1931 P. 434. If in a suit for redemption a sub-mortgagee has not been impleaded, his right to bring his own suit for sale of the property mortgaged to him is not affected, but this cannot, however, alter the legal effect of the redemption suit as between mortgagor and mortgagee. 62 M.L.J. 272=55 M. 320=1932 M. 115. [43 A. 469 (P.C.), Dist.] In a suit for foreclosure the person who had a vested remainder and who had not been impleaded as a party to the suit was not bound by the decree. 134 I.C. 865=1931 O. 358. Obiter.—The right of a second creditor over a property is not affected by mortgagor being adjudicated an insolvent. JOINT FAMILY.—Code does not affect the rule regarding the indivisibility of a mortgage nor the Mitakshara rule that no coparcener has a definite share till partition is made. 24 I.C. 831=10 N.L.R. 72. See also 1927 B. 513=104 I.C. 648. All the members of a joint family are necessary parties to a suit on a mortgage of the joint family properties and their non-joinder is fatal to the suit. 24 I.C. 252=12 A.L.J. 794; 21 I.C. 712. But see contra 1925 P. 59. But in the case of a deceased mortgagee, if his estate is effectively represented by the persons on the record, the suit is good and not defective. In the case of a Decree will be binding even on the minor members in the absence of fraud, where they have been represented by major members of the family. 21 I.C. 192. No question of non-joinder of sons can arise when the mortgage by father is not operative as against the sons. 42 C. 1068=19 C.W.N. 849 (F.B.). The essential point in suits by or against managers is not the distinct description of him as manager, but that he is sued or sues in respect of a family debt. 34 A. 549=9 A.L.J. 819 (F.B.). See also 1930 P. 293. No legal proceeding not filed expressly as manager, short of actual redemption, will deprive his coparceners of their right to redeem. 40 B. 248=18 Bom.L.R. 33. But see 2 P.L.T. 553=63 I.C. 564. The manager alone can file a suit on a mortgage without bringing the other members as parties. 2 P.L.T. 553=63 I.C. 564; 15 I.C. 876. LANDLORD AND TENANT.—To a suit to enforce a mortgage of a non-transferable occupancy holding the landlord is not a necessary party. 46 I.C. 176=22 C.W.N. 662. A tenant of the mortgagee is a necessary party. At least he is a proper party. 52 I.C. 105. The lessee who has redeemed a mortgage by the lessor and forecloses the lessor, is not liable to be ejected by the lessor. 59 I.C. 511=16 N.L.R. 180. It is doubtful whether it is contemplated by the Encumbered Estates Act that the provisions of R. 1 of O. 34, should apply to proceedings under that Act. But in a case where a mortgage is the subject-matter of proceedings under the U. P. Encumbered Estates Act there would be no inconsistency with the provisions of the Act in allowing the persons interested in the mortgage, to be made parties to the case. 1940 O.W.N. 716=1940 Oudh 435.

NECESSARY PARTIES—ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—All persons interested in mortgagee's interest are necessary parties. 1926 S. 145=91 I.C. 17. A person who obtains an order of attachment in his favour has no interest either in the mortgage security or in the right of redemption and so is not a necessary party to a mortgage suit. 58 C. 598=134 I.C. 561=1931 C. 763; also 1931 R. 108=133 I.C. 482; 1939 Pat. 7; 1938 M.W.N. 73=1938 Mad. 293; 1938 All. 651. See contra 17 C.W.N. 871; 42 C.W.N. 523=1938 Cal. 471; 1923 N. 311; 105 I.C. 427=23 N.L.R. 164. See also under heading "ATTACHING CREDITOR", infra. An attaching decree-holder is not a "person having an interest" within the meaning of O. 34, R. 1, and is not necessary party to a suit on a mortgage. An attachment merely prevents private alienation and does not create any title or legal charge upon the attached property; nor does it affect Court sales. It cannot therefore be said that a mortgage decree and sale in execution thereof are not binding on the attaching decree-holder who purchases the property in execution of his money decree, by reason of the fact that he is not impleaded as a party to the mortgage suit. 18 P. 155=19 Pat.L.T. 781=1939 P. 7. Where a property is sold in execution of a decree and the decree-holder is paid the amount and subsequently another person files a suit claiming relief on the ground of his alleged equitable mortgage over the property but the auction-purchaser is not impleaded, the suit is not maintainable for nonjoinder of the auction-purchaser nor is the decree-holder creditor liable to pay any money to the plaintiff. 156 I.C. 749=1935 S. 131. See also 1938 A.L.J. 1024=1938 All. 651. Mere presence of the purchaser of the equity of redemption as a witness in the suit, in the absence of proof of knowledge of the nature of the suit, does not amount to condonation of the omission to implead him, and the decree is therefore not binding upon him. 13 I.C. 874=(1911) 1 U.B.R. 92. Rights between the legal representatives of the deceased mortgagee inter se need not be gone into. 107 I.C. 805. The owner of a portion of the mortgaged property which has been released by the mortgagee is still a necessary party to the suit by the mortgagee. If the mortgagee fails to implead him, he is not entitled to a decree for the entire amount of the mortgage unless he proves that the other mortgagors have not been prejudiced by the omission. 27 N.L.R. 4=130 I.C. 809=1931 N. 44; 42 C.W.N. 721=176 I.C. 745=1938 Cal. 524. Simply because a person has some title to the lands by reason of an entry in village papers, he is not entitled to be made a party in a redemption suit. 87 I.C. 679=1925 A. 593. In a suit to declare a right to redeem by a necessary party not impleaded in the prior suit, the mortgagee purchaser in execution of the decree in that suit, is entitled to raise all defences open to a purchaser. 47 C. 924=47 I.A. 91=39 M.L.J. 108=24 C.W.N. 254 (P.C.). See also 102 I.C. 645=1927 A. 611=25 A.L.J. 732; 18 Pat.L.T. 289. In a suit for accounts against the assignee decree-holder who had purchased the mortgage properties and who had been declared by Court to hold the property as trustee for the co-mortgagees who owned distinct interest therein, all the co-mortgagees are necessary parties to the suit, and a suit brought by some one of them without impleading the others is bad for nonjoinder of parties. 35 C.W.N. 977=1931 P.C. 229=61 M.L.J. 294 (P.C.). Where the mortgagor's (a Buddhist) wife dies leaving children, and the mortgagor states that he has transferred his right to another, subject to the mortgage, the transferee and children, though proper parties, are not necessary parties to a suit on the mortgage. 158 I.C. 828=1935 R. 315.

LEGAL REPRESENTATIVES OF A MORTGAGOR.—If in a mortgage suit, the equity of redemption is not entirely unrepresented but only some of the owners of the equity of redemption are left out without any negligence or fault on the part of the mortgagee, and a decree is passed on his mortgage, such a decree is not a void decree. It is only the right of redemption of the persons so left out which is not affected or cut off by the final decree. Such a mortgagee is entitled to recover his whole dues from the shares of those persons, who were parties to the suit in the hypothecated properties. Where, therefore, before the passing of the final decree, one of the mortgagors defendants dies and his legal representative is not brought on record the mortgagee having been ignorant of his death, and the final decree is passed against the deceased mortgagor also, such a decree is a valid decree against the other mortgagors. They cannot impeach the sale in execution of that decree on the ground that the decree was not binding on the legal representative of the deceased mortgagor. Further it is doubtful whether they could raise the question in execution proceedings. I.L.R. (1939) 1 Cal. 493=43 C.W.N. 453=1939 Cal. 403.

Where the defendants to a mortgage suit claim under a title quite independent of the mortgagors that title cannot be properly brought in issue in a suit based upon a mortgage to which the only proper parties are the mortgagors and mortgagees and the purchasers of the equity of redemption. It makes no difference that it happens to be the same individual who claims personal title and who is joined as interested in the equity of redemption. The defendant is not bound to raise a paramount title which is not impugned and which he did not even get from the mortgagors nor is he bound under S. 11, Expl. 4, to raise the question as it lies outside the scope and nature of the suit. I. L. R. (1940) Kar. 302=1940 Sind 103. In a suit on a mortgage executed by a Hindu father, his sons who were impleaded as defendants pleaded that they had separated from their father 25 years earlier and claimed a paramount title in the property mortgaged and asked to be discharged. Held, that the question of their paramount title in the mortgaged property cannot be investigated in the suit, and that they must therefore be discharged from the suit. 18 N.L.J. 291. plead it, but in a subsequent suit he can plead his paramount title and cannot be estopped from pleading it as the question will not become res judicata. 58 C. 122=134 I. C. 892=35 C.W.N. 510. They can in no way be disadvantaged by the fact that their claim is not adjudicated on in the mortgage suit. 162 I.C. 731=1936 R. 198. The rule that in a mortgage suit persons claiming under a paramount title are not proper parties is not inflexible. Where a prior mortgagee, on being joined in a suit on a subsequent mortgage raises no objection to his being joined as a party, and, does not object to the issues framed by the Court as to the genuineness or otherwise of his mortgage, but on the contrary accepts the issues and offers evidence in support of his title as a mortgagee and each party has full opportunity of adducing evidence as it wishes and the merits of the case have not been affected by the introduction of the issues, the Court has jurisdiction to decide the matters raised in the suit on the contention of the prior mortgagee being joined as a party. Having assumed the role of being a proper and a necessary party to the suit, he cannot, after the issues have been decided against him, contend that he was not properly joined as a party in the suit. 164 I.C. 445=1936 R. 340. Where a prior mortgagee has allowed himself to be joined in a suit by the puisne mortgagee, he is bound to redeem the subsequent mortgage and he can therefore claim subrogation. 25 N.L.R. 171=118 I.C. 54=1929 N. 135. holder attaches the property of the judgment-debtor which is already mortgaged, the attaching decree-holder does not acquire any interest in or charge on the mortgaged property which he attaches having regard to S. 64, C.P. Code, and as such he is not a necessary party to a suit on the mortgage by the mortgagee. I.L.R. (1936) N. 127 = 165 I.C. 939 (1) = 1936 N. 209. Although it is open to the attaching creditor to come into the mortgage suit and claim redemption before the Court sale put an end to his attachment and to his character of attaching creditor, he is not entitled to disturb the title acquired by any person under the mortgage decree on the ground that he has not been impleaded in the mortgage suit. (Ibid.) The holder of a money decree against the mortgagor who has obtained an order for a receiver in execution of his decree is not a person having an interest in the mortgaged property or in the right of redemption so as to make him a necessary party to a suit on the mortgage under O. 34, R. 1. Such a person is not a party whose presence before the Court is necessary in order to enable the Court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle questions involved in the suit. The Court has consequently no power to add him as a party under O. 1, R. 10 (2). The fact that the decree in his favour is a consent decree which provides that the property comprised in the mortgage will remain charged for the decretal amount cannot give him the right to redeem the mortgage under S. 91 of the T. P. Act, when that decree has not been registered. 164 I.C. 1009 = 40 C.W.N. 974. Attaching creditor not impleaded—Purchase by him in execution sale—Subsequent addition in execution of decree on mortgage—Pleas open. 1934 A.L.J. 1085 = 1934 A. 1027. The amended S. 91 of the T.P. Act does not mention an attaching creditor as one of the persons entitled to redeem a mortgage and under the present law he can in no sense be said to be a necessary party to a mortgage suit. Assuming that he is a necessary party under that section before its amendment, the result of his non-joinder cannot be fatal to the rights of the mortgagee, but the obvious result would be that the rights of the attaching creditor would not in any way be affected either by the decree in the mortgage suit or even perhaps by the sale on the basis of the said decree. 1936 A.L.J. 708 = 1936 A. 512.

RECEIVER.—In a foreclosure suit instituted while the mortgagor was alive and he died and his representatives are declared insolvent, the Receiver is not a necessary party. 29 C.W.N. 771 = 86 I.C. 1042 = 1925 C. 785.

A Receiver appointed in partition suit previous to the mortgage suit is not necessary party especially when his possession is not disturbed. 7 P. 520 = 111 I.C. 57 = 1928 P. 304.

EXECUTOR.—In a suit on a mortgage by an executor under a Mahomedan will a decree can validly be passed against the executor alone as he represented sufficiently all persons beneficially interested within the meaning of O. 34, R. 1. 1931 B. 533 = 33 Bom.L.R. 1056.

OFFICIAL RECEIVER.—Obiter.—The rights of a secured creditor over a property are not affected by the mortgagor being adjudicated an insolvent. But Official Receiver to whom equity of redemption has been assigned by operation of law should be made a party to the suit on the mortgage and Official Receiver should get himself impleaded as a party thereto. 39 C.W.N. 384.

SIMULTANEOUS MORTGAGES.—In a suit for sale by one of two simultaneous mortgagees without impleading the other, the whole property is liable to be sold and the other has only a right of redemption. 10 I.C. 422.

O. 34, R. 1 and Form 9, Appx. D: PUISNE MORTGAGEE-DEFENDANT, CLAIMING DECREE IN FORM NO. 9 OF APPX. D—JURISDICTION—COURT-FEE.—Where in a mortgage suit the puisne mortgagees impleaded as defendants ask for a decree in form No. 9 of Appx. D, the suit for purposes of jurisdiction has to be valued ad valorem on the amount due on the plaintiff's prior mortgage and jurisdiction is not lost if the amounts claimed on the prior and subsequent mortgages taken together exceed the pecuniary jurisdiction of that Court. The relief which the puisne mortgagees ask for does not require to be stamped at all. 1941 N.L.J. 105.

O. 34, Rr. 2-8-A: LEGISLATIVE AMENDMENTS.—O. 34, new Rr. 2 to 8-A have been substituted for old Rr. 2-8 by Act XXI of 1929. The reason for the substitution of these new rules has been explained as follows in the Report of the Select Committee: "This order relates to mortgage suits and its provisions were originally in the Transfer of Property Act (Ss. 85 to 99), but were transferred to the C.P. Code in 1908. The amendment of the T.P. Act, particularly the provisions relating to mortgages, necessitated the amendment of Rr. 2 to 8, 10, 11 and 15 of the Order.

We propose to make the following amendments in this rule, vis. :—

(1) It should be expressly stated that the decree passed under this rule is "preliminary."

(2) In Cl. (a) of the present rule, the Court is merely directed to take an account of what would be due to the plaintiff on account of (a) principal and interest on the mortgage, and (b) the costs of the suit. Under Ss. 72 and 76 of the

(a) ordering that an account be taken of what was due to the plaintiff at the date of such decree for—

- (i) principal and interest on the mortgage,
- (ii) the costs of suit, if any, awarded to him, and
- (iii) other costs, charges and expenses properly incurred by him up to that date in respect of his mortgage-security, together with interest thereon ; or

NOTES.

T.P. Act, a mortgagee is authorised to spend money for certain necessary purposes in connexion with the mortgage security. Under S. 63-A of the T.P. Act, as proposed to be added, a mortgagee is allowed to spend money for improvements in certain circumstances. The above provisions also provide that the money so spent by a mortgagee should be added to the principal money. Cl. (a) is, therefore, amended to make it clear that in taking an account sums spent by a mortgagee for necessary costs, charges and expenses in respect of the mortgage security, together with interest thereon, must be taken into account.

(3) Clause (a) of the present R. 2 provides that the account of the sum due to the plaintiff will be taken up to the date fixed for payment in the preliminary decree. The date so fixed is to be within six months from the date of the decree. Cl. (b), however, which relates to the declaration by a Court of the amount due to a mortgagee, merely provides that the amount due at the date of the decree is to be declared. Although Cl. (c) provides that the Court has to fix a date for the payment of the amount so declared within six months, no provision is made for awarding costs, charges and expenses incurred by a mortgagee in respect of the mortgage security subsequent to the date of the declaration or the decree. This seems anomalous. There is no reason why a mortgagee should lose subsequent costs, charges and expenses where the Court declares the amount. The scheme of O. 34 of the C.P. Code is to draw a clear distinction between a preliminary and a final decree; R. 2 is amended to make it clear that the amount to be declared or found due on taking accounts should be up to the date of the preliminary decree. The defendant will then be in a position to know what sum he has to pay in order to claim redemption. Care is taken to provide in Cl. (c) of sub-R. (1) of the amended rule that after tendering the amount so declared or found to be due, the defendant has to pay the amount which the Court may adjudge for subsequent interest and subsequent costs, charges and expenses. Rr. 10 and 11 have been amended to empower a Court to adjudge the amount due in respect of such interest and costs.

(4) Although Cl. (a) of this rule refers to the date fixed for payment of the amount found to be due on taking accounts, Cl. (c) refers to the date within six months from the date of the declaration of the amount due by the Court under Cl. (b). This appears to be an error. The date fixed for payment must be within six months from the date when the Court declares the amount due or, where it directs an account to be taken, from the date when such account is confirmed by the Court. Our amendment makes this clear.

(5) As the mortgagor or any other person seeking redemption, has to bear all costs and expenses of the redemption, in Cl. (c) of sub-R. (1) it is made clear that the costs of re-conveyance or re-transfer by the mortgagee on payment of the amount due by the mortgagor shall be borne by the mortgagor or such other person.

(6) The proviso to sub-R. (2) to R. 3 provides for the extension of the time fixed for payment in the final decree. The power of the Court to extend the time fixed for payment is well recognised and is exercised at any time before a final decree for foreclosure is passed. The proper place for this provision is in the rule relating to the preliminary decree. The proviso is, therefore, placed in R. 2 as sub-R. (2). The expression "postpone the day" in this proviso has been replaced by the words "extend the time" to make it clear that the time can be extended even after the expiry of the period once fixed. Sub-R. (2) also makes it clear that the extension of the time fixed for payment must be subject to such term as the Court may fix. It is not fair that after the plaintiff has obtained a decree for payment of the amount due on the mortgage and when the payment has been already postponed for six months, the plaintiff should be made to wait for payment for a further period without getting compensation. A defendant who applies for an extension of time must be put on terms before his application is granted.

(7) As clauses (a) and (b) of sub-R. (1) will provide for the adjudication of the amount due to a mortgagee till the date of the preliminary decree, in sub-R. (1), clause (c), it is made clear that after the payment of that amount the defendant is bound to pay subsequent costs and subsequent interest due to the plaintiff till the date of actual payment, which may be on or before the date fixed in the preliminary decree or such other date to which the time for payment may have been extended under sub-R. (2). It has been well established that the mortgagee can add to the mortgage-money the amount spent by him between the passing of the preliminary decree and the final decree. (44 C. 448.)

(8) It has been held that the right of a mortgagor to redeem the mortgaged pro-

- (b) declaring the amount so due at that date ; and
 (c) directing—

erty subsists till a final decree for a foreclosure is passed. (27 C. 705.) Default in payment on the day originally fixed in the preliminary decree for payment or on the day to which the time for payment may have been extended by the Court does not ipso facto extinguish the mortgagor's right of redemption. It is open to a mortgagor to apply for extension of time till a final decree for foreclosure has been passed, and he can do so even after the expiry of the period once fixed. 39 M. 882; 28 B. 102. Cl. (d) of R. 2, as at present worded, is not consistent with the above rulings. It provides that, if payment, as provided in the rule, is not made, the defendant will be debarred from all right to redeem the property. In sub-R. (2) of the amended rule, therefore, it is made clear that, on non-payment of the amount due, the plaintiff will have only a right to apply for a decree for foreclosure. We propose to make it clear that the right of the plaintiff to file an application arises not only when the amount adjudged due in the preliminary decree is not paid in full, but also if any portion of the sums for subsequent costs and subsequent interest remains to be paid.

(9) Rules 2 to 8 of O. 34 do not specifically provide for decrees in suits for foreclosure or sale in which, besides the mortgagor, other persons who are entitled to redeem, such as subsequent mortgagees or persons subrogated to their rights, are joined as parties. This omission was sought to be remedied by providing forms for decrees in such suits—Form Nos. 9 to 11 in Appendix D to the Code. Under O. 48, R. 1 of the C.P. Code forms are not binding and can be varied by the Courts. An express provision in O. 34 itself is necessary to give full statutory force to the forms. As such cases will be of varied type and cannot all be anticipated, it will suffice to enact in O. 34, that in such cases the rights of the parties will be regulated in accordance with the forms given in the Appendix, with such variations as the circumstances of the case may require. Provisions to that effect are embodied in sub-R. (3) of R. 2 and sub-R. (3) of R. 4. In a redemption suit by a mortgagor such difficulties will not arise. Consequential amendments have been made in Rr. 7 and 8.

We propose to amend this rule in accordance with the alterations made in R. 2. It is expressly stated that the decree made under this rule is final. For the reasons stated in paragraph (5) above, it is made clear in this rule that the payment by the mortgagor can be made at any time till the final decree for foreclosure is actually passed. It is also made clear that on payment of the amount declared or found to be due in the preliminary decree, together with the amount due for the subsequent costs and subsequent interest, the mortgagee can, on the application of the mortgagor, be ordered to re-convey or re-transfer the mortgaged property. The provision regarding the application by a mortgagor has been added to avoid difficulties which arise in such cases, as 50 B. 730. Owing to the absence of words to that effect in the original R. 8, the Court found it difficult to hold what article of limitation applied to a final decree on payment by the mortgagor. In sub-R. (3) of the proposed rule it is provided that on foreclosure the liability of the defendant not only in respect of the mortgage but for the costs of the suit also, is discharged and extinguished. The effect of a final decree for foreclosure is to vest the mortgaged property absolutely in the mortgagee and to extinguish not only the debt due on the mortgage but all liability arising in respect of the suit brought to enforce it. It is desirable that foreclosure, which is an exceptional remedy, should extinguish in toto the whole of the liability of the mortgagor.

We propose to amend this rule, which relates to a preliminary decree for sale, on the lines of R. 2. As by the amendment in the T.P. Act it is proposed to allow the remedy of foreclosure only in the cases of a mortgage by conditional sale and an anomalous mortgage providing the remedy of foreclosure, the power of the Court to grant the alternative relief of sale can only be exercised in the case of such an anomalous mortgage. By the very nature of the mortgage by conditional sale the Court cannot order a sale of the property. We propose to amend Cl. (2) by stating clearly that it applies only to an anomalous mortgage which provides for foreclosure. Sub-R. (3) is added to R. 4 on the same lines as R. 2 (3). It provides for a case where, besides the mortgagor, there are other parties in a suit for sale. It should, however, be noted that in the case of a decree for sale there is no reason why the Court should extend the time for payment. Even after the sale is held, there is an opportunity to a mortgagor to redeem before the confirmation of the sale. No necessity, therefore, exists for empowering Courts to enlarge the time before passing a final decree for sale. 20 A. 354. S. 89 of the T.P. Act which was replaced by R. 5 of O. 34, C.P. Code, contained at the end the words "and thereupon the defendant's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished". These words gave rise to the view that an order absolute under the section had the effect of extinguishing the rights arising out of the mortgage and substituting for them rights under the decree and the mortgagor could not redeem after the order absolute was made. (45 I.A. 130; 47 I.A. 71.) To avoid this result the words quoted above which occurred in

(i) that, if the defendant pays into Court the amount so found or declared due on or before such date as the Court may fix within six months from the date on which the Court confirms and countersigns the account taken under clause (a),

NOTES.

S. 89 were omitted in the corresponding R. 5 of O. 34. No doubt is, therefore, left that the right of a mortgagor to redeem is not extinguished by the mere passing of a final decree. (42 A. 517. See also 48 I.A. 465 at 472.) We propose to lay it down definitely that the right of a mortgagor to redeem subsists till the confirmation of the sale held in execution of the decree passed against him under R. 4 or 7. We have, however, made a provision for compensating the purchaser when a mortgagor seeks to redeem after the sale has taken place but before it is confirmed.

The words 'any such sale' in R. 6 and its position after Rr. 3 to 5 led to the view being taken that the personal decree for the balance of the amount due to a mortgagor after the sale can only be passed in a suit by a mortgagee for sale, and not in a redemption suit by a mortgagor, although in a redemption decree in default of payment by the mortgagor a sale of the mortgaged property can be ordered. In 42 C. 294, it is held that as this rule does not require an application by a mortgagee for the passing of a personal decree for the balance of the mortgage-money, no period of limitation applies for claiming such relief. This view is not followed by other Courts. (40 A. 551.) This point is made clear by introducing the words "on application by the plaintiff" in R. 6, and the words 'on application by the defendant' in R. 8-A'. (See Statement of Objects and Reasons and Report of Select Committee.)

O. 34, R. 2.—The words "derived title" in sub-cl. (1) (c) (i) will apply to a sub-mortgage which is derivative mortgage. 20 A. at 401. This rule and R. 4 do not contemplate two successive suits on one and the same mortgage. 39 A. 506=41 I.C. 233. In executing mortgage decree Court can sell the items in a particular order to adjust the equities of the parties before it. 29 M. 217. In a suit where mortgagor claimed decree for money against mortgaged property and person of mortgagor, Court cannot direct possession to be given to mortgagee on default of payment of decree amount. It is bound to decree sale only under O. 34, R. 4. 167 I.C. 26=1937 Pesh. 31.

ACCOUNTS.—Relationship as mortgagor and mortgagee does not cease with the decree. 28 I.C. 571=21 C.L.J. 284. COSTS.—Costs in suit form part of the entire amount to be realised from the property. 41 C.L.J. 607=1925 C. 1135. In absence of express provision to recover costs personally, mortgagee can add costs of appeal to mortgage security. 45 A. 630=21 A.L.J. 617; 41 A. 473=17 A.L.J. 582. See also 129 I.C. 554=1931 A. 124. Court can order costs to be recovered personally if there is a condition to that effect in the mortgage-deed, and an appeal lies from such an order. 47 I.C. 542. But where mortgagor has chosen to raise an untenable defence, it is proper to direct him to pay costs if the security is not sufficient. 52 B. 459=108 I.C. 794=1928 B. 123. When a final decree for foreclosure is passed, it is in lieu of principal and interest as well as costs of suit. 88 I.C. 203=1925 O. 351.

Until an order for foreclosure absolute in proper form is made, mortgagor can, upon a proper application, redeem the mortgage. 27 C. 705. And the mere fact that the mortgagee has been put in possession does not matter. 25 A. 231. See also 23 M. 133. Court can extend time when application for final decree is filed and no further separate application is necessary. 21 N.L.R. 47=1925 N. 291.

FINAL DECREE.—After a final decree on appeal on preliminary decree is not open. It may be amended as an appeal on the final decree. 33 C.L.J. 414=61 I.C. 923=25 C. W.N. 776. The mere fact of an instalment decree having been passed in a mortgage suit by consent of parties does not dispense with a final decree before execution. 1928 N. 333=25 N.L.R. 175. Where a preliminary decree was passed on a mortgage by a Hindu father, for the entire amount, but the mortgagor's sons obtained a decree declaring the mortgage to be binding for a smaller sum only, the mortgagee should ask Court at the time of the final decree to re-affirm his right, if he wanted the balance to continue as a mortgage debt, to incorporate it in that decree also. 1929 A. 15=26 A.L.J. 374.

FORM OF DECREE.—In a suit by one co-owner for redemption of the whole mortgage, Court can ascertain the plaintiff's share and pass a decree both for partition and redemption. 32 M.L.J. 489=39 I.C. 46.

INTEREST.—The question as to rate of interest in mortgages is to be determined under O. 34 and not S. 34. 54 C. 161=54 I.A. 1=52 M.L.J. 373 (P.C.). Section 34 does not give any jurisdiction to Court with regard to interest after the date of the suit in cases to which O. 34, Rr. 2 and 4 apply, and further since R. 11 makes full provision for payment of interest during the period while the matter rests within the domain of contract, the discretion under S. 34 cannot be exercised in mortgage suit where the law of damdupat prevents the inclusion of any interest pendente lite in the calculation. 27 N. L.R. 312=134 I.C. 274=1931 N. 161. [26 C. 39 (P.C.); 34 C. 150 (P.C.); 54 C. 161 (P.C.), Foll.]; 1935 P. 98. See also 130 I.C. 159=1931 N. 88. Interest after date of suit when not provided for in judgment, must be deemed to have been refused. 37 B. 326=40 I.A. 68=17 C.W.N. 573=25 M. L.J. 101 (P.C.). Court has power to award interest in final decree when by inadvertence it is not provided for in preliminary decree. 42 I.C. 625=2 P.L.W. 208.

Mortgagee can get a decree for interest on the amount decreed from date of suit to date of realization. 37 P. W. R. 1911=10 I.C. 846. As to rate of interest up to date of decree, see 1935 P. 98. Mortgagee is ordinarily entitled to interest at rate stipulated in bond till date fixed for payment. From that date to date of realization he is entitled to reasonable interest. 31 C. 138. Also 36 A. 220=12 A.L.J. 283; 18 C. 965=17 C.L.J. 221; 17 C.W.N. 457=17 C.L.J. 120; 20 I.C. 917=1913 M.W.N. 649; 30 C. 953; 31 C. 138; 29 A. 322; 29 C.W.N. 118=85 I.C. 218. Though it is correct to allow interest at the bond rate up to the expiry of the period of grace, there is nothing in the Code compelling Court to do so. The statutory authority for allowing interest at bond rate beyond the date of the preliminary decree appears to be in O. 34, R. 11 and even that only says that the Court "may" order. 140 I.C. 104=1932 P. 332. Court must award interest at contract rate even after the date fixed for redemption though the mortgage deed is silent as regards the same. 28 I.C. 195=2 L.W. 236. Interest subsequent to date fixed for redemption is calculated on the aggregate of principal, interest and costs declared to be found payable on the date fixed for redemption. 42 M. 465=36 M.L.J. 288. Also 31 I.C. 320. Court can relieve penal interest or reduce it when the transaction is substantially unfair. 29 C. W.N. 118=85 I.C. 218=1925 C. 268 (2); 34 I.C. 745=19 O.C. 166. In a preliminary decree payment of interest till realization means interest up to the days of grace. 2 Pat.L.T. 78=5 P.L.J. 598. If mortgagor wishes to redeem earlier than the date fixed for payment, he must pay interest up to the day so fixed, and not only up to the date of his payment. 49 I.C. 160=12 S.L.R. 59. Interest at the contract rate need not necessarily be given after date fixed for redemption. 29 A. 322. Also 6 Pat.L.T. 459=88 I.C. 323=1925 P. 455. After date fixed for payment in the decree, interest must be allowed at Court rate and not at a contract rate. 10 I.C. 695=7 N.L.R. 14. The period for payment fixed in the preliminary decree cannot be extended by an unsuccessful appeal either by the mortgagor or mortgagee, so as to secure interest at contract rate. 17 C.W.N. 457=17 C.L.J. 120. See also 7 P. 76. Though in a previous decree which has become inoperative no future interest was allowed, it does not bar the allowing of interest in a subsequent fresh suit. 58 P.R. 1915=30 I.C. 104.

shall, if so required, re-transfer the property to the defendant at his cost free from the mortgage and from all incumbrances created by the plaintiff or any person claiming under him or where the plaintiff claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims, and shall also, if necessary, put the defendant in possession of the property; and

(ii) that if, payment of the amount found or declared due under or by the preliminary decree is not made on or before the date so fixed, or the defendant fails to pay, within such time as the Court may fix, the amount adjudged due in respect of subsequent costs, charges, expenses and interest, the plaintiff shall be entitled to apply for a final decree debarring the defendant from all right to redeem the property.

(2) The Court may, on good cause shown and upon terms to be fixed by the Court, from time to time, at any time before a final decree is passed, extend the time fixed for the payment of the amount found or declared due under sub-rule (1) or of the amount adjudged due in respect of subsequent costs, charges, expenses and interest.

(3) Where, in a suit for foreclosure, subsequent mortgagees or persons deriving title from, or subrogated to the rights of, any such mortgagees are joined as parties, the preliminary decree shall provide for the adjudication of the respective rights and liabilities of the parties to the suit in the manner and form set forth in Form No. 9 or Form No. 10, as the case may be, of Appendix D, with such variations as the circumstances of the case may require.

Art. 181 of the Limitation Act applies to applications for final decree for foreclosure. 3 Pat.L.T. 565=1 P. 435. But see contra 30 I.C. 719=42 C. 294. The passing of final decree is not a process in execution for the purpose of limitation. 39 M. 488=28 M.L.J. 491. though the security becomes merged in the decree. 27 I.C. 780=21 C.L.J. 104. The view that the prior mortgage subsists even after passing of the final decree is no longer law. Such a view was expressed in 44 I.C. 753=7 L.W. 420.

RIGHT OF REDEMPTION.—The right of redemption exists even after preliminary decree till passing of final decree even though the six months allowed has passed. 70 I.C. 152=26 C.W.N. 532. Also 18 I.C. 357; 130 I.C. 196=1931 A. 223=1931 A. L. J. 265. The right of a puisne mortgagee to redeem survives even after a final decree in a suit by a prior mortgagor to which he was not a party. 49 C. 626=1922 C. 23. As to rights of a purchaser at a sale by prior mortgagee, when the decree in favour of the puisne mortgagee is allowed to be barred, see 83 I.C. 1033=1925 A. 6.

O. 34, R. 3: SCOPE OF.—Power of Court to amend preliminary decree. 147 I.C. 788=11 O.W.N. 35=1934 O. 45. It is open to the parties to contract themselves out of the provisions of R. 3 and agree to have a consent decree passed in such terms as would make it operate as a final decree at once, or even to modify a preliminary decree for foreclosure or sale by agreed terms and conditions as to obviate the necessity of getting it made final through Court under this rule. But the intention of the parties as expressed in the terms of the compromise on which the decree is based has to be determined and given effect to in all such cases. Held, in this case, that in spite of the variation in the terms of the original preliminary decree for foreclosure, the parties intended to treat it essentially as a preliminary decree which required to be made final under R. 3. 143 I.C. 787=29 N. L. R. 227=1933 N. 164. But an undertaking given by the mortgagor in the deed of compromise that he would not oppose the application for making the preliminary decree final would not avail the mortgagee, for directly the application is made, under R. 3 for making the preliminary decree final the mortgagor gets a statutory right to pray for extension of time for good and sufficient cause. 143 I.C. 787=29 N.L.R. 227=1933 N. 164., Rule 3 should not be read independently of other provisions of law, e.g., S. 52; T.P. Act; and hence a final decree for foreclosure would extinguish not only the rights of the mortgagor but also the rights of his transferee pendente lite. 55 A. 235=144 I.C. 70=1933 A.L.J. 113=1933 A. 201. A final decree for foreclosure passed according to O. 34, R. 3, which has become an absolute decree by reason of no appeal having been filed against it cannot be varied or altered. An order of Court the effect of which would be to interfere with its terms, is irregular and without jurisdiction. 39 P.L.R.J. & K. 138.

O. 34, R. 3 (4): RANGOON HIGH COURT.—Where the parties agree that the mortgaged

4. (1) In a suit for sale, if the plaintiff succeeds, the Court shall pass a preliminary decree in suit to the effect mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c) (i) of sub-rule (1) of rule 2, and further directing that, in default of the defendant paying as therein mentioned, the plaintiff shall be entitled to apply for a final decree directing that the mortgaged property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and the proceeds of the sale (after deduction therefrom of the expenses of the sale) be paid into Court and applied in payment of what has been found or declared under or by the preliminary decree due to property should be taken over by the plaintiff at a valuation in lieu of a Court sale, a personal decree can be passed without sale of the mortgaged property for the balance. 1938 Rang. 353. There is only one cause of action on a mortgage giving rise both to a relief by way of final decree for sale and also to an additional remedy by way of a personal decree for the balance. There is no separate cause of action for the personal remedy accruing after the mortgaged property is found on sale to be insufficient to satisfy the mortgage debt. Accordingly a decree under O. 34, R. 3 (4), C.P. Code, as amended by the Rangoon High Court, cannot be obtained when at the date of filing of the suit the personal remedy in the mortgage suit is barred. Where, therefore, a suit on a mortgage by deposit of title deeds is filed more than three years after the date of the promissory note given by the mortgagor for the amount of the mortgage debt, the personal remedy is barred by limitation. A fresh promissory note given by the mortgagor will be of no assistance to the mortgagee by way of an acknowledgment under S. 19 of the Limitation Act, if such note was executed more than three years after the date of the first promissory note. The fresh promissory note, no doubt, constitutes a new promise under S. 25 (3) of the Contract Act, but it cannot alter the pre-existing cause of action though it does give rise to a new one. The failure of the mortgagee to bring an action on the new promissory note would, therefore, be fatal to his cause of action for a personal remedy. 1938 Rang.L.R. 6=1938 Rang. 134.

O. 34, R. 4: SCOPE OF.—Where the words in a mortgage deed with regard to redemption after the period of three years has elapsed clearly indicate that the redemption was considered to be derigueur at the end of the stipulated period and that it was not intended that the mortgagee should continue to occupy the land afterwards, it will be inequitable to refuse relief to recover the mortgaged money by sale of the property as plaintiff is entitled to a decree for the sale, as contemplated by O. 34. 160 I.C. 986=1936 Pesh. 43. See also 1941 A.L.J. 111 (anomalous mortgage). Where the compromise between the parties on which the consent decree is based does not contain any provision which entitles the decree-holder to have the hypothecated property sold straight away without obtaining a decree under O. 34, R. 4 but it merely declares the right of the decree-holder to obtain satisfaction of his decree by sale of the hypothecated property and is silent as regards the manner in which the sale of such property is to be obtained and does not contain any words to signify that the decree-holder can have the sale of the hypothecated property under the consent decree itself the provisions of R. 14 apply to the case. The decree-holder can proceed against the person and other property of the judgment-debtors in execution of the consent decree but if he desires to have the hypothecated property sold he should institute a suit under R. 4. 138 I.C. 603=1932 A. 439=1932 A.L.J. 486. Even in the case of anomalous mortgages a decree for sale and foreclosure can be passed. 18 I.C. 24. See also 115 I.C. 839 (2)=1929 O. 282. Even in cases where the doctrine of marshalling does not strictly apply, the Court has power under R. 4 to direct in what order the mortgaged property shall be sold, and this right has now been expressly set forth in cl. (4) of the amended R. 4 and although in that clause only subsequent mortgagees are mentioned, or persons deriving their title from them, it must be taken to include subsequent purchasers also. 130 I.C. 817=1931 N. 91. A decree under this rule is only a decree nisi and not a final decree, and the suit in which such decree is passed does not terminate until an order absolute is made under R. 5. 23 A. 331; 29 A. 76. A combined decree cannot be passed under this rule and under R. 6. 31 C. 792. But see 25 A. 541; 29 A. 12. A decree under this rule must not order defendants personally to pay costs. 30 M. 464. Property comprised in the mortgage, which is subject to a charge for maintenance, can be sold. 29 A. 205. As to powers of a Receiver appointed under this rule in a mortgage suit against the decree-holder for account and possession, see 29 C.W.N. 413=1924 P.C. 202 (P.C.). Where a plaintiff in a mortgage suit has no right to a personal decree he cannot apply for enforcement of personal remedies. Until auction sale he has no right to take possession of the property or any income of the property. Under those circumstances the Court has no jurisdiction to appoint a Receiver under O. 40 or pass an order of attachment before judgment under O. 38, R. 5 or a temporary injunction the plaintiff, together with such amount as may have been adjudged due in respect of subsequent costs, charges, expenses and interest, and the balance, if any, be paid to the defendant or other persons entitled to receive the same.

under O. 39. 150 I.C. 1035=1934 A.L.J. 561=1934 A. 772. The Court has under O. 34, R. 4, the power to direct the order in which the various items of the mortgaged properties are to be sold, provided the order laid down by the Court does not prejudice in any way the rights of the mortgagee decree-holder. I. L. R. (1939) All. 150=1939 A.L.J. 53=1939 All. 314. In the case of a lahan gahan mortgage, the Court can pass a decree either for foreclosure or for sale. Where the interest under the mortgage was excessive and where it was allowed to accumulate for a number of years, it was held that the circumstances warranted the exercise of the Court's discretion in ordering only sale. I.L.R. (1941) Nag. 607=1940 Nag. 156=190 I. C. 641. A suit to enforce a charge is treated as one to enforce a mortgage and the decree passed in such suit is in the form of a preliminary decree as prescribed by O. 34, R. 4, C.P. Code. There is no direction in the form prescribed against the defendant personally to pay the amount. I.L.R. (1940) Bom. 640=42 Bom. L. R. 592=1940 Bom. 276. Under O. 34, R. 4 (4) subsequent mortgagee who is impleaded as a party to a suit on a prior mortgage is entitled at least to redeem the plaintiff or to receive his own mortgage money out of the surplus sale proceeds remaining after satisfaction of the plaintiff's mortgage. If they pay off the plaintiff he becomes entitled to apply for a final decree for sale in the plaintiff's stead. I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 436=1940 P.C. 134=67 I.A. 309=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 505 (P.C.). A Court has jurisdiction to order a sale in a foreclosure suit, under O. 34, R. 4 (3), C.P. Code, in the case of an anomalous mortgage. Under S. 67 of the T. P. Act as amended by the Amendment Act of 1929, two remedies can alternatively be given in the case of an anomalous mortgage which by its terms confers the right to foreclosure, namely, sale or foreclosure. Rule 5 applies to a decree prepared under this rule when the decree directs the payment of the full amount due thereunder on a fixed date. 49 A. 297=1927 A. 167=100 I.C. 57. In a compromise decree time for payment may be extended beyond six months. 1929 A. 881. Rule 4 has no application to compromise decrees providing for instalment payment. 49 A. 297. See also 48 C.L.J. 357=114 I.C. 156=1929 C. 11.

A mortgage suit was compromised and the terms of compromise provided that mortgagor was to pay the decretal amount by nine annual instalments of Rs. 2,000 each, and in default of any instalment, decree-holders were given right to realize the amount due by sale of mortgaged property without the necessity of getting a final decree prepared. Judgment-debtor committed default and applied for extension of time to make the deposit. Held, that as the decree that was passed in the case was in no sense a preliminary decree for sale under O. 34, but a composite decree in terms of the compromise under O. 23, R. 3, the provisions of R. 4 did not apply and the Court had no power either under that rule or S. 148 to extend the time fixed in the compromise for payment of instalments. 9 Luck. 387=147 I.C. 559=1934 O. 44. See also 152 I.C. 854=1934 C. 735. A decree passed in accordance with a compromise is a final one and capable of execution. 55 I.C. 816=5 Lah.L.J. 67. In such a case it is open to the parties to dispense with the formal passing of a final decree. 134 I.C. 80=35 C.W.N. 332=1931 C. 546. Similarly a decree based on an award is itself executable. 4 Pat.L.T. 694=3 P. 221.

COMPROMISE DECREE.—Per Dhauve, J.—A compromise decree in a mortgage suit, expressly called a preliminary mortgage decree, and providing for payments in instalments and also providing that it is not to be made final until a specified date over twelve years later, does not come under R. 4. Rule 5 is not accordingly applicable to the case. 14 P. 488=16 Pat.L.T. 311=1935 P. 385. See also 1937 Oudh 453. When a decree is in the nature of a composite decree (a money-decree with a lien on the property hypothecated, fixing a time for payment and in default ordering sale of property) no final decree is necessary. 7 Lah.L.J. 397=1925 L. 640. See also 1937 Oudh 453. Preliminary decree is not executable—Personal liability of mortgagor arises only when proceeds of sale are insufficient—Decree under R. 6 necessary. 1926 M. 415=50 M. FORM OF DECREE.—Form No. 10 of Appendix D applies to a case where a puisne mortgagee sues for redemption of the prior mortgage and foreclosure or sale on subsequent mortgage. Where the puisne mortgagee impleads in his suit as a defendant a person who, in respect of the plaintiff's mortgage, is in the position of a prior mortgagee with regard to certain properties, and subsequent mortgagee with regard to the remaining properties as also with regard to an additional property, and does not offer to redeem the prior mortgage but impleads the defendant merely to give him an opportunity to settle the order in which the properties should be sold, the latter is not entitled as of right to get a decree in Form No. 10 in respect of the properties covered by the prior mortgage. It is for the plaintiff to seek relief and a decree in favour of the prior mortgagee as such in accordance with Form No. 10 may result in hampering the relief which the plaintiff is entitled to get in his suit. In such circumstances, the Court would be acting properly in directing a decree to be drawn up in Form No. 9 with the necessary variations. 65 C.L.J. 1=1937 C. 446. With regard to the properties covered by the subsequent mortgage, the defendant is not entitled to get a mortgage decree for sale in respect of the additional property which is not included in the mortgage in favour of the plaintiff. Forms Nos. 9 to 11 mentioned in R. 4 (4) relate to the same property which is the subject-matter of the mortgage whether as between the mortgagor and the mortgagee or as amongst successive mortgagees. If the additional property is to be excluded from the decree for sale, it follows that the defendant is not entitled to get a personal decree. This view is consistent with para. (4), cl. (iv) of Form No. 9. 65 C.L.J. 1. Where in a suit on the first mortgage the rights of the subsequent mortgagees are adjudged, it is necessary to safeguard their interests including the right to obtain an order that the property be sold. The subsequent mortgagees cannot be deprived of the right of putting up the property to sale in all circumstances. Para. 7 of Form No. 9 of Appendix D must be interpreted as authorising the Court to pass suitable orders so as to safeguard the right of the subsequent mortgagees, if any, to obtain a final decree or to sell the property. 160 I.C. 165=1936 O. 183. Where sale is impossible, Court can give directions for the disposal of the fund which represents the property. 20 C.L.J. 469=19 C.W.N. 537. This rule should not be overlooked in framing mortgage decrees. 20 P.L.R. 1915=26 I.C. 913. See also 103 I.C. 437=1927 L. 445. Where a co-mortgagee sues for sale making the other co-mortgagee party defendant and the decree specifies the amounts to be paid to the plaintiff and to the defendant co-mortgagee, there cannot be said to be two decrees. 1930 A. 634. Where the decree is irregular not being in accordance with this rule, a sale held under it is not void. 41 M. 403=34 M.L.J. 463=45 I.A. 54 (P.C.). Preliminary decree made final by endorsement on preliminary decree—Absence of a formal decree is only a mere irregularity. 94 I.C. 58=1926 L. 364. Nature of subsequent mortgagee's right to marshal. See 1930 M. 178=125 I.C. 66.

INTEREST.—The "subsequent interest" which R. 4 (1), before its amendment in 1929, provided for payment out of the sale proceeds could only be the interest on the decretal amount awarded under S. 34. 63 I.A. 114=15 P. 210=40 C.W.N. 328=1936 P.C. 63=70 M.L.J. 355 (P.C.). Mortgagee is entitled to claim interest from the date of suit till the date for redemption at the rate fixed in the mortgage deed as still the period for redemption has expired the matter remains in contract, and the interest has to be paid at the rate and with the rests, specified in the contract of mortgage. 1940 Lah. 333. Mortgage decree prior to 1929—Interest from date fixed for redemption to date of realisation—Award of—Power of Court before and after amendment. 70 M.L.J. 355 (P.C.). Where in a mortgage-deed it is provided that interest is to be made a charge on the property, the decree should be prepared on that basis, as the mortgagee is entitled to follow the mortgaged property for the full satisfaction of his claims under the mortgage. 1933 L. 941. Where in a mortgage suit interest is calculated at the contract rate up to the date dies datus the decree is subject to the rule of a damdupat up to that date. 59 I.C. 121. Where preliminary decree in a mortgage suit provides for interest up to date of realisation decree-holder is entitled to such interest even though final decree does not give any express direction regarding the same. (Nature of preliminary and final decree discussed.) 130 I.C. 337=7 O.W.N. 1205=1931 O. 47. Interest up to realization at Court rate means interest on the whole amount due, i.e., principal and interest at the contractual rate. 26 O.C. 59=1923 O. 241. Interest to be awarded at the contractual rate up to date fixed for payment. 8 L. 721=103 I.C. 437=1927 L. 445; 1935 A.L.J. 1161=1935 A. 1003; even up to the extended time granted by appellate Court. 1930 P. 380. Interest should be calculated as ceasing from date of deposit of money in Court and not from date of removal by decree-holder. 145 I.C. 144=1933 L. 126 (1). Interest after date of sale in mortgage-decree—Court has discretion to grant or not. 1926 L. 11. See 8 L. 721. There is no provision which enables a Court which has passed a decree bearing interest to disallow further interest on that decree, except when the decree can be altered on review, or to correct a clerical mistake or to bring the decree in conformity with the wording of the judgment. 1933 R. 323. Where a decree fails to provide for the extinguishment of the right to redeem a fresh suit for redemption is not barred. 15 I.C. 15=10 A.L.J. 36. In a suit for mortgage money and personal decree, the stage at which the mortgagor should ask the Court for ordering payment by instalments and fixing the instalments would be reached, when decree-holder applied under O. 34, R. 6 to the Court to proceed against the person of the mortgagor. 167 I.C. 26=1937 Pesh. 31.

LIMITATION.—Art. 181 of the Limitation

(2) The Court may, on good cause shown and upon terms to be fixed by the Court, from time to time, at any time before a final decree for sale is passed, extend the time fixed for the payment of the amount found or declared due under sub-rule (1) or of the amount adjudged due in respect of subsequent costs, charges, expenses and interest.

NOTES.

Act applies to an application for passing of final decree. 48 I.C. 934=15 N.L.R. 36. There is no period of limitation for deposit of money directed by preliminary decree. It can be paid at any time before passing of final decree. 9 O.L.J. 14=1922 O. 33. Where there has been an appeal from preliminary decree, the period of 3 years fixed by Art. 181, Limitation Act, runs from date of decree of appellate Court and not from the expiry of the term fixed by preliminary decree. 54 I.A. 52=8 L. 253=1927 P.C. 25=52 M.L.J. 366 (P.C.). Where a compromise mortgage decree itself makes provision for a preliminary and a final decree, there could be no objection to the passing of a preliminary decree under O. 34, R. 4 and to its being made absolute on the expiry of the time fixed in the compromise. Nor could there be an objection to a personal decree for the balance being subsequently awarded to the decree-holder. Time for purposes of S. 48, C.P. Code, would run from the date of the passing of the final decree. 1939 O.W.N. 927=15 Luck. 95=1940 Oudh 90.

NATURE OF PROCEEDINGS.—Till passing of final decree suit is considered pending. Suit will abate if the legal representatives of a deceased plaintiff are not brought on record. 40 A. 203=16 A.L.J. 85; also 33 I.C. 496=12 N.L.R. 50. A final decree against a mortgagor dead at the time is void and incapable of execution. 4 P.L.J. 240=50 I.C. 529=1919 P.H.C.C. 105 (F.B.). An application for a final decree is not one in execution. A second application therefore cannot be regarded as revival of an application which has been disposed of. 43 I.C. 518=16 A.L.J. 143. See also 39 I.C. 849=13 N.L.R. 69. Where an ex parte mortgage-decree is set aside, the suit would be considered pending during the period when the proceedings to set aside the ex parte decree were pending. 65 I.C. 709. The rule does not expressly provide for the issue of notice before passing of final decree; yet an ex parte decree in such a case is liable to be set aside. 1922 N. 175=67 I.C. 282; 120 I.C. 332=1930 N. 136.

EXTENSION OF TIME FOR PAYMENT.—Whatever may be the view before the Amending Act (XXI of 1929) it is now clear that under R. 4 (2) the Court that passed the preliminary decree could, on good cause being shown, postpone the date fixed by the Court from time to time before the plaintiff could be entitled to ask for a final decree under R. 5 (3). 53 A. 283=1931 A. 386=1931 A.L.J. 508 (F.B.). Circumstances to be considered by Court regarding grant of time.

PAYMENT INTO COURT.—Where payment of a prior mortgage is directed before sale of mortgaged property, but does not specify the date of payment, the payment must be made within six months of the date of the decree. 43 A. 320=19 A.L.J. 83. If a mortgagor pays into Court the amount determined to be due, it is a good tender though it may be finally adjudged that a larger sum is due from him. 16 I.C. 374. Court should take into account payments by the judgment-debtor out of Court for purpose of determining the amount to be entered in final decree. 1 P.L.T. 416=5 P.L.J. 672. Where a payment was actually made in Court by a judgment-debtor to the attaching creditor of the plaintiff, and it was noted to have been made in the presence of the presiding Judge, there is very little distinction between such a payment "in" Court and payment made "into" Court. 158 I.C. 419=1935 O.W.N. 1087. The terms of a preliminary decree passed according to the provisions of O. 34, R. 4, as regards payment in Court, etc., are imperative. Any payment or adjustment out of Court is not intended to be recognised under O. 34. If, of course, both the parties appear in Court and agree to a certain adjustment and the Court sees no reason otherwise to disallow it as "unlawful", the position may be different. In such circumstances, the adjustment may be taken to have been made with the express or implied permission of the Court and consequently there will be no objection in principle to the variation of the terms of the decree. I. L. R. (1939) Lah. 313=41 P.L.R. 26=1939 Lah. 79.

COSTS.—Ordinarily costs must be included in the amount due on the mortgage and the property must be sold for the total amount and decree for costs cannot be executed separately as a personal decree against the mortgagor. 129 I.C. 554=1931 A. 124. After date fixed for payment interest on the costs awarded by the preliminary decree should be allowed. 89 I.C. 228=L.R. 6 A. 479. See notes under R. 2. Where the mortgagor appeals against the preliminary decree and the appeal is dismissed with costs, such costs also can be added to the mortgage security though, of course, the Court of appeal can order otherwise. As a matter of practice such costs are added to the mortgage money. 157 I.C. 625=1935 O. 452.

APPEAL.—It is generally expedient that proceedings for the preparation of final decree should not be stayed pending an appeal from preliminary decree because the mere passing of a final decree will not in any way affect the rights of the parties to

(3) In a suit for foreclosure in the case of an anomalous mortgage, if the plaintiff succeeds, the Court may, at the instance of any party to the suit or of any other person interested in the mortgage-security or the right of redemption, pass a like decree (in lieu of a decree for foreclosure) on such terms as it thinks fit, including the deposit in Court of a reasonable sum fixed by the Court to meet the expenses of the sale and to secure the performance of the terms.

(4) Where, in a suit for sale or a suit for foreclosure in which sale is ordered, subsequent mortgagees or persons deriving title from, or subrogated to the rights of any such mortgagees are joined as parties, the preliminary decree referred to in sub-rule (1) shall provide for the adjudication of the respective rights and liabilities of the parties to the suit in the manner and form set forth in Form No. 9, Form No. 10 or Form No. 11, as the case may be, of Appendix D, with such variations as the circumstances of the case may require.

O. 34, R. 5.—Scope of, and how it differs from S. 89, T.P. Act, see 90 I.C. 746. The Court has jurisdiction to make a final decree during the pendency of an appeal against the preliminary decree. The final decree so made is not wiped off or destroyed by the affirmance of the preliminary decree by the Appellate Court. I.L.R. (1939) 1 Cal. 477=69 C.L.J. 355=43 C.W.N. 401=1939 Cal. 601. The amendment to O. 34, R. 5 by Act IX of 1929, has no retrospective operation. 36 C.W.N. 955. It is well settled that the law of procedure governs all pending cases from the time it comes into force, unless there is anything in the amending Act to the contrary. The provisions of R. 5, as amended by Act XXI of 1929 which came into force on the 1st April, 1930 are, therefore, applicable to a sale which takes place thereafter, and the right to redeem is available to the judgment-debtor till the date of the confirmation of the sale. 164 I.C. 53=38 P.L.R. 259=1936 L. 562. R. 5 has no application to a compromise decree. Decree is executable without final decree. 106 I.C. 395=1928 M. 38. Proceedings under this rule are not proceedings in execution of a decree, but in continuation of the original suit. 29 C. 651; 27 A. 625. See also 25 M. 537. R. 5 recognizes only one method of payment into Court under preliminary decree and when no such payment is made Court is bound to pass the final decree. 1926 M. 1069=24 L.W. 520=97 I.C. 989. A payment which is made out of Court, whether or not it be certified under O. 21, R. 2, C.P. Code, cannot be taken into consideration by the Court at the time of passing final decree in a mortgage suit. 174 I.C. 295=1938 Pesh. 12. Mode of payment under—Mortgagee purchasing mortgaged property by private sale from mortgagor after preliminary decree does not operate as satisfaction of or payment under decree. See (1940) 1 M.L.J. 134=51 L.W. 191=1940 Mad. 461. Where a preliminary decree expressly directs the defendant to make payment into Court, the Court is bound to pass a final decree for sale, if the money has not been paid in the manner directed by the preliminary decree, and cannot be asked to recognize a payment out of Court as an adjustment, compromise or satisfaction under O. 23, R. 3. 158 I.C. 83=1935 L. 168. However, in such cases, if the payment is admitted by both parties, the satisfaction based on such payment ought to be recorded under O. 23, R. 3, in spite of its not being made into Court. 155 I.C. 231=1935 O. 313. By force of S. 141, the provisions of O. 9, R. 14 are applicable to an application for a final decree on a mortgage and so before dismissing such an application for failure to serve the defendants, Court should satisfy itself that the terms of O. 9, R. 5 were complied with. 1931 M.W.N. 1002=1931 M. 795. A decree-holder who attaches in execution of his decree a preliminary mortgage decree obtained by his judgment-debtor in a certain suit, has no locus standi to apply under R. 5 (2), for the preparation of a final decree. 1936 A.L.J. 1154=1936 A. 857. Under this rule the property which can be sold in execution of mortgage-decree is the mortgaged property only, and no other property, and therefore where property sold in execution of a mortgage-decree and bought by the mortgagee purchaser was not included in the mortgage suit or decree, but was fraudulently inserted in the sale certificate, the purchaser can get no more property than that which was really included in the mortgage-decree. (27 B. 334 and 10 M. 241, Foll.) 162 I.C. 383=1936 R. 127. Under O. 34, R. 5, the Court in passing a final decree has to follow the terms of the preliminary decree already passed in the suit. If however, the final decree passed is at variance with the terms of the preliminary decree, the Court executing the decree would take the final decree as it stands. It is of course open to the executing Court to interpret the final decree in the light of the preliminary decree. But when no objection was taken to be passing of the final decree in variance with the terms of the preliminary decree or to the execution of such final decree, and the mortgaged property has been sold in execution and the sale confirmed, the judgment-debtor cannot be heard to say afterwards that the final decree and the sale in execution thereof is not binding him or does not affect his rights under the preliminary decree. 1938 P.W.N. 776. Although the decree is not made out in the proper form in accordance with the provisions of O. 34, the decree-holder is entitled to realize his decree from the mortgaged property. 183 I.C. 833=1939 Pesh. 34.

CONSTRUCTION OF RULE.—See 29 M. 37; 28 A. 778; 1935 O.W.N. 541=155 I.C. 231=1935 O. 313.

CONSENT DECREE.—There is nothing in law which prohibits the payment towards a compromise decree out of Court. 20 A.L.J. 602=44 A. 668. Strictly speaking this rule has no application to a compromise decree—Compromise decree—No final decree made—Decree is executable. 106 I.C. 399=1928

M. 38; 31 Bom.L.R. 439. See also 1937 O.W.N. 796=1937 Oudh 453; 1937 Lah. 874. But where a preliminary decree for sale based on a compromise is not only headed and described as a preliminary decree but expressly contemplates and provides for the passing of a final decree in certain eventualities, an application for a final decree should not be rejected on the ground that the decree being one based on a compromise, no final decree is required and that the decree passed in terms of the compromise is itself executable. 160 I.C. 174=1936 O. 173. A mortgage of an impartible estate contrary to S. 4 of the Madras Act II of 1904 cannot be validated by the device of a consent decree. The mortgagor can resist an application for a final decree on the ground the mortgage was not binding. 50 I.C. 577=37 M.L.J. 65. As to objection by legal representatives of mortgagor-defendant, see 1937 Mad. 918.

EXECUTION PROCEEDINGS.—A prior mortgagee getting a decree without impleading a puisne mortgagee can execute his decree for sale. 43 A. 204=61 I.C. 942 (F.B.). Execution proceedings do not terminate with sale. If sale proceeds are insufficient the holder may take further steps to recover the balance. 35 B. 452=18 Bom.L.R. 661. Proceedings to get a decree absolute for sale are not proceedings by way of execution of preliminary decree but are proceedings in suit to obtain a final decree for sale which would be the only decree capable of execution. 136 I.C. 732=1932 L. 231=33 P.L. R. 138; 14 P. 488=16 P.L.T. 311=1935 P. 385. Decree-holder bound to apply for final decree, and barred from making an application for sale in an execution Court. 1929 A. 881. Where a preliminary decree was executed without objection by judgment-debtor, the order operates as res judicata. 26 M.L.J. 225=23 I.C. 390. In the execution of a mortgage decree executing Court has power to order sale of the property mortgaged, even though the property may be situated beyond local limits of its jurisdiction. (14 C. 661; 21 C. 639; 15 C. 667; 49 M. 746; 80 I.C. 901, Foll.) 14 L. 457=143 I.C. 574=34 P.L.R. 815=1933 L. 687. A mortgagee decree-holder is entitled at his option to execute his decree against some of the mortgaged properties which are covered by his decree. This view finds support in the language of O. 34, R. 5 (3). The intention of the Legislature by this provision of the law is to confer a right upon the mortgagee ordinarily to realize his security by bringing only a part of the mortgaged property to sale, provided he is satisfied that the sale of a portion of such property will be sufficient for the purpose of enabling him to realize his dues. This right, however, is subject to certain exceptions in the case of

FINAL DECREE.—Court-fee for an appeal against an order rejecting an application for a final decree is an ad valorem fee on amount claimed. 57 I.C. 67; also 39 C.W.N. 315; 35 A. 476=11 A.L.J. 801. It is on the appellate decree when an appeal is preferred against a preliminary decree that the final decree ought to be passed. 39 A. 641=15 A.L.J. 734. Final decree can be passed even during the pendency of an appeal from the preliminary decree. 108 I.C. 751. Where a preliminary decree expressly directs the defendant to make payment into Court, Court is bound to pass a final decree for sale, if the money has not been paid in the manner directed by the preliminary decree, and cannot be asked to recognize a payment out of Court as an adjustment, compromise or satisfaction under O. 23, R. 3. 145 I.C. 117=1933 L. 168. A mortgage-decree passed under S. 15-B of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act need not be made final. 25 Bom. L.R. 1214=48 B. 172. A mortgage suit must be considered to be pending till a final decree under O. 34, R. 5 (1) or (3) is passed, and it is open to the plaintiff to ask for a final decree to be made for the balance due to him under the preliminary decree. The fact that a final decree has been once refused on the ground that decree has been discharged under S. 19 of the Madras Act IV of 1938, and that the order of refusal has not been appealed against within the period prescribed for appeal, does not preclude an application for a final decree for the balance, if any, found to be due to the plaintiff. The refusal to pass a final decree is not and cannot be a dismissal of the suit. 54 L.W. 107=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 125. Once the final decree is passed the mortgage-deed as well as the right to redeem are extinguished so that the security cannot be the basis of a second suit. 40 M.L.J. 126=62 I.C. 833. Notice to judgment-debtor is not prescribed by law before passing of final decree, but in practice it is given. 19 N.L.R. 124=1923 N. 320. See also 30 L.W. 551=1930 M. 105. While it is not obligatory upon a Court to issue notice to judgment-debtors on application of decree-holder for a final decree on his mortgage, it is nevertheless advisable to do so and Court will not be acting ultra vires in adopting such a course. 1931 M.W.N. 1002=1931 M. 795 (1929 M.W.N. 867, Ref.)

An oral application is sufficient and it may be presumed when an order has been made. 87 I.C. 820 (2). When payment under preliminary decree has been made there is no necessity for an application for a final decree. 23 A.L.J. 405=47 A. 546. In a suit for sale on a mortgage only one decree for sale can be passed. 9 I.C. 835=8 A.L.J. 364. The intention of the legislature in enacting O. 34, R. 5 (3), is to confer a right upon the mortgagee ordinarily to realise his security by bringing only a part of the mortgaged property to sale provided that he is satisfied that the sale of a portion of such property will be sufficient for the purpose of enabling him to realise his dues. If in execution proceedings against a portion of the mortgaged property only, the mortgagee fails to realize his full dues, there is no reason why he should not proceed against some other items of the mortgaged property; and it certainly cannot be said that by failure to proceed against the entire property he waives his right to do so in a subsequent execution case. I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 520. See also 7 Cut.L.T. 49; I.L.R. (1939) 2 Cal. 455=1940 Cal. 159. A transfer of a final decree for sale does not require registration. 86 I.C. 591=1925 O. 399. payments towards a debt is that in the absence of a specific indication to the contrary by the debtor, the money is first applied in payment of interest and then when that is satisfied, in payment of the capital. This principle applies even to the sale proceeds of the properties sold in execution of a mortgage decree. Therefore, in the absence of a direction to the contrary in the decree, the sale proceeds of the properties sold in execution of a mortgage decree must be applied first in payment of subsequent interest and costs, and thereafter the balance to discharge the principal sum declared as payable in the decree. (19 Lah. 403, Overr.) 1941 Lah. 386 (F.B.).

LIMITATION.—Art. 181 of the Limitation Act applies to an application for final decree and time runs from date when the default occurred, i.e., when payment ought to have been made. 22 C.L.J. 66=19 C.W.N. 473; 39 A. 532=15 A.L.J. 448; also 87 I.C. 746=1925 C. 1030; 40 Bom.L.R. 507. But see 29 I.C. 120=19 C.W.N. 470, contra. See also 32 I.C. 39; 25 C.W.N. 376=33 C.L.J. 260. When prior to 1909 an application for an order absolute was barred under Art. 17 of the Limitation Act, the present rule does not entitle the decree-holder to apply for a final decree. 22 I.C. 40. When time fixed for payment expired after the passing of the Code but the preliminary decree was passed prior thereto, Art. 182 applies. 48 I.C. 32=5 O.L.J. 572. When an appeal has been preferred on preliminary decree, period of limitation commences from date of the decree in appeal. 47 I.C. 206=21 O.C. 176; also 1 P. 444=3 P.L.T. 329. This applies also to cases where final decree has been passed by lower Court pending appeal from preliminary decree, and the appellate Court merely confirmed the preliminary decree. [39 A. 641; 6 P. 24 (P.C.); 5 L. 257; 1930 M.W.N. 104 and 1933 M.W.N. 623, Foll.] 38 L.W. 946=66 M.L.J. 24. But see contra 41 I.C. 858=20 O.C. 205. A final decree in a mortgage suit can be pending after disposal of the appeal. 1926 A. 291=92 I.C. 608. Where after a preliminary decree for foreclosure was confirmed by appellate Court and a final decree was passed, an application was put in by the mortgagors for amendment of the preliminary decree by excluding proprietary rights in the mortgaged sir land, held, that the application was not maintainable. The decree that could be amended was the decree that was sought to be executed. Though the amendment of the preliminary decree would have the effect of automatically amending the final decree is cases where the final decree is passed either before the appeal is filed against the preliminary decree or during its pendency, that principle did not apply when the final decree is made after the decision of the appeal against the preliminary decree. 142 I.C. 880=15 N.L.J. 124. When after the limitation period has run against the plaintiff, one of the defendants applies to set aside the preliminary decree, this fact does not revive plaintiff's right to apply for final decree. 87 I.C. 746=1925 C. 1030. If a preliminary mortgage-decree under R. 4, purporting to be in terms of the compromise of parties, provides for payment of mortgage amount in instalments payable on fixed dates, has not been appealed against, it becomes final and there is nothing to debar decree-holder from applying for preparation of the final decree under R. 5 within three years from the date of default in payment of an instalment. The fact that three years have elapsed from the date of the preliminary decree is immaterial. 130 I.C. 487=1931 A. 340=1931 A.L.J. 58. After a preliminary decree was passed in a mortgage suit, the application by the decree-holder for the preparation of a final decree was dismissed for default. Decree-holder died two years later and his sons applied for substitution of their names and the restoration of their father's application for final decree. Lower Court allowed the former and dismissed the latter on the ground that it was time-barred. Held, that the rights and liabilities of the parties having been fixed by the preliminary decree, lower Court ought to have passed a final decree even though the application was out of time. 151 I.C. 145=11 O.W.N. 495=1934 O. 209.

O. 34, R. 5 overrides Art. 166, Limitation Act—Sale in execution of mortgage decree—Application to set aside beyond 30 days of sale but before confirmation not barred. See (1937) 1 M.L.J. 569=45 L.W. 486=1937 Mad. 560.

ORDER ABSOLUTE.—On passing of an order absolute for sale, the mortgage right is extinguished and only the right under the decree subsists. 40 A. 407=45 I.A. 130=35 M.L.J. 1 (P.C.) (affirming 20 I.C. 59=11 A.L.J. 634). See also 1937 Nag. 196; 55 I.C. 969=42 A. 364 (P.C.). An application for an order absolute under S. 89 of the T. P. Act is an application in execution. 40 B. 321=18 Bom.L.R. 38. An order absolute against a widow as mortgagor and one of her heirs brought on record after her death, does not bind the other heirs. 39 A. 67=14 A.L.J. 982. In an execution application a prayer for sale implies also a prayer for making the decree absolute. 34 I.C. 756=3 L.W. 468. Where a preliminary decree was passed before the passing of the new Code and the order absolute was made after the passing of the Act, no final decree need be passed. 4 P.L.T. 213=48 I.C. 245. A decree for sale does not extinguish the equity of redemption until the sale is confirmed. Therefore if a person who is interested in the mortgaged property, pays into Court the decretal amount before a sale is held the mortgage is thereby redeemed, he is entitled to be subrogated to the rights of the mortgagee decree-holder so far as the sale of the mortgaged property is concerned. 171 I.C. 612=1937 Nag. 196.

SECOND ORDER.—A second order absolute for sale can be obtained for the amount for which the first order was obtained, including the interest since accrued due. 25 A. 264. Also for selling portion of mortgaged property not sold under the first order. 25 A. 212.

POWERS OF COURT.—At the time of the passing of the final decree Court has no power to go behind the preliminary decree. 27 A.L.J. 425=115 I.C. 462=1929 A. 252. A final decree should be made in accordance with the preliminary decree; but where there is an obvious mistake in the preliminary decree the Court is not bound to repeat that mistake, when passing the final decree. Particularly in the case of a final decree for sale in a mortgage suit, the Court must not direct the sale of any mortgaged property which is no longer available for sale under the mortgage, though it is wrongly included in the preliminary decree. 7 Cut.L.T. 49. Plaintiff in the application for final decree need not give the description of the property, unless he desires to omit any property. 27 A.L.J. 1097=117 I.C. 102=1929 A. 551 (1). This rule says nothing about the specification of the mortgaged property. All it says is that the mortgaged property which the plaintiff is entitled to sell shall be sold. 38 A. 398=34 I.C. 79. Court may direct that the interest of mortgagor shall be put up for sale in the first instance, and if insufficient, then his son's if the son also promised to pay the amount. 36 B. 68=13 Bom.L.R. 1161. The rights of the mortgagee under a final decree for sale cannot be interfered with by Court by intercepting the rents or profits or by the appointment of a Receiver. 43 I.C. 22. Court is not justified in fixing instalment where amount is agreed to be paid in lump sum. 1930 L. 132. Court can fix the order in which the properties are to be sold. 36 I.C. 516=4 L.W. 327; 31 C.W.N. 521=101 I.C. 124=1927 C. 522. But see 51 I.C. 444=4 Pat.L.J. 207. Court has no power to extend time after final decree is passed in a suit for sale. 9 O. & A.L.R. 319=1924 O. 179. A mortgagee decree-holder is not entitled to dictate to Court the order in which the properties should be sold though he has a paramount right to have his claim satisfied by sale of every part of the mortgaged property. Court has full power to regulate the order in which and the conditions subject to which the properties should be sold. 53 A. 391=129 I.C. 708=1931 A. L.J. 108. When mortgage-deed provides in what order properties are to be sold, it is not open to the decree-holder to change that order. 51 I.C. 444=4 Pat.L.J. 207. Properties belonging to a stranger vendee from the mortgagor need not be sold prior to selling those of judgment-debtor. 22 M. L.J. 125=12 I.C. 429. See also 1940 M. W.N. 551=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 27 (Power of Court as to marshalling apart from S. 56, T. P. Act). Applications for passing final decree could be dismissed on the ground that list of mortgaged property was not given and because of mistake in calculating interest. 49 A. 592=1927 A. 439=101 I.C. 676. Dismissal of an application for a final decree in a mortgage suit for failure to pay batta cannot be construed as a dismissal of the suit itself; after a preliminary decree has been passed Court has no power to dismiss the suit. Nor does the application preclude another application for the same purpose. 140 I.C. 324=63 M. L. J. 719=56 M. 310.

RIGHT OF REDEMPTION.—After the dismissal of an application under O. 21, R. 90, and before confirmation of sale, if judgment-debtor pays the necessary amount and applies to have the sale set aside, Court under O. 34, R. 5 as amended must set aside the sale, notwithstanding that the applicant by his own actions and manœuvres prevents the confirmation of sale for a long period. R. 5 (amended) as it stands enables judgment-debtor to apply at any time before confirmation. 152 I.C. 1059=38 C.W.N. 924=1934 C. 822. Till actual sale right of redemption subsists. 18 A.L.J. 622=42 A. 517. Also 9 I.C. 158; 34 P.L.R. 373=142 I.C. 313=1933 L. 361. But see contra 43 I.C. 399. Where a mortgagor wants to redeem the property after the decree for sale obtained by the mortgagee, he must pay the amount mentioned in the mortgage-decree for redemption. He cannot ask the mortgagee to account for the profits subsequent to the date of the decree for sale as the mortgagee is deemed to have given up all rights under mortgage after such decree. If mortgagee has realised anything unlawfully, mortgagor may be entitled to recover the same by separate proceedings. 34 P.L.R. 373=142 I.C. 313=1933 L. 361. A final decree for sale if not executed within the period of time allowed by law will not bar a subsequent suit by mortgagor to redeem. 86 I.C. 527=1925 M. 1191. The right of a subsequent mortgagee, who is a party to a suit on a prior mortgage, to redeem the prior mortgage continues only up to date of

(c) ordering him to put the defendant in possession of the property.

(2) Where the mortgaged property or part thereof has been sold in pursuance of a decree passed under sub-rule (3) of this rule, the Court shall not pass an order under sub-rule (1) of this rule, unless the defendant, in addition to the amount mentioned in sub-rule (1), deposits in Court for payment to the purchaser a sum equal to five per cent. of the amount of the purchase-money paid into Court by the purchaser.

Where such deposit has been made, the purchaser shall be entitled to an order for repayment of the amount of the purchase-money paid into Court by him, together with a sum equal to five per cent. thereof.

(3) Where payment in accordance with sub-rule (1) has not been made, the Court shall, on application made by the plaintiff in this behalf, pass a final decree directing that the mortgaged property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale be dealt with in the manner provided in sub-rule (1) of rule 4.

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] For O. 34, r. 5 (3) substitute "Where payment in accordance with sub-rule (1) has not been made, the Court shall, on application made by the plaintiff in this behalf and after notice to all the parties, pass a final decree directing that the mortgaged property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale be dealt in the manner provided in sub-rule (1) of r. 4."

In a sale held in pursuance of R. 5, the stranger auction-purchaser acquires the right of the mortgagee and also of the mortgagor and it cannot be said that the right of redemption remained in the mortgagor after sale or in any event after confirmation thereof. 35 C.W.N. 877. Even where purchaser is not a stranger but the puisne mortgagee himself, his purchase is competent and then too the mortgagor's right to redeem the first mortgage is extinguished. 59 C. 117=35 C.W.N. 877=1932 C. 126.

APPLICATION OF SALE PROCEEDS.—There is no doubt that a creditor to whom principal and interest are due, is entitled to appropriate against the interest any sum the debtor pays without stipulating that it is to be appropriated against the principal. But there is no reason why this principle should be imported into the execution of decrees which are provided for by the C.P. Code. In cases in which a decree has been passed in the usual form, prescribed under R. 5 of O. 34, costs and interest cannot have priority over the actual mortgage debt declared to be due in the preliminary decree and the rule laid down in O. 34, Rr. 10 and 13, relating to properties which are subject to prior mortgages cannot be inferentially applied to cases in which the property sold is not subject to any mortgage other than the one for the realization of which the property of the judgment-debtor was ordered to be sold. 1931 Rang. 153, App.) I.L.R. 6. Where the net proceeds of any sale held under the last preceding rule are found insufficient to pay the amount due to the plaintiff, the Court, on application by him may, if the balance is legally recoverable from the defendant otherwise than out of the property sold, pass a decree for such balance.

NOTES.

O. 34, Rr. 5 and 6.—Parties entering into arrangement to discharge final decree for sale—P, a third person, paying off decree-holder and obtaining assignment of decree—P also advancing loan to judgment-debtor on his executing mortgage—Mortgage comprising of properties originally mortgaged and also additional properties—Clause in mortgage empowering P to include additional properties within order for sale made in pursuance of final decree—Enforceability—P's right is to bring suit on his mortgage. 64 I.A. 302=I.L.R. (1938) 1 Cal. 66=1937 P.C. 256=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 743 (P.C.).

O. 34, R. 5 & O. 22, R. 4.—Where on the death of a mortgagor after the passing of a preliminary decree, his brother and nephew are brought on record as his legal representatives and an application is made for a final decree it is not open to the legal representatives to plead that the property covered by the decree is joint family property and that the mortgage was not binding on them as being without legal necessity and that a final decree could not be passed. These defences have reference only to the personal rights of the objectors and they could not be raised under O. 22, R. 4. I.L.R. (1940) All. 153=1940 A.L.J. 32=1940 All. 99 (F.B.).

O. 34, R. 6.—An unpaid vendor who has a statutory charge on the property sold by him, has all the right of a simple mortgagee under S. 100 of the T. P. Act. In a suit to enforce the charge, he can, when the net proceeds of the sale have proved insufficient and if the balance is legally recoverable from the defendant-vendee, claim a personal decree for such amount. 157 I.C. 533=1935 A.L.J. 279=1935 A. 411. The object of the present rule is to benefit the mortgagor and if he waives his right by consenting to a money decree he cannot subsequently object to the mortgaged property being sold in execution of such decree. 9 I.C. 939=9 M.L.T. 261. A simple money decree cannot be passed unless the contingency contemplated by O. 34, R. 6 has occurred; there is no other rule of law under which a simple money decree could be passed in a suit which has been concluded by a final decree. A Court cannot pass a decree on equitable grounds, when a mortgage decree becomes useless. 1937 A.L.J. 1181=1937 A.W.R. 1116. Rule 6 makes no specific reference to Form No. 8 in the Appendix to the Code and is not controlled by the latter. Held, that an application for a personal decree is governed by Art. 181, Limitation Act, and time commences to run from date of the order confirming sale. In this connection the fact that the taxation of costs has not been completed is immaterial. 60 C. 19=143 I.C. 679=1933 C. 251. If a personal remedy against the mortgagor is barred the decree ceases to be a decree for payment of money and Rr. 18 and 19 of O. 21 will not apply because there is no possibility of there being a decree enforceable against the person and other property of the mortgagor. 143 I.C. 542=14 Pat.L.T. 189=1933 P. 210 (2). Where consent preliminary decree was passed in respect of mortgaged property outside original jurisdiction of Rangoon High Court and later personal decree was applied for after exhausting the properties, question of jurisdiction cannot be raised at that stage. 167 I.C. 80=1937 R. 12.

SCOPE OF.—Where the mortgaged property cannot be sold at all, no question of the net proceeds of the sale being insufficient arises and O. 34, R. 6 has no application. 1935 L. 536. Decrees passed under this rule are supplemental decrees, separate and distinct from the original decree. 21 C. 26. Application under this rule is not an execution application. It is by itself the starting point of a fresh simple money decree. Order 9 would apply to it. 124 I.C. 729. Rule 6 only says "any sale". It does not lay down that the sale must be of entire mortgaged property. Even if only a portion of mortgaged property has been in fact sold and the remainder is no longer available for sale, owing to the action of other claimants, and not through any act or default of the mortgagee, the latter is entitled to a personal decree under R. 6. 9 O.W.N. 1128; but not where the other portion is no longer available for sale owing to the act of the mortgagee himself in releasing it in favour of one of the heirs of the mortgagor on receipt of a certain sum of money from him. 166 I.C. 673=1937 O.W.N. 100=1937 O. 252. See also 164 I.C. 817=1936 O.W.N. 732 (Release in favour of a subsequent purchaser). Where a mortgage decree merely declared a charge on the properties, it is to be construed as a decree for a sale and the present rule is applicable thereto. 30 I.C. 280=2 L.W. 689. Where a decree for sale becomes inoperative on the mortgagor being declared not to have been the owner of the mortgaged property at the date of mortgage, R. 6 can have no application. Plaintiff cannot obtain a simple money decree before the sale of the mortgaged property and the sale proceeds proving insufficient to satisfy the mortgage-money. 136 I.C. 829=1932 A.L.J. 317=1932 A. 358. Where the mortgaged property had not been sold owing to a third party having been declared to be the owner

for a personal decree. 15 L. 607=147 I.C. 1018=1934 L. 174. Or where it was sold in execution of decree on prior mortgage, and no balance was left after satisfying it. 37 P.L.R. 285=1935 L. 850. See also 158 I.C. 422=1935 O.W.N. 1081. Or where it could not be sold on the ground that it was ancestral. 1935 L. 536. "Amount due" means the amount to recover which decree for sale was passed. 1929 A. 15. But see 39 C.W.N. 1229, where it was held it included any enhanced interest agreed to be paid by mortgagor in consideration of postponement of sale in execution. The words "the amount due" includes costs. 30 M. 464. Where a decree based on compromise was substantially in accordance with Rr. 4 and 5 of O. 34, and where the proceeds of the sale were not sufficient to satisfy the decree, held, that the mere fact that the sale was held under the compromise decree did not preclude an application under this R. 6, for a personal decree. 10 O.W.N. 1097=1933 O. 520. See also 1933 O. 214=10 O.W.N. 223. In a suit on a mortgage executed by a guardian the plaintiffs had prayed for certain reliefs including the relief of a personal decree. The plaintiffs' claim was admitted by the defendant's guardian, who allowed a decree to be passed without contest. The entire claim was thus decreed. Therefore the Court granted all the reliefs prayed for in the plaint and relief for a personal decree was entered in the preliminary decree as a decree over. Held, that the insertion of the clause relating to decree over was quite correct. 10 O. W. N. 653=1933 O. 352 (F.B.). Where a mortgage decree passed on a compromise expressly authorized the decree-holder to apply for a personal decree, and this was not contrary to the terms of the compromise but was in accordance with the intention of the parties, the decree-holder is entitled to a personal decree for the balance remaining due after the sale of the mortgaged property. 1936 O.W.N. 476=1936 O. 259. Even though the decree itself makes no mention of the personal remedy, if it was contained in the compromise, the party would be entitled to proceed in execution against the other properties without applying under this rule. 15 P. 345=17 Pat.L.T. 540=1936 P. 568. A decree which directs payment of the amount is prima facie a personal decree. O. 34 regulates the enforcement by suit of mortgages. The Court must read the decree as a whole, and if a preliminary mortgage decree provides in the first instance that the mortgagor should pay the amount, not into Court but to the mortgagee, the Court would not be justified in construing the decree as an executable decree for payments because, taking the decree as a whole, it provides that there is not to be a personal decree for payment until the mortgaged property has been sold and a deficit has resulted. But there is no reason why one should apply the analogy of a mortgage decree to a consent decree which must be construed according to the language used. In the case of a consent decree, there is no justification for holding that by taking a charge upon specific property, the primary object of which is to secure the creditor against other creditors, the creditor abandons his right to proceed against other property of the debtor. Such an abandonment should not be presumed in the absence of language making clear the intention to abandon. To hold that the creditor can only attach other property after obtaining a fresh order for payment is to ignore the fact that the decree already contains an order for payment. 43 Bom.L.R. 26. Compromise decree in mortgage suits—Charge continuing on mortgaged property—Extinguishment of a portion of property by fire and acquisition of the remainder by municipality—Maintainability of application under this rule—Limitation. 30 Bom.L.R. 724. Application under this rule—Arrangement exonerating defendant from personal liability—Arrangement entered into after final decree for sale—If can be pleaded in bar—Adjustment. 69 M.L.J. 765 (F.B.). Hypothecation by lessee of minerals—Suit by lessor to enforce hypothecation against lessee and sub-lessee—Decree—Sale proceeds insufficient—Application for personal decree against sub-lessee not competent. 193 I.C. 32. This rule does not prevent attachment before judgment under O. 38, R. 5, being granted in suitable cases. 163 I.C. 336=1936 A.L.J. 314=1936 A.W.R. 362=1936 A. 408.

APPLICATION.—This rule does not permit of a personal decree being passed against the mortgagor or his surety unless on the date of the suit founded on the mortgage the balance is legally recoverable. 20 N.L.J. 42. A covenant to pay is implied in every transaction of loan; when a person borrows money he must be deemed to have entered into an implied contract to repay the money borrowed and plaintiff is entitled to sue for mortgage money on this implied contract. Unless there was some specific condition in the bond absolving the borrower from liability to repay the loan he must be held liable on the implied covenant contained in his unconditional acknowledgment of the fact that he was taking the loan. Mortgagee is entitled to add to mortgage amount any sum paid by him for saving the mortgaged property from sale and he is entitled to a personal decree for that portion of amount as well. 149 I.C. 1197=1934 P. 433. Preliminary decree reserving plaintiff's right to apply for personal decree—Defendant not appealing—Right to object to application for personal decree. 1935 O. 11=11 O.W.N. 1196. An application under this rule does not in any way resemble an application for attachment of property. 24 I.C. 35=18 C. W.N. 492. An application under this rule is an application in the suit. 33 C. at 873. But see 25 M. 244 and 21 A. 453. Proceedings under this rule are not in the nature of a separate suit but merely a final step in working out the mortgage decree and there is no question of limitation. 4 Luck. 237=114 I.C. 769=1929 O. 59. When a combined decree has been passed, an application under this rule is unnecessary. 33 M.L.J. 543=42 I.C. 282. Also 25 I.C. 50=1914 M.W.N. 497; 27 I.C. 72=18 O.C. 55; 25 I.C. 121=17 O.C. 153; 3 Luck. 411=108 I.C. 723=1928 O. 490. When a right to proceed under this rule has not been determined in the suit, an application under this rule can be objected to on the ground that part of the decree amount was barred at the time of suit. 46 I.C. 892. Question of personal liability can be decided at the time the suit is decided, and the matter so decided is res judicata when an application under this rule is made. 28 A. 365; 144 I.C. 738=1933 L. 329. A mortgage decree against a Hindu father had reserved liberty to apply for a personal decree against him. Property was sold but before confirmation the sons of mortgagor obtained a declaration that mortgage was not binding on them. Held, that the conditional clause in the decree regarding the personal decree became operative, that mortgagee was entitled to move executing Court for passing a personal decree under R. 6 in spite of the declaration obtained by the sons and in execution of that personal decree to proceed against the entire property. 1933 L. 768. A preliminary decree passed in terms of Form No. 4, Appendix D, C.P. Code, declaring that "Plaintiff shall be at liberty to apply for a personal decree," constitutes an adjudication on the point, and if defendant does not appeal from it, he is precluded from disputing its correctness afterwards. 10 O.W.N. 653=1933 O. 352 (F.B.). A mortgage decree carries with it the liability to pay the amount personally. The power of Court to give a mortgagee a relief by granting a personal decree does not depend upon this rule. In the case of a compromise decree or of an award even though the personal remedy is not mentioned, an application for the same is not necessary but Court can give relief. 32 Bom.L.R. 439=1930 B. 208. See also 115 I.C. 336=1929 S. 44. And much more so where though the award is silent about personal decree, the Court passes a decree on the basis of the award in the usual form, and there was no appeal against it. 158 I.C. 493=1935 O.W.N. 1103. As to applicability of this rule to an anomalous mortgage, see 1937 P.W.N. 60=1937 Pat. 261.

FORUM.—The supplemental decree can be passed only by the Court in which the original suit was instituted. 33 M.L.J. 382=42 I.C. 953; 27 C. 272. Where the mortgage suit and the mortgage come within the jurisdiction of the Court at A and not within the jurisdiction of the Court at F, the existence of a charge on the property at F does not give the Court at F jurisdiction to entertain an application under O. 34, R. 6, because that rule only applies to a personal covenant arising from a mortgage. 1931 A.L.J. 893=1931 A. 192.

COMBINED DECREE.—The decree for sale can also provide that if the proceeds of sale are insufficient, the balance can be collected personally. 47 C. 370=36 M.L.J. 215=46 I.A. 294 (P.C.). Also 43 M. 421=38 M.L.J. 203. If a Court passes a composite decree, combining a decree for sale and a personal decree, the decree is valid and the personal decree, though made at the time of the decree for sale, operates at a future date when the sale takes place and fails to satisfy the mortgage debt. 10 O.W.N. 1087=1933 O. 529. Though a composite decree for sale and also in terms of R. 6 may be passed at one and the same time, yet neither a plaintiff is bound to ask for the second relief in the plaint of the suit nor is Court bound even where such a relief is prayed for, to adjudicate upon it. Hence where Court has not adjudicated upon it nor have the parties asked for such relief, the question can be considered when the contingency arises. 10 O.W.N. 1097=1933 O. 520. In a combined decree it is not proper to direct that in default of payment, plaintiff can recover the decree amount by sale of the properties. 24 Bom.L.R. 843=1923 B. 32. Where a preliminary decree provided also for personal decree for any "legally" realisable balance, and the final decree omitted it, held, it was not a combined decree, the question whether any legally realised balance existed, being yet to be determined. 53 I.C. 904=23 C.W.N. 924. When once such a decree is passed it cannot be questioned in execution proceedings. 24 I.C. 195=27 M.L.J. 25. When decree provides for a personal remedy, executing Court cannot enquire into defendant's personal liability. 32 I.C. 820. Where a party feels aggrieved by the provision for a personal decree in a preliminary decree, he must appeal; otherwise his remedy is barred. 6 O.W.N. 969. So also where the mortgagee made a claim for a personal decree in the original suit and the claim was rejected upon its merits and no appeal was lodged against that decree, the doctrine of res judicata applies, and a subsequent application for a personal decree under this rule is not maintainable. 1936 A.L.J. 1228=1937 A. 54. When a combined decree is passed the personal remedy may be availed of even before sale of the properties. 22 I.C. 293; 10 I.C. 975; 26 M.L.J. 83=21 I.C. 782. As to the validity of combined decree, see 59 C. 1314=140 I.C. 788=36 C.W.N. 709. See also 60 C.L.J. 522=38 C.W.N. 850=1934 C. 764 (2). Under R. 6, mortgagee is not entitled to apply for personal decree until the mortgaged property has been actually sold and the sale proceeds found insufficient to meet his claim. The original decree should, therefore, merely reserve the right to apply for a personal decree. 31 N.L.R. (Supp.) 124=160 I.C.

NOTES.

196=1936 N. 34.

COSTS.—A mortgage decree-holder can realise his decree for costs otherwise than by proceeding under S. 90, T.P. Act, if the Court has passed a personal decree for costs. 15 I.C. 23=16 C.W.N. 731. Where in a suit for sale by the mortgagee against the mortgagor and his sons, the hypotheca was sold and plaintiff applied for a personal decree against father for the balance due under the mortgage and costs and against sons for the amount due for costs, held, that it was open to plaintiff notwithstanding the amalgamation of the amount due under the mortgage, subsequent interest and costs into one sum, to assume that costs were part of the remaining balance and to ask for a decree for costs as though they were still legally recoverable from the sons. 55 M. 332=1932 M. 155 (2)=62 M.L.J. 93. Where mortgaged property has been sold and found insufficient, a personal decree for costs is available. 12 M.L.T. 312=17 I.C. 244. Unless decree otherwise provides, costs may be recovered from the sale-proceeds of mortgaged property. 38 I.C. 241=2 P.L.J. 51. A final personal money decree for costs may be given against the mortgagor even in a case where the personal remedy of mortgagee against the mortgagor, for the mortgage money and interest thereon is time-barred. 9 R. 186=1931 R. 153. Where a prior mortgagee sued the mortgagor and a puisne mortgagee and was given a decree for sale of the properties mortgaged to him and an order for costs making the puisne mortgagee liable for them jointly with the mortgagor, the puisne mortgagee is, in the absence of a special order or special reasons to the contrary, personally liable for the costs. 133 I.C. 225=1931 R. 153. Mortgagee has a right to the execution against puisne mortgagee personally in respect of such part of the costs which was payable by him separately, although a final personal money decree could not be passed against him under O. 34, R. 6. 133 I.C. 93=1931 R. 181 (2).

LIMITATION.—In the case of an application under R. 6, the time from which limitation would run is the date of confirmation of the sale, for unless the sale was confirmed by Court after disposing of all the objections against it, the deficiency in the amount cannot be ascertained for the purpose of R. 6. 58 C. 741=35 C.W.N. 231=1931 C. 166. See also 30 Bom.L.R. 724. And where there is an appeal from an order dismissing an application by the judgment-debtor to set aside the sale, the period of three years under Art. 181, Limitation Act, for an application for a personal decree against the mortgagee begins to run from the date of the appellate order and not from the date when the sale was confirmed by the lower Court. 157 I.C. 942=42 L.W. 518=1935 M. 640; 1937 A.L.J. 135=1937 A. 285. A personal decree under this rule can be passed within six years from the date provided in mortgage bond for payment. 17 A.L.J. 647=50 I.C. 640. Personal remedy can be enforced on the basis of a registered deed within six years under Art. 116, Limitation Act. 27 A.L.J. 1294=123 I.C. 321=1930 A. 69 (F.B.). An application for a personal decree may be made even after six years from the date of bond provided the suit has been filed within six years from that date. 27 I.C. 770=2 L.W. 66; 36 C.W.N. 117. Art. 181 does not apply to an application under this rule. 30 I.C. 719=42 C. 294. But see contra 1933 C. 251; 21 I.C. 530=1913 M.W.N. 867. Also 39 I.C. 854=13 N.L.R. 76; 10 I.C. 21. See also 111 I.C. 221. Sale in pursuance of mortgage decree subsequently held void—Application for personal decree three years after that is barred. 1927 M. 941=97 I.C. 502=24 L.W. 280. Where the mortgagee's claim for the principal amount is barred, the mortgagee is debarred from recovering from mortgagors personally the interest which accrued due during the six years immediately preceding the institution of the suit. 163 I.C. 100=1936 L. 387. (111 I.C. 808=1928 L. 653, Not Foll.) But, there can be a personal decree against the mortgagor for the amount of costs incurred in the mortgage suit, even though his personal liability for the principal amount and interest is barred by time. (Ibid.) But see 14 R. 538, which held, on a construction of R. 3 of O. 34, as amended by that High Court, that a personal decree for costs cannot be passed, under the above circumstances when there is nothing in the preliminary decree which says that the mortgagee shall be at liberty to apply for a personal decree in respect of the costs alone, or enforce payment independently of the amount which is otherwise due on the mortgage. Where a mortgage deed fixed eight years for re-payment, but also contained a default clause that if interest was not paid annually, the mortgagee may recover interest and principal without reference to the period fixed, held, that the limitation for a decree under R. 6 commenced to run not after the expiry of one year within which mortgagor continued default for payment of interest, but it commenced to run after the expiry of eight years' term stipulated in the deed. 1934 A.L.J. 261=1934 A. 397=56 A. 954 (F.B.). Where a person stands surety for a mortgage debt, giving a guarantee of the mortgagor's title to the mortgaged property and undertaking to compensate the mortgagee for any loss caused to him in consequence of proof of the mortgagor's title being defective, a suit against the surety on the contract of guarantee for a personal decree against the surety is governed by Art. 116 of the Limitation Act and must be filed within 6 years from the date on which the mortgage debt became payable. 20 N. L.J. 42.

NOTICE.—Before making a decree under this rule, it is right to issue notice to judgment-debtor to show cause, except possibly in cases where decree has made him personally liable. 35 I.C. 288=9 Bur.L.T. 245. Where Court has to decide whether the execution of the decree should proceed without a supplemental decree under this rule an order without notice to judgment-debtor directing execution to issue cannot be supported. 56 I.C. 801=31 C.L.J. 382. PERSONAL LIABILITY.—A charge-holder is, as much as a mortgagee, entitled to a personal remedy in the event of deficiency of the proceeds of sale. 59 C. 1314=140 I.C. 788=36 C.W.N. 709. See also 1935 A.L.J. 279=1935 A.W.R. 344. Ordinarily costs awarded to a mortgagee decree-holder in a mortgage suit or appeal in the absence of any express direction to the contrary would be part of the mortgage amount decreed and would be a charge on the mortgaged property. But where the trying Court imposes personal liability for costs on the mortgagor in express terms, the order is intra vires although his personal liability for the mortgage debt is time barred, and can be executed against the person of the mortgagor apart from the sale of the mortgaged property. I.L.R. (1938) Lah. 148=1938 Lah. 188. A personal decree cannot be obtained against a purchaser of the equity of redemption. 34 A. 63=39 I.A. 7=21 M.L.J. 1158 (P.C.). The secured creditor of a Hindu widow, on the security proving insufficient to satisfy his decree thereon, is entitled to proceed against the other properties. 85 I.C. 963=1925 A. 352. A minor mortgagee cannot get a decree under this rule against a puisne mortgagee for the costs due. 23 A. 439; 29 A. 12. See also 31 B. 244; 29 A. 260; 26 A. 93; 26 A. 25. An ex parte decree for personal liability against a person other than the mortgagor can be set aside. 60 I.C. 368=2 P.L.T. 251. An unsuccessful mortgagor-appellant must personally pay the costs of appeal but the mortgagee can also add it to the security. 41 A. 473=17 A.L.J. 582. The personal liability of a mortgagor when arises, see 50 C. 718=1924 C. 209. A personal decree can be made against mortgagor at the appellate stage. 26 C.W.N. 318=1922 C. 52 (47 C. 370, Foll.). Where mortgagor sells the equity of redemption and a pre-emption suit ensues in respect of such sale, the pre-emptors, in the absence of a contract to that effect, are not personally liable for the mortgage-money. 144 I.C. 738=1933 L. 329. A decree under R. 6 can only be made against defendants in the original suit. 1927 A. 691=103 I.C. 264

(1). Court cannot direct that no property other than those mortgaged be sold. Whether the other properties can be proceeded against is to be determined under an application under this rule. 23 I.C. 389. When mortgage decree directs that the defendants "do pay" they are personally liable. 1918 M.W.N. 146=43 I.C. 871=7 L.W. 36. When in a compromise decree there is no provision taking away the personal liability, the mortgagor was personally liable, if sale proceeds were found insufficient. 88 I.C. 507. Personal liability is ordinarily presumed to exist in the absence of a contract to the contrary. The right to proceed against the person must be specifically reserved by the decree itself. 42 I.C. 288=6 L.W. 692; 26 M.L.J. 375=23 I.C. 544; 1927 M.W.N. 330. But see 1927 M. 779=53 M.L.J. 489=103 I.C. 528. A personal relief against a defendant includes a relief against any property in his possession. 27 I.C. 72=18 O.C. 55. A formal decree under this rule is necessary even where the original compromise decree declared the other properties too as being liable. 48 I.C. 608=3 P.L.J. 649. NOTES.

1925 L. 31. Reversioners filed a suit for declaration that certain mortgage executed by the widow was invalid and for possession. It was found that part of the mortgage debt was valid and binding and decree conditional on payment of certain amount within certain time which was made a charge on the property. Held, that even though the suit was not for redemption, the decree was in the form of a decree for redemption, and that Court had discretion to extend time for payment under R. 7. (Cases ref.) 1933 M. 762=65 M.L.J. 592. A mortgage having been executed by a minor, his next friend sued to have it declared invalid and cancelled. Finding of Court was that mortgagor was a minor but that he had practised fraud on mortgagee in obtaining money and that the money was utilised for purposes binding on minor's family. Decree was passed that on payment of mortgage amount within a date fixed the mortgage-deed was to be cancelled. The amount not having been paid within the date, mortgagee applied for an order for sale. Held, that the decree should be treated as a decree for redemption and that mortgagee was entitled to claim the benefit of this rule. 68 M.L.J. 546=1935 M. 478. This rule applies only to a mortgagee and has no application to the case of a co-mortgagor who has redeemed the entire mortgage. 1923 L. 122. As to distinction between deposits under this rule and under S. 83, T.P. Act, see 2 O.W.N. 826=1926 O. 113. Under R. 7 (c) the money should be paid into Court. As to validity of payment made outside Court, see 102 I.C. 428=1927 O. 275. When deposit is made to discharge a valid mortgage a final decree itself may be passed without being preceded by a preliminary decree. 1922 A. 479. All proceedings till final decree are proceedings in suit. 37 A. 226=13 A.L.J. 307. As to form of decree, see 19 I.C. 856. In a suit for redemption of a usufructuary mortgage Court passed a decree on 4th November, 1925, "the suit decreed conditional on the plaintiff depositing Rs. 199-5-0 to the credit of the defendant in this Court within six months; prepare a preliminary decree for redemption under O. 34, R. 7 on failure their suit shall stand dismissed". Plaintiffs failed to pay within time fixed and their application for extension of time was granted. On deposit of the money final decree was passed directing delivery of possession. In second appeal by mortgagee it was contended that the decree passed on 4th November, 1925 was absolute in its character and the Court had no power to extend the time. Held, the Court of first instance had power to grant extension of time under O. 34, R. 8 proviso or under S. 148. 145 I.C. 591=1933 A. 157. A mortgagor decree-holder who fails to pay within date fixed but pays it before the decree is made absolute, is entitled to redeem. 29 I.C. 438.

MESNE PROFITS.—A separate suit for mesne profits after date of payment fixed in the preliminary decree would lie. 2 O.W.N. 826=1926 O. 113. There is no provision in Rr. 7, 8 and 10, for taking into consideration any mesne profits that might become due to the plaintiffs by the failure of the defendant to deliver possession to plaintiff after the final decree. That question is outside the scope of a mortgage suit for redemption. Any amounts payable before the date of final decree will alone be taken into consideration. The suit continues until the passing of the final decree and when it is passed the relationship of mortgagor and mortgagee ceases, and thereafter the defendant remaining in possession is a trespasser. Plaintiff, therefore, has a fresh cause of action against him. 1935 A. L.J. 115=1935 A. 96.

ACCOUNTS.—Where mortgagor covenants in the deed of mortgage to pay the rent of mortgaged property to zamindar but fails to pay the same, and mortgagee in consequence pays the rent, the latter can ask for the amount paid by him to be added to the mortgage money in a suit for redemption. It is not necessary that the mortgagee should file a separate suit for recovery of the amount. 1934 A.L.J. 637=1934 A. 888.

all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall, if so required, re-transfer the property to the plaintiff at his cost free from the mortgage and from all incumbrances created by the defendant or any person claiming under him, or where the defendant claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims, and shall also, if necessary, put the plaintiff in possession of the property; and

(ii) that, if payment of the amount found or declared due under or by the preliminary decree is not made on or before the date so fixed, or the plaintiff fails to pay, within such time as the Court may fix, the amount adjudged due in respect of subsequent costs, charges, expenses and interests, the defendant shall be entitled to apply for a final decree—

(a) in the case of a mortgage other than a usufructuary mortgage, a mortgage by conditional sale, or an anomalous mortgage the terms of which provide for foreclosure only and not for sale, that the mortgaged property be sold, or

(b) in the case of a mortgage by conditional sale or such an anomalous mortgage as aforesaid, that the plaintiff be debarred from all right to redeem the property.

(2) The Court may, on good cause shown and upon terms to be fixed by the Court, from time to time, at any time before the passing of a final decree for foreclosure or sale, as the case may be, extend the time fixed for the payment of the amount, found or declared due under sub-rule (1) or of the amount adjudged due in respect of subsequent costs, charges, expenses and interest.

8. (1) Where, before a final decree debarring the plaintiff from all right to redeem the mortgaged property has been passed or before the confirmation of a sale held in pursuance of a final decree passed under sub-rule (3) of this rule, the plaintiff makes payment into Court of all amounts due from him under

NOTES.

Only an interlocutory order and not a decree for accounts can be passed prior to preliminary decree. 23 A.L.J. 691=47 A. 803. A comparison of O. 34, R. 7 and O. 20, R. 17 makes it clear that directions by Court with regard to the mode in which the account is to be taken or vouched will not at least in redemption suits amount to preliminary decrees. 14 P.L.T. 735. An interlocutory order should be followed by specification of consequence of payment or non-payment of the ascertained amount on a day fixed to make it a preliminary decree. 10 O.L.J. 374=1924 O. 140. When a preliminary decree fixes the amount due instead of directing an account to be taken, it does not become a final decree. 22 C.W.N. 374=44 C. 448. Cf. 10 O.L.J. 374=1924 O. 140; see 87 I.C. 585=1925 A. 492. S. 13 of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act provides for an account to be taken to the date of suit but not thereafter. In a suit on a mortgage executed by an agriculturist, accounts can therefore be taken only up to the date of suit. 37 Bom.L.R. 76=1935 B. 122=154 I.C. 770. The general law will apply in regard to accounts between the date of plaint and the date of the preliminary decree. The mortgagee is entitled to what is allowed by R. 7, i.e., principal, interests, costs and other costs, charges, expenses and interest thereon. The interest due would be governed by R. 11. 36 Bom.L.R. 1242=1935 B. 97.

APPEAL.—Where an appeal from a preliminary decree is dismissed it is the decree of the appellate Court which constitutes the effective preliminary decree in the cause and it is therefore necessary for appellate Court to pass a fresh decree fixing a fresh date for payment and making a fresh calculation of the amount which will be due on that date. 29 N.L.R. 130=1935 N. 236.

LIMITATION.—Suit for recovery of overpayment or surplus profits from usufructuary mortgagee is governed by Art. 148 of the Limitation Act. 26 C.W.N. 123=1922 C. 189. As to form of decree where a sub-mortgagee is a party, see 4 O.L.J. 475=42 I.C. 66.

O. 34, Rr. 7, 8 and 10.—See 1935 A. L.J. 115=1935 A. 96 (noted under R. 7, supra under head 'Mesne Profits').

O. 34, Rr. 7 and 11.—See 37 Bom.L.R. 76=1935 B. 122 and 37 Bom.L.R. 1242=1935 B. 97. (Both noted under R. 7 supra under head 'Accounts').

O. 34, R. 8: SCOPE.—This rule applies to redemption suits only. 18 A.L.J. 771=43 A. 25. As to the application of this rule as it stood before the amending Act of 1929, see 35 A. 116=11 A.L.J. 62; 28 O.C. 261=90 I.C. 418; 146 P.W.R. 1913=19 I.C. 856; 28 O.C. 46=1925 O. 255. It is open to a defendant to ask upon the happening of a contingency such as on mortgagor's failing to pay before a certain date that mortgaged property or a sufficient part thereof be sold. 132 I.C. 562=1931 A. 427. A final decree could be passed under R. 8 (1) both at the instance of mortgagor as well as mortgagee. 1927 B. 32=50 B. 730=98 I.C. 943. The mortgagor himself sub-rule (1) of rule 7, the Court shall, on application made by the plaintiff in this behalf, pass a final decree or, if such decree has been passed, an order—

(a) ordering the defendant to deliver up the documents referred to in the preliminary decree, and if necessary,—

(b) ordering him to re-transfer at the cost of the plaintiff the mortgaged property as directed in the said decree, and, also, if necessary,—

(c) ordering him to put the plaintiff in possession of the property.

(2) Where the mortgaged property or a part thereof has been sold in pursuance of a decree passed under sub-rule (3) of this rule, the Court shall not pass an order under sub-rule (1) of this rule, unless the plaintiff in addition to the amount mention-can apply for sale in a redemption suit. If he does not pay the amount, suit need not be dismissed. 36 M. 32=21 M.L.J. 941. Conditional decree in redemption suit—Condition not fulfilled—Provisions of R. 8 not complied with by decree-holder—No final decree—A second suit for redemption is maintainable. 1927 L. 9=7 L. 420=27 Punj.L.R. 659.

FORUM.—The application under sub-rule (4) must be made to Court of First Instance even when the decree under R. 7 has been made by appellate Court. 23 A. 88; 23 M. 521; also 39 A. 396=39 I.C. 630; 39 M. 876=29 M.L.J. 708.

PAYMENT INTO COURT.—The rule distinctly lays down that payment must be made into Court. So, after the passing of the preliminary decree, no payment or adjustment of the mortgage money made out of Court can be pleaded against the passing of the final decree. There is no difference in this respect between the decree in a foreclosure suit and the decree in a redemption suit. 1931 M. 592=131 I.C. 487=54 M. 708. Though if after a preliminary decree the mortgagor alleges that he has paid the amount out of Court and the mortgagee disputes it, Court will not recognize a payment not made in accordance with the directions of the decree into Court, it does not, however, affect the right of the mortgagor and the mortgagee to settle between themselves out of Court and report the matter to the Court. 62 M.L.J. 272=55 M. 320=1932 M. 115. (42 M. 61, Ref.).

EXTENSION OF TIME.—According to the T. P. Act prior to passing of the new Code payment may be made before an order absolute, but according to the Code an extension of time has to be obtained. 9 I.C. 337=14 O.C. 19. Time allowed for payment can be enlarged; and this can be done even after time originally given has expired. 28 B. 102; 26 B. at 126. Delayed payment may be accepted if no loss is caused to mortgagee. 50 I.C. 201=6 O.L.J. 94; 101 I.C. 734=13 O.L.J. 828. Time cannot be enlarged merely because an appeal is preferred against the decree which is afterwards dismissed or withdrawn. 17 C. W.N. 457=17 C.L.J. 120; also 41 I.C. 268=32 M.L.J. 455. But a party who is not bound to perform anything under the decree and who appeals to enlarge his interests under the decree is entitled to reckon the period in his favour from date of appellate decree. 41 I.C. 268=32 M.L.J. 455. A separate application for enlargement is not needed. 26 B. 126. Where in a partition suit an alienation was impeached as not binding and the alienee was made a party and Court directed possession from alienee, on payment of a certain amount and he defaulted, time can be extended for payment. 37 M.L.J. 695=43 M. 357. Court of first instance can grant extension of time under R. 8, proviso or S. 148 in case of failure to deposit amount within the time fixed. 1933 A. 157=145 I.C. 591. Court cannot extend time when the decree was a compromise decree by which possession was to be delivered if payment was made on a particular date and in default possession of the mortgagee was to continue. 28 I.C. 862=18 O.C. 58. When time for payment is extended, interest at contract rate ought to be paid for the time extended. 9 O.L.J. 439=1922 O. 268. Laches on the part of mortgagee—Extension of time allowed. 100 I.C. 1039=1927 B. 175=29 Bom.L.R. 228.

LIMITATION.—There is no period of limitation for passing a final decree in a redemption suit. 22 I.C. 283. For an application under Cl. (4), Art. 181 of the Limitation Act would apply. 28 O.C. 46=1925 O. 255. Mortgagor could execute decree at any time within limitation. If he failed, he would have right to sue again for redemption so long as his right to redeem remained alive. 146 P.W.R. 1913=19 I.C. 856. So long as no final decree for sale or foreclosure is passed, mortgagor had the right to pay the amount due under the preliminary decree even beyond twelve years from date fixed for payment under the consent preliminary decree. 28 O.C. 26=90 I.C. 418. No notice need be given to kanamdar after decree for redemption and before delivery of possession to the mortgagor. 45 M.L.J. 687=1924 M. 102.

ACCOUNTS.—In a decree for redemption, accounts must be carried forward up to the date when possession is given. 16 I.C. 184. The relationship of mortgagor and mortgagee subsists even after preliminary decree and mortgagee should account for rents and profits. 42 I.C. 230. After the decree for redemption, Court should see that all rights acquired by the mortgagee are transferred

Where such deposit has been made, the purchaser shall be entitled to an order for repayment of the amount of the purchase-money paid into Court by him, together with a sum equal to five per cent. thereof.

(3) Where payment in accordance with sub-rule (1) has not been made, the Court shall, on application made by the defendant in this behalf,—

(a) in the case of a mortgage by conditional sale or of such an anomalous mortgage as is hereinbefore referred to in rule 7, pass a final decree declaring that the plaintiff and all persons claiming under him are debarred from all right to redeem the mortgaged property and, also, if necessary, ordering the plaintiff to put the defendant in possession of the mortgaged property; or

Recovery of balance due on mortgage in suit for redemption. are found insufficient to pay the amount due to the defendant, the Court, on application by him, may, if the balance is legally recoverable from the plaintiff otherwise than out of the property sold, pass a decree for such balance.]

9. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, if it appears upon taking the account referred to in rule 7, that nothing

²[10. In finally adjusting the amount to be paid to a mortgagee in case of a foreclosure, sale or redemption, the Court shall, unless

O. 34, R. 9.—Applicability.—Suit for sale by some heirs of mortgagee—Other heirs joined as co-defendants along with mortgagors—Decree for surplus amount in favour of mortgagors against co-defendants—Whether can be passed. 1936 O.W.N. 306.

O. 34, New Rr. 10 and 11 have been substituted for old Rr. 10 and 11. The necessity for the substitution of these new rules have been explained as follows:—

“Rule 10, as it stands, refers to the subsequent costs of the suit only. In finally adjusting the amount the Court has also to take into consideration other costs, charges and expenses which the mortgagee may have incurred since the date of the preliminary decree. The mortgagee must be entitled to the amount so spent. 44 C. 448. R. 10 is, therefore, amended to empower the Court to take such sums into consideration. After the account is once taken or the amount declared in a preliminary decree, it is necessary that the power of the Court to take into account sums spent subsequently should be expressly recognized.

NOTES.

We have proposed that the provisions of R. 11 which lay down the principle of 'redeem up and foreclose down' should be embodied in the new S. 94 of the Act. This rule should, therefore, be omitted.

There being no specific rule as to interest, we propose that a new rule should be framed dealing exclusively with interest, and this rule we propose to number as 11.

Under S. 2 of the Usury Laws Repeal Act (XXVIII of 1855), in any suit in which interest is recoverable the amount is to be adjusted or decreed by the Court at the rate (if any) agreed upon by the parties. Again, this provision is subject to the provisions of the Usurious Loans Act, 1918, and S. 74 of the Indian Contract Act enabling the Court to reduce the rate if in its opinion it is penal or exorbitant. Under S. 3 of Act XXVIII of 1855, it is at the discretion of the Court to vary the rate agreed upon if it decides to allow further interest on the amount adjudged or decreed to be due. When no such rate has been fixed, the Court can award interest at the rate it deems reasonable. It was at one time thought that the Court was not competent to award interest after the date fixed for payment in a mortgage deed. It is, however, now well established that, even if there is no covenant for the payment of interest after the period fixed in the deed, interest can still be awarded by way of damages or under the Interest Act (XXXII of 1839); the rate allowed is generally the same as that stipulated in the deed. (L. R. 25 I.A. 9.) As observed by the Privy Council, the scheme of the provisions in O. 34 of the Code, is that a general account should be taken once for all and an aggregate amount be stated in the decree for principal, interest and costs due on a fixed day and that, after the expiration of that day, if the property is not redeemed, the matter should pass from the domain of contract to that of judgment and the rights of the parties should thenceforth depend not on the contract or the bond, but on the directions in the decree. 34 I.A. 9 at 21; 54 I.A. 1. Up to the day fixed for payment in the preliminary decree in a mortgage suit, interest is generally allowed at the contract rate and thereafter up to the day of realization or actual payment it is entirely at the discretion of the Court to allow it at such rate as it deems reasonable. 20 C. 360; 21 M. 364; 20 B. 744; 23 I.A. 138 (P.C.). The result of the above decisions has been embodied in the new R. 11.

The absence of any provision in O. 34 and corresponding old Ss. 85 to 99 of the T.P. Act regarding post diem interest has also led to curious divergence of views. Some Courts held that the portion of the decree which awards such interest is to be treated as a decree for the payment of money and executed as such. 17 A. 581;

18 A. 316. This view, however, has not been adopted by other Courts which held that it must be treated as part of the mortgage money and is to be recoverable out of the mortgaged property in the same way as the principal and the costs of the suit. 21 C. 274; 18 M. 248; 24 C. 766. This provision is intended to put an end to that divergence. It is proposed to provide that such interest is part of the mortgage money.

No change has been effected in Rr. 9 or 12 to 14.—(Report of Select Committee.)

O. 34, R. 10.—O. 34, R. 10, which was added to the C.P. Code in 1930, has no application to a decree for sale passed long prior to it, namely, in 1924. Nor can it affect rights which exist independently of the rights conferred by the preliminary decree. 50 L.W. 889=1940 Mad. 233. Costs which should have been included in the final decree and not so included are not claimable in execution. 44 A. 350=20 A. L.J. 170. Costs allowed in decree form part of the mortgage debt. 24 I.C. 63=A. L.J. 645. See 88 I.C. 829=1925 A. 68. This rule has nothing to do with costs awarded in execution proceedings. 48 A. 682=1926 A. 722 (1)=96 I.C. 592. In a suit under O. 34, the Court is bound to add the costs of the suit to the mortgage money when adjusting the amount to be paid to the mortgagee unless his conduct has been such as to disentitle him from recovering them. The provisions of S. 35, are inapplicable to mortgage suits to which those stated specifically in O. 34, R. 10, C.P. Code, apply. A mortgagee who has been deprived of his costs in a suit under O. 34, is therefore entitled as of right to prefer an appeal as to costs to a higher tribunal. A mortgagee who frivolously resists an application under S. 83, T.P. Act, made by a mortgagor, and contests a suit for redemption without any justification, raising false and frivolous and unfounded pleas, would not only be disentitled to costs, but would also be liable to pay the costs of the mortgagor. 49 L.W. 525=1939 Mad. 654=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 687.

COSTS IN APPEAL.—Decree for costs in appeal, if personal. 19 I.C. 384. But see contra in 48 I.C. 329. Where appeal was dismissed with costs and meanwhile final decree was passed by the lower Court appellant would be personally liable for costs. 24 I.C. 873. But see 93 I.C. 223=1926 A. 343, contra. Where only one of the defendants appealed, costs awarded are against him personally. 19 I.C. 729. Where application is made for final decree after an appellate decree for costs is passed against one defendant alone, decree-holder cannot ask for costs of appeal to be included with the amount finally held due. 20 I.C. 42=11 A.L.J. 975.

O. 34, R. 11 (new).—The new R. 11 as amended in 1929 only reproduces the view previously held by the majority of the High INTEREST PENDENTE LITE—DISCRETION OF COURT TO REDUCE CONTRACT RATE.—R. 11 of O. 34, C.P. Code (which was inserted by Act XXI of 1929), gives a certain amount of discretion to the Court so far as interest pendente lite and subsequent interest are concerned and it is no longer absolutely obligatory on the Courts to decree interest at the contractual rate up to the date of redemption in all circumstances if there is no question of the rate being penal, excessive or substantially unfair within the meaning of the Usurious Loans Act, 1918. Whether Court would or would not give relief in respect of interest in excess of 9 per cent. per annum and if so, to what extent, will depend on the special circumstances of each case. I.L.R. (1940) Kar. (F.C.) 33=1940 P.W.N. 614=44 C. W.N. (F.R.) 21=72 C.L.J. 165=3 F.L.J. 46=1940 F.C. 20=(1940) 1 M.L.J. (Supp.) 14 O. 34, Rr. 2 and 4 deal respectively with a decree in a mortgage suit for foreclosure and for sale, and the words used in the rules seem to infer that the question of interest up to the date of the decree is one which is not within the discretion of the Court. But R. 11, dealing with interest after the decree, is clearly a matter within the discretion of the Court, as the word used there is "may". 14 Pat. 400=16 Pat.L.T. 579=1935 P. 98. O. 34, R. 11, which must be read with Rr. 2 and 4, gives a discretion to the Court to allow interest up to the date for redemption on the amount found or declared due by the preliminary decree. The interest must be calculated up to the contract rate unless the Court finds that such a rate is penal or excessive. The Court has no option to disallow interest at that rate, even if it be compound interest, unless of course the rate is found to be penal interest. For the period subsequent to the date of the preliminary decree, however, the Court has under the rule the option to allow or refuse interest. 193 I.C. 661=22 P.L.T. 317. The discretion under O. 34, R. 11 is to be exercised judicially and the principles of S. 74 of the Contract Act must be taken to be the principle which would govern the exercise of such a discretion. 1937 A.M.L.J. 97. Even where there is no express stipulation in a mortgage document for post diem interest, such interest may be awarded either under a contract to be implied or as compensation and the usual practice is to award such interest at contract rate. 145 I.C. 762=1933 M. 171. Where a mortgage-deed provides that in case of non-payment of interest for a period of six months such interest was to be added to the principal and interest and compound interest is to run on it, Court can give effect to that provision and allow interest on the aggregate amount and not merely on the principal amount. 151 I.C. 856=1934 O. 473. But see 154 I.C. 46=1935 O. 263. Where in a mortgage bond there is no precise definition of the rate of interest prior to default, it is not possible to draw an inference that the parties intended that after the whole amount became due, interest should be paid at the rate which can be deduced from the arrangement regarding addition of sawai and payment by instalments. In such a case Court should allow a reasonable rate of interest after default. Interest allowed at 12 per cent. per annum. 28 N.L.R. 1=

12. Where any property the sale of which is directed under this Order is subject to a prior mortgage, the Court may, with the consent of the prior mortgagee, direct that the property be sold free from the same, giving to such prior mortgagee the same interest in the proceeds of the sale as he had in the property sold.

NOTES.

136 I.C. 887=1932 N. 39. See also 1933 M. 171. Though it is correct to allow interest at the bond rate up to the expiry of the period of grace, there is nothing in the Code compelling Court to do so. The statutory authority for allowing interest at bond rate beyond the date of the preliminary decree appears to be in R. 11 and even that only says that the Court "may" order. 140 I.C. 104=13 Pat.L.T. 545=1932 P. 332. Under R. 11 (a) (ii) Court has power to award interest on costs of suit only from date of preliminary decree and not during the pendency of the suit. 154 I.C. 46=1935 O. 263. Under R. 11 (a) (i), Court has power to allow interest at the contractual rate up to the date fixed for payment only on the "principal amount", which means the principal money secured by the deed of mortgage and does not include interest which has accrued due before the suit. An order allowing interest at the contractual rate on the entire amount claimed in the suit, is therefore wrong. (Ibid.) As regards interest subsequent to the date fixed for payment, cl. (b) of R. 11 makes provision for interest on the aggregate of the principal sums specified in cl. (a) and of interest thereon as calculated in accordance with that clause at such rate as Court deems reasonable. The usual rate of interest allowed in such cases is 6 per cent. per annum and sufficient grounds have to be made out for allowing interest at a higher rate. (Ibid.) See also I.L.R. (1937) All. 584=1937 A.L.J. 324=1937 All. 442. The awarding of future interest rests on the discretion of trial Court, which will not without sufficient grounds be interfered with by appellate Court. 139 I.C. 64=9 O.W.N. 253=1932 O. 255; 8 Luck. 315=1933 O. 128, 1935 P. 98; (1940) 1 M.L.J. (Supp.) 14. Although the mortgage contract expressly provides for interest up to date of realization, the rate of interest after the date fixed by the decree for payment is a matter for the discretion of the Court, but this discretion cannot be exercised by the successor of the Judge who passed the decree. 39 P.L.R. 769=1937 Lah. 894. See also 154 I.C. 46=1935 O. W.N. 228=1935 O. 263 as to award of subsequent interest. In case of mortgage the question as to the rate of interest is to be determined under R. 11 and not S. 34. 1933 O. 128=8 Luck. 315. A decree-holder in a mortgage suit for sale is entitled to interest on the decretal amount from the date of the sale of the mortgaged property to the date of the confirmation of the sale. There is no reason why just because a sum of money which was lying in Court was taken away by a decree-holder, the decree-holder must be deemed to have taken it away upon the footing of full satisfaction of the decree or of the amount legitimately due to him. He can claim interest due to him on his claim even when his original claim is satisfied from the deposit in Court. 169 I.C. 432=1937 Rang. 193.

O. 34, R. 12.—The provisions of this rule apply to usufructuary mortgages. 30 M. 408. The rights of a prior mortgagee though ex parte, can be determined in a suit by puisne mortgagee. 27 I.C. 164. A sale without reference to a prior mortgagee and without his consent free of his mortgage is irregular. 19 I.C. 2 (R.). Sale in execution of mortgage decree—Proclamation exempting purchaser from liability for outgoings prior to date of payment of purchase money—Charge for arrears of taxes to Corporation not mentioned—Rights of purchaser and decree-holder. 61 C. 956=38 C.W.N. 971=1934 C. 842. A puisne mortgagee has no power to sell free of prior mortgage without consent of prior mortgagee who therefore can subsequently sue on his own mortgage. 47 C. 662=47 I.A. 11=38 M.L.J. 424 (P.C.). See also 45 C.W.N. 705. The rule does not require that the consent of the plaintiff is necessary or of any other person besides the prior mortgagee. The rule does not moreover say that Court can make such an order only on the application of the plaintiff or any specified person. The rule confers a general power on Court which Court can exercise so long as the conditions are satisfied on the application of anybody or even of its own motion. Where in a sale of the mortgaged properties in execution of a decree in a suit on a subsequent mortgage the prior mortgagee applied praying the properties be sold free of his prior mortgages. Held, that R. 12 applied to the case and that executing Court had power to grant the order prayed for. 157 I.C. 40=1935 M. 453. But see contra 41 L.W. 565=1935 M. 660=68 M.L.J. 738, where it was held that a prior mortgagee can himself make no application under R. 12. It is the decree-holder in the suit who alone can make the application; when he makes it, the prior mortgage, whose rights must be safeguarded, has to be consulted as to whether he prefers to have the sale subject to or free of his mortgage. It is not necessary that the decree should reserve rights admitted by the parties and order the sale to be subject to them. As to how a decree which omits to reserve such rights is to be construed, see 29 M. 84. A sale cannot be held subject to a puisne mortgage, whether the same is in favour of a third party or the decree-

first, in payment of all expenses incident to the sale or properly incurred in any attempted sale;

secondly, in payment of whatever is due to the prior mortgagee on account of the prior mortgage, and of costs, properly incurred in connection therewith;

thirdly, in payment of all interest due on account of the mortgage in consequence whereof the sale was directed, and of the costs of the suit in which the decree directing the sale was made;

fourthly, in payment of the principal money due on account of that mortgage; and lastly, the residue (if any) shall be paid to the person proving himself to be interested in the property sold, or if there are more such persons than one, then to such persons according to their respective interests therein or upon their joint receipt.

(2) Nothing in this rule or in rule 12 shall be deemed to affect the powers conferred by section 57 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882.

NOTES.

holder. 25 M. at 114. O. 34, R. 12 does not contemplate an enquiry in execution as to whether a person who is a stranger to the suit is a prior mortgagee or not. R. 12 contemplates the admitted existence of a prior mortgage and lays down the procedure for bringing mortgaged property to sale, the prior mortgagee being given the option of having the property sold subject to his mortgage or free of it. In the latter case, he is entitled to have his mortgage discharged out of the proceeds of the sale. R. 12 does not in any case empower the executing Court, whose primary duty is to execute, to go into a full enquiry into the claims of a person who is not a party to the suit, but who claims to be a prior mortgagee and applies under R. 12 for sale of the property free of his mortgage, in order that an order may be passed under the rule in his favour. 45 L. W. 646=1937 Mad. 554. Where a purchaser in a mortgage decree by a prior mortgagee to which the subsequent mortgagee was not a party is impleaded by the subsequent mortgagee in his suit and the property is sold at auction against him, he is bound by the proceedings in that suit. He might either avail himself of the provisions of Rr. 12 and 13 and claim that the property should be sold free from his encumbrance and that his amount should be paid to him in the first instance, or he may redeem the subsequent mortgage and prevent the sale of property. By allowing the property to be sold against him, he loses his right of redemption. If he does not avail himself of either of these rights and rests content with sale of the property taking place, subject to his previous mortgage, he can have no remedy except that of suing on the previous mortgage provided limitation has not expired. 147 I.C. 380=1934 A.L.J. 188=1934 A. 73. Order under R. 12 is not a decree—No appeal lies. See 45 L.W. 646=1937 Mad. 554.

O. 34, R. 13.—Rule applies to sales held free of prior mortgages and the principle of the rule applies also to the appropriation of sale proceeds held subject to a mortgage. 28 I.C. 691=25 M.L.J. 552. A puisne mortgagee who is not a party to the suit can claim the surplus sale proceeds. 90 I.C. 410. R. 13 does not apply to the case of a surety who is made liable for interest under a mortgage decree. The rule is meant to regulate the position as between the mortgagor and mortgagee and to protect the position of the mortgagee. Therefore when the mortgaged properties are sold under the decree, the surety cannot claim that the interest must be deemed to have been paid out of the sale proceeds under Cl. (3) of R. 13. The claim for interest due by the surety is a claim apart from the claim upon the mortgage. It is in reality a separate cause of action. The surety still remains liable to pay the interest due. 158 I.C. 126=1935 L. 334.

O. 34, R. 14: SCOPE.—See 1939 A. 579. This rule does not apply to consent decrees, because the mortgagor can waive the benefit of the rule. 157 I.C. 292=1935 N. 129. The protection which is given by O. 34, R. 14, can always be waived by the mortgagor. If the mortgagor waives his rights under the rule, although such waiver might not affect the position of persons deriving title from him, a creditor of the mortgagor who has attached the mortgaged property is not in a position to insist upon the provisions of the rule in spite of the waiver by the mortgagor. 41 C.W.N. 1133. The rule is really intended to create a prohibition to the mortgagee securing the sale of the mortgaged property without first bringing a suit for the sale thereof. 16 L. 640=1935 L. 672 (F. B.) And also to a creditor who has obtained a simple money decree in satisfaction of a claim arising under the mortgage to put the mortgaged property itself to sale in execution of his decree as long as the mortgage subsists. 1936 A.L.J. 692=1936 A. 663. The plain language of O. 34, R. 14 implies obviously that the claim arising under the mortgage must be a claim for which the mortgage is still enforceable and upon which a suit could be brought. Where a suit for sale on the basis of the mortgage has already been brought and a decree for sale has been refused, it is impossible to hold that in such a case the provisions of O. 34, R. 14 can have any application. 20 Pat. 751. Difference between the provisions of this rule and S. 99, T.P. Act is that by the repeal of S. 99, a mortgagee can sell the mortgaged property on a claim unconnected with the mortgage. See 1925 M.W. N. 907=49 M.L.J. 643; 33 M.L.J. 601=6 L.W. 701; also 35 B. 248=13 Bom.L. R. 245. This rule is an exception to O. 2, R. 2. The personal remedy under a personal covenant in a mortgage-deed cannot be had by sale of the property mortgaged. 63 I.C. 303; also 2 P.L.J. 55=38 I.C. 791. Where a lease back by a mortgagee is part of the same transaction of a usufructuary mortgage and is merely a piece of machinery for realising the interest on the mortgage, a suit for rent under that lease would in fact be a suit to realise the interest on the mortgage, and under the decree in such a suit the equity of redemption cannot be brought to sale unless the suit was actually framed as a suit on the mortgage. The fact that mortgage was executed on one day and the lease was on the next day has very little bearing on the question whether the two form part of the same transaction. 50 L.W. 677=1939 M.W. N. 1145=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 143. Where defendant brought a summary suit to enforce a charge which the mortgagors had created in his favour subsequent to the mortgage, but he omitted to sue on the mortgage or reserve his rights to do so, held, on a subsequent suit on the mortgage by the defendant, that the suit was barred by O. 2, R. 2; and that R. 14 did not apply as it was confined to mortgages of immovable property. 34 Bom.L.R. 1615. Where a mortgagee exempts a certain item of security from the mortgage suit and brings the remaining property to sale and on its being insufficient obtains a decree under O. 34, R. 6 it could be executed against the exempted item, as by the operation of O. 2,

R. 2 the mortgage security no longer exists; O. 34, R. 14 (1) is not a bar to the sale of such property, for the sub-rule cannot apply to a simple money decree under O. 34, R. 6. I.L.R. (1938) All. 466=1938 A.L.R. 423. The rule applies to enforcement of a charge for rent payable in money to the landlord by tenant. 39 M.L.J. 30=43 M. 786. See contra 48 I.C. 694=42 M. 114; 1927 C. 884=104 I.C. 353 (1)=55 C. 104. The rule does not apply to the case of a mortgage which did not or which could not come into operation. 55 I.C. 417. Nor to a consent decree in suit for dissolution of partnership, creating charge. 60 C. 1467=149 I.C. 224=1934 C. 327. Where the compromise in which the liability under the suit promissory note became merged created a mortgage or charge and the decree that followed related to the satisfaction of the claim arising under the mortgage or charge, held, that R. 14 applied even if it be assumed that mortgage or charge must precede the decree. 138 I. C. 603=1932 A.L.J. 486=1932 A. 439. An order directing security to pay does not amount to a decree for the payment of money within this rule. 38 I.C. 130. A sale in contravention of S. 99 is merely irregular and is valid unless set aside before confirmation. 97 I.C. 256. See also 11 O.W.N. 1403=1935 O. 183.

MEANING OF TERMS.—“Mortgagee” in this rule means the holder of a subsisting and effective mortgage. 39 A. 86=14 A.L.J. 902. The words “bringing the property to sale” include not only all the steps preliminary to sale but the sale itself. 41 I.C. 73=45 C. 530. Only sale should not be held, attachment in execution of money decree is not prohibited. 18 I.C. 201=4 O.L.J. 571.

CHARGE.—Rule applies only where the charge was created prior to decree. 46 I. C. 169; also 1925 M.W.N. 907=49 M.L. J. 643; and not where money decree itself creates charge, 36 Bom.L.R. 523=151 I.C. 96=1934 B. 241. See also 30 N.L.R. 325=150 I.C. 492=1934 N. 147. Where mortgagee pays Government revenue to protect his mortgage lien, his remedy is by suit under this order. 5 P.L.J. 248=1 P.L.T. 225. A charge created by will not compulsorily registrable, whose terms the auction-purchaser could not be cognizant of, cannot be enforced against the latter. 23 I.C. 867=1 O.L.J. 43.

CLAIM UNDER MORTGAGE.—A mortgagee granting lease of property to the mortgagor cannot bring to sale the property, under a rent decree based on the lease. A decree-holder seeking to execute his decree for costs of the Privy Council against the property offered as security must proceed by suit as it is a claim arising under the mortgage. 27 I.C. 365=19 C.W.N. 178. A decree-holder getting a money decree on a mortgage bond with a declaration of lien on the property cannot bring the property to sale but must sue on the basis of the declared lien. 40 I.C. 230=25 C.L.J. 354. A security bond for due performance of appellate decree can be enforced in execution. 18 I.C. 900=17 C.L.J. 267 (F.B.); also 1925 M.W.N. 907=49 M.L.J. 643; 149 I.C. 1104=1934 A.L.J. 865=1934 A. 524 (1). A mortgagee can very well purchase equity of redemption sold in execution of a money decree by a stranger. 43 I.C. 212=27 C.L.J. 431. A mortgagee can sell mortgaged property in execution, in a claim unconnected with the mortgage. 30 I.C. 988=42 C. 780; 18 P.R. 1916=33 I.C. 802; 20 I.C. 523=7 S.L.R. 11; 27 C.W.N. 38=37 C.L.J. 265. It is not sufficient if the claim is connected with the mortgage. It must also be one arising under the mortgage. Thus equity of redemption may be sold in execution of money decree obtained by mortgagee for payment of land revenue to save mortgaged property from revenue sale. 1935 R. 438. See also 1936 R. 47. O. 34, R. 14 can come into play obviously only if the mortgagee and the decree-holder can be identified as the same person or the same legal entity. Where a mortgage is executed in favour of a Hindu father, and afterwards a promissory note is executed by the mortgagor in favour of the son of the mortgagee for the amount of interest due under the mortgage, a decree obtained by the son on the promissory note can be executed by attachment and sale of the mortgaged properties. O. 34, R. 14 does not apply to such a case so as to bar the attachment and sale of the mortgaged properties in execution of the decree on the promissory note. The mortgagee (father) and the decree-holder (son) are two different persons, although both the mortgage money and the interest are due to the joint family of which the father and son are members. 49 L.W. 411. The word "mortgagee" in R. 14 of O. 34, Civil Procedure Code, is intended to mean the holder of a subsisting and effective mortgage which could still be set up by the mortgagee against the purchaser or would be purchaser of the mortgaged property. Hence where in a suit on a mortgage executed by the father of joint Hindu family, the sons impugn the validity of it, and the mortgagee abandons his claim on the mortgage and rests content with a simple money decree against the mortgagor, there is no subsisting mortgage after the decree and it is not open to the mortgagee to bring a separate suit for the enforcement of such a mortgage as provided by O. 34, R. 14. He is clearly entitled to attach the interest of the mortgagor and put it up for sale and O. 34, R. 14 is no bar to his so doing, for it has no application to the facts of this particular case. 1939 O.W.N. 227=1939 Oudh 126.

MONEY-DECREES.—Where in a suit for sale only a money-decree was passed, the mortgage having been held to be unenforceable, this rule does not bar sale in execution of the money-decree. 18 A.L.J. 677=42 A. 566; also (1937) 1 M.L.J. 469; 41 M.L.J. 150=14 L.W. 331=62 I.C. 756; 19 A.L.J. 728=43 A. 677. Where therefore in a suit on a mortgage executed by a Hindu father the sons successfully impeach the mortgage as having been made without legal necessity or other justifying cause and a simple money decree is passed against the father, R. 14 is no bar to the decree-holder obtaining satisfaction of his decree by attachment and sale of the property covered by the mortgage-deed. 157 I.C. 1010=1935 A. 507; so also where it is found that amount claimed is not charged on mortgaged property, and money decree above is granted. 1936 A. 8=1935 A.L.J. 407. getting a preliminary decree for sale as contemplated by O. 34, R. 14. The rule does not apply to a case where a money decree is given under a different mortgage. 49 B. 208=27 Bom.L.R. 202; 1931 A.L.J. 159=1931 A. 350. Where the whole of the property mortgaged was leased to the mortgagor by the mortgagee, a decree for arrears of rent represents in substance the usufruct of the mortgaged property and the decree is a decree which the mortgagee has obtained for the payment of money in satisfaction of a claim arising under the mortgage. So, he could not by reason of the provisions of R. 14 attach the property and put the same up for sale. 1936 A.L.J. 1218=1936 A. 708. See also 40 C.W.N. 343. A maintenance decree-holder can proceed in execution against the property charged under the maintenance decree. 47 I.C. 630=23 M.L.T. 355; also 6 P.L.T. 802=4 P. 693. See also 12 P. 359=145 I.C. 1=1933 P. 306. Even a decree-holder attaching a maintenance decree with charge, is entitled in execution to bring the charged property to sale. 148 I.C. 196=1934 N. 83. Under this rule property given as security in a compromise decree could not be subject to sale in execution of the decree. 37 I.C. 397. Where a money decree is ordered to be paid in instalments on the judgment-debtor executing a security bond hypothecating immovable property for the satisfaction of the decree and default is committed in the payment of instalments, the hypothecated property can be sold in execution of the decree and a fresh suit is not necessary. 15 P. 545=1936 P. 289. The rule does not prevent sale of the mortgaged property of a surety under a compromise decree where the suit was for money. 38 A. 327=14 A.L.J. 385. Where security is given to a Court itself, a fresh suit upon the security is not necessary. The security can be realised in execution. 30 C.W.N. 683=95 I.C. 908=1926 C. 889. Where a security bond is executed to get a stay of execution of a simple money decree, and the amount is not paid as agreed, the property can be sold without having recourse to a separate suit. O. 34, R. 14 does not apply to such a case, as there is no decree for payment of money in satisfaction of any claim on any mortgage. 1940 A.L.J. 164=1940 All. 196. The defendant executed a security bond whereby he undertook to pay on behalf of another and he also undertook that if he failed to pay, the properties mentioned in schedule attached to the bond were to be security and the plaintiff was to have first charge over them. The deed was duly registered. The amount was not paid by both and plaintiff sued defendant for payment of the amount and on non-payment, sale of land offered as security was asked for. Court gave only a money decree and plaintiff applied in execution for attachment and sale of property. Defendant objected that the properties cannot be sold except by a suit under R. 14, for enforcement of mortgage. Held, that the suit of the plaintiff must be considered as a suit on a mortgage, that as the relief as to sale of property was refused in the suit, a suit under R. 14 would be barred under Expl. 5, S. 11, that the mortgage was not existing after refusal of such relief and that plaintiff was entitled to have the decree executed by attachment and sale. 145 I.C. 373=1933 R. 158. R. 14 relieves a plaintiff from the bar of res judicata contained in O. 2, R. 2 but not the bar under S. 11. 145 I.C. 373=1933 R. 158. An arrangement for maintenance payable by a zemindar and his heirs to the junior members creates a charge on the assets of the Zemindary. 42 M. 581=36 M.L.J. 164=23 C.W.N. 549 (P.C.). The limitation period to set aside sale in contravention of this rule is three years. 1920 P. H.C.C. 259. Cf. 41 I.C. 533=2 P.L.J. 587. Where a person hypothecates his properties as security for mesne profits that might be awarded by an appellate Court and executes a bond without naming the obligee, a suit to enforce the obligation against the surety is not maintainable. The remedy is by application in the original suit itself to make the surety a party and pass a decree against him for mesne profits. 42 A. 158=46 I.A. 228=33 M.L.J. 302 (P.C.). By reason of the provisions of O. 34, R. 14 read with R. 15, C.P. Code, a chargee may bring a suit to recover the money charged on immovable property and may subsequently bring a suit to bring that immovable property to sale in satisfaction of his decree. A chargee cannot, on obtaining a money decree, execute that decree against the charged property. He must by a subsequent suit bring the charged property to sale. O. 34, R. 14 and 15 are an exception to the general rule laid down in O. 2, R. 2. 21 Pat.L.T. 262=1940 Pat. 283.

O. 34, R. 15.—A charge is not exactly identical with a mortgage, and although a similar remedy is available, a suit for the enforcement of a charge is not necessarily the same as a suit for sale on the basis of a mortgage deed. apply in the case of a single charge because, by reason of the sale, all dues on the charge would usually be liquidated either by the sale proceeds or by means of a personal decree under O. 34, R. 6. In the case of a recurring charge however, even although the charged property might be sold in execution of a decree for arrears payable in respect of the sum charged, the liability in respect of future payments would ordinarily remain after the sale and would not be extinguished by the sale of the charged property in satisfaction of a decree for arrears which might have already accrued. In such a case the charge will not be extinguished by the sale and, as a charge is attached to the property charged, the auction-purchaser would ordinarily get the purchased property subject to the charge. Where in a suit for the recovery of money, defendants accept a personal decree against themselves, and submit to a declaration in the decree that a portion of their immovable property should be charged for payment of the decretal amount, the decree is nothing but a personal decree, and although it also creates a charge, it cannot be regarded as a decree under O. 34. 150 I.C. 95=1934 N. 140. In a suit on promissory note oral agreement as to payment of interest cannot be set up to obtain a decree thereon. 49 C. 716=1922 C. 513. Where in a suit on a pro-note under O. 37, defendant applies for leave to appear and defend the suit, and Court doubts the sincerity of the defence, it should grant leave on condition that he should pay into Court the amount claimed. 60 I.C. 639=12 L.W. 712. In summary suits under O. 37, it is impossible to go into partnership accounts and so the plea that it is part of partnership account cannot be raised. 9 I.C. 299. Cl. (e) to R. 1, added by Lahore High Court, is not ultra vires. 8 L. 156=9 Lah. L.J. 57=1927 L. 174. Subordinate Judge invested with Small Cause powers has not, when exercising those powers, authority to act under R. 1. 51 M. 491=55 M.L.J. 114=1928 M. 517.

O. 37, R. 2.—The effect of R. 2 is that if Judge refuses leave to defend or gives leave on terms which defendant is not able to comply with, the plaint is taken to be admitted and plaintiff becomes automatically entitled to a decree. So such an order is a 'judgment' within the meaning of cl. 15 of the Letters Patent and an appeal lies therefrom. 34 Bom.L.R. 252=1932 B. 163. The acceptor, drawer and endorser may be sued in one suit. 16 C. 804. The operation of S. 80 of the Negotiable Instruments Act is not excluded by this rule. On the other hand, it makes S. 79 or 80 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, as the case may be, specifically applicable to a case filed under O. 37 of the Code. Where a person claimed in the plaint 33½ per cent. interest on instruments of debt which contained no agreement as to the exact rate of interest, held, interest should be awarded at the rate of 6 per cent. from the date of hundies to the date of decree and subsequent interest also at the same rate thereafter. 56 M. 398=1933 M. 299=64 M.L.J. 117. Interest cannot be recovered unless specified in the note and no evidence regarding any agreement to pay can be given. 30 C. 446. O. 37 contains provision for summary procedure, which is antagonistic to an investigation of claims to a set-off, unless of the clearest description. 49 I.C. 193=12 S.L.R. 70. An affidavit in support of an application for leave to defend as required must disclose facts sufficient to support the application. 49 I.C. 193. Firm being sued—Partner entering appearance should obtain leave to defend. 50 B. 666=1926 B. 585. (2) In any case in which the plaintiff and summons are in such forms, respectively the defendant shall not appear or defend the suit unless he obtains leave from a Judge as hereinafter provided so to appear and defend; and, in default of his obtaining such leave or of his appearance and defence in pursuance thereof, the allegations in the plaintiff shall be deemed to be admitted, and the plaintiff shall be entitled to a decree—

(b) for such subsequent interest, if any, as the Court may order under section 34 of this Code; and

(c) for such sum for costs as may be prescribed:

Provided that, if the plaintiff claims more than such fixed sum for costs, the costs shall be ascertained in the ordinary way.

(3) A decree passed under this rule may be executed forthwith.]

LOC. AM.—[BOMBAY.] The following shall be substituted for sub-rr. (1) and (2) of r. 2:—

"2. (1) All suits upon bills of exchange, hundis or promissory notes and all suits in which the plaintiff seeks only to recover a debt or liquidated demand in money payable by the defendant with or without interest, arising on contract express or implied or on an enactment where the sums ought to be recovered is a fixed sum of money or in the nature of a debt other than a penalty, or on a guarantee, where the claim against the principal is in respect of a debt or a liquidated demand only, or in suits in which the landlord seeks to recover possession of immovable property, with or without a claim for rent or mesne profits against a tenant whose term has expired or has been duly determined by notice to quit, or has become liable to forfeiture for non-payment of rent or against persons claiming under such tenant may, in case the plaintiff desires to proceed hereunder be instituted by presenting a plaint in the form prescribed, but the summons shall be in Form No. 4 in Appendix B or in such other form as may be from time to time prescribed.

(2) In any case in which the plaintiff and summons are in such forms respectively, the defendant shall not defend the suit unless he enters an appearance and obtains leave from a Judge as hereinafter provided so to defend, and in default of his entering an appearance and of his obtaining such leave to defend, the allegations in the plaintiff shall be deemed to be admitted, and the plaintiff shall be entitled to a decree for possession and/or as the case may be for any sum not exceeding the sum mentioned in the summons, together with interest at the rate specified (if any) to the date of the decree, and such sum for costs as may be prescribed, unless the plaintiff claims more than such fixed sum, in which case the costs shall be ascertained in the ordinary way, and such decree may be executed forthwith."

[RANGOON.] In O. 37, r. 2, sub-r. (2) the following shall be inserted after the words "pursuance thereof":—

"Or of his applying for such leave within ten days from the service of the summons on him and on proof that the summons was duly served on him more than ten days before."

3. (1) The Court shall, upon application by the defendant, give leave to Defendant showing defence appear and to defend the suit, upon affidavits which on merits to have leave to disclose such facts as would make it incumbent on the appear. holder to prove consideration, or such other facts as the Court may deem sufficient to support the application.

LEG. REF.

¹ These words were substituted by Act XXX of 1926.

NOTES.

Small Cause Courts Act, S. 22. 56 C. 484 = 33 C.W.N. 95 = 1929 C. 560. In a suit on a promissory note the plaintiff referred to the pledges in respect of the jewellery for payment of money due in respect of the promissory note but asked leave under O. 2, R. 2 to reserve his right as such pledgee. The defendant applied for leave to defend on the ground that since the execution of the promissory note various amounts had been paid in satisfaction and that upon proper account being taken it would be found that the amount claimed was in excess of the amount due. Held, that leave to defend be granted on the defendant giving security for costs only. 1936 C. 476.

INSTALMENT ORDER—JURISDICTION TO HEAR DEFENDANT.—At the time of passing a decree under R. 2, Court has jurisdiction to hear defendant on the question whether or not the amount held to be due from him should be made payable by instalments. The effect of R. 2 is not to abrogate the jurisdiction of Court which it otherwise possesses in respect of it. 11 R. 424 = 1933 R. 245.

O. 37, R. 3: LEAVE TO DEFEND—GRANT OF —TEST.—The question to be considered on an application under R. 3 is whether or not

(2) Leave to defend may be given unconditionally or subject to such terms as to payment into Court, giving security, framing and recording issues or otherwise as the Court thinks fit.

LOC. AMS.—[BOMBAY.] The following shall be substituted for r. 3 :—

"3. (1) The plaintiff shall together with the writ of summons under r. 2 serve on the defendant a copy of the plaint and exhibits thereto, and the defendant may at any time within ten days of such service enter appearance. The defendant may enter an appearance either in person or by an attorney. In either case an address for service shall be given in the memorandum of appearance, and unless otherwise ordered all summons, notices, or other judicial process required to be served on the defendant shall be deemed to have been duly served on him if left at his address for service. On the day of entering appearance, notice of the appearance shall be given to the plaintiff's attorney (or if the plaintiff sues in person to the plaintiff himself) either by notice delivered, at or sent by prepaid letter directed to, the address of the plaintiff's attorney or of the plaintiff as the case may be.

(2) If the defendant enters an appearance the plaintiff shall thereafter serve on the defendant a summons for judgment returnable not less than ten clear days from the date of service supported by an affidavit verifying the cause of action and the amount claimed and stating that in his belief there is no defence to the suit.

a triable issue is disclosed by defendants on affidavit or otherwise; a triable issue meaning a plea which is at least plausible. Once Court comes to the conclusion that there is a triable issue in the case, it must grant leave to defend without requiring defendant either to pay the amount claimed into Court or to furnish security therefor; such a condition must be imposed only in exceptional cases where, for instance, there appears to be so grave suspicion that Court comes to the conclusion that the defence is put in only in order to obtain further time. Held, on facts, that leave to defend must be granted but that as there was a strong suspicion in the mind of Judge with regard to a part of the defence raised, he was asked to furnish security to the extent of half of plaintiff's claim. 1934 S. 191. Where, in a suit on hundies, defendant himself showed that the hundies were not without consideration, held, that he could not be granted leave to defend the suit. 145 I.C. 725=1933 L. 440. Where the Court is not satisfied with the bona fides of the defendant, and vague and indefinite assertions have been made by him to gain time, it is open to the Court to grant leave to defend only conditionally, i.e., on the defendant paying into Court the amount claimed. 165 I.C. 166=1936 L. 584. See also 60 I.C. 639=12 L.W. 712.

LEAVE TO DEFEND—WHEN TO BE UNCONDITIONAL—TRIALE ISSUE—MEANING OF.—If a defendant in a summary suit sets up a defence in his affidavit in support of his application for leave to defend, which, if he should succeed in proving, would entitle him to succeed in the suit, the Master or the Court hearing the application has no discretion in the matter, and unconditional leave to defend must be granted. A triable issue in such a case has been raised, and it is not open to the Master or anybody else other than trial Judge to go into the merits and find out whether the case of the defendant is true. 58 M. 116=68 M.L.J. 16. In a summary suit, if the defendant raises a triable issue, he must be given an opportunity to have his case tried, but at the same time the plaintiff should not suffer by any concession

REVISION.—It will not be right to crystallise into rules of law the circumstance under which the Court, in the exercise of the discretion vested in it by R. 3 (2), can demand security. If in any particular case High Court is satisfied that the discretion has been arbitrarily or perversely exercised, it will interfere in revision. 43 L.W. 298=1936 M. 246=70 M.L.J. 241.

O. 37, Rr. 3 and 4.—Ex parte decree in summary suit—Remedy of defendant not obtaining leave to defend. 11 I. C. 433. High Court has power to extend time within which a defendant can come in and obtain leave to defend. 3 C. 539; 18 B. 717; 6 Beng.L.R. App. 64. Where defendant shows a defence apparently real, leave to appear and defend will be granted. 6 Beng. L.R. App. 64. Application under R. 3—Question to be decided is whether there is triable issue between the parties and where it exists leave should be granted without requiring deposit or security from defendant. 98 I.C. 72=1927 S. 60. Summary suit on a bill of exchange—Counter-claim for damages. 120 I.C. 528. Where money is deposited by a defendant as a condition precedent to the setting aside of a decree under the rule, the decretal amount is a charge on the deposit if final judgment is passed against the defendant. Court is not competent to enquire into the ownership of the money deposited. 38 I.C. 481=32 M.L.J. 503. An order charging the property of an insolvent-debtor for the re-payment of plaintiff's claim on condition of granting permission to defend his suit is a permanent charge till re-payment of claim. 58 I.C. 10=24 C.W.N. 401. Summary suit—Leave to defend granted on condition of furnishing security—Condition not fulfilled—Ex parte decree—Same if appealable—Propriety of interlocutory order whether can be challenged. 32 Bom.L.R. 660=125 I.C. 438=1930 B. 364.

APPEAL.—An appeal lies from an order refusing to set aside an ex parte decree. 2 B. 644. See 42 C. 735.

(3) The defendant may at any time within ten days from the service of such summons for judgment by affidavit or otherwise disclosing such facts as may be deemed sufficient to entitle him to defend, apply on such summons for leave to defend the suit. Leave to defend may be granted to him unconditionally or upon such terms as to the Judge appear just.

(4) At the hearing of such summons for judgment if (a) the defendant has not applied for leave to defend or if such application has been made and is refused, the plaintiff shall be entitled to judgment forthwith, or if (b) the defendant be permitted to defend as to the whole or any part of the claim the Judge shall direct that on failure to complete the security (if any) or to carry out such other directions as the Judge may have given within the time limited in the order, the plaintiff shall be entitled to the judgment forthwith."

[LAHORE.] In r. 3 the following sub-rule (3) shall be inserted:—

"(3) The provisions of S. 5 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1908, shall apply to applications under sub-rule (1)."

4. After decree the Court may, under special circumstances, set aside the decree, and if necessary stay or set aside execution, and may give leave to the defendant to appear to the summons and to defend the suit, if it seems reasonable to the Court so to do, and on such terms as the Court thinks fit.

5. In any proceeding under this Order the Court may order the bill, hundi or note on which the suit is founded to be forthwith deposited with an officer of the Court, and may further order that all proceedings shall be stayed until the plaintiff gives security for the costs thereof.

6. The holder of every dishonoured bill of exchange or promissory note shall have the same remedies for the recovery of the expenses incurred in noting the same for non-acceptance or non-payment, or otherwise, by reason of such dishonour, as he has under this Order for the recovery of the amount of such bill or note.

7. Save as provided by this Order, the procedure in suits hereunder shall be the same as the procedure in suits instituted in the ordinary manner.

ORDER XXXVIII.

ARREST AND ATTACHMENT BEFORE JUDGMENT.

Arrest before Judgment.

1. Where at any stage of a suit, other than a suit of the nature referred to in section 16, clauses (a) to (d), the Court is satisfied, by affidavit or otherwise,—

Where defendant may be called upon to furnish security for appearance.

NOTES.

O. 37, R. 4.—An order rejecting an application under this rule is not appealable. An appeal is competent from the decree passed under O. 37 and the rejection of an application under R. 4 could also form a ground of appeal preferred against the decree passed. 39 P.L.R.J. & K. 11. See also 42 Cal. 735. Each partner has a right to apply for leave to defend where a suit is brought against a firm under O. 37. There is, of course, a period of limitation for such application but in a case where it is shown that a partner was deprived of an opportunity for applying for leave to defend, the Court ought to exercise its power under O. 37, R. 4, by setting aside the decree, restoring the suit and allowing leave to defend. 42 C.W.N. 820.

O. 38, R. 1.—An application in writing to enforce an award under Sch. II, para. 20, becomes a suit for the purposes of O. 38 dealing with attachment before judgment. 1927 B. 259=29 Bom.L.R. 342=101 I.C. 430. Arrest before judgment—Security for appearance—Order when to be passed—Principles guiding in passing orders. See 50 M. 27=1926 M. 584=50 M.L.J. 348.

SCOPE AND OBJECT OF.—The object of the surety bond under this rule is to secure the rights of judgment-creditor. Government is not interested in the proceedings in any way. 28 I.C. 92=8 S.L.R. 270. Small Cause Court cannot attach immovable property. 28 C.W.N. 16=1924 C. 193. Rulings to the contrary are not now good law. See now Act I of 1926. Mere fact that an appeal is pending against a decree is no reason for not enforcing execution by arrest when the execution has not been stayed. 1924 L. 360.

MORTGAGEE, RIGHT OF.—A mortgagee cannot obtain an order for attachment before

(a) that the defendant, with intent to delay the plaintiff, or to avoid any process of the Court or to obstruct or delay the execution of any decree that may be passed against him,—

(i) has absconded or left the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, or

(ii) is about to abscond or leave the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, or

(iii) has disposed of or removed from the local limits of the jurisdiction of the court his property or any part thereof, or

(b) that the defendant is about to leave British India under circumstances affording reasonable probability that the plaintiff will or may thereby be obstructed or delayed in the execution of any decree that may be passed against the defendant in the suit, the Court may issue a warrant to arrest the defendant and bring him before the Court to show cause why he should not furnish security for his appearance.

Provided that the defendant shall not be arrested if he pays to the officer entrusted with the execution of the warrant any sum specified in the warrant as sufficient to satisfy the plaintiff's claim; and such sum shall be held in deposit by the Court until the suit is disposed of or until the further order of the Court.

2. (1) Where the defendant fails to show such cause the Court shall order him either to deposit in Court money or other property sufficient to answer the claim against him, or to furnish security for his appearance at any time when called upon while the suit is pending and until satisfaction of any decree that may be passed against him in the suit, or judgment of the mortgagor's other properties, simply on the ground that mortgagor had suffered his other properties to be sold in execution of other decrees for payment of Government Revenue. He must show that mortgagor had been deliberately and fraudulently effecting sales or mortgages of his other properties with a view to defeat mortgagee's right to personal decree. 36 C.W. N. 746=1932 C. 790. See also 33 Bom.L. R. 514=1931 B. 329; 3 P. 966; 46 C. 245; 16 A. 186.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—Where the master of a vessel is sued for repairs done to the vessel, and he is about to leave the jurisdiction of Court with the vessel, he can be arrested under this rule. 14 C. 695. An officer proceeding from Burma to England on leave, and who resides for a few days at Madras can also be arrested. 8 M. 205. Minor defendant without guardian—Conditional order of attachment of property is valid. 106 I.C. 142=1928 M. 1.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES FOR MALICIOUS ATTACHMENT.—Where an application to vacate order for attachment before judgment was not prosecuted to its conclusion, no suit for malicious attachment is maintainable as long as the original order of attachment had not been set aside. 59 C. 1073=36 C. W. N. 447=1932 C. 821. Injunction restraining alienation of properties—Prejudice to business capacity and loss of faith in credit not grounds for award of damages. 59 C. 1082=36 C.W.N. 323=1932 C. 695.

O. 38, R. 2.—Where a warrant of arrest is ordered under R. 1 and the person proceeded against offers to furnish security, the security should be limited to the amount claimed. 56 C. 700=1929 C. 732. The return of a plaint in suit on the ground that the Court has no jurisdiction terminates the litigation and the re-presentation of the plaint in a different Court in effect starts a fresh litigation on the same cause of action. Where a surety executes a bond undertaking to be responsible for the appearance of the defendant in an application for arrest of the defendant before judgment in a suit, and the plaint is subsequently returned for presentation to another Court having jurisdiction, the bond cannot be taken to cover the subsequent suit started by the re-presentation of the plaint to the Court having jurisdiction. It makes no difference that the plaint returned by the small cause side of a Court is re-presented to the original side of the same Court. Since there has been a change in proceedings, that change on the principle of S. 133 of the Contract Act discharges the surety. 50 L. W. 426=A.I.R. 1939 Mad. 933=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 816. Where a surety under R. 2 gave a bond to produce defendant when called upon to produce him and plaintiff decreeholder having made his application against the surety the latter produced defendant in Court but it appeared that defendant had previously applied for being adjudicated an insolvent and had obtained exemption from arrest, held, that the surety satisfied the condition of his bond when he produced defendant in Court and he was under no legal liability to see that he was in an attachable condition. 38 L.W. 832=65 M.L.J. 793=1934 M. 24. A surety bond which provides that the liability of the surety extends to paying the amount claimed in the suit in the event of a decree being passed is not illegal. 115 I.C. 244 (1). Money paid into Court make such order as it thinks fit in regard to the sum which may have been paid by the defendant under the proviso to the last preceding rule.

(2) Every surety for the appearance of a defendant shall bind himself, in default of such appearance, to pay any sum of money which the defendant may be ordered to pay in the suit.

3. (1) A surety for the appearance of a defendant may at any time apply to the Court in which he became such surety to be discharged from his obligation.

(2) On such application being made, the Court shall summon the defendant to appear or, if it thinks fit, may issue a warrant for his arrest in the first instance.

(3) On the appearance of the defendant in pursuance of the summons or warrant, or on his voluntary surrender, the Court shall direct the surety to be discharged from his obligation, and shall call upon the defendant to find fresh security.

4. Where the defendant fails to comply with any order under rule 2 or rule 3, the Court may commit him to the civil prison until the decision of the suit or, where a decree is passed against the defendant, until the decree has been satisfied :

Procedure where defendant fails to furnish security or find fresh security.

Provided that no person shall be detained in prison under this rule in any case for a longer period than six months, nor for a longer period than six weeks when the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit does not exceed fifty rupees :

Provided also that no person shall be detained in prison under this rule after he has complied with such order.

5. (1) Where, at any stage of a suit, the Court is satisfied, by affidavit or otherwise, that the defendant, with intent to obstruct or delay the execution of any decree that may be passed against him,—

Where defendant may be called upon to furnish security for production of property.

by a defendant arrested before judgment sufficient to answer the plaintiff's claim, is ear-marked for the suit and is subject to the lien of the plaintiff for his decree amount in case he succeeds. 41 M. 1053=36 M.L.J. 355. His lien subsists even when the claim of decree-holder is disallowed but subsequently upheld in appeal. 97 I.C. 1020=51 M. L.J. 436=1926 M. 1104. Insolvency of defendant before decree does not vest the money in Official Receiver. 51 M.L.J. 436. The case is different if security is given for the appearance of defendant. (39 M. 903; 29 B. 405, Dist.) 51 M.L.J. 436, O. 21, R. 63 requires a claimant whose objection to an attachment before judgment has been disallowed to bring a suit on his title within the period prescribed by Art. 11. (41 M. 23, overruled.) 41 M. 849=35 M.L.J. 231 (F.B.).

O. 38, R. 3.—Section 135 of the Contract Act has no application to the case of a surety under this rule and his obligation continues even though the parties to the suit entered into a compromise on the strength of which a decree was passed by the Court. 37 M.L.J. 435=43 M. 272. tor not to leave the Court—Legality. 1929 L. 163. Surety's application for discharge—Production of judgment-debtor—Withdrawal of application of discharge—Subsequent insolvency of judgment-debtor—Surety not discharged from his obligations. 6 R. 241=1928 R. 184=111 I.C. 15.

O. 38, R. 4.—Imprisonment under this rule becomes after decree, imprisonment in execution of a decree. 7 B. 431. Where in execution of a money decree, the share of a Hindu co-parcener in the family property was attached during his lifetime and brought to sale after his death his interest passes to the auction-purchaser and precludes the title arising from survivorship. O. 38, R. 5: SCOPE OF RULE.—Application to restrain person temporarily from withdrawing amount at his credit and Court's order thereon are really for attachment before judgment. 16 I.C. 473; 1929 R. 94. It is essential that plaintiff must make out a prima facie case before any attachment before judgment or an injunction can be granted. Court must be satisfied that interference is necessary to prevent injury which is

(a) is about to dispose of the whole or any part of his property, or irreparable, and that the mischief or inconvenience likely to arise in consequence of refusal will be greater than that from granting it. Neither an attachment nor an injunction should be lightly granted. It is only where it is essential that property should be kept in its existing condition pending the suit that the Court should interfere under O. 38, R. 5 (1) or under O. 39, R. 1. 61 C. 814=38 C.W.N. 771=1934 C. 694. O. 38, R. 5 sets out the conditions necessary to be fulfilled before an attachment before judgment can issue. The Court must be satisfied that a defendant is about to transfer his property in order to defeat or delay the interests of the creditor, who seeks to obtain a decree against the debtor concerned. Where a debtor had transferred more than 80 per cent. of his property including his residential house and had also changed the name of his firm, it was held that the circumstances justified an order under O. 38, R. 5. 1941 A.M.L.J. 30. Before the power under O. 38, R. 5 is exercised, the Court must be satisfied that transfers are going to be made by the defendant after the suit has been filed and that such transfers are made with the object of frustrating the plaintiff, if he wins the suit, in executing the decree. Mere allegations to that effect are of no avail, the facts have to be positively proved by satisfactory evidence. Though for the purpose of finding out the intention with which transfers are going to be effected by the defendant, previous transactions may be referred to, they must be transactions subsequent to the filing of the suit. The applicant for attachment must adduce evidence to show what properties are going to be transferred, to whom they are going to be transferred, and under what circumstances. 17 Pat. 89=19 Pat.L.T. 492=1938 Pat. 161. See also I.L.R. (1941) Kar. 362=1941 Sind 178. Attachment before judgment confers no right on the party who obtains the order of attachment. 37 A. 578=13 A.L.J. 732; 151 I.C. 317=59 C.L.J. 18=1934 C. 426. Nor does it give any interest in the attached property. 30 I.C. 38=21 C.L.J. 614. A person gets no rights through his attachment before judgment, if the defendant is adjudicated insolvent after the attachment but before the decree and the property vests in Official Receiver. 117 I. 145=1930 S. 127. Where during pendency of a suit defendant agreed and paid a certain amount into the hands of plaintiff's pleader in part satisfaction of the money to which plaintiff may become entitled and plaintiff subsequently obtained a decree but meanwhile another creditor filed an application in insolvency and defendant was adjudged insolvent after the decree in the earlier suit had been made. Held, that the money deposited with plaintiff's pleader in the earlier suit did not form part of the assets of the insolvent and original plaintiff was entitled to appropriate the same towards his decree. 145 I.C. 826=37 C.W.N. 475=1933 C. 625. The property may be movable or immovable and it is immaterial whether it is in the actual possession of defendant or of some other person on his behalf. 17 A. 82; 9 Bom.L.R. 540. A conditional order of attachment that simply prevents the property from alienation by the minors pending the disposal of the application for appointment of a guardian is not invalid merely because the guardian proposed appears in Court and says he is unwilling to act. 106 I.C. 142=1928 M. 1.

ORDER FOR ATTACHMENT UNDER—GROUNDS FOR—PROOF OF PRESENT INTENTION.—In an application for an attachment before judgment under R. 5 (1), plaintiff must thoroughly satisfy Court that defendant intends to obstruct or delay the execution of any decree that might be passed against him or with such intent is about to dispose of his property. Mere vague allegations are not sufficient; nor would the mere fact that defendant has in the past mortgaged or disposed of his property be a sufficient ground for levying attachment. There must be a present intention. Where the affidavit in support of application for attachment is sworn not by plaintiff himself, but by an employee of his, who states that defendant is trying to or is about to dispose of his properties with intent to obstruct and delay the execution of the decree, and that the statements are based partly on information and partly on belief—without stating which are based on belief, and which on information held, that the affidavit was defective and inadequate, and that the attachment was rightly refused. Under R. 5 (1), the Court may be satisfied "otherwise", i.e., from admissions in the objections filed by the defendant, if there are such admissions. 61 C. 814=38 C.W.N. 771=1934 C. 694=38 P. L.R. 772=1936 L. 33. It is doubtful if circumstances would ever arise which would justify Court in allowing an order of attachment in respect of property under the control of the Court of Wards. 150 I.C. 1142=1934 N. 169 (2). Where it was alleged that defendant company were realising their assets to prevent satisfaction of plaintiff's claim, held, that it was a fit case to order attachment before judgment. 148 I.C. 719=1934 L. 594. NOTICE TO PARTY—FORM OF NOTICE.—Issue of notice to defendant is absolutely necessary before an order is passed. Where no notice is issued, no foundation is laid for an action under R. 5 (3). Before passing the order of attachment before judgment, the Court must faithfully and strictly carry out the stringent procedure as laid down in R. 5 and no short cuts are permissible. 38 P.L.R. 772=1936 L. 33. Even if there is no appeal against the order, the Court may treat the memorandum of appeal as an application for revision, and can interfere on the ground that the order of the Court below is unjust and unfair and was passed in the defiance of the legal procedure prescribed by the Code. 1936 L. 33. Notice to the party under R. 5 should be sent on Form No. 5, Appendix F. Issuing notice on the general form merely directing the defendant to appear on the date fixed and show cause against the application and informing that if he did not appear and show cause the application would be disposed of in his absence amounts to an irregularity and is objectionable though not necessarily wholly ultra vires or void ab initio. 148 I.C. 509=1934 A. 456. The wording of O. 38, R. 5 and of Form No. 5 in Appendix F to the Code, shows that the legislature intended that the notice to the defendant to furnish security or to show cause against it and the order for the conditional attachment of his property should be issued simultaneously and in one and the same form. Where, therefore, the notice issued under that rule only directed defendant to show cause why the application for attachment before judgment should not be allowed and it did not appear that any notice was to be (or in fact), issued to him about the furnishing of security, held, that the warrant was illegal, the resistance whereto was no offence under S. 186 of the Penal Code. Held, further, that even if a notice relating to security was in fact issued to defendant, as it was not consolidated with the order of attachment, the requirements of law were not fulfilled. 146 I.C. 183=1933 A.L.J. 932=1933 A. 759. If there is no publication of attachment in the form laid down under O. 21, R. 54, namely in Form No. 24 of Appendix E, there is no valid attachment. 65 C.L.J. 329=A.I.R. 1937 Cal. 375.

MEANING OF WORDS.—The words "to produce and place at the disposal of the Court" refer only to such property as is capable of being produced in Court. 17 A. 82. "Is satisfied", meaning of. 13 C.L.R. 356; 16 A. at 188.

MORTGAGE SUIT.—In a mortgage suit, plaintiffs, sometime after applying for final decree, and before final decree was in fact passed, applied for attachment before judgment of the defendant's properties on the ground that he was about to dispose of his other properties in order to defeat the personal decree that may be passed against him under R. 6. Held, that the application was maintainable at that stage. 1933 A.L.J. 37=1933 A. 191. As to power of Court to order attachment before judgment of mortgagor's other properties, see 33 Bom. L.R. 514=1931 B. 329. (3 P. 966; 46 C. 245; 16 A. 186, Foll.) See also 140 I.C. 457=36 C.W.N. 746=1932 C. 790. Where a plaintiff in a mortgage suit has no right in a personal decree he cannot apply for enforcement of personal remedies. His remedy is limited to bringing the mortgaged property to sale and he can only obtain a remedy from the date of the auction sale. Until that auction sale he has no right to take possession of the property or any income of the property. Under those circumstances Court has no jurisdiction to appoint a receiver under O. 40 or pass an order of attachment before judgment under O. 38, R. 5 or a temporary injunction under O. 39. 150 I.C. 1035=1934 A.L.J. 561=1934 A. 772. See also 146 I.C. 338=1933 A.L.J. 1269=1933 A. 557. PROPERTY OUTSIDE JURISDICTION can be the subject-matter of an order of attachment before judgment. 9 R. 561=1932 R. 279. The word "property" in O. 38, R. 5 means property already in existence, belonging to and at the disposal of the defendant. A salary which has not yet been earned or paid, cannot be 'disposed' of until it has at least become payable. It is, therefore, clearly illegal to attach before judgment a moiety of the salary of a public servant or of any employee until it has accrued. 1937 Rang. L.R. 108=A.I.R. 1937 Rang. 292.

FOREIGN STATE PROPERTY in Civil Court constituted under Order in Council under Foreign Jurisdiction Act is not competent to attach before judgment movable property of a defendant British subject which is in a foreign State. 134 I.C. 822=1931 L. 723.

(b) is about to remove the whole or any part of his property from the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, the Court may direct the defendant, within a time to be fixed by it, either to furnish security, in such sum as may be specified in the order, to produce and place at the disposal of the Court, when required, the said property or the value of the same, or such portion thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the decree, or to appear and show cause why he should not furnish security.

(2) The plaintiff shall, unless the Court otherwise directs, specify the property required to be attached and the estimated value thereof.

(3) The Court may also in the order direct the conditional attachment of the whole or any portion of the property so specified.

6. (1) Where the defendant fails to show cause why he should not furnish security, or fails to furnish the security required, within the time fixed by the Court, the Court may order that the property specified, or such portion thereof as appears sufficient to satisfy any decree which may be passed in the suit, be attached.

APPEAL.—Order rejecting application for attachment—Absence of conditional order—Appeal from order rejecting—Maintainability. See 14 Pat. 1. The Code does not contemplate appeal from order directing the defendant to furnish security. 50 C. 215=1923 C. 639. Appeal lies from order of attachment made under O. 6. 50 C. 215. Where application for attachment before judgment is dismissed by the Court of first instance after hearing the defendants no appeal lies against that order. 33 I.C. 689=23 C.L.J. 392; 146 I.C. 838=1933 A.L.J. 1269=1933 A. 557. See also 14 P. 1. Appeal from order is not limited to the grounds mentioned in Rr. 5 and 6. Order under R. 5 that certain properties are not attachable is maintainable. Such an appeal does not become infructuous by the subsequent passing of a decree. 53 C.L.J. 289=37 C.W.N. 978=1933 C. 757. Where the trial Judge issues a notice to the defendant to show cause why the application of the plaintiff for attachment before judgment of the property of the defendant be not granted and at the same time orders attachment of the same and the defendant objects to the attachment but voluntarily offers security pending disposal of the plaintiff's application for attachment before judgment, the appellate Court cannot cancel security merely because it thinks that the attachment is illegal. A. I.R. 1937 Lah. 780. Where Court directed defendant to give security for satisfaction of any decree that may be passed in favour of plaintiff and noted that on failure of security being furnished further action under R. 6 would be taken and defendant failed to furnish security, held, that appeal against the order was maintainable though no formal order of attachment had been made. 148 I.C. 719=1934 L. 594.

REVISION.—No revision lies from order of dismissal of application for attachment before judgment. See 146 I.C. 338=1933 A.L.J. 1269=1933 A. 557.

COMPENSATION FOR WRONGFUL ATTACHMENT.—Compensation under S. 95 can be awarded even in respect of conditional attachments before judgment. 35 C.W.N. 546. Where the only ground put forward in application was that unless the attachment was made plaintiff in the event of success would have difficulty in realising the decretal amount, an order of attachment would be entirely unjustified. Where such application was granted the case is clearly one in which defendant is entitled to reasonable compensation against plaintiff under S. 95. 151 I.C. 283=11 O.W.N. 1135=1934 O. 429 (2).

O. 38, Rr. 5 and 6.—There is no justification for the view that in order that Rr. 5 and 6 of O. 38 should apply there must be a transaction subsequent to the institution of the suit. There is nothing in the plain words of the rules which would make a transaction subsequent to the institution of the suit a condition precedent to the application of Rr. 5 and 6. R. 5 refers not to the past but to the future. It refers to a defendant who with a particular intent is about to dispose of the whole or part of his property. The fact that he has done so after the institution of the suit may be strong evidence of the future intention provided he has any property left. But transfers before the institution of the suit may, as evidence of conduct be evidence of intention after the institution of the suit. 1941 Sind 178=I.L.R. (1941) Kar. 362.

O. 38, R. 5 and S. 64.—Though the order of attachment before judgment should comply with the provisions of O. 38, R. 5, that is, the order should be a conditional order accompanied by a notice to the defendant, yet non-compliance with this procedure and failure to give the defendant an opportunity to furnish security does not make the ex parte order of attachment a nullity but simply renders it irregular liable to be set aside only at the instance of the defendant. But a third party cannot ignore the attachment and enforce his mortgage against the decree-holder's

(2) Where the defendant shows such cause or furnishes the required security and the property specified or any portion of it has been attached, the Court shall order the attachment to be withdrawn, or make such other order as it thinks fit.

7. Save as otherwise expressly provided, the attachment shall be made in the manner provided for the attachment of property in execution of a decree.

8. Where any claim is preferred to property attached before judgment, such claim shall be investigated in the manner hereinbefore provided for the investigation of claims to property attached in execution of a decree for the payment of money.

O. 38, R. 6.—As to scope of R. 6, see 107 I.C. 276 (1). Order conditional under R. 6 cannot be passed unless the defendant has failed to furnish security, or fails to show cause. 57 I.C. 907. See also 1927 C. 354=101 I.C. 9. O. 38, R. 6 might apply to an objection by the defendant but not to an objection by a third person. A. I.R. 1938 Nag. 321=I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 509. Application for attachment—Court ordering petition closed on respondent undertaking not to alienate properties—Appeal lies against order. 1928 M.W.N. 125. (50 C. 215, Ref.) See also 140 I.C. 95=1932 A.L.J. 228=1932 A. 269. In a suit on promissory note, plaintiff obtained attachment before judgment and thereupon a third person stood surety and executed a bond which recited: "If the suit is to be decreed in favour of the plaintiff in accordance with the plaint he can recover the decree amount from me personally and from my properties and if the suit is to be dismissed the security bond should get cancelled. On this condition this bond is executed." Subsequently the suit was dismissed for default but was afterwards restored to file, and a decree was passed in favour of the plaintiff. Held, that the security bond had reference to the ultimate issue of the suit in trial Court and that the restoration of the suit dismissed for default also restored the bond and that the surety could therefore be proceeded against and made liable. 58 M. 721=41 L.W. 479=68 M.L.J. 444 (F.B.).

O. 38, R. 7.—The mode of executing attachment before judgment is the same as that provided for attachment after decree is passed. In the case of immovable property the procedure prescribed by O. 21, R. 54 should be adopted. 37 C.W.N. 1164=1934 C. 251; 182 I.C. 748=1939 Pat. 81.

The meaning of the saving clause in R. 7 is that attachment before judgment in order to be effective must comply with the provisions of Rr. 5 and 6. Order of attachment before judgment can only be made after defendant had failed to show cause to the contrary or to furnish the security required. Where defendant has not been served with notice under R. 5 to furnish security or to show cause, the attachment is illegal and ultra vires. 1933 A.L.J. 1501=1934 A. 165. When there is an attachment before attachment, time for consideration of the question whether the attached debt is due to judgment-debtor can be decided when the garnishee order is going to be enforced. 146 I.C. 457=1933 A. 481. Order of attachment before judgment of movables found at a certain place does not authorize the nazir to take away the things from that place. 59 C. L.J. 389=1934 C. 780. No property can be declared to be attached unless first the order of attachment has been issued and secondly in execution of that order the other things prescribed by the rules in the Code have been done. Where however there was no positive evidence that the attachment was not effected in accordance with law and no such contention was raised in the lower Court, held, that Court should give effect to the presumption regarding the regularity of official acts and proceed on the view that there was a valid attachment duly effected. 58 C. 598=134 I.C. 561=1931 C. 763. The question whether a particular property has been attached has to be determined with reference to the writ of attachment. Even if the property is mentioned in the application for attachment before judgment and the order for attachment is made in terms of that application, but if the writ of attachment served by the Civil Court peon does not mention the property, the property cannot be said to be under attachment and the judgment-debtor is not prohibited from transferring it. 182 I.C. 748=A.I.R. 1939 Pat. 81.

O. 38, R. 8.—This rule which prescribes the manner of investigation, is silent as to the result. O. 21, R. 60 does not apply to claims to property attached before judgment. 20 B. at 407. See also 41 M. 23=39 I.C. 863. The effect of O. 38, R. 8 is to make O. 21, R. 63 applicable to orders passed on

9. Where an order is made for attachment before judgment, the Court shall order the attachment to be withdrawn when the defendant furnishes the security required, together with security for the costs of the attachment, or when the suit is dismissed.

Removal of attachment when security furnished or suit dismissed.

10. Attachment before judgment shall not affect the rights, existing prior to the attachment, of persons not parties to the suit, nor bar any person holding a decree against the defendant from applying for the sale of the property under attachment in execution of such decree.

Attachment before judgment not to affect rights of strangers, nor bar decree-holder from applying for sale.

See also 146 I.C. 457=1933 A. 481; 1933 A. 953=147 I.C. 482. It is not necessary for any person who has a claim to property attached before judgment to prefer a claim, though he may do so if he wishes under the provisions of R. 8. His failure to do so, however, cannot amount to any negligence or justify his subsequent claim being dismissed under the proviso to O. 21, R. 58 (1). 31 N.L.R. 426=1935 N. 222. See also 168 I.C. 364=1937 P. 245; 1937 A. 635.

O. 38, R. 9.—On dismissal of a suit, attachment before judgment ipso facto comes to an end and does not revive when an appeal is lodged: 45 C. 780=22 C.W.N. 927; 113 I.C. 63=1928 M. 976; even though Court did not pass an order withdrawing it. 53 M. 334=1930 M. 514=58 M.L.J. 675 (F.B.) (Overruling 56 M.L.J. 70). Even dismissal of a suit for default puts an end to attachment. It is not revived on the subsequent restoration of suit. 9 R. 472=134 I.C. 748=1931 R. 281; 48 L.W. 763=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 1053. [But see 58 M. 721 (F.B.) (noted supra under O. 38, R. 6).] The last words of R. 9 are merely directory. They do not mean that in the absence of an order removing the attachment on the dismissal of a suit, the attachment before judgment is rendered a perpetual attachment. (Ibid.) When a suit is dismissed attachment before judgment terminates without any order of Court and if the judgment is reversed on appeal or annulled on review the judgment does not revive it so as to affect alienations made before the date of such reversal. Even where plaintiff on the reversal of the decree of first Court dismissing his suit and on appeal gets a decree in his favour and re-attaches the property in suit his claim is not one enforceable under the original attachment. 1933 A.L.J. 1501=1934 A. 165. But see 1937 Sind 272. A surety who binds himself as such to be liable until the defendant fully satisfies the decree that might be passed against him is not discharged from liability on the dismissal of the suit by the trial Court. O. 38, R. 9 does not say that the surety shall be relieved from his liability on the dismissal of the suit. If an appeal is preferred against the dismissal of the suit and a decree is passed in appeal, the surety is bound by the appellate decree and remains liable for the decree amount. 31 S.L.R. 165=A.I.R. 1937 Sind 272. On the abatement of the suit the attachment before judgment also abates, but does not revive when the abatement is set aside. 47 C.L.J. 282=1928 C. 234=109 I.C. 164. Suit in O. 38, R. 9 does not include proceedings in appeal. 5 R. 492=105 I.C. 540=1927 R. 310. But see 51 B. 31. Surety for removal of attachment—Liability ceases on dismissal of suit. 5 R. 492=105 I.C. 540=1927 R. 310; 1929 R. 94. But see 51 B. 31.

O. 38, R. 10.—O. 38, R. 10 is not limited to rights in rem. 23 C.L.J. 115=21 C.W.N. 158. Attachment before judgment only prevents alienation of property by judgment-debtor and does not confer any priority of title on attaching creditor. It is no bar to attachment by another decree-holder. 151 I.C. 317=59 C.L.J. 18=1934 C. 426. See also 151 I.C. 683=1934 P. 413. Where between the dates of attachment before judgment and the decree in a suit, another decree-holder against the same judgment-debtor attaches in the interval the same property of the judgment-debtor, the attachment before judgment though earlier in point of time does not confer any priority over the later attachment. 15 Luck. 287=A.I.R. 1940 Oudh 80. Agreement by attaching creditor consenting to sale of attached property does not require registration as attachment confers no right or interest in him. 151 I.C. 683=1934 P. 413. Attachment has no effect against the Official Assignee. 26 M. 673; see 21 B. 273; 17 M. 144; 31 Bom.L.R. 320. See also S. 53. When adjudication is made, insolvent's property vests in the Receiver and the Receiver's rights are not affected by prior attachment, whether attachment is before judgment or after decree. Attachment by itself does not give the attaching creditor any charge or lien on the property, nor does it give him any priority in respect of the property attached as against the Official Assignee or Receiver. 145 I.C. 695=29 N.L.R. 303=1933 N. 229. The effect of an attachment before or after judgment is the same provided that in the former case a decree is made for the plaintiff at whose instance the attachment takes place. 26 C.

11. Where property is under attachment by virtue of the provisions of this Order and a decree is subsequently passed in favour of the plaintiff, it shall not be necessary upon an application for execution of such decree to apply for a re-attachment of the property.

Property attached before judgment not to be re-attached in execution of decree.

12. Nothing in this Order shall be deemed to authorize the plaintiff to apply for the attachment of any agricultural produce in the possession of an agriculturist, or to empower the Court to order the attachment or production of such produce.

Agricultural produce not attachable before judgment.

Small Cause Court not to attach immovable property.

But see also 41 M. 23. This rule gives the same effect to an attachment before judgment after a decree is passed as an attachment after judgment. 2 P.L.T. 719 = 6 P.L.J. 332. O. 38, R. 9 refers to what takes place while suit is pending. R. 11 provides for what is to happen when suit is disposed of. After decree is passed attachment becomes one in execution and ceases to be one before judgment. 53 B. 543 = 31 Bom.L.R. 652 = 119 I.C. 769 = 1929 B. 321; 1938 Rang.L.R. 565. Attachment actually made after judgment cannot be deemed in law to be made before judgment, simply because it happens that the application for such attachment was made before the judgment was actually passed. The legal effect of the attachment comes into being only when the attachment is actually made, and its nature is defined also by the time when it is made and not when it is ordered. 1937 M. 84. There must be some unmistakable declaration of the decree-holder's intention to execute the decree, before the attachment before judgment can become an attachment in execution of the decree. (Ibid.) In ordinary cases such an election or declaration of intention would be made by presenting an execution application, but in every case it is not necessary that it should be done in this manner and in no other. If intention to execute can be inferred by other circumstances it is sufficient. (Ibid.)

ATTACHMENT BEFORE JUDGMENT OF JOINT FAMILY PROPERTY—SURVIVORSHIP.—An attachment before judgment of a coparcener's interest, when not followed by a decree during the said coparcener's lifetime does not operate to defeat the right of survivorship. 1931 M.W.N. 1015.

O. 38 R. 12.—The word "agriculturist" in O. 38, R. 12 must be interpreted in the same sense as in Ss. 60 and 61, C.P. Code and not differently. An "agriculturist" is a tiller of the soil who is unable to maintain himself otherwise. 48 L.W. 380 = 1938 Mad. 922 = (1938) 2 M.L.J. 487.

ORDER XXXIX.

TEMPORARY INJUNCTIONS AND INTERLOCUTORY ORDERS.

Temporary Injunctions.

Cases in which temporary injunction may be granted.

1. Where in any suit it is proved by affidavit or otherwise—

NOTES.

O. 39: APPLICABILITY.—O. 39 is applicable to proceedings in liquidation of company. 1926 L. 525=98 I.C. 10.

SCOPE.—Court's powers under this order—Application for attachment before judgment—Undertaking by defendant—Acceptance by Court and dismissal of application—Defendant subsequently acting in breach of undertaking—Jurisdiction to punish. 44 L. W. 714=1936 Mad. 651. Apart altogether from O. 39, C.P. Code, the Court has ample jurisdiction to pass an order providing for the protection and security of the property which is the subject-matter of the litigation. Where an applicant for leave to sue in forma pauperis also applied for an injunction to restrain the opposite party from dealing with the subject-matter of the litigation, it was held that the Court had jurisdiction to grant the necessary relief, though the question of pauperism had not been decided and the proceedings had not been numbered as suit. I.L.R. (1940) All. 201=187 I.C. 813.

O. 39, R. 1: PRINCIPLE OF TEMPORARY INJUNCTION.—The granting of temporary injunction is a matter of discretion. 26 M. 168 (174); 1933 L. 203=14 L. 330; 1933 N. 153=146 I.C. 727. As to inherent power to issue temporary injunction, see 1934 S. 179; 140 I.C. 843=1933 L. 73. There is no general rule to guide the discretion of Courts. 29 I.C. 855=21 C.L.J. 469. If the Court finds that there is a substantial question to be investigated and that matters should be preserved in status quo till final disposal of that question it is sufficient ground for granting injunction. 29 I.C. 855; 103 I.C. 167=1928 S. 82; 110 I.C. 621. See also 1934 L. 26 (2)=154 I.C. 421. It has sometimes been held that O. 39, Rr. 1 and 2 are not exhaustive of the Court's power to grant a temporary injunction. But they do not seem to have given due weight to the words 'if it is so prescribed' occurring in the opening para. of S. 94 of C.P. Code—'Prescribed' in that section clearly means prescribed by the rules. 1938 M. 190=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 888. Issue of temporary injunction is governed by the same principles as the grant of a permanent injunction at the trial of a case. That the suit would become infructuous if it did not issue is by itself no ground in law if there was no prima facie case made out in support of it. 14 L. 330=1933 L. 203. The real point is not how the question should be decided at the hearing of the case, but whether there is a substantial question to be investigated. 1922 L. 356. Court must first see that there is a bona fide contention between the parties and then on which side in the event of success the balance of inconvenience will lie if the injunction does not issue. 1922 L. 356; 1923 L. 227; 1926 C. 837=95 I.C. 667=43 C.L.J. 405; 1926 P. 318=96 I.C. 623; 1929 S. 182; 1930 S. 287; 1939 Mad. 750. In granting temporary injunction Court has to see balance of convenience and inconvenience of both sides. 66 I.C. 599; 46 C. 1001=23 C.W.N. 677; 146 I.C. 67; 1933 L. 621; 151 I.C. 862=1934 S. 136. When mortgagee or attaching creditor is proceeding to sell the right, title and interest of his debtor, the balance of convenience is in favour of the creditor, that no injunction should issue in such cases, and all that Court might do ex majeure cautela is to require the creditor to give an undertaking that at the time of the sale, whether it be through Court or otherwise, the intending purchasers should be informed of the pendency of the suit. 1929 S. 182. There must be a probability of the plaintiff succeeding. 18 I.C. 394=17 C.W.N. 964; 24 L.W. 839=1927 M. 188=99 I.C. 383. When a decree has been passed against a party who is himself seeking the injunction, the Court has no jurisdiction whatever to grant the injunction, merely because an appeal is pending in another suit, on the ground that the property is in danger of being wrongfully sold in execution. 43 I.W. 383=1936 M. 276=59 M. 744=70 M.L.J. 257. The Court will have to be satisfied that the applicant has a prima facie case and further that the protection of his interest requires that an injunction should issue temporarily. 17 I.C. 219=23 M.L.J. 316; 1927 M. 188=99 I.C. 383; 29 P.L.R. 50; 1939 M.W.N. 621=1939 Mad. 750; 103 I.C. 372; 110 I.C. 118=1928 L. 235; 156 I.C. 698=1935 S. 128. The applicant must also show an actual or threatened violation of that right, productive of irreparable or at least serious damage; his conduct must be such as not to disentitle him to assistance; it should be fair and honest, and in particular there must be no acquiescence or delay. There must be a greater convenience in granting than in refusing the injunction; and equally efficacious relief must not be obtainable by any other usual mode of proceedings, except in case of breach of trust. 160 I.C. 569=1936 Pesh. 11. That the defendant would not be worse off if injunction is granted is no proper ground for its grant. 15 P. 404=17 P.L. T. 109=1936 P. 226. Where a plaintiff out of possession claims possession, the Court will not grant an injunction against a defendant in possession under a claim of right unless the threatened injury would be irreparable. 46 C. 1001=23 C.W.N. 677; 146 I.C. 67=1933 L. 621; 1933 L. 282. The word "injury" means an act which is con-

(a) that any property in dispute in a suit is in danger of being wasted, damaged or alienated by any party to the suit, or wrongfully sold in execution of a decree, or

(b) that the defendant threatens, or intends, to remove or dispose of his property with a view to defraud his creditors, the Court may by order grant a temporary injunction to restrain such act, or make such other order for the purpose of staying and preventing the wasting, damaging, alienation, sale, removal or disposition of the property as the Court thinks fit, until the disposal of the suit or until further orders.

trary to law. 55 I.C. 403=2 L.L.J. 283. By the term "irreparable injury" is meant injury which is substantial and could never be remedied or adequately remedied or atoned for by damages. 1937 N. 137. Plaintiff as owner sold certain land, divided into building plots and approved by Municipality. Municipal Committee gave notice calling upon him to construct certain external and internal roads and informed that if he failed to do so, the committee would construct the roads and recover the cost of doing so from the plaintiff. The latter brought a suit and applied for a temporary injunction to restrain the committee from acting in that way. Held, that the inconvenience caused to the plaintiff by refusing to issue an injunction would not be irreparable and could be obviously remedied by damages. Therefore he was not entitled to the injunction claimed by him. 1937 N. 137. Party to prove irreparable loss would accrue if injunction is not granted. 93 I.C. 848=1926 L. 435. In a suit for permanent injunction a temporary injunction ought not to be refused where the refusal would defeat the object of the suit. 43 I.C. 24. As regards proper course when applications for mandatory injunctions are made, see 16 Bom.L.R. 288=38 B. 381. Under colour of temporary injunction a plaintiff cannot seek a relief, which forms the cause of action in the suit. 27 I.C. 617; 29 I.C. 855=21 C.L.J. 469; 18 I.C. 394=17 C.W.N. 964. In granting temporary injunction Court should exercise wise discretion and see that the machinery of Court is not abused for fraudulent purposes. 9 I.C. 277. The order must not create totally new state of things. 67 I.C. 742; 66 I.C. 599. Defendant residing outside jurisdiction—Acts within jurisdiction—Interference with acts of religion. 4 P.L.T. 48. The onus is upon the petitioner to show that his inconvenience exceeds that of the other side. 70 I.C. 864=15 S.L.R. 5. Court has no jurisdiction to grant injunction under its inherent powers. 1927 M. 687=102 I.C. 700=26 L.W. 899. See also 140 I.C. 843. Court has no jurisdiction to issue temporary injunction against a person not party to suit. 96 I.C. 540=1927 L. 284. Issue of temporary injunction against a co-sharer in possession. 1928 C. 293. In granting or refusing injunction Court should have regard to balance of convenience. 144 I.C. 54 (1)=1933 S. 118. (1929 S. 182, Foll.)

PRINCIPLES.—The object of an interim injunction is to preserve status quo. When an application is made the Judge should ask himself the question whether the plaintiff is likely to suffer any damage or any irreparable damage and if he comes to the conclusion that the plaintiff would not suffer any serious damage, injunction should be refused. 152 I.C. 563=1934 Cal. 713. In doubtful cases where the question as to the legal right is one on which Court is not prepared to pass an opinion, or the legal right being admitted, the fact of its violation is denied, the course of Court is either to grant the injunction or to order the motion to stand over pending the trial of the legal right. In determining which of these alternatives is to be adopted, Court is governed by considerations as to the comparative mischief or inconvenience to the parties which may arise from granting or withholding the injunction. 28 S.L.R. 161=1934 Sind 180. The power of a Court is very wide with respect to the issue of a temporary injunction and the injunction can be issued in any suit if it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the property in dispute in the suit is being wrongfully sold in the execution of a decree. There is no restriction in O. 39, R. 1 that the suit should be for the issue of a perpetual injunction if a temporary injunction is to be granted. 177 I.C. 917=1938 Pesh. 67. Courts have an inherent jurisdiction to issue an injunction in a proper case to prevent an abuse of the process of Court. Where the circumstances require it, the Courts have power to act ex debito justitiae in order to do real and substantial justice. Where the parties agreed that disputes between them should be agitated in a particular Court, and one of them in flagrant violation of the agreement filed a suit in another Court, it was held that an injunction could issue to prevent its prosecution in that Court. I.L.R. (1940) All. 232=1940 A.L.J. 188=1940 All. 241. The basic principle on which injunctions should be issued is that the plaintiff must show that an injunction is necessary to protect him from irreparable injury and that mere inconvenience is not enough; by the term "irreparable injury" is meant injury which is substantial and could never be remedied or adequately remedied or atoned for by damages. 1937 Nag. 137=I.L.R. 1937 Nag. 313.

GRANT OF INJUNCTION AND ATTACHMENT BEFORE JUDGMENT—CONDITIONS.—It is essential that the plaintiff must make out a prima facie case before an injunction or an attachment before judgment can be granted. Court must be satisfied that interference is necessary to prevent injury which is irreparable, and that the mischief or inconvenience which is likely to arise in consequence of refusal will be greater than that from granting it. An attachment or an injunction should not be lightly granted. It is only where it is essential that property should be kept in its existing condition pending the suit that the Court should interfere under O. 39, R. 1 or under O. 38, R. 5 (1). 61 C. 814=38 C.W.N. 771=1934 C. 694. "Injunction pending disposal of the suit" period for which it is in force. 43 A. 383=19 A.L.J. 174. Injunction granted pendente lite ends with suit. 1930 A. 387 (2). The offending of religious prejudices is no ground for granting an injunction. 1 C.W.N. 429. "Suit" in O. 39 includes proceedings. 1926 L. 525=26 Punj.L.R. 803.

DELAY.—The essence of an application for an interlocutory injunction is that it should be made with promptness. Improper delay although it does not amount to acquiescence may deprive a plaintiff of his right to such a remedy. Injunction refused on account of delay in a case of infringement of trade-mark. 139 I.C. 490. When the suit was delayed till the last day and the temporary injunction was applied for on the very day that the suit was instituted and the men were going to be discharged although it was known long before, that they were going to be discharged, held, that this in itself was a sufficient reason for refusing to issue the temporary injunction. 1933 L. 203=14 L. 330.

TEMPORARY AND PERPETUAL INJUNCTIONS.—The rule refers only to temporary injunctions leaving perpetual injunctions to be governed by the provisions of the Specific Relief Act. 6 B. 266 (279). The issue of temporary injunction is not governed by the same principles as the granting of a permanent injunction. 26 M. 168 (174). R. 1 does not authorise Court to grant a temporary mandatory injunction. 24 L.W. 839=1927 M. 188=99 I.C. 383. But see 94 I.C. 840=1926 S. 201.

WITHDRAWAL OF RELIEF FOR PERMANENT INJUNCTION.—Ordinarily if a plaintiff makes no prayer for a permanent injunction in a plaint, a temporary or interim injunction of a like nature should not be issued. But there may be cases in which a relief in the shape of a permanent injunction may not be necessary the other reliefs granted by the decree being sufficient. Consequently the withdrawal of the relief for permanent injunction cannot preclude plaintiff from asking for a temporary injunction. 137 I.C. 519=36 C.W.N. 291=1932 C. 353.

INJUNCTION OR RECEIVER.—Distinction between a case in which a temporary injunction may be granted, and a case in which a receiver may be appointed. See 22 C. 459 (465); 1 A.L.J. 527. Proof of waste is a ground for appointing a receiver. 53 I.C. 760=10 L.W. 551; 105 I.C. 131. The digging of a well is not waste. W.R. (1864) 275.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION.—Notice, however short should, if possible, be given before an injunction is granted. 27 B. at 451. See R. 3. The other side must be given an opportunity to show cause. 7 A. 550; and when no ex parte order is made liberty to have it varied or set aside must be implied. 9 A. 36 (42).

EX PARTE ORDER.—Interlocutory injunctions can be very readily granted on the side that is asking for them undertaking to pay the person damnified by the granting of the injunction any damage that that person may sustain. Where no such undertaking is forthcoming, injunction should not be granted ex parte except in very rare circumstances. 184 I.C. 570=1940 Nag. 45=1939 N.L.J. 483.

JURISDICTION.—High Court can grant an injunction under its general equity jurisdiction independently of Code. 34 C. 97; 34 C. 101. See also 1939 Cal. 642. High Court, as appellate or revisional authority, has no jurisdiction to issue an injunction apart from and except in accordance with the provisions of O. 39. (35 L.W. 168, Diss. from.) 56 M. 563=141 I.C. 607=1933 M. 500 (2)=64 M.L.J. 112. The injunction should be issued to the party and not the Court. 2 A.L.J. 601. Only Court in which the suit is filed, and not Court to which a decree is sent for execution can grant an injunction. 12 C. 515. An inferior Court can issue an injunction to stop a sale in execution of a decree by a superior Court. 23 C. 341. But see 31 C. 480 (486). District Court cannot issue an injunction to stay waste in respect of property in dispute in a suit pending in a subordinate Court. In case it wants to do so it should withdraw the case to its own file. 2 Bom.H.C.R. 103. The mere fact that a person resides outside the jurisdiction of Court is not per se sufficient to prevent the Court from granting an injunction. 2 C.W.N. 521. Application to restrain a suit in a Small Cause Court does not come within the provision of this rule. 27 B. 357. As to power of subordinate Court to stay foreign suit, see 27 L.W. 418. See also 1940 A.L.J. 820 (Power of Special Judge under U.P. Encumbered Estates Act S. 54 to grant injunction under this rule). High Court in its original jurisdiction has power to make an order of injunction and also to order the arrest of a person disobeying it, though he be resident beyond the limits of its ordinary original jurisdiction, and to transfer the same for execution to the District Judge within whose jurisdiction such person resides. Such orders are not ultra vires or without jurisdiction. And the District Judge acts in the lawful exercise of his powers in arresting the party in execution of the writ sent to him. 61 C. 971=38 C.W.N. 799=1934 C. 818. An application under O. 39, R. 1 (a), can be made on behalf of a defendant who is entitled to come to the Court if any such act as is referred to in the rule is committed by the plaintiff. 49 L.W. 441=1939 Mad. 495= (1939) 1 M.L.J. 519.

PRACTICE.—Before granting temporary injunction it is usual to put the applicant upon terms to abide by such order as Court shall think fit to make by way of damages resulting from passing of the order. 1 A.L.J. 527. An application for an injunction restraining the defendant in a pending suit from prosecuting on action in a foreign Court must be made at a very early stage of the proceedings. 59 I.C. 218=24 C.W.N. 735. A party is presumed to have knowledge of a prohibitory order "not to alienate his property" when it is made in the open Court, in the presence of the parties appearing before the Court. 42 A. 98=17 A.L.J. 1127. An interlocutory injunction in a suit for perpetual injunction is dissolved ipso facto by the decree granting a perpetual injunction. 42 C. 550=18 C.W.N. 1189.

HIGH COURT, POWERS OF.—The powers of High Court in the matter of issuing injunction are not confined to the provisions of O. 39, Rr. 1 and 2. Any order may be made which justice and expediency require. 137 I.C. 519=36 C.W.N. 291=1932 C. 353. See also 136 I.C. 346=1932 M. 180; 1939 Cal. 642. High Court, as appellate or revisional authority, has no jurisdiction to issue an injunction apart from and except in accordance with the provisions of O. 39. 64 M.L.J. 112=1933 M. 500 (2)=56 M. 563.

APPEAL.—An order of injunction is purely discretionary and a party appealing against it should prove that the Court acted wrongly in the exercise of its jurisdiction. 22 I.C. 710=19 C.L.J. 305. See also 12 M. 186; 1930 Sind 287; 146 I.C. 727=1933 N. 153; 1933 L. 282. Order refusing grant of a temporary injunction is appealable. 18 C. L.J. 39=17 C.W.N. 996; 152 I.C. 563=1934 C. 713; but see 150 I.C. 15=36 P. L.R. 142=1934 L. 79 (2). Appellate Court should be very reluctant in interfering with the discretion exercised by lower Court in granting temporary injunction. 160 I.C. 569=1936 Pesh. 11. An order granting temporary injunction cannot be the subject of an appeal but is subject to the revisional jurisdiction of High Court. 1927 M. 687=102 I.C. 700=26 L.W. 899. A security bond furnished in pursuance of an order of the trial Court under this rule becomes ineffectual as soon as the disposal of the suit by it, and it does not enure to the benefit of the decree-holder so as to enable him to enforce the decree of the appellate Court against the surety. 37 P.L.R. 489=1935 L. 718.

REVISION.—An applicant for a temporary injunction must show that he has a prima facie case. Where the Court grants such an injunction in the absence of a prima facie case, its order is vitiated by material irregularity justifying interference by the High Court in revision. 1939 M.W.N. 621=1939 Mad. 750.

ILLUSTRATIVE CASES: (1) ACCOUNT SUIT.—In a suit for recovery of money due on settled accounts application was filed for appointing a receiver and for order directing defendant to produce certain books of account not connected with the suit in order that the plaintiff, if he gets a decree, may be in a better position to realise his decree-debt. Court ordered the production but defendant refused, whereupon the Court passed an order compelling him to produce them failing which a complaint was to be laid for disobedience of the Court's order. Held, that O. 39, R. 1 (b) had no application and that even if it did apply it was overridden by O. 21, R. 41 and that the order should be set aside. 57 M. 635=148 I.C. 79=1934 M. 199=66 M.L.J. 498.

(1-a) ADMINISTRATION SUIT.—Before an application for injunction can be granted under O. 39, R. 1, the applicant must show that the property with respect to which an injunction is prayed for is property in dispute in a suit. In a proceeding for the grant of letters of administration, it cannot be said that there is any property in dispute. No question regarding title to property can be decided in an application for probate or letters of administration. Hence, an application in such proceeding for an order restraining certain authorities from making payments of money lying with them which are alleged to appertain to the estate of deceased and restraining certain person from withdrawing or receiving payments of the aforesaid money is not one which can be brought within the scope of O. 39, R. 1. 1939 Cal. 642.

(2) ARBITRATION PROCEEDINGS.—An interlocutory injunction should not be granted upon novel considerations interfering with arbitrators. 31 C.L.J. 167=24 C.W.N. 612=47 C. 611. Principles governing grant of temporary injunction restraining arbitration. 54 I.C. 546.

(3) ALIENATION.—An alienation pending a temporary injunction is not void. 253 P.L.R. 1914=25 I.C. 180; 108 I.C. 395. A temporary injunction restraining alienation of a house pending decision of a suit for recovery of money does not render a sale void as against a bona fide purchaser for valuable consideration without notice of any fraud or collusion, on the part of the vendor even though it might have been made in defence of the restraining order. 1930 L.

(4) COPYRIGHT.—Where the legal right of plaintiff, namely his copyright in a particular book was admitted and only its violation by the threatened publication of an alleged similar book was not denied, and it further appeared that if the injunction was not issued irreparable injury or inconvenience might result to plaintiff, it is a proper case in which a temporary injunction should be issued. 132 I.C. 585=1931 L. 624. See also 34 P.L.R. 249. In suit for a perpetual injunction against defendants, who, it was alleged, had infringed plaintiffs' copyright by copying a large number of judgment from plaintiffs' journal 'Lahore Law Times' and compiling and publishing a book called "Consolidated Revenue Rulings", it appeared that the allegation referred to the rulings portion only of the 'Law Times' and that of past years; secondly, defendants' publication consisted not merely of Lahore Rulings but those of other places as well; thirdly, the plaintiffs had, by bringing out a similar book at a cheaper price, substantially reduced the chance of a loss to themselves; lastly, trial Court had, by directing defendants to keep a separate account of their sales, amply safeguarded their interests. Held, in the circumstances, a temporary injunction was not necessary. 34 P.L.R. 249=1933 L. 448.

(5) CO-SHARERS.—One co-sharer can restrain another from building on the land. 41 C. 436=18 C.W.N. 176.

(6) DECLARATION OF TITLE.—In a suit for declaration of title, plaintiff applied for an injunction to restrain defendants from alienating the properties; the affidavit in support of the application was inadequate and defective and merely alleged that defendants were trying to dispose of the properties and stated that the allegation was based partly on information which the plaintiff believed to be true and partly on belief, but did not state which part was based on information and which part on belief; nor did he state the grounds of belief. There was no overt act suggested in the application towards the alienation of the properties, such as negotiations or offers of sale, and there was no proof of the property being in danger of alienation. Lower Court refused the injunction. Held, that the injunction was properly refused and for reasons which were sound and unanswerable under R. 1. Held, further, that in a suit for declaration, an injunction should not be granted where the plaintiff is out of possession and does not ask for consequential relief or for a permanent injunction. 61 C. 814=38 C.W.N. 771=1934 C. 694. See also 20 Pat.L.T. 855 (suit by reversioner to declare alienation by Hindu widow invalid.) 1939 Sind 256.

(7) ELECTION PETITION.—Per Pollock, A. J. C.—In deciding whether an injunction should issue to restrain elected members from performing their duties, Civil Court should be guided by the balance of justice and convenience; the occasions must be few on which it will be more just and convenient to hold up elections or the administration of newly elected bodies more or less indefinitely whilst one or more individual persons sue for a declaration that the elections have been or are going to be invalidly conducted. 143 I. C. 514=29 N. L. R. 278=1933 N. 193 (F.B.). Where the effect of granting a temporary injunction will be to deprive finally and for ever the defendants of the right which they claim (which in this case was to hold the election without delay) and would be tantamount to granting the plaintiff the relief sought in his suit and might deprive the defendants of a right to which they are really entitled, the temporary injunction shall not be granted, for it would be a grave injustice to the defendants for which they could not be adequately compensated afterwards. Moreover, a Court cannot be asked to give the relief which forms the cause of action in the suit under colour of a temporary injunction. 151 I.C. 862=1934 S. 136. Where plaintiffs filed a suit for a declaration that they were the only elected members and that the defendants were not the members, and applied for an interim injunction restraining them from attending the meetings. Held, that the likelihood of injury and inconvenience was much greater if the defendants were not allowed to function as members and that the injunction should not be granted. 151 I.C. 679=60 C.L.J. 1=1934 C. 621. Though a candidate for election to a Local Board like any one else has a right to pursue his legal remedies whatever they may be, save in exceptional circumstances it is an abuse for a candidate, who for some reason is shut out to make his pursuits of his remedies in the Civil Court, a weapon for dislocating electoral machinery and stopping an election. Unless in very extreme cases the Court cannot grant an injunction restraining the holding of an election at the instance of a candidate whose nomination has been rejected. 140 I.C. 441. Where the holding of an election would result in no irreparable harm, damage or waste, no injunction is to be granted. 97 I.C. 172=1926 M. 1147.

(8) CORPORATIONS AND COMPANY.—The plaintiffs sued for a declaration that they were the directors of a company and not defendants and alleged that they were unlawfully excluded by defendants from participation in management of the company. Held, that there was a continuing invasion of plaintiff's rights and the case was a fit one in which Court should grant a temporary injunction to prevent the injury to plaintiff's rights. 55 A. 399=1933 A.L.J. 290=1933 A. 344.

(9) EXECUTION PROCEEDINGS AND SALE.—A plaintiff, who after being defeated under O. 21, R. 99, brings a suit under R. 103 of the same order, is not entitled to get a temporary injunction restraining the defendant from taking possession of the property. 27 I.C. 56=16 Bom.L.R. 676. A prohibitory order by way of injunction can be issued so long as property in dispute is in danger of being wrongfully sold in execution of a decree, but once it is sold, no such order can be passed. 54 I.C. 928. Property sold in execution of decree on dismissal of objector's suit under O. 21, R. 63, but possession not delivered—Objector appealing—Injunction preventing delivery of possession may be issued. 1930 L. 850. In a suit filed by an unsuccessful claimant under O. 21, R. 63 the Court has power to grant a temporary injunction under O. 39, R. 1, restraining the decree-holder from selling the property, which is the subject-matter of the suit, in execution of his decree. The principle underlying O. 39, R. 1 is to prevent multiplicity of judicial proceedings, and in each case the Court will have to consider whether there is a danger of the property being wrongfully sold in execution of the decree. The mere fact that the plaintiff lost the claim case is not enough to indicate that the suit is a frivolous one or that it is an abuse of the process of the Court. 42 C.W.N. 409=1938 Cal. 371. See also 1938 Pat. 606; 16 Pat. 738. A sale held in ignorance of an order by way of an injunction staying the sale is an irregularity, but the sale will not be set aside unless judgment-debtor has sustained substantial injury by reason of such irregularity. 54 I.C. 928. Where it is fairly established that there is a danger of a wrongful sale in execution, an injunction can properly be granted. 25 I.C. 9; 1930 L. 108 (2). But see also 75 I.C. 381. A Court has jurisdiction to issue an injunction upon a person residing outside its territorial limits if he has property within the jurisdiction. 75 I.C. 381. See also 130 I.C. 252=1931 C. 279. In a case in which the defendants have submitted to jurisdiction of a Court by entering appearance, Court has jurisdiction to grant an injunction restraining the defendants from executing in another Court a decree which they had obtained against plaintiff. (Case-law referred to.) 1 P. 356=4 Pat.L.T. 10. A Court has no power to issue a temporary injunction to restrain the defendant from executing a decree lawfully obtained by him. 23 L.W. 85=1926 M. 258=92 I.C. 615. The taking of delivery implied in the passing of the delivery receipt, is not punishable as an act of disobedience of an order of injunction under O. 39, R. 1. The terms of O. 39, R. 1 would not include the mere act of taking possession in execution of a decree. 1937 M.W.N. 1229=(1937) 2 M.L.J. 888. It is impossible to contend that a person who has got a decree, and is entitled to execute it, can be said to be wrongfully selling in execution because some other person has brought an action through which he hopes to succeed in getting possession of the property which is being sold; in injunction to restrain such a sale cannot be granted. 1938 P.W.N. 220=1938 Pat. 606; 16 Pat. 738; see also 42 C.W.N. 409=1938 Cal. 371; 1938 Rang. 21=174 I.C. 503.

(9-a) HIGH COURT—POWERS OF.—Although an application cannot be brought within the scope of O. 39, R. 1, a chartered High Court is not powerless to grant an injunction otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of O. 39, R. 1 if a proper case is made out. It has an inherent jurisdiction to grant injunctions operating in personam under circumstances and conditions other than those set out in the Code of Civil Procedure where the ends of justice so require. 1939 Cal. 642.

(10) LEGISLATIVE PROCEEDINGS, RESTRAINT OF.—See 56 B. 254=34 Bom.L.R. 231=1932 B. 166. Cited under O. 39, R. 2.

(11) PARTY WALL.—In order to entitle the plaintiff to a temporary injunction, it is necessary for him to make out a strong prima facie case. Where the demolition of the party wall is likely to seriously endanger plaintiff's buildings and the lives of its inmates and property, Court ought to grant a temporary injunction under R. 1. 1933 S. 244 (Case-law reviewed.)

(12) GUARDIANSHIP PROCEEDINGS.—Whether a proceeding for the appointment of a guardian can be treated as a suit or a proceeding to restrain the other party from committing a "breach of contract" or "other injury" within the meaning of R. 2, see 137 I.C. 425=1932 C. 719. Powers exercisable under O. 39 and those under Ss. 12 and 43, Guardian and Wards Act—Distinction. See 1940 N.L.J. 157.

(13) MARRIAGE.—Temporary injunction to restrain marriage, when not to be granted. 17 A.L.J. 1138=42 A. 134; when to be granted. 28 N.L.R. 332.

(14) MINORS.—A suit was brought on behalf of minors. It was found that the minors had no strong prima facie case and that it was a collusive one. Further it was found that defendants were maintaining proper and accurate accounts. Held, no interim temporary injunction should be granted. 146 I.C. 67=1933 L. 621.

(15) MORTGAGE SUIT.—Where a plaintiff in a mortgage suit has no right in a personal decree he cannot apply for enforcement of personal remedies. His remedy is limited to bring the mortgaged property to sale and he can only obtain a remedy from the date of the auction sale. Until that auction sale, he has no right to take possession of the property or any income of the property; under those circumstances Court has no jurisdiction to appoint a receiver under O. 40 or pass an order of attachment before judgment under O. 38, R. 5 or a temporary injunction under O. 39. 150 I.C. 1035=1934 A.L.J. 561=1934 A. 772. See also 144 I.C. 54=1933 S. 118. (See also under O. 40, R. 1, infra under heading "In mortgage suits.")

LOC. AMS.—[ALLAHABAD.]—R. 1.—In cl. (a) delete the words “or wrongfully sold in execution of a decree” and delete the word “sale” after the words “damaging alienation” in cl. (b).

[CALCUTTA AND SIND.] Re-number r. 1, O. 39, as r. 1 (1) and add the following as sub-rules (2) and (3):—

“(2) In case of disobedience, or of breach of the terms of such temporary injunction or order, the Court granting the injunction or making such order may order the property of the person guilty of such disobedience or breach to be attached, and may also order such person to be detained in the civil prison for a term not exceeding six months unless in the meantime the Court directs his release.”

“(3) The property attached under sub-rule (2) may, when the Court considers it fit so to direct, be sold and, out of the proceeds, the Court may award such compensation to the injured party as it finds proper and shall pay the balance, if any, to the party entitled thereto.”

[NAGPUR AND OUDH.] In r. 1, delete the words “or wrongfully sold in execution of a decree” in cl. (a) and delete the word “sale” after the words “damaging alienation” and insert the following as proviso to the rule:—

“Provided that, if it appears to the Court that the property in suit is in danger of being wrongfully sold in execution of a decree, the Court may also by order grant a temporary injunction restraining the Court executing the decree from confirming the sale held in execution of the decree until the disposal of the suit or until further orders.”

NOTES.

(16) MUHAMMADAN ENDOWMENT.—Appointment of co-mutwalli by the first mutwalli, grantor of waqf, does not invite the application of the rule unless there is danger of waste of property. 35 I.C. 718=14 A.L.J. 554.

(16-a) MUNICIPALITY.—Plaintiff as owner sold certain land, divided into building plots. The lay-out was approved by the Municipality. The Municipal Committee gave notice calling upon him to construct certain external and internal roads and informed that if he failed to do so, the committee would construct the roads and recover the cost of doing so from the plaintiff. The latter brought a suit and applied for a temporary injunction to restrain the committee from acting in that way. Held, that the inconvenience caused to the plaintiff by refusing to issue an injunction would not be irreparable and could be obviously remedied by damages. Therefore he was not entitled to the injunction claimed by him. I. L. R. (1937) Nag. 313=1937 Nag. 137.

(17) RIGHT OF WORSHIP.—Injunction to restrain plaintiff from preventing defendants entering and worshipping in certain temple not proper. 1 P.L.J. 560. As to grant of temporary injunction in a suit to declare that a certain article of a temple is sacred and for injunction to restrain sale thereof. See 70 M.L.J. 315.

(18) SALE IN EXECUTION OF MORTGAGE DECREE.—The language of O. 39, R. 1 is wide enough to cover the case of a sale in execution of a mortgage decree. In the case where the property of A is going to be sold at the instance of B who had obtained a mortgage of the same property from C and had instituted a suit to obtain a declaration that the mortgaged property was really his and not of C he is entitled to a temporary injunction. 35 C.W.N. 910. (11 C. 146, Ref.) Where in execution of a good and valid mortgage decree, the decree-holder proceeds to sell the property mortgaged as the property of his judgment-debtor, and another person having been defeated in a claim case institutes a suit to declare that the property is his. O. 39, R. 1 cannot be applied to the case so as to entitle the latter to apply for a temporary injunction to prevent the sale. The property cannot, at the moment of his application to the Court, be said to be in danger of being wrongfully sold in execution of a decree. Neither on the ground of balance of convenience nor in law can an injunction be granted in such a case. 1938 Pat. 228.

Manohar Lal, J. (Obiter.)—It may be that the Court will invoke its inherent powers to stay the execution of the decree if the circumstances are coercive that the balance of convenience is in favour of the applicant or that the stay is necessary to prevent an abuse of the process of the Court. 16 Pat. 738=19 Pat.L.T. 256=1938 Pat. 228. See also 42 C.W.N. 409=1938 Cal. 371; 1938 Pat. 606. In a suit by the sons for partition and declaration that the debts incurred by the father were illegal and immoral and so not binding, the sons applied for a temporary injunction to stop the sale, threatened by some of the creditors. Apart from considerations of balance of convenience, the chief ground for granting or refusing an injunction in such a case is whether plaintiffs have or have not a bona fide claim, and to a certain extent, it is inevitable that the Court should prejudge the merits of the case in deciding the question if the plaintiffs have or have not a bona fide claim. 127 I.C. 345=1931 N. 106.

SECOND APPLICATION.—Although a Court has refused to issue a temporary injunction on a previous application, it can, if new circumstances arise, go behind that order and make another order which the exigencies of the case require. 41 P.L.R. 823=1940 Lah. 39.

(19) SECURITY AND ACCOUNTS.—An order directing the furnishing of security and submission of accounts passed on an application for the issue of interim injunction is not an order under R. 1. 17 I.C. 361=17 C.W.N. 318. An order to defendants to prepare an inventory and to keep accounts is not an order under the inherent powers of Court but

"Provided that no such temporary injunction shall be granted if it would contravene the provisions of S. 56 of the Specific Relief Act.

Provided further that an injunction to restrain a sale, or confirmation of a sale, or to restrain delivery of possession, shall not be granted except in a case where the applicant cannot lawfully prefer, and could not lawfully have preferred, a claim to the property, or objection to the sale, or to the attachment preceding it, before the Court executing the decree."

[RANGOON.] R. 1.—In Cl. (a) the words "or wrongfully sold in execution of a decree" shall be deleted and in the last sentence the word "sale" occurring between the words "alienation" and "removal" shall be deleted.

2. (1) In any suit for restraining the defendant from committing a breach of contract or other injury of any kind, whether compensation is claimed in the suit or not, the plaintiff may, at any time after the commencement of the suit, and either before or after judgment, apply to the Court for a temporary injunction to restrain the defendant from committing the breach of contract or injury complained of, or any breach of contract or injury of a like kind arising out of the same contract or relating to the same property or right.

NOTES.

one under R. 1. 1923 L. 48=72 I.C. 569. In a case falling under R. 1, it is not necessary that Court should order the petitioner to furnish security to compensate the decree-holder for any loss that may be caused by a temporary injunction against him being granted. 1934 L. 26 (2).

(20) SECURITY FOR MESNE PROFITS.—Stay of confirmation of sale—Order not communicated—Decree-holder-purchaser given possession on condition of giving security for mesne profits. 133 I.C. 128=1931 L. 289.

(21) SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE.—A temporary injunction will be granted to a plaintiff restraining defendants from selling property to a third person during the pendency of a suit for specific performance of contract for sale. 57 I.C. 847. See also 1938 P.W.N. 220=1938 Pat. 606. See also in the case of contract for lease. 16 I.C. 359=17 C.L.J. 427.

(22) STRANGER TO SUIT.—A Court has no jurisdiction to issue an injunction upon a person who is not a party before it. 3 P. L.J. 456=46 I.C. 224; 51 I.C. 108=46 P. L.R. 1919.

(23) STAY OF PROCEEDINGS IN REVENUE COURT.—Where an application was made to the High Court for stay of a partition proceeding in a Revenue Court which was not subordinate to High Court, held, that the stay could not be granted as High Court had no power and that an injunction also could not be issued for that purpose. 53 A. 180=132 I.C. 42=1931 A. 57 (2).

(24) SUIT FOR POSSESSION.—Restraining execution of decree for possession—Receiver—Appointment of. 24 Bom.L.R. 378=1922 B. 385. In a suit for possession, an injunction restraining defendant from committing waste may be granted. 38 C. 791=13 C.L.J. 394.

(25) TRADE MARK.—See 21 I.C. 258=40 C. 570; 139 I.C. 490=1932 Sind 127. Where on an application for interim injunction pending a suit to restrain defendant from passing off goods bearing mark and figure similar to those used by plaintiff, Court finds that defendant's article is comparatively new, it would be a greater inconvenience to allow him to flood the market with his goods and possibly infringe plaintiffs' rights than to restrain defendant for a short time and compensate him, if so entitled, for the loss sustained by him in consequence. 1934 M. 226=38 L.W. 771=65 M.L.J. 617. In a suit the plaintiff charged the defendant with imitating his trade-mark and applied for an injunction against defendant under O. 39, Rr. 1 and 2, a comparison of the get up of the parcels containing the products of plaintiff and defendant respectively displayed a remarkable similarity which could scarcely be said to be accidental. Plaintiff took immediate action by way of criminal prosecution as soon as he became aware of the alleged infringement. And it also appeared that if an injunction did not issue the balance of inconvenience would be against the plaintiff, held, on these considerations that the plaintiff was entitled to an injunction against defendant under Rr. 1 and 2. 1934 S. 194=153 I.C. 324. Where in a suit for injunction and other reliefs for infringement of trade-mark by the defendants, plaintiff prays for a temporary injunction Court has to see on which side the balance of convenience lies assuming that the infringement exists. Where the loss to defendants by the grant of injunction cannot be remedied if plaintiff fails, but plaintiff's interests can be otherwise safeguarded, the injunction should be refused. 1933 L. 1046.

(26) TRADE NAME.—Where the defendant firm has adopted a name so similar to that of the plaintiff firm as is likely to cause confusion in the mind of the intending purchasers, the harm thus caused to the plaintiff firm is prima facie such as no compensation would be enough to counter-balance it, and the Court would, therefore, be justified in granting a temporary injunction. 1940 Lah. 39=41 P.L.R. 823.

O. 39, R. 1 (Rangoon Amendment).—The result of the amendment of O. 39, R. 1,

(2) The Court may by order grant such injunction, on such terms as to the duration of the injunction, keeping an account, giving security, or otherwise as the Court thinks fit.

NOTES.

prima facie, is that the Court in which a suit under O. 21, R. 63 is pending or the Court in which an appeal from such a suit is pending does not enjoy the power of granting a temporary injunction to prevent the sale of the property under attachment in the execution case which led to the suit and then to the appeal. The reason for the present rule is this. The claimant in a proceeding under O. 21, R. 58, who files a suit under O. 21, R. 63, is not the judgment-debtor against whom execution is taken; and by sale of the attached property attached in the execution case his right, title or interest in the property cannot be impaired, for it is only the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor which is conveyed to the purchaser at the sale. If his suit or his appeal succeeds, then the interest which are declared in his favour are to be deemed not to have been disposed of by the sale. There is obviously no good ground for thinking that a sale made in the execution case during the pendency of a suit under O. 21, R. 63, or an appeal from such a suit will be injurious to the right, title and interest, if any, of the claimant in the property sold. Hence an application for stay of the sale and also of other steps taken or in contemplation in aid of execution, cannot be granted; nor can it be granted under S. 151, C.P. Code, as the order sought for is not necessary for the ends of justice or to prevent abuse of the process of the Court. 174 I.C. 503=1938 Rang. 21.

O. 39, Rr. 1 and 2.—An injunction to restrain the execution of decree for possession cannot be granted either under O. 39, R. 1 or R. 2 pending suit for declaration of title. 1941 A.M.L.J. 23.

O. 39, R. 2.—[See also NOTES UNDER R. 1—GENERAL.] The words "of any kind" have been inserted to supersede the rule in 22 A. 449. Sub-rule (3) has been remodelled to give effect to the decision in 19 B. at 155. As to whether a Court can of its own motion punish for disobedience, see 26 M. 494. The Code is not exhaustive and Court has inherent jurisdiction to act ex debito justitiæ in order to do that real and substantial justice for the administration of which alone it exists. (23 C. 351, Foll.) 1923 L. 144 (2)=73 I.C. 909. See also 140 I.C. 843=34 P.L.R. 51=1933 L. 73. Injunction can be granted only against defendant—Principles governing the same. 79 I.C. 233=1923 L. 47; 96 I.C. 286=1926 L. 589.

PRINCIPLES GOVERNING GRANT OF INJUNCTION.—Relief by way of temporary injunction is in the discretion of the Court, but that discretion is not unfettered and it must be exercised in accordance with the principles generally recognised. One of these principles is that the Court will not grant an interlocutory injunction, except in cases where there is some pecuniary or proprietary right of the plaintiff which requires protection. 41 C. W. N. 755=I.L.R. (1937) 1 Cal. 382. In a suit for a perpetual injunction a temporary injunction is to be granted or refused on a consideration of the following points: (1) Has the plaintiff made out a good prima facie case? (2) On which side lies the balance of convenience? 1939 S. 17=179 I.C. 626. It is not open to a Court frivolously and vexatiously to issue a temporary injunction without proper cause and due consideration. 14 L. 330=34 P.L.R. 975=1933 L. 203. See also I. L.R. (1937) 1 C. 382; 1939 Sind 17; 1939 Sind 256. Where the relief asked for by way of an injunction on an interlocutory application is in effect the whole relief that is asked for in the plaint in the suit, the effect of granting the injunction will be to decide the whole suit. It is not a rule, and it is not the usual practice of the Court to grant such an injunction on motion, especially when there is no statement of pleading as to the injury likely to be caused by not getting the injunction or as to the urgency of the matter. 40 C.W.N. 1201. The issue of a temporary injunction is governed by the same principles as the grant of a permanent injunction at the trial of a case. That the suit would become infructuous if it did not issue is by itself no ground in law, if there was no prima facie case made out in support of it. 14 L. 330=34 P.L.R. 974=1933 L. 203. See also 151 I.C. 862=1933 S. 136. The issue of a temporary injunction staying further proceedings in another Court in the exercise of equitable jurisdiction was refused as the petitioner could easily raise his plea of want of jurisdiction in the other Court. 1933 L. 592. When a suit is pending in a Civil Court, the Court has jurisdiction under this rule to issue a temporary injunction if it is satisfied that injury is likely to be caused to the plaintiff. The fact that the Court ultimately discovers that the suit does not lie or that it should fail on some other ground does not oust its jurisdiction under that rule. 1935 A.L.J. 139=1935 A. 106. If the relief which the plaintiff seeks cannot be granted, no temporary injunction can be issued by the Court. 152 I.C. 98=1934 A. 876. Under sub-R. (1), Court may grant an injunction restraining a person living outside its own jurisdiction from instituting certain proceedings. 130 I.C. 252=57 C. 1280=1931 C. 279. RESTRAINING INTRODUCTION OF BILL IN LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.—An interlocutory injunction can only be granted if the Court is satisfied that in all probability the declaration which is the foundation for the permanent injunction claimed will be made when the suit comes to be tried. The Court cannot make a declaration that a Bill in the form in which it was at that moment sought to be introduced in the Legislative Assembly is ultra vires, because a Bill as such has no legal effect and if the declaration refers to a future Act which may be passed, the Court is then invited to deal with a future and hypothetical question which may never arise. In a suit for such a declaration, it follows no interlocutory injunction can be granted. 56 B. 254=34 Bom.L.R. 231=1932 B. 166.

DISOBEDIENCE OF INJUNCTION—CONSEQUENCES.—A temporary injunction under the provisions of R. 1, O. 39 is not a stay order issued by a Court competent to stay execution proceedings under any provision of the Code, authorizing such an order. The effect of non-compliance with an injunction issued under O. 39, R. 1 is to make the offender liable to the punishment prescribed in O. 39, R. 2 (3) and a completed sale in contravention of an injunction under O. 39 R. 1 is not a nullity as being without jurisdiction. A temporary injunction under O. 39, is not a mandatory direction to a Court, as is a stay order of the kind provided for by the Procedure Code, but is an order directed against a particular person which can be issued only in the circumstances described in R. 1. 40 P.L.R. 518=1938 Lah. 220. When there is an injunction against Government in respect of certain quarry, persons who with knowledge of the injunction and with permission of Government work at the quarry are guilty of contempt. Provisions of R. 2 (3), O. 39 were intended to be applied to breach of injunction under R. 1 also but as Cl. (4) No attachment under this rule shall remain in force for more than one year, at the end of which time, if the disobedience or breach continues, the property attached may be sold, and out of the proceeds the Court may award such compensation as it thinks fit, and shall pay the balance, if any, to the party entitled thereto.

Where a temporary injunction was obtained against a person directing him not to get the girl who had gone to his house married and when the person was not responsible in promoting or bringing about the marriage but did not do all that he could do to prevent it, it cannot be said that he actually disobeyed the order as it was passed and so an order for his detention in prison is incompetent. 118 I.C. 675=1929 N. 273. O. 39 has to be read along with S. 94. 7 L.W. 328. R. 2 applies to case of disobedience to an order to do or abstain from doing a single act. Provisions of sub-rule apply equally to disobedience of injunctions whether under Cl. (1) and (2) of the rule or under S. 94 of the Code. 50 M.L.J. 401=1926 M. 574; 1929 M. 273; 7 L.W. 328. Court is not bound under R. 2 (3) in the first instance to attach property and then only order imprisonment. The matter is one for the discretion of Court. 39 M. 907=30 M.L.J. 523; 26 M.L.J. 37=22 I.C. 404. Attachment of property is not a suitable form of remedy except where a person is ordered to do something and he does not do it. 31 C. W.N. 814=1927 C. 598=105 I.C. 348. An order for attachment of property or imprisonment of the person guilty of disobedience of an injunction is not an enforcement of the order of injunction but is a punishment for past disobedience. 31 C.W.N. 814. Abettors of contempt of Court cannot be punished. 1927 C. 598=105 I.C. 348=31 C.W.N. 814.

HIGH COURT—POWERS OF.—The powers of High Court to issue injunctions in appropriate cases are not confined to the provisions of O. 39. Any orders may be made which the ends of justice or expediency may require. 136 I.C. 346=1932 M. 180; 137 I.C. 519=36 C.W.N. 291=1932 C. 353.

APPEAL.—An order refusing to attach property of a person who had disobeyed an injunction is appealable. 26 M.L.J. 37=22 I.C. 404. See also 1922 L. 347; 118 I.C. 675=1929 N. 273.

O. 39, R. 2 (3).—Cl. (3) of this rule applies to disobedience generally to an injunction granted by the Court. The words "in case of disobedience," in that clause are wide enough to cover breaches of an injunction issued under R. 1 of O. 39, for which no penalty is provided elsewhere. 16 Pat. L.T. 309=1935 Pat. 274; 15 Pat. 320=17 Pat.L.T. 61=1936 Pat. 23. An application under O. 39, R. 2 (3), for disobedience of an injunction, should not be granted where the applicant has not at heart the honour of the Court whose authority he says has been condemned but is actuated by personal motives. 43 P.L.R. 447. Sub-R. (3) of R. 2 of O. 39 does not apply to injunctions issued under R. 1 of O. 39, but applies only to injunctions issued under R. 2 of that order. The enforcement of injunctions issued under O. 39, R. 1 is to be under the provisions of S. 36 and O. 21, R. 32. The proceedings for the enforcement of an injunction under O. 39, R. 1, are transferable under S. 24. On the analogy of S. 37, C.P. Code, a Court which has passed an interim order which requires execution, ceases to have jurisdiction in the matter of enforcing the order, when it ceases to have jurisdiction to deal with the suit and consequently the power of enforcing the order lies in the Court which would deal with the interim proceedings, if it began at that time. 1941 A.L.J. 46=1941 O.W.N. 48. See also 61 C.L.J. 543. (2) No attachment under this rule shall remain in force for more than one year at the end of which time, if the disobedience or breach continues the property attached may be sold, and out of the proceeds the Court may award such compensation as it thinks fit, and shall pay the balance, if any, to the party entitled thereto."

order restraining alienation of certain properties, Court can punish the party in contempt under O. 39, R. 2 (3). 131 I.C. 343=1931 L. 201. Before a Court commits a party to prison for alleged disobedience to an order for injunction in a case where the party contends that he received no notice of the order, the party should be given an opportunity of establishing his contention. 137 I.C. 425=1932 C. 719.

O. 39, R. 3.—If the object is likely to be defeated by delay, Court may grant an ex parte injunction without notice to opposite party. 64 I.C. 534=13 Bur.L.T. 227. Appellate Court can order stay of an interim injunction ex parte provided it thinks that a fit case has been made out. Where the interim order, so far as the relief claimed in the suit is concerned, really decides the action, appellate Court is justified in ordering a stay so that as far as that issue is concerned it might remain open until it has heard the appeal. An order in appeal does not confirm the interlocutory order. A totally different order, based on the merits, is passed which dissolves the injunction. The stay order merely operates to prevent for the time being the injunction taking effect. When the injunction itself is dissolved, the stay order is completely vacated. 136 I.C. 822=1932 A. 223.

O. 39, R. 4.—When injunction is granted ex parte, liberty to apply to Judge to vary or set aside his order must be implied. 9 A. 36 (42). Appeal. See O. 43, R. 1, Cl. (r) and 15 A. 8. O. 39, R. 4 is intended to cover two classes of cases: (1) when an urgent order ex parte has been passed under R. 3, R. 4 will allow the party against whom it has been passed to apply to have it discharged or varied or set aside; and (2) when an injunction order already in force has, owing to fresh circumstances, become unduly harsh or unnecessary or unworkable, it would be open to either party to apply under R. 4 to the Court to discharge, vary, or set it aside. R. 4 is not intended to set at naught the ordinary cursus curiae that, once a Court has decided a matter after giving each side an opportunity of being heard, its order is final and binding on itself as much as on the parties, and cannot be re-opened except on the presentation of some new matter not available when the original order was passed. 1929 M. 803=120 I.C. 862. Where an order for an injunction has been passed and an application for its discharge is made, the order if it allows the application is clearly appealable because it results in an order being discharged. Also if the application is dismissed still the order is made under O. 39, R. 4 which attracts O. 43, R. 1 (r) which makes the order appealable. 1940 Nag. 45=1939 N.L.J. 483. Whatever be the scope of this rule it cannot be that a party can appeal against a mere reiteration of the original order of injunction when he has failed to appeal against the original order. 1929 M. 803=120 I.C. 862.

O. 39, R. 5.—The rule applies only to Corporations strictly so called, i.e., to bodies authorised by law to act as a person in law and not unregistered or unincorporated bodies or associations. 38 I.C. 572=9 Bur.L.T. 247. On this rule, see also 55 A. 399=1933 A. 344. Equity acts in personam and an injunction must be addressed to the defendant personally. Pendency of proceedings is a condition precedent for appointment of receiver. Where on an appeal against preliminary decree, the High Court stayed further proceedings, the original Court has no power to appoint receiver. 1937 M. 163=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 605. Execution of decree—Properties outside jurisdiction—Receiver—Power of Court to appoint. 40 C.W.N. 1056.

GROUND FOR APPOINTMENT—AND WHO CAN BE APPOINTED.—Grounds for appointment of a Receiver, see 11 I.C. 703; 1926 S. 83; 106 I.C. 167; 134 I.C. 799=1931 L. 688. An appointment of Receiver can be made only on proof of strong grounds of necessity. 11 I.C. 403. The first essential condition is that the applicant must have "an interest" in the property to be affected by the order. 61 I.C. 849=6 P.L.J. 366. Receiver should not be appointed where no risk of loss is shown. 12 I.C. 198=4 Bur.L.T. 241. See also 1933 S. 231. Where during the course of trial a receiver was appointed and a decision is given by that Court as to the rights of parties, the property can no longer be said to be in medio and as such there is no justification for the appointment of a receiver pending appeal. 1939 O.W.N. 59=1939 Oudh 94. When there has been a decision on the merits deciding the rights of the parties in the respective properties concerned, the property cannot be said to be any longer 'in medio'. A receiver cannot be appointed where it would have the result of depriving the possession of the defendant who had possession up to the decision of the suit by the lower Court and who has continued to be in possession since, after a recognition of his title by one Court. 1939 O.W.N. 615=1939 Oudh 229. The power conferred by O. 40, R. 1 should be exercised cautiously and only in cases where the applicant for the appointment of a receiver has made out a prima facie title to the property. Where the defendant has been in possession for about fifteen years, without any objection from any body, and the plaintiff seeking to oust him from possession does not even allege that the property is in danger of being wasted by the defendant, no case is made out for the appointment of a receiver to take possession of the property. 1939 O. 61=1938 O.W.N. 1153. Where there are rival claimants to the property in dispute and the property has never been in the possession of any of the parties to the suit since the death of the deceased owner and the situation is fraught with the possibility of waste and mismanagement, it would eminently be a case for the appointment of receiver. 1941 O.W.N. 272. Public nature of the matter has got to be taken into account in the appointment of Receiver. 96 I.C. 30=1926 C. 1092. It would be very improper to take property out of the hands of ladies of culture and well capable of managing the property and of examining accounts. 11 I.C. 703. On application for appointment of a receiver, plaintiff must show that prima facie defendant has no title to the property and that he (the plaintiff) has the title. 161 I.C. 838=1936 O.W.N. 466. The burden of proof is on the applicant to show that it is just and convenient that a receiver should be appointed, and it is not for the opposite party to show cause why no receiver should be appointed. 1937 O.W.N. 243=1937 O. 232. Mere existence of apprehension in the mind of the plaintiff that the defendant would wrongfully dispose of his property is not alone sufficient to justify an order for receivership without further inquiry as to the basis of these apprehensions and existence of such apprehensions. 1936 L. 102. As to what is meant by "just and convenient". 28 C.W.N. 86=1924 C. 456; 34 C.W.N. 440=1930 C. 610. "Just and convenient" means just and convenient in view of the equities in favour of both the parties. 1932 C. 189=59 C. 205=35 C.W.N. 1066. See also 132 I.C. 349=1931 O. 307; 34 C.W.N. 440=1930 C. 610; 177 I.C. 612=1938 Lah. 12; 1938 All. 3; 1940 A.M.L.J. 34. The words do not mean just or convenient to one party or the other but just or convenient according to judicial notions of what is right and just. 159 I.C. 93=1935 M. 875. Appointment of Receiver is just and convenient if the main object is to preserve the property. 1923 L. 239 (2). Receiver should be an impartial person and wholly disinterested in the subject-matter of the suit. 18 I.C. 398=17 C.W.N. 581; 28 C.W.N. 86=1924 C. 456. But it is competent to Court upon the consent of parties and in a proper case, without such consent to appoint a person mixed up in the subject-matter of the litigation, if it will be beneficial to the estate. 28 C.W.N. 86=1924 C. 456. Order on an application under O. 40, R. 1 should not express an opinion on the merits of the case. (Ibid.) Appointment of an interim Receiver pending the final appointment of a common manager can be made only on evidence of necessity for such appointment. 34 I.C. 83. O. 40, R. 1 does not lay down notice to the opposite party. (22 C. 459; 21 M.L.J. 821; 107 P.R. 1908; 36 P.R. 1910, Dist.) 1923 L. 239 (2). See also 42 P.L.R. 475. Where there are a large number of outstandings due to the estate of the deceased person, some of which are liable to be lost owing to the efflux of time, and the heir of the deceased is a lady and there is a bona fide dispute between the parties, Court is justified in appointing a Receiver to recover the outstandings and to bring the proceeds into Court. 1923 L. 239 (2)=71 I.C. 743. Court has jurisdiction to appoint a receiver to maintain the status quo ante pending a suit or appeal. (Ibid.) Appointment of Receiver in suit in which possession cannot be decreed to plaintiff. 92 I.C. 599=1926 M. 155. Court has got power to appoint a Receiver in a declaratory suit and appellate Court should not interfere with the discretion exercised by the lower Court. 94 I.C. 39=27 Punj.L.R. 138; 45 L.W. 519=1937 Mad. 163=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 605. Where defendant has been put in possession of the properties in dispute by the Revenue Courts after contest on the ground of his having a prima facie title to them, it would not be just and convenient for the Court to deprive him of that possession and to appoint a receiver in his place to manage the properties. 166 I.C. 983=1937 O.W.N. 197. Poverty of the defendant trustee is no ground for appointment of a Receiver unless there be in addition some danger to the estate. 29 M.L.J. 209=29 I.C. 485; 1933 Sind 231. The late production of accounts and documents by manager is not sufficient to warrant the appointment of a Receiver. 17 I.C. 261=1912 M.W.N. 904. Mere fact that a Muhammadan widow is entitled to a lien for dower on her husband's estate is no ground for refusing the appointment of a receiver summarily without enquiry. 1923 N. 21. That receiver has not been appointed at a prior stage of the suit is no ground for refusing the application at a later stage, when fresh grounds are made out. 1923 N. 21. Court has no jurisdiction to appoint a receiver at the instance of a simple money-creditor unless he establishes a special equity in his favour. 61 I.C. 849=6 P.L.J. 366; 34 C.W.N. 440=1930 C. 610. respect of defendant's properties (not the subject-matter of suit), even in a suit for recovery of amount due on a promissory note. 1935 Rang. 398. A prior incumbrancer desiring to take possession is entitled to have the Receiver obtained by a puisne incumbrancer discharged, and a Receiver of his own substituted. 61 I.C. 849=6 P.L.J. 366. The insolvency of an administrator is a good reason for appointing a Receiver. 48 I.C. 152=11 Bur.L.T. 127. It is obviously undesirable that receiver should be appointed by two Courts of concurrent jurisdiction, so that orders may be given possibly by one Court which may conflict with the orders that are given in the other Court. Where there is a receiver already appointed, the proper procedure for protection of one's interest is not to apply to another Court of concurrent jurisdiction for the appointment of another receiver, but to apply to the Court which has already appointed a receiver for adequate protection. 42 C.W.N. 33. O. 41, R. 1 (2) is an enactment for the benefit of third parties and means that the wide words of sub-R. (1) of O. 41, R. 1 are not to be construed to justify the Court in removing from possession or custody of property a third party who has got a good title to such possession or custody as against the parties to the suit. The words "whom any party to the suit has not a present right so to remove" merely mean whom no party to the suit has a right so to remove. The provision is ex abundanti cautela. I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 82=40 Bom.L.R. 1266=1939 Bom. 54. The appointment of a Receiver, unless perfected by his taking possession of the property has no effect on the right of an attaching creditor. Accordingly an attachment of property made after the appointment of a Receiver but before he takes possession of the property would be a valid attachment which would have priority over the claims of the Receiver. This would be so not only when the property is immovable property but also when it is a debt. I.L.R. (1937) 2 Cal. 440=41 C.W.N. 1074. See also 45 C.W.N. 1104. The property in respect of which a receiver was appointed was a contingent one. The receiver gave notice to the debtor and the latter admitted his claim. Held, that the admission plus the notice already given immediately perfected the title of the receiver. 1941 Cal. 579.

SELECTION OF RECEIVER.—Ordinarily a party to a litigation should not be appointed a Receiver unless very exceptional circumstances are established to justify such an appointment. 18 C.L.J. 638=18 C.W.N. 533. See also 1929 Lah. 780. One of the parties to suit will not be appointed without the consent of the other. 19 I.C. 873=17 C.W.N. 974; 25 I.C. 602. Where the right to succeed to the estate of a deceased person is in dispute, a person to whom the deceased had bequeathed by her will the bulk of her property and who has been granted letters of administration may be appointed interim receiver on his furnishing sufficient security to safeguard the interests of whoever is ultimately found to be the rightful heir to the estate. 42 P.L.R. 475. See also 1941 Sind 112. Per Stone, C.J.—An application for the appointment of a receiver should not merely ask for the appointment of a receiver but should name out the person whom the applicant wants to be appointed as a receiver. If the application does not name out a receiver the Court should adjourn the matter for the naming of a receiver and not make an order granting the application and still leaving the matter at large as to who the receiver ought to be. There should not be two distinct orders, one stating that it is just and convenient to appoint a receiver and then a later order appointing a particular person as a receiver. I.L.R. 1938 Nag. 174=1938 Nag. 540. When a non-resident is appointed Receiver there must be adequate guarantee that he will be subject to the effective control of the Court. 19 I.C. 873=17 C.W.N. 974. That the Receiver resides at a great distance from the property to be managed, is not an absolute disqualification, but is an important circumstance to be taken into consideration. 19 I.C. 873=17 C.W.N. 974. A person who is guardian of an incapacitated defendant in a suit is not always disqualified to be Receiver. 35 I.C. 939=4 L.W. 285. While appointing a Receiver, the wishes of the creditors are entitled to a great weight, as they have virtually the right of nomination. 115 I.C. 881=1929 P. 114.

PRIMA FACIE CASE.—In an application praying for the appointment of a receiver, the burden of proof is on the applicant to show that it is just and convenient that a receiver should be appointed, and it is not for the opposite party to show cause why no receiver should be appointed. 1937 O. W.N. 243=1937 Oudh 232; 21 M. L.J. 821=11 I.C. 170; 3 Pat.L.T. 466; 43 I.C. 550; 1928 M. 813. PUBLIC OFFICER.—Receiver is public officer. 58 C. 850=35 C.W.N. 161=1932 C. 503.

REMUNERATION.—Court has a discretion if it thinks fit to allow him remuneration at a fixed rate. 1923 C. 516=76 I.C. 583. Receiver's remuneration must come out of the estate of the insolvent and the legal representatives of the insolvent cannot be made personally liable for the same. (Ibid.) The appointment should be made for the protection of property or the prevention of injury according to legal principles. The rule does not confer an arbitrary and non-regulated discretion on Court. 34 I.C. 693=23 C.L.J. 567; 9 I.C. 985=13 C.L.J. 495; 5 Lah.L.J. 583=1923 L. 623; 55 C. 720=32 C.W.

WASTE, WHAT IS.—A mere intention to transfer by a life tenant does not constitute waste but may constitute danger to the reversionary interests and to protect them Court may appoint a Receiver. 44 B. 727=57 I.C. 553. Where it is clearly proved that an estate is so grossly mismanaged that the whole estate will be jeopardised, it is a clear case for the appointment of Receiver. 25 I.C. 406=18 C.W.N. 537; 21 M.L.J. 821=11 I.C. 870. See also 134 I.C. 799=1931 L. 688; 1933 A. 138 (waste by widow); I.L.R. EFFECT OF APPOINTMENT.—Property in the possession of Receiver is in the custody of the law and cannot be seized under a writ of attachment or execution. 47 M. 47=43 M.L.J. 211. Where Receiver is appointed, property vests in him only when the orders under O. 40, R. 1 (b), (c) and (d) are made. 1923 N. 6. Appointment of receiver for collecting amount due under decree—Effect of—Creditor getting such receiver appointed—Right to priority over attaching creditor. A step of that kind is no more than getting the property attached or issuing an injunction against the defendant not to alienate his property, and it does not amount to a charge and therefore does not confer priority over others who had obtained order of attachment. 153 I.C. 259 (2)=1935 M. 146. Effect of appointment does not bar execution. 6 Pat.L.J. 208=62 I.C. 469. Where Agent of owner is appointed Receiver, whether it terminates the agency. 1936 M. 980. CONFLICT OF JURISDICTION—SECOND RECEIVER BY ANOTHER COURT.—Where a receiver is appointed, his possession is that of the Court which appointed him and it cannot be disturbed without its leave. If any one, whoever he may be, disturbs the possession of the receiver, he will be guilty of contempt of Court. It follows from this that when a receiver is appointed by one Court to take charge of any properties, another receiver cannot as a rule be appointed by a different Court to take possession of or exercise any control over the same properties without the leave of the former Court. To make any such appointment would be obviously inconsistent with the first appointment and result in a conflict of jurisdictions. 146 I.C. 966=1933 L. 671.

RIGHTS OF THIRD PARTIES.—A Court cannot appoint a receiver to take charge of property which is in the possession of third party and when that party claims to be in possession thereof in his own right. 1935 Rang. 398. Though O. 40 governs the appointment of receivers in execution, R. 1 (2) of O. 40 bars the appointment of a receiver to take possession of, and to realise the income from, the occupancy and expropriatory tenancies of a judgment-debtor. To so appoint is contrary to the Tenancy Act and is tantamount to an ejectment of the tenant. 1937 A.L.J. 267=1937 All. 389. See 17 L.W. 64=1923 M. 304. The rule that the possession of Receiver may not be disturbed without leave, does not apply, so far as third persons are concerned until a Receiver has been actually appointed, and is in possession. 23 C.W.N. 952=29 C.L.J. 424. Receiver—Possession of—Legality of—Right of third parties to question—Order appointing Receiver not challenged—Effect. 56 M.L.J. 95.

CONTEMPT BY RECEIVER.—22 C. 648; see also 30 C. 696.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.—Where a receiver is appointed to take possession of property the person in possession of property cannot interfere with the Receiver, but should apply to the Court for redress. 18 C.W.N. 289=22 I.C. 417.

DISCHARGE OF RECEIVER.—23 C.L.J. 217=20 C.W.N. 789. Court which has the power of appointing the Receiver is also invested with the power of dismissal. 1931 A.L.J. 13=1931 A. 72. A Receiver appointed in a suit for proceedings by consent of parties, may be discharged, even before the termination of the suit or proceeding. 13 L.W. 367=61 I.C. 562. Neither the termination of the suit in decree nor the pendency of the appeal against that decree will put an end to the authority of the Receiver appointed to collect rents. 33 I.C. 69; 5 Pat.L.J. 513=1 Pat.L.T. 643. A Receiver who has once been appointed should be discharged only for proved incapacity. 115 I.C. 881=1929 P. 114.

HIGH COURT, POWERS OF.—High Court has no jurisdiction to examine the accounts in order to ascertain the liability of a Receiver appointed by a Subordinate Court, he not being an officer of High Court. 4 P.L.J. 636=54 I.C. 207. High Court has power to appoint a Receiver in a testamentary suit, 17 B. 388.

SUIT AGAINST RECEIVER.—Where the Receiver dies, further proceedings can be continued against his successor and no one else. 61 I.C. 888. Permission to conduct a suit implies permission to institute a suit. 63 I.C. 843. A permission granted by a Court to sue a Receiver relates back to the time of the institution of the suit. (Ibid.) A Receiver if an officer of Court—Suit against. 62 I.C. 768=26 C.W.N. 992. The necessity to obtain sanction before institution of a suit against the Receiver is imposed by the Common Law, merely to enforce due respect towards Courts of Justice, and omission to do so does not affect the jurisdiction of Courts. Per Sadasiva Aiyar, J., in 70 I.C. 759=42 M.L.J. 339; 43 M. 793=59 I.C. 568. It is illegality which can be cured by obtaining it during the course of litigation. 43 M. 793=59 I.C. 568; 61 I.C. 888; 63 I.C. 843. It is clear law that as a Receiver is an officer of Court he cannot be sued for acts done in his official capacity by a third party except with the leave of Court. 1 R. 138=1923 R. 208; 102 I.C. 797=1927 P. 297=8 P.L.T. 629.

LEAVE OF COURT.—Proceedings cannot be instituted against a Receiver without the permission of Court and if so instituted they constitute a contempt of Court. 19 C.L.J. 191=18 C.W.N. 546. See also 130 I.C. 836=1931 P. 204 (Permission of Court is necessary before attaching properties in the hands of the Receiver). Where an estate is in the possession of a receiver appointed by Court, a suit for possession of the estate from that receiver can only be brought with the leave of Court. It is necessary for the plaintiff to apply to the Court which has appointed the receiver for sanction for the purpose of bringing the action for possession of the estate. Where property is in possession of an officer of the Court, if there are legal or equitable rights in that property which are not vested in the parties to the action or the persons before the Court, and which are not the subject of the administration then going, then the person who claims to enforce those rights must apply for leave to enforce them. Whether such right be a right to take possession, or a right to bring an action, or a right to do various other things, the Court requires an application to be made to it for leave to enforce the same. If no such sanction is obtained, the action commenced without the sanction must fail. 19 Pat.L.T. 35=1938 Pat. 487. See also 186 I.C. 854=1940 Rang. 59. To charge a Receiver for the breach of the ordinary criminal law of the country sanction is not necessary. 15 I.C. 491=13 Cr.L.J. 491. It is not a general rule of law that sanction of Court appointing a Receiver is not necessary in the case of criminal proceedings against him arising out of his office. 15 I.C. 489=13 Cr.L.J. 489. Leave of Court is necessary both for execution of a decree against Receiver of the property of judgment-debtor as well as for prosecuting an application for rateable distribution against Receiver. 14 C.L.J. 55=15 C.W.N. 925. An application for rateable distribution of the proceeds of sale in the hands of a Receiver does not require leave of Court. 34 Bom.L.R. 1405=1932 B. 622. Receiver appointed by appellate Court—Proper Court to grant sanction for attachment of properties in his possession. 1929 I. 147. Such leave may be obtained at a subsequent stage of the proceedings. 14 C.L.J. 55=15 C.W.N. 925. A prohibitory order against the Receiver is not equivalent to the grant of leave to execute the decree. (Ibid.) Receiver appointed by one Court—Subsequently sued in another Court with leave of the appointing Court. Such leave does not render him amenable to the other Court's jurisdiction and an injunction against him is illegal. 7 P. 684=1928 P. 321.

LEAVE OF COURT NOT NECESSARY FOR EXERCISE OF STATUTORY RIGHT.—The rule forbidding the bringing of a suit against a Receiver is a mere procedure of Court not resting on any statutory authority, whereas the right to bring a suit under O. 21, R. 63 was statutory; and a statutory right to sue cannot be defeated by any rule of practice. 37 L.W. 346=147 I.C. 526=1933 M. 340.

LEAVE TO SUE.—A Receiver appointed under the Code merely holds the estate on behalf of the Court. The estate does not vest in him, nor does he in any way represent it. Leave of Court is necessary in order that by impleading him the estate may be bound. A Receiver under the Insolvency Act holds a different capacity altogether. He is more than a mere officer of Court; the insolvent's estate vests in him. He alone, and no one else, represents the estate. No leave is accordingly necessary for suing him. 21 A.L.J. 737=46 A. 16. But where a party to a suit is appointed Receiver, leave is not pre-requisite to his filing suit in respect of the property. He may sue as party. By being appointed Receiver, he does not lose his privilege as a party. The strictness of the rule as to the necessity of the leave applies more appositely to the case of the appointment of a person who is not a party to the suit or who is not interested in it. 55 C. 1216. Grant of subsequent leave will cure the defect. 46 C. 352=23 C.W.N. 496; 56 I.C. 424=22 Bom.L.R. 319. A suit against a Receiver without leave of Court should be dismissed and not remanded to lower Court for obtaining the necessary leave. 24 I.C. 622. In every case a Receiver as such need not be sued but remedy can be obtained by party, by application to Court. 10 I.C. 673=9 M.L.T. 300. There is no statutory provision which requires a party to obtain leave of Court to sue a Receiver. The rule is based on public policy. 4 P.L.J. 20=47 I.C. 719; 51 I.C. 706. A Court should not refuse leave to sue ordinarily. 4 P.L.J. 20. A decree against a Receiver without permission must be set aside. 17 I.C. 916=3 Bur.L.T. 163.

POWERS OF RECEIVER.—A Receiver appointed by Court is not ordinarily the representative or the agent of either party in the administration of the trust. But his appointment is for the benefit of all parties and he holds the property of those ultimately found to be true owners. 1930 M. 4; 1928 C. 402. A Receiver is not a judicial officer. He is merely a custodian of properties by order of the Court. In that capacity it may be his duty to institute suits on behalf of the estate in the Court of the Judge. It is unthinkable that any such officer should also be the Judge in the Court in which the suits are instituted. Where Court authorises Receiver to hold an enquiry as to heirs in a contested succession proceedings, held, that the order was invalid in law. 121 I.C. 433=31 Bom.L.R. 1081=1929 B. 478. A receiver appointed by the Court under O. 40, R. 1 has a legal position different from that of the Official Trustee or the Administrator-General. Unlike the Receiver these Officers have an estate in the properties which they hold by virtue of their office and consequently a suit in respect of the properties they hold would be a suit against them in the legal sense. The same reasoning does not apply to a Receiver. 44 C.W.N. 74=1940 Cal. 1. Receivers appointed by the Court are officers of the Court, and are not the legal representatives or assigns of the parties to the suit; nor is it the practice of the Court to bring Receivers on the record in a suit and subject them to liability as to costs. Where an estate of which a Receiver has been appointed includes a decree to be executed, the proper procedure is for the Receiver to apply in the suit in which he was appointed (unless it already has the power) for liberty either to file a fresh darkhast in his own name for execution or to continue the existing darkhast (when one has been filed and is pending) in the name of the darkhastdar on giving him a proper indemnity as to costs. 40 Bom. L. R. 932=1938 Bom. 458. Where Receiver was given power to collect outstandings and do all things necessary for the realisation and preservation of the assets of firm, held, Receiver had no authority to mortgage the property of the firm. 44 M.L.J. 602=50 C. 338=1 R. 66=50 I.A. 77 (P.C.). A Receiver in possession of the estate is entitled to require payment of rent. 58 I.C. 301. A Receiver appointed by Court under O. 40, R. 1 has no power to bind the estate by a lease. The proper remedy of the lessee for breach of contract of lease entered into by Receiver is only against the Receiver personally and the lessee has no right of suit against the owner of the estate. The Receiver can claim to be indemnified from the estate if it is found that his action in leasing the property was correct. 1938 Rang.L.R. 611. In a partition suit in which a Receiver is authorised to sell properties there can be no difficulty in directing him to convey the properties. 43 C. 124=19 C.W.N. 817. Court may confer on a Receiver all such powers for the realisation of properties and the execution of the documents as the owner has. 43 C. 124. See also 45 C.W.N. 68 (Power to mortgage property subject of partition suit). Also all such powers as to bringing and defending suits. 27 I.C. 459=19 C.W.N. 45. If a joint Hindu family can sue to recover possession of family property, there is no reason why a Receiver of the joint family estate cannot likewise sue. 39

Bom.L.R. 224. Plaintiff appointed Receiver by Court cannot appropriate partnership moneys to his own use. 1925 P.C. 257=92 I.C. 274=23 L.W. 628 (P.C.). On appointment of a Receiver the estate vests in him and thereafter the Receiver is the only person competent to prosecute suits and obtain decrees. 11 I.C. 102=15 C.L.J. 339. The general powers of Receiver who can sue and defend a suit with the express permission of Court do not necessarily contain a power to sue and liability to be sued. 66 P.R. 1913=17 I.C. 751. A Receiver appointed in execution can prosecute a cause of action outside the jurisdiction of the Court by which he was appointed Receiver. 1921 M.W.N. 106=61 I.C. 753. A Receiver appointed to collect outstandings can file suits in that behalf even though the suit in which he was appointed has terminated in a decree or an appeal is pending from that decree. 33 I.C. 69. Termination of litigation in which Receiver was appointed—Absence of order of discharge—Appointing Court closed—Competency of Receiver to prefer appeal against adverse orders. 30 L.W. 713=57 M.L.J. 668. Receiver's powers are entirely conditioned by terms of his appointment, subject to any subsequent change by the Court under which he holds the appointment. 32 I.C. 207=30 M.L.J. 456. Suit by Receiver to cover property sold prior to his appointment. 35 M. 578. A Receiver appointed by a Court can oust a mortgagee decree-holder put in possession of the lands subsequent to his mortgage decree. 6 P.L.J. 37=61 I.C. 67. R. 1 does not permit of the appointment of a Receiver in respect of properties not comprised in suit. 17 I.C. 16. Receiver can collect only such assets as become due to the estate after his appointment. Rents falling due prior to his appointment are not such assets. 42 I.C. 785=1917 P.H.C.C. 311. Generally speaking a person who is appointed by Court as the manager of the property in dispute has no power to pledge the credit of an individual party. While in law it is more usual to have that doctrine applied to a Receiver and manager, the doctrine is equally applicable to any person appointed by the Court as an officer of the Court. 1929 C. 659. which sanction of Court has not been obtained. 58 C. 174=134 I.C. 1266=1931 C. 491. (See the same case as to rights of third parties and right of Receiver to be indemnified.) Where the applicant establishes a bona fide claim either against the former Receiver or against the estate as represented by his successor or against both, permission to sue the Receiver should be granted and refusal amounts to illegal exercise of jurisdiction. The court has no jurisdiction to consider the issues of law between the applicant and the Receiver on the petition for leave to sue and should leave them to be decided in the regular suit. 186 I. C. 854=1940 Rang. 59. As to personal liability of Receiver to pay costs, see 134 I.C. 272=1931 N. 143. Where Receiver is guilty of wilful default or gross negligence, the only provision for taking action against him, apart from proceeding against the security, is that his property can be attached. The fact that the rule provides for the enforcement of such an order by attachment implies that it is the only way to be enforced and that arrest and imprisonment are not to be the methods of enforcement. 1931 M. 760=62 M.L.J. 199.

REMEDY AGAINST RECEIVER.—26 M. 492. As to personal liability of Receiver, see 1925 P. 602; 58 C. 174=134 I.C. 1266=1931 C. 491.

REMOVAL OF RECEIVER.—19 W.R. 66; 13 M. 300. Court that appoints a Receiver has also power to remove him. 134 I.C. 454=1931 A. 72. The Court may remove a receiver who has failed to file his accounts in spite of its order and who considers his own personal interests to the exclusion of the interests of the parties. 1941 Cal. 144=I.L.R. (1940) 2 Cal. 102. Where two sets of defendants are joined in a suit on a mortgage and the mortgagee gets a receiver appointed to take charge of certain land covered by the mortgage, but subsequently one set of defendants are struck off the record as being not necessary parties to the suit, and the defendants so discharged apply that the receiver should be discharged and that the land under his possession should be released to them, they are entitled to the order prayed for, if it is found that they were in possession of the land at the time the receiver was appointed and if none of the other parties had the right to remove them from possession. 1938 Rang. L. R. 586=1938 Rang. 387. Where a receiver appointed under this rule is replaced by another Receiver, the new Receiver should be made a party to the proceedings. 28 M. 157. An order removing a Receiver is one falling under R. 1 (a) as the power of appointment includes also the power of removal and is appealable. 92 I.C. 940=53 C. 319=1926 C. 593. But see also 60 C. 162. Court may in the exercise of its discretion make any order discharging or removing a Receiver for the proper care and management of the property in its custody and Receiver has no right of appeal against the order of removal passed by the Court appointing him. 60 C. 162=1933 C. 52=57 C.L.J. 408.

APPEAL.—A decision that it is just and convenient to appoint a receiver does not amount to an order appointing a receiver and no appeal lies against such order until a receiver is actually appointed because it is possible that the final order appointing a receiver may never be made. 148 I.C. 184=1934 N. 64. See also I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 174=1938 Nag. 540. If the order appointing a receiver is made against a party to the suit, then he would have a right to appeal under O. 40, R. 1 (a) read with O. 43, R. 1 (s); if the Court orders the removal of a person from possession he would have a right of appealing against that order under O. 40, R. 1 (b) read with O. 43, R. 1 (s). But where an order is made against a person not a party to the suit, refusing to direct the receiver to release the property there is no appeal against it by the third party. His remedy is by suit. 1941 Rang.L.R. 300. In an appeal against an order on an application under O. 40, R. 1, it is dangerous for the appellate Court to express any opinion at all as to the merits of the suit or to indicate even briefly whether there appear grounds for supposing that one side or the other has a stronger prima facie case. 1940 A.M.L.J. 34. See also I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 590. An order merely declaring that a Receiver should be appointed is appealable even though nobody is named as Receiver. 13 Pat.L.T. 525=1932 P. 360 (following 40 M. 18 and 1 P. 625.) An order refusing to appoint a Receiver is open to appeal. 30 I.C. 545=17 Bom.L.R. 680. See also 17 C. 680; 10 M. 179 (F.B.); 1938 Lah. 10 (appointed receiver refusing to act—If appeal lies from order of appointment); 1937 Sind 161. In such an appeal it is inexpedient to go into the merits of the case pending in the lower Court. 32 C. 741. An order refusing an application for removal of a Receiver cannot be appealed from. 23 C.L.J. 217=20 C.W.N. 789; 24 I.C. 862. See also 40 C. 862. A Civil Court cannot appoint a Receiver in respect of properties for which a Criminal Court has already appointed a Receiver under S. 136, Cr.P. Code, unless the Magistrate withdraws the attachment. 40 C. 862=17 C.W.N. 1070. A Court of appeal will not, except in an extreme case, disturb an order for the appointment of Receiver by a Court below. 1923 L. 623; 1927 L. 65. See also 1937 O. W.N. 197=1937 Oudh 280; 42 P.L.R. 421=1940 Lah. 325; I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 590. If appointment of Receiver is not made on sound judicial lines, appellate Court should interfere. 96 I.C. 30=1926 C. 1092; 55 C. 720=32 C.W.N. 681=55 M.L.J. 423=1928 P.C. 49 (P.C.). NOTES.

Rang. L.R. 586=1938 Rang. 387 (Order dismissing application for removal of receiver is appealable). An order dismissing an objection to the appointment of a Receiver of property of which the objector is in possession is appealable. 48 I.C. 133=3 Pat. L.J. 573. The appointment of a receiver is a matter entirely within the discretion of the trial Judge and unless it can be shown by the appellant that the trial judge has not exercised a judicial discretion in the matter, he cannot succeed in his appeal against an order rejecting his application for the appointment of a receiver. 166 I.C. 983=1937 O.W.N. 197. No second appeal lies against an order appointing a Receiver in execution. 114 I.C. 839=1929 M. 20. Proceedings under S. 12, Guardians and Wards Act—Order appointing Receiver—Appeal lies. 1929 N. 119. An order giving directions to a Receiver for the restoration of property does not fall under O. 40, R. 1 (d) and is not appealable. 1933 L. 216=145 I.C. 200. O. 40, R. 4 gives the Court a judicial discretion to take action against the receiver or not, and when the Court has exercised its discretion by not taking such action, the appellate Court will not entertain an appeal against such exercise of discretion. 150 I.C. 750 (1)=1934 A. 907. Neither R. 1 nor R. 4 of O. 40 has any application to accounts from a third party relating to the period of a receiver's administration and the non-rendition of accounts by third party during that period is not appealable under any of these provisions of law. 1938 Lah. 328.

APPEAL TO PRIVY COUNCIL.—R. 13 of O. 45 applies where an application for appointing a Receiver is made after leave to appeal to Privy Council is granted, but the principle for appointing a Receiver shall be the same as laid down in R. 1. 12 I.C. 198=4 Bur. L.T. 241.

REVIEW.—An ex parte order passed under this rule is capable of being reviewed. 21 B. 328. Order appointing Receiver is discretionary with the trial Court—Court of review is free to exercise its own discretion. 27 L.W. 333=1928 P.C. 49 (P.C.).

COLLUSIVE SUIT—RECEIVER IN.—Even if a suit is collusive, the appointment of a receiver by a Court in that suit cannot be ignored so long as it stands. It is not competent for any person to interfere with the possession of a receiver on the ground that his appointment should not have been made. Persons who feel aggrieved by the order of the Court may take proper course to question its validity but so long as it lasts, it must be respected. 146 I.C. 966=1933 L. 671.

ALIENATION BY HINDU WIDOW—SUIT BY REVERSIONERS.—In a suit brought by a reversioner impeaching the alienation made by the widow of a share of the estate, it is legal to appoint a Receiver but under exceptional circumstances only. Where the property is being managed by a third person who has been trying for a long number of years to obtain the property by fair means or foul and who is expected to make as much profit out of the estate as he possibly can, thus prejudicing the rights of the reversioner and waste is proved, a Receiver may be appointed and the third party being an alienee outright of a certain share of the estate from the widow is liable to be ousted just as much as the widow. 1933 A. 138=144 I.C. 33. Where properties of deceased are in the possession of his widow and she is the executrix under the will left by the deceased, a mere claim to such property made by an alleged daughter of the deceased is no ground for appointment of receiver. 1934 R. 153.

DECLARATORY SUIT.—If there is property in dispute between parties, and the Court thinks it expedient that the property should be protected for the benefit of the party ultimately entitled to it pending the suit, the Court can properly appoint a receiver of it even in a suit which prays for no other relief than the declaration of some particular right or title. 45 L.W. 519=1937 Mad. 163=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 605.

EQUITABLE MORTGAGE.—The possession of deeds under circumstances consistent with a deposit by way of security raises a prima facie case for the appointment of a receiver on an interlocutory application; and in addition to proving that there is a prima facie mortgage it is incumbent upon the plaintiff to prove that interest is in fact in arrear. 1937 Rang. 399. In the case of English mortgages, a receiver can be appointed of the mortgaged property in execution in cases where sub-R. (2) of O. 40, R. 1, C.P. Code, would operate to prevent such an appointment. 42 C.W.N. 266=1938 Cal. 93.

EQUITABLE EXECUTION.—A person seeking 'equitable execution' by appointment of receiver must show that he was met by difficulties arising from the nature of the property, which prevented his obtaining relief at law. One principle to be applied is to see whether in lieu of the assets the amount due under the decree is likely to be realized within a reasonable time from the profits of the attached property. Another principle is that such an appointment should appear in the circumstances to be the best course both for the creditor and the debtor. 18 Lah. 486=39 P.L.R. 839=1937 Lah. 433.

EXECUTION PROCEEDINGS.—R. 1 is a general provision relating to appointment of receivers and receiver can be appointed in execution proceedings. 100 I.C. 298=1927 L. 190; 114 I.C. 839=1929 M. 20; I.L.R. (1941) Lah. 590; I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 37; 45 C.W.N. 1104. S. 51, C. P. Code prescribes the procedure in execution and lays down that the Court may, on the application of the decree-holder, order execution of the decree by appointing a receiver. No further restrictions have been placed on the power of the Court in this section, nor has the nature of the property been defined of which a receiver can be appointed. This section will therefore evidently be governed by the provisions of O. 40, R. 1. 162 I.C. 861=1936 L. 239. Hence where the judgment-debtor has a theatre and a receiver is appointed in execution of a decree against the judgment-debtor to receive the earnings collected and keep accounts but not to receive money at the doors, the money so earned is property within the meaning of O. 40, R. 1 and as such the order is not ultra vires, but is just and convenient. (Ibid.) A Court has jurisdiction to appoint a receiver even in execution of a money decree. To justify such an appointment, it is not necessary that there should be difficulties arising from the nature of the property against which execution is sought and which prevent the decree-holder from obtaining relief in the ordinary manner, i.e., by attachment and sale of the judgment-debtor's property. Where the decree-holder wants to get the property sold as soon as possible but the judgment-debtor is putting obstacles in his way by raising all sorts of objections and thus delaying the proceedings and the judgment-debtor is in the meantime appropriating the rents and profits paying little or nothing to the decree-holder, an order for the appointment of a receiver only till the property is sold in execution would be "just and convenient" under O. 40, R. 1. 42 P.L.R. 421=1940 Lah. 325. A receiver appointed in execution is quite as much as a receiver appointed in a suit, an officer of the Court, and holds moneys collected by him subject to the orders of the Court. All moneys in his hands are not necessarily to be regarded as appropriated towards the satisfaction of the decree. The Court has got the power to give directions to him in respect of the disbursements of the moneys and in proper circumstances such directions may also be for the benefit of the judgment-debtor. 1935 M. 1046=42 L.W. 615=69 M.L.J. 534. An appointment of receiver by way of execution cannot be obtained where the decree-holders can execute the decree in the ordinary manner. (1931 O. 307 and 1930 C. 502, Foll.) 1933 S. 231. A person applying for appointment of receiver in execution of a decree must make out reasonable ground for the appointment. The mere fact that the judgment-debtor presses the applicant to accept a smaller amount than the sum decreed or applies to Manager, Sind Encumbered Estates, for his aid does not constitute a valid ground for appointing a receiver, more especially when there is no danger of waste or destruction of the property. (1928 P.C. 49 and 1931 L. 668, Foll.) 1933 S. 231. The appointment of a Receiver has often been described as a process of equitable and profits of non-attachable property.

execution. Though it is not always necessary that legal execution should be exhausted before the appointment of a Receiver can be obtained in India where there is no distinction between law and equity, the rule holds good that, under ordinary circumstances, equitable execution ought not to be allowed to be resorted to when there is no impediment to execution being levied in the ordinary way as provided by the Code. The person seeking equitable execution should make out a proper case for it. He must show that he was met by difficulties arising from the nature of the property which prevented his obtaining relief by the usual statutory modes of execution and that it is necessary and advantageous to appoint a Receiver. 57 C. 964. See also 35 C.W.N. 1066=1932 C. 189=59 C. 205. Some of the points to be considered by the Court are: (1) Whether in view of the assets the amount due under the decree is likely to be realized within a reasonable time from the profits of the attached property; (2) whether the ordinary remedy by sale in execution is not sufficient. 35 C.W.N. 1066. The mere fact that judgment-debtor might harass decree-holder in recovering his dues on getting into possession is no ground for receivership. 35 C. W. N. 1066. See also 134 I.C. 799=1931 L. 688. A creditor is not generally debarred from proceeding to execution by appointment of Receiver. 23 C.W. N. 952=29 C.L.J. 424. The fact that a judgment-debtor will be reduced to poverty if his properties are allowed to be sold is no ground for the appointment of a Receiver. 28 I.C. 505. Right of a person to receive allowance charged on property is attachable but a Receiver cannot be appointed to receive money month by month. 16 C.L.J. 354=17 C.W.N. 662. In execution of a decree against a Ghatwal though the Ghatwali property could not be attached whether a Receiver of the rents and profits cannot be appointed so as to apply them in satisfaction of the decree. 39 C. 1010=16 C.W.N. 802. See also I. L. R. (1937) All. 267=1937 All. 389 (case of realizing income of occupancy and ex-proprietary tenancies of judgment-debtor). Payment of Chowkidars, Sardars and Government dues in a Ghatwali estate do not belong to the Ghatwal, while the rents and profits belong to the Ghatwal. 5 P.L.T. 34=3 P. 339. If decree is to be executed against him, these can be collected by a receiver appointed therefor. (Ibid.) A mere right to maintenance not being liable to attachment and sale, a Court has no power to appoint a Receiver to receive such maintenance and apply it in satisfaction of the decree. 40 M. 302=30 M.L.J. 361. When appointment of a Receiver is the only way to recover the decretal amount and when the interest of both parties can be safeguarded, the appointment is neither unjust nor inconvenient. 13 I.C. 285=11 N.L.R. 113. A Receiver can be appointed to receive rents (Ibid.) Mere convenience on the part of the decree-holder would not justify the appointment of a Receiver. 21 I.C. 283=16 O.C. 238. Where the judgment-debtors are in possession of the property by virtue of their having furnished the security demanded from them by the Court as a condition of execution being stayed, the decree-holder has not a present right to remove them from possession. The appointment of a receiver over part of that property with a view to the realization of costs awarded to him is barred. 1936 O. W.N. 595=1936 Oudh 370.

NOTES.

EXECUTION BY COLLECTOR.—The appointment of a receiver to take charge of the judgment-debtor's property is an exceptional remedy and when there is admittedly ample property of the judgment-debtor available for satisfaction of the decree, there is no good reason to appoint a receiver. Besides, when the execution proceedings are to be transferred to the Collector a receiver cannot be appointed. 1940 Lah. 345. See also 191 I. C. 704.

EXECUTION OF MORTGAGE DECREE.—Order 34 is self-contained and meant to provide for all matters it refers to. Its provisions do not allow of the application provided by O. 40 and a receiver cannot, therefore, be appointed in execution of a mortgage decree. (100 I.C. 735, Foll.) 143 I.C. 574=34 P. L.R. 815=1933 L. 687.

EXECUTION SALE.—Where a Receiver does not obtain special leave to bid at an execution sale, the sale in his favour is void. 59 C. 956=139 I.C. 186=36 C.W.N. 125=1932 C. 672.

INSOLVENCY.—Where subsequent to the appointment of a receiver of the property of the judgment-debtor at the instance of the decree-holder, the judgment-debtor is adjudicated insolvent and the possession of the property is made over to the Official Assignee, the receiver is only entitled to the costs and expenses incurred in the execution proceedings till the date of the order of adjudication to be paid out of the estate of the insolvent. The receiver's remedy for the other charges and expenses he has incurred, viz., rent due for premises of which he was in occupation and charges in respect of durwan and estate clerk will be against the person at whose instance he was appointed. I.L.R. (1941) 2 Cal. 37.

JOINT FAMILY PROPERTY.—A Receiver is appointed for the benefit of all the parties concerned in the litigation and is the representative of the Court and the parties interested in the litigation. If a joint Hindu family can sue to recover possession of family property, there is no reason why a receiver of the joint family estate cannot likewise sue. 39 Bom.L.R. 224=1937 Bom. 244.

LAND ACQUISITION CASES.—Under R. 1, Court has power to appoint a receiver of an estate and to direct him to accept the award of the land acquisition collector on behalf of the claimants. But the acceptance by the receiver of the award, will not take away the right of claimant to make a reference when the appointment has been made "without prejudice to the contentions of the parties concerned" as to the inadequacy of the compensation money payable. Even apart from the special direction of the Court under the general law relating to receivers, the right of reference would not be lost, as the appointment does not affect existing contracts or rights of action between the party whose property is placed in the hands of the receiver and others. 60 C.L.J. 184=30 C.W.N. 844=1934 C. 758.

MISCELLANEOUS PROCEEDINGS.—R. 1 does not restrict the appointment of a Receiver only in the case of suits. Section 141 extends the procedure to all proceedings. 43 C. 986=20 C.W.N. 1009; 1928 C. 256.

PARTITION SUITS.—Receivers in partition suits. 36 A. 19=11 A.L.J. 973; 45 C.W. N. 68. Receiver may be appointed in a partition suit to avoid scramble among co-sharers. 139 I.C. 670=1932 M. 542. Practice as to appointment of Receiver in a partition suit relating to joint family property. 55 I.C. 827=22 Bom.L.R. 217; 1923 L. 48; 18 C.L.J. 638=22 I.C. 601=18 C.W.N. 533. In all cases where a property is in the hands of one co-sharer and the share of the profits is withheld from the other, there is sufficient reason for appointing a Receiver. 117 I.C. 375=1929 L. 497. In the absence of a finding that the karnavan has been guilty of waste or mismanagement or neglect of duty or that there is an apprehension of such waste or mismanagement or neglect, the Court will not be justified in appointing a receiver of the properties of a Malabar tarwad, merely because some members of the tarwad have filed a suit for partition. 41 L.W. 353=1935 M. 402. It is open to the Court in a suit for removal of the manager of a Malabar tarwad appointed by a karar, to appoint an interim receiver when the circumstances require it; but the power of appointing a receiver should be exercised only when the circumstances of the case clearly not only justify, but also require it, as being the only means of protecting the rights of the junior members of the tarwad. Mere charges of mismanagement and fraud would not be sufficient. They must be established prima facie before the appointment of an interim receiver is made. 44 L.W. 498=1936 M. 817. For such evidence he must be given an opportunity and without it, it would not be proper to dispose of a petition on the materials on record. 44 L.W. 606=1936 M. 966=71 M.L.J. 629. In a suit by a minor for partition of the family properties, it was found that he was entitled to a half-share in the properties, that the quarrels in the family and the conduct of the defendant made it impossible for the plaintiff to get his fair share of the harvest and it also appeared that so long as the properties remained with the defendant the plaintiff would not be able to secure his fair share of the income. The lower Court appointed a receiver to harvest the crops. Held, that the circumstances of the case justified the appointment of a receiver. 1938 Mad. 730=(1938) 1 M. L.J. 863. Where in a suit for partition of the movable and immovable property, it is likely that debts may be realised by the defendants without the plaintiff's knowledge or settlement of these debts may be arrived at by the defendants in a manner prejudicial to the plaintiff, it is just and convenient to appoint a receiver during such suit. 176 I.C. 919=1938 Lah. 10.

IN PARTNERSHIP SUIT.—The ordinary rule that no party is appointed as receiver except by consent has been departed from only in exceptional cases, as for instance, in a case of partnership where there are no allegations of fraud and where the carrying on the business depends on the personal credit of one of the members of the firm. 148 I.C. 459=1934 C. 444. In all cases of partnership the true rule is that a receiver is generally appointed for realising the assets of the harbar with a view to its winding up and for that purpose to carry on the business in so far as is necessary and incidental to such winding up. Court does not take upon itself the management of a partnership except as incidental to winding up. 148 I.C. 459=1934 C. 444. Where in a suit by a partner for dissolution of partnership a receiver is appointed of the assets of the partnership, the remedy of the creditor who had obtained a decree against the partnership firm is either to apply to the Court which appointed the receiver for leave to attach some specific property or for an order charging the assets in the hands of the receiver on giving an undertaking to deal with the charge according to the orders of the Court. There is no doubt that the application for a charging order must be made to the Court by which the receiver was appointed. But where the Court which appointed the receiver in the partnership suit and passed the decree in the creditor's suit is the same, and all the parties in both suits are present, including the receiver, there can be no objection to a charging order being made on an application made in the creditor's suit, instead of in the partnership suit, and the cause title can be formally amended. The effect of a charging order will be to give the judgment-creditors priority over creditors who have not proceeded to judgment. 45 C.W.N. 1104. The application of a Receiver to take charge of the partnership assets, does not transfer the ownership therein from the partners to the Receiver. 36 I.C. 980=91 P.R. 1917; 12 C.L.J. 368=7 I.C. 75. Where a dissolution is inevitable and the partners are on bad terms, the usual way of guarding their interests is by appointing a Receiver and ordering the good will of the business and the stock-in-trade to be sold, the partners being at liberty to bid at the sale. 8 Bur.L.T. 57=29 I.C. 684; 45 I.C. 224=11 S.L.R. 115. Guiding principles for appointment of Receiver in partnership suit. 45 I.C. 224=11 S.L.R. 115.

PARTIES BEING MINORS OR FEMALES.—Though under the Code, the Court has discretion to appoint a Receiver without security it should obviously be done only in the most exceptional circumstances. Where all the parties to the suit, except the respondent were females or minors, the Receiver should generally not be allowed, without giving adequate security, to have unfettered control of money and securities to a large amount. 59 I.A. 311=7 Luck. 382=63 M.L.J. 658 (P.C.).

RAIYATI HOLDINGS.—In the face of the clear language of O. 40, R. 1 (2), it must be held that a Court has no power to appoint a receiver of the raiya holdings held by a judgment-debtor in Chota Nagpur, a sale of which is prohibited by the Chota Nagpur Tenancy Act. The general power given to the Courts under O. 40, R. 1 (1) is curtailed by sub-R. (2). Both the sub-rules have to be read together as forming part and parcel of one rule. 1941 P.W.N. 580=22 Pat.L.T. 798.

MAINTENANCE SUITS.—Where under a decree for maintenance decree-holder is entitled only to proceed against a house which has been made a charge for payment of maintenance and the maintenance is allowed to fall in arrears it is highly desirable to appoint a receiver for paying off arrears as well as for ensuring punctual payment of maintenance in future. 146 I.C. 1024=1933 L. 826. Although a Jahagir for maintenance is inalienable and therefore unattachable in execution of the decree, a receiver can be appointed to manage the jahagir for the benefit of the decree-holders subject to a suitable allowance for the maintenance being made in favour of the judgment-debtor. Executing Court need not fix the suitable allowance when making the order of the appointment of a receiver. It will have to be fixed on the amount of profits which come into the hands of the receiver and not upon any estimated income of the property. 1933 N. 266.

IN MORTGAGE SUIT.—The Court is entitled to appoint a receiver under O. 40, R. 1 whenever it is deemed just and convenient to do so; for example, in a mortgage suit when interest is in arrear the Court will normally appoint a receiver at the instance of the mortgagee as of course, whether or not the property appears to be of sufficient value to cover the mortgage debt and interest, and whether or not the right of the mortgagee to obtain a personal decree against the mortgagor subsists or has been lost. 14 R. 292=1936 R. 290; 12 R. 437=1934 R. 321; 56 M. 915=1933 M. 570=65 M.L.J. 222

(Overruling 1933 A.L.J. 51) that in a suit for sale on the basis of a simple mortgage, the Court is not competent to appoint a receiver of the property mortgaged pending the decision of an appeal against the mortgage decree. The Court in a suit on a simple mortgage has jurisdiction to appoint a receiver of the mortgaged property whether before or after the preliminary decree whether or not the fact that the interest is in arrear would by itself be sufficient ground for appointment of a receiver; where the rates and taxes as well as interest are in arrear, the property is in jeopardy, and in such a case it is just and equitable to appoint a receiver. I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 82=40 Bom. L. R. 1266=1939 Bom. 54. It is settled law that in the case of a simple mortgage without possession the intention of the parties is that the mortgagor shall ordinarily remain in possession of the mortgaged property till it is brought to sale in execution proceedings for the payment of the mortgage debt. Consequently a receiver will be appointed pending a suit on the basis of a simple mortgage only if there exists special circumstances in the case. 40 P.L.R. 541. The Court will not appoint a receiver in execution of mortgage decree unless the circumstances are such as to make the sale and of the properties a matter of serious difficulty. Once a receiver in execution is appointed, the mortgagee will, as a rule, have little inducement to bring the properties to sale will tend to let matters drag on indefinitely. If the properties are producing a good income, it is probable that the mortgagee will have a more profitable investment than he will be able to obtain for the sale proceeds if the properties are brought to sale. This does not however mean that if there are substantial difficulties in the way of the sale the Court will not help the mortgagee by appointing a receiver. The Court in considering this question should also take into consideration the diligence of the mortgagee. The person who applies for appointment of receiver in execution of mortgage decree should be able to point to some actual difficulty in carrying out the sale, and not merely to a delay which he foresees on general grounds. It cannot be supposed that when a substantial portion of the mortgage securities is outside the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Original Side, the mortgagee can almost as of right obtain the appointment of a receiver in execution which is a form of relief which the Courts are slow to encourage. 42 C. W. N. 266=1938 Cal. 93. In a mortgage suit after the receiver has taken possession of the mortgaged property the mortgagor is under no duty to pay revenue in respect of the aforesaid property. It is the duty of the receiver to preserve the property by paying the public demand. 1941 Cal. 305. In a suit by a mortgagee without possession, on the application of the plaintiff, defendants who were subsequent mortgagees without possession but who obtained possession under a lease from mortgagor, were appointed receivers and they were asked to keep an account and also to keep intact the benefits accruing from the property during the pendency of the suit. Held, that the order was quite proper. [1925 L. 590, 1933 M. 570 (F.B.), Rel. on.] 1934 L. 717. See also 1940 Lah. 125. Where, pending an appeal against the preliminary decree in a mortgage suit, execution has been stayed but it was proved that the mortgagors were going beyond the ordinary course of village management in granting leases, held, that a receiver should be appointed to keep the property intact and that it would have a salutary effect if one of the mortgagors was himself appointed receiver with due safeguards. 16 N.L.J. 161=1933 N. 294. But see contra 43 I.C. 533. Whether the mortgagee is or is not entitled to possession, he may ask for a receiver, if the demands of justice require that the mortgagor should be deprived of possession. 31 C.L.J. 385=47 C. 418; 95 I.C. 632=1926 C. 1006; 52 M. 797=56 M.L.J. 115=1929 M. 138; 1929 L. 780. The appointment of a receiver at the instance of a mortgagee will be made as a matter of course if interest payable under the security is in arrears. 17 I.C. 202=16 C.W.N. 997. There may be special reasons, even in such a case, that will make it not "just and convenient" that a receiver should be appointed, e.g., when the interest has been in arrear for a very short period, or when the interest has been tendered but acceptance of it has been refused; but the fact that the property is more than sufficient to cover the mortgage debt is not a ground upon which the Court ought to refuse to appoint a receiver in such a suit. 14 R. 308=1936 R. 296 (S.B.). See however 1935 R. 525, where it was held that the most important criterion with regard to whether a receiver should or should not be appointed in a mortgage suit is whether the mortgagee, having originally been well secured, finds that the security is likely to be insufficient, either by reason of considerable accumulation of interest or by reason of depreciation of the value of the property itself. The considerations which apply in a suit between the mortgagee and mortgagor as regards the appointment of a receiver differ considerably from the considerations which arise where the interests affected are not of the mortgagor only, but also of the mortga-

(a) appoint a receiver of any property, whether before or after decree ;
 (b) remove any person from the possession or custody of the property ;
 (c) commit the same to the possession, custody or management of the receiver; and

(d) confer upon the receiver all such powers, as to bringing and defending suits and for the realization, management, protection, preservation and improvement of the property, the collection of the rents and profits thereof, the application and disposal of such rents and profits, and the execution of documents as the owner himself has, or such of those powers as the Court thinks fit.

(2) Nothing in this rule shall authorize the Court to remove from the possession or custody of property any person whom any party to the suit has not a present right so to remove.

gor's creditors. The appointment of a receiver in the mortgagee's suit will have the effect of depriving the creditors in the insolvency proceedings of the benefit of the usufruct of mortgaged property although the mortgagee has not yet obtained a final decree in the mortgage suit. See also 9 R. 565. Where a defendant who is entitled to share in mortgaged property is impleaded in mortgage suit for sale, on the ground that mortgage was for his benefit also, and there is no reasonable probability of mortgage being binding on his share and where it is certain that if a receiver is not appointed no part of the usufruct would go towards the mortgage debt, it would be just and convenient to appoint a receiver with direction for payment of the mortgagee's share of usufruct into Court. 163 I.C. 166=1936 R. 246. The appointment of a Receiver in a mortgage suit depriving as it does the mortgagor of his right to deal with the income negatives also the right of a Court auction-purchaser in execution of a money-decree to it even though the Receiver himself was made a party to the execution proceedings and leave of Court was granted to execute the decree against him. 56 M. 546=64 M.L.J. 682=1933 M. 293.

NOTES.

MORTGAGE EXECUTED BY RECEIVER UNDER COURT'S ORDER—ORDER SANCTIONING LOAN ON FIRST CHARGE—PRECEDENCE OF MORTGAGE OVER EARLIER ENCUMBRANCES.—In those cases where the order of the Court simply sanctions a loan by the Receiver on a first charge of the properties, but does not indicate the purpose for which the loan is sanctioned, the creditor who advances the money is entitled to assume that every thing was in order and so he ought to get what the Court had promised to give him, precedence over earlier encumbrances created by the parties. In such cases the Court cannot break faith with him. In cases, however, where the order itself recites the purpose of the loan, different considerations should apply. If the purpose of the loan as set out in the order is for preservation or protection of the property committed to the care of the receiver, or if the order is made in an administration suit or in a partition suit for working out the rights, liabilities and obligations of the co-sharers of the joint properties in the course of partition, the mortgagee from the receiver would have first charge in accordance with the order. The principle seems to be this. By the appointment of the receiver the Court takes upon itself the duty of protecting and preserving the subject-matter of the suit, which it discharges through its own officer, namely the receiver. It must therefore have all powers which are incidental and necessary for the discharge of that duty. It will have therefore the power to sanction loan to be raised by the receiver, and if necessary, to direct the mortgage to be executed by him for securing it to have precedence over earlier mortgages executed by the parties. He may be unaware of such prior mortgages or even if aware, may not give notice to those mortgagees. This power of the Court being thus incidental to and necessary for the performance of its duty to protect and preserve the subject-matter of the suit, which it has taken upon itself by appointing a receiver, must be measured and limited by its duty, where its exercise comes into conflict with the rights of third parties which are not before it and to whom no notice had been given, or who had not consented. In such a case the principle of breach of faith cannot be the decisive factor. It is a question of power or jurisdiction of the Court. 45 C.W.N. 68.

PRIVATE RECEIVER.—A private Receiver deriving his power from the appointment of a mortgagee is almost unknown to the Indian people. 40 I.C. 865.

POSSESSORY SUITS.—A bona fide possessor of property should not be superseded by a Receiver except on equitable grounds. 21 M.L.J. 821=11 I.C. 870. See also 1937 O.W.N. 197=1937 Oudh 280. The provisions of R. 1 refer to the case of the removal of a person other than a party to the suit and Court is not debarred from removing one of the parties from possession of the property. (18 C.W.N. 537; 24 M.L.J. 658, Foll.) 1922 L. 444; 61 I.C. 605=12 L.W. 254; 119 I.C. 687=1929 N. 283. The words "any person" in R. 1 (2) are not confined to persons who are not parties to the suit. A tenant could not be ousted to be replaced by a Receiver in an interlocutory order. 61 I.C. 605=12 L.W. 254. The possession of Court through its Receiver does not suspend the operation of adverse possession if the successful party is holding it by adverse possession. 40 I.C. 50=32 M.L.J. 85. A property not forming part of the pending litigation cannot be made over to a Receiver appointed by the Court without jurisdiction. 5 P.L.J. 513=1 P.L.T. 653=58 I.C. 405. Where a person refuses to deliver possession to a Receiver appointed by the Court appeal lies under O. 43, R. 1. 48 I.C. 779. If plaintiff does not ask for a particular relief, in the plaint, it would be in very rare cases and under exceptional circumstances that Court would feel disposed to grant it. Where the only substantive relief asked for by plaintiff was one for possession and there was no prayer for mesne profits either before the suit or from the date of suit, held, that as there were no exceptional circumstances apparent on the face of the record the appointment of a Receiver in order to have mesne profits safeguarded should not be made, nor an order against defendant for security for mesne profits should be passed. 1933 S. 364. In a suit for possession under S. 9 of the Specific Relief Act, which is a suit of a limited character and in which no mesne profits pending suit can be ordered, it is not competent to the Court to appoint a receiver to collect the rents of the property in dispute. 31 S.L.R. 28=1937 Sind 161.

SUCCESSION CERTIFICATE.—A receiver who is an officer of the Court although he represents the estate of the deceased, does not claim by right of succession. Therefore he can maintain a suit for a debt due to a deceased person to whose estate he has been appointed a receiver without a succession certificate. 1941 Cal. 579.

SCHEME SUIT.—R. 1 (2) is intended to protect third persons and not parties to the suit and does not debar Court from appointing a Receiver in a scheme suit. 20 I.C. 767=24 M.L.J. 658; 41 M.L.J. 545=16 L.W. 927=1923 M. 224. (b) For taking charge of money or of immovable property which is not sold, unless for special reasons it is otherwise ordered by the Court, on the estimated value—1 per cent.

SECRET AGREEMENT.—No secret agreement can be enforceable which puts the receiver in a position which might affect his advice to the Court. 1940 Rang.L.R. 129=1939 Rang. 217. Where under an agreement with J.D. the receiver got something more by way of interest to which he was not entitled under the decree, it was his duty to report the agreement to the Court and get it ratified. If the agreement was kept from the knowledge of Court it would amount to a fraud on the Court. The agreement thus being not enforceable at law, a claim for interest could not be sustained. 1940 Rang.L.R. 129=1939 Rang. 217.

TRUST PROPERTY.—As a trust property cannot be sold in execution of a decree against the trustee, the only method by which a judgment-debtor may be compelled to satisfy the claim of the execution creditor is by the appointment of a Receiver. 57 I.C. 70=30 C.L.J. 231. Where a person takes possession of the trust property in direct contravention of the terms of the trust deed which he himself executed and thus deprives the co-trustees of possession of the trust property, his act is entirely illegal. In a suit by him for the removal of the other trustees, it is certainly just and convenient that a receiver should be appointed. It is not necessary for the appointment of a receiver that proof should be forthcoming of any embezzlement or mismanagement on his part. 1936 O.W. N. 1134=1936 O. 337. Where the property in question is dedicated property, being wakf property, which under the terms of the wakf deed has to be managed by a trustee enjoined to perform certain religious duties as trustee, it would not be just and convenient to appoint a receiver of such property. No receiver of such property can therefore be appointed in execution of a simple money decree, as the property is not liable to attachment and sale and as the judgment-debtor has no proprietary interest in the same. S. 51, C.P. Code, must be read subject to O. 40, R. 1. I.L.R. (1938) All. 35=1937 A.L.J. 1103=1938 All. 3.

PROCEEDINGS UNDER TRUST ACT.—Receiver cannot be appointed in proceedings under

S. 74 of the Trust Act. 1927 S. 237=103 I.C. 816; where the income of the mutt was not sufficient both to meet the expenses and to pay off debts contracted by its head, a Receiver was directed to be appointed. 54 I.A. 228=50 M. 497=53 M.L.J. 196=1927 P.C. 131 (P.C.).

PROCEEDINGS UNDER GUARDIANS AND WARDS ACT.—R. 1 has no application to a petition under the Guardians and Wards Act. 36 B. 20=11 I.C. 554=13 Bom. L. R. 417. But see 1929 N. 119=116 I.C. 642.

SUIT FOR CANCELLATION OF LEASE.—In a suit for cancellation of a lease on the ground that it was obtained by the defendant fraudulently, for recovery of khas possession, and for mesne profits on that footing, the fact that the defendant had not been paying the stipulated rent to the plaintiff is not a ground by itself for the appointment of a receiver. 41 C.W.N. 951.

O. 40, R. 2.—An order increasing remuneration to be paid to a receiver, is an order made under R. 2 and not under cl. (d) of R. 1 and is not appealable. 22 I.C. 352. RANGOON HIGH COURT, RR. 204 AND 205—RECEIVER'S FEES—POWERS OF COURT.—Official Receiver, in making his lists, should consider under what head the fees are to be charged and charged at the rate specified in the sub-section. The Court may then, in the circumstances of any particular case, review such remuneration, and, whilst not exceeding the maximum laid down, may direct such remuneration at any less rate as may be thought fit. 178 I.C. 30=1938 Rang. 357.

- (a) furnish such security (if any) as the Court thinks fit, duly to account for what he shall receive in respect of the property ;
- (b) submit his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court directs ;
- (c) pay the amount due from him as the Court directs ; and
- (d) be responsible for any loss occasioned to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence.

Enforcement of receiver's duties.

4. Where a receiver—

- (a) fails to submit his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court directs, or
 - (b) fails to pay the amount due from him as the Court directs, or
 - (c) occasions loss to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence,
- the Court may direct his property to be attached and may sell such property, and may apply the proceeds to make good any amount found to be due from him or any loss occasioned by him, and shall pay the balance (if any) to the receiver.

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] Substitute the following for r. 4 :—

“4. (1) If a receiver fails to submit his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court directs, the Court may order his property to be attached until he duly submits his accounts in the form ordered.

(2) The Court may, at the instance of any party to any suit or proceeding in which a receiver has been appointed or of its own motion, at any time make an enquiry as to what amount, if any, is due from the receiver as shown by his accounts or otherwise, or whether any loss to the property has been occasioned by his wilful default or gross negligence and may order the amount found due or amount of the loss so occasioned to be paid by the receiver into Court or otherwise within a period to be fixed by the Court. All parties to the suit or proceeding and the receiver shall be made parties to any such enquiry. Notice of the enquiry shall be given by registered post of the surety, if any, for the receiver, but the cost of his appearance shall be borne by the surety himself unless the Court otherwise directs :

Provided that the Court may, where the account is disputed by the parties and is of a complicated nature or where it is alleged that loss has been occasioned to the property by the wilful default or gross negligence of the receiver refer the parties to a suit. In all such cases the Court shall state in writing its reasons for the reference.

satisfies the claim of the plaintiff he will be entitled to stand in place of the receiver to the extent of the payment made by him and to reimburse himself from the sums to be paid to the receiver without derogation of his right to sue him. (Ibid.)

LIABILITY OF RECEIVER.—Receiver advanced to an infant more than the amount sanctioned and it was not shown that it was applied for his benefit. Held, that a receipt by the infant for the amount was no valid discharge to the receiver. 28 I.C. 25=20 C.L.J. 113. A bribe to the Police Officer to release the minor is unauthorised and the receiver cannot claim the amount against the payee. (Ibid.) The receiver is bound to furnish details of litigation expenses and he is not entitled to the salary of officers appointed without leave of Court. (Ibid.) A succeeding receiver cannot sue a former receiver for recovering funds which he should have realized and accounted for. 24 I.C. 768=41 C. 92. The receiver must keep his accounts and vouchers ready for examination at any time. At the time of adjustment of accounts receiver and other interested parties have a right to be heard. 12 I.C. 780=14 C.L.J. 445. A receiver will not be permitted without Court's sanction to incur expenditure seriously diminishing the funds entrusted to him. If a receiver proves that a transaction made by him is beneficial to the parties interested, he must be allowed credit for such transaction. A receiver should be allowed fees or legal assistance though not previously sanctioned by the Court. The fees will not be allowed where no legal skill is required. Receiver's account filed and vouched before an examiner can be reopened on the discovery of errors though a Judge's certificate is attached, and the receiver may be surcharged though he has been discharged. (Ibid.) Accounts—Mesne profits—Expenses of litigation when allowed. 22 M.L.J. 253=14 I.C. 396. If receiver had failed to realize rents by taking proper proceedings he will not be exempt from liability. Mistaken proceedings though taken in good faith will not absolve receiver from liability for rent. (Ibid.) Court which has to pass receiver's accounts. 4 P.L.J. 636=54 I.C. 297.

O. 40, R. 3 (c).—Scope—Appointment of party to suit as receiver—Order directing payment into Court of money collected prior to appointment — Effect of — Appeal. 68 M.L.J. 628.

O. 40, R. 4.—Under this rule the Court is ordinarily bound to deal with all matters relating to the receiver in the proceeding itself in which he was appointed. The proper occasion for making allegations against the receiver is when his accounts are passed, and the Court ought to protect its officers and not to allow parties to pester the receiver

(3) If the receiver fails to pay any amount which he has been ordered to pay under sub-r. (2) of this rule, within the period fixed in the order, the Court may direct such amount to be recovered either from the security (if any) furnished by him under r. 3, or by attachment and sale of his property or if his property has been attached under sub-r. (1) of this rule, by sale of the property so attached, and may apply the proceeds of the sale to make good any amount found due from him or any loss occasioned by him and shall pay the balance (if any) of the sale proceeds to the receiver."

5. Where the property is land paying revenue to the Government, or land of which the revenue has been assigned or redeemed, and the Court considers that the interests of those concerned will be promoted by the management of the Collector, the Court may, with the consent of the Collector, appoint him to be receiver of such property.

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] Add the following as r. 6, viz.:—

"6. Where the property belongs to a co-operative society registered under the Madras Co-operative Societies Act or to a member of such co-operative society, and the Court considers that the interest of those concerned will be promoted by the management of an officer of the Co-operative department, the Court may, with the consent of the officer, appoint him to be receiver of such property."

ORDER XLI.

Appeals from Original Decrees.

1. (1) Every appeal shall be preferred in the form of a memorandum signed by the appellant or his pleader and presented to the Court or to such officer as it appoints in this behalf. The Memorandum shall be accompanied by a copy of the decree appealed from and (unless the Appellate Court dispenses therewith) of the judgment on which it is founded.

Form of appeal.

What to accompany memorandum.

NOTES.

with actions. Although under R. 4 as amended, the Court may at its option refer the parties to a separate proceeding, it is bound, when it makes such an order, to record its reasons therefor. 43 L.W. 460=1936 Mad. 321=70 M.L.J. 282. An order passing a receiver's account is one under R. 4 and is appealable. 45 B. 99=22 Bom.L.R. 1126. Appeal from order for accounts is not competent. 1924 N. 53. Order directing the Receiver to pay money in Court is not appealable. 1921 M.W.N. 806=1922 M. 234. Receiver ordered to pay damages—If appealable. 92 I.C. 631=1925 R. 206. See also 62 M.L.J. 199=1931 M. 760. It is competent to the Court in the course of passing the accounts of a receiver, under O. 40, R. 4 to make an order, after holding him liable to make good the loss caused to the estate through his wilful negligence. A separate suit against the receiver is not necessary for the purpose of establishing his liability or for enforcing it. 40 C.W.N. 479. The proper procedure to bring to sale the properties of a deceased receiver in the hands of his legal representatives is by way of execution and not by separate suit. 39 M. 584=30 I.C. 383. Order directing receiver to pay into Court amount lost by his negligence is appealable. 1931 M. 760=62 M.L.J. 199. As to what would amount to gross negligence, see ibid. "Property" is synonymous with estate and covers income from property. Cl. (c) applies to the case of misappropriation also. A receiver is not liable to account for any period other than that for which he is appointed. 5 Pat. L.J. 97=55 I.C. 15. A receiver who has given up possession of the estate must institute a separate suit for recovery of sums due to him in respect of salary, allowances, etc. 4 P.L.J. 636=54 I.C. 207. An order declaring a receiver liable in respect of a sum of money is not appealable unless it is accompanied by order of attachment under R. 4. (Ibid.) Procedure to be adopted in passing receiver's accounts. See 43 M.L.J. 707=16 L.W. 754; 100 I.C. 996=6 Bur.L.J. 15. Order removing receiver is appealable at the instance of one or other of the parties; but the receiver himself has no right of appeal. 36 C.W.N. 903. Court which has the power of appointing a receiver is also invested with the power of dismissal. Order removing receiver is not appealable by the receiver. 1931 A. 72=1931 A.L.J. 13. See also 36 C.W.N. 903. If money paid to some one else by the receiver does not reach its proper destination, receiver will be compelled to make good the loss unless he can show that he has acted with perfect regularity and has used such a degree of prudence as would be expected from a private individual in relation to his own affairs. 1930 P. 232=125 I.C. 117.

O. 40, R. 5.—See 1933 L. 203=14 L. 330.

O. 41, R. 1: APPLICABILITY.—There is a tendency on the part of Subordinate Courts to ignore the provisions of O. 41, and to set aside the decrees of trial Courts in their entirety. Nothing can be clearer than the provisions of O. 41, and Courts must realise that they should not, as far as possible, travel beyond the provisions of the Code and make orders to support which the so-called inherent jurisdiction has to be brought in. 59 Bom. 430=37 Bom.L.R. 241=1935 Bom. 222. O. 41 has no application to appeals

(2) The memorandum shall set forth, concisely and under distinct heads, the grounds of objection to the decree appealed from without any argument or narrative; and such grounds shall be numbered consecutively.

NOTES.

from the original side of a High Court. 48 M. 631=48 M. L.J. 384. It applies to an appeal under S. 476-B, Cr. P. Code, against an order of Civil Court. 54 C. 355=100 I. C. 351=1927 C. 284; 134 I.C. 1063=35 C. W.N. 775=1931 C. 604. Also to Letters Patent—Appeals. 50 M.L.J. 190=49 M. 291; 48 C. 480=48 I.A. 76 (P.C.). As to applicability to appeals from proceedings under S. 201, C. P. Land Revenue Code, see 155 I.C. 557=1935 Nag. 125 (1). O. 41, R. 1 is applicable to appeals under the Land Revenue Act and hence the production of the copy of the judgment appealed against can be dispensed with by the appellate Court. 1941 A. W. R. (Rev.) 993=1941 O. A. (Supp.) 837. As to whether copy of order sought to be reviewed should be filed along with application for review, see 157 I.C. 965=16 P.L.T. 595=1935 Pat. 486. The provisions of this rule applies to applications for leave to appeal in forma pauperis. 165 I.C. 471=44 L.W. 152=1936 Mad. 600. The provisions of R. 1 are mandatory and an omission to attach a copy of decree is fatal to the appeal. As regards judgment it is for the Court to decide whether a copy of judgment may be dispensed with or not and the matter is not optional with the litigant and if the Court does not dispense with it and if a copy of judgment is not filed, the appeal is incompetent. 175 I. C. 33=1938 Nag. 233. See also 1937 O. W. N. 978=1937 Oudh 513; 1940 A.W.R. (B. R.) 39=1940 R.D. 97; 186 I.C. 58. Under R. 1, the Appellate Court may, in a fit case, dispense with the filing of the judgment appealed against. The rule does not say that the Court must record an order dispensing with the judgment. The absence of a recorded order does not therefore necessarily show that no order was passed. It may be presumed from the circumstances of a case that the dispensation had been granted. 43 C.W.N. 1139=1939 Cal. 711. Where an application for review of judgment is granted, no appeal is competent against the original decree as that decree must be deemed to have been superseded and therefore non-existent. But it is doubtful whether an amendment in the decree, apart from the review of the judgment, to however slight an extent, and even a correction of a mistake under S. 152, C. P. Code, in the decree, have the effect of superseding the original decree so as to necessitate the dismissal of an appeal, which is presented with a copy of the original decree. 1938 Lah. 76. The provision in R. 1 requiring that the memo. of appeal shall be accompanied by a copy of the decree appealed from must be read to mean that it shall be accompanied by a copy of that part of the decree which is appealed from and against which the grounds of appeal are all directed. Court under its inherent powers under S. 151 can dispense with the production of portions of the decree which are unnecessary for purposes of the appeal before the Court. 40 C.W.N. 1298=1936 C. 751. O. 41, R. 1 does not expressly require that a copy of an order which has the force of a decree but which is not a decree shall be filed with the memorandum of appeal. Where in one of two analogous appeals between the same parties arising out of one and the same judgment under S. 47, the appellant files a copy of the judgment and prays that the copy of the judgment in the other appeal may be dispensed with, his prayer should be granted. There is no reason why the appellant should be obliged to file a copy of the judgment which is already on the record in the analogous appeal and which is available for use in both the appeals. 20 Pat.L.T. 801=1940 Pat. 176. Under O. 41, R. 1, it is imperative that a copy of the decree should accompany the memorandum of appeal. An order under S. 47 is by S. 2 (2) included in the definition of a decree, and an appeal against such an order not accompanied by a copy of the formal order which is filed beyond limitation, is incompetent. 1940 O. W. N. 528=1940 Oudh 351=15 Luck. 669. An appeal filed against an order passed in a contentious proceedings is an appeal filed under R. 1, and not under S. 104 of the Code. Hence an appeal against an order in a contentious proceeding granting probate or letters of administration with the will annexed is incompetent without the production of a copy of a formal decree prepared in terms of such order. Such contentious proceeding should be registered as a suit and the form in which a decree should be prepared in such a proceeding should be that adopted by the Calcutta High Court. 173 I.C. 284=1938 Sind 36 (F. B.). Estate under Court of Wards—Plaintiff obtaining decree affecting ward both with regard to her estate and individual status—Right of ward to appeal—Separate appeals, not necessary. 41 C.W.N. 374=65 C.L.J. 127. Where the copies of judgment and decree accompanying the memo. of appeal were not properly stamped till after the period of limitation had expired, the appeal is time barred. 39 P.L.R. 502. See also 12 Luck. 472=1937 Oudh 65.

RIGHT OF APPEAL.—An order refusing to appoint a Receiver during pendency of a suit is appealable. 33 I.C. 735.

CONSTRUCTION.—R. 1, which is a rule of procedure, should not be construed as would hinder justice and lead to an absurd result. 115 I.C. 67=1929 L. 42.

WHO CAN APPEAL.—Right of appeal is only to an aggrieved party. 45 I.C. 181=82 P.L.R. 1918.

LOC. AMS.—[LAHORE.] Add the following proviso to sub-rule (1) :—

"Provided that when two or more cases are tried together and decided by the same judgment and two or more appeals are filed against the decrees, whether by the same or different appellants; the officer appointed in this behalf may, if satisfied that the question for decisions are analogous in each appeal, dispense with the production of more than one copy of the judgment."

[MADRAS.] (1) Add the following sentence to sub-rule (1) of r. 1 of O. 41 :—

"The copy of the judgment shall be a printed copy in every case in which the High Court has prescribed that the judgment shall be printed when a copy is applied for, for the purpose of appeal."

NOTES.

WHO CANNOT APPEAL.—A party cannot appeal from a decree in his favour merely because of an adverse finding on an unnecessary issue. 120 P.L.R. 1911=9 I.C. 1030. An unconditional adoption and enjoyment of benefits under an order bars the right of appeal. 37 I.C. 804=21 C.W.N. 232. As to parties in appeal, see 34 C.W.N. 642=1930 C. 748.

CONNECTED APPEALS.—Where there are appeals arising out of connected cases each appeal must be accompanied by copies of judgments of all the lower Courts. 14 L. R. 879 (Rev.).

SEPARATE APPEALS.—If there are two distinct orders in two separate execution proceedings, there cannot be a joint appeal in respect of both. 24 I.C. 438. This is so even though they were decided in one judgment. 10 I.C. 415=15 C.W.N. 994. If two separate cases are decided in one judgment, two separate appeals should be filed. 56 I.C. 69=1 L. 368; 3 P.L.J. 96=44 I.C. 418; 96 I.C. 336. Three brothers, X, Y and Z, who owned an estate died childless, leaving behind them only widows, and the Court of Wards assumed charge of the entire estate. The plaintiff obtained a decree declaring that he was Y who was supposed to be dead and that he be put in possession of an undivided one-third share in the properties in suit—the share in enjoyment of the first defendant who was his wife, jointly with the other defendants' possession over the rest. An appeal was filed against this decree and a question was raised whether the first defendant could appeal both as represented by the Court of Wards and also in her individual capacity. Held, that as the decree affected the first defendant both ways, that is to say, both with regard to her estate and also individually, inasmuch as there was a declaration to the effect that the plaintiff was her husband, she was entitled to file appeal and that there was no reason to ask her to file a separate appeal and pay separate Court-fees. 41 C. W.N. 374=65 C.L.J. 127.

PLEADER CAN FILE.—Presentation of appeal by pleader not duly authorised is invalid. 62 I.C. 259. See also 1940 O. W.N. 1253. But a pleader with a power of attorney to present the same, can validly present it. 86 I.C. 207. Presentation by vakil whose vakalat is not signed by the party at the time but the defect is subsequently rectified is valid. 21 I.C. 444=11 A.L.J. 779. Strictly speaking the memorandum of appeal should be presented to the Court or some officer appointed by it in this behalf. But if the Court has adopted the practice of presentation of appeals by putting them in a petition box, the person who puts the memorandum in the box would be the person presenting the appeal, and not his junior who subsequently appears in Court for taking a date. The appeal should, therefore, be deemed to have been properly presented even though the former alone held a power-of-attorney and not the latter. 39 P.L.R. 456. Memorandum of appeal presented only by one of two vakils, who alone has accepted a joint vakalat, is validly presented. 16 M. 285. Vakalat not filled up—Presentation is not proper. 1926 A. 252=91 I.C. 865. Appellant executing power of attorney in favour of a certain advocate—Presentation of appeal by another advocate on behalf of latter—Whether proper. 38 P.L.R. 258. Memorandum filed by unauthorised person is no proper appeal. 1930 A.L.J. 394=121 I.C. 546=1930 A. 112; 1936 Lah. 195. Presentation of appeal—Validity—Apprentice practitioner presenting memorandum without signature and permission of senior counsel not good. 179 I.C. 895=41 P.L.R. 327=1939 Lah. 41.

NECESSARY CONDITIONS OF A VALID FILING.—An appeal is barred if the vakalatnama is filed after limitation time. 11 I.C. 387=13 C.L.J. 544. Per Sharpe, J.—If a memorandum of appeal had been improperly presented by one advocate for another and the Judge accepted the document and admitted the appeal, he can hold that there was no proper appeal and can dismiss the appeal at a later stage, when his attention is drawn to the true legal position, for he was originally acting ex parte and accepted the document and admitted the appeal per incuriam. 1939 Rang.L.R. 108=1939 Rang. 1. An appeal by a legal representative without being recorded as such is not maintainable. 45 I.C. 541=16 A.L.J. 394. A mistake in the description of the respondents does not entail dismissal of the appeal, when the defect is a formal one. The appellate Court should allow it to be corrected when brought to its notice. 39 P.L.R. 188=1937 Lah. 60.

SIGNING BY APPELLANT.—Memorandum of appeal should be signed by appellant or his agent. 83 I.C. 543 (1)=1923 L. 484.

MEMORANDUM OF APPEAL TO BE IN ENGLISH.—Even if an accompanying document is in the vernacular. 2 Lah.L.J. 507=55 I.C. 24. An appeal is preferred only when a copy of the decree is filed. Without it, it will be rejected as not validly presented. 16 A. 77; 30 I.C. 165=42 C. 433; 27 I.C. 447;

(2) Add the following as a proviso to sub-rule (1) of r. 1 of O. 41 :—

"Provided that in appeals from decrees or orders under any special or local Act to which the provisions of Parts II and III of the Limitation Act (IX of 1908), do not apply and in which certified copies of such decrees or orders have not been granted within the time prescribed for preferring an appeal, the Appellate Court may admit the Memorandum of Appeal subject to the production of the copy of the decree or order appealed from within such time as may be fixed by the Court."

Add the following sentence to sub-r. (2) of r. 1 of O. 41 :—

"The memorandum shall also contain a statement of the valuation of the appeal for the purposes of the Court-Fees Act."

Add the following as sub-r. (3) of r. 1 of O. 41 :—

"(3) When an appeal is presented after the period of limitation prescribed therefor, it shall be accompanied by a petition supported by affidavit setting forth the facts on which the appellant relies to satisfy the Court that he had sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal within such period, and the Court shall not proceed to deal with the appeal in any way (otherwise than by dismissing it either under r. 11 of this order or on the ground that it is not satisfied as to the sufficiency of the reasons for extending the period of limitation) until notice has been given to the respondent and his objections, if any, to the Court acting under the provisions of S. 5 of Act IX of 1908 have been heard."

"Provided that when the decree appealed from is a final decree in a partition suit and embodies the allotment papers the appellate Court may accept a copy of the decree containing only a portion of the allotment papers; provided further that the appellate Court may, subsequently, on the application of the respondent require a copy of the remaining or any further portion of the allotment papers to be filed by the appellant."

NOTES.

1922 L. 191; 54 I.C. 36; 53 I.C. 137; 10 I.C. 866=7 N.L.R. 67; 1925 N. 52; 96 I.C. 336. If appeal is filed with copy of judgment alone, but the copy of the decree is filed within limitation, there cannot be any objection. 1936 O.W.N. 1008=1937 Oudh 65. The rule is inflexible and the appellate Court has no dispensing power. 11 Lah.L.T. 31. Filing of copy of translation of decree is not sufficient. 132 I.C. 3=32 P.L.R. 127; 38 P.L.R. 288. There is no proper presentation without a copy of the decree even when there is no decree in existence. 69 I.C. 895=1922 L. 170. Where in an appeal from a mortgage decree, certified copies of preliminary judgment and final decree alone were filed and no copy of preliminary decree had been filed and the memorandum purported to be of an appeal from final judgment and decree, held, that it could not be regarded as an appeal from the preliminary decree and that the appellant could not impugn the final decree on grounds appropriate to the preliminary decree. 59 C. 781=36 C.W.N. 420=1932 C. 589. In the case of partition decree, where appeal is only with reference to right of maintenance, the copy of the whole decree including Commissioner's report, maps, etc., is not necessary to be filed. It is sufficient if only copy of that part of the decree which is appealed from and against which grounds of appeal are directed is filed. Court may dispense with the filing of the rest of the decree under its inherent powers under S. 151. 40 C.W.N. 1298=1936 C. 751. When after filing an appeal a decree is amended and the amended copy, is permitted to be attached to the appeal the appeal becomes an appeal on the amended decree. 43 I.C. 772. An appeal from an amended decree must be accompanied by a copy of that decree and not the original decree. 11 I.C. 8. Non-filing of an award which is both judgment and decree along with memorandum of appeal is fatal to the appeal. 7 L. 539=1927 L. 49. Appeal from award under Land Acquisition Act—Copy of the award to be filed. 94 I.C. 145=1925 L. 438. Copy of decree in cross appeal not necessary. 95 I.C. 256=1926 L. 540.

MEMORANDUM OF APPEAL—FRAME OF—GROUNDS—HOW TO BE SET OUT.—Memorandum of appeal or revision to High Court should only contain very briefly and concisely the grounds upon which it is contended Court's decision is wrong. To set out legal arguments in the grounds is a gross misuse of the grounds of appeal or revision. 58 M. 771=1935 M. 282=68 M.L.J. 218.

WHEN ORDER NOT DRAWN UP.—Copies of both order and judgment are to be filed unless the formal order had not been drawn up, in which case a copy of judgment alone will do. 1924 A. 162; 17 I.C. 119=16 C. L.J. 133; 14 I.C. 1006=15 C.L.J. 498; 58 B. 573=36 Bom.L.R. 1064=1934 B. 489; 1933 A.L.J. 1301=1933 A. 762. But see contra in 1924 L. 352. Trial Court intended to draw up decree in prescribed form, but it did not strictly comply with requirements of law, as laid down in O. 21, R. 6, and drew up a document which could not be called a proper and correct decree. The memorandum of appeal was accompanied by the judgment and the document and the proper decree was filed after limitation when it was prepared on application by appellant. Held, that appeal was properly presented and was not barred. 147 I.C. 13=1933 L. 938. The proper course is to adjourn the appeal till a copy of decree is obtained. 1924 L. 352; 49 I.C. 573=19 P. R. 1919. In a miscellaneous appeal a copy of the decree cannot be dispensed with. 40 A. 12=15 A.L.J. 801. The definition of decree in S. 2 renders an order rejecting a plaint equivalent to a decree and hence eliminates the necessity for preparing a separate decree sheet. Hence an appeal filed from such order without any decree sheet is correctly presented. 164 I.C. 181=1936 Pesh. 155. Failure to file copy of order, which was a precise copy of the operative part of the judgment, matters little

"1. (2) The memorandum shall set forth, concisely and under distinct heads, the grounds of objection to the decree appealed from, without any argument or narrative; and such grounds shall be numbered consecutively. When Burmese dates are given, the corresponding English dates shall be added. The memorandum shall also contain—

- (i) the full names and addresses of all parties;
- (ii) particulars (class, number, year and Court) of the original proceedings; and
- (iii) the value of the appeal (a) for Court-fees and (b) for jurisdiction.

Material corrections or alterations shall be authenticated by the initials of the persons signing the memorandum."

And add as sub-r. (3) :—

"(3) The appellant shall present, along with the petition of appeal, as many copies on plain paper of the grounds of appeal as there are respondents."

and will not affect the appeal. 21 A.L.J. 452=1923 A. 579. Copy of interim order on preliminary issues need not be filed. 103 I.C. 224=1927 L. 629. Filing a vernacular translation of the decree is invalid. 4 Lah. L.J. 381=1921 L. 266; 2 Lah.L.J. 728. A copy of the judgment too is necessary. If its filing after limitation is not duly explained, appeal may be dismissed. 67 I.C. 670; 63 I.C. 30=2 L. 227; 67 P.R. 1917=41 I.C. 918; 25 I.C. 28. Though appeal is filed without a copy of judgment, when notice is issued, it amounts to dispensing with necessity of filing the same. 90 I.C. 135. Where several persons appeal from same judgment, a copy of judgment should be filed with each memo.; but where one appellant files more than one appeal, he may file a copy with one of the many memos. of appeal. 1 P. 670=4 P.L.T. 290; 6 L. 218. Two judgments one on preliminary issue and the other on other issues, both must be filed. 9 L.L.J. 502. Defective memo. admitted—Objection to memo. at a later stage is barred. 1927 L. 451. See also 104 I.C. 545=1927 L. 449.

SECOND APPEAL.—Copy of decree and judgment. The word "copy" as used in O. 41 and O. 42, means copies duly certified under Evidence Act and thus rendered capable of production before a Court of law for examination. Where appeal was presented with an unattested copy, held, that there was no valid presentation. 30 P.L.R. 587=1929 L. 771. Provisions of this rule are imperative and presentation of memo. of second appeal without a copy of decree appealed against is invalid. 1930 R. 182; 44 M.L.J. 279; 15 A. 123 (127). But delay can be excused. An ex parte order excusing delay can be attacked by respondent. 44 M.L.J. 279=17 L.W. 352. When two decrees are passed in two appeals from the same decree, both of them should be filed in second appeal. 3 L. 215=1922 L. 390. See also 33 I.C. 742=84 P.R. 1916. Claim decreed only in part—Both parties appealing—Lower appellate Court dismissing appeal by plaintiff while allowing appeal by defendant—Plaintiff appealing against dismissal of his appeal but filing copy of decree of defendant's appeal in lower Court. Held, that there was no proper presentation of second appeal as plaintiff should have appealed against a decree dismissing his appeal under R. 1 to the lower Court and should have filed a decree of that appeal. 165 I.C. 137=1936 L. 293. Memo. of appeal not accompanied by copies of judgments of lower Courts such copies being on record of another appeal by opposite party is no good reason for dispensing with such copies. 104 I.C. 290 (1). A second appeal filed with a copy of decree of lower appellate Court but not with the grounds of appeal in first Court is valid presentment. 80 P.R. 1918=43 I.C. 102. See also 1930 L. 935=130 I.C. 519. In a second appeal, a copy of the trial Court's judgment need not be filed. 74 I.C. 330=1923 P. 19. Omission to file judgment of first Court with memorandum of appeal is fatal. 97 I.C. 80 (2)=1926 L. 638 (1). See also 1927 L. 423 (2)=101 I.C. 776. Presentation of appeal with unattested copy of judgment—Proper when attested copy is not available. 94 I.C. 2=1926 L. 404. Non-filing copy of interlocutory order of the Court below referred to in the judgment when filing second appeal, does not affect validity of presentation. 4 Lah.L.J. 20=1922 L. 93. See also 115 I.C. 67=1929 L. 42; 30 P.L.R. 236; 10 L. 587=1929 L. 481. Where there was a preliminary and a final judgment in a suit it is sufficient to file final judgment along with memorandum of appeal. (10 L. 587, Foll.) 127 I.C. 719=1931 L. 202. See also 59 C. 781; 134 I.C. 300. Four cases were governed by the same judgment of trial Court. Four appeals were filed and copies of four decrees were attached but a copy of the judgment was filed in one case only. In the other cases it was stated in writing on the memo. of appeal that a copy of the judgment had not been obtained and time was asked for. Held, that the appeals were technically incomplete and the Court should in returning the papers grant time for the defect to be cured. 14 R.D. 476. See also 1929 N. 229=25 N.L.R. 183. Order disposing of a preliminary issue need not be filed. 10 Lah.L.T. 23.

GROUND OF APPEAL.—In every appeal, the appellant must show some reason why the judgment should be disturbed. 17 N.L.R. 72=63 I.C. 898=25 C.W.N. 866 (P.C.).

RESTORATION.—Court has inherent power to restore to file an appeal dismissed for default, even though pleader could not adduce sufficient cause for default. 15 C. L.J. 334=39 C. 34.

TIME AND PLACE OF RECEIPT.—Appeal can be received by Judge at his residence and

2. The appellant shall not, except by leave of the Court, urge or be heard in support of any ground of objection not set forth in the memorandum of appeal; but the Appellate Court, in deciding the appeal, shall not be confined to the grounds of objection set forth in the memorandum of appeal or taken by leave of the Court under this rule:

Grounds which may be taken in appeal.

Provided that the Court shall not rest its decision on any other ground unless the party who may be affected thereby has had a sufficient opportunity of contesting the case on that ground.

LOC. AM.—[PESHAWAR.] Add the following to O. 41, r. 2:—

"In addition to the copies specified in O. 41, r. 1, the memorandum of appeal shall be accompanied by a copy of the judgment of the Court of first instance unless the appellate Court dispenses therewith.

3. (1) Where the memorandum of appeal is not drawn up in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, it may be rejected, or be returned to the appellant for the purpose of being amended within a time to be fixed by the Court or be amended then and there.

Rejection or amendment of memorandum.

(2) Where the Court rejects any memorandum, it shall record the reasons for such rejection.

(3) Where a memorandum of appeal is amended, the Judge or such officer as he appoints in this behalf, shall sign or initial the amendment.

NOTES.

out of Court hours. 34 A. 482=9 A.L.J. 743.

DELAY.—Under R. 1 (3) as amended in Madras the question of delay is decided beforehand and the appeal is not admitted till that point is decided in appellant's favour. 57 M. 741=1934 M. 303=66 M.L.J. 486.

O. 41, R. 2.—Grounds not raised in memo. of appeal cannot be urged. 54 I.C. 531; 70 I.C. 653=1923 M. 11. See also 25 I.C. 443. Especially long after period of limitation. 30 I.C. 22=7 P.R. 1916. Ground of attack raised in plaint and not in memo. of appeal will not be allowed to be raised, being deemed to have been abandoned. 17 I.C. 247=217 P.L.R. 1912. In appeal new grounds can be traversed with permission of Court, though not specified in grounds of appeal. 57 P.L.R. 1916=30 I.C. 817. See also 1931 R. 314. As to when Courts will prevent it, see 57 I.C. 800=11 L.W. 611. Plea not raised in trial Court cannot be raised in appeal. 19 I.C. 48; 68 I.C. 227. A new case cannot be raised. 17 I.C. 247=190 P.L.R. 1912. A pure question of law which went to the root of the matter was allowed to be raised. 135 I.C. 839=33 Bom.L.R. 590=1931 B. 466. Plea of res judicata can be raised for first time in second appeal at its hearing though not in the memo. of appeal. 22 I.C. 12. So also an objection to jurisdiction under S. 21. 131 I.C. 603=1931 A. 556.

FILING OF ADDITIONAL GROUNDS.—Additional grounds should not be allowed to be filed at a late stage. 49 P.R. 1914=25 I.C. 443. Where alternative grounds of appeal are raised an appellate Court is not debarred from going into questions which are admitted for the purpose of an alternative argument. 84 I.C. 1039. An appellant should not be allowed to raise and succeed on defences not raised in the written statement or in the memorandum of appeal. It is true that the Appellate Court under R. 2, in deciding the appeal is not confined to the grounds of objection in the memorandum, but it is not permitted to rest its decision on any other ground unless the party affected thereby has had a sufficient opportunity of contesting the case on that ground. When an appellant seeks to raise a point not taken in the Courts below or in the memorandum of appeal, the propriety of allowing him to do so and of basing the appellate decision on such a ground is a matter which the Appellate Court ought to decide. 1940 Pat. 33.

O. 41, R. 2, proviso: POWER OF COURT UNDER—DECISION OF CASE ON POINT RAISED BY COURT SUO MOTU—IF JUSTIFIED.—It is no doubt open to a Court of appeal to decide a case on any rule of law which it considers applies, but it is not entitled to decide a case on a point taken by itself without giving the parties to the appeal an opportunity of meeting it. I.L.R. 1938 Mad. 829=48 L. W. 76=1938 Mad. 357 (F.B.).

O. 41, R. 2 (Peshawar Amendment).—Where an appeal was filed within limitation but without a copy of the judgment of the trial Court as required by the amendment to O. 41, R. 2, made by the Judicial Commissioner's Court, Peshawar, and it was returned with the directions that the copy of the trial Court's judgment be produced and the appeal was afterwards presented again with the copy when the period for filing the appeal had expired. Held, that the appeal was time barred. 168 I.C. 878=1937 Pesh. 50.

O. 41, R. 3.—A memorandum of appeal which has not been registered is not to be regarded as an appeal. As long as there are defects in it, Court can under R. 3

LOC. AMS.—[ALLAHABAD AND OUDH.] Substitute the following for r. 3 (1) :—

"3. (1) Where the memorandum of appeal is not drawn up in the manner hereinbefore prescribed or accompanied by the copies mentioned in r. 1 (1), it may be rejected, or where the memorandum of appeal is not drawn up, in the manner prescribed, it may be returned to the appellant for the purposes of being amended, within a time to be fixed by the Court or be amended then and there."

[BOMBAY.] After r. 3 of O. 41, the following rule shall be inserted, namely :—

"3-A. Where an appellant applies for delay to be excused, notice to show cause shall at once be issued to the respondent and the matter shall be finally decided before notice is issued to the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred under r. 13."

4. Where there are more plaintiffs or more defendants than one in a suit, and the decree appealed from proceeds on any ground common to all the plaintiffs or to all the defendants, any one of the plaintiffs or of the defendants may appeal from the whole decree, and thereupon the Appellate Court may reverse or vary the decree in favour of all the plaintiffs or defendants, as the case may be.

One of several plaintiffs or defendants may obtain reversal of whole decree where it proceeds on ground common to all.

return it and give the party a chance of putting it again in a complete form; and any time that it allows for re-presentation is only by way of concession. Hence a continuance or extension of the concession cannot be demanded as a matter of right at any rate after the expiry of the period of limitation. If a party fails to complete the memorandum of appeal even though it was returned to him thrice and sufficient time was allowed each time to represent it, it must be rejected. 144 I.C. 608=1933 M. 358. Where an appeal was filed within limitation but without a copy of judgment of trial Court and it was returned with directions that the copy be produced and the appeal was afterwards presented again with the copy when the limitation period had expired. Held, that the appeal was time barred. 1937 Pesh. 50. No duty on Court to add proper parties when the appellant neglects. 18 I.C. 37=59 P.R. 191. Wrong naming of respondent due to clerical error can be rectified and the mistake is not fatal. 21 C.W.N. 774=27 C.L.J. 129. Where appeal is preferred against a dead person L. Rs. cannot be added after limitation period. 21 I.C. 306. Rejection on account of limitation does not come under this rule but under R. 11. It amounts to a dismissal and is appealable. 60 I.C. 493.

O. 41, R. 4: OBJECT AND SCOPE.—This rule gives Court ample powers to make appropriate order in the interests of justice. 30 C.L.J. 417=24 C.W.N. 110. Scope of. See 100 I.C. 346=1927 A. 311. O. 41, R. 4 is based on two considerations, firstly to give the appellate Court full power to do justice to all parties whether before it or not, and, secondly, to prevent contradictory decisions in the matter in the same suit. 1937 A.L.J. 1111=1937 All. 796. The rule is limited to a case of appellants and does not apply to a case where all the respondents are not present on the record as parties to the appeal. 1935 O.W.N. 401=1935 O. 329; 90 I.C. 986=30 C.W.N. 45; 40 L.W. 604=1934 M. 730=67 M.L.J. 681. Object of this rule enunciated in 20 I.C.

952=25 M.L.J. 248. One plaintiff may appeal for the benefit of other plaintiffs only if the co-plaintiffs are made parties to appeal. 106 I.C. 313=1928 L. 43; 157 I.C. 502=1935 Pesh. 106. See also 58 C. 1341=135 I.C. 797=1932 C. 134 (where the L.Rs. of one of the plaintiff respondents were not impleaded in time. The words of R. 4 only mean that if an appeal is filed by only one of the parties, the whole case is re-opened. This is different from saying that all the co-plaintiffs or co-defendants become appellants, ipso facto merely by one man out of them filing the appeal. A party becomes an appellant only when he either signs the memorandum of appeal or authorises the person actually signing it, to file it on his behalf. Hence on the withdrawal of an appeal filed by only one of the several defendants, the other defendants who had not cared to join in the presentation of the appeal, cannot claim to continue that appeal. 1940 R.D. 439=1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 235. Under R. 4 read with R. 33 of this order one of several defendants can file an appeal without impleading the other defendants as parties, if the decree under appeal proceeds on a ground common to all of them, and appellate Court has power to vary the decree in favour of the non-appealing defendants also. 61 C. 919; 40 C.W.N. 553=1936 C. 424; 45 C.W.N. 15; 1937 O.W.N. 768. See also 1940 A.W.R. (C.C.) 478; 1940 O.W.N. 1155; 1937 A.L.J. 1111=1937 All. 796. In such a case where one of the defendants-appellants dies during the pendency of the appeal and no one is substituted in his place but the appellate Court passed an order that the appeal had abated so far as the deceased appellant was concerned. Held, that the appeal was not incompetent by reason of that fact. 59 C.L.J. 318. Where defendants are advisedly impleaded as respondents, it is competent for one of the defendants to appeal in his own name even though the interests of the other defendants are not inseparable from the interest of the appellant and the success of the appeal enures for the benefit of the appellant as well as his correspondents. 165 I.C. 66=

NOTES.

1936 L. 612. This rule prevents two contrary decisions in the same suit. 35 I.C. 547=1 P.L.J. 143; 1937 A.L.J. 1111=1937 All. 796. For the distinction between this rule and R. 33, see 30 I.C. 868=22 C.L.J. 61; also 42 C. 451=19 C.W.N. 233; 24 I.C. 924=1 L.W. 376; 160 I.C. 1005=1936 Pesh. 20; 1937 All. 796. Provisions of O. 41, R. 4 enable the Court to vary the decree as a whole even though the appeal of one of the appellants might have abated by reason of death. 1938 Mad. 374. R. 4 of O. 41 is based on the assumption that all the plaintiffs or defendants in the suit are alive at the date of the passing of the appellate decree, and it cannot override or create an exception to O. 22, Rr. 4 and 11; in the case of one or more appellants dying even where a decree proceeds upon a ground common to all, the matter must be governed solely by Rr. 4 and 11 of O. 22. To hold otherwise is to hold that O. 41, R. 4 gives the Court power to set aside an abatement and to reverse or vary a decree which has become final against a deceased appellant. 19 Pat. 870=21 P.L.T. 597=1940 Pat. 346 (F.B.). See also 19 Pat.L.T. 398=1938 Pat. 147; 1937 All. 796. No effective decree for partition can be passed in a partition action unless all the co-sharers are before the Court. But it does not follow that a suit for partition cannot be dismissed against an absent defendant. In an appeal from a partition decree which proceeds on grounds common to all the appellants, if there is a partial abatement owing to the death of some of them, the surviving appellant may continue the whole appeal having regard to the provisions of O. 41, R. 4. Where the decree appealed from is of such a nature that the hearing of the appeal after partial abatement may result in the passing of two inconsistent decrees, the whole appeal must fail. 19 Pat. 172=21 P.L.T. 577=1940 Pat. 341. Appeal by some of the parties—Power of Court to grant relief in its entirety. 99 I.C. 1041. See also 1927 P. 103=98 I.C. 846=8 P.L.T. 316; 106 I.C. 875 (2). As to whether several persons who have obtained leave to institute suit under S. 92, C.P. Code, constitute several plaintiffs, see 16 L. 782=1935 L. 251. Although only some of the defendants appeal, the other non-appealing defendants are entitled to take advantage of any decision which has been arrived at in favour of the appealing defendants. 60 C. 733=37 C.W.N. 504=1934 C. 632. Power of Court to reverse decree as against non-appealing party. See 57 M.L.J. 789=1930 M. 65; 52 M. 322=1929 M. 230=56 M.L.J. 255. The use of the word "may" shows that appellate Court is given a discretion in the matter. Where some of the parties have not appealed, Court will be justified in refusing them relief. 133 I.C. 556=32 P.L.R. 787. The discretion exercised will not be interfered with in second appeal. 88 I.C. 535=1926 A. 64. Under this rule it is enough if decree proceeds on any ground common to all the parties. Every ground need not be common. 42 C. 451=19 C.W.N. 233; 63 I.C. 973. See also 1933 L. 933. This rule applies where the interests of the appealing party are inseparable from those of the non-appealing parties. But where they are separable the case is different and the rule has no application. 44 I.C. 762=3 P.L.J. 166. See also 12 L. 534=32 P.L.R. 798. But see 165 I.C. 66=1936 L. 612 (noted supra). It does not apply where there is no common ground of appeal. 40 I.C. 184=35 P.W.R. 1917; 1926 L. 303=94 I.C. 557 (1); 44 C.W.N. 141. Nor to parties not appealing and made pro forma respondents. They cannot be heard supporting the appeal. 34 I.C. 714 (F.B.). Where the sole appellant died his co-defendant who is a pro forma respondent cannot apply to continue the appeal after the expiry of 90 days. 53 A. 521=131 I.C. 877=1931 A. 349. See also I.L.R. (1938) All. 350=1938 A.L.J. 159=1938 All. 235. Except under this rule no relief in respect of persons not parties to the appeal can be given. 44 I.C. 480. Under no provision of law can an appellate Court interfere with a decree in a suit not appealed from. 53 I.C. 883=116 P.R. 1919; 1 L.W. 169=23 I.C. 620; 15 I.C. 409; 35 I.C. 547=1 P.L.J. 166; 84 I.C. 68=1925 C. 23. In an appeal by one unsuccessful defendant relief can be given to the non-appealing defendants as well, provided their defence was also the same. 40 M. 846=41 I.C. 546; 23 C.W.N. 372; 31 I.C. 886; 60 I.C. 460; 31 C.L.J. 75=24 C.W.N. 463. This is left to the discretion of Court. 36 A. 510=24 I.C. 439=12 A.L.J. 883; 139 I.C. 718=1932 A. 710. But see contra 2 P.L.R. 1912=12 I.C. 605. Even in favour of a non-appealing heir of a deceased defendant. 35 I.C. 743=3 O.L.J. 279. See also 57 M.L.J. 719; 56 M.L.J. 255. Where one of two appellants died before hearing of appeal and the fact was not known to counsel or Court, a decree passed in favour of both is valid and the L.R. of the deceased appellant can be brought on record at the time of passing a final decree. 48 M.L.J. 601=1925 M. 235. Where pending an appeal one of the two defendant-appellants died and his heirs did not come forward to be substituted in his place, held, that the surviving defendant was competent to rely on all such grounds on which the deceased defendant could have resisted and did resist the plaintiff's claim. 56 C. 487=33 C.W.N. 150=1929 C. 263. See also 146 I.C. 26=1933 M. 655; 1933 A.L.J. 1049=1933 A. 733 (Joint decree for pre-emption—Death of one pending appeal—Legal representative not brought on record—No abatement). 15 L. 667=1934 L. 206 (Suit for accounts—Death of one appellant pending appeal—Legal representative not brought on record

Stay of proceedings and of execution.

5. (1) An appeal shall not operate as a stay of proceedings under a decree or order appealed from except so far as the Appellate Court may order, nor shall execution of a decree be stayed by reason only, of an appeal having been preferred from the decree; but the Appellate Court may for sufficient cause order stay of execution of such decree.

(2) Where an application is made for stay of execution of an appealable decree before the expiration of the time allowed for appealing therefrom, the Court which passed the decree may on sufficient cause being shown order the execution to be stayed.

—Appeal abates). 61 C. 879=38 C.W.N. 743=1934 C. 703; 1934 M. 730=67 M.L.J. 681.

WHERE RELIEF IN FAVOUR OF NON-APPEARING PARTY CANNOT BE GIVEN.—Where one of several joint plaintiffs appeal, the others must be made parties. 45 A. 286=21 A. L.J. 91; also 53 I.C. 548. But see contra 25 I.C. 91=63 P.R. 1914. Where a person is a necessary party to the suit, he is a necessary party to the appeal as well. Not bringing him as a party to the appeal will entail a dismissal of the appeal. 3 P. L.T. 456=66 I.C. 780. See also 40 P.L. R. 6. When relief against non-appealing defendants has been granted in the first appeal, they form necessary parties to the second appeal. 22 I.C. 90=18 C.L.J. 621. Not bringing on record the L.Rs. of deceased co-defendant, during pendency of appeal, only abates the appeal so far as the deceased alone is concerned and does not affect the appeal as a whole. 90 I.C. 986=30 C.W.N. 45; 10 I.C. 27; 26 I.C. 486=88 P.R. 1914. But see 70 I.C. 168=16 L.W. 330=1923 M. 58. Where in a suit against two defendants some of whom remained ex parte and a joint decree against both was passed, and the contesting defendant alone appealed, the whole suit cannot be dismissed even as against the ex parte non-appealing defendant. 24 I.C. 924=1 L.W. 376. Relief against non-appealing defendants as well cannot be given when the appeal is not on the entire decree, but only so far as it affects the appealing defendant. 63 I.C. 95. Where relief is claimed alternatively against A and B and decreed against B, in the appeal by B, cross-objections against A need not be raised. The rights can be settled by the Court. 42 I.C. 548.

O. 41, Rr. 4 and 33: RELIEF TO PERSONS NOT BEFORE COURT—EXERCISE OF DISCRETION—PRINCIPLES. Ordinarily when a person submits to a decree it is no part of the Court's duty to interfere and give that person gratuitously a relief which he has not prayed for and which possibly he may not want. The general principle of law is that when there is no appeal or motion the decree will stand. This principle should be adhered to unless it is found that such adherence will hamper the Court in doing complete justice.

To meet this contingency O. 41, Rr. 4 and 33 have been enacted. These provisions give the Court a wide discretion to grant relief to persons who are not before the Court either as appellants or respondents. These discretionary powers, however, should be cautiously used and the exercise of these powers, when it is not necessary, would constitute an error of law and procedure justifying an interference by the High Court. 43 C.W.N. 15.

O. 41, R. 5.—The policy underlying the rule, see 38 C. 754=15 C.W.N. 475. O. 41, R. 5 does not apply to revision. 117 I.C. 815=1929 L. 167. In an appeal under O. 43, R. 1 (r) against an order of temporary injunction granted under O. 39, R. 2 the appellate Court is competent under O. 41, R. 5 (1) to direct a stay of operation of the interim injunction pending appeal. The words "stay of proceedings" in O. 41, R. 5 (1) do not mean stay of proceedings in the Court itself, so as to preclude the appellate Court from interfering with the operation of the injunction already issued. 1937 A.L.J. 377=1937 All. 528.

SCOPE OF.—See 37 I.C. 752; 99 I.C. 763 (1). Where an appeal is properly filed in accordance with R. 1, an application for stay of execution under R. 5 is maintainable, even though the appeal is not registered owing to an adverse report of the Stamp Reporter. 41 C.W.N. 374=65 C. L.J. 127. An undertaking by Court of Wards to hold the income of the estate under its management as a condition for stay of execution of the decree passed in respect of such estate, cannot be enforced as a personal security under S. 145, and its legal validity is also not free from doubt. 41 C. W.N. 374. The Registrar of Patna High Court has power to receive and dispose of applications for stay of execution proceedings. 59 I.C. 883=2 P.L.T. 70. The words "proceedings under a decree" include the proceedings relating to the passing of final decree in a mortgage suit, and an appeal against a preliminary decree will not operate as a stay of such proceedings. 53 A. 283=1931 A.L.J. 508=1931 A. 386 (F.B.). The mere fact that an appeal from a preliminary decree is pending in the appellate Court does not preclude the trial Court from passing a final decree. Hence the question of stay of further proceedings

(3) No order for stay of execution shall be made under sub-rule (1) or sub-rule (2) unless the Court making it is satisfied—

(a) that substantial loss may result to the party applying for stay of execution unless the order is made ;

(b) that the application has been made without unreasonable delay ; and

(c) that security has been given by the applicant for the due performance of such decree or order as may ultimately be binding upon him.

after preliminary decree depends upon the particular facts of each case; and unless the conditions of R. 5 are fulfilled (i.e., there must be likelihood of substantial loss to the party applying who must also give full security) stay cannot be ordered. 1933 L. 724; 150 I.C. 59=1934 N. 160. Though R. 5 does not empower Court to impose terms prior to granting stay, yet it prohibits stay except in the circumstances mentioned in sub-Cl. (3) of the rule. In the absence of such circumstances, stay order ought not to be passed except with the consent of the decree-holder or ex parte in anticipation of such consent and on such conditions as the decree-holder is likely to agree to. 150 I.C. 59=1934 N. 160. See also 41 C.W.N. 374=65 C.L.J. 127. In cases where the Code does not apply High Court has inherent jurisdiction as a Court of appeal to stay proceedings in a lower Court. 4 P.L.J. 371=52 I.C. 185. High Court has inherent powers to direct stay of execution of final decree pending an appeal from preliminary decree. 54 A. 344=1932 A.L.J. 43=1932 A. 238. The proper procedure in an appeal against a preliminary decree in a mortgage suit is to stay the passing of a final decree. 136 I.C. 729=1932 L. 271; 107 I.C. 486. But see 54 A. 344=1932 A. L.J. 43=1932 A. 238, holding that it is generally expedient that proceedings for the preparation of the final decree should not be stayed as the mere passing of a final decree will not affect the rights of parties. In the absence of any evidence that the proceedings in the lower Court will be of protracted nature or that their continuance will cause any substantial loss, it is unnecessary to stay all further proceedings in the lower Court in pursuance of a preliminary partition decree. If the passing of the final decree however, will cause some loss to the petitioner by obliging her to file another appeal from the final decree the proceedings in the lower Court should continue until the stage of the passing of the final decree is reached, but no final decree should be passed if the petitioner gives adequate security for the income of the property. 149 I.C. 1010=1934 L. 184. See also 1935 L. 181 (1)=158 I.C. 894. In cases relating to possession of land it is ordinarily desirable not to disturb the possession of a party unless good ground to the contrary is shown to exist, and the Bench hearing a Letters Patent appeal can grant stay when single Judge has not exercised any discretion and has not given any decision on the merits of the application. 150 I.C. 985 (1)=1934 L. 361 (2). High Court has inherent jurisdiction to grant a stay of execution under an award where the application to set aside an award has been refused and an appeal to High Court is pending therefrom. The analogy of R. 5 may in such a case be followed and the conditions in that rule may be required to be fulfilled. 55 B. 801=33 Bom.L.R. 702=1931 B. 384. High Court can suspend imprisonment under S. 43 of the Provincial Insolvency Act till the disposal of the appeal from the sentence. 44 B. 673=22 Bom. L.R. 322. PROVISO (c).—Under sub-Cl. (3) of O. 41, R. 5 no stay could be granted unless security had been given by appellant for the due performance of such decree or order as may ultimately be binding upon him. 152 I.C. 687 (2)=40 L.W. 650; 84 I.C. 302=1925 R. 5. Where a sum of money which is deposited in Court as security is more than sufficient to meet the claim ultimately awarded, the surplus can be applied towards payment of costs. 58 C. 1=133 I.C. 97=1931 C. 474. Mere presentation of appeal or presentation followed by dismissal does not in any way affect the operation of original decree. 46 C. 670=36 M. L.J. 557=50 I.C. 444 (P.C.). Also 63 I.C. 799.

POWERS OF TRIAL COURT.—An appeal having been filed, trial Court cannot oust decree-holder who has been put in possession in execution and put judgment-debtor in possession. 35 A. 119=17 I.C. 728. See also 73 C.L.J. 297. Appellant can before filing an appeal obtain an order for stay from trial Court. 33 I.C. 685=23 C. L.J. 310.

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] Substitute the following for the existing sub-rule (1) to r. 5 of O. 41.—
P. Dis. No. 164 of 1932:—

"5. (1) An appeal shall not operate as a stay of proceedings under a decree or order appealed from except so far as the Appellate Court may order, nor shall execution of a decree be stayed by reason only of an appeal having been preferred from the decree; but the Appellate Court may for sufficient cause order stay of execution of such decree and may, when the appeal is against a preliminary decree, stay the making of a final decree in pursuance of the preliminary decree or the execution of any such final decree, if already made."

decree on the original side pending an intended appeal is to be applied for in the original side, it should be made to the Judge who decided the case. 25 C.W.N. 928=48 C. 796. It is left to the discretion of the appellate Court to stay execution. An order passed by an appellate Court should not ordinarily be disturbed, unless it was passed without jurisdiction or with material irregularity or would occasion substantial loss. 1922 L. 185.

WHEN STAY CAN BE ORDERED.—Under Cl. (3) no order for stay of execution can be made unless certain conditions are fulfilled, one of which is the furnishing of security. But no such limitations are imposed when proceedings, as distinct from execution of a decree, are stayed. The difference is that the furnishing of security is compulsory in the one case, but within the discretion of the Court in the other. 31 N.L.R. 72=1935 N. 16=154 I.C. 461. Stay ought to be granted in appeal when decree-holders have sufficient security in the property itself remaining under attachment. 75 I.C. 791=1923 L. 445 (2). See also 31 P.L.R. 268=1930 L. 108. No security is necessary, when the decree itself is secured on the property. 66 I.C. 201. Stay of execution pending appeal—Surety for stay of execution—Can be proceeded against before proceeding against the judgment-debtor. 117 I.C. 65. See also 146 I.C. 764=1933 A. 664. In a suitable case appellate Court has power to stay execution of a decree which is under appeal even though decree-holder may not have applied to execute it. 57 B. 202=35 Bom.L.R. 134=1933 B. 118. Stay should be granted when appellant could not recover properties sold in the event of his succeeding in the appeal. 15 I.C. 876=94 P.W.R. 1912. When execution is being taken for costs fixed, but respondent is insolvent, the proper order is to grant stay on payment of costs to respondent's pleaders on the latter's undertaking to return it if appellant succeeds in appeal. 16 L.W. 975=70 I.C. 784=1923 M. 229 (2). See also 4 P.L.J. 642=54 I.C. 222 (Stay in case of directions given to Receiver by lower Court). What constitutes "substantial loss" within the meaning of O. 41, R. 5, Cl. (3), see 1927 L. 169=99 I.C. 767.

WHEN STAY CANNOT BE GRANTED.—Without an appeal on the decree on file a stay order is ultra vires and a nullity. 43 A. 513=19 A.L.J. 462; 43 A. 198=18 A. L.J. 1121. Under R. 5, no order of stay of execution during pendency of an appeal can be made unless Court is satisfied that substantial loss may result to the applicant and this rule applies to immovable equally with movable property. Where appeal is filed from a decree for possession of land and for mesne profits and the land in dispute is under a permanent lease at a uniform rent and the respondents who own considerable immovable property are prepared to give adequate security for restitution in case the decree in their favour is reversed on appeal, it cannot be held that the applicant will suffer any substantial and irreparable loss if execution proceedings are not stayed. 35 P.L.R. 727. A bare statement that appellant will suffer substantial loss is not a sufficient ground for granting stay. 61 I.C. 77=2 L. 61. The kind of loss must be specified, details must be given, and the conscience of Court must be satisfied that such loss will really ensue. The burden of proof is on the appellant to show that substantial loss may result unless execution is stayed. 150 I.C. 59=1934 N. 160. Application for restitution can be made as soon as decree is varied or reversed and it ought not to be stayed under R. 5, because an appeal has been filed. 117 I.C. 288=1929 N. 138. Stay cannot be granted by lower Court when no execution application is pending. 63 I.C. 897; 58 I.C. 302. Stay of execution to be granted in an appeal from a pre-emption decree. 1927 L. 169=99 I.C. 767. Stay cannot be granted on the ground that a claim by a prior mortgagee, is pending. Only amount sufficient to satisfy claim should be retained out of the sale proceeds. 60 I.C. 378=57 P.W.R. 1920. On a mere vague speculation stay cannot be granted; failure to furnish security required cannot give benefit of stay; stay after execution of decree cannot be granted. 58 I.C. 442. A decree for possession should not be stayed unless the three conditions of sub-R. (3) are satisfied. The crucial test is whether substantial loss will result if stay is not granted. 61 I.C. 827; 31 P.L.R. 216. Annoyance of feelings is not a sufficient ground for granting stay. 17 I.C. 219=23 M.L.J. 316. Stay of proceedings for taking accounts will not be allowed, unless irreparable injury will otherwise be caused. 61 I.C. 9. When an appeal against an order refusing to set aside an ex parte decree is pending, appellate Court has no power to stay execution, though the lower Court may. 33 I.C. 443. Sufficiency of security must be enquired into by the executing Court when High Court allowed execution on furnishing security. 44 I.C. 156=22 C.W.N. 657. Ordinarily no stay of execution should be granted in a money decree when decree-holder furnishes security for restitution. Ind. Rul. 1932 L. 651; also 33 P.L.R. 799 (1). Where after a decree for redemption the mortgagor deposited the decree amount and prayed for possession in execution, the deposit is a sufficient security for mesne profits in case the decree is reversed on appeal and no additional security need be furnished. 11 M. L.T. 248=15 I.C. 383. R. 5 cannot be construed so as to empower High Court to stay the proceedings of a Revenue Court which is not subordinate to it. The rule contemplates proceedings of Court subordinate to the appellate Court which passed the decree. 53 A. 180=1930 A.L.J. 1469=1931 A. 57.

WHEN STAY ORDER TAKES EFFECT.—Stay order takes effect only after communication. So an attachment order by lower Court after passing of the stay order by appellate Court, but before the communication is received, is valid. 33 M.L.J. 515=41 M. 151 (F.B.). But see 96 I.C. 137=1926 A. 457; 1941 O.W.N. 1044. But knowledge of the fact of stay order passed by appellate Court is sufficient to stop execution by lower Court, though the official communication had not been received. 38 M. 766=26 M.L.J. 275. A stay order passed by a higher Court takes effect from the date on which it is pronounced and not on the date on which it is communicated. A sale held despite the passing of such a stay order even though the same is not communicated is ultra vires. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 774=1941 O.W.N. 1044. An ad interim stay order operates from time of its pronouncement and not when it is communicated. 41 I.C. 752=53 P.W.R. 1917; 96 I.C. 137=1926 A. 457.

SALE IN CONTRAVENTION OF STAY ORDER.—A sale held between the time when an ex parte order for stay was passed and the time when the order was set aside, is not void. 43 I.C. 656 (1)=16 A.L.J. 46. Interim stay of sale ordered by appellate Court—Sale held in ignorance of order—Sale not a nullity. 1927 A. 401=102 I.C. 665=50 A. 41 (F.B.). See also 1930 L. 17=125 I.C. 53.

SECURITY BOND—FORM OF AND STAMPS FOR.—A security bond under Rr. 5 and 6 must be in the form of a bond to some one and not a mere undertaking to the Court. The bond must be addressed to some officer of the Court. The Court is not a juridical person and a bond in favour of the Court, is not one in proper form. 40 C.W.N. 1281. Surety bond under Rr. 5 and 6—Hypothecation of properties—Stamp duty—Mortgage deed or security bond. (Ibid.) This security bond under, in moffusil—Court-fee and stamp duty. 1936 Sind 41.

SECURITY BOND—ACCEPTANCE BY COURT.—A security bond executed by the surety under O. 41, Rr. 5 and 6 does not become operative until and unless it is accepted by the Court. 15 L. 282=149 I.C. 300=1934 L. 138 (F.B.).

SECURITY BOND—ENFORCEMENT.—Where security bond creating personal liability and hypothecation of property is executed by the surety to the executing Court under Rr. 5 and 6, the decree-holder can move executing Court to enforce the bond as against the surety. 15 L. 282=149 I.C. 300=1934 L. 138 (F.B.). In a mortgage suit the property mortgaged in usually security for the decretal amount and no further security need as a rule be taken. But when decree is for sale, with right to a personal decree attached, then if the mortgaged property is insufficient to satisfy the decree Court is bound to order security for the balance. 150 I.C. 59=1934 N. 160. A consent decree is not any the less a decree and therefore where a surety undertakes to be bound by such decree or order as may be passed by the Court, he undertakes to be bound by a consent decree as well as by one after contest. If however there is fraud or collusion or any of the matters on which a contract can be set aside, or the decree compromises matters not arising out of the litigation he could claim exemption on those grounds. 31 N. L.R. 172=1935 N. 16=154 I.C. 461.

REALISATION OF SECURITY.—When immovable property is given as security, it can be realised by execution and no need for a separate suit for its realisation. 41 M. 327=34 M.L.J. 84. See also 1933 M.W.N. 486=38 L.W. 818.

APPRECIATION OF VALUE OF SECURITIES.—Where judgment-debtor deposited decree amount as condition for stay of execution, and decree-holder was permitted to draw it on furnishing security; and where the decree-holder failed to furnish security and draw it; and the amount was invested in Government securities, on application by judgment-debtor; and where before the appellate Court passed its decision the securities became very much appreciated in value. Held, that under the decree all that the decree-holder could claim was only the sum found due with interest at the rate awarded and no more and that the profits arising out of the appreciation of the securities in value should go to the judgment-debtor who made the deposit. 156 I.C. 244=37 Bom.L.R. 200=1935 B. 200.

LOSS OF SECURITY BOND—PRESUMPTION AS TO ITS TERMS.—Where owing to the loss of the bond and the lapse of time, it is not possible to expect oral evidence of the terms of a security bond executed as per order staying further proceedings, the only reasonable presumption is that the bond must have been executed according to the tenor of the Court's order, and in accordance with the prevailing practice, of which the Court can take judicial notice. 31 N.L.R. 172=1935 N. 16=154 I.C. 461.

APPEAL.—An appeal lies from an order staying execution of a decree. I.R. 1932 L. 636; 32 P.L.R. 756=1932 L. 30 (1). See also 40 Bom.L.R. 1198. No appeal lies from an interlocutory order for furnishing

6. (1) Where an order is made for the execution of a decree from which an appeal is pending, the Court which passed the decree shall, on sufficient cause being shown by the appellant, require security to be taken for the restitution of any property which may be or has been taken in execution of the decree or for the payment of the value of such property and for the due performance of the decree or order of the Appellate Court, or the Appellate Court may for like cause direct the Court which passed the decree to take such security.

(2) Where an order has been made for the sale of immovable property in execution of a decree, and an appeal is pending from such decree, the sale shall, on the application of the judgment-debtor to the Court which made the order, be stayed on such terms as to giving security or otherwise as the Court thinks fit until the appeal is disposed of.

security. 75 I.C. 793=1923 L. 446; or from order accepting security as sufficient. 3 R. 255=1925 R. 225. See also 32 P.L.R. 806=1932 L. 120=136 I.C. 792. A stay order is automatically vacated the moment the appeal is dismissed and therefore it ceases to have effect from that date. 1939 N.L.J. 13=1939 Nag. 107.

COSTS.—In the absence of special circumstances the general rule is that costs of an application for stay of execution pending an appeal should be costs in the appeal. 56 B. 276=1932 B. 127 (F.B.).

PRACTICE.—Where an appeal is preferred against a decree during the pendency of its execution in the transferee Court and the execution is stayed and the appeal is subsequently dismissed and the stay order is discharged, it cannot be said that fresh applications for transfer and execution are necessary. The execution in the transferee Court may be revived by a mere application to that Court. Where a decree is affirmed in appeal, the result is not to wipe out the decree of the trial for all purposes. Where the terms of the decree of the trial Court are not in any way affected by the appellate decree, the fiction of merger should not be carried so far as to lead to such a palpably absurd and inequitable result that the decree-holder should be put to the inconvenience of filing a fresh application in the Court which originally passed the decree, getting a fresh transfer certificate to another Court and pursuing the proceedings for execution in that Court. 1941 O.W.N. 1186=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 1031.

PRACTICE—EXTENSION OF TIME.—In an execution petition an order was passed staying delivery of possession conditional on the judgment-debtor paying the kist and rent by a certain year itself but the Court granted extension of time. Held, that the order of stay was not under R. 5 (3) but one under S. 151, that though the order was under S. 151 still it was one allowed by the Code and that S. 148 applied by which extension of time could be given. 38 L.W. 201=1933 M. 563=65 M.L.J. 538.

O. 41, R. 6: SCOPE.—O. 41, R. 6 is inapplicable if no application for stay of sale is made to the executing Court. 39 P.L.R.

C.C.M.—168

601=1937 Lah. 841. The inherent powers given to appellate Courts under R. 5 regarding stay of execution are not restricted or cut down by the special and emergent powers given to the executing Courts under sub-R. (2). 41 M. 813=34 M.L.J. 470 (dissenting from 17 I.C. 763=23 M.L.J. 677). See also 1930 L. 108; 138 I.C. 847=1932 A. 551. Where properties (subject of mortgage decree) are deteriorating in value and not insured and are capable of being destroyed by fire, earthquake or other similar causes it is only fair that before sale is stayed J.D. should be ordered to give security for any deficiency that may occur in recovery of the amount due to the decree-holder under the decree on sale of the mortgaged property. 148 I.C. 941=1934 L. 117. Under R. 6 it is incumbent upon the Court to stay the sale on suitable terms as to security, if an application is made to it. The fact that the stay for execution has been refused by the appellate Court under R. 5, or that the rule for stay must be taken to have been discharged by reason of the non-fulfilment of the terms on which the stay was granted by the appellate Court, does not justify the Court in refusing to exercise the jurisdiction vested in it under R. 6. 44 C.W.N. 1150=1940 Cal. 582. A mortgage decree for sale is not separable or divisible, and when the Court which has ordered the sale has taken security for further interest pending appeal from the decree, it is bound to stay the sale under R. 6 (2). The fact that the appeal is directed only against a part of the decree and not against the whole decree, is no ground for holding that the Court cannot stay the sale of the entire mortgaged property. 22 Pat.L.T. 236.

Sub-rule (2): SCOPE.—Court cannot dismiss summarily an application for stay of sale of immovable property, pending appeal. 161 I.C. 936=1936 P. 443. On the wording of R. 6 (2), the Court has no option but to grant stay of sale on such terms as to giving security. There is no limit to the discretion of the Court in imposing terms, but it has no discretion to refuse to stay the sale. 1940 M. 82=I.L.R. (1940) M. 420=(1940) 1 M.L.J. 460. the order that the decree amount should be deposited in cash. 9 I.C. 323=15 C.W.N. 432. See also 1929 L. 68. But such an order is against the spirit of the rule. 1925 L. 69. An order of the appellate Court refusing to stay execution of the decree under R. 5 (1) of O. 41, does not fetter the power of the Court which passed the decree to stay under R. 6 (2) the sale ordered in execution of the decree. In fact such Court has no option but to stay a sale on such terms as it thinks fit if a proper application to that effect is made. 44 C.W.N. 701. Under R. 6 (2), Court has jurisdiction to make it a condition that the stay would be given only on judgment-debtor depositing the decree amount in Court. The words "on such terms as to giving security or otherwise" mean that terms may be either giving security or any other term, such as the deposit of the decree amount in the Court ordering stay. 40 L.W. 704=1934 M. 709=67 M.L.J. 650. Under the provisions of O. 41, R. 6 (2) the Court which passed the decree has full powers to stay a sale on taking security from the judgment-debtor. It need not, and ought not to grant a limited stay order and ask the judgment-debtor to obtain a further order of stay from High Court. 45 C.W.N. 382=1940 Cal. 543. Security bond executed by a member of a joint Mitakshara family when it consists of other members including minors should not be accepted by the Court. 18 Pat. L. T. 62=1137 Pat. 380. Final decree passed pending appeal from preliminary decree for sale in mortgage suit—Application for execution of final decree Court can only stay, and not dismiss. 1933 A. 732. The Court which directs security to be furnished is directly interested in seeing whether its orders have been complied with or not, and though it may have delegated the function of enquiring into the sufficiency of security to a Subordinate Court and left it entirely to that Court to decide the sufficiency or otherwise of the security, it can always intervene if the Subordinate Court misdirects itself in conducting the enquiry. At the same time if certain matters have been left to the discretion of the Subordinate Court, the appellate Court will interfere only when the Court below has acted perversely or either misconstrued or misdirected itself on any principle of law and justice. It is the duty of the Subordinate Court to examine the titles of the sureties carefully and be reasonably satisfied as to the validity and the sufficiency of the bonds so that no difficulty may arise in their enforcement if it becomes necessary to enforce them in future. 1937 P.W.N. 216=18 Pat.L.T. 621=1937 Pat. 380.

APPLICABILITY.—This rule applies only to cases where appeal is against the decree which is to be executed. So, it has no application in case where an appeal is preferred on a decree in claim suit. In this case the remedy is an injunction under O. 39. 1922 L. 518. Where after a decree in High Court in appeal, there was an appeal to the P.C. the proper Court which could demand security from the decree-holder who had taken possession is not the trial Court under this rule, but the High Court has to be moved under R. 13. 13 R. 158=4 Bur.L.J. 50. A surety under this rule is not discharged on the death of judgment-debtor. 32 I.C. 807. No arrangement between decree-holder and surety can bind judgment-debtor's interest on reversal of decree. 32 I.C. 807. LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] Substitute the following rule:—

Registers in accordance with Forms Nos. 22, 23, 24 and 25 in Appendix H are prescribed for use in all Civil Courts having jurisdiction over the classes of suits specified therein."

10. (1) The Appellate Court may in its discretion, either before the respondent is called upon to appear and answer or afterwards on the application of the respondent, demand from the appellant security for the costs of the appeal, or of the original suit, or of both:

Appellate Court may require appellant to furnish security for costs.

Provided that the Court shall demand such security in all cases in which the appellant is residing out of British India, and is not possessed of any sufficient immovable property within British India other than the property (if any) to which the appeal relates.

Where appellant resides out of British India.

(2) Where such security is not furnished within such time as the Court orders, the Court shall reject the appeal.

O. 41; R. 10: SCOPE.—The object of R. 10 of O. 41, is to secure the respondent from the risk of having to incur further costs which he might never recover from the applicant, and an application under the rule must therefore be made promptly. The Court must be careful to see that a poor appellant is not deprived in effect of his right of appeal. Poverty is always a handicap in litigation and there is no justification for the Court to add to this handicap by requiring impossible things to be done. Different considerations would arise if the appeal were not bona fide or if the appellant were only a puppet in the hands of others. But when there is nothing to show that the appellant has no real or substantial interest in the subject-matter of the litigation or that he is a mere name lender for another, and when on the other hand the application of the respondent for calling on the appellant to furnish security is not only belated, but also not bona fide, the Court should not allow the application, especially when even otherwise it is not desirable in the interests of justice that an order should be made for furnishing security which might very likely stifle the appeal itself. 45 L. W. 232 = 1937 Mad. 285. The rule applies to Letters Patent Appeal. The provision regarding rejection is mandatory. 48 C. 481 = 48 I.A. 76 = 40 M.L.J. 308 (P.C.); also 25 Bom. L. R. 468 = 73 I.C. 474; 68 I.C. 306; 2 L.L.J. 391; 61 M.L.J. 688 = 34 L.W. 783. "Costs of the appeal or of the original suit"—Meaning of—Court-fee due to Government by pauper plaintiff or pauper appellant application by Government for security for costs is not maintainable. 45 L. W. 186 = 1937 Mad. 267. Where security for costs of appeal is ordered to be furnished within a particular time, it is a compliance with the order if it is tendered within the time; and the appeal cannot be rejected unless the security is tested and found insufficient, even though the testing is after the time fixed for furnishing it. The testing of the security itself need not be within the time. (Decision of Jackson, J., in 52 M.L.J. 53 (Short Notes), relied on). (1941) 2 M.L.J. 291. R. 10, is concerned with costs incurred up to and in the appellate Court and has no bearing whatever in costs which may be dependent upon something occurring in the Privy Council. 101 I.C. 551 = 1927 A. 522 (2). It applies to appeals from the Original Side of High Court. 21 L.W. 662 = 1925 M. 1132. O. 41, R. 10 is applicable to appeals from decrees or orders made on the original side of the High Court, whether the judgment appealed against is one made in a suit or in a petition. The expression "original suit" in O. 41, R. 10 is not used in the technical sense of a proceeding commenced by a plaint, but is used to cover also an original application on which the judgment appealed from was given, whatever its nature. made promptly without delay. 20 P.L.R. 1918=44 I.C. 23; 1930 C. 520; 45 L.W. 232=1937 M. 285; 1931 M.W.N. 1157 (Delay by itself is no ground for refusing to direct security). Application for correcting clerical error in security bond filed, should be allowed. 86 I.C. 752=1925 O. 402. No power is given under the rule to order appellant to pay the entire decree amount and not costs alone. 139 I.C. 866=1932 A.L.J. 722=1932 A. 511 (F.B.). R. 10 empowers appellate Court to demand security for costs from appellant, and the appeal Court is final authority for deciding upon sufficiency or otherwise of security offered. The mere fact that for reasons of convenience it had delegated to Subordinate Judge the duty of taking security does not prevent the appeal Court from satisfying itself that the security taken was sufficient or that the security was taken after proper inquiry. 148 I.C. 1140=35 Bom.L.R. 1114=1934 B. 13.

SECURITY FOR COSTS OF APPEAL.—Security bond not properly executed—Dismissal of appeal forthwith—Propriety. 47 C. L. J. 328=107 I.C. 349 (2) (P.C.). See also 1930 M. 355.

WHEN TO BE ORDERED.—The power to demand security must be exercised according to well-known principles for which, see 25 Bom.L.R. 468=73 I.C. 474. See also 45 L.W. 232=1937 M. 285; 34 C.W.N. 495=1931 C. 40=58 C. 117 (collusive suit). Court is not bound, as a matter of law, to order security to be furnished. It is a matter absolutely discretionary. In special circumstances, Court may direct the furnishing of security but where highly penal consequences will entail upon the appellant by the order, Court would not be bound to make the order for security. 121 I.C. 61=1930 N. 28. Where appellant has been allowed to prosecute his appeal as pauper, the order implies the case is fit to be placed outside the purview of R. 10. In the absence of special circumstances showing that the pauper is a mere creature in the hands of persons well able to find security an order directing the pauper to furnish security would be improper and inconsistent with the order granting him leave to appeal. 121 I.C. 61=1930 N. 28. (47 B. 104; 3 M. 66; 17 M.L.J. 583, Ref.). See also 1931 M. W.N. 1157; 56 M. 323=64 M. L. J. 433; 13 R. 511. Such circumstances are where appellant has suppressed a material document in his possession. 1933 M.W.N. 263; where a Court on a perusal of judgment of lower Court finds that there is no chance of appellant's success. 56 M. 323=1933 M. 519=64 M.L.J. 433. The mere fact that an appellant has not paid in full or in part the costs of the original suit is no ground for calling upon him to furnish security unless his conduct has been shown to be vexatious, that is, such as indicates a wilful determination on his part not to obey the order of Court in respect of costs. 130 I. C. 771=1931 L. 70. An appellant's poverty would not by itself be sufficient to warrant his being required to furnish security for costs. But that does not mean that the appellant can rely upon his own poverty as being an important or decisive factor, and resist an application for security, on that ground, particularly where it is found that appellant's claim was of a vexatious character and his conduct has been mala fide throughout. Though a respondent should be prompt in applying for security for costs, yet where the delay was due to the steps taken for recovering costs incurred in the lower Court, and where the very occasion for the application for security is non-recovery of such costs, such a delay cannot deprive an applicant of his remedy under O. 41, R. 10. 47 L.W. 133=1938 Mad. 380=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 142. Where a minor pauper is an appellant and is a mere creature in the hands of persons well able to find security, he can be called on to furnish security for costs. The fact that the appellant is both a minor and a pauper does not by itself entitle him to resist the application for security for costs. 47 L.W. 153=1938 Mad. 313=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 235. Court has a discretion in demanding security—Poverty of the appellant is not sufficient—Each case stands on its own facts—In many cases at least security for costs of appeal alone, may be justly ordered. 25 Bom.L.R. 195=1923 B. 264; 17 L.W. 26=70 I.C. 586; 1 P.L.T. 114=55 I.C. 835; 114 I.C. 708=1930 L. 384 (1); 123 I.C. 538=1930 L. 382; 1930 L. 629 (2)=129 I.C. 121; 17 P.L.T. 187=1936 P. 433; 14 R. 289=1936 R. 294. If appeal is not vexatious, poverty of appellant and existence of relations who can pay is not sufficient ground. 28 I.C. 598=19 C.W.N. 446. Even though appellant is a public servant who is defended by Government, security from the Secretary of State can be ordered when the amount of costs is very high. 13 I.C. 335=16 C.W.N. 119. Court-fee due to Government by pauper plaintiff or appellant is not "costs of the appeal or of the original suit" within the meaning of R. 10. Hence this rule cannot be utilised for the benefit of Government in order to enable it to collect the Court-fee due. 45 L.W. 186=1937 M. 267. No extension of time can be granted after dismissal of appeal. 67 I.C. 883=1923 C. 417; 7 R. 445=1929 R. 289. But see 42 A. 626=18 A. L.J. 838. See also 1932 M.W.N. 655.

APPEAL.—See I.L.R. (1940) All. 19=187 I.C. 31. An order rejecting an appeal under O. 41, R. 10 (2), for failure to furnish security for the costs of the respondent is not a decree within the meaning of S. 2 (2), C.P. Code and is hence not appealable as such. Nor is it one of the orders mentioned in O. 43, R. 1 and so is neither appealable as an order. 1939 A.L.J. 998=1939 All. 733. Where owing to a

11. (1) The Appellate Court, after sending for the record if it thinks fit so to do, and after fixing a day for hearing the appellant or his pleader and hearing him accordingly if he appears on that day, may dismiss the appeal without sending notice to the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred and without serving notice on the respondent or his pleader.

(2) If on the day fixed or any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned the appellant does not appear when the appeal is called on for hearing, the Court may make an order that the appeal be dismissed.

(3) The dismissal of an appeal under this rule shall be notified to the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred.

dispute as to the sufficiency of the security furnished by an appellant under R. 10, a date is fixed for its decision and the appellant does not appear on such date and the appeal is dismissed, the rejection of the appeal is under R. 10 (2), and not under R. 17. Hence a refusal to restore it would not come under R. 19 of O. 41 and so it would not be appealable. 1939 A.L.J. 998=1939 All. 733.

REVISION.—A rejected appeal under sub-rule (2) can be restored and further time for furnishing security may be given in revision though there is no explicit provision to that effect. 42 A. 626=18 A.L.J. 838; 3 L. 30; 40 I.C. 234. Notice to the respondent is necessary when re-admitting a rejected appeal. 40 I.C. 234. No appeal lies from an order under this rule. 62 I.C. 751; 3 L. 30. No appeal or revision lies from an order setting aside an order rejecting an appeal under sub-R. (2). 42 A. 626=18 A.L.J. 838. Nor against an order rejecting an appeal under sub-R. (2). 161 I.C. 233=1936 R. 109. Sureties are discharged when appeal is allowed and cannot again be made liable, when the appellate order is reversed. 38 C.L.J. 190=76 I.C. 510.

RESTORATION.—Power of Court to restore appeal dismissed for failure to furnish security within time. See 117 I.C. 791. Application for restoration is governed by Art. 168 of the Limitation Act. 61 M.L.J. 688.

O. 41, R. 11: SCOPE.—A dismissal of an appeal under this rule is not equivalent to confirmation of decree under R. 32. When appeal is against a mortgage decree the dismissal of appeal under this rule does not extend time for payment fixed in the decree. 47 B. 950=25 Bom.L.R. 990. See also 24 C.L.J. 517=21 C.W.N. 430. When an appeal is heard under O. 41, R. 11, the Court may either act under sub-R. (1) or sub-R. (2). Under sub-R. (1) the dismissal may be on the merits and this may be after hearing the pleader, if he appears, but the words indicate that a dismissal on the merits may also be ordered if the pleader does not appear. Under sub-R. (2) if the appellant does not appear the Court may dismiss for fault. But this does not prevent a dismissal on the merits where there is no appearance under sub-R. (1). The power of the appellate Court to take these two courses under R. 11 is not taken away when a notice is issued to the respondent and the respondent appears in accordance with that notice. I.L.R. (1938) All. 814=1938 A.L.J. 901=1938 All. 548. An appellate Court should not dismiss an appeal summarily without any due regard to the nature of the questions of fact and of law that arise for consideration in the appeal. The powers of summary dismissal ought not to be lightly used specially in cases where the questions at issue between the parties are not simple but complicated and require careful examination and investigation by Courts of fact. 19 Pat.L.T. 305=1938 Pat. 330. In a case where elaborate questions of fact and of law have to be decided, an appellate Court is not justified in dismissing the appeal summarily under R. 11. The appellate Court in such a case should admit the appeal, hear arguments on both sides, apply its mind to the oral and documentary evidence in the case and then come to a decision, which in many cases would be final between the parties. 19 Pat.L.T. 210=1938 Pat. 608. Summary dismissal by District Judge of an appeal under S. 476 (8), Cr.P. Code, is wrong in law and R. 11 has no application. 51 C.L.J. 45=1930 C. 282=127 I.C. 265. Collector's case—Appeal—Dismissal for default—Refusal to restore—Revision to Governor-in-Council from order of Deputy Commissioner—If open. 19 N.L.J. 314.

JUDGMENT NECESSARY.—Court must write a formal judgment in dismissing appeal. 37 B. 610=15 Bom.L.R. 765 (overruling 36 B. 116=12 I.C. 564=13 Bom.L.R. 1002); 27 C.W.N. 501=1923 C. 558. Appeal dismissed under R. 11—Writing judgment is not obligatory though advisable. 25 N.L.R. 55=115 I.C. 168=1929 N. 68. See also 13 P. 540=150 I.C. 817=15 P.L.T. 293=1934 P. 331. In dismissing an appeal under R. 11, it is not obligatory upon the lower appellate Court to write a regular formal judgment giving reasons for the decisions as required by R. 31 of the said Order, because R. 31 applies only to a judgment under R. 30. 171 I. C. 625=1937 Sind 247. Some elaborate questions of fact and also a question of law as to whether the Mahant had power to make certain grants fell to be decided and the appellate Court dismissed the appeal summarily under R. 11. Appellate judgment was called for and therefore the appellate Court was wrong in dismissing it summarily under R. 11. (1934 Pat. 341, Dist.) 17 Pat. L. T. 607=1936 Pat. 505. Appellate Court dismissing appeal should generally record reasons and must write judgment according to O. 41, R. 31. 4 R. 66=1927 R. 208=103 I.C. 766; 4 R. 18=95 I.C. 521=1926 R. 129; 67 I.C. 471. See also 1926 C. 992=96 I.C. 136=43 C.L.J. 499; 53 A. 528=132 I.C. 200=1931 A. 589; 1931 A.L.J. 875=1931 A. 597 (F.B.). This should be done specially when the order summarily dismissing an appeal is itself subject to an appeal. 147 I.C. 194=59 C.L.J. 293=1934 C. 26. The dismissal of an appeal under R. 11, is a decree and the expression of opinion dismissing the appeal is judgment. 30 C.W.N. 334=1926 C. 638=93 I.C. 939 (2). Where an appeal is dismissed under the rule, the decree remains the decree of the lower Court and not of the appellate Court. So it is the ground for amendment of the decree. 11 P. 409=1932 P. 238; 142 I.C. 143=1933 N. 117. The discretion given by this rule is not an arbitrary discretion but a judicial discretion. 33 I.C. 666. Where the case is a fairly arguable one and there is a reasonable prospect of success Court has to order notice to issue and not to impose conditions on appellant. An order for notice conditional on the appellant depositing the entire decretal amount is bad in law. 1932 A.L.J. 722=1932 A. 511 (F.B.). The appellate Court is bound to fix a date for hearing the appellant. The date of hearing is the one to be fixed by the Court and not the one fixed by any ministerial officer. An appellant had a right to be heard unless he is guilty of misconduct or gross negligence. 18 N.L.J. 157. It is imperative to hear appellant before passing final order on appeal. 11 Lah. L.T. 32. When appeal is against a condition fixing period of payment, and the period elapsed during pendency of appeal, the appeal ought not to be dismissed on the ground that payment was not made within the period fixed. 17 I.C. 868=10 A.L.J. 421.

ADMISSION OF APPEAL IN PART.—It is open to the appellate Court under R. 11 to dismiss an appeal in part and to admit it in part, if appeal is severable. 152 I.C. 418=1935 L. 34; but not to admit it and at the same time to restrict the grounds on which the appeal is to be heard. 58 B. 397=36 Bom.L.R. 451=1934 B. 207 (F.B.).

RE-ADMISSION.—Any order restricting grounds of appeal to be heard, at the time of re-admission, is ultra vires. 15 C.W.N. 921=14 C.L.J. 146. No review when a second appeal is dismissed under this rule. Discovery of new evidence is not sufficient ground for review. 50 I.C. 431=27 C.W.N. 918. When once admitted on review without notice to respondents, succeeding Judge cannot question the order subsequently. 50 I.C. 431.

APPEAL AND REVISION.—An order under sub-rule (1) is a "decree" and therefore appealable. But if no decree is drawn up, the appeal may be treated as an application for revision. 191 P.L.R. 1914=23 I.C. 90. Order refusing to take action against receiver under O. 40, R. 4—Appeal—Maintainability. 150 I.C. 750 (1)=1934 A. 907. Appeal dismissed under O. 41, R. 11—Lower Court's decree is superseded. See 1937 Nag. 381. See also 18 Pat.L.T. 321=1937 Pat. 349. An appellate Court has jurisdiction to dismiss an appeal summarily under O. 41, R. 11, although when difficult questions arise for consideration it would not be doing justice to the parties to dismiss the appeal under R. 11. Since the dismissal under R. 11 is not without jurisdiction, the High Court will not interfere in revision. 1937 P. W. N. 843=18 Pat. L. T. 812=1937 Pat. 639.

O. 41, Rr. 11 and 12 (1): CONSTRUCTION AND SCOPE.—A Court in dealing with an appeal under O. 41, R. 11 cannot direct that it be admitted in part only. By virtue of R. 11 the appellate Court may dismiss the appeal without serving notice on the respondent, but if it does not dismiss the appeal summarily, it must, by virtue of R. 12 (1) fix a day for hearing "the appeal". There is nothing in either rule to suggest that the Court may admit the appeal in part only. There are only two courses open to the Court, namely, to dismiss or admit the appeal as whole. I.L.R. (1940) Mad. 785=1940 Mad. 483=(1940) 1 M. L. J. 857 (F.B.).

O. 41, R. 11 and Ss. 151, 152: DISMISSAL UNDER O. 41, R. 11—EFFECT—AMENDMENT OF DECREE APPEALED AGAINST—APPLICATION FOR PROPER FORUM.—Where the Chief Court dismisses an appeal under O. 41, R. 11 it neither confirms nor varies the decree of the lower appellate Court allows it to remain as it was. Hence when the decree in question is sought to be amended, it is the lower appellate Court which could amend the decree and hence an application for amendment of the decree should be made to that Court and not to the Chief Court. 1941 O.W.N. 1=1941 O.A. 8.

Transmission of papers to Appellate Court.

14. (1) Notice of the day fixed under rule 12 shall be affixed in the Appellate Court-house, and a like notice shall be sent by the Appellate Court to the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred, and shall be served on the respondent or on his pleader in the Appellate Court in the manner provided for the service on a defendant of a summons to appear and answer; and all the provisions applicable to such summons, and to proceedings with reference to the service thereof, shall apply to the service of such notice.

Appellate Court may itself cause notice to be served.

(2) Instead of sending the notice to the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred, the Appellate Court may itself cause the notice to be served on the respondent or his pleader under the provisions above referred to.

[CALCUTTA.] Insert the following clause as clause (3) :—"(3) It shall be in the discretion of the Appellate Court to make an order, at any stage of the appeal whether on its own motion, or ex parte dispensing with service of such notice on any respondent who did not appear, either at the hearing in the Court whose decree is complained of or at any proceeding subsequent to the decree of that Court or on the legal representatives of any such respondent :

"14-A. The Appellate Court may, in its discretion, dispense with the service of notice hereinbefore required on a respondent, or on the legal representative of a deceased respondent, in a case where such respondent did not appear, either at any stage of the proceedings in the Court whose decree is appealed from or in any proceedings subsequent to the decree of that Court and no relief is claimed against such opposite party or respondent or his legal representative either in the original case or appeal."

[RANGOON.] Add the following sub-rule :—

"(3) Nothing in these rules requiring any notice to be served on or given to an opposite party or respondent shall be deemed to require any notice to be served on or given to an opposite party or respondent who did not appear either at the hearing in the Court whose decree is complained of or at any proceeding subsequent to the decree of that Court or on or to the legal representative of any such opposite party or respondent if deceased."

[SIND.] Add the following as sub-rule (3) :—

"(3) The Appellate Court may, however, in its discretion, dispense with the service of notice of the appeal or interlocutory application therein, on a respondent or opponent who has made no appearance at the trial Court."

Add the following as r. 14-A :—

"14-A. Subject to the leave of the Appellate Court nothing in these rules requiring any notice to be served on or given to an opposite party or respondent shall be deemed to require any notice to be served on or given to the legal representative of any deceased opposite party or deceased respondent, where such opposite party or respondent did not appear, either at the hearing in the Court whose decree is complained of or at any proceedings subsequent to the decree of that Court."

Contents of notice.

15. The notice to the respondent shall declare that if he does not appear in the Appellate Court on the day so fixed the appeal will be heard ex parte.

LOC. AM.—[CENTRAL PROVINCES.] In O. 41, insert the following as r. 15-A :—

"15-A. Where, after admission of an appeal in the High Court, the rules of the High Court require the appellant to take any steps in the prosecution of the appeal before a fixed date, and where, after due service of a notice intimating the steps to be taken and the date before which they must be taken, the appellant fails to take such steps within the prescribed time, the Court may direct the appeal to be dismissed for want of prosecution or may pass such other order as it thinks fit."

Procedure on hearing.

16. (1) On the day fixed, or on any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the appellant shall be heard in support of the appeal.

Right to begin.

(2) The Court shall then, if it does not dismiss the appeal at once, hear the respondent against the appeal, and in such case the appellant shall be entitled to reply.

17. (1) Where on the day fixed or on any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the appellant does not appear when the appeal is called on for hearing, the Court may make an order that the appeal be dismissed.

Dismissal of appeal for appellant's default.

Hearing appeal ex parte.

(2) Where the appellant appears and the respondent does not appear, the appeal shall be heard ex parte.

Bom.L.R. 738. All. that R. 16, compels Court to do is to hear arguments if any addressed and not to permit written argument. 115 I.C. 173=1929 N. 89.

O. 41, R. 17: SCOPE.—Rr. 17 and 19 are exhaustive in respect of cases where appellant makes default in appearance in appeal. 103 I.C. 425=1927 L. 622. O. 41, R. 17, C.P. Code, only applies when the appeal is called on for hearing, and not when it is called on merely in order to be postponed.

NOTES.

42 P.L.R. 271. Where an appeal is adjourned for a short while to enable a party to engage a fresh counsel to argue his appeal but the new counsel files his appearance and asks for an adjournment and the Court thereupon orders 'No body appears to argue this appeal, I therefore dismiss it with costs', it is clearly an order dismissing the appeal for default. Appearance in the legal sense means that a party or somebody on his behalf either expressly in words or by his conduct demands an adjudication from the Court. 1939 A. L. J. 355=1939 All. 451. If appellant fails to intimate any change of address and a notice sent to him by Court to the address specified in the memorandum of appeal is returned unserved on the ground that he has left the place and taken up residence elsewhere, Court will not postpone hearing of appeal for benefit of appellant; and if appellant is absent at the hearing, the appeal is liable to be dismissed. 1936 R.D. 448 (1). If the discretion to dismiss is not exercised, the appeal must be adjourned and cannot be disposed of on merits. 1925 R. 96. An order dismissing an appeal for default is not a decree, and lower Court's decree is not superseded. Therefore first Court can set aside ex parte decree. 39 A. 393=15 A.L.J. 289.

DEFAULT—WHAT IS.—Where materials essential for progress of suit are wanting owing to appellant's default, an appeal may be dismissed, for default. 47 I.C. 691. When appellant is present in Court and states that his pleader is engaged elsewhere the presence of the appellant is not an appearance within this rule. 5 Pat.L.J. 17=54 I.C. 715. Mere unpreparedness of appellant's counsel to argue appeal is no ground for Court to dismiss it for default. 115 I.C. 173=1929 N. 89. R. 17 does not contemplate that Court should decide an appeal on merits in the absence of appellant. The law contemplates that appellate Court should hear both parties to the appeal and then decide it according to its judgment. 56 C. 412=1929 C. 475; 1925 R. 96; 11 Lah.L.T. 136. Appearance by pleader who is instructed only to apply for adjournment is no appearance. 62 I.C. 57. Appearance of appellant at Court to ask time to get pleader is not appearance within the meaning of the Code. 30 I.C. 878=22 C. L.J. 72; 51 M.L.J. 654. When appellant was not present, and pleader asked for adjournment and when it was refused reported no instructions, this amounted to default, and appeal should not have been disposed of on the merits, but dismissed for default. 28 O. C. 166=1925 O. 549; 43 M.L.J. 317=45 M. 882; 74 I.C. 947; 1923 P. 536=5 Pat.L.T. 46; 51 I.C. 46=42 M. 451=36 M.L.J. 222. See contra 83 I.C. 257=1925 N. 236 (1). Remand for further enquiry and report on a fixed date—Appellant absenting on date fixed for enquiry—Appeal cannot be dismissed for default before date fixed for report.

96 I.C. 308=1926 L. 574.

DEFAULT—WHAT IS NOT.—When appellant alone is present without pleader and could not argue the appeal, the appeal should be decided on the merits considering the grounds of appeal. 35 A. 105=11 A.L.J. 18; 39 P.L.R. 34=1937 Lah. 691. There is no default when pleader is present but is prevented from physical disability from arguing. 9 I.C. 857. Pleaders or counsel should be sent for. No doubt peon's calling out at the door of the Court very often proves sufficient, but when there are pleaders, the ordinary practice of sending for them should not be discontinued. In appeals especially, it is not absolutely necessary that parties should be present in person when there are constituted agents in the shape of counsel in Court and so it is conducive to good work that they should be sent for. 52 A. 536=1930 A.L.J. 632=1930 A. 217. The clerk of Court has no power to fix a date in the absence of the Judge, and the failure of the appellant to appear on a date so fixed does not justify dismissal in default. 36 P.L.R. 63=1934 Lah. 984.

RESTORATION.—Court has an inherent power of restoration of an appeal dismissed for default. 47 M. 171=45 M.L.J. 813. Non-appearance, because no date of hearing was fixed, is not default; a dismissal for default is without jurisdiction. 69 I.C. 618=1924 L. 279. There is sufficient cause for restoration, when, due to want of notice of the fact of transfer of appeal from one sub-Court to another, the appellant was not present at the latter Court. 46 I.C. 881. When, within a month from date of dismissal for default, both parties apply for restoration and file a petition of compromise, it ought to be restored and a compromise decree passed. 68 I.C. 448=1923 C. 319. An appeal dismissed for default when the appellant was present to ask for time to get his pleader should generally be restored. 50 I.C. 878 (1)=22 C.L.J. 72. Appeal may be restored when appellant himself has shown all possible diligence towards causing appearance to be made, but there was default due to negligence of pleader. 14 I.C. 823=22 M. L. J. 284. Restoration should be refused when vakil's conduct amounts to gross negligence. 35 I.C. 429=1 Pat.L.J. 65. Summary rejection for application for restoration of appeal dismissed for default is invalid. 104 I.C. 347 (2)=1927 C. 888.

APPEAL AND REVISION.—Against an order of dismissal for default, when it should have been disposed of on merits no appeal lies but it is revisable. 83 I.C. 257=1925 N. 236 (1); 28 O.C. 166=1925 O. 449. See also 53 C. 827=1927 C. 98=99 I.C. 124.

18. Where on the day fixed, or on any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, it is found that the notice to the respondent has not been served in consequence of the failure of the appellant to deposit, within the period fixed, the sum required to defray the cost of serving the notice, the Court may make an order that the appeal be dismissed:

Dismissal of appeal where notice not served in consequence of appellant's failure to deposit costs.

Provided that no such order shall be made although the notice has not been served upon the respondent, if on any such day the respondent appears when the appeal is called on for hearing.

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] In O. 41, r. 18, after the words "cost of serving the notice" insert the words "or if the notice is returned unserved, to deposit within any subsequent period fixed the sum required to defray the cost of any further attempt to serve the notice."

19. Where an appeal is dismissed under rule 11, sub-rule (2), or rule 17 or rule 18, the appellant may apply to the Appellate Court for the re-admission of the appeal; and, where it is proved that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from appearing when the appeal was called on for hearing or from depositing the sum so required, the Court shall re-admit the appeal on such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit.

Re-admission of appeal dismissed for default.

LOC. AMS.—[MADRAS.] Re-number r. 19 in O. 41, as r. 19 (1) and add the following as—
r. (1). " (2) The provisions of S. 5, Limitation Act, 1908, shall apply to applications under sub-r. (1)."

[CENTRAL PROVINCES.] In r. 19, O. 41, after the words and figures "r. 11, sub-r. (2)" insert the words and figures "or r. 15-A" followed by a comma.

O. 41, Rr. 17, 30 and 31: DISMISSAL UNDER R. 17 OF O. 41, WHEN JUSTIFIED—COURT WHEN BOUND TO PROCEED UNDER RR. 30 AND 31.—Where on the day fixed for the hearing of an appeal, the appellant does not appear when his appeal is called on for hearing, the Court is entitled under R. 17 to make an order that the appeal be dismissed. In such a case the Court is not bound to proceed in the manner laid down by Rr. 30 and 31, for this reason that, that procedure has to be adopted only 'after hearing the parties or their pleaders'. To say that it should be followed even when a party does not appear, is to require the Court to do something which the law does not require it to do. 1940 A.L.J. 121=1940 All. 310.

O. 41, R. 18.—Applicability. 52 I.C. 179=169 P.R. 1919. Appeal cannot be dismissed, because appellant failed to provide a person to identify respondent. 65 I.C. 49=3 Pat.L.T. 498. A dismissal under this rule is wrong, when the Talabnama has been deposited but notice to the respondent for the issue of process has not been filed. 15 C.L.J. 683=13 I.C. 694=16 C.W.N. 498. No appeal lies from an order under this rule. 52 I.C. 179=169 P.R. 1919. Appeal dismissed against respondent who is necessary party and order not appealed against—Whole appeal abates—Appeal being imperfectly constituted—Court cannot make contradictory decrees. 1930 C. 346=133 I.C. 813. tice on some of the respondents—Appeal—Maintainability—Application under R. 19 not the only remedy. See 9 P. 408=10 Pat.L.T. 589=1929 Pat. 609.

O. 41, R. 19: SCOPE.—The rule is not exhaustive of the power of appellate Court in the matter of restoration. 20 Bom.L.R. 110=45 B. 648. But see 103 I.C. 425=1927 L. 622. The rule does not take away other remedies of the appellant if any. 2 P. 739=4 Pat.L.T. 405. Dismissal of appeal in the absence of appellant permits only restoration. 1925 R. 96. Unless the dismissal of an appeal falls under either R. 11 (2) or R. 17 or R. 18 of O. 41, there can be no restoration or re-hearing under R. 19. I.L.R. (1940) All. 220=1940 A.L.J. 126=1940 All. 248. WRONG DISMISSAL.—It is wrong to dismiss an appeal when appellants have not been served and though pleaders are present, they have no instructions. 30 I.C. 199=2 O.L.J. 198. Notice of date fixed for hearing should be sent to next friend of minor appellants. Otherwise dismissal for default could not be sustained. 53 I.C. 333. In an application under R. 19 for the restoration of an appeal which has been dismissed for default, it is not necessary that any particular party should be expressly impleaded. There is nothing in the Code, which requires it. All that is required is that an application should be made for the restoration of the dismissed appeal. It is no doubt ordinarily advisable to mention in the application the names of all the parties on whom notice of the application should be served. But omission to mention the name of a party respondent does not entail the dismissal of the application on that ground, if the record enables the Court to ascertain the names of the persons to whom notice of the application should be, and is in fact, given. 1937 A.L.J. 407=1937 All. 362. Courts exist not for the purpose of imposing discipline on practitioners or parties but for the purpose of administering justice. Where an appeal was summarily dismissed and an application for restoration was rejected on the ground of 'Court discipline'. Held, that the order should have stated the reason for rejecting the petition and its merits should have been investigated by the Court. Even if the order gave reason, it was not sufficient and the order must be set aside. 1937 Pat. 624.

SUFFICIENT CAUSE.—Applicant should be given an opportunity to prove sufficient cause for default. 57 I.C. 762; 52 I.C. 926=59 P.L.R. 1919; 1925 C. 269=82 I.C. 330. In dealing with an application under O. 41, R. 19 to restore an appeal which has been dismissed for default, the appellant's Counsel being engaged before another Court, the Court has to consider the position of the party concerned rather than the conduct of the members of the bar, though it may sometimes be difficult to dissociate the one from the other. A litigant should not be deprived of hearing unless there has been something equivalent to misconduct or gross negligence on his part or something which cannot be set right by his being ordered to pay costs. Where the non-appearance is due to default of counsel engaged in the case a similar consideration will mutatis mutandis be applicable, when the Court has to decide whether there was sufficient cause for the non-appearance of the party or of his counsel. This consideration is all the more weighty when dealing with cases of default in the High Court where in some cases the party is not present at all having entrusted his case to counsel. It will be unmerited hardship if the party's interests should be irreparably prejudiced by reason of every default on the part of Counsel. I. L. R. (1937)

Mad. 607=1937 Mad. 503=(1937) 1 M.L.J. 632. Where an application is made for restoring a suit dismissed for default of appearance Court should give the party an opportunity to substantiate his plea. 31 Punj.L.R. 969. See also 120 I.C. 791=1930 L. 112; 157 I. C. 171=1935 Pesh. 110 (1). There is sufficient cause when the order of postponement of the appeal was not communicated to the parties, resulting in non-appearance of appellant. 32 I.C. 936. Proof that appellant had no knowledge of the date fixed for hearing of appeal is sufficient cause under R. 19. 101 I.C. 203=1927 L. 365; 97 I.C. 687=1926 M. 1210. There is a good cause for non-appearance when no notice of transfer of case from one Court to another was given. 3 Pat.L.J. 218=43 I. C. 925 (F.B.); 1925 C. 500. It is the duty of the counsel to enquire what cases he has on a particular day and his failure to do so is not sufficient excuse. 1933 L. 1043 (1)=147 I.C. 698. Laches of an advocate or careless mistake of his clerk is not a sufficient cause. 3 R. 488=1926 R. 50; 145 I. C. 528=34 P.L.R. 831=1933 L. 642 (1). Pleader's mistake in noting a wrong date though not a sufficient cause, yet being a bona fide and unintentional error, appeal may be restored. 51 I.C. 607=53 P.R. 1919; 1933 P. 128=142 I.C. 576. Non-appearance of pleader due to engagement in another Court is not sufficient cause. 24 I.C. 826; 68 I. C. 785=1923 L. 97 (1); 1925 O. 234; 96 I.C. 377 (1)=1926 C. 1132; 1926 C. 1231=97 I.C. 573. See also 134 I. C. 120=1932 L. 65 (1). Where the case which was last in the list was called earlier in order and the time given to call counsel who was absent in another Court was too short, the appeal should have been restored. 138 I.C. 702=1932 L. 387. See also 41 P. L.R. 97=1939 Lah. 267; 11 Lah.L.T. 26 (The Counsel came half an hour late in a Revenue Court and applied for restoration of appeal on the same day). Whether restoration may be ordered when pleader's absence was unintentional, see 5 Lah.L.J. 89. Want of notice to the appellant's counsel when the case is put down lower in the list is not a sufficient cause. No notice is necessary. 71 I.C. 813=1924 L. 189. Where a notice of appeal mentions the date of hearing wrongly the appeal cannot be dismissed for default on the parties being absent on the day fixed. Another appeal filed against the same decree on exactly the same grounds and within the limitation is maintainable. 14 L.R. 362 (Rev.)=17 R.D. 568. No notice is necessary for restoring when dismissal was occasioned by the absence of both parties. 17 I.C. 292=10 A.L.J. 399. Notice before

Where it appears to the Court at the hearing that any person who was a party to the suit in the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred, but who has not been made a party to the appeal is interested in the result of the appeal, the Court may adjourn the hearing to a future day to be fixed by the Court and direct that such person be made a respondent.

NOTES.

restoration must issue on default in not making good the stamp in sufficient time; the opposite party has the right to a hearing even in second appeal. 63 I.C. 99=1921 P. 337. O. 41, R. 19 contemplates that the applicant seeking to have an appeal restored to file has to prove that the appeal was his, and also that he was prevented by sufficient cause from appearing when his appeal was called on for hearing. A person who has got an assignment of the property in dispute from the appellant after the filing of the appeal has no locus standi to apply under O. 41, R. 19 to restore to file the appeal which has been dismissed for default of the assignor appellant. 1938 P. W. N. 601=1938 Pat. 574.

LIMITATION.—Where an appeal has been dismissed for default, an application for its restoration should be made within 30 days and failure to file such an application within the 30 days can only be condoned by the Court by resorting to the provisions of S. 151. 1938 A.M.L.J. 124.

Where a party to the suit was not impleaded in appeal but it appeared that the omission was due to an oversight and that the party whose name was omitted was not a contesting party in the suit, held, that the proper procedure for Court was not to dismiss the suit on a technical ground but to exercise the powers vested in it under this rule. 11 Lah.L.J. 523=1930 L. 295; 1938 R.D. 270=1938 A.W.R. (B.R.) 140; 41 P.L.R. 816=1939 Lah. 346. (Party supporting appellant impleaded after limitation period). Where the appellants were not able to show any good reason why the omitted parties were not impleaded though they were obviously necessary parties, the Court would refuse to permit them to be impleaded in appeal, in the exercise of its powers under R. 20. 40 P.L.R. 6; 1935 L. 802 (Omission to implead auction-purchaser in appeal from order refusing to set aside sale.) See also 15 R.D. 217; 15 R.D. 286=12 L.R. 56 (Rev.); 15 R.D. 291=12 L.R. 96 (Rev.). There were three appeals against one order. Two were rejected on the ground that a necessary party was not made a respondent. The third was accepted on merits; Court refused to condone the omission in the first two appeals. The points in all appeals were similar. Held, that the Court should have exercised its discretion under R. 20 and condoned the omission. 146 I.C. 148=1933 L. 304. way binding on a Court to act on that rule in order to bring in a necessary party against whom an appeal is already time barred. 14 R.D. 88. See also 1929 M.W.N. 381=1929 M. 479. The power conferred on the Court of appeal by O. 41, R. 20 can be used in favour of that person alone who is interested in the result of the appeal and the defendant against whom a suit has been dismissed and as against whom the right of appeal has become barred is not a person interested in the result of the appeal filed by a plaintiff against the other defendants. In view of the above principle in a case where a declaration has been made jointly in favour of some persons who had claimed the right, title and interest in dispute and one of them was not impleaded in appeal until after the limitation for the appeal had expired, the appeal could not proceed against the other respondents inasmuch as the declaratory decree had become final in favour of the person omitted. 18 Lah. 136=1937 Lah. 180. An appellate Court has no power to implead persons who were not parties to the suit. The provisions of S. 107, C.P. Code, cannot be invoked in this respect because they are subject to R. 20. 53 B. 598=119 I.C. 654=1929 B. 353. See also 1940 R.D. 440=1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 223. This rule does not apply to the case where the heirs of a deceased respondent were not parties in the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred. A party against whom an order of abatement has been passed cannot get over that order under cover of R. 20. 1935 O. W.N. 401=1935 O. 329. A person against whom an appeal has abated is not a party interested in the result of the appeal within the meaning of R. 20 and Court has no jurisdiction to add him as a party to the appeal. Nor can the Court act under R. 33 which is very special power to be used in special circumstances. 1935 M.W.N. 398=41 L.W. 111=1935 M. 175. Parties who have not been impleaded in an appeal and against whom the right of appeal has become barred by limitation, cannot under O. 41, R. 20 be made respondents to an appeal against the others. 1941 O.W.N. 998=1941 O. 580. Appellant whether bound to implead unnecessary party—Plaintiff not added as party respondent—No relief asked against him—Parties not claiming under him—Plea of non-joinder—Sustainability. 7 R. 398=1929 R. 265. Where omission to implead proper and necessary parties in second appeal was not due to any natural mistake but was a piece of gross carelessness, the discretion given by this rule cannot be invoked. 1936 R.D. 450 (2). The appellate Court informed the appellant that a wrong respondent had been impleaded and that he was given 15 days' time to implead the right person who was specially made a party in the trial Court to the knowledge of the appellant. The appellant failed to bring the right person on record within the stated time. Held, that it was neither a case for the application of R. 20, nor was there a sufficient cause within S. 5, Limitation Act, and the appeal was time-barred. 164 I.C. 154 (1)=1936 L. 793. Persons who were parties to the suit but not to the first appeal can be made parties in second appeal. 59 I.C. 798; 115 I.C. 305=1929 S. 120. See also 1939 A.W.R. (B.R.) 73=1939 R.D. 270. But see 1926 L. 499=97 I.C. 338; 1934 P. 589. The appellate Court can even add parties who were struck off in the suit before decree. 27 I.C. 423. Where though an opportunity was given to the plaintiff to add a person as defendant he did not avail himself of it, but later on in appeal made that person, a respondent, it was held that the new party should have an opportunity of putting forward his case before it could be decreed against him and hence there should be a remand for a de novo trial. 1941 R.D. 422. Where in a suit for profits a finding was given that first defendant was not liable and subsequently on plaintiff's own application, name of first defendant was struck off from plaint (without any permission of Court reserving plaintiff's right against him) he cannot be made a respondent under R. 20 in the appeal by plaintiff. 1933 N. 66=143 I.C. 88. Under this rule an unnecessary party cannot be added and cross-objections raised against him. 11 M.L.T. 157=13 I.C. 906; 53 C. 270=91 I.C. 649=1926 C. 533. A formal defendant need not be added as a party in appeal. 1925 L. 87. The plaintiffs sued for a declaration that they and defendants 2 to 7 were the owners of certain plots and of the cattle market held thereon, and that the first defendant had no right to any part of the profits accruing from that market. The suit was contested by defendant No. 1 only, and defendants 2 to 7 who were described in the plaint as pro forma defendants were absent throughout. Decree in favour of plaintiff against defendant 1—Appeal by latter without impleading defendants 2 to 7—Court adding them as respondents after limitation for appeal., Held (per Sulaiman, C. J., Niamatullah J, Smith, J., contra), that in the special circumstances of the case, there being in strictness no decree in favour of defendants 2 to 7, the appellate Court had jurisdiction to implead them as respondents, so that they might be bound by the final order. 1937 A.L.J. 424=1937 A. 82 (S.B.). The assignee of a decree is not a necessary party who will be bound by the decree in appeal by judgment-debtor. 38 M. 36=23 M.L.J. 513. Where an appeal against a person has become barred by time he ceases to be "a person who is interested in the result of the appeal" within the meaning of O. 41, R. 20 and his name cannot be

Where an appeal is heard ex parte and judgment is pronounced against the respondent, he may apply to the Appellate Court to re-hear the appeal; and, if he satisfies the Court that the notice was not duly served or that he was prevented by sufficient cause from appearing when the appeal was called on for hearing, the Court shall re-hear the appeal on such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit to impose upon him.

APPLICATION OF THE RULE.—The discretionary power of an appellate Court under Rr. 20 and 33, however ample it may be, cannot be exercised to the detriment or prejudice of any party against whom the suit has been dismissed by the trial Court and against whom no appeal has been preferred. While it is, therefore, open to appellate Court to vary the decree in favour of plaintiffs who have not joined in the appeal filed by a co-plaintiff, it is not open to that Court to pass or modify any decree to the detriment of a person who is not a party to the appeal before it. 152 I.C. 304=1934 O. 496; 15 P. 219. The Court can add the defendants whose names were omitted by mistake in the appeal. 63 I.C. 352. See also 1929 M. 343=56 M.L.J. 315; 97 I.C. 223=1926 L. 689 (2); 104 I.C. 400 (1); 1928 L. 43=106 I.C. 313. A person not a party to a first appeal can be joined in second appeal under R. 20. 1938 A.M.L.J. 91. Omission of a party's name from decree—Not noticed in appeal can be added in second appeal. 1939 A.W.R. (B.R.) 73=1939 R.D. 270. Under certain circumstances the Court may well refuse to add representatives of a deceased respondent, when the appellant has not done so in time, which he might have. 90 I.C. 986=36 C.W.N. 45; 24 C.W.N. 44=30 C.L.J. 217. See also 1936 R.D. 450. The power to add parties will not be exercised in cases of extreme negligence. 79 P.R. 1914=25 I.C. 549. See also 1936 R.D. 450. A third party cannot appeal on behalf of co-sharers who are interested in the appeal against a co-sharer. If they are not made parties in time, appeal will be dismissed. 75 I.C. 90=1923 L. 503. If plaintiff in second appeal failed to implead necessary respondent, the power to add him could not be exercised. The case being on a joint footing against all respondents the appeal abated in toto. 57 I.C. 259. See also 9 R. 624=1932 R. 16; 112 I.C. 605. A respondent can make another a co-respondent and proceed against him by way of cross-objections. 56 I.C. 612=11 L.W. 602. See also 1937 N. 105. As to limitation period for filing cross-objections by party added under this rule, see I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 401=1937 N. 105. A defendant not joined in appeal against other defendants is not interested in the result of the appeal. 54 M.L.J. 88=6 R. 29=55 I.A. 7 (P.C.); 58 C. 923=1931 C. 738; 1932 A. 120=1931 A.L.J. 1004. In view of the above principle in a case where a declaration has been made jointly in favour of some persons who had claimed the right, title and interest in dispute and one of them was not impleaded in appeal until after the limitation for the appeal had expired, the appeal could not proceed against the other respondents inasmuch as the declaratory decree had become final in favour of the person omitted. 18 L. 136=1937 L. 180. See also 1940 Pat. 137; 1937 A.L.J. 436=1937 A. 243 (Joint decree for possession). Where names of certain persons are not included in the appeal, Board of Revenue can direct the names of the parties omitted to be added and appeal reheard. 18 R.D. 45.

O. 41, R. 21: SCOPE.—Conditions necessary for rehearing. 1933 L. 882=42 P.L. R. 271. O. 41, R. 21, which corresponds to O. 9, R. 13 cannot be limited to cases in which a decree against the respondent has been passed in appeal, because the appeal may have other results than the passing of a decree against the respondent. But the rule is not wide enough to cover the case of an appeal which has been wholly dismissed, merely by reason of some remarks which may be in the nature of obiter dicta and thus incapable of constituting a final decision of the matter discussed so as to be res judicata. 21 Pat.L.T. 1082=1941 P. 141. A second appeal by a co-respondent dismissed under R. 11 does not take away the jurisdiction of first appellate Court, when it had been moved by an absent respondent under this rule. 14 C.L.J. 42=15 C.W.N. 798; 43 I.C. 902=14 N.L.R. 30. What is sufficient cause must depend on facts of each case. 63 I.C. 737=19 A.L.J. 54. O. 41, R. 22.—R. 22 applies to appeals from the original side of High Court and in such appeals it is competent for a respondent to file a memo. of objections. 49 M. 291=93 I.C. 293=50 M.L.J. 190 (F.B.). The object of the rule is to allow a respondent content with a decree in his favour an opportunity of contesting findings against him in case his opponent appeals. 5 P.L.J. 328=56 I.C. 262; 112 I.C. 689=1929 L. 161. Where a compromise is effected between the parties to a suit in which some defendants are minors and it is obtained by fraud or under some other circumstances as to render it invalid, the remedy of the minors is not by filing cross-objections in an appeal by one of the defendants. 114 I.C. 101=1929 S. 32. Where in the lower Court defendant filed an appeal and plaintiff filed a memorandum of cross-objections and lower Court dismissed both of them, it is not competent in the appeal filed by plaintiff against the dismissal of cross-objections for defendant by way of objections to attack the rejection by the lower Court of his appeal. The proper course for him is to file an independent appeal against the dismissal or rejection of his appeal. 130 I.C. 657=1931 M. 133. But see contra 1935 A.L.J. 418=1935 A. 404. A Court holding that the appeal preferred by the appellant does not lie, has no jurisdiction to entertain the cross-objections of the respondent. 41 P.L.R. 153. The cross-objections filed by a deceased respondent can be maintained by his heirs and legal representatives, although they were brought on record by the appellant and no steps were taken by them in the matter of prosecution of the cross-objections. 42 C.W.N. 304. A pro forma respondent in an appeal is not entitled to raise a memorandum of cross-objections to the decree appealed against under O. 41, R. 22. 118 I.C. 867=1929 N. 361; 107 I.C. 569. See also 1940 Cal. 377; 1922 Pat. 483. As to meaning of the word 'respondent', see 107 I.C. 569=1929 A. 195.

SCOPE.—This rule does not control R. 33. 62 I.C. 623. See also I.L.R. (1939) 1 Kar. 149=43 C.W.N. 529=1939 P.C. 86 (P.C.). A respondent is entitled to support a decree under the provisions of this rule. 41 C.L.J. 31=86 I.C. 6. Objection not put as cross-objection cannot be taken if it is not in support of the decree. 84 I.C. 124=1925 C. 94. See also 144 I.C. 16=38 L.W. 263=1933 M. 465; 144 I.C. 1007=1933 R. 120. Trial Court's decree in favour of the appellant should not be interfered with under R. 33 in the absence of cross-objections by the respondent. 46 I.C. 142=22 C. W. N. 526; 57 I.C. 555=23 O.C. 110. Where only one plaintiff-respondent claims a particular relief in his memo. of objection, the relief could be granted to all the respondents when the basis of the claim is common to all of them. 15 I.C. 409. objections cannot be filed in a revision petition. 1940 Mad. 55=52 L.W. 487=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 572. On a reading of S. 5 (2) of the Provincial Insolvency Act, it would appear that that the procedure relating to cross-objections contained in O. 41, R. 22, C. P. Code, would apply to appeals under the Provincial Insolvency Act. 1940 N.L.J. 385=1940 Nag. 292.

RIGHT TO SUPPORT DECREE.—A decree can be supported without filing cross-objections by traversing any ground which that Court may have found against him. 41 C.L.J. 31=86 I.C. 62; 123 I.C. 444=57 C. 289=1930 C. 165; 4 I.C. 68; 45 I.C. 232=125 P.L.R. 1918; 103 P.L.R. 1917=40 I.C. 237; 39 I.C. 153=4 O.L.J. 101; 50 M. 866=26 L.W. 125=53 M.L.J. 189; 51 I.C. 981=1919 P.H.C. C. 393; 12 I.C. 20=4 Bur.L.T. 209. See also 1940 M.W.N. 71=1940 Mad. 617. A contention that a ground on which the lower Court has decided against the respondent should have been decided in his favour and therefore the lower Court should not have passed the decree under appeal is not a ground which supports the decree but is one which attacks the decree and therefore cannot be urged by the respondent under this order. 131 I.C. 833=1931 M. 513. See also 1929 L. 684. The words "support the decree" do not merely mean "support the decision" and it is open to the respondent who has not filed any cross-appeal or objection against the decree of the lower Court awarding compensation in land acquisition proceedings to urge in bar of further enhancement a ground which has been decided against him in the lower Court and which, if accepted in entirety, would have resulted in the dismissal of the plaintiff's suit. 12 Pat.L.T. 659. But see contra 146 I.C. 152=1933 N. 310. The word "decree" means the decision by the Court below. 50 M. 866=53 M.L.J. 189=1927 M. 801. When an item in an account appearing in the decree of the lower Court is reduced by the appeal succeeding, the respondent without filing any memorandum of cross-objection can support the said decree by showing that the lower Court had wrongly decided against him on other items, but it is not open to the respondent to have adjudicated by the appellate Court rights or causes of action which have been decided against him in the lower Court without filing an appeal or memorandum of cross-objections. 68 C.L.J. 152=1938 Cal. 563. Where a suit for arrears of rent is dismissed but a finding is given as to amount of rent, there is no need to file a written cross-objection under O. 41, R. 22, as cross-objections are filed only against decrees and not against individual findings. 1941 R.D. 299. Where a suit is dismissed on one finding it cannot be reversed in appeal without considering the defendant's objection to other findings. 11 I.C. 41=202 P.L.R. 1911. Although no cross-objections had been filed by him. 166 I. C. 1007 (Cal.). In such a case the filing of cross-objection is superfluous. 1936 O.W. N. 1069=1937 O. 159. The same is the case where plaintiff has obtained a decree in part. 165 I.C. 473=1936 A. 717. A decree cannot be supported on an entirely new ground, not decided against respondent, not in issue and not made subject of adjudication. 5 Pat.L.J. 239=55 I.C. 214; 38 I. C. 536=21 C.W.N. 423. But see contra in 31 I.C. 740=45 P.R. 1916.

CROSS-OBJECTION—WHEN CAN BE RAISED.—Petition to support decree on other grounds does not amount to cross-objections. 68 I. C. 861=44 A. 577. Time expired appeal may be treated as memorandum of objections. 67 I.C. 478=1922 L. 423; 1925 L. 57=79 I.C. 132. A defendant who has been placed ex parte can impugn the decree in appeal by way of cross-objections on the ground that he was wrongly made ex parte, provided he has not moved the trial Court under O. 9, R. 13. 45 M.L.J. 805=1924 M. 107. Cross-objections could be entertained only against a party to the appeal. 54 I.C. 971. See also 39 I.C. 662=2 P.L.J. 162; 53 C. 270=1926 C. 533. A respondent is entitled to file cross-objections, which could be raised by him in an appeal, against a party to the suit, who is not impleaded in the appeal as a party, at the instance of the appellant. 47 L. W. 760=1938 Mad. 329. As to whether an exonerated defendant can be made a party to the memo. of objections when not a party to the appeal, see 31 I.C. 978. A memo. of objections may be filed against the whole or any part of a decree, even though that part may not be the subject-matter of the appeal. 35 M.L.J. 83=48 I.C. 1003. See contra 39 M. 365=28 M.L.J. 285. An appeal was filed by two out of 96 defendants and the plaintiff filed cross-objections. The Court refused to entertain them on the ground that in any case the decree would remain intact as against the 94 defendants who had not appealed. Held, that the procedure was not warranted by law and that they should be considered on merits. 11 O.W.N. 258 (2)=1934 O. 131 (2). A defendant-respondent whose set-off has not been decreed, or has not been referred to in the decree, may make this ground of cross-objections in appeal. The defendant-respondent under R. 22 is entitled to take "any cross-objection" to the decree which he could have taken by way of appeal. 150 I.C. 433=1934 A. 543. Cross-objection must relate to decree appealed against and not any other although arising Nor where the decree itself is merely a decree dismissing plaintiff's suit. 1923 P. 690. Nor with reference to any point in respect of which he could not have filed an appeal himself. 1933 R. 377. If a party fails to make a cross-objection in the manner and within the period of limitation and prefers an appeal which is held to be time-barred, he cannot contend that the appeal was in time because the objection could be raised by way of cross-objection. 14 L.R. 927 (Rev.)=11 O.W.N. 46. Respondents in revision petition cannot file cross-objections. 14 I.C. 562=160 P.L.R. 1912. Respondent having appealed cannot file cross-objections. 1925 L. 2=79 I.C. 670. Where the objector did present an appeal and raised a certain objection he is debarred from putting other objections which he could have taken in appeal but which he did not. 1936 Pesh. 214. Cross-objections as to costs in the Courts below cannot be considered on second appeal. 79 I.C. 977. Cross-objections regarding want of jurisdiction to attach in executing Court, cannot be taken when appeal is against an order refusing to set aside a prohibitory order. 75 I.C. 419=1923 L. 514. Cross-objections which tends to obtain a distinct relief which could have been granted by lower Court if asked for, or by appellate Court if a claim was raised in appeal, should not be allowed. 34 I.C. 916=24 P.R. 1916. It should not be allowed where the question raised thereby is entirely distinct from and in no way related to the question in controversy in appeal. 48 I.C. 78=28 C.L.J. 123. Cross-objections cannot be filed after withdrawal of appeal. Pendency of appeal is a condition precedent to the filing of cross-objections. 39 I.C. 947. Cross-objections filed before the date of receipt of notice would not be cross-objections at all in the strict legal sense of the word. 162 I.C. 336=1936 L. 362. The use of the word "within" would fix two limits; an anterior limit starting from the date of receipt of the notice and a posterior limit of one month after that date. 1936 L. 362. See also 1937 M. W. N. 39; I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 407=1937 Nag. 105. New grounds not set forth in objections cannot be raised at the time of hearing. 19 I.C. 98=15 Bom.L.R. 130.

CROSS-OBJECTIONS AGAINST CO-RESPONDENT—WHEN ALLOWED.—A cross-objection can be entertained at the discretion of Court by one respondent against co-respondents. 16 A. L.J. 587=40 A. 536; 12 A.L.J. 192=36 A. 505; 15 C.L.J. 61=16 C.W.N. 612; 69 I. C. 330; 38 M. 705=27 I.C. 223=27 M.L.

Only in exceptional cases could cross-objections against a co-respondent be raised. 13 P. 200=15 P.L.T. 42=1934 P. 134; 70 I.C. 79=1923 O. 108; 37 B. 511=15 Bom.L.R. 781; 31 Bom.L.R. 1179; 23 C.L.J. 26=20 C.W.N. 370=43 C. 790. Also 29 I.C. 610=(1915) 2 U.B. R. 58. In a memorandum of objections a respondent may raise a question that arises only between him and a co-respondent. 53 L.W. 57=(1941) 1 M.L.J. 106. Cross-objection indicates that it should be directed against the appellant, but it may be also taken against another respondent if there is community of interest between the appellant and the latter. But where the cross-objections are directed solely against a co-respondent whose case has nothing in common with that of the appellant but proceeds on the same ground as those on which the appeal does, they are not maintainable. A cross-objection by one respondent against another cannot be permitted under R. 22, where the effect of the same, if successful, cannot be adverse to the appellant to any extent. 57 A. 580=1935 A.L.J. 145=1935 A. 134. It is the settled practice of the Calcutta High Court not to permit a cross-objection raising a question as between two respondents inter se in which the appellant is not concerned or interested. Such a question can only be raised in a substantive appeal by the respondent. 59 C. 667=36 C.W.N. 263=1932 C. 524; 1935 O.W.N. 1139=1936 O. 182. A cross-objection by one respondent seeking costs of the lower Court from another respondent does not lie under O. 41, R. 22, 15 P. 510=17 Pat.L.T. 279=1936 P. 513. Where the appeal of some of the parties opens out questions which cannot be disposed of completely without matters being allowed to be opened as between co-respondents, it is an exceptional case, which may be allowed under special circumstances. 56 I.C. 469; 5 Pat.L.J. 328=50 I.C. 252. Suit against obstructors of pathway—Decree against all defendants except one—Cross appeal—Decree against remaining defendant also—Correctness of (28 C.L.J. 123, Foll.) 150 I.C. 364=58 C.L.J. 534=1934 C. 345. It can be allowed when the Court cannot do complete justice between the parties without opening the whole case. 53 I.C. 659=6 O. L.J. 495. Plaintiff-respondent can raise cross-objections against a defendant who is not an appellant. 38 I.C. 641. It can be raised in a case where the interest of the objector was really adverse to that of the appellant and other co-respondents and though the appellant took the same objections unnecessarily in his ground of appeal. 29 C.W.N. 784=88 I.C. 866=1925 C. 973. But a cross objection under R. 22 is not maintainable where the objector-respondent has no community of interest with the appellant and where the cross-objection is nothing more than an old appeal which was dismissed as being out of time. R. 33 does not allow an objection of this kind to be

(3) Unless the respondent files with the objection a written acknowledgement from the party who may be affected by such objection or his pleader of having received a copy thereof, the Appellate Court shall cause a copy to be served, as soon as may be after the filing of the objection, on such party or his pleader at the expense of the respondent.

(4) Where, in any case in which any respondent has under this rule filed a memorandum of objection, the original appeal is withdrawn or is dismissed for default, the objection so filed may nevertheless be heard and determined after such notice to the other parties as the Court thinks fit.

WHEN NOT TO BE ALLOWED.—Cross-objections by one co-respondent against another should not be permitted when they could be raised by an appeal. 37 B. 511=15 Bom. L.R. 781. See also 61 I.C. 48=19 A.L.J. 155. It should not be allowed when he has allowed the period of appealing to elapse. 66 I.C. 642=8 O.L.J. 358. But see 5 Pat.L.J. 328=56 I.C. 253. No Court-fee is payable when the decree of the lower Court is supported in cross-objections. 68 I.C. 861=44 A. 577; 39 I.C. 176=15 A.L.J. 325. CROSS-OBJECTIONS IN APPEAL UNDER S. 12, OUDH COURTS ACT.—The words "from appellate decrees" in O. 42, R. 1, refer only to second appeals under S. 100, and do not cover appeals filed under S. 12 (2) of the Oudh Courts Act. A respondent in an appeal under S. 12 (2) is not therefore entitled as of right to file a memorandum of cross-objection under R. 22, without applying for and getting the leave of the Court under S. 12 (2); 153 I.C. 371=1935 O.W.N. 8=1935 Oudh 88.

LIMIT OF ONE MONTH.—It is entirely discretionary with the Court of appeal to extend the time for filing cross-objections and in refusing to extend time it cannot be said that it commits an error of law which can be interfered with in second appeal. 70 C.L.J. 397=A.I.R. 1940 Cal. 150. The principle of calculation of a month is that it shall be taken to extend up to and including the day before the corresponding date of the next month, and there is no authority for any special rule as regards February, March. 30 I.C. 832=29 M.L.J. 182. See also 1937 M.W.N. 39; I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 401=1937 Nag. 105. Where notice of an appeal was affixed by affixation and it was uncertain when he got the notice. Held, that a delay of 4 or 5 days in filing the memorandum of cross-objections could be condoned. 15 L.R. 69 (Rev.)=18 R.D. 56. He can claim 30 days from the date of serving of notice for hearing. The 30 days is not 30 days from the date of serving of notice of appearance. 22 L.W. 792. Where a notice was issued to the respondents merely informing them that an appeal had been preferred in the case by the other side, so that they might appear to take necessary steps, it is not a notice about the hearing of the appeal as contemplated by O. 41, R. 22, and hence the filing of cross-objections within a month of the notice fixing the date of hearing is within time though it may happen to be more than a month after a first notice giving more information of the filing of the appeal. 1939 O.W.N. 530=1939 O. A. 521. A transfer by a respondent pending the hearing of an appeal will not extend the period of 30 days for filing of cross-objections. 1932 A. 45=1931 A.L.J. 606. Nor does any subsequent devolution of interest of the respondent to another give the latter a fresh starting point from the date of notice to him for being impleaded in the place of the former. 159 I.C. 257=1935 L. 653. In such a case, the respondent remains the same, though his description is changed and the substitute inherits all those disabilities which have already been incurred by his predecessors. If therefore time has run out against the predecessor it cannot revive in the case of the successor, the principle of law being well recognized that if once time begins to run, no subsequent disability stops it. 1935 L. 653. Cross-objections, if can be received even after a month, even during the argument of the appeal. 66 I.C. 217=1922 N. 213. It is not necessary that further time ought to have been granted before objections are actually filed. 39 I.C. 125. Hearing of appeal ought not be advanced so as to deprive respondent the benefit of filing objections in a month. 38 I.C. 522.

Sub-Rule (3).—Under Cl. (3) the respondent should file with cross-objection a written acknowledgment of notice from the party who may be affected by such an objection. But where, though no such acknowledgment was filed, the party against whom the objections had been filed appeared and contested, it is only an irregularity which cannot stand in the way of the objections being allowed. 150 I.C. 364=58 C.L.J. 534=1934 C. 345. See also 166 I.C. 1007.

Sub-Rule (4).—The right to be heard provided for by sub-rule (4) is not available when the appeal abates. 44 M. 828=41 M.L.J. 304=62 I.C. 757; 10 L. 208; 151 I.C. 387=1934 L. 136 (2); I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 324; 1938 N.L.J. 399. Cross-objections cannot be proceeded with when appeal is dismissed under R. 10 in presence of the respondent without any objection on his part. 25 O.C. 280=70 I.C. 79. But see

(5) The provisions relating to pauper appeals shall, so far as they can be made applicable, apply to an objection under this rule.

The word "default" occurring in the rule includes any default made by appellant which would amount to non-prosecution of the appeal. 130 I. C. 657=1931 M. 133=1930 M.W.N. 1236. Objections can be dealt with even though appeal is dismissed for default. 9 I.C. 572=9 M.L.T. 217; 48 M. 631=48 M. L. J. 384; 25 I.C. 916=1 O.L.J. 485. Cross-objections may be filed even when appeal is unsustainable. 34 A. 140=13 I.C. 19. Cross-objections can be heard even when the appellant admits the appeal to be incompetent and is dismissed. 54 I.C. 506=10 L. W. 605. Objections filed in an appeal which is dismissed as out of time cannot be heard. The right of filing objection stands or falls with the right of appeal. 4 L. 140=73 I.C. 655; 41 M. 904=35 M.L.J. 236 (F.B.); 40 Bom.L.R. 895. Cf. 39 I.C. 947. But see contra 3 L.W. 109=32 I.C. 579. Also 30 I.C. 832=1915 M.W.N. 792. If appeal which is withdrawn has not been validly filed, the memorandum of objections should not be heard. 55 M. 975=1932 M. 722=63 M.L.J. 845.

Sub-Rule (5).—Pauper respondents are entitled to present objections without payment of stamp duty. (1 N.L.R. 33, Overr.) 29 N.L.R. 225=1933 N. 158. According to O. 41, R. 22, the provisions relating to pauper appeals shall, so far as they can be made applicable, apply to an objection under that rule. Consequently leave cannot be granted to file cross-objections in forma pauperis on grounds which may not be entirely the same as those which it is necessary to put forward in seeking leave to appeal in forma pauperis which has been refused. So where the decree of the lower Court is not contrary to law or otherwise unjust or erroneous, leave to file cross-objection in forma pauperis cannot be granted. 1939 M.L.R. 244 (Civ.). Leave can be granted to file a cross-objection in forma pauperis on grounds which are not entirely the same as those which it is necessary to put forward in seeking leave to appeal in forma pauperis which is refused. 168 I.C. 407=1937 R. 81. Leave to appeal in forma pauperis refused—Appeal by other party—

Leave to file cross-objection in forma pauperis on different grounds can be granted. 1937 Rang. 81.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—Whether it is open to a respondent in a civil revision petition to prefer cross-objections under O. 41, R. 22. See 31 S.L.R. 1. Where a memorandum of cross-objections is preferred out of time and an application is made to the Court to extend the time for preferring the cross-objection, it is not the proper procedure to allow the application subject to any just objection being taken at the time of the hearing. Application of this kind should be dealt with at the time when they are made and should not be left over for determination till the hearing of the appeal. 40 C.W.N. 1237.

O. 41, Rr. 22 and 33.—In a suit brought by them the co-sharers alleged that in respect of the revenue sale their co-sharer had been guilty of fraud or improper conduct to the prejudice of his co-owners in the estate, and contended that, by reason thereof the purchase was one in which they could claim to share by recovering their former interest upon payment of a proportion of the purchase-money. The trial Judge accepted this contention and gave the plaintiffs a decree directing the co-sharer to convey to them their former share on receipt of a proportionate part of purchase price. On appeal the decree-holders respondents without filing any cross-objections to the decree of the trial Court claimed that the revenue sale should be set aside for want of jurisdiction or irregularity. Held, that the claim to relief was founded upon different grounds from those upon which the trial Court's decree proceeded, and upon principles different from those which underlay the relief given by the decree. The case came clearly within the condition imposed by the concluding words of sub-rule (1) of R. 22, "provided he has filed such objections in the Appellate Court, etc., etc.," and R. 33 could not rightly be used in such a case so as to abrogate the important condition which prevents an independent appeal from being in effect brought without any notice of the grounds of appeal being given to the parties who succeeded in the Court below. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 149=43 C.W.N. 529=20 Pat. L.T. 359=1939 P.C. 86 (P.C.).

Where an order of remand purporting to be made under the inherent powers contravenes an express provision in O. 41, R. 23, the High Court will interfere in revision under S. 115 and set it aside. 1935 B. 216. No appeal lies against an order of remand made not under O. 41, R. 23 but in the inherent jurisdiction of the Court unless it could be said that the order amounts to a decree in accordance with the definition in S. 2. 1941 Cal. 446=195 I. C. 864. The inherent power of remand cannot be invoked in a case for which a specific provision is made in the Code, e.g., Rr. 25, 27 and 28 of O. 41. 133 I.C. 205=1931 M. 791=60 M.L.J. 475. Although the Court ordering the remand may have had no jurisdiction under R. 23 to pass the order under that rule, nevertheless if the order of remand as made purports to be an order under R. 23 and appears to be in form and substance an order under that rule it is to be regarded as an order of remand passed under R. 23 and therefore subject to appeal. (31 C.W.N. 878, Foll.). 72 C.L.J. 383. Where a suit is disposed of on merits by trial Court and on appeal lower appellate Court remands the case for re-trial after amendment of plaint, the order of remand is one made under the inherent powers of the Court even though the appellate Court orders refund of Court-fee paid on the memo. of appeal and the order is not appealable. 141 I.C. 400=1933 L. 135. See also 1936 P. 491 (where it was disposed of both on merits and on preliminary point). Court of appeal when it remands a suit to trial Court for fresh disposal should make it quite clear whether the order of the remand is made under R. 23 or independently of that provision. 119 I.C. 705=1929 M. 205. 'Remand' made in an appeal from an order returning a plaint for presentation to proper Court is without jurisdiction as such an order is not a decree within S. 2. 87 I.C. 172=1925 O. 393. Remand means return for decision and not for finding. 92 I.C. 370=1925 O. 303. Appellate Court can pass an order of remand by consent of parties in excess of its powers under the Code. 22 I.C. 41=1914 M.W.N. 90. High Court has ample power to make a remand in order that a point which has not been considered by the lower Court may be considered by it. (44 C. 929, Ref.), 1934 R. 168. Where the procedure adopted by the lower Court in disallowing question in cross-examination was wholly unjustifiable regard being had to the nature of the issues raised in the suit, and the Judge's manner of dealing the points arising for consideration in the case on the pleadings of the parties and on the issues raised for determination in the suit was wholly unsatisfactory, the High Court, on appeal remanded the case for retrial in accordance with law. 162 I.C. 697=1936 C. 195. When an order of remand is made, the presumption is that it is made under this rule. 20 A.L.J. 321; 44 A. 492. As for distinction between this rule and R. 25, see 25 O.C. 189=69 I.C. 730; 43 C.L.J. 194=102 I.C. 384=1927 C. 401. It is any point the decision of which avoids the necessity for the full hearing of the suit. 1935 P. 49=154 I.C. 859.

REVISION—APPEAL.—There is no doubt that there is an inherent power of remand. That is obvious when the changes between S. 562 of the old Code and R. 23 are considered. The power so conferred must not only be sparingly used by Courts but also the Courts have no power whatever to resort to S. 151, when the matter is expressly dealt with in the Code. If they do so they act without jurisdiction and their orders are revisable. I.L.R. (1940) Nag. 538=1940 Nag. 349. The operative position of an order of an appellate Court was to the following effect:—"I set aside the judgment and decree of the lower Court and allow the appeal of plaintiff No. 3 with costs. The case will be sent back and re-tried according to law from the stage where it has been left by the learned Munsif". Held, that the order was an order of remand contemplated by O. 41, R. 23, and as such was appealable under O. 43, R. 1 (4). 1940 O.W.N. 662=1940 Oudh 314.

WHAT IS DISPOSAL ON A PRELIMINARY POINT.—A "Preliminary point" within the meaning of the rule is any point the decision of which avoids the necessity for the full hearing of the suit (45 M. 900 F.B. Foll). 151 I.C. 947=1934 P. 93; 41 Bom. L.R. 1177. A preliminary point is one which when determined in favour of the plaintiff permits the progress of the suit but when determined against him concludes the suit. The preliminary points may arise before or after admission of the plaint. In either case if the decision on the preliminary point is against the plaintiff that would stop the further progress of the suit so as to compel the Court to dispose of the suit finally without deciding the merits of the controversy. 1941 N.L.J. 410. The words "preliminary point" are not confined to such legal points only as will be applied as a bar in suit but comprehends all such points as may have prevented the Court from disposing of the case on the merits whether such points are pure questions of fact or law. The test for determining whether the decision of an issue was on a preliminary point is to see whether the decision of that issue prevented the decision of other issues. Decision as to question of jurisdiction held not to be on a preliminary point. 1933 R. 413; 57 C.L.J. 473. 41 Bom.L.R. 1177. During the pendency of a suit instituted on the original side of High Court (Rangoon) claiming damages for a conspiracy between the defendants to ruin the plaintiffs' credit and reputation and to destroy their business the plaintiffs were adjudged insolvents. The trial judge held that the cause of action thereupon vested in the Official Assignee and the latter declining to proceed with the suit a decree was passed dismissing the suit. On appeal by plaintiffs, the Appellate Bench held that the claim for damages did not vest in the Official Assignee and that the plaintiffs were therefore entitled to continue the suit in their own names. The suit was accordingly remanded to the original Court for trial on the merits. Held, that the judgment of the Appellate Court was not a decree but an order passed under R. 23. Held further that the order though it decided an important and a vital issue in the case did not finally dispose of the rights of the parties; on the contrary, it left the suit alive and provided for its trial on the merits in the ordinary way. It was not, therefore, a final order under S. 109 (a) and was not appealable. Test of finality laid down. 60 I.A. 76=11 R. 58=64 M.L.J. 307 (P.C.); 39 A. 165=37 I.C. 383=15 A.L.J. 30. Where in a redemption suit, defendant pleaded that in foreclosure proceedings there was a sale in his favour, a disposal on this contention is a disposal on a preliminary point. 57 P.L.R. 1916=30 I.C. 817. Where certain evidence was considered irrelevant by trial Court, and the appellate Court considered the excluded evidence as relevant, held the reversal was on a preliminary point. Also as to instance of preliminary point. See 43 M.L.J. 345=45 M. 900 (F.B.). It is competent to an appellate Court to remand a case under R. 23, where the Court of first instance, having framed issues and recorded all the evidence has decided the case with reference to its findings on one or two issues leaving the other issues undecided. 1933 R. 413. In such a case the appellant is entitled to a refund of Court-fees. 151 I.C. 721 (2)=1934 M. 643. Where Court goes into evidence and records findings on all issues but dismisses the suit as not maintainable, the disposal is on a preliminary point. 4 P.L.J. 645=52 I.C. 125. A preliminary point must be decided as such and at the earliest stage of the suit. It is not proper that a preliminary point should be decided along with the points involved in the merits of the case. 1930 A. 863=128 I.C. 827.

WHAT IS NOT DISPOSAL ON A PRELIMINARY POINT.—“The decision on a preliminary point” means a determination not affecting the merits of the case. A reversal of a judgment with a direction to admit evidence said to have been excluded is not a disposal on a preliminary point. 37 M.L.J. 536=53 I.C. 417=10 L.W. 359. Disposal on an important issue relative to the merits of the case is not a disposal on a preliminary point. 9 M.L.T. 373=9 I.C. 790. It cannot be said that a Court has disposed of a suit on a preliminary point if it has disposed of it as it stands before it without dealing with further issues which might have arisen if the suit had been framed otherwise or if an amendment of the pleadings had been allowed. 60 M.L.J. 713=132 I.C. 311=1931 M. 1. When appellate Court decides the main point and remands for disposal of the remaining issues the decision is not on a preliminary point. 60 I.C. 609=12 L.W. 667. An order of remand for re-hearing after amending the plaint is not an order under this rule. 73 I.C. 915=1924 L. 245. Dismissal for default is not a disposal on a preliminary point. 14 A.L.J. 347=38 A. 357. The rule does not apply to a case where the plaintiff's suit has been dismissed by the Court proceeding under O. 17, R. 3. 1935 R. 123. Where the appellate Court decides some issues and leaves the others to be determined by the trial Court, a remand order is not under this rule but under R. 25. 40 I.C. 58. See also 9 I.C. 224=15 C.W.N. 575. Appellate Court framing additional issue and remanding the case reversing the decree instead of calling for a finding retaining the case on its file. Order of remand is not appealable either under O. 43, R. 1 (a) or under S. 100 as it is not a decree within S. 2. See also 103 I.C. 119=1927 L. 386; 55 C. 219=103 I.C. 864=1927 C. 850.

WHERE REMAND SHOULD NOT BE ORDERED.—Except under R. 23, no case should be remanded for second decision by the trial Court which can be finally disposed of by the first appellate Court. It is only where owing to a failure to implead a necessary party or the like, a trial is radically bad, so that the correction of its omissions and defects in the appellate Court is not reasonably practicable that remand for retrial is permissible. (12 N.L.R. 126, Foll.) 31 N. L.R. (Supp.) 72=160 I.C. 202=1936 N. 8.

SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE ON RECORD.—The appellate Court should dispose of the case if there is sufficient evidence and should not put the parties to unnecessary expense. 37 B. 289=14 Bom.L.R. 1154; 41 I.C. 735. It is unusual to remand a case after argument in appeal, which ought prima facie to be decided upon materials on record. 34 M.L.J. 545=45 C. 748=45 I.A. 94 (P.C.). Remand for findings on fresh additional issues cannot be made when they were covered by the issues determined. 43 I.C. 815. A case can be decided on the evidence on record after excluding irrelevant and unsatisfactory portions, without a remand. 50 I.C. 301. An order of remand cannot be made under R. 23, where the decision of the trial Court is not based in any sense on a preliminary point. 1927 B. 111=100 I.C. 578=29 Bom.L.R. 56; 96 I.C. 44. No remand can be made when materials on record are sufficient to decide the case. 180 P. L.R. 1912=16 I.C. 847. See also 45 M. 449=42 M.L.J. 372. Nor where appellate Court comes to a different conclusion on some portion. 20 A.L.J. 258=66 I. C. 866=1922 A. 192.

COMPLETE EVIDENCE ON RECORD.—When lower Court has decided all issues it is not proper to remand for trial on merits. 35 I.C. 239; 27 C.W.N. 1025=1924 C. 148; 50 I.C. 984. When appellate Court comes to a different conclusion on merits and on evidence on record, no remand could be ordered on the ground that the evidence was not properly directed. 70 I.C. 655=1923 M. 113. Ordinarily if an appellate Court disagrees with the lower Court and is not satisfied with that Court's opinion its duty is to come to a proper conclusion for itself. In such cases especially after the recent amendment of the Code it is not proper for the appellate Court to direct a de novo trial. The practice of delivering a lecture on points of law to the trial Court and sending a case for de novo trial to that Court is especially bad when there is no reason to think that either party had not an opportunity of producing all the evidence that it had. 33 C.W.N. 1211=1930 C. 235. Where the Judge of an appellate Court allows an appeal on a preliminary point of law which necessitates the remand of the suit for further trial or retrial of the suit he should refrain from making any remarks in his judgment concerning the merits of the claim, as by so doing, he must necessarily prejudice the further trial or new trial on remand. 163 I.C. 397 (2)=1936 R. 251. Because there was a finding on evidence recorded, but without an issue raised, a remand cannot be made. 46 I.C. 659=137 P.W.R. 1918. No remand in second appeal for re-hearing upon an issue raised and determined by Courts below. 67 I.C. 494=1922 P. 575. See also 56 C. 15=49 C.L.J. 1=1929 C. 546; 119 I.C. 2; 31 Bom.L.R. 208; 26 N. L.R. 44; 116 I.C. 586=1929 Sind 159. When full trial has taken place though the case has been disposed of on a preliminary point a remand ought not to be ordered. 66 I.C. 922=1923 C. 323; 29 C.W.N. 614=52 C. 783.

INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE.—A case should not be remanded for fresh evidence. 2 Pat. L.J. 61=38 I.C. 797. A case should not be remanded for local investigation, when it had not been asked for in the first Court. 43 I.C. 815. Case should not be remanded for additional evidence on the ground that evidence adduced by defendant was not satisfactory and sufficient. 39 I.C. 886=25 C. L.J. 473; 46 I.C. 659=137 P.W.R. 1918. Where there is no reason to think that the parties did not get an opportunity of producing all the evidence that they desired to produce before the trial Court. 167 I.C. 922=1937 O. W. N. 377. Case cannot be remanded because necessary evidence was not let in by oversight. 53 I.C. 562. But see 1930 P. 7; 1930 R. 188. A remand in order to enable plaintiff-appellant to ascertain whether or not a demand was made within three years of the institution of the suit which would save limitation, was refused. 1923 L. 645. Remand of the case could not be ordered because the appellate Court considered the appointment of an experienced Commissioner essential to value the property. 46 I.C. 750. An appeal against an ex parte order without seeking to set it aside should not be remanded but be decided on the merits by the appellate Court. 24 P.L.R. 1917=39 I.C. 749. See contra 26 O.C. 10=73 I.C. 591. Following 30 M. 64 (F.B.). See also 56 I.C. 255=(1919) 3 U.B.R. 198; 1929 C. 636=121 I.C. 409; 1930 A. 863=128 I.C. 827.

CASE OF EXCLUSION OF EVIDENCE.—When evidence which ought to have been taken was refused to be recorded the suit cannot be remanded for trial ab initio but additional evidence can be directed to be recorded. 45 I.C. 832=5 O.L.J. 139. See also 1930 A. 220. The case need not be remanded because the lower Court based its decision on inadmissible evidence, when there is sufficient evidence on record to support the decision. 71 I.C. 300=1924 C. 370; but see 41 I.C. 71. Remand should not be made when necessities of the case are specifically provided for by the Code. 1925 C. 274. On this point see also 120 I.C. 460=1929 C. 492.

WHAT IT SHOULD BE UNDER RULE 25.—When all evidence was taken but certain issues were not decided, the proper order is to call for findings under R. 25; 38 A. 520=14 A.L.J. 754; 1925 L. 480; 1925 M. 171; 100 I.C. 578=1927 B. 111; 1927 L. 618=103 I.C. 537; 1939 Pat. 580. Where case has been decided by lower Court wholly on merits and not on any preliminary point, the appellate Court may remand under R. 25 and not under this rule. 151 I.C. 490=1934 L. 576; 60 C. 733=37 C.W.N. 504=1933 C. 632. In appeal from a decree an objection was taken by the appellants that some of the defendants had died during the pendency of the suit in the trial Court. The factum of the death was not admitted and the District Judge set aside the judgment of the trial Court and passed an order under R. 23. Held, that the District Judge should have remanded an issue under R. 25, on the question of the factum of the death and should not have acted under R. 23 which was not applicable; 146 I.C. 517=1933 L. 224. In a suit for possession and damages where appellate Court differed from trial Court, the whole suit cannot be remanded but only so far as the issue on damages was concerned. 45 A. 565=21 A.L.J. 538. Where lower appellate Court reversed the decree of Court below, modified one of the issues, and remanded the case for a de novo trial on the modified issue held the procedure was wrong. 35 C.L.J. 345=70 I.C. 547. Where the appellate Court thinks that the investigation is wrong, and that further investigation and evidence were necessary, such may be ordered retaining the appeal on file and remand ought not to be ordered. 24 C.W.N. 708=31 C.L.J. 300. In case of defective pleadings and a finding on evidence which was sufficient, and which the appellant had not the opportunity of meeting, the proper course would be to remit an issue on the point. 15 I.C. 3. When it comes to the notice of appellate Court from the evidence on record that the consideration for the suit transaction is of an illegal and immoral character, but no issue on that point has been framed by trial Court nor has defendant raised any objection to that effect, the appellate Court should remand the case for a finding on that point. 145 I.C. 599=1933 M. 187. When an important issue was not raised the case should be remanded only for a finding on that issue and the decree could not be set aside entirely and the whole case remanded for re-trial. 38 I.C. 641; 23 A.L.J. 880=1926 A. 65; 1925 M. 169; 145 I.C. 299 (1)=1933 L. 659 (1).

NEW PLEA—NO REMAND.—Only in exceptional cases and on good cause shown should a case be remanded for re-hearing on a new plea not raised in pleadings nor even suggested. 43 C. 1104=43 I.A. 172=31 M.L.J. 745 (P.C.). Where a remand would involve taking of fresh evidence on a point not raised before, it would not be granted. 11 I.C. 84; 2 P.L.J. 8=38 I.C. 509. When a claim for a right of way was originally based on immemorial usage, he cannot obtain a remand for re-trial on issues of implied grant or easement of necessity. 55 I. C. 435. A remand ought not to be ordered permitting plaintiff to supplement his case, when at the time he came to Court he was unequipped. 71 I.C. 28=1914 C. 396. A party is not entitled to remand on a new case set up in appeal when he failed to establish the case he set up on trial. 54 I.C. 645.

WHEN REMAND COULD BE ORDERED.—Powers of remand are much wider in the new Code than in the old. Remand can be ordered though the case had not been disposed of on a preliminary point. Want of proper trial, and disallowance of important questions not giving opportunity to parties to adduce proper evidence are sufficient reasons for remand. 12 I.C. 684=15 C.L.J. 258; 36 M.

NOTES.

492=24 M.L.J. 512. An appellate Court adding a new party can remand for re-trial. 31 I.C. 263=2 L.W. 1034. When the plaint is amended in appeal under O. 6, Rr. 17 and 18 and a defendant desires to traverse the facts stated in the amendment, the case can be remanded. 32 I.C. 906; 43 C. 938=32 I.C. 791=20 C.W.N. 547; 1927 M. 859=103 I.C. 670; 48 M. 713; 1927 L. 196=100 I.C. 49. Where inadmissible evidence was admitted, the case should not be remanded, for a fresh adjudication excluding that evidence. 55 I.C. 922=1 P.L.T. 224. An order of remand can be made when the ground on which the appellate Court declares a document inadmissible, has arisen subsequent to the disposal of the suit by the lower Court. 10 I.C. 675=9 M.L.T. 317. Where an appeal was decided on the basis of an inadmissible document, the appeal can be remanded in second appeal. 57 I.C. 561=5 P.L.J. 410. A case could be remanded when decision was based on a report of a commissioner who was superseded and whose report therefore could not be admitted in evidence. 39 I.C. 951.

CRIMINAL CASES.—There are no provisions in the Code of Criminal Procedure analogous to Rr. 23 and 25, of this Code; and an appellate Court which allows an appeal against an order by a magistrate under S. 476, Cr. P. Code, has no power to remand the case. 10 Luck. 335=1935 O. 59.

FRESH EVIDENCE.—Where the decision is on pleadings and not on evidence, there ought to be a remand for taking evidence. 67 I.C. 710=1923 P. 174. Case can be remanded when trial Court refused to grant time for production of certified copies of material documents and decided with materials on record only. 43 I.C. 57. Remand could be ordered where appellate Court is satisfied that but for some grave error on the part of the pleader, necessary evidence could have been adduced in lower Court. 39 B. 352=17 Bom.L.R. 187. A case is to be remanded where tenancy rights were pleaded as bar to a suit for possession and was not adjudicated upon. 42 I.C. 550. Where an important issue was not raised by the trial Court, the case can be remanded with the issue raised. 51 I.C. 712=64 P. R. 1919; 223 P.L.R. 1911=12 I.C. 53. When a case was decided on a piece of evidence not placed on record, it could be remanded for taking of such evidence. 36 M. 492=24 M.L.J. 512. See also 1937 O.W. N. 377=1937 Oudh 338. Where the trial Court dismissed the suit on the legal issue and the appellate Court decides that the decision of the trial Court is wrong on the legal issue, it should remand the case for trial on the remaining issues and it should not decide the issues of fact itself when the appellant had not led evidence thereon. 155 I.C. 997=1935 R. 34. Where first appellate Court decides only on technical grounds, second appellate Court can remand it for disposal on merits. 32 I.C. 387=2 O.L.J. 562. Where a book was used by lower Court to establish certain facts which a party had no opportunity of meeting and which he desired to rebut, the admission of the book in appellate Court might involve a remand. 66 I.C. 287=34 C.L.J. 205. Appellate Court can remand for determination of question of title, when the tenant had pleaded title of a third person, in a rent suit. 11 I.C. 183=15 C.L.J. 6.

ERROR OF JUDGMENT.—In an appeal from an order of remand, findings of fact cannot be examined by second appellate Court. But it could remand the case to lower appellate Court for rehearing when there has been a misappreciation of the true controversy between the parties. 73 I.C. 756=1923 L. 206; 87 I.C. 950=1925 O. 692. Appellant is entitled to have the opinion of appellate Court on an issue of fact, and if such Court fails to determine the point. High Court will remand the case for a re-decision of the appeal. 55 I.C. 233. A case can be remanded where lower Court overlooked a provision of law. 35 A. 533=35 I.C. 41=14 A.L.J. 734. Where the effect of an admission by a pleader was not realised, the appeal might be remanded to lower appellate Court for a fresh hearing on the footing that the admission was in fact made. 44 I.C. 18. If a case is decided on a wrong view of burden of proof, it should be remanded as a case of wrong disposal on a preliminary point. 57 I.C. 525=22 Bom.L.R. 771. Cf. 40 M. 654=30 M.L.J. 514. But see contra 34 A. 612=10 A.L.J. 190; 58 I.C. 982=1 L. 429.

EFFECT OF ORDER.—The policy of legislature is in favour of finality of orders of remand. A remand order made on second appeal is, unless a review of it be obtained, a conclusive determination of the points of law involved in it and cannot be questioned in a subsequent second appeal. 72 I.C. 588=1923 C. 385. Also 4 P.L.J. 645=52 I.C. 125. Where High Court in second appeal differs from lower Court on an issue of law and remands the case to Court below, the order is binding upon that Court and cannot be questioned in an appeal from the final decree after remand. 4 P.L.T. 35=1923 P. 226. Jurisdiction to try a remanded case depends on the order of appellate Court. 44 M.L.J. 238=1923 M. 351. A remand order to find whether a person has title includes enquiry as to whether he has lost it or is barred from relying upon it. 31 I.C. 987=20 C.W.N. 149. In the absence of any limitation put by High Court, the whole case on remand is open for decision of lower appellate Court and it is bound to hear the appeal upon the judgment of the Court of first instance. 32 I.C. 240=20 C.W.N. 584. When in an appeal by some defendants who did not join in a reference to arbitration, the case was remanded on the ground that the award did not bind them, the whole case is reopened, even in respect of those who did not appeal. 62 I.C. 569=37 M.L.J. 100. Where a case is referred to District Judge on objections being raised to the award of the land acquisition officer, and the case on appeal to High Court by some of objectors is again remanded to District Court, an objector who has not taken part in the proceedings before District Judge and those who have not appealed from order of District Judge, are not entitled to intervene as objectors on remand. 1933 L. 648. A Court can come to a different and contrary conclusion after remand. 56 I.C. 1001; 13 I.C. 813=14 O.C. 321. When a case is remanded to the sub-Court, the sub-Judge can form his own conclusions irrespective of any finding arrived at by his predecessor in respect of matters which were not touched by the High Court. 7 Luck. 454=137 I.C. 102=1932 O. 123. The lower appellate Court after remand cannot consider arguments abandoned or not raised in second appeal or come to fresh findings on points decided by the order of remand. 61 I.C. 575; 35 I.C. 571. As to validity of proceedings taken under a remand order, when the remand order is held to be wrong, see 44 A. 211=20 A.L.J. 44. Where an order of remand is passed under R. 23, if a party protests against the order of remand and refuses to take part in the proceeding subsequent to the order of remand, he should not be deprived of the right to appeal from the order of remand within the time allowed by law even if the case has in the meantime been disposed of by the Court of first instance. And if the order remand is found to be bad and is set aside, the decree of the lower Court will automatically go inasmuch as that Judge has derived his jurisdiction to hear the case from the order of remand. But if the party not only does not object to exercise of jurisdiction by the lower Court, but also takes part in the proceeding hoping to win the case ultimately, he should not be allowed to repudiate the whole proceeding as being null and void when he loses the case. 1933 R. 413. Another Judge or Bench differently constituted may consider the propriety of the issues framed by its predecessor and remitted to the lower Court, and if of different opinion may ignore the findings. 43 A. 377=19 A.L.J. 139.

FINALITY OF ORDER.—An order of remand is interlocutory; it can be final if it decides some cardinal point in the suit. But an order of remand which merely decides that the suit is maintainable in the form in which it is brought is not final. 60 I.C. 522=2 L. 106. An adjudication by a remanding Judge would bind him and his successor at the final hearing, when it amounts to a preliminary decree, until it is duly set aside or amended. 32 I.C. 866=20 C.W.N. 43; 53 I.C. 677=1919 M.W.N. 662; 1 P. 246=65 I.C. 175. See also 1932 A.L.J. 615=138 I.C. 406=1932 A. 603. The mere fact that the appellate Judge in the first instance remanded the case for taking additional evidence will not deprive him of his jurisdiction to dismiss the appeal at a later stage if it was found to be competent. 34 C.W.N. 839. Issues decided by order of remand cannot be reopened at any subsequent stage of the litigation. 25 O.C. 245=70 I.C. 983. Where a District Judge remands a suit to the trial Court and the suit is ultimately dismissed by the trial Judge and an appeal is preferred again to the successor of the District Judge who had remanded the case, it is competent for him to go behind the finding of his predecessor. This, however, is a matter entirely at his discretion and cannot be raised on second appeal. 38 P. L.R. 567=1936 L. 708.

REMAND TO ANOTHER COURT.—A case can be remanded to another Court; only when the appellate Court has power to transfer a case from one Court to another. 66 I.C. 113=1922 L. 239; 158 P.W.R. 1913=20 I.C. 788. A case may be remanded to another Court for hearing, when the appellate Court illegally received document very late without assigning any reasons. 35 I.C. 698=24 C.L.J. 457. Where the chief Court remanded a case to lower appellate Court for further enquiry, it does not mean that the lower appellate Court cannot direct the trial Court for recording any additional evidence if necessary. 44 I.C. 907=147 P.L.R. 1917. See also 1935 L. 161.

COSTS.—Respondent must be paid the costs of appeal when the appeal and remand were consequent on the appellant not setting forth his case properly. 18 M.L.T. 247=30 I.C. 785.

NOTICE.—No notice of remand is given in C. P. 1925 N. 31.

WHEN APPEAL LIES.—An appeal lies against an order under this rule. 44 A. 176=19 A.L.J. 971; 20 A.L.J. 321=44 A. 492; 24 C.W.N. 708=56 I.C. 516=31 C.L.J. 360; 42 C.L.J. 22=30 C.W.N. 41; 1940 N.L.J. 350; 1941 N.L.J. 410. (Remand from order rejecting plaint under O. 7, R. 11); 51 B. 43=100 I.C. 1004 (2)=1927 B. 129=29 Bom.L.R. 97. Where appellate Court remands the case to Court of first instance giving some directions in its judgment as to the way in which the assessment of the rent in kind should be made order is really a decree because it is not an order of pure remand but contained a determination of the principle on which the assessment was to be made. 143 I.C. 828=37 C. W. N. 1084=1933 C. 416. The right of appeal is determined by what Court purports to do and not by what Court should have done—Where a Court purports to pass a remand order under R. 23, though really the remand is under S. 151, the order of remand is appealable. 107 I.C. 284 (1); 38 P.L.R. 1154; 31 N.L.R. (Supp.) 72=160 I.C. 202=1936 N. 8. See also 38 P. L.R. 1154=1937 Lah. 454. But see 1933 S. 279=146 I.C. 777 (F.B.) (contra). Construction of remand order, (ibid.), 1933

NOTES.

O. 569. See also 1936 N. 8 (noted infra). Order of remand by appellate Court without stating provision of law—The remand should be deemed to have been under R. 23 and not under S. 151. 106 I.C. 442. But when it is perfectly clear that R. 23 has no application it should not be assumed that the Court thought it was acting under R. 23, unless it is quite clear that it did in fact so act. 31 N.L.R. (Supp.) 72=160 I.C. 202=1936 N. 8. An appeal can be filed and heard even if remand order is carried out by first Court. 15 I.C. 191=15 O.C. 43. When a person has not been adversely affected by an order of remand, it is doubtful if he can appeal from that order. 132 I.C. 78=1931 O. 242. An appeal lies against an order ordering retrial on merits because it was held that the suit was not barred by reason of res judicata. 21 L.W. 318=48 M.L.J. 100. An appeal lies on all orders of remand even though the suit has not been disposed of on a preliminary point. 1922 C. 279. See contra 3 R. 490=1925 R. 320. A final decision which effectually disposes of the appeal before High Court amounts to a judgment whether it amounts to a decree or not. If it does not amount to a decree, it would amount to an order. The word "judgment" in Cl. 10 (Letters Patent, All.) should not be read in a restricted sense and an appeal lies against an order of remand passed by a single Judge under O. 41, R. 23. 55 A. 326=1933 A.L.J. 127=1933 A. 262 (F.B.).

WHEN NO APPEAL LIES.—When the order of remand is not under this rule no appeal lies. 1927 M. 335=52 M.L.J. 90; 112 I. C. 710; 48 M. 713=47 M.L.J. 552; 3 P. L.J. 253=43 I.C. 959; 37 M.L.J. 536=53 I.C. 417; 31 M.L.T. 182=69 I.C. 826; 73 I.C. 915=1924 L. 245. Cf. 3 L. 218; 138 I.C. 62=1932 L. 538; 1933 L. 155; 97 I.C. 1=1926 P. 514; 96 I.C. 440 (1)=1926 P. 516; 31 C.W.N. 878=1927 C. 642=104 I. C. 422; 1928 M.W.N. 164; 26 I.C. 519=85 P.W.R. 1915; 60 I.C. 609=12 L. W. 667; 15 I.C. 367=22 M.L.J. 409. But see contra 119 I.C. 330=30 P.L.R. 645. A distinction has to be drawn between an order of remand under R. 23, and an order under R. 25, remitting issues for decision. An order under R. 25 does not amount to an order remanding a case, within the meaning of O. 43, R. 1 (u), and is not therefore appealable. 1935 O.W.N. 352=1935 O. 333. An order of an appellate Court setting aside an order rejecting the plaint is not an order under this rule and is not appealable. 131 I.C. 750=1931 L. 497; 133 P.L.R. 1915=26 I.C. 519. There can be no appeal from an order of remand where the question involved is one of custom. 5 L. L. J. 392=73 I.C. 650. No appeal lies against an order of remand passed by the first appellate Court in a suit of a nature cognizable by a Court of Small Causes. 36 I.C. 396. Under the Agra Tenancy Act an order of remand under this rule is not appealable.

14 I.C. 175; 35 I.C. 105.

REVISION.—An order of remand not appealable is not open to revision either. 13 I. C. 855=140 P.L.R. 1912. A remand order passed by an appellate Court which it was not competent to pass can be set aside in revision. 1925 M. 171=79 I.C. 157. See also 52 M.L.J. 90; 138 I.C. 62=1932 L. 538; 128 I.C. 827=1930 A. 863. Where a suit is dismissed by the trial Court on a plea that the matter was res judicata in view of a previous decision and on appeal the appellate Judge remands the case for decision on merits under R. 23, such order does not decide case and no revision lies from the remand order. 1933 Pesh. 48. Where an order of remand purporting to be made under the inherent powers, contravenes an express provision in R. 23, the High Court will interfere in revision. 37 Bom.L.R. 203=156 I.C. 381=1935 B. 216.

O. 41, R. 23 (Oudh): SCOPE OF.—O. 41, R. 23 as amended is wider than the rule before its amendment, for under this rule the Court's power of remand is not confined to a case which has been disposed of upon a preliminary point and all that is required is that all questions should not have been decided. The words in the rule as amended make it quite clear that for a remand to be under this rule there must have been a decree and there must have been something left undecided by the original Court. Where a remand is on the ground that one or both parties had been prejudiced and that though every thing had been decided it had been decided improperly, it is not a remand under O. 41, R. 23 and hence no appeal lies against such an order. 180 I. C. 321=1939 Oudh 157. The words 'have not been decided' in O. 41, R. 23 as amended by the Oudh Court, clearly refers to a decision of all the questions arising in the case by the trial Court and not to their decision by the appellate Court itself. 16 Luck. 65=1940 Oudh 367.

O. 41, R. 23 (Allahabad) and Court-Fees Act, S. 13.—Where the trial Court after striking off the defence for non-compliance with an order awarding costs to plaintiff, passes an ex parte decree without recording any finding on the questions arising in the case and the decree is set aside in appeal and the suit is remanded to trial Court for rehearing, the remand is one under O. 41, R. 23 (Allahabad)—and the appellant is entitled to refund of Court-fees paid in appeal by him, under S. 13 of the Court-Fees Act. 1941 A.L.J. 604.

O. 41, R. 23 as amended by Madras High Court.—Remand order—Failure to appeal—Effect of. See 54 L.W. 7=1941 Mad. 530=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 47 (F.B.).

O. 41, R. 23-A (Lahore): ORDER OF REMAND—APPEAL.—Where an order reversing the decree and remanding the case to be retried has been passed by the Appellate Court an appeal from the order is competent under O. 41, R. 23-A framed by Lahore

LOC. AMS.—[ALLAHABAD.] In r. 23, for the words "Where the Court from whose decree an appeal is preferred has disposed of the suit on a preliminary point and the decree is reversed in appeal, the appellate Court" substitute the words "Where an appellate Court has reversed a decree and all questions arising in the case have not been decided, it."

[MADRAS.] O. 41, r. 23.—Substitute the following for r. 23 :—

"23. Where the Court from whose decree an appeal is preferred has disposed of the suit upon a preliminary point and the decree is reversed in appeal, or where the appellate Court in reversing or setting aside the decree under appeal considers it necessary in the interests of justice to remand the case, the Appellate Court may by order remand the case, and may further direct what issue or issues shall be tried in the case so remanded and shall send a copy of its judgment and order to the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred, with directions to re-admit the suit under its original number in the register of civil suits, and proceed to determine the suit; and the evidence (if any) recorded during the original trial shall, subject to all just exceptions, be evidence during the trial after remand."

[OUDH.] For the words "Where the Court from whose decree an appeal is preferred has disposed of the suit upon a preliminary point and the decree is reversed in appeal, the Appellate Court" substitute the following words :—

"Where an Appellate Court has reversed a decree and all questions arising in the case have not been decided, it."

[LAHORE.] Add the following as r. 23-A :—

"O. 41, R. 23-A.—Where the Court from whose decree an appeal is preferred has disposed of the case otherwise than on a preliminary point and the decree is reversed in appeal, and a re-trial is considered necessary, the Appellate Court shall have the same powers as it has under r. 23."

Note.—See the undermentioned case.

24. Where the evidence upon the record is sufficient to enable the Appellate Court to pronounce judgment, the Appellate Court may, after re-settling the issues, if necessary, finally determine the suit, notwithstanding that the judgment of the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred has proceeded wholly upon some ground other than that on which the Appellate Court proceeds.

NOTES.

High Court, although the remand is not covered by O. 41, R. 23. I.L.R. (1940) Lah. 593=1940 Lah. 63.

O. 41, Rr. 23 and 24.—Where the trial Court dismissed the suit on the legal issue and the appellate Court decides that the decision of the trial Court is wrong on the legal issue, it should remand the case for trial on the remaining issues and it should not decide the issues of fact itself when the appellant had not let evidence thereon. 1935 R. 34.

O. 41, Rr. 23-25.—Remand with issue reframed with directions to take additional evidence—Legality. 1935 L. 161. See also 1939 Pat. 580; 1937 Oudh 338.

O. 41, Rr. 23 and 26.—R. 23, O. 41 contemplates a position in which the appellate Court does not retain seisin of the case. The remand under it is for a 'determination of the suit', and after remand the appellate Court has nothing more to do with the matter unless it comes back to it by way of a fresh appeal. But when the appellate Court retains seisin of the case when remanding for a finding on issue, R. 26 or 27 is more nearly applicable. I.L.R. 1936 N. 188=1936 N. 140.

O. 41, R. 24.—When it is not a question of "re-settling" issues but framing new issues requiring additional evidence, Court should act under the next rule and not under the present one. 40 I.C. 411=25 C.L.J.

527. Absence of specific issue does not debar decision and disposal on a point raised in pleadings, provided it does not prejudice the other side. 6 Bur.L.T. 134=20 I.C. 674. When an alternative case is pleaded in appellate Court, it will not act under this rule, unless the case arises on the facts stated in plaint and defendant is not taken by surprise. 36 I.C. 890=20 C.W.N. 773. Where plaint was returned for presentation to proper Court and an appeal was filed against the order returning, it was held that appellate Court had no power to decide the case on the merits. 102 I.C. 467=1927 O. 218. Appellate Court can on evidence on record decide any issue left undetermined by lower Court. 10 I.C. 225. Where trial Court records the whole evidence, but decides the case on facts without considering some evidence as being inadmissible, but appellate Court treats such evidence as admissible and, without remanding the case, affirms the decree on facts after considering the whole evidence under R. 24, the procedure is quite proper. 1933 R. 35=142 I.C. 829 (2). High Court in second appeal has jurisdiction to record its finding on a question of fact left undetermined though it arises from admitted facts. 36 B. 183=13 Bom.L.R. 1183. When judgment is reversed in second appeal on a point of law, High Court is competent to decide the case on the merits. 108 P.W.R. 1914=25 I.C. 144.

25. Where the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred has omitted to frame or try any issue, or to determine any question of fact, which appears to the Appellate Court essential to the right decision of the suit upon the merits, the Appellate Court may, if necessary, frame issues, and refer the same for trial to the Court from whose decree

Where Appellate Court may frame issues and refer them for trial to Court whose decree appealed from.

the appeal is preferred, and in such case shall direct such Court to take the additional evidence required;

NOTES.

O. 41, R. 25: SCOPE.—Where a case has been decided by lower Court wholly on merits and not on any preliminary point, the case must be remanded by appellate Court under R. 25 and not under R. 23. 151 I.C. 490=36 P.L.R. 269=1934 L. 576; 1939 Nag. 173. Rule does not contemplate an order for trial of issues already tried and decided upon. 48 I.C. 959; 22 I.C. 128. Unless issue is material remand should not be ordered. 1925 O. 97. Where first appellate Court fails to take into consideration an important piece of evidence in deciding the case, the case should be remanded for fresh hearing. 14 Pat.L.T. 683=1933 P. 472. Under O. 41, when Court is of opinion that certain findings of fact are necessary for the proper disposal of an appeal and that evidence should be led on those points the proper procedure is under R. 25 by which the appellate Court may frame issues and refer them for trial to the lower Court. Findings should then be returned to the appellate Court which must re-hear the appeal so far as is necessary and so dispose of it. It is not open to appellate Court to act under R. 23 in such a case. 53 B. 335=31 Bom.L. R. 208=118 I.C. 790=1929 B. 175. On this Rule, see also 145 I.C. 599=1933 M. 187; 1935 O. 59=11 O.W.N. 1469; 1937 Oudh 338. In cases in which it is possible to deal with the matter effectively under this rule, the decree of lower Court should not be set aside and a retrial ordered. 1933 P. 706. For construction of a remand order, see 1933 Oudh 560. Where an issue is sent down by the appellate Court, it is the duty of the trial Court to return a finding on it, whether it considers the issue material or not. 1936 A. M.L.J. 128. Applicability—Order of magistrate under S. 476, Cr. P. Code—Appeal—Power of remand. 11 O.W.N. 1469=1935 Oudh 59.

TRANSFER OF APPEAL.—An appeal cannot be transferred by District Judge from his file to his subordinate after a remand order, but before receipt of findings. 15 I.C. 862=10 A.L.J. 89.

EFFECT OF ORDER OF REMAND.—An order under this rule is not a final order. Court before which the case ultimately comes up can disregard the remand order and the findings under it. The responsibility for the final decree rests mainly with the Court which passes it. 74 I.C. 1014=1923 A. 284. Cf. 37 C.L.J. 122=74 I.C. 392=1923 C. 521. See also 64 M.L.J. 307=1933 P.C. 58=11 R. 58=60 I.A. 76(P.C.). Appellate Court is not bound to reconsider any opinion definitely expressed before remand, neither is it bound by the opinion expressed before or in remand order.

15 I.C. 39=17 C.W.N. 462; 46 I.C. 922; 25 O. C. 41=68 I.C. 242. Though in some cases it is open to the same Judge or his successor to rectify the mistakes made by the former either on review or under S. 152 of the Code, where the previous District Judge had heard the parties at length and given well-considered and final decisions on the points involved and it was in consequence thereof a remand was considered necessary, the findings and conclusions arrived at the former occasion are binding on the succeeding District Judge to whom the case was remanded by High Court and on High Court in second appeal. 144 I.C. 973=1933 L. 423. When only one of the defendants appealed and appellate Court remanded the case for fresh disposal as regards the appellant the decree against the non-appealing defendants is not affected. 22 P.L.R. 1918=44 I.C. 135.

POWER AND DUTY OF APPELLATE COURT.—Even after the return of the findings, the entire appeal is open for consideration at the final hearing. 24 C.W.N. 145=30 C.L.J. 428; 21 I.C. 760=18 C.L.J. 181. Findings on issues sent to trial Court, ought to be scrutinized by appellate Court, before deciding the appeal, even though objections have not been preferred on those findings by the party affected. 71 I.C. 444=1923 A. 417 (1); 37 C. L.J. 122=74 I.C. 392; 21 I.C. 79=18 C.L.J. 354; 28 I.C. 597. Appellate Court finding certain additional issue necessary—Proper course is to frame the issue and refer it for trial to lower Court. 95 I.C. 123 (2)=1926 C. 954; 95 I.C. 203=1926 C. 976; 95 I.C. 170 (1)=1926 C. 912.

POWER OF SECOND APPELLATE COURT.—High Court in second appeal cannot interfere with findings of fact by lower appellate Court. 40 I.C. 128; 85 I.C. 92. And it is immaterial whether the first Court takes the evidence or the lower appellate Court, I.L.R. 1936 N. 188=1936 N. 140. Finding of lower appellate Court on a question of fact not put in issue can be contested even in second appeal. 5 Lah.L.J. 49=85 I.C. 52. High Court can frame necessary issues and remit them for trial, when lower appellate Court has failed to do so. 38 M.L.J. 476=43 M. 567=47 I. A. 76 (P.C.). High Court can remand even on a point not taken in grounds of appeal. 5 Lah.L.J. 49=85 I.C. 92. High Court has power in second appeal to frame issues and refer them for trial to the first Court. 1934 N. 207 (1).

REMAND.—New issue when can be raised by High Court. 1926 B. 577=95 I.C. 297; 98 I.C. 536=1926 M.W.N. 921; 51 M.L.J. 641=1927 M. 85; 28 Bom.L.R. 1090=1926 B. 577.

and such Court shall proceed to try such issues, and shall return the evidence to the Appellate Court together with its findings thereon and the reasons therefor.

26. (1) Such evidence and findings shall form part of the record in the suit; and either party may, within a time to be fixed by the Appellate Court, present a memorandum of objections to any finding.

Findings and evidence to be put on record. Objections to findings.

NOTES.

APPLICATION OF THE RULE—ADDITIONAL EVIDENCE.—When a case is remanded it is discretionary with appellate Court not to direct lower Court to take further evidence. 15 I.C. 670. To assume that the order of remand does not contemplate taking additional evidence is not wrong. When there are sufficient materials on record, it would be wrong to take more evidence. 20 I.C. 35. Appellate Court cannot define the particular kind of evidence required for the determination of a remand issue. 22 I.C. 128. Opportunity must, in a proper case, be given to both parties for adducing evidence on a remanded issue. 19 A.L.J. 79=62 I.C. 447. A second appeal cannot be remanded for hearing in order that record of right published after the decision of the first Court may be taken into consideration. 43 I.C. 750=2 P.L.J. 564. An appellate Court should not ordinarily frame an issue not raised in the pleadings or even suggested in trial Court. It ought to be done only in exceptional cases after good cause shown and on payment of costs. 66 I.C. 640=34 C.L.J. 319; 28 Bom.L.R. 1090. Fresh opportunity cannot be given to prove one's case by an order of remand. 50 I.C. 933; 29 Bom.L.R. 147=100 I.C. 993 (2)=1927 B. 125. Where a definite case was set up in pleadings but no issue was raised or evidence taken, appellate Court should frame the issue and decide it before disposal of appeal, when it is material. 49 I.C. 475. Case can be remanded for findings on issues framed on points though not raised in the pleadings, yet had governed the case from the first. 10 I.C. 922=4 Bur.L.T. 118. New issues can be raised and the case remanded for trial, when the parties failed to grasp the essential questions arising in the case and to adduce proper evidence. 66 I.C. 833. An appellate Court cannot remit an issue at the instance of a party upon a point which was not pleaded by him; a party cannot be allowed in effect to say that he is prepared to allege or prove anything which is necessary, even if the allegations are not in accordance with the real facts. 1937 A.L.J. 1252. Appellate Court cannot make a new case for a party and remand the suit for trial of a newly framed issue on such point. 146 I.C. 981=1933 A. 829.

DELEGATION OF POWER.—When certain issues were remanded to lower appellate Court for trial, they cannot be sent to trial Court for taking evidence. Delegation of duties is wrong. 71 I.C. 896=1924 L. 354; 102 I.C. 273 (1); 19 I.C. 970=105 P.R. 1913. But see 32 I.C. 634=9 S.L.R. 148 (It may be sent to trial Court for recording evidence but the finding must be by first appellate Court). Where the District Judge sent the case with consent of parties to the trial Judge for record of evidence, it is not open to the respondent to contend that the report of the District Judge based on the evidence so recorded is invalid on the ground that the order of remand did not permit him to send the case to the trial Judge to record evidence. 39 P.L.R. 14=1937 Lah. 639.

APPEAL.—No appeal against an order under this rule. 76 I.C. 816=1924 R. 131. See also 34 C.L.J. 319; 35 C.L.J. 345; 37 C.W.N. 190; 64 M.L.J. 307=1933 P.C. 58=60 I.A. 76=11 R. 58 (P.C.); 1935 A. 140; 145 I.C. 183=37 C.W.N. 190=1933 C. 496. Where there is a remand by the appellate Court for a decision on certain issues which had not been decided, no appeal lies from such an order of remand. 1941 A.M.L.J. 24. Order calling for a finding, if appealable under Cl. 13 of Letters Patent. 25 L.W. 95. An order remanding a case under R. 25 to Court of first instance for determination of certain issues is not appealable. The alteration made by the Oudh Chief Court and High Court at Allahabad in the language of Cl. (u) of R. 1, O. 43, was intended to and does cover by its language such orders of remand also as are not specifically made under R. 23, but may fall to be made by a Court in the exercise of its inherent jurisdiction ex debito justitiae or under the provisions of S. 151. The alteration in question does not cover a remand under R. 25. 10 O.W.N. 664=1933 O. 350. High Court in an interlocutory judgment having set aside the conclusions but not the decrees of lower Court sent down an issue for a finding. On receipt of the finding it passed a decree. Held, that the order sending down the issue for finding was one under R. 25, that it was not a final order and that an application for leave to appeal to the P.C. against the said order could be made within 90 days from the final decree. 17 I.C. 258=35 Bom.L.R. 415=1933 B. 251.

REVISION.—Powers of revision should be exercised only in exceptional cases on orders under this rule. 67 I.C. 269=2 Lah. L.J. 662.

O. 41, R. 26.—Court can go behind findings even though no objections are filed. 28 I.C. 597; 40 I.C. 405. Omission to fix a time for finding of objections is a mere irregularity and may be ignored if no party is affected. 26 I.C. 736=1 O.L.J. 681. Where no objections to a finding are filed, Court may refuse to hear them at the time of hearing. 67 I.C. 846=3 Lah.L.J. 230. A memorandum of objections under R. 25 does not require any Court-fee. 105 I.C. 108=9 P.L.T. 19. See also 160 I.C. 38 (1)=1936 O.W.N. 113.

NOTES.

O. 41, R. 27: ADMISSION OF EVIDENCE—DISCRETIONARY.—R. 27 is intended to obtain additional evidence and cannot be used to test the evidence of witness. 155 I.C. 511=1935 Rang. 39. The provisions of S. 107 as elucidated by R. 27 are clearly not intended to allow a litigant who has been unsuccessful in lower Court to patch up the weak parts of his case and fill up omissions in the Court of appeal. Under Cl. (1) (b) of R. 27, additional evidence can be admitted only where the appellate Court requires it, i.e., finds it needful, to enable the Court to pronounce judgment, or for any other substantial cause. In either case it must be the Court that requires the additional evidence. The legitimate occasion for exercise of this discretion by appellate Court is not whenever before the appeal is heard a party applies to adduce fresh evidence, but on examining the evidence as it stands, some inherent lacuna or defect becomes apparent. The defect may be pointed out by a party or a party may move the Court to supply the defect, but the requirement must be the requirement of the Court upon its appreciation of the evidence as it stands. 58 I.A. 254=10 P. 654=1931 P.C. 143=61 M.L.J. 489 (P.C.). See also 41 P.L.R. 390=1939 Lah. 459; 1937 Lah. 409; 1937 Lah. 285; 1940 Pat. 161; 1940 Nag. 80=1939 N. L. J. 594; 1937 Cal. 537; 40 P. L. L.J. 32; 24 S.L.R. 15=1930 S. 105 (F.B.); 1935 R. 21; 1933 M. 407=37 L.W. 471=64 M.L.J. 449; 38 C.W.N. 763=1934 C. 707; 147 I.C. 339=1934 A. 175; 150 I.C. 788=1934 P. 60; 61 C. 412=152 I.C. 130=1934 C. 627; 162 I.C. 152=1936 Lah. 933; 38 P. L.R. 748=165 I.C. 626=1936 Lah. 37. The powers of the appellate Court in the matter of admission of additional evidence are subject to limitations which are clearly laid down in R. 27. The legitimate occasion for the exercise of the discretion is not whenever before the appeal is heard a party applies to adduce fresh evidence but when on examining the evidence as it stands some inherent lacuna or defect becomes apparent. It may well be that the defect may be pointed out by a party or that a party may move the Court to supply the defect but the requirement must be the requirement of the Court upon its appreciation of the evidence as it stands. Consequently it is not open to the appellate Court to admit additional evidence in appeal even before the appeal is heard. (61 M.L.J. 489 (P.C.), Rel. on.) 48 L. W. 655=1938 Mad. 957=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 648. See also 40 P.L.R. 198=1938 L. 114. The word "requires" in O. 41, R. 27 (b) means that it is necessary. R. 27 (b) does not mean that additional evidence should not be admitted except on the definite pronouncement of the Court itself or that if the new and additional evidence is produced by one of the parties it should be ignored. The wording of R. 27 (b) is quite against such an interpretation. Additional evidence may be necessary for the purpose of enabling the Court to pronounce judgment, that is to say, the Court may find that unless such evidence is produced it has not sufficient material before it to decide the case or there may be some other good and substantial cause. 16 Pat. 371=18 Pat.L.T. 618=1937 Pat. 584. This power should be very sparingly exercised and one requirement at least of any new evidence to be adduced is that it should have a direct and important bearing on a main issue in the case. 10 P. 654=58 I.A. 254=61 M.L.J. 489 (P.C.); 18 R.D. 665; 16 Pat.L.T. 49. Still more so in second appeal. 18 R.D. 665=16 L.R. 135 (Rev.). Admission of evidence in appeal is a matter of discretion within certain limits prescribed by this rule. 75 I.C. 331=26 O.C. 66; 38 I.C. 669=15 A.L.J. 21; 85 I.C. 459=1925 P. 504; 98 I.C. 129=1927 C. 140; 138 I.C. 253 (L.). It is not a matter of right. 8 A.L.J. 175=33 A. 379; 1923 C. 285; 131 I.C. 228=1931 L. 506. An appellate Court has not unfettered discretion in the matter of admitting fresh evidence under O. 41, R. 27, and a litigant who has been unsuccessful in the lower Court should not be allowed to patch up the weak parts of his case and fill up omissions in the Court of appeal. 42 P.L.R. 261. O. 41, R. 27 should be strictly interpreted. Where a document was not 30 years old but purported to be a recently made copy and no grounds for admitting secondary evidence were proved. Held, that the document could not be admitted in evidence in appeal. 148 I.C. 820=1934 L. 529. Court should not take a narrow view of the rules of procedure. In order to do justice between the parties, Court should allow additional evidence to be adduced in appropriate cases. 132 I.C. 363=1931 P. 181. See also 1937 Lah. 115. Court in order to have those documents before the Court, but under such circumstances the trial Court refused to admit those documents. Held, that the party wanting to produce them did not have a fair chance to put up his case, and so the appellate Court should remand the case to get those documents filed. 1936 Pat. 631. See also 41 P.L.R. 377=1939 Lah. 273; 1939 Lah. 265; 1937 Mad. 544. A Court of second appeal should not interfere with discretion exercised by the lower appellate Court. 75 I.C. 331=26 O.C. 66; 27 I.C. 827; 1923 L. 30; 42 M. 737=37 M.L.J. 125; 20 L.W. 840=48 M.L.J. 32; 49 C.L.J. 478=1929 C. 492; 131 I.C. 228=1931 L. 506; 32 P.L.R. 813; 16 P.L.T. 702, unless it were improperly exercised. 129 P.R. 1916=36 I.C. 282. See also 30 P.L.R. 693. Rule not intended to enable an appellate Court to re-examine before it, witnesses already examine and cross-examined in the Court of first instance. 38 A. 191=14 A.L.J. 121. An appellate Court cannot admit fresh evidence in appeal where such admission is not for the purpose of remedying some inherent lacuna or defect, but for the purpose of providing corroboration for oral testimony which had been disbelieved by the trial Judge. Where the oral evidence is complete, and would, if believed, substantiate the case of a party, there is no question of any lacuna or inherent defect. If the additional evidence is not necessary for the Court to appreciate a party's case or to pronounce judgment on it, it should not be admitted. 1940 Mad. 911=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 287. The failure of a party to examine a material witness when that witness is available and the consequent existence of a gap in his case is not ordinarily a sufficient reason for examining that witness in appeal, though in a case where the whole case is in such a muddle that the Judge in appeal is unable to pronounce a satisfactory judgment without further materials, such a procedure would be justified. A party should not be allowed to abstain from producing evidence which is obviously necessary in the hope that if an adverse comment is made upon the absence of this evidence the deficiency can be supplied in appeal. 194 I.C. 816=1940 M.W.N. 511=1940 Mad. 707. Where a plaintiff refused to comply with the order for the execution of a commission to prepare a map and locate a spot and the suit was dismissed for want of evidence, on appeal the appellate Court has no jurisdiction to appoint a Commissioner to prepare a plan and receive additional evidence, merely to supply the lacuna in the evidence on behalf of the plaintiff. The powers under R. 27 ought to be very sparingly used. 174 I.C. 394=1938 Oudh 135. Procedure prescribed in this rule must be strictly followed, especially that in Cl. (2) regarding record of reasons. 31 I.C. 873. It is extremely desirable that when the Court exercises its power under R. 27, it should make a direct reference to the rule, giving its reasons in such a form that there is no room for doubt that the Court has realised the exceptional nature of the powers that it is exercising. 138 I.C. 204=34 Bom. L.R. 372=1932 B. 230 [61 M.L.J. 489 (P.C.), Foll.]. The requirements of Rr. 27 and 29 are so carefully framed to ensure that such exceptional procedure shall be resorted to only in special circumstances and with adequate safeguards. High Court had examined a witness at the hearing of the appeal but there was no record of the order, if any, requiring the examination of that witness, no record of the reason for the admission of this evidence, no specification of the points to which his evidence was to be confined. Further the witness was called at the outset of the hearing in High Court and not after the Court had satisfied itself on examining the evidence taken in the lower Court that there were matters to which his evidence was essential to enable them to do justice between the parties. Held, the introduction of the evidence was under the circumstances highly irregular and it must be entirely discarded. 33 Bom. L.R. 1251=35 C.W.N. 925=1931 P.C. 175 (P.C.). Where the appellate Court summons additional evidence of its own motion, not after examining the record of the case at the hearing and in the presence of the pleader for the parties, but after reading the judgment of the trial Court in the privacy of its chamber, and further does not record any reasons whatsoever for admitting fresh evidence as required by R. 27 (2) or fulfil the requirements of R. 29, the additional evidence is admitted contrary to law and must be discarded. 162 I.C. 152=1936 Lah. 933. The provisions of this rule are mandatory. 47 I.C. 12. See contra 64 I.C. 238. A preliminary application to admit fresh evidence before the appeal is heard is not warranted by this rule. 42 C. 675=19 C.W.N. 401; 158 I.C. 656=1935 C. 641 [31 B. 381 (P.C.); 58 I.A. 254=61 M.L.J. 489 (P.C.), Foll.]. Oral evidence to prove documents should be allowed when the latter are admitted. 20 I.C. 542. The fact of a document being of unimpeachable authenticity is no doubt very material in considering whether the Court should or should not exercise its discretion in favour of a party under O. 13, R. 2, but in determining whether or not an order should be made under R. 27, considerations of a materially different character arise. 1937 Cal. 537. Documents referred to during trial but not produced—Admission in second appeal allowed under special circumstance. 177 I.C. 547=1938 Rang. 170. Rule 27 (1) (b) cannot apply to the issue of a commission for local investigation by an appellate Court as it is not the production of a document nor is it the examination of a witness. 135 I.C. 243=1932 A. 270. The appellate Court has power to issue such a commission under Ss. 107 and 75 and the Court is not bound to record its reasons. 1932 A. 270. See also 1937 M.W.N. 39. R. 27 is intended to obtain additional evidence and cannot be used to test the evidence of witness. 1935 R. 39. Where a Barrister who was an important witness to the proceedings at the time of registration of the adoption deed, was tendered as a witness at the trial but refused by the trial Judge on the ground that he was engaged as counsel in the case, the appellate Court would be acting rightly in recording his evidence under R. 27. There might have been good reason why the witness should return his brief and cease to act as counsel in the case, but to deprive a party of the evidence of a witness is a very different matter. I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 258=1939 P.C. 152 (P.C.). Where an application under O. 41, R. 27 is made to introduce new evidence in appeal without giving adequate reason for its non-production at the proper time, and the evidence sought to be introduced has no real bearing on the questions involved in the appeal, such application should not be granted as admission of evidence at this stage will mean introducing new and inconsistent claim in appeal, which the other party will have no opportunity of meeting. 39 P.L.R. 602=1937 Lah. 370.

PROCEDURE.—When additional evidence is admitted, sufficient opportunity must be given to tender rebutting evidence. 36 I.C. 955; 1923 C. 300; 25 P.L.R. 1915=28 I.C. 14; 43 I.C. 320; 20 L.W. 840=48 M.L.J. 32; 41 C.L.J. 194=1925 C. 671; 98 I.C. 129=1927 C. 140; 1935 R.D. 319. But see 56 C.L.J. 246. When appellant raises a new plea, not pressed in Courts below, the other side should be allowed to meet it by additional evidence. 72 I.C. 239=2 P. 607. See also 1938 Pat. 11. When documents are admitted, opportunity must be given for objections to its admissibility. 1924 C. 403; 1938 Pat. 11. Where a party relies upon any documentary evidence or riwaj-i-am in support of a custom pleaded by him, for the first time in appeal, then before he can be allowed to do so the opposite party must be given an opportunity of rebutting presumption raised by it in favour of the party relying. 1934 L. 462. Additional evidence which impeaches the testimony of a witness examined in the Court below, should not be allowed, at least without that witness being called and given an opportunity to contradict the additional evidence. 36 A. 93=41 I.A. 76=26 M.L.J. 153=18 C.W.N. 521 (P.C.). The only function of a Court of facts is to do complete justice between the parties. Court should not reject documents as to the genuineness of which there could possibly be no room for doubt on such technical grounds as that they were produced at a last stage, etc. 10 Pat.L.T. 356=1929 P. 324. See also 1930 P. 105. Courts should refrain from sending for the records in an informal manner for the purpose of looking into documents which had never been legally tendered in evidence. 1930 L. 750. In a case governed by the specific directions contained in Rr. 27 and 28, an order of remand purporting to be passed by the Court in the exercise of its inherent power is vitiated by material irregularity. 133 I.C. 205=1931 M. 791=60 M.L.J. 475. See also 59 B. 430=37 Bom.L.R. 241=1935 B. 222.

RECORD OF REASONS.—Reasons for admitting additional evidence should be recorded. 38 B. 665=16 Bom.L.R. 641=68 I.C. 719; 19 I.C. 572; 50 I.C. 805; 15 I.C. 250=15 O.C. 253; 41 C.L.J. 194=86 I.C. 646=1925 C. 671; 118 I.C. 315; 1931 P.C. 175=35 C.W.N. 925; 9 O.W.N. 379=1932 O. 227; 64 M.L.J. 449=1933 M. 407. An appellate Court admitting fresh evidence is bound by R. 27 (2) of O. 41, to record its reasons for so doing, and under R. 29 must specify the points in which the evidence is to be confined and record on its proceedings the points so specified. 42 P. L. R. 261. See also 48 L. W. 797=1940 Mad. 372=(1940) 1 M. L. J. 50. Omission to record reasons renders the order without jurisdiction and the consent of the parties cannot validate such an order. 49 I.C. 510; 41 Bom.L.R. 841=1939 Bom. 401; (1938) 2 M.L.J. 740=1938 M.W.N. 1080=48 L.W. 546. See contra 51 I.C. 50; 64 I.C. 38; 90 I.C. 756; 5 C.L.T. 32 (record of reasons for admitting further evidence is only directory—not imperative). It is established that when both parties agree that further evidence is necessary and admission of that evidence is made by consent, any failure on the part of the Judge to record in due form the reasons for the admission of that evidence is not a matter which would justify the reversal of the judgment or the rejection of the additional evidence. But it cannot be said that mere absence of objection to the admission of additional evidence in appeal is a bar to the raising of objections to the correctness of the admission or to make it a ground of reversal of the judgment based on that evidence in second appeal. The absence of objection becomes important only when it appears to have been equivalent to a consent. 1940 M.W.N. 511=1940 Mad. 707. See also (1938) 2 M.L.J. 740. The formula admitted 'in the interest of justice' may mean everything or may mean very little. The word 'requires' in R. 27 (1) (b) means 'finds it needful'. 48 L.W. 797=1938 Mad. 372=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 50. Admission without recording reasons is illegal. 32 I.C. 826=3 L. W. 163; 71 I.C. 289=1924 A. 303. Reasons for admission could be recorded in the judgment. 85 I.C. 676 (2)=1925 A. 752. When the reasons are apparent in the judgment, they need not be separately recorded. 22 M. L.J. 14=12 I.C. 673; 5 C.L.T. 32. Non-record of reasons is an irregularity and a fresh trial may be ordered in certain circumstances. 1922 C. 48=77 I.C. 556. But see 98 I.C. 137=1927 C. 126; 14 L.R. 366 (Rev.)=17 R.D. 507. No reasons given—Objections not raised—Effect. 90 I.C. 756=1926 C. 369. The mere examination of the defendant by appellate Court on certain points which are apparently obscure as regards the execution of a receipt does not amount to taking additional evidence specially when the judgment of lower Court is not influenced by such Court; and hence the finding arrived at by lower Court is not vitiated even though no reasons are recorded for taking the additional evidence. 144 I.C. 92 (1)=34 P.L.R. 99=

NOTES.

1933 L. 328. When appellate Court issued a commission and on the report of the commissioner gave a finding, without recording reasons for admitting additional evidence, the finding is not binding being based on the report of the commission which is inadmissible without record of reasons. 1923 A. 413; 1 L.W. 771=28 I.C. 11; 1927 A. 175. See contra 48 I.C. 137=111 P.W.R. 1918. SUBSTANTIAL CAUSE—WHAT IS.—Additional evidence may be taken on substantial causes, other than those particularly specified and necessary to meet ends of justice. 2 P. 676=50 I.A. 186=45 M.L.J. 578 (P.C.); 1923 L. 584; 30 I.C. 402=38 M. 414; 22 M.L.J. 14=12 I.C. 673; 14 I.C. 140=36 M. 477. Where as a result of a misapprehension of the ruling of trial Court as to burden of proof and as to who should lead evidence, a party to the suit refuses or is not permitted to adduce evidence, it is necessary that appellate Court should interfere with the decree and allow the party an opportunity to adduce evidence in support of the case, as that is necessary in the ends of justice. 40 L.W. 848=67 M.L.J. 831. The mere fact that plaintiff might have been better advised to supply for a commission at the trial of the suit would not by itself warrant the issuing of a commission by appellate Court. Far less could it be held to justify appellate Court in issuing a general order for the admission of such additional evidence as either of the parties might wish to produce. 148 I.C. 962=15 Pat.L.T. 142=1934 P. 284.

TIME OF ADMISSION.—The legitimate occasion for admitting additional evidence is when on examining records there is an inherent defect. 40 C. 402=17 C.W.N. 615; 10 I.C. 332; 31 B. 381 (P.C.); 66 I.C. 370; 31 M. 114; 42 C. 675=19 C.W.N. 401; 4 Pat. L.T. 418=71 I.C. 881; 53 I.C. 567; 55 I.C. 226. See also 58 I.A. 254=10 P. 654=61 M. L.J. 489 (P.C.) and other cases cited in the commencement of the notes under the rule. Ordinarily it is not desirable to hear an application for further evidence until appellate Court has heard the appeal and considered the evidence already on record. 120 I.C. 746=1930 M. 343. See also 1931 P.C. 175=134 I.C. 669 (P.C.). A preliminary application to admit fresh evidence before the appeal is heard is not warranted by this rule. 42 C. 675=19 C.W.N. 401. Appellate Court cannot admit documents after arguments are closed without recording reasons therefor. 63 I.C. 423=19 A.L.J. 402; 1924 C. 403; 35 I. C. 698=24 C.L.J. 457; or in the absence of the opposite party. 37 P.L.R. 563.

WHEN ADDITIONAL EVIDENCE COULD BE ADMITTED—ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—Admitting fresh evidence is not confined to cases where the Court suo motu desires to call for fresh evidence. 12 I.C. 332=14 O.C. 327. Whether additional evidence should be admitted should be decided when appeal is actually heard. 98 I.C. 129=1927 C. 140. Additional evidence can be admitted when party through no fault of his was unable to produce it at the trial. 12 I.C. 332=14 O.C. 327. Applicant must show exercise of due diligence and care in search for documents. 12 L. 172=1930 L. 1004; 10 Pat.L.T. 10=115 I.C. 674=1929 P. 98. An appellate Court can issue a commission for examining accounts and remedying mistakes and omissions made by the previous Commissioner. 3 L. 382=1923 L. 115. Appellate Court can refer to statements not on record but referred to by trial Court and contained in the record of a connected case. 32 I.C. 312=193 P.L.R. 1915. Where a document proving the final publication of a record-of-rights is admitted in evidence by appellate Court without any objection, the document being simply a report mentioned in an order-sheet of a Revenue Officer exhibited in trial Court—the report not having been put in before trial Court—and appellate Court takes the report as additional evidence in order to enable it to pronounce the judgment in the case, the reception of the additional evidence is not illegal or unwarranted under R. 27. 40 C.W. N. 821. Admission is to be with a view to enable the Court to pass judgment in favour of one party, but it is to be only when the original one is defective. 57 I.C. 843; 47 I.C. 141. Fresh evidence on question of fact not admissible. 95 I.C. 300 (2)=1926 C. 941. An application for being adjudicated an insolvent was dismissed by District Judge on the ground that appellant had failed to prove that he was unable to pay debts and that the squares which were part of his assets were worth much more than what appellant had represented them to be and that he had made no attempt to sell them or to obtain the permission of the Deputy Commissioner. He appealed to High Court and along with the memorandum of appeal filed a copy of a subsequent order of the Deputy Commissioner rejecting his application for permission to sell the squares for a certain price. Held, that even if this appeal were to be dismissed as it was competent to the appellant to file a fresh application for adjudication before District Judge, and in the proceedings on that application to prove the fact that the Deputy Commissioner had refused to grant him sanction to sell the squares, this was a fit case in which High Court should exercise its powers under R. 27 and admit the copy of the order of the Deputy Commissioner. 1933 L. 823=147 I.C. 190. Where in a suit for ejectment the defendant pleaded that he held under a written lease which he had lost but the suit was decreed and the lease was subsequently discovered and a review against the decision on the ground of discovery of new and important evidence was also dismissed, on a question as to whether that evidence could be admitted in an appeal against the order of ejectment of the trial Court preferred after the application for review and before its dismissal, it was held that in the circumstances the document should be admitted and that there was no absolute prohibition against the admission of evidence after the failure of such a review application. 1941 R.D. 825=1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 843.

WHEN EVIDENCE COULD NOT BE ADMITTED—ILLUSTRATIVE CASES.—If evidence, which was either in the possession of parties at the time of the trial or which might with proper diligence have been obtained, is either not produced or has not been procured, and the case is decided adversely to the party to whom such evidence was available, no opportunity for producing or using that evidence in appeal ought to be given to that party. 39 C. W.N. 322. More especially in the absence of special circumstances explaining such non-production at the proper time. 42 L.W. 658=69 M.L.J. 707. And also where he is unable to tell the Court what the documents are or what their relevancy is. 17 Pat.L.T. 709=1936 P. 600. An appellate Court should not, in the absence of sufficient explanation, admit a document as a matter of course in appeal, when no attempt was made to produce it in the trial Court. 1936 O.W.N. 722. Or when there is nothing to show that the trial Court refused to receive the same when tendered, or where there is no inherent lacuna or defect in the evidence as it stands. 39 C. W.N. 668=62 C.L.J. 251; 43 L.W. 722=1936 M. 385=70 M.L.J. 400. Much more so when the party was given an opportunity in the original Court for producing it. 1935 R. 21. In the absence of any lacuna in the evidence as it stands on the record, the appellate Court will be going out of its way if it summons additional evidence in an appeal for the sole purpose of comparison of handwriting and signature in documents. 156 I.C. 253=1935 L. 555.

DISCOVERY OF EVIDENCE.—Original document which was supposed to be lost, of which secondary evidence was given, could be admitted in appeal. 32 I.C. 711. When fresh evidence was available only long after disposal of suit, it can be admitted in appeal. 71 I.C. 453=37 C.L.J. 491. See contra 53 I.C. 567. Discovery of fresh evidence is no ground for admission of it. 97 I.C. 369=1927 L. 11 (34 I.A. 115, Foll.).

EXCLUDED EVIDENCE.—Evidence improperly excluded by the trial Court, can be admitted in appeal. 34 C.L.J. 160=26 C.W.N. 1022; 27 I.C. 516. This does not amount to taking additional evidence. 52 I.C. 327. Additional evidence can be admitted when the omission was due to inadvertence or mistake, especially when it consists of documents, the genuineness of which cannot be impeached. 14 P.R. 1916=33 I.C. 813.

SUBSEQUENT EVENTS.—Where pending an appeal from a decree in a rent suit, a decree is passed in favour of the appellant in a title suit, the latter should be admitted in evidence. 64 I.C. 721. See also 88 I.C. 553=1925 P. 612. When subsequent events make the relief granted inappropriate, additional evidence can be taken. 48 I.C. 187=111 P.

NOTES.

W.R. 1918. Public documents coming into existence after the filing of second appeals may be admitted by the High Court, 4 Pat. L.J. 312=50 I.C. 857. Riwaj-i-am which was prepared after the appeal was filed was admitted in evidence in appeal. 132 I.C. 6=31 P.L.R. 1012. Statements of witness in proceedings under Lunacy Act commenced after dismissal of suit between same parties were admitted at appellate stage. 1927 P.C. 123=26 L.W. 94=31 C.W.N. 1087 (P.C.).

WAIVER OF OBJECTION.—A party cannot object to a portion of evidence admitted on appeal and at the same time rely on another portion. 1922 N. 119. Where a party fails to object to the reception of additional evidence, at the time of hearing of the appeal, he cannot raise the objection in second appeal. 159 I.C. 460=1936 P. 57 (public documents); 17 Pat.L.T. 709=1936 P. 600 (objection to secondary evidence on ground of irrelevancy and inaccuracy).

CONSENT OF PARTIES FOR ADMISSION OF ADDITIONAL EVIDENCE.—Where by consent of parties the appellate Court admitted additional evidence, and the reasons given by it did not strictly comply with the terms of O. 41, R. 27. Held, that the consent of the parties may be treated as an admission by both parties that the grounds for admitting additional evidence existed. Still the Judge is not absolved from the requirement of satisfying himself as to the necessity for this evidence but the consent may to a large extent cover the defects in the record of the reasons for the order. Even if the reasons recorded by the Court are deemed inadequate, the consent of the party to the admission of further evidence precludes him from questioning the admissibility of that evidence in subsequent proceedings. (55 I.C. 226, Not Foll.) 1939 Mad. 54=48 L. W. 546=(1938) 2 M.L.J. 740. See also 1940 Mad. 707.

WHAT COULD NOT BE ADMITTED.—Evidence tendered at the time of argument in trial Court and rejected should not be admitted in appeal. 1921 L. 279=4 L.L.J. 371. Appellate Court should not examine an attesting witness who by inadvertence had not been called in first Court. 5 P.L.J. 263=56 I.C. 983; for an exceptional case, see 11 A.L.J. 371=21 I.C. 619=35 A. 353.

NEGLIGENCE.—A litigant is not entitled to indulgence of being allowed to adduce additional evidence if he was negligent in the Courts below. 47 C. 662=47 I.A. 11=38 M. L.J. 424 (P.C.); 56 I.C. 983=1 Pat.L.T. 701. Additional evidence cannot be allowed when the party had deliberately declared in the lower Court that he had no evidence. 25 I. C. 587=16 M.L.T. 301.

DISCOVERY OF EVIDENCE.—Evidence could not be admitted in appeal on the ground that it was discovered after the filing of the appeal. 9 I.C. 251=9 M.L.T. 323; 1926 O. 74.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.—It is not proper to admit a judgment which is not inter partes nor conclusive and is simply an addition of a disputable point to the already existing evidence. 50 I.C. 119=23 C.W.N. 242. Settlement papers cannot be admitted after first Court's decision. 29 I.C. 219. Documents in possession of a party cannot be allowed in evidence in second appeal. 103 I.C. 215=1927 L. 574. See also 39 C.W.N. 322.

EXPERT EVIDENCE.—Where in a suit on a promissory note appellate Court being unable to believe evidence on either side acted upon the report of the thumb impression bureau, to whom it sent the document, held, that the procedure was unwarranted by law. 28 I.C. 321. In a suit on a handnote the defendant pleaded alterations in the note. The suit was decreed. In appeal Court obtained a written opinion as to the date of stamp affixed and used it for giving judgment in favour of defendant. Held, that the opinion not having been formally proved and the plaintiff not having been given an opportunity of cross-examining the person giving the opinion thereon ought not to have been taken in evidence, and the finding of the Judge based upon the opinion contained in that letter must be discarded. 11 P. 782=1932 P. 352. When no application was made to appellate Court to admit a document excluded by trial Court, appellate Court might refuse to consider the document. 28 I.C. 378=28 M.L.J. 115.

SECOND APPEAL.—High Court in second appeal can admit fresh evidence, if necessary, for the disposal of the appeal. 52 I.C. 625=1919 M.W.N. 455. The production of additional evidence in second appeal is open to strong objection. But an exception can be made in a case where it is necessary to prove what the entries in the revenue papers throughout the years prior to the suit have been. 1941 R.D. 19. Where the additional evidence was within the knowledge of the appellant all along and he has not explained why he did not produce it at the trial, he cannot be allowed in second appeal to fill up gaps in his case by calling such evidence. Obviously O. 41, R. 27 does not apply to such a case. 43 P.L.R. 41. Where a registered document which was held to be inadmissible in evidence on the ground that it had not been properly presented for registration is after the decision of the appeal re-registered under the provisions of S. 23-A of the Registration Act, and the defect on the basis of which it had been held to be inadmissible was removed, the re-registered document can be admitted in evidence on second appeal. 40 P.L.R. 432. Evidence improperly admitted in appeal will not be considered in second appeal. 40 C. 402=17 C. W.N. 615; 129 P.R. 1916=36 I.C. 382; 1930 L. 750 (1921 L. 279, Foll.); 10 Pat.L.T. 10=115 I.C. 674=1929 P. 98. See also 16 Pat.L.T. 49; 81 I.C. 999=31 C.L.J. 261=1925 C. 98. Findings based on evidence admitted in appeal will not be interfered with in second appeal. 16 Pat.L.T. 49=1935 P. 105 (2); 40 C.W.N. 821. Waiver of objection, what amounts to. 55 I.C. 226. Effect of waiver of objection to admit evidence. 36 C. 833=13 C.W.N. 830 (P.C.). When judgment of an appellate Court was delivered

(a) the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred has refused to admit evidence which ought to have been admitted, or

(b) the Appellate Court requires any document to be produced or any witness to be examined to enable it to pronounce judgment, or for any other substantial cause, the Appellate Court may allow such evidence or document to be produced, or witness to be examined.

(2) Wherever additional evidence is allowed to be produced by an Appellate Court, the Court shall record the reason for its admission.

LOC. AMS.—[ALLAHABAD AND OUDH.] O. 41, r. 27 (1) :—

(1) Insert the following as clause (b) :—

“(b) the evidence sought to be adduced by a party to the appeal, which after exercise of due diligence, was not within his knowledge or could not be produced by him at the time when the decree or order under appeal was passed or made, or”

(2) Convert the existing clause “(b)” into “(c)”.

Production of additional evidence in Appellate Court.

“27. (1) The parties to an appeal shall not be entitled to produce additional evidence, whether oral or documentary, in the Appellate Court. But if—

(a) the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred has refused to admit evidence which ought to have been admitted, or

(b) the party seeking to adduce additional evidence satisfied the appellate Court that such evidence, notwithstanding the exercise of due diligence, was not within his knowledge or could not be produced by him at or before the time when the decree under appeal was passed, or in ignorance of the judgment of High Court delivered the prior day in a connected suit, the judgment of High Court could not be admitted in second appeal, but the proper course would be to apply for review or revision. 51 I.C. 652=29 C.L.J. 313. See contra 52 I.C. 625=1919 M.W.N. 455. See also 49 C.L.J. 478=1929 C. 492.

APPEAL.—See 1937 Sind 233. An order by an appellate Court refusing to admit fresh evidence under R. 27 is not appealable. 18 R.D. 665=16 L.R. 135 (Rev.). Where an order for the reception of additional evidence in appeal is made by the appellate Court without giving any reasons therefor, as required by O. 41, R. 27, there is no doubt a substantial error or defect in procedure but where it has not interfered with the decision on the merits the decision cannot be interfered with in second appeal. 1939 A.L.J. 903=1939 All. 663.

REVISION.—The order of the Court permitting additional evidence is discretionary and it could not be set aside in revision. 137 I.C. 513=33 P.L.R. 330. Where the lower appellate Court wrongly remands a case under inherent power without adopting the procedure laid down in R. 27, High Court can interfere in revision. 59 B. 430=37 Bom.L.R. 241=1935 B. 222.

REMAND.—O. 41, R. 27 (1). (b), confers a limited power on an appellate Court to be used where certain definite evidence is required and it does not entitle a Court to allow a plaintiff to add to his case, evidence which he should have added in the first instance. There cannot be a remand, to allow a plaintiff to produce any additional evidence he wants, on the ground that the evidence on record is not sufficient to prove his case. 1938 A.L.J. 930=1938 All. 621.

REVIEW.—The ordinary way of bringing new and important matter to the notice of the Court which was not within party's knowledge at the time of decree, is by way of review. 47 B. 674=25 Bom.L.R. 310. See also 51 I.C. 652=29 C.L.J. 313; 52 I.C. 625=1919 M.W.N. 455.

O. 41, R. 27 (1) (b) (as altered by Allahabad High Court).—Under the new sub-R. (1) (b) of R. 27 introduced by the Allahabad High Court, the question of admission of new evidence does not depend on the requirements of the appellate Court, and a party has a right if he satisfies the Court that he exercised due diligence and the new evidence was not within his knowledge or could not be produced by him at the time when the decree or order under appeal was passed or made. 159 I.C. 202=1936 A. 217.

O. 41, Rr. 27 and 29.—When additional evidence is to be admitted in appeal for the first time, reasons should be given and also the points on which the evidence is to be recorded should also be specified as required by Rr. 27 and 29 of O. 41. These should be recorded in a separate order before the evidence is let in so that the other side would know on what points the additional evidence is going to be led and whether any evidence in rebuttal should be adduced. Omission to follow the procedure laid down by Rr. 27 and 29 of O. 41 is a gross irregularity. 41 Bom.L.R. 841=1939 Bom. 401.

(c) the appellate Court requires any document to be produced or any witness to be examined to enable it to pronounce judgment, or for any other substantial cause, the appellate Court may allow such evidence or document to be produced, or witness to be examined."

[PATNA.] O. 41, r. 27 (1).—Insert the following as cl. (b) :—

"(b) the party seeking to adduce additional evidence satisfies the appellate Court that such evidence, notwithstanding exercise of due diligence, was not within his knowledge or could not be produced by him at the time when the decree or order under appeal was passed or made, or."

Convert the existing clause "(b)" into cl. "(c)".

28. Wherever additional evidence is allowed to be produced, the Appellate Court may either take such evidence, or direct the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred, or any other subordinate Court, to take such evidence and to send it when taken to the Appellate Court.

29. Where additional evidence is directed or allowed to be taken, the Appellate Court shall specify the points to which the evidence is to be confined, and record on its proceedings the points so specified.

Judgment in appeal.

30. The Appellate Court, after hearing the parties or their pleaders and referring to any part of the proceedings, whether on appeal or in the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred, to which reference may be considered necessary, shall pronounce judgment in open Court, either at once or on some future day of which notice shall be given to the parties or their pleaders.

NOTES.

O. 41, R. 28.—Documents should be exhibited. 38 B. 665. On remand lower appellate Court can appoint Commissioner to examine witnesses. 1925 L. 39. Lower appellate Court calling for revised findings on the ground of evidence being shut out—Trial Court's decree set aside—Validity of order. 106 I.C. 498=1927 M. 1065.

O. 41, R. 29.—The rule in O. 41, R. 29 serves a very useful purpose namely that it ensures that the appellate Court will consider exactly on what points there is a lacuna which requires to be rectified and also that an opportunity will be given to both sides to adduce additional evidence on particular points on which additional evidence is allowed to be taken in appeal. 48 L.W. 797=1938 Mad. 372=(1938) 1 M.L.J. 50. See also 42 P.L.R. 261.

O. 41, R. 30.—An appellate Court is not entitled to dismiss an appeal for want of prosecution merely because the appellant or his pleader is for any reason unable to argue the appeal. The Court, if it thinks fit to refuse an adjournment applied for by the appellant or his pleader on the ground of inability to argue the case, must, after such refusal, proceed in the manner laid down by Rr. 30 and 31. It is bound to decide the appeal before it, to pronounce judgment in open Court containing the points for determination, its decision thereon and the reasons for that decision. 1937 A.L.J. 174=1937 A. 284. See also 1940 A.L.J. 121. A Court is justified in dismissing the appeal for want of prosecution only where a party is bound to do something and has failed to do it. The law gives an absolute right to the appellant to be heard; this right cannot be converted into a duty. The appellant may or may not avail himself of this right; and merely because he does not avail himself of his right to argue his appeal, he cannot be said to be guilty of "want of prosecution" of his appeal. The dismissal of the appeal in such a case for want of prosecution is not justified and is liable to be set aside. 1937 A. 284. Judgment was not pronounced in open Court and a party had notice of the date of its pronouncement—Limitation for appeal. See 51 I.C. 239=27 P.R. 1919. See also 124 I.C. 346=1930 L. 152. Where an appeal is dismissed under R. 11, the provisions of Rr. 30 and 31 relating to judgment and R. 35 relating to decree have no application and the Court which passed the decree appealed from has jurisdiction to entertain an application for amendment of the decree. 142 I.C. 143=1933 N. 117. There is nothing in O. 41, R. 30 to prevent a Court from deciding a preliminary issue before passing its final judgment, and an order announced in two parts is, therefore, not illegal. 19 Lah.L.T. 31. Where an appellant appears personally, but is not prepared to argue the appeal, the appellate Court can dispose of the appeal under R. 30 and not R. 17 of O. 41. But in such a case it is not necessary for the Court to give a decision on any point or the reasons for the decision, inasmuch as there was in fact no point for determination raised before the Court. It is sufficient for the Court to pass an order of dismissal for default, which does not necessarily mean default of appearance but rather means dismissal for default of proof. I.L.R. (1940) All. 220=1940 A.L.J. 126=1940 All. 248.

Contents, date and signature of judgment.

31. The judgment of the Appellate Court shall be in writing and shall state—

- (a) the points for determination ;
- (b) the decision thereon ;
- (c) the reasons for the decision ; and
- (d) where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled ;

and shall at the time that it is pronounced be signed and dated by the Judge or by the Judges concurring therein.

NOTES.

O. 41, R. 31: SCOPE.—Appellate Court must conform strictly to the provisions of this rule. 31 I.C. 895=9 Bur.L.T. 59; 95 I.C. 925=1927 O. 95=1 Luck. 458. Even if the judgment is delivered on hearing an appeal under O. 41, R. 11, compliance with the provisions of this rule is necessary. 1931 A.L.J. 875=1931 A. 597 (F.B.); 53 A. 528=132 I.C. 200=1931 A. 589. But see 142 I.C. 143=1933 N. 117. But if there is substantial compliance, the judgment is not vitiated. 1931 A.L.J. 875=1931 A. 597 (F.B.). See also 1937 Sind 247. The provisions of this rule are mandatory. 9 I.C. 804; 21 A.L.J. 567=1924 A. 100. But see 59 I.C. 673=14 S.L.R. 132. A judgment which does not comply with the provisions of R. 31 is no judgment in law. 144 I.C. 306 (1)=1933 L. 332. A judgment of an appellate Court, which is merely a judgment of approval, referring to practically no document and to no evidence, and which merely says the trial Court had done very well in deciding the suit is not a proper judgment. (20 Bom.L.R. 461; 108 P.L.R. 1916; 2 O.L.J. 50 and 1928 L. 655, Rel. on.) 1930 L. 152. See also 117 I.C. 471; 112 I.C. 845; 112 I.C. 673; 112 I.C. 698. Appellate Court need not examine trial Court's finding of fact not objected to. 23 A.L.J. 653=89 I.C. 374=1925 A. 585. A suit contesting an alienation ought not to be dismissed on the ground that it referred to a small plot of useless land. 87 P.L.R. 1917=42 I.C. 244. As to the applicability of the rule to a case under S. 476, Cr. P. Code, see 143 I.C. 672=35 C.W.N. 660=1931 C. 454. There is no authority which lays down that the appellate Court before recording a finding of fact should refer to each and every document or piece of evidence on the record while recording its finding. It should be assumed that all the relevant evidence was brought to the notice of the Judge and he had it in his mind when he delivered his judgment. 164 I.C. 252=1936 L. 543. Where, in a single judgment, a Judge disposes of four appeals, each of which raises a question quite distinct from that raised in the other three and the parties are also not the same, and the Judge has not given proper consideration to the points for decision in the appeals, in none of the four appeals can the so-called judgment be regarded as a judgment within the meaning of O. 41, R. 31. 163 I.C. 604=1936 R. 262.

CONTENTS OF JUDGMENT.—A judgment in appeal must set out the evidence on which it is based. 63 I.C. 436. Appealable judgments must contain findings on all important points. 1925 C. 316. The judgment of the Court of first appeal should always be self-contained and should deal with material points in issue in such a way that the Court of second appeal might be in a position to know whether the first Court of appeal has properly applied its mind to the facts of the case or not. Besides the Court should not indulge in generalization but should confine itself to particular matters before it. 42 P.L.R. J. & K. 52. The judgment of the Court of appeal should be self-contained in every respect and the material points in issue should be properly discussed with reference to the evidence led by the parties. 42 P.L.R. J. & K. 42. The matters in dispute between the parties must be fully set forth with the findings in the judgment. 35 I.C. 237; 65 I.C. 479; 11 I.C. 915=4 Bur.L.T. 201. Judgment must state reasons for decision on all the points for determination, and on independent consideration, and must show that the Judge did not rely en bloc on the reasoning of the trial Court. 46 I.C. 161=20 Bom. L.R. 461; 28 I.C. 354; 1923 L. 658. An appellate judgment should contain a statement of the case as would show that the Court has understood the real issues, tried them and considered the evidence. 25 I.C. 596=1 O.L.J. 334. The judgment should be self-contained in every respect so as to give a clear indication to High Court that the Judge has applied his mind to the facts of the case and has arrived at an independent decision on the matters in controversy. This is all the more important as the finding of fact arrived at by lower appellate Court are binding upon High Court in second appeal. To refer merely to trial Court for the facts of the case is a wholly erroneous procedure. 36 P.L.R. 253=1934 L. 1009. All points raised in first Court and not abandoned in second Court must be considered. 26 B. 379=14 Bom.L.R. 418; 42 I.C. 838=3 P.L.J. 701. Where the appellate Court decides the appeal on a preliminary issue it is desirable that it should decide the case on the merits as well so as to obviate an order of remand if the decision should be set aside by High Court in appeal. 34 C.W.N. 836. In a suit for confirmation of possession and declaration of title, the appellate Court's finding merely that title was not proved, is a partial view of the case. 46 I.C. 328. A cursory judgment, not showing that the evidence on record has been fully weighed, is liable to be set aside.

LOC. AMS.—[ALLAHABAD.] O. 41, r. 31.—At the end of the rule substitute a semicolon for the fullstop and add the following :—

“ Provided that where the presiding judge pronounces his judgment by dictation to a shorthand writer in open Court, the transcript of the judgment so pronounced shall, after such revision as may be deemed necessary, be signed by the judge and shall bear the date of its pronouncement.”

[MADRAS.] Substitute the following for O. 41, r. 31 :—

“ 31. The judgment of the Appellate Court shall be in writing and shall state—(a) the points for determination ; (b) the decision thereon ; (c) the reasons for the decision ; (d) where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled ; and shall bear the date on which it is pronounced and shall be signed by the Judge or the Judges concurring therein : Provided that where the presiding Judge is specially empowered by the High Court, to pronounce his judgment by dictation to a shorthand writer in open Court, the transcript of the judgment so pronounced shall, after such revision as may be deemed necessary, be signed by the Judge.”

Lower appellate Court’s judgment containing no points nor decision thereon and no reasons—It is not a valid judgment. 1928 M. 16.

CONTENTS OF AFFIRMING JUDGMENT.—An affirming judgment must show that the mind of the appellate Court has been brought to bear sufficiently upon the aspects of the case requiring his decision. 49 I.C. 504=1919 P. H.C.C. 88. Where the lower Court’s judgment is well written and exhaustive, an appellate Court may simply express concurrence but there should be enough to show that the Court of appeal has considered it fully and formed its own opinion. 13 I.C. 194; 97 I.C. 760=1927 C. 323. Full reasons must be given when affirming lower Court’s decree. 84 I.C. 946=1925 L. 246. Where judgment of first Court was full, and appellate Court appreciated the main facts but has dismissed the appeal in a short judgment, it is not irregular. 1923 C. 113; 91 I.C. 478=1926 C. 545. A general statement that the records were carefully considered, and no reason was found to interfere with trial Court’s conclusion is not a judgment. 46 I.C. 56=21 O.C. 309; 51 I.C. 46; 38 I.C. 509=2 P.L.J. 8; 95 I.C. 925. Where the judgment stated that the findings of lower Court were accepted but without dealing with or stating certain objections against the findings, held, it was not a judgment. 16 I.C. 354 and 382; 6 Bur.L.J. 82.

CONTENTS OF REVERSING JUDGMENT.—Law imposes on the Court of appeal an imperative duty and obligation of giving an adequate and satisfactory judgment when reversing a judgment. 43 I.C. 973. Full reasons for reversing a judgment should be given. 56 I.C. 816; 1926 N. 435. The aggrieved party can demand a consideration of the points on which the lower Court relied when a judgment is one of reversal. 34 I.C. 185. A reversing judgment of the appellate Court should discuss the matters fully; but where it fails to do so but has taken into account all evidence in arriving at the conclusion the second appellate Court will not interfere. 150 I.C. 1137=1934 M. 169=66 M.L.J. 342. It is not necessary that judgment in the form prescribed in O. 41, R. 31 should be given when the appeal is dealt with under O. 41, R. 11. The provisions of R. 31, O. 41 relate only to a judgment pronounced in accordance with the provisions of O. 41, R. 30. 31 S.L.R. 167=1937 Sind 206. Appellate Courts should comply with the mandatory provisions of O. 41, R. 31 (3), and should state clearly the relief to which an appellant is entitled when a decree is reversed or varied. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 101=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 89=1941 R.D. 30. When a Court of appeal allows an appeal in an abatement of rent suit, it is obligatory on the Court to specify the new rent. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 504.

CONSIDERATION OF EVIDENCE ON RECORD.—It is the duty of appellate Court to consider the evidence on record. 51 I.C. 751. The judgment must show that the evidence on record and the grounds of appeal have been considered. 108 P. L. R. 1916=36 I. C. 6; 38 I.C. 814. Failure to weigh all evidence before the appellate Court, vitiates its judgment. 51 I.C. 11; 17 I.C. 898=5 Bur. L. T. 269. Omission to consider an important piece of evidence, vitiates the judgment. 49 I.C. 832. Non-mention of an obviously important document in judgment of an appellate Court is proof that it was not considered. 22 O.C. 312=54 I. C. 353. A Judge should not quote the judgment of another Court as his own, but should show his own appreciation of the evidence on record giving reasons for his findings. 37 I.C. 435=3 O.L.J. 620; 49 I.C. 733. R. 31, O. 41 does not say that if its requirements are not complied with, the judgment shall be a nullity. So starting a result would need clear and precise words. Indeed, the rule does not even state any definite time in which it is to be fulfilled. The time is left to be defined by what is reasonable. The rule from its very nature is not intended to affect the rights of parties to a judgment. It is intended to secure certainty in the ascertainment of what the judgment was. It is a rule which Judges are required to comply with for that object. No doubt in practice Judges do so comply,

32. The judgment may be for confirming, varying or reversing the decree from which the appeal is preferred, or, if the parties What judgment may direct. to the appeal agree as to the form which the decree in appeal shall take, or as to the order to be made in appeal, the Appellate Court may pass a decree or make an order accordingly.

33. The Appellate Court shall have power to pass any decree and make any order which ought to have been passed or made and to Power of Court of Appeal. pass or make such further or other decree or order as the case may require, and this power may be exercised by the Court notwithstanding that the appeal is as to part only of the decree and may be exercised in favour of all or any of the respondents or parties, although such respondents or parties may not have filed any appeal or objection.

as it is their duty to do. But accidents may happen. A Judge may die after giving judgment but before he has had a reasonable opportunity to sign it. The Court must have inherent jurisdiction to supply such a defect. The case of a Judge who has gone on leave before signing judgment may call for more comment, but even so the convenience of the Court and the interest of litigants must prevail. The defect is merely an irregularity not affecting the merits of the case or the jurisdiction of the Court and is no ground for setting aside the decree. 43 C.W.N. 87=1938 P.C. 292 (P.C.).

O. 41, R. 31 and O. 20, R. 4 (2): JUDGMENT OF THE APPELLATE COURT—CONTENTS.—It is not a sufficient judgment within the C.P. Code to state that the Judge is in agreement with the finding of the Court below. He is bound to express his reasons for the finding at which he arrives, and, although he need not, so far as the questions of fact are concerned; deal in detail with the evidence, a definite finding must be arrived at by him in order to comply with the provisions of the Code. 19 Pat.L.T. 362=1938 Pat. 69.

O. 41, Rr. 32 and 33.—Scope—Deficiency in court-fee on plaint—Order for payment by trial Court within fixed time—Appeal—Power of appellate Court to extend such time. See 1937 A.L.J. 1346=1938 A.W.R. 13 (H.C.).

O. 41, R. 33: OBJECT OF RULE.—The object of this rule is, speaking generally, to enable appellate Court where its decision interferes with, modifies or extends the decision of lower Court to give effect to that decision by interfering, if necessary, even with the rights and liabilities of those who are not in fact appealing from the decision of trial Court. 4 P. 37=1925 P. 285; 97 I.C. 65; 1928 A. 77. See also 1939 R.D. 8=1939 A.W.R. (B.R.) 102; 16 Pat. 557=321. The words of O. 41, R. 33 are very wide, and the object of the rule is to do complete justice between the parties to the appeal. Where in order to grant relief to an appellant it is essential that some relief should at the same time be granted to the respondent also the Court has power to grant such relief to the respondent, although the respondent has preferred neither an appeal nor a memorandum of cross-objections against the decree under appeal. 1937 A.L.J. 804. An appellate Court has ample powers under O. 41, R. 33 to correct a purely technical mistake in the judgment of the lower Court, even though the respondent has not appealed against the decree to correct such mistake. 1937 A.L.J. 280=I.L.R. (1937) All. 489=1937 All. 401. The exercise of the powers under O. 41, R. 33 is discretionary and is normally exercised only in cases in which the failure to exercise them would lead to impossible, contradictory and unworkable orders. 170 I.C. 195=1937 Pesh. 69. What is contemplated by R. 33 of O. 41 is that an order may be passed in favour of a person who has not appealed, but not that an order can be passed against a person who is not a party to the appeal and who is not on the record. 171 I.C. 315=1937 Sind 236. See also 31 S.L.R. 486. Power to set matters right. 91 I.C. 519=1926 M. 631. See also 6 O.W.N. 644=119 I.C. 462=1930 O. 13. The rule was intended to further the ends of justice and not to favour one party over another. Relief was refused on the ground that if granted it would defeat the bar of limitation which had accrued. 14 P.L.T. 113; 1934 P. 589; 12 P. 261=1933 P. 224; 18 R.D. 618=16 L.R. 26 (Rev.).

SCOPE OF.—O. 6, R. 7 clearly empowers the Court to grant any relief that it may think just to the same extent as if it had been asked for. Similarly R. 33, O. 41 confers on the appellate Court very wide powers to pass any decree and make any order which ought to have been passed or made and to pass or make such further or other decree or order as the case may require. 158 I.C. 71=1935 L. 378. R. 33 is no doubt expressed in wide terms and must be applied with caution, so as not to enable a litigant to avoid the provisions of other statutes such as the Limitation Act or the Court-Fees Act. A test of its application is whether the questions which arise between the several sets of parties are so connected that one of them ought not to be allowed to re-open matters so far as he is concerned without opportunity allowed, in the interests of justice, to another to protect himself by urging his objections, even though they may be directed, not against the appellant but against a co-respondent. But there is nothing to restrict the applicability of the rule to cases where the grounds of the judgment below are left undisturbed. 13 P. 200=15 P.L.T. 42=1934 P. 134. See also 34 A. 32; 1929 M.W.N. 112; 24 I.C. 208; 14 N. L.R. 56; 50 M. 614=52 M.L.J. 612=1927 M. 620; 105 I.C. 600=1927 C. 831; 1926 C. 1042=96 I.C. 474; 97 I.C. 346=1927 M. 974; 1928 M.W.N. 74; 1928 A. 77. Construction of rule. See 113 I.C. 32. O. 41, R. 33 contemplates modification of the decree by the appellate Court at the instance of the appellant. It has no scope where the respondents in effect want to maintain the decree of the lower Court or when the decree under appeal is not modified in appeal. It is not open to a respondent, who has not preferred any memorandum of cross-objections or any appeal, to attack a finding which if reversed would totally or in part destroy the decree made in favour of the appellants. 69 C.L.J. 385=1939 Cal. 582. See also 1939 P. 504. The appellate Court can under R. 33 record the compromise and give a decree in terms of it. 15 L.R. 14 (Rev.). There is no doubt that under O. 41, R. 33, appellate Court has been given very wide powers to do complete justice between the parties. Under the rule the appellate Court enjoys a discretionary power to pass such decree as ought to have been passed by the trial Court. This power however can be exercised only in favour of a party to the suit who was not impleaded in the appeal. It is not permissible under this rule to pass any decree against a party who has not been impleaded as a respondent in the appeal. 1940 A. L. J. 161=1940 All. 225. No Court has jurisdiction to pass a decree against any person who is not a party to the proceeding before it, and an appellate Court has no power under O. 41, R. 33 to pass a decree against a person who is not a party on the record. If a plaintiff whose suit has been dismissed chooses to implead in his appeal only one of two co-defendants against whom an alternative claim was made, he has only himself to blame, if the respondent succeeds in the appeal in shifting the liability on to the defendant who has not been impleaded in the appeal. 51 L.W. 615=1940 Mad. 609. Although the wording of O. 41, R. 33 gives wide powers to the appellate Court, those powers should not be exercised in such a way as to interfere with the provisions of other enactments, e.g., the Court-Fees Act. 18 Pat. 768=1940 Pat. 137.

APPLICABILITY.—It is applicable to all cases where an appeal is heard under the Act. 34 A. 32; 40 M. 846; 34 M.L.J. 361. Rule applies to all classes of suits including a suit for partition. 49 C. 379=69 I.C. 981. See also 1930 R. 190; 185 I.C. 638 (applicability of r. 33 to second appeals). The provision of this rule should be cautiously applied and only to cases where but for recourse to it the ends of justice would be defeated. 89 I.C. 24; 56 C.L.J. 285. See also 34 A. 32; 51 A. 63; 1929 C. 28; 116 I.C. 824; 1930 R. 190. And where success of the appeal filed would render it just that relief should be granted against a party who had not appealed, (e.g.) where the suit was against two defendants in the alternative. 29 N.L.R. 173=144 I.C. 226=1933 N. 186. Where in a suit for a declaration that certain proceedings taken against plaintiffs were ultra vires the Court passed an order of mandamus under S. 45, Specific Relief Act, the appellate Court could pass a decree for declaration as originally prayed for if it was of opinion that no order of mandamus could be granted. 10 R. 412=139 I.C. 566=1932 R. 123 (F.B.). Court will not apply, without strong reasons, this rule in favour of party who has appealed or lodged cross-objections and failed. 1925 L. 2. R. 33 ought not to be applied to cases where there has been a distinct and separate decree against defendants who have not chosen to appeal. 150 I.C. 784=1934 P. 524. Where the decree though in form one single decree, really amounts in effect to two distinct decrees against two different persons on two separate causes of action or transactions, the Court of appeal is not justified in interfering with the part not appealed against, although the questions of fact and law involved in both of them are to some extent the same. 16 P. 45=17 P.L.T. 780=1937 P. 40. The provisions of O. 41, R. 33 ought not to be applied to cases where there has been a distinct and separate decree against those parties who have not chosen to appeal. In such a case, if such parties do not choose to come on record, no order should be passed in their favour in that state of the record, although the Court can bring them on the record under O. 41,

NOTES.

R. 20, and after proper steps, may pass such order. 18 Pat. 768=1940 Pat. 137. See also 1935 L. 889. Appeal from part of the decree and by some parties only enables the Court to exercise its power under this rule. 1925 P. 40. Appellate Court can in appeal against a portion of decree set aside whole decree in absence of cross-appeal or objections by respondents due to sufficient reasons. 85 I.C. 312=1925 M. 266; 123 I.C. 381. The powers of an appellate Court under O. 41, R. 33 are sufficiently wide to enable it to grant a relief to a plaintiff against a defendant though as against him the plaintiff has not appealed. 17 Pat. 338=1938 Pat. 275. See also 45 C.W.N. 15. O. 41, R. 33 has been enacted to empower the appellate Court to do complete justice between the parties. The appellate Court has power under the rule to vary the decree of the lower Court although the variation may benefit a party who has not appealed, for example, where such party has not been able to find the money for preferring an appeal and the lower Court's judgment is undoubtedly wrong. 47 L.W. 751=1938 Mad. 322=(1938) 1 M. L.J. 154. Some defendants were ex parte at the trial. The suit against all the defendants having been based on the document held to be not genuine, it would be illogical and unjust to hold that while the suit had been dismissed against defendants 2 to 6 the decree against defendants 1 and 7 should be allowed to stand. 145 I.C. 289=37 L.W. 798=1933 M. 529=65 M.L.J. 15. See also 1938 P.W.N. 523; 1938 Pat. 323=174 I.C. 452; I.L.R. (1938) Lah. 148=1938 Lah. 188; 1938 Pat. 47; 187 I.C. 634; 1940 All. 225. A mortgage-debt belonging to a Mahomedan mother (A) and her minor daughter (B) was assigned by A in favour of C. C sued to recover the debt and obtained a decree. The property was purchased in execution by D; B brought a suit against C and D for the recovery of her share of the mortgage-debt which had been assigned by A by the sale of the hypotheca in the possession of D and in the alternative for payment to her of the amount by C and D. The suit was dismissed in toto; on appeal it was decreed as against D and dismissed as against C. D appealed; B did not appeal or prefer cross-objections against the dismissal of suit as against C. Subsequently B applied to the Court to add C as a co-respondent in the second appeal. Held, that the application ought to be granted, the case being covered by the illustration to O. 40, R. 33. 38 L.W. 539=1933 M. 806=65 M.L.J. 548. The provisions of R. 33 are wide enough to justify an appellate Court while dismissing a cross-objection in ordering that the entry in the record of rights should follow the entry in the khata khewat. 15 L.R. 69 (Rev.)=18 R. D. 56. In a suit for ejectment under S. 44, Agra Tenancy Act, if the Board of Revenue finds in second appeal that the defendant is not a "trespasser" liable to ejectment under the section, R. 33 confers wide powers on the Board of Revenue to pass a decree for ejecting him as a non-occupancy tenant, as if the suit has been brought under Ss. 86 and 92 of the Agra Tenancy Act. 18 R.D. 618=16 L.R. 26 (Rev.). Where in a suit by the tenant under S. 106, B.T. Act, a decree is passed and one of the co-sharer landlords prefers an appeal impleading the others as respondents and during the pendency of the appeal one of the respondents and his representatives are not impleaded in time. Held, that entire suit abates and that O. 41, R. 33 had no application to the facts. 37 C. W.N. 756=58 C.L.J. 29=1933 C. 787. Court cannot act under this rule impleaded a person against whom appeal had abated. 41 L.W. 111=1935 M.W.N. 398=1935 M. 175; 13 L.L.T. 22. Or against whom it has become barred by limitation. 159 I.C. 186=1935 R. 364 (6 R. 29; 1931 C. 738, Rel. on).

POWER OF COURT.—Under O. 41, R. 33 the appellate Court has power to deal with a case in such a manner as to adjust the rights of all the parties concerned. 59 C.L.J. 318. Power under this rule compared with that under R. 4. 160 I.C. 1005=1936 Pesh. 20. The Court may make any order to meet ends of justice. 38 I.C. 721. See also 13 L.L.T. 22; 18 R.D. 618=16 L.R. 26 (Rev.); 37 P.L.R. 85. Even in the absence of a respondent an appellate Court has the power to vary the decree in his favour. 101 I.C. 255=1926 N. 196; 94 I.C. 315=1926 A. 425. This rule gives the Court power to pass a decree in favour of a person who is not a party before it but was a party in the lower Court. 12 O.L.J. 571. See also 8 M.L.T. 377; 8 I.C. 377; 25 I. C. 273; 91 I.C. 583. Appellate Court is entitled to grant relief to a defendant who could have appealed but has not appealed. (1927 A. 37, Foll.; 34 A. 32, Dist.) 117 I.C. 111 (2)=1929 A. 334. See also 131 I.C. 833=1931 M. 513; 116 I.C. 824; 1929 C. 315; 33 C.W.N. 221; 49 C.L.J. 83=115 I.C. 180=1929 C. 28; 51 A. 63; 1929 C. 123=56 C. 598. Where two appeals were filed against the same decree, one by the plaintiff and the other by the second defendant and the plaintiff having died, his legal representatives came on record in his appeal but were not impleaded in the second defendant's appeal which consequently abated, it was still open to the second defendant who was a respondent in the other appeal to ask the appellate Court to exercise its powers under this rule. 130 I.C. 764=1931 M. 277=60 M.L.J. 267. But see 1935 L. 889. The word "parties" means parties to the suit in which the decree under appeal was made; they are still parties to the suit notwithstanding the ex parte decree against them and their consequent inability

But see 1934 L. 684, where a decree was passed for an injunction and some of the defendants alone preferred an appeal, and it was held, that the appellate Court had no jurisdiction to set aside the decree as against the non-appealing defendants. O. 41; R. 33 and Letters Patent (Rangoon); Cl. 13: POWERS OF APPELLATE COURT.—It is an error to assume that when leave is granted, the appeal and the terms of the certificate are to be regarded as a reference only. The jurisdiction of the appellate Court is not limited to the consideration of only the point mentioned in the certificate granting leave to appeal. In view of the wide provisions of R. 33 of O. 41, the appellate Court has the right and duty to pass whatever decree should have been passed by the Subordinate Court in all the circumstances of the case, and that means, in all the circumstances which gave rise to the litigation originally and to all the disputes between all the relevant parties in the matter. Per Blagden, J.—A Letters Patent appeal is an appeal in a 'case' certified to be fit for appeal. The word 'case' is a very wide word and includes an order for costs made or refused in that case, which is obviously ancillary to the substantive order made in that case. Neither the precise form of the certificate nor any failure of the appellant to file a document which he should have filed under O. 41, R. 1 could deprive Decree in appeal.

35. (1) The decree of the Appellate Court shall bear date the day on which the judgment was pronounced.

(2) The decree shall contain the number of the appeal, the names and descriptions of the appellant and respondent, and a clear specification of the relief granted or other adjudication made.

(3) The decree shall also state the amount of costs incurred in the appeal, and by whom, or out of what property, and in what proportions such costs and the costs in the suit are to be paid.

(4) The decree shall be signed and dated by the Judge or Judges who passed it :

Provided that where there are more Judges than one and there is a difference of opinion among them, it shall not be necessary for any Judge dissenting from the judgment of the Court to sign the decree.

Judge dissenting from judgment need not sign decree.

LOC. AMS.—[LAHORE.] For the second proviso of sub-r. (4) of r. 35, O. 41, substitute the following:—

"Provided also in the case of the High Court, that the Registrar, or such other officer as may be in charge of the Judicial Department, from time to time, shall sign the decree on behalf of the Judge or Judges who passed it ; but that such Registrar, or such officer, shall not sign such decree on behalf of a dissenting Judge."

Copies of judgment and decree to be furnished to parties.

36. Certified copies of the judgment and decree in appeal shall be furnished to the parties on application to the Appellate Court and at their expense.

37. A copy of the judgment and of the decree, certified by the Appellate Court or such officer as it appoints in this behalf, shall be sent to the Court which passed the decree appealed from and shall be filed with the original proceedings in the suit, and an entry of the judgment of the Appellate Court shall be made in the register of civil suits.

(3) Rr. 21 and 22 of O. 7 shall apply, so far as may be, to appellate proceedings."

"ORDER XLI-A.

Appeal to the High Court from original decrees of subordinate Courts.

1. The rules contained in O. 41 shall apply to appeals in the High Court of Judicature at Madras with the modifications contained in this order.

2. (1) The memorandum of appeal shall be accompanied by the prescribed fees for service of notice of appeal and receipt of the accountant of the Court for the sum prescribed by the rules of Court.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in r. 22 of O. 41, the period prescribed for entry of appearance by the respondent and filing by him of memorandum of cross-objections, if any, shall, unless otherwise ordered, be thirty days from the service of notice upon him.

3. (1) If the respondent intends to appear and defend the appeal he shall, within the period specified in the notice of appeal, enter an appearance by filing in Court a memorandum of appearance.

(2) If a respondent fails to enter an appearance within the time and in the manner provided by the sub-rule above, he shall not be allowed to translate or print any part of the record :

Provided that a respondent may apply by petition for further time, and the Court may thereupon make such order as it thinks fit. The application shall be supported by evidence to be given on affidavit as to the reason for the applicant's default, and notice thereof shall be given to the appellant and all parties who have entered an appearance. Unless otherwise ordered the applicant shall pay the costs of all parties appearing upon the application.

4. (1) The memorandum of appeal and memorandum of appearance shall state an address for service within the city of Madras at which service of any notice, order or process may be made on the party filing such memorandum.

(2) If a party appears in person, the address for service may be within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred : Provided that if such party subsequently appears by a pleader, he shall state in the vakalat an address for service within the city of Madras, and shall give notice thereof to each party who has appeared.

(3) If a party appears by a pleader, his address for service shall be that of his pleader, and all notices to the party shall be served on his pleader at that address.

5. The Court may direct that service of a notice of appeal or other notice or process shall be made by sending the same in a registered cover prepaid for acknowledgment and addressed to the address for service of the party to be served which has been filed by him in the lower Court : Provided that, after a party has given notice of an address, for service in accordance with r. 4, service of any notice or process shall be made at such address.

6. All notices and process, other than a notice of appeal, shall be sufficiently served if left by a party or his pleader, or by a person employed by the pleader, or by an officer of the Court, between the hours of 11 A.M. and 5 P.M. at the address for service of the party to be served.

7. Notices which may be served by a party or his pleader under r. 6, or which are sent from the office of the Registrar may, unless the Court otherwise directs, be sent by registered post, and the time at which the notice so posted would be delivered in the ordinary course of post shall be considered as the time of service thereof and the posting thereof shall be a sufficient service.

8. If there are several respondents, and all do not appear by the same pleader, they shall give notice of appearance to such of the other respondents as appear separately.

9. A list of all cases in which notice is to be issued to the respondent shall be affixed to the Court notice-board after the case has been registered.

10. (1) If upon a case being called on for hearing by the Court, it appears that the record has not been translated and printed in accordance with the rules of Court, the Court may hear the appeal or dismiss it, or may adjourn the hearing and direct the party in default to pay costs or may make such orders as it thinks fit.

(2) If the Court proceeds to hear the appeal, it may refuse to read or refer to any part of the record which is not included in the printed papers.

11. When costs are awarded, unless the Court otherwise orders, the costs of a party appearing upon any application before the Registrar or the Court shall be Rs. 15 and the costs of appearing when the appeal is in the daily cause-list for final hearing and is adjourned shall be Rs. 30. At the request of any party the Registrar shall cause the order to be drawn up and the said costs to be inserted therein.

Memorandum of Objections.

12. (1) If the acknowledgment mentioned in r. 22 (3) of O. 41 is not filed, the respondent shall together with the memorandum of objections file so many copies thereof as there are parties affected thereby.

(2) The prescribed fees for service shall be presented together with the memorandum to the Registrar.

13. If any party or the pleader of any party to whom a memorandum of objections has been tendered has refused or neglected for three days from the date of tender to give the acknowledgment mentioned in r. 22 (3) of O. 41, the respondent may file an affidavit stating the facts and the Registrar may dispense with the service of the copies mentioned in r. 12 (1).

14. R. 31 of O. 41 shall not apply to the High Court. If judgment is given orally a shorthand note thereof shall be taken by an officer of the Court and transcript made by him shall be signed or initialled by the Judge or Judges concurring therein after making such corrections as may be considered necessary."

ORDER XLI-B.

"Letters Patent Appeals.

1. The rules of O. 41-A shall apply, so far as may be, to appeals to the High Court of Madras under clause 15 of the Letters Patent of the said Court :

Provided that it shall not be necessary to file copies of the judgment and decree appealed from.

2. Notice of the appeal shall be given in manner prescribed by O. 41-A, r. 6, or if the party to be served has appeared in person, in manner prescribed by r. 5 of the said order."

ORDER XLII.

Appeals from Appellate Decrees.

Procedure. 1. The rules of Order XLI shall apply, so far as may be, to appeals from appellate decrees.

LOC. AMS.—[ALLAHABAD.] Revised r. 1 in O. 42 :—

Procedure. "1. The rules of O. 41 shall apply, so far as may be, to appeals from appellate decree, subject to the following provisions :—It should not be necessary for an appellant in a second appeal to produce a copy of the judgment of the Court of first instance or any judgment other than the judgment on which the decree appealed against may be founded, and the record of the case shall be sent for at the expense of the appellant."

[CALCUTTA.] For r. 1 substitute the following :—

"1. The rules of O. 41, shall apply, so far as may be, to appeals from appellate decrees :

Provided that every memorandum of appeal from an appellate decree shall be accompanied by a copy of the decree appealed from and also (unless the Court sees fit to dispense with any or all of them), by copies of the judgment on which the said decree is founded and of the judgment and decree of the Court of first instance."

[MADRAS.] Substitute the following for the existing O. 42 :—

"ORDER XLII.

Appeals from Appellate Decrees.

1. The rules of O. 41 and O. 41-A shall apply, so far as may be, to appeals to the High Court of Judicature at Madras from appellate decree with the modifications contained in this order :

NOTES.

O. 42, R. 1.—See 1939 A.L.J. 592. Where High Court in second appeal transposes parties from category of appellant to that of respondent no question of limitation for presenting the appeal arises. 99 I.C. 687=52 M.L.J. 33=1927 M. 204. Under this rule every second appeal must be accompani-

Provided that in appeals from appellate decrees the memorandum of appeal shall be accompanied by a copy of the decree appealed from, the four printed copies of the judgment on which it is founded, one of them being a certified copy; and also four printed copies of the judgment of the Court of first instance, one of them being a certified copy.

2. (1) The memorandum of appeal shall be printed or typewritten and shall be accompanied by the following papers:—

One certified copy of the decrees of Court of first instance and of the appellate Court; and four printed copies of each of the judgments of the said Courts; one copy of each judgment being a certified copy.

(2) If any ground of appeal is based upon the construction of a document, a printed or typewritten copy of such document shall be presented with the memorandum of appeal: Provided that if such document is not in the English language and the appellant appears by a pleader, an English translation of the document certified by the pleader, to be a correct translation shall be presented.

(3) If the appellant fails to comply with this rule, the appeal may be dismissed."

The fact that, in the exercise of his jurisdiction, Judge commits an error does not give any right of revision of the order. 46 I.C. 99. The word "plaint" in R. 1 (a) does not include a memo. of appeal. 56 I.C. 865. Order returning or rejecting application for leave to sue in forma pauperis on ground of want of jurisdiction does not come under this clause, and is not appealable. 42 L.W. 647=1935 M. 1043. Plaintiff does not lose his right to appeal against order of a Munsif returning the plaint, by electing to file the plaint in the Court to which he is directed. 34 M.L.J. 397=41 M. 721; 53 I.C. 1001=23 C.W.N. 942. An order rejecting a plaint under O. 7, R. 11 is not appealable when such order is based on a question of valuation pure and simple. 49 I.C. 442=4 P.L.J. 57.

O. 43, R. 1 (a) (All.).—Under this clause as amended by the Allahabad High

(b) an order under rule 10 of Order VIII pronouncing judgment against a party ;

(c) an order under rule 9 of Order IX rejecting an application (in a case open to appeal) for an order to set aside the dismissal of a suit ;

(d) an order under rule 13 of Order IX rejecting an application (in a case open to appeal) for an order to set aside a decree passed ex parte ;

(e) an order under rule 4 of Order X pronouncing judgment against a party ;

NOTES.

Court only those orders are appealable where the entire case has been transferred from the appellate to the trial Court and not where only certain issues have been remitted. Hence no appeal lies from an order by which the appellate Court has framed certain issues and referred them for trial to the first Court. 147 I.C. 437=1934 A. 455. R. 1 is applicable only in part to cases under Agra Tenancy Act. 53 A. 516=1931 A.L.J. 854=1931 A. 533.

Clause (b).—See 31 P.L.R. 946; 1930 O. 366. R. 1 (b) merely gives a right of appeal if a judgment has been pronounced against a party. Where no judgment is pronounced there is no right of appeal. 131 I.C. 129=1931 L. 77.

Clause (c): CASES WHERE APPEAL LIES.—Appeal lies from order of dismissal of application under O. 9, R. 9 on ground of previous dismissal under O. 17, R. 3. 4 P.L.T. 46=73 I.C. 373=1923 P. 223. See also 20 C.W.N. 1203; 20 C.W.N. 594=43 C. 857; 168 I.C. 47=1937 O.W.N. 372=1937 Oudh 344. An appeal lies against an order of dismissal of an application for restoration of the application dismissed in default. 19 N.L.R. 119=75 I.C. 589; 168 I.C. 47=1937 O.W.N. 372. See also 1936 A.L.J. 305. But see contra 58 M. 814=1935 M. 609=69 M.L.J. 99, where it was held that no appeal lay under O. 43, R. 1 (c) and that S. 141, did not avail to confer a right of appeal, as it dealt only with procedure, while a right of appeal was substantive right, and that S. 104 conferred a right of appeal only in respect of orders specified in that section or in O. 43, R. 1. A dismissal of suit for default is under O. 9, R. 8 and the dismissal of application for restoration is appealable under O. 43, R. 1 (c). 57 I.C. 245. Although an order rejecting an application under O. 9, R. 9, is open to appeal under O. 43, R. 1 (c), an order allowing such an application is not open to appeal. An order of the latter class should be sparingly interfered with. 152 I.C. 110=11 O.W.N. 1373=1934 O. 491. See also (1940) 2 M.L.J. 374. Where an application for restoration is returned for presentation to proper Court owing to want of jurisdiction the order is one rejecting the application and is appealable. 16 I.C. 34=10 A.L.J. 41. An order setting aside an ex parte decree passed in a resumption suit, although not appealable under R. 1 is however appealable in view of the provisions of the Oudh Rent Act. 3 O.L.J. 229=34 I. C. 702.

CASES WHERE NO APPEAL LIES.—Where Court dismissed an application for execution for want of prosecution and subsequently refused to restore the application, there is no appeal from the order refusing to restore the application. 45 A. 148=21 A.L.J. 135; 100 I.C. 343=45 C.L.J. 60; 31 C. 207. An order of appellate Court setting aside the order of first Court dismissing the suit for default of appearance of parties is not appealable. 11 A.L.J. 615=35 A. 427. See also 139 I.C. 296=1932 N. 101. Application to set aside dismissal for default—No appeal lies. 36 C.L.J. 184=1922 C. 572; 43 I.C. 54=2 P.L.J. 720. See also 139 I.C. 296=1932 N. 101. Nor against an order dismissing for default an application under O. 21, R. 90. 97 I.C. 704=45 C.L.J. 557.

Clause (d).—The words of O. 43, R. 1 (d) are perfectly general. The words "in a case open to appeal" have no reference to the appeal against the decree actually passed. If there could be no appeal against a decree that could be passed in the suit or proceeding under any circumstances, there would be no appeal against an order refusing to set aside an ex parte decree passed in such a suit or proceeding. A case is not open to appeal within the meaning of O. 43, R. 1 (d) when no appeal would lie against a decree under any circumstances. 40 C.W.N. 992=63 C.L.J. 277=1936 C. 485. See also 1941 A.L.J. 516=1941 O.W.N. 1010. An appeal against a decree in a simple rent suit (when the proviso to S. 153, B. T. Act, does not come into play) valued at Rs. 50 or less would be incompetent only under one circumstance, namely, when the Munsif trying the suit has been vested with final jurisdiction, and would lie under all other circumstances. 40 C.W.N. 992. Order granting an application under O. 9, R. 13 is not appealable. 52 I.C. 901=17 A.L.J. 1052; 14 A.L.J. 332=38 A. 297. Nor an order purporting to be made under O. 9, R. 13 dismissing an application for restoration of an application to set aside an ex parte decree. 49 I.C. 745; 48 A. 175=1925 A. 610. - (h) an order under rule 20 of Order XVI pronouncing judgment against a party;
- (i) an order under rule 34 of Order XXI on an objection to the draft of a document or of an endorsement;
- (j) an order under rule 72 or rule 92 of Order XXI setting aside or refusing to set aside a sale;

NOTES.

for default an application to set aside an ex parte decree is appealable. 30 I.C. 798; 30 I.C. 45=21 C.L.J. 628. See also 56 C. 21; 10 Pat.L.T. 589. The words "rejecting an application" signify an immediate rejection and not a conditional or prospective rejection. 6 L.W. 757=43 I.C. 1. No appeal lies against an order refusing to set aside a dismissal of a suit under O. 9, R. 4. 43 I.C. 374=27 C.L.J. 117. Nor against an order rejecting an application under O. 9, R. 9 for revival of an application for reversal of a sale, which had been dismissed for default of appearance of the judgment-debtor. 27 I.C. 492=19 C.W.N. 25. Order dismissing application to set aside ex parte decree because the conditions which were lawfully imposed on the defendants were not complied with—Appeal lies. 1927 B. 1=28 Bom.L.R. 1246=51 B. 67. But see 28 Bom.L.R. 578=50 B. 326=96 I.C. 321.

Clause (f).—An order refusing to strike out a defence is one under O. 11, R. 21 and that it is appealable under O. 43, R. 1 (f). 34 C.W.N. 220=1930 C. 426.

Cl. (j).—Scope of cl. (j).—See 11 Lah.L.J. 546; 7 Pat. 107=1938 Pat. 240. An order confirming the sale amounts to a refusal to set aside the sale and hence is appealable. 141 I.C. 421=34 P.L.R. 233=1933 L. 210. An order refusing leave to a decree-holder to bid under O. 21, R. 72 is not appealable. 38 C. 717=15 C.W.N. 862 (P.C.). An appeal does not lie when no objection has been specifically allowed or dismissed by executing Court. 1929 A. 671. If an order is itself appealable, an appeal will lie from that part of the order which relates to costs. 44 A. 209=20 A.L.J. 11. An appeal lies against an order on an application under O. 21, R. 90 to set aside a sale, which is dismissed for default. 38 I. C. 598=25 C.L.J. 163; 104 I.C. 759=55 C. 616. See also 56 C. 969=33 C.W.N. 392; 7 R. 37=117 I.C. 253=1929 R. 148. But no appeal lies against an order under S. 90 dismissing an application to set aside the dismissal. 7 R. 37. But see 38 I.C. 63. An auction-purchaser can appeal against an order setting aside the sale on the ground of irregularity even if decree-holder has compromised his claim with judgment-debtor. 13 C.L.J. 535=15 C.W.N. 685. As to second appeal, see 3 L.L.J. 463; 1929 L. 778; 1939 Sind 62. There is no second appeal against an order setting aside a sale on the ground of fraud under O. 21, R. 92.

168 P.R. 1919=54 I.C. 941. An order confirming the sale amounts to a refusal to set aside the sale and hence is appealable. 141 I.C. 421=1933 L. 210. An appeal lies against an order passed by an executing Court refusing to receive the amount of decree and costs from a mortgagee under O. 21, R. 89. 12 I.C. 733=178 P.W.R. 1911. If the Court refuses to dispense with cash deposit and to accept landed property as security and then dismisses the application for failure to make the deposit, the latter order is appealable under O. 43, R. (1) (j), though the order refusing to accept security is not appealable. 17 Pat. 107=19 Pat.L.T. 402=1938 Pat. 24. An appeal lies from order in execution of small cause decree transferred to the original side for execution. 10 L.W. 556=53 I.C. 958. An appeal lies from an order refusing to set aside a sale under O. 21, R. 89 whether the purchaser is the decree-holder or stranger. 14 I.C. 326=1912 M.W.N. 756. See also 131 I.C. 533=1933 P. 97; 18 Pat.L.T. 799=1937 Pat. 672. Decree-holder purchaser failing to deposit 25 per cent. of purchase price—Order setting aside sale—Appeal. See 1939 L. 46. So far as applications under Order 21, Rule 90 are concerned, there is no distinction between an order on the application and an order declining to entertain the application. A rejection of the application to have a sale set aside is not any the less a refusal to set aside the sale within the meaning of O. 43, R. 1 (j), although the order may have been passed even before the petition is admitted. An order rejecting the petition on the ground that the petitioner tenders a draft bond offering immovable property as security instead of depositing the sale amount in cash as ordered by the Court is an order refusing to set aside the sale and is therefore appealable. I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 349=1939 Mad. 482=(1939) 2 M.L.J. 132. Joint application by judgment-debtor and decree-holder purchaser for setting aside sale, on payment of certain amount on a particular date, and for confirmation on default—Order on application, if appealable. 17 Pat.L.T. 940 (S.B.). No appeal lies from an order under O. 21, R. 101. Such an order may, however, be the subject of revision. 16 R. D. 160. In an appeal from an order refusing to set aside sale, the auction-purchaser is a necessary party. 35 P.L.R. 658=1934 L. 592 (2). Order setting aside sale under S. 227, Orissa Tenancy Act—Whether appeal lies. 15 P. 375. An order dis-

(k) an order under rule 9 of Order XXII refusing to set aside the abatement or dismissal of a suit;

(l) an order under rule 10 of Order XXIII giving or refusing to give leave;

(m) an order under rule 3 of Order XXIII recording or refusing to record an agreement, compromise or satisfaction;

NOTES.

missing an application to set aside a sale under O. 21, R. 90, being itself an order refusing to set aside the sale, an appeal under O. 43, R. 1 (j) would lie against it and not against the order of confirmation of the sale passed later on. Therefore, limitation for the appeal would run from the date of the order dismissing the application and not from the date confirming the sale. 43 C.W.N. 352.

Cl. (k).—"Suit" does not include "appeal". 33 C.W.N. 881=49 C.L.J. 538=1929 C. 532; 121 I.C. 564; 20 Pat.L.T. 715=1939 Pat. 623. The word "suit" in O. 43, R. 1 (k) includes an appeal and an appeal therefore lies against an order refusing to set aside the abatement of an appeal. 52 L.W. 476=1941 Mad. 51=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 562. There is no provision in O. 43 laying down that the word 'suit' in Cl. (k) of R. 1 of that order should be taken to include an appeal. Hence an order refusing to set aside the abatement of an appeal under Cl. (d) of R. 1 of O. 43 is not appealable. 1941 A.L.J. 516=1941 O.W.N. 1010 (2). See also 1941 Mad. 51=(1940) 2 M.L.J. 562. An order refusing to set aside an abatement of an appeal is appealable under O. 43, R. 1 (k); the word "suit," in the rule also covers an appeal. O. 43, R. 1 (k) has to be read with reference to O. 22, R. 11, which applies to R. 9 of O. 22. 17 Pat. 84=18 Pat.L.T. 1014=1938 Pat. 125. O. 22, R. 10 does not apply to an application to add a certain person as party. Consequently an order on such an application is not appealable, though the application purports to be made under that rule. 42 C.W.N. 1183. An order declaring that the suit had abated because the legal representative of the deceased defendant had not been brought on the record in time is a decree and appealable as such though no formal decree dismissing the suit had been drawn up. 10 P. 471=133 I.C. 767=1931 P. 353. An application to bring on the record the legal representatives of a deceased party after the expiry of the time fixed for this purpose must be deemed to be an application to set aside the abatement and an order refusing to set aside an abatement is appealable. 147 I.C. 699 (1)=1934 L. 315. When no application to bring the representatives of a deceased plaintiff is made within time the suit abates; and an application for substitution made afterwards ought necessarily to be considered on an application under O. 22, R. 9 (2), to set aside the abatement. 74 I.C. 17=1924 L. 424. Appeal lies from a finding that a suit has abated; but such an appeal is one against the decree in the suit.

26 S.L.R. 81. Though no second appeal lies from an order of abatement, it may be questioned in second appeal if it "affects the decision of the case". 1933 A. 294=144 I.C. 133=1933 A.L.J. 561. No appeal lies if there has been no application to set aside an abatement. An order of abatement cannot be interfered with in revision if a person fails to set it aside. 95 P.R. 1911=13 I.C. 963. No appeal lies from an order adding legal representative. 39 M. 488=28 M.L.J. 491. An order under O. 22, R. 3 is not open to appeal. 73 I.C. 230=1924 O. 114; 44 I.C. 145. Refusal to set aside abatement of appeal—Appealable. 1925 P. 162=85 I.C. 1010.

Cl. (l).—An application by a mortgagee to be added as a party to a partition suit is an application under O. 22, R. 10 and an order granting or refusing it is appealable. 134 I.C. 307=35 C.W.N. 296=1931 C. 594. (49 I.A. 220, Expl.) Court of Wards assuming superintendence of plaintiff's estate during pendency of suit—Order granting leave to Deputy Commissioner to continue suit—Right of plaintiffs to appeal. 156 I.C. 990=1935 O. 486. Insolvency of plaintiff—Receiver neglecting to continue suit—Application by assignee from receiver for leave to continue suit—Rejection—Appeal. 157 I.C. 900. Whether second appeal lies from order of appellate Court under this clause. See 156 I.C. 152=1935 M. 423. See also 43 Bom.L.R. 719. Death of defendant after passing of preliminary decree—Plaintiff and others applying for being appointed as legal representative—Plaintiff appointed as legal representative—Application of other persons dismissed as time-barred—Appeal by such persons—If competent. 1937 Lah. 615.

Cl. (m).—Order recording compromise—Appeal, if barred by S. 96 (3). 1936 S. 59. This clause does not contain any restrictive words; and hence an appeal would not be incompetent even when there has been no dispute as to the factum of compromise. 43 L.W. 386=1936 M. 347=70 M.L.J. 471. The remedy of a party dissatisfied with the order of a Court refusing to record a petition of compromise is to appeal from the order so refusing, not from the judgment given by Court on the merits. 42 I.C. 192; 104 I.C. 561. Order refusing to record compromise on the ground of its invalidity is appealable. 103 I.C. 80=1927 L. 546 (2). Also when refused on ground that no compromise has been made. 1936 A.L.J. 336=1936 A. 433; 189 I.C. 232=1940 Pat. 629. Where there has been a compromise in which a minor is concerned, if the Court refuses its consent to such a compromise, it should be appealed against at once without waiting for final orders, as by that time the remedy under O. 43, R. 1 (m) would become time-barred. 1938 A.W.R. (B.R.) 288=1938 R.D. 477. An appeal from an order under O. 23, R. 3 is competent even though before the appeal is presented a decree has been passed in terms of the compromise. 36 C. W.N. 1013. See also 1941 Rang. 316. It is not necessary for the aggrieved party to appeal both from the decree and the order. 36 C.W.N. 1013 (29 C.W.N. 928, Cons.) ; 40 P.L.R. 664=1938 Lah. 766 ; 141 I.C. 732 ; 40 P.L.R. 138=1938 Lah. 350. A consent decree passed without order for recording a compromise is liable to be set aside on appeal notwithstanding the bar under S. 96 (3). 33 I.C. 769=43 C. 85. Order holding no compromise has been proved is not appealable. 73 I.C. 177=1924 L. 248. An order allowing the plaintiffs to withdraw their suit as against certain of the defendants is not appealable. 1930 A. 863=128 I.C. 827. See also 137 I.C. 804=33 P.L.R. 391. The right of appeal under this rule against an order recording a compromise under O. 23, R. 3, is not lost because the decree involved in the order is not appealed against. It would be more correct to appeal against the decree, but if the order is set aside on appeal, the decree must go with it. 61 C. 910=59 C.L.J. 421=1934 C. 846 ; 43 L.W. 722=1936 M. 385=70 M.L.J. 400. Appeal lies even though at the time when the compromise was recorded there was no contest before the Court, and though the order recording the compromise has ripened into a decree and no appeal has been preferred against the decree itself. 70 M.L.J. 400. No separate order recording compromise—Appeal from decree—Plea of no compromise—No finding given by appellate Court—Revision. 1936 L. 963.

RIGHT OF SUIT.—Where a pleader enters into a compromise on behalf of his client without authority, and the client is not present when the compromise is drawn up and filed, the client cannot be regarded as a party to the compromise, and a decree passed on the basis of that compromise is wholly incompetent. A separate suit to set aside the compromise and decree will lie, and R. 1 (m) is no bar to the suit. 150 I.C. 838=11 O.W.N. 1030=1934 O. 417.

Cl. (o).—Where the Judge on the original side directed that the Registrar might be at liberty to sell the mortgaged properties without reserve, held, that the order was not appealable. 60 C. 506=145 I.C. 318=1933 C. 534.

Cl. (q).—When an application for attachment before judgment is dismissed by Court of first instance after hearing defendants, no appeal lies against that order. 33 I.C. 689=23 C.L.J. 392. Nor against an order rejecting an application for attachment under O. 38, R. 6, when there has been no conditional order of attachment under R. 5 (3) of O. 38. 14 P. 1=16 Pat.L.T. 291=1935 P. 219. Where in response to a notice issued to the defendant under O. 38, R. 5, defendant appears in Court, and shows cause why no order for furnishing security for costs should be passed against him and why no order should be passed directing the attachment of this property, the order of the Court accepting the contention of defendant is an order which falls under O. 38, R. 6 (2) and from such an order an appeal lies. 140 I.C. 95=1932 A.L.J. 228=1932 A. 269. See also I.L.R. (1941) Kar. 362=1941 Sind 178. Application for attachment before judgment—Court ordering application closed on respondent undertaking not to alienate properties—Order is oe under O. 38, R. 6—Appealability from the order. 1928 M.W.N. 125. An order under R. 5 of O. 38 is not appealable while an order under R. 6 is appealable. Where the Court passed an unconditional order of attachment before judgment purporting to act under R. 5 of O. 38, the order is appealable. 107 I.C. 276 (L.).

Cls. (q) and (r).—Both injunction and attachment are intended to give prompt relief from immediate or impending danger of injury which will be irreparable ; and Court ought not to admit appeals from orders refusing injunction or attachment, except in cases of serious misdirection in law or fact, when special directions might be given for expedition. Such orders are discretionary and appellate Court ought not to interfere with the exercise of a Judge's discretion unless satisfied that it was not judicially exercised, i.e., that the Judge acted on wrong principles. The mere fact that appellate Court might take a different view is not a sufficient ground for interference. If lower Court rightly appreciate the facts, and applies to those facts the true principles, that is a sound exercise of judicial discretion. 61 C. 814=38 C.W.N. 771=1934 C. 694.

- (r) an order under rule 1, rule 2, rule 4 or rule 10 of Order XXXIX ;
- (s) an order under rule 1 or rule 4 of Order XL ;
- (t) an order of refusal under rule 19 of Order XLI to re-admit, or under rule 21 of Order XLI to re-hear, an appeal ;

NOTES.

Cl. (r).—An appeal lies from an order granting as well as from an order refusing to grant an injunction under O. 39, R. 1. 11 A.L.J. 613=35 A. 425. See also 1937 Rang. 150. Also from an order refusing to discharge an injunction issued under O. 39, R. 2. 1933 L. 203=34 P.L.R. 975=14 L. 330. An order for the issue of an injunction subject to a condition is appealable, but there is only one appeal against it. 66 I.C. 509=1922 A. 441. An order of Court refusing to attach property for disobedience of an interim injunction is open to appeal. (27 I.C. 131, F.); 66 I.C. 9=1922 L. 347. The appellate Court has jurisdiction to pass an order of imprisonment in appeal. 27 I.C. 131. Disobedience of an injunction order is an act independent of the suit and calls for a separate punishment. 27 I.C. 131. Breach of undertaking not to alienate property pending suit—Contempt of Court—Order refusing to commit for such contempt is appealable. 33 Bom.L.R. 1109=134 I.C. 1165=1931 B. 509. An appeal lies from the refusal of a Judge of the original side of the High Court to grant an interim injunction, but what the Court of appeal has to consider is simply whether or not the Judge who dealt with the matter properly exercised the discretion which he undoubtedly possessed. 152 I.C. 563=1934 C. 713.

LETTERS PATENT.—The Code does not control the provisions of the Letters Patent. The judgment of a single Judge of the High Court in an appeal under O. 43, R. 1 (s) is appealable under Cl. 15 of the Letters Patent. (22 M. 68 and 13 M.L.J. 497, Foll.) 56 M. 915=1933 M. 770=65 M. L.J. 222 (F.B.).

Cd. (t).—An appeal does not lie against order refusing to restore application to set aside an appellate decree dismissed for default. and also includes the execution proceedings and an application to re-hear an appeal heard ex parte is an application in the suit. 19 C. L.J. 310=19 C.W.N. 359. An order of lower appellate Court rejecting an application for review of an appeal dismissed for default and a memo. of cross-objections allowed ex parte, is not appealable. 53 I.C. 333. An order rejecting an appeal for failure to furnish security for costs is not appealable. 9 I.C. 748=14 O.C. 40. On this sub-clause, see also 1929 P. 609=10 P. L.T. 589; 120 I.C. 791=1930 L. 112; 1936 R. 109.

Cl. (u): GENERAL.—When an appeal is remanded without any provision of law being stated, the presumption is that the order is made under O. 41, R. 23. 20 A.L.J. 321=44 A. 492; 87 I.C. 575=1925 C. 1157. The power of remand should be exercised with very great caution. 3 P.L.J. 253=43 I.C. 959; 12 L.W. 667=39 M.L.J. 536. On this point, see also 60 M.L.J. 713. An appeal under R. 1 is one from the order granting an application for review and not one from the final decree in the suit. 60 I.C. 259.

CASES WHERE APPEAL LIES.—An appeal to the Chief Court against the order of remand is competent under R. 1 (u) if it involves point of law. 8 P.R. 1915=28 I.C. 441. See also 1935 P. 49. An appeal lies from an order of remand in a case where if the appellate Court, which passed that order, had passed instead a decree reversing that of the lower Court, an appeal would lie from such decree. 23 I.C. 817=85 P.R. 1914; 3 L. 218=1922 L. 178 (F.B.); 2 L.L.J. 587. Where a question affecting the final result of the case has been decided against a party and the suit is remanded, the order of remand is appealable. 20 I.C. 788=279 P.L.R. 1913. See also 1930 N. 295; 1930 M.W.N. 1021; 1934 L. 907; 38 C.W.N. 1202; 4 A.W.R. 1120; 145 I.C. 183=37 C.W.N. 190=1933 C. 496; 10 O.W.N. 664=1933 O. 350; 14 L.R. 501 (Rev.)=17 R. D. 605. An order of remand passed initially under O. 41, R. 23 but by a clerical mistake purporting to be under O. 41, R. 25 is appealable. 9 I.C. 431. An order of an appellate Court setting aside an order rejecting a plaint is not appealable. 131 I.C. 750=1931 L. 497. See also 152 I. C. 241=1931 Pesh. 88. When an order dismissing an application to set aside an ex parte decree is set aside and Court of first instance is directed to proceed with the suit, the order is not an order of 'remand' within the meaning of R. 1 (u) and the order of the appellate Court is not appealable. 53 A. 519.

CASES WHERE NO APPEAL LIES.—No appeal lies against an order passed by an appellate Court remanding a case otherwise than under O. 41, R. 23. 31 C.L.J. 357=23 C.W.N. 1049. See also 59 I.C. 909; 6 P. 381; I.L. R. (1940) Nag. 538=1940 N. L. J. 350=1940 Nag. 349; 14 Luck. 447=1939 O.W.N.

There is no appeal for an order of remand under the inherent powers of an appellate Court, and not falling under O. 41, R. 23 and under O. 43, R. 1 (a). 69 I.C. 826=16 L.W. 515; 97 I.C. 105=1926 P. 457. See also 1935 P. 49. An order under O. 41, R. 27 is not an order of remand and therefore not appealable. The mere use of the word 'remand' does not give the order the character that it does not possess. 171 I.C. 258=1937 Sind 233. Where a party has himself asked for a remand and obtained an order of remand, he cannot appeal merely because the ground covered by the order of remand is not so wide as that which he himself desired. 116 I.C. 55=1929 O. 398. Remand for fresh trial with the addition of a necessary party—No appeal lies against the order. 3 R. 490. O. 41, R. 23 does not contemplate a case decided upon the whole evidence and upon all the issues which were raised. 55 I.C. 484=1 Pat.L.T. 500. An appeal does not lie against the order of appellate Court setting aside an order of Court of first instance rejecting a plaint under O. 7, R. 11, and directing the trial Court to proceed with the trial of the suit. Such order is not an order under O. 41, R. 23 and is not appealable under O. 43, R. 1 (u). 39 P.L.R. 720=1937 Lah. 380. See also 1941 N.L.J. 410. Where the appellate Court decides the main point in a case and remands the case for disposal of remaining issues, the order is not appealable. 60 I.C. 609. A general order of remand by the lower appellate Court on the ground of mishandling of the trial in the First Court is not appealable. 63 I.C. 858; 1927 M. 385. An appellate Court has inherent power under S. 151 to remand a case for retrial. No appeal lies against such an order. 3 P.L.J. 253=43 I.C. 959; 39 M.L.J. 536=12 L.W. 667; 1939 Oudh 102. See also 44 A. 176=19 A.L.J. 971; 25 L.W. 198=52 M.L.J. 90. An order of remand made on an appeal from an order setting aside or refusing to set aside an execution sale is final under S. 104 and no appeal lies therefrom. 50 I.C. 610=29 P.L.R. 1919. See (n) an order made by any Court other than a High Court refusing the grant of a certificate under rule 6 of Order XLV;

(w) an order under rule 4 of Order XLVII granting an application for review.

NOTES.

also 182 I.C. 896=1939 Lah. 65. Findings of fact cannot be disturbed in an appeal against an order remanding a case under O. 41, R. 23. 48 I.C. 379=109 P.R. 1918.

PARTIAL AND TOTAL REMAND—NO DISTINCTION BETWEEN.—No distinction seems to be recognized in R. 1 (u), between a partial and a total remand of the case. Hence an appeal is competent from an order remanding a case even though the whole of the remand order is not challenged but only certain findings which have gone against the appellant. 146 I.C. 939=1933 L. 615.

SECOND APPEAL.—Where there is no second appeal from the decree of the appellate Court, there is also no second appeal from the order of remand. 19 A.L.J. 72=43 A. 403. There is no second appeal in a suit of a small cause nature of the value below Rs. 500 and an order of remand in such a suit is not open to appeal. 18 A.L.J. 167=42 A. 200; 21 I.C. 638=11 A.L.J. 599.

REVIEW.—See 1935 C. 153.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—On an appeal from an order of remand, High Court is bound by the finding of fact of the lower appellate Court. 65 I.C. 376=8 O.L.J. 624; 2 L. 25=59 I.C. 715.

COURT-FEE.—Where an appeal is directed against the order of remand it should be filed as a miscellaneous appeal under R. 1 (u), and a Court-fee of Rs. 2 is payable as on a Civil Miscellaneous Appeal. 144 I.C. 967=10 O.W.N. 143=1933 O. 191. An appeal against the order of remand by the lower appellate Court not made under O. 41, R. 23 is a second appeal and ad valorem Court-fee should be paid thereon. 50 I.C. 367.

Clause (v).—S. 75 of the Provincial Insolvency Act does not govern or regulate appeals to the Privy Council. Where a District Judge grants a certificate of leave to appeal to the Privy Council against his decision in an appeal from a Subordinate Judge under S. 75, Provincial Insolvency Act, no appeal lies to the High Court against the grant of the certificate. O. 43, R. 1 (v) only provides for an appeal against an order under O. 45, R. 6, but no appeal is provided for against an order under O. 45, R. 3. 46 L.W. 416=1937 Mad. 930.

Clause (w).—Cl. (w) has to be read along with O. 47, R. 7. 8 L. 617=1927 L. 435 (2); 146 I.C. 530=37 C.W.N. 705=1933 C. 727; 131 I.C. 518=1931 A. 329; 1937 Nag. 385; 1937 O.W.N. 978=1937 Oudh 513; 8 O.W.N. 1267; 140 I.C. 409=1932 N. 177 (see also Notes under O. 47, R. 7, infra); 35 Bom.L.R. 280=1933 B. 183. Appeal lies from order granting review. 41 I.C. 886=15 A.L.J. 505; 66 I.C. 909=25 C.W.N. 884; 52 I.C. 29=30 C.L.J. 250; 47 I.C. 850; 112 I.C. 518; 117 I.C. 849; 116 I.C. 221=1929 L. 26. See also 9 I.C. 238=250 P.W.R. 1911; 94 I.C. 591=1926 B. 121. [N.B.—As to law in Bombay, see 31 Bom.L.R. 137.] A right of appeal against an order granting a review is restricted in its scope by O. 47, R. 7. 45 C. 60=21 C.W.N. 1076; 25 I.C. 903=41 C. 746; 22 I.C. 773; 49 I.C. 57; 31 M.L.J. 827=38 I.C. 373; 37 I.C. 229=21 M.L.T. 297; 24 M.L.J. 93=18 I.C. 549; 42 A. 626=18 A.L.J. 838; 47 A. 881. See also 148 I.C. 1126=1934 L. 617; 1940 Pat. 7. Although an appeal lies against an order granting a review application that appeal can only be entertained on one of the grounds set forth in R. 7, O. 47. 7 R. 187=118 I.C. 120=1929 R. 105. See also 179 I.C. 946=1939 Rang. 59; 18 Pat. 777=1939 P.W.N. 719; 25 N.L.R. 104=116 I.C. 645=1929 N. 73; 122 I.C. 184=1930 A. 126. An appeal against an order granting review lies only in the cases mentioned in O. 47, R. 7. O. 47 contains rules specifically framed to govern procedure in regard to applications for review, and it modifies the provisions of O. 43. (1926 B. 121, Ref.; 1926 A. 492 and 1920 A. 112, Rel. on.) 146 I.C. 231=1933 A. 778. If the net result of an order granting review is the determination of a question relating to the execution of a decree, the order itself is a "decree" within the meaning of S. 2 (2). Therefore an appeal lies from it as from a decree and consequently it can be attacked upon any ground which the appellant chooses to take, and not merely on the limited grounds mentioned in O. 47, R. 7. 69 C.L.J. 573=43 C.W.N. 913=1939 Cal. 628. An appeal against a decree passed on an application for review of judgment is appealable on the ground that the Court which admitted the application for review had no jurisdiction to do so. 11 I.C. 343=14 O. C. 108. See also 11 O.W.N. 1287=1934 O. 445. There can be no appeal against an order granting a review merely for sufficient grounds. 35 I.C. 15=1 P.L.J. 193. Where trial Court granted review and decreed party's claim and appellate Court, finding that there was not "other sufficient reason" (O. 47, R. 1), for admitting the application for review, dismissed the plaintiff's suit. Held, that the order was clearly wrong for the "other sufficient reason" could not be questioned in appeal under O. 47, Rr. 4 and 7. (1929 R. 105 and 27 A. 695); 1935 R. 501. There is no second appeal against an order granting a review. 64 I.C. 568=1922 B. 292. Application for final decree in mortgage suit—Dismissal for default—Subsequent application after limi-

LOC. AMS.—[ALLAHABAD AND OUDH.] For the present r. 1 (u), substitute the following :—

[BOMBAY.] R. 1 (w) of O. XLIII shall be deleted.

[CALCUTTA.] Insert the following after clause (i) of r. 1, O. XLIII :—

“(ii) an order under r. 57 of O. XXI, directing that an attachment shall cease or directing or omitting to direct that an attachment shall continue.”

[MADRAS.] Substitute the following for r. 1 (d) of O. XLIII of the Code of Civil Procedure :—

“(d) an order under r. 13 or r. 15 of O. IX rejecting an application (in a case open to appeal) for an order to set aside a decree or order passed ex parte.”

(Fort St. George Gazette, Part II, p. 313, dated 14th March, 1933.)

Substitute the following for sub-r. (s) of r. 1, O. XLIII :—

“(s) An order under r. 1 of O. XL, except an order under the proviso to sub-r. (2) of r. 4.”

Add the following to r. 1 as cl. (ii) after cl. (i) :—

“(ii) an order in garnishee proceedings other than an order referred to in r. 63-H (1) of O. XXI.”

[RANGOON.] Add the following clause after cl. (i), r. (1) :—

“(ii) a garnishee order under r. 63-C or r. 63-E, and an order as to costs in garnishee proceedings under r. 63-G of O. XXI.”

[SIND.] In r. 1 (u) for the words “an order under r. 23 of O. XLI” read “any order.”

Procedure.

2. The rules of Order XLI shall apply, so far as may be, to appeals from orders.

LOC. AMS.—[MADRAS.] (1) In O. 43, substitute the following for r. 2 :—

“2. The Rules of O. 41, and of O. 41-A shall apply, so far as may be, to appeals from the orders specified in r. 1 and other orders of any Civil Court from which an appeal to the High Court is allowed under any provision of law :

Provided that in the case of appeals against interlocutory orders made prior to decree, the Court which passed the order appealed from shall not send the records of the case unless an order has been made for stay of further proceedings in that Court.”

(2) Add the following as r. 3 of O. 43 :—

“3. (1) The provisions of O. 42 shall apply, so far as may be, to appeals from appellate orders.

(2) A memorandum of appeal from an appellate Court order shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the judgment and of the order of the Court of first instance, and by a certified copy of the judgment and of the order of the appellate Court.

(3) If any ground of appeal is based upon the construction of a document, a printed or type-written copy of such document shall be presented with the memorandum of appeal :

Provided that, if such document is not in the English language and the appellant appears by a pleader, an English translation of the document certified by the pleader to be a correct translation shall be presented.”

[OUDH.] Add the following as r. 3 of O. 43 :—

“3. In every appeal under r. 1, in every miscellaneous case, and in every suit dismissed for default, a formal order shall be drawn up stating clearly the determination of the appeal, or case, the costs incurred, and the parties, if any, by whom such costs are to be paid.”

NOTES.

tation—Order reviving prior application—Appealability. 18 N.L.J. 72. No appeal lies to the District Court against the order of a Revenue Court granting a review in a summary suit. 26 I.C. 831=2 L.W. 62. Where an order of the Assistant Collector reviewing an order passed by him under S. 111 (1) (c) of the U. P. Land Revenue Act is appealed against, the appeal must fail if it is not based on any of the grounds mentioned in O. 47, R. 7 (1), C. P. Code. 1936 O.W.N. 836=1936 O. 409. Effect of deletion of clause in Bombay High Court Rules. 29 Bom.L.R. 1355; 31 Bom.L.R. 131.

COURT-FEE.—Where once a Judge has granted the application for review, on whatever grounds he has granted it, the appeal against it can only be made under the conditions laid down in O. 47, R. 7 and as the question of the application for review being insufficiently stamped is not one of the grounds mentioned in O. 47, R. 7 as being a proper ground for an objection, the appellate Court cannot go into the question of whether the Court-fee paid was sufficient or not. 35 Bom.L.R. 280=1933 B. 183=148 I.C. 728.

MISCELLANEOUS.—An order dismissing an application under S. 34, Trusts Act, is not appealable. There is no provision in the Trust Act for an appeal. Nor is the order a “decree” under S. 2 (2), or an order appealable under O. 43, R. 1. 11 O.W.N. 1533.

O. 43, R. 2.—Second appeal—Order on preliminary issues not filed along with main judgment—No valid presentation. 105 I.C. 593 (1)=28 Punj.L.R. 537. On this rule, see also 1930 S. 252; 41 L.W. 192.

ORDER XLIV.

Pauper Appeals.

1. Any person entitled to prefer an appeal, who is unable to pay the fee required for the memorandum of appeal, may present an application accompanied by a memorandum of appeal, and may be allowed to appeal as a pauper, subject, in all matters, including the presentation of such application, to the provisions relating to suits by paupers, in so far as those provisions are applicable :

NOTES.

O. 44, R. 1.—A person can file a petition to appeal in forma pauperis only against a decree as a whole, and not against any order which is not a decree and which does not dispose of a case finally. 163 I.C. 366=38 P.L.R. 1119=1936 L. 406. Under R. 1 it is unnecessary for appellate Court to arrive at a definite and final conclusion that the decree complained against is contrary to law or is otherwise erroneous or unjust, before granting leave to appeal in forma pauperis; it is enough if Court finds that the appeal raises a substantial question of law and that the appellant has a prima facie good case. 53 M. 245=31 L.W. 76=58 M.L.J. 195. But see 56 M. 323 contra cited infra. The order is mandatory and only contemplates a perusal of the application, the judgment and the decree and nothing else; and unless in the opinion of Court the decree is contrary to law or otherwise erroneous or unjust, Court is bound to dismiss the application. R. 1 does not say that if the appeal raises a substantial question of law or the appellant has prima facie a good case the application should be allowed. 56 M. 323=64 M.L.J. 433=1933 M. 519. (53 M. 245, Diss. from.) There is a difference between an application for leave to sue as a pauper and an application for leave to appeal as a pauper. In the former case, apart from the question of pauperism, the only test applied is whether there is a cause of action shown; but when the appellate stage is reached, a more severe test has to be applied. 56 M. 323=64 M.L.J. 433. When leave to appeal in forma pauperis is granted, the reasons of the Court for granting such leave should be briefly stated. 56 M. 323. Ordinarily where an appellant has been allowed to appeal as a pauper there should be reasons other than poverty justifying an order being made upon him to furnish security and the fact that leave has been granted to him to appeal in forma pauperis should of itself be sufficient to show that the judgment appealed against upon a perusal of it appears to be contrary to law or otherwise erroneous or unjust. On the question of security where leave to appeal has been granted, it is permissible for Court to peruse the judgment appealed against and to see whether there are circumstances which would justify an order for security for costs. And the chance of the appellant's success is such a circumstance. 56 M. 323=64 M.L.J. 433. Upon hearing of the rule under R. 1 after notice to the opposite party and the Government pleader, the question of whether the judgment is contrary to law or not can be considered by Court. Notwithstanding the fact that Court while dealing with the application ex parte did not think that any one of the grounds mentioned in the rule existed for rejecting the application, that does not debar Court from reopening the question when the other side appears after notice, and the opposite party is entitled to show that the judgment and decree appealed from are not contrary to law or to some usage having the force of law. The enquiry by Court is not confined to pauperism of the applicant. 10 P. 606=132 I.C. 361=1931 P. 183. See also 54 A. 394; 140 I.C. 439=1932 L. 654; 1933 L. 256=141 I.C. 649=34 P.L.R. 516; 133 I.C. 125. When once notice has been issued Court may enquire into the question of pauperism of applicant but it cannot fall back on the proviso to R. 1 which relates only to summary rejection upon a perusal of the judgment and decree appealed from. 54 A. 394. It is open to an appellate Court even after an application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis has been admitted and it has ordered notice to be served on the other party to consider whether the decree is contrary to law or some usage having the force of law or is otherwise erroneous or unjust. 140 I.C. 439=1932 L. 645. When notice has been ordered to the respondent and the Government on an application under R. 1, the respondent is expected to appear and show cause against whole application. It is open to Court to consider the question whether the decree appealed from is contrary to law or to some usage having the force of law or is otherwise erroneous or unjust, and Court is not precluded from determining such question merely because notices to the respondent and the Government Advocate have been issued previously. 1934 A.L.J. 961=1934 A. 1004 (F.B.). See also 98 I.C. 624; I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 463=1937 Nag. 150. Court need not issue notice to the respondent before granting leave. The practice of the Madras High Court has been not to issue such notice. 55 M. 982=1932 M. 523=63 M.L.J. 28. There is no reason why every ground should be discussed in an order rejecting an application to file appeal in forma pauperis. 1935 Pesh. 22. Persons who do not pay the costs of their appeal are entitled to be heard only if the Judge after reading the judgment and decree is of opinion that on the face of it the judgment is wrong. Where Judge after reading

Provided that the Court shall reject the application unless, upon a perusal thereof and of the judgment and decree appealed from, it sees reason to think that the decree is contrary to law or to some usage having the force of law, or is otherwise erroneous or unjust.

Procedure on application for admission of appeal.

the judgment refuses the application to file an appeal in forma pauperis the mere fact that his order was brief does not constitute any material irregularity. 1932 A.L.J. 860=1932 A. 712. Court must reject an application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis where the appellant has entered into any agreement with reference to the subject-matter of the appeal under which any other person has obtained an interest in such subject-matter, even though such agreement was entered into after the commencement of the suit. 122 I.C. 831. Order refusing leave to appeal in forma pauperis can be revised. 120 I.C. 413=1920 N. 53 (1924 N. 44, Rel. on). But High Court has no power to interfere on the merits of the order refusing leave to appeal in forma pauperis. 120 I.C. 413=1930 N. 53. Order 44, R. 1 does not require reasons for rejecting leave to appeal in forma pauperis to be stated and the absence of them does not vitiate the trial. 120 I.C. 413=1930 N. 53. Held, that having regard to the fact that the appellant was a pardanashin lady and was living with her parents in a different province there was sufficient cause for not filing her appeal by presenting it in person within the period allowed by law and that the representation of the papers by the appellant in person after the expiry of the period was sufficient. 11 L.L.J. 226. "Authorised agent", meaning of—Pardanashin lady—Husband presenting appeal on behalf of—Validity. 10 Pat.L.T. 46=114 I.C. 210=1929 P. 27. Under R. 1, a respondent is not precluded from attacking an ex parte order granting leave to appeal in forma pauperis and showing that the case does not fulfil the requirements of the law as enacted by the rule. It is competent for the Court to consider the question whether the condition laid down by R. 1 has been satisfied. 114 I.C. 325=1929 L. 514. Leave to appeal in forma pauperis—Refund of—Applicant if entitled to prosecute appeal for payment of Court-fee. 40 A. 381=16 A.L.J. 309. Appeal in forma pauperis—Limitation Act, Art. 170. See 29 I.C. 1003=13 A.L.J. 635. High Court cannot grant leave to prosecute an appeal to Privy Council in forma pauperis. The petitioner must apply in England. 18 I.C. 129=17 C.L.J. 381; 42 M. 32=35 M. L.J. 258. See also 44 I.C. 731=3 Pat. L.J. 179; 161 I.C. 192=1936 Pesh. 36. Leave to appeal in forma pauperis—Dismissal of application does not involve dismissal of appeal. 3 L. 35=65 I.C. 741. But where application for leave and memorandum of appeal are not accompanied by copies of decree and judgment, the rejection of the application puts an end to the whole proceeding. 157 I.C. 347=1935 A.L.J. 681=1935 A. 620 (2) (F.B.). An applicant applying for permission to appeal as a pauper is not entitled as of right to be heard either in person or by pleader before Court exercises its power to allow or reject the application. 28 I.C. 957. Application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis—Notice ordered—Effect. 1924 P. 791=8 Pat.L.T. 119. There is no provision in the C.P. Code relating to the filing of cross-objections in forma pauperis, but when a respondent files cross-objections, he is in fact filing a cross-appeal, and the same principle as in O. 44, R. 1 must be applied. The conditions prescribed by that rule must be satisfied before leave, to file an appeal or cross-objections in forma pauperis can be granted. 54 L.W. 171=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 187.

PROVISO.—The proviso to R. 1 is mandatory and appellate Court has no option except to reject the application, unless it is satisfied that the decree sought to be appealed against is contrary to law or otherwise erroneous or unjust. 114 I.C. 80=1929 L. 539. There must be some material, either upon the application or upon the judgment and decree from which Court could reasonably form the opinion that the case falls within the proviso. 9 R. 92=132 I.C. 707=1931 R. 131. All that an appellate Court is required to do under O. 44, R. 1 Proviso is that it should peruse the application for leave to appeal as a pauper and the judgment and decree appealed from. It cannot be held that an appellate Court must hear arguments in support of an application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis, for to hold so would be to add something to the law on the subject and not to interpret it. 1938 O.W. N. 1246. Any order which has been passed behind the back of the party should not operate to the prejudice of that party. Where therefore the order issuing notices is passed in the absence of the respondents they cannot be precluded, as a result of the order, from arguing before Court that the decree sought to be appealed against was not contrary to law or to some usage having the force of law nor was otherwise erroneous or unjust. 15 L. 132=152 I.C. 171=1934 L. 72; 1937 N. 150; 1937 O.W.N. 14=1937 O. 222 (F.B.). Application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis—Issue of notice—Effect—Presumption as to conditions of notice being satisfied. 10 Pat.L.T. 46=114 I.C. 210=1929 P. 27. Even after issue of notice it is still open to the Court under the proviso to that rule to reject the application unless, upon a perusal thereof, and of the judgment and decree appealed from, it sees reason to think that the decree is contrary to law or to some usage having the force of law, or is otherwise erroneous or unjust. 1937 O.W.N. 14=1937 O. 222 (F.B.) noted supra. Memorandum of cross-objections filed in pauper appeals—Notice ordered—Presumption as to conditions being satisfied. 10 Pat.L.T. 387=119 I.C. 900=1929 P. 31. See also on this rule. 4 P. 67; 7 L.L.J. 214=1925 L. 391. Admission of an application for permission to file an appeal in forma pauperis is not a final disposal of the application and such admission does not preclude the opposite party from contesting the application. [7 P. 825, held overruled by 10 P. 606 (F.B.).] 141 I.C. 649=1933 L. 256.

ASSETS—SUBJECT-MATTER OF APPEAL TO BE EXCLUDED.—A decree for partition and separate possession obtained by a pauper plaintiff, subject to his liability for debts, against which he seeks to appeal as a pauper, contesting his liability for the debts, should be excluded in considering his application for leave to appeal as pauper. In considering whether a person is "pauper" the subject-matter of the suit should be excluded. 40 L.W. 783=1934 M. 653 (1)=67 M.L.J. 581. Where a pauper plaintiff who has partially succeeded wishes to appeal against the decree as a pauper, the property decreed in his favour by the trial Court cannot be taken into account in determining the sufficiency or otherwise of the plaintiff's means to enable him to pay the Court-fee. That decree could be appealed against by the defendants and till that becomes final, it cannot be said that the plaintiff appellant can exercise effective control or dominion over the decreed property and therefore he cannot be held to be possessed of sufficient means to pay the Court-fee. 1941 Oudh 113=1940 O.W.N. 1188. In a suit for enforcement of a mortgage at the instance of a mortgagee, the equity of redemption which is in the mortgagor or defendant is not the subject-matter of the suit, and for the purpose of deciding the question as to whether the mortgagor is a pauper or not, the value of the equity of redemption cannot be excluded by the Court from its consideration. The mortgagor is, therefore, bound to state the valuation of the equity of redemption on oath in his affidavit in support of his application under O. 44, R. 1 for leave to file an appeal in forma pauperis against the mortgage decree. If he does not do so, his application is defective and is liable to be dismissed. 45 C.W.N. 426.

NOTICE TO GOVERNMENT PLEADER—DUTY OF COURT.—On receipt of an application to appeal as a pauper, Court has first to consider whether prima facie there is any ground for its rejection. If it is rejected, the matter ends. But if it is not rejected, a notice though not compulsory should be issued to the Government Pleader and the respondent and on hearing them, Court has to decide whether the applicant is in a position to pay Court-fees and further whether the decree is one which is contrary to law or is otherwise erroneous or unjust. Refusal to hear Government Pleader is revisable. 148 I.C. 624=1934 A.L.J. 827=1934 A. 421. See also 1934 A.L.J. 961=1934 A. 1004 (F.B.).

APPEAL FROM DECREE OF COURT IN AGENCY TRACTS.—R. 1 applies to appeals sought to be preferred in forma pauperis from decrees of Court in the Agency tracts, although there is no corresponding provision in the Agency Rules. Though many of the provisions of O. 33 and O. 44 are not reproduced in the Agency Rules, it does not follow that an appeal must be admitted as a matter of course without leave of the Court. 58 M. 298=40 L.W. 862=1935 M. 51=68 M.L.J. 51.

COURT-FEE.—An application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis accompanied with a memorandum of appeal was filed on 4th April. The application was rejected on 11th April. On 20th July the Court-fee stamp was paid. Between the two dates, the scale of Court-fees had been increased. Held, that the Court-fee payable was only according to the scale in force when the memorandum of appeal was filed, viz., 4th April. 140 I.C. 190=1932 O. 343. See also 1933 A. 308=1933 A.L.J. 585=144 I.C. 79. Application under this rule—Court ordering Court-fees to be paid by certain date and rejecting appeal on default—If ultra vires. 1936 Pesh. 69. On rejecting an application to appeal in forma pauperis the Court is not bound to give time for the payment of Court-fee on the appeal. 154 I.C. 943=1935 Pesh. 22; 13 R. 50=159 I.C. 468=1935 R. 336. (1922 L. 225; 40 I.C. 611=32 M.L.J. 434 Diss.) The High Court can, after rejecting a petition for revision against an order of the District Judge rejecting an application to appeal as a pauper, extend the time fixed by the District Judge for paying the requisite Court-fees, even though such time had already expired and the appeal had been dismissed. 38 P.L.R. 374=1936 L. 909.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—Admission of an application for permission to file an appeal in forma pauperis is not a final disposals of the application and such admission does not preclude the opposite party from contesting the application. [7 P. 825, held overruled by 10 P. 606 (F.B.)] 141 I.C. 649=34 P.L.R. 516=1933 L. 256. Where the appellate Court issues notice to parties after a perusal of the application and the judgment and decree appealed from, it becomes functus officio as regards a summary dismissal of the application. The Court is bound to hear the parties before it does anything further. (54 A. 394, Ref.) 1933 A.L.J. 1467=1933 A. 925. On an application for leave to appeal as a pauper notice should not go as a matter of routine to the respondent. The practice of the Madras High Court is that when such an application is presented, as a condition precedent to the issue of notice, the Court has to have reason to think that the decree is contrary to law, etc. If the Court, after a perusal of the judgment, has not got reason to think so, then the Court is bound to reject the application; and it is only when that condition is satisfied that any notice goes at all to the respondent, and that is the notice on the question of pauperism and upon nothing else. Unless the order directing notice to go is qualified by some observations showing that the respondent is to be heard on the question of law, the ordinary rule is that the issue of notice means nothing more than that the question of pauperism is to be gone into, the Court being satisfied that on the face of the record it does satisfy the requirements of the proviso to O. 44, R. 1. 163 I.C. 755=1936 M. 661. When a Judge without considering this question issues notice to the respondent to show cause why the appellant should not be allowed to appeal in forma pauperis, he is entitled to correct the error and rescind his previous order issuing the notice and then consider whether there is any substance in the appeal. 44 L. W. 425=1936 M. 842=71 M.L.J. 497. Application under—If to be verified as a plaint. 1937 N. 108. There is no reason why every ground should be discussed in an order rejecting an application to file appeal in forma pauperis. 154 I.C. 943=1935 Pesh. 22. An appellate Court cannot be said to act illegally if it disposes of an application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis in chambers in a summary manner without hearing the applicant and without giving time for payment of the deficient Court-fee. Though the procedure is contrary to the prevailing practice, it is not illegal, for the usual practice is not sufficient to make it law. 159 I.C. 718=42 L.W. 831=69 M.L.J. 731. The respondent has no right to be heard on application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis under R. 1. But the Court is always justified in hearing the respondent or his pleader and there is nothing wrong in the Court hearing the respondent. 44 L. W. 425=1936 M. 842=71 M.L.J. 497. An application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis cannot be rejected without hearing the applicant or giving him an opportunity of being heard. The reference in the rule to a "perusal" by the Court of the documents specified is not sufficient to justify a departure from the ordinary cursus curiae. 52 L.W. 514=1941 Mad. 49=(1940) 2 M. L.J. 570. Court will not be justified in issuing notice in order to make up its mind whether so to reject the application. Where a Judge dealing with the application directs the issue of notice he may be taken to have decided not to reject the application. It is not open to his successor to reconsider the matter and come to a contrary conclusion; he should take up the application at the stage where it had been dropped by his predecessor and continue the proceeding. 145 I.C. 831=1933 M. 658=65 M.L.J. 362.

LIMITATION.—An application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis was rejected as not being presented within the time prescribed by Art. 170, Limitation Act. The applicant put in an application under S. 5, Limitation Act. Held, that the order rejecting the application was an order rejecting a motion to present an application passed at a preliminary stage and not an order rejecting the application itself after judicially considering it under R. 1, that with the rejection of the application there was no appeal pending before the Court and as such application under S. 5, Limitation Act, was not maintainable. Held, further, that the order of rejection had no effect whatever on the question of whether appeal can be successfully presented or not and that an appeal may be presented with the proper Court-fee paid accompanied by an application under S. 5, Limitation Act. 144 I.C. 79=1933 A.L.J. 585=1933 A. 308. A single Judge of the High Court has no jurisdiction to dismiss an application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis on the ground that it is barred by limitation, if the valuation of the appeal is such that it is beyond his pecuniary jurisdiction. 1935 A.L.J. 681=1935 A. 620 (2) (F.B.).

APPEAL.—See 8 Luck. 477=144 I.C. 978=1933 O. 207.

REVISION.—Unless a lower appellate Court acts with illegality or irregularity its order rejecting an application for leave to appeal as a pauper cannot be revised by the High Court. 30 I.C. 86. In appropriate cases revision would be allowed. 9 R. 92=132 I.C. 707=1931 R. 131. (32 A. 623, Diss.)

O. 44, R. 1 (Allahabad amendment).—The respondent has no right whatever to be heard on the merits of the appeal at any stage of the proceedings under O. 44, R. 1. He can only be heard as to the pauperism of the appellant. 1939 A. L. J. 996=1939 All. 715=I.L.R. (1939) All. 917.

O. 44, Rr. 1 and 2.—The correct procedure on the presentation of an application for leave to appeal as a pauper is, if the Court does not see fit to reject the application on hearing the applicant only, to issue notices (without calling for the records), in Form No. 11 of Appendix G, C. P. Code,

LOC. AMS.—[ALLAHABAD AND OUDH.] O. 44, r. 1. To r. 1 add another proviso as follows :—

“ Provided further that no application under this rule shall be allowed unless a notice of the application has been given to the proposed respondents.”

2. The inquiry into the pauperism of the applicant may be made either by the Appellate Court or under the Orders of the Appellate Court by the Court from whose decision the appeal is preferred :

Provided that, if the applicant was allowed to sue or appeal as a pauper in the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred, no further inquiry in respect of his pauperism shall be necessary, unless the Appellate Court sees cause to direct such inquiry.

LOC. AM.—[MADRAS.] O. 44, r. 2.

to the respondent and the Government Pleader, and then to hear all parties in regard to the question raised by the proviso to R. 1 of O. 44 and come to a decision thereon, and also to decide the question of pauperism if that falls to be decided under R. 2. If an application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis is admitted in the absence of the respondent, and without notice to him it is open to him at the final hearing of the Rule to show that the case does not satisfy the proviso to R. 1 of O. 44; 1938 Rang. L. R. 651. See also 186 I.C. 170.

O. 44, R. 1 and O. 33, R. 1.—An applicant under the U. P. Encumbered Estates Act, who has considerable properties is not a pauper because of the prohibition under S. 7 of the Act against dealing with such property. An applicant, if he desires to appeal against a decision of the Special Judge, cannot claim that he is a pauper because he has not been able to find a buyer. He has to seek the means to get over the difficulty arising out of S. 7 and not claim benefit as a pauper. 15 Luck. 397=1940 Oudh 208. The word ‘person’ in O. 33, R. 1 and so the word ‘person’ in O. 44, R. 1, C. P. Code, does not include a limited company incorporated under the Indian Companies Act. Consequently, an application by a limited company for leave to appeal in forma pauperis under the provisions of O. 44, R. 1 is not competent.

Per Costello, J.—It is doubtful whether it is even right to say that the word ‘person’ includes a liquidator of a limited company in liquidation. 42 C.W.N. 1164=1938 Cal. 745.

O. 44, R. 2.—The appeal is said to be filed on the day on which application for leave to appeal as pauper is made though Court-fee is paid before the end of inquiry. [2 A. 241 (P.C.), Foll.] 32 I.C. 630=9 Bur.L.T. 69.

O. 45, R. 3.—A certificate issued under O. 45 must clearly show whether it fulfils the conditions of S. 110 or is otherwise a case fit for appeal to Privy Council under S. 109. 44 M. 293=48 I.A. 31=40 M.L.J. 229 (P.C.). Where many important and wide-reaching questions of law are involved in a decision sought to be appealed against, the case is “otherwise a fit one for appeal to His Majesty in Council” within R. 3. 22 I.C. 390; 1914 M.W.N. 162. [NAGPUR.] For sub-r. (2) of r. 3, O. 45, the following sub-rules shall be substituted, namely:—

"(2) Upon receipt of such petition, the Court, after sending for the record, and after fixing a day for hearing the applicant or his pleader and hearing him accordingly if he appears on that day, may dismiss the petition.

(3) Unless the Court dismisses the petition under sub-r. (2), it shall direct notice to be served on the opposite party to show cause why the said certificate should not be granted."

4. For the purposes of pecuniary valuation, suits involving substantially the same questions for determination and decided by the same judgment may be consolidated; but suits decided by separate judgments shall not be consolidated, notwithstanding that they involve substantially the same questions for determination.

5. In the event of any dispute arising between the parties as to the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit in the Court of first instance, or as to the amount or value of the subject-matter in dispute on appeal to His Majesty in Council, the Court to which a petition for a certificate is made under rule 2 may, if it thinks fit, refer such dispute for report to the Court of first instance, which last-mentioned Court shall proceed to determine such amount or value and shall return its report together with the evidence to the Court by which the reference was made.

the applicant for leave to appeal to Privy Council, knowing full well that the requirements of S. 110, are not fulfilled, omits to say and is unwilling to say explicitly how his case is a fit one for appeal, the petition deserves to be summarily dismissed on that sole ground. 1936 R.D. 120.

O. 45, Rr. 3 and 4.—There is no provision of law authorising one application for leave to appeal in two separate suits and appeals. Where one such application is filed it is not open to the party to file another application out of time. It is however open to him to amend the application by confining the prayer for certificate to one of the cases. 140 I.C. 70=1932 L. 441.

O. 45, R. 4.—O. 45, R. 4, C. P. Code, requires that the questions for determination in the several suits sought to be consolidated shall substantially be the same. The fact that there is one common question does not entitle an applicant to an order for consolidation when there are other questions which are not common. The basis of an order for consolidation must be that the several suits involve substantially the same questions. 1939 Mad. 734=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 610=49 L.W. 470=I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 593. Under R. 4 consolidation for purposes of valuation for leave to appeal to the Privy Council is admissible only when the suits in question involve substantially the same questions for determination and have been decided by the same judgment. 44 M.L.J. 424=1923 M. 602. R. 4 allows consolidation but only to make good a defect of pecuniary valuation and not a defect of any other kind. 69 I.C. 525=1923 N. 198; 70 I.C. 782; 6 P.L.J. 97=2 P.L.T. 157; 3 P.L.J. 446=45 I.C. 551; 50 B. 753. See also 169 I.C. 926=1937 Pesh. 61. The word "judgment" refers to the judgment appealed against (i.e., the judgment of High Court) and not the judgment of the Court below. Even where the judgments delivered were separate, if one is merely a copy of the other except for a few alterations, the two should be regarded as the same judgment. 34 L.W. 817=61 M.L.J. 692 (50 B. 753, Foll.). The Court under the rule has a discretion to consolidate or not and is not bound to grant an order of consolidation as of course. I.L.R. (1939) Mad. 593=1939 Mad. 734=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 610. R. 7 of the Schedule to the Rules of the Indian Order in Council (9th February, 1920), regarding appeals to the Privy Council invests the High Court with power to allow consolidation of appeals for the purpose of giving security in cases not falling directly within the scope of O. 45, R. 4. 40 P.L.R. 658=1938 Lah. 207.

=2 O.L.J. 208. When a reference is made under this order to a Court of first instance, the Court must carry it out itself; it should not remit the investigation to some other officer. 34 I.C. 203=43 C. 225. Where an application for leave to appeal to Privy Council against an order of High Court dismissing on appeal his petition for adjudication of the respondent states that he has no information as to the assets and liabilities of the respondent, High Court will decline to refer the question of the value of the subject-matter of the appeal to the Court of first instance under R. 5. 12 R. 355=1934 R. 292.

O. 45, R. 7: TIME FOR FURNISHING SECURITY—POWER OF COURT TO EXTEND TIME—CONFLICT OF RULINGS.—Under O. 45, R. 7 (1), C. P. Code, as amended by Act XXIV of 1920, the printing costs have normally to be deposited within ninety days. An extension of time may be granted for deposit of printing charges after the expiry of 90 days upon cause being shown, but such extension of time cannot exceed 60 days, and if this further period of 60 days has elapsed, the Court has no power under the rule as it stands to grant further time. The words are mandatory and limit the discretion of the Court. So far as appeals to His Majesty in Council are concerned in view of the language of R. 9 of the Order in Council of 9th February, 1920, the High Court has power in proper cases to extend time for making deposits of printing costs beyond the limits fixed by O. 45, R. 7 of the Code of Civil Procedure. But such power should be exercised with great caution and only where there are cogent reasons. In other words, it is only when the justice of the case demands that the Courts should extend time or that such extension should be given. 19 Pat. 123=20 Pat.L.T. 905=1938 Pat. 667. See also 1939 Rang. L. R. 668. The High Court has power under R. 9 of the Privy Council Rules to extend the period allowed for furnishing the security and making the deposit required by O. 45, R. 7, beyond the periods mentioned therein. The provisions of R. 9 are wide and general in their terms.

The discretion conferred should be exercised only in exceptional circumstances and where an extension is clearly supported by considerations of justice and equity. I.L.R. (1939) All. 549=1939 All. 299 (F.B.). The discretion given to the Court under R. 9 of the Privy Council Rules is a general one, which does, if the justice of the case requires it, enable the Court to extend the time for lodging security to any extent; but in exercising that discretion, the Court must have regard to the fact that under O. 45, R. 7, the extension of time is strictly limited, and it would require a strong case to induce the Court to hold that justice requires an extension of time beyond the limit specified in that rule. I.L.R. (1939) Bom. 556=41 Bom.L.R. 947=1939 Bom. 483.

Per King, J. (Obiter).—In order to avoid a conflict between R. 7 and S. 148, it must be held that R. 7 must prevail, both on the principle "generalia specialibus non derogant" and on the principle that the general discretion given by S. 148 is a judicial discretion which can only be exercised according to law and not in contravention of law. 1933 A.L.J. 207=1933 A. 241=55 A. 432 (F.B.). See also 1937 A.L.J. 1362=1938 All. 131.

Per Mukerji, Ag. C. J. and King, J. (Niamatullah, J., dissenting).—Court has no discretion to extend the time beyond 150 days from the date of decree or order appealed against as the language of Privy Council Rules, R. 9, even though very wide, cannot override O. 45, R. 7. R. 9 was never intended to sanction the allowance of any further period; and O. 45, R. 7 and the Privy Council Rule should be taken as parts of the same legislative scheme and should be construed so as to avoid any inconsistency. 1933 A.L.J. 207=1933 A. 241=55 A. 432 (F.B.). (55 M. 835, Foll.; 51 B. 430, Diss.) 39 C.W.N. 651; 159 I.C. 232=1935 L. 733; 40 P.L.R. 712=1938 Lah. 725. There is no inconsistency between the provisions of O. 45, R. 7 and R. 9 of the Privy Council Rules. The latter does not refer to orders which may be passed by the Court previous to the cancellation of the certificate but is intended to cover merely incidental orders necessitated by the cancellation of the certificate. 159 I.C. 232=1935 L. 733. Decree amended on review—Leave to appeal to Privy Council—Limitation. 4 L. 185=75 I.C. 520. The High Court has no power to extend time or excuse delay in the matter of furnishing security for the costs of the respondents in an appeal to His Majesty in Council beyond the period given by S. 1 of Act XXVI of 1920. 18 L.W. 29=74 I.C. 703 (1)=1924 M. 44; 44 C.W. Both under this rule and under R. 9 of the Privy Council Rules, the Court has the power not only to extend the time for making the deposit and for furnishing the security, but also to change the form of the security. The mere inability of a party to raise the requisite funds is not a sufficient ground to justify an extension of time for furnishing security. 55 M. 835=1932 M. 484=62 M.L.J. 665. But see next case contra. The High Court can extend time for furnishing security but it should not do so without cogent reasons. 6 O.L.J. 149=50 I.C. 907; 65 I.C. 450; 49 I.C. 892; 10 C. 67; 1926 R. 44=94 I.C. 590; 103 I.C. 213 (1)=1927 P. 332; 51 B. 430=1927 B. 217 (P.C.). See also 1929 P. 431. In a case to which O. 45, R. 4 does not in terms apply as when the appeals arise out of one and the same suit and not out of two separate suits, the High Court has no inherent power for consolidating appeals to the Privy Council for the purpose of security for costs. 1936

A.L.J. 1025=1936 A. 832. When two appeals are consolidated for valuation, and a joint certificate is granted, both the appeals will be stayed if security for costs is not deposited in any of them. Security has to be furnished in respect of each appeal though consolidated. 4 P.L.J. 198. Security must be in cash or Government security. 66 I.C. 548. Application to furnish security in form other than cash or Government security must be made at the time of granting the certificate. 1929 P. 431. A deposit of Government Promissory Notes by way of security within the time allowed by the Court is valid even though the endorsement in favour of the Registrar was made beyond the time prescribed for furnishing security. The Allahabad High Court Rules do not say that the notes should be endorsed, though no doubt the endorsement is the proper form of furnishing security. 1933 A.L.J. 276=1933 A. 410. Where the applicant was asked to furnish security for costs of the respondent and also to deposit the translation and printing charges, the deposit of the costs only and not the translation and printing charges is not valid. 1933 A.L.J. 207=1933 A. 241=55 A. 432 (F.B.) The circumstance that the appellant had a serious illness which incapacitated him from attending to any work would amount to cogent reasons for extension of time. So also, where there is misunderstanding as to what business would be transacted in the office of the Court during the vacation, and where the appellant is under the impression that it would be enough if the money is deposited on the reopening day although the period expires during the vacation, it must be held that there are cogent reasons for extending time. 19 Pat. 123=20 Pat.L.T. 905=1939 Pat. 667 (F.B.). See also 1939 Rang.L.R. 668. A deposit made by an appellant to the Privy Council under O. 45, R. 7 is merely by way of security for any liability for costs of the respondent which might arise in case the appeal failed. When such liability arises and is discharged by appropriation of amounts already received in respect of the decree as provided for in S. 19 of the Madras Act IV of 1938, the decree-holder or respondent can no longer claim any payment under his decree for costs, and the deposit has to be returned to the appellant judgment-debtor. 54 L.W. 107=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 125.

O. 45, R. 7 (1) (b).—Where judgment-debtor appealed to the Privy Council and deposited necessary sum and decree-holder made an application to attach so much of the deposit as would eventually be found not to be required for the purpose for which it was entrusted to Court but did not put any figures to suggest that there was any likelihood of there being any surplus, the appli-

Security for costs furnished by insolvent—Attachment subject to appeal—Permissibility. See 9 Pat.L.T. 969. Judgment-debtor appealed to the Privy Council and deposited a sum for the costs of the Privy Council and for printing charges. Decree-holder applied to attach the amount in execution of the decree which he had obtained from High Court. The idea underlying the application was that the decree-holder would attach and obtain the amount deposited and would then claim to be in a position to contend that the judgment-debtor had not in deposit the money he was required to deposit and to ask that the appeal should be therefore dismissed. Held, that the manoeuvre was grossly improper and an offence to the Court and the nature of the application was such as to make it desirable to consider whether the Court has inherent power in suitable case to make counsel pay the costs of litigation. 119 I.C. 5=1929 A. 794. Under O. 45, R. 7 an application for permission to furnish security otherwise than in cash or in Government securities must be made at the time of the grant of the certificate. The proviso to the rule precludes the Court from granting an application of this nature at a later stage. 49 L.W. 716= (1939) 2 M.L.J. 521. Per Sulaiman, Banerji and Sen, JJ.—When either immovable or movable property is offered as security the proprietary interest of the surety is not automatically extinguished and merely a first charge is created on the security which will have to be available in the first instance for the purpose for which it has been offered. Although the depositor cannot defeat that purpose, his power of disposal of his security subject to that charge will subsist, and his interest in the surplus which may remain over is both transferable and attachable. It is not only permissible to a decree-holder to attach the security but he has a right to do so subject always of course to the first charge created and the Court has no discretion to refuse his prayer. The only condition which the Court issuing an order for attachment must impose is that the previous charge created in the property is no way to be affected. O. 21 R. 52, is specially applicable to attachment of property in the custody of any Court or public officer. 1930 A.L.J. 402=1930 A. 225 (F.B.). See also 148 I.C. 864=1934 O. 139=9 Luck. 534. O. 45, R. 7 (1) (As applied to Federal Court appeals)—"DATE OF THE DECREE"—MEANING OF.—The phrase "date of the decree" in O. 45, R. 7 (1), C.P. Code, as applicable to Federal Court appeals, means the date which the decree bears or the date upon which the judgment was pronounced. The starting point of time in the rule is undoubtedly the date which the decree bears and not the date when the decree was actually signed. 1939 P.W.N. 807=20 Pat.L.T. 905=1939 Pat. 667 (F.B.).

O. 45, Rr. 7 and 17.—Gwyer, C.J.—The Federal Court has no power to entertain any appeal from an order of the High Court refusing to extend the time for receiving the deposit of printing cost in respect of an appeal to the Federal Court, and even if it has, it should be slow to interfere with the exercise of the High Court of its discretion in a matter of this kind. Sulaiman, J.—There is no revisional power for interference with the order. And even if there is an appeal the Federal Court should not interfere with the non-exercise of a mere discretion by the High Court, unless some questions of principle are involved. I.L.R. (1940) Kar. O. 45, R. 8.—A deposit made out of time is not one made to the satisfaction of Court within R. 8. The periods both for security and deposit are identical. 1923 A. 572=84 I.C. 535. Omission to give notice to the respondents of the admission of an appeal to Privy Council is no sufficient ground for rehearing provided the respondents in fact knew of the admission. 22 Bom.L.R. 550=59 I.C. 7 (P.C.).

O. 45, R. 8 (as applied to Federal Court). SCOPE OF—DECLARATION OF ADMISSION OF APPEAL—IF CONDITION PRECEDENT TO JURISDICTION OF FEDERAL COURT.—(Obiter.) Sulaiman, J.—Under O. 45, R. 8, C.P. Code, as applied to the Federal Court, the High Court after the deposit has been made to its satisfaction, has to declare the appeal admitted, and then give notice to the respondent, and to transmit the record to the Federal Court. After the certificate required by S. 205 of the Government of India Act has been granted, the admission of the appeal by the High Court under O. 45, R. 8 is its final judicial act. The declaration that the appeal is admitted is not a mere ministerial or administrative act, but a judicial act. An appellant cannot come to the Federal Court without his appeal having been admitted by the High Court. Varadachariar, J.—Though the scheme of O. 45 implies that till the High Court makes the order under R. 8, it still retains a measure of control over the proceedings, it cannot be said that such an order is a condition precedent to the exercise of jurisdiction by the Federal Court. When the Federal Court has power to dispense with or give special directions as to printing and production of the records before it, it would be illogical to insist that the High Court must pass an order under O. 45, R. 8 (a), which can be passed only on compliance with the directions originally given by the High Court, which ex hypothesi have become inoperative because of the Federal Court's discretion in the matter. 1941 M.W.N. 136=22 Pat. L.T. 119=1941 (F.C.) 5.

O. 45, Rr. 8 and 17: Per Gwyer, C.J.—The absence of any admission by the High Court of an appeal to the Federal Court is not a statutory bar to the prosecution of the appeal before the Federal Court. The provisions of O. 45, C.P. Code, are procedural provisions only, and the non-compliance with R. 7 of that order relating to the deposit of printing costs does not necessarily oust the jurisdiction of the Federal Court, if a certificate under S. 205 (1) of the Constitution Act has once been given. word "Court" in the first para. of R. 13 means a High Court. 50 B. 453. An application for stay of execution under R. 13 cannot be entertained by the Court till the certificate for appeal to the Privy Council is granted. The presentation of a petition under O. 45, Rr. 2 and 3 is not an appeal. 16 I.C. 845; 18 A.L.J. 142=54 I.C. 561=42 A. 170. O. 45, R. 13 has no application where the party applied for the stay of proceedings in the Court below as distinct from the stay of execution of a decree. 150 I.C. 446=1934 A.L.J. 1191=1934 A. 585. It is competent to the High Court to appoint a receiver to an estate which is the subject-matter of an appeal for which special leave has been granted by the Privy Council. Suit for enhancement of maintenance—Trial Court holding suit to be maintainable—Appellate Court refusing to entertain appeal—Appeal to Privy Council—Stay of suit refused. 30 Bom.L.R. 126. Where a mortgage suit was directed to be re-heard by the High Court and during the pendency of an appeal to the Privy Council against that order one of the parties applied for stay, held, that High Court had power under R. 13 to stay the proceeding pending disposal of the appeal. 34 C.W.N. 631=1931 C. 79.

INHERENT POWER.—Under O. 45, R. 13 (2) (d), the High Court can, after an application for leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council has been filed, make an order for the preservation of the subject-matter of the appeal. A sum of money representing the fruits and profits of the decretal property accruing after the decree was passed, which was deposited in the High Court under its orders pending the disposal of the appeal to it, forms part of the subject-matter of the appeal to the Privy Council, as an adjudication of title in respect of the property one way or the other would directly affect its ownership. Prima facie, therefore, the High Court will have the power under that clause to make an order for the preservation of this sum of money, if in its discretion it thinks fit to do so. Even if Cl. (d) does not cover this case, the High Court will have the inherent power to make an order concerning this sum of money. Pending the filing of an application for leave to appeal to His Majesty in Council, the High Court has the auxiliary power, the inherent power to make an interim order touching this sum of money maintaining the status quo till such time within which the application for leave to appeal may be made and for such further period as within which an order may be obtained from the Court dealing with Privy Council matters. 45 C.W.N. 1023.

(b) if the original security was furnished by the respondent, the Court shall, so far as may be practicable stay the further execution of the decree, and restore the parties to the position in which they respectively were when the security which appears inadequate was furnished, or give such direction respecting the subject-matter of the appeal as it thinks fit.

15. (1) Whoever desires to obtain execution of any order of His Majesty in Council shall apply by petition, accompanied by a certified copy of the decree passed or order made in appeal and sought to be executed, to the Court from which the appeal to His Majesty was preferred.

(2) Such Court shall transmit the order of His Majesty in Council to the Court which passed the first decree appealed from, or to such other Court as His

NOTES.

O. 45, R. 15.—The provisions of R. 15 are mandatory. Where a decree for pre-emption passed by the Chief Court on appeal was reversed by the Privy Council, and the trial Court passed, at the request of the pre-emptor, an order by way of restitution directing payment to his creditors out of the pre-emption money deposited by him, before the order of His Majesty in Council had been transmitted to it from the Chief Court under R. 15, the order of the trial Court made in violation of its provisions is quite irregular if not altogether without jurisdiction. 160 I.C. 814=1936 O.W.N. 262=1936 O. 185. When an application under O. 45, R. 15, prays that the memo of costs be prepared, it includes also a prayer for transmission of the order to the Court concerned. The usual practice adopted by the Chief Court of Oudh with reference to such applications is to send them to the office for necessary action. It is the office that then prepares the memo of costs and transmits it to the Court concerned without any further directions or orders of the Court. 1938 O.W.N. 1045=1938 Oudh 250. When an order of His Majesty in Council is transmitted for execution under O. 45, R. 15 (2) it is not necessary to give any further directions and particularly so, when they are not asked for. 1938 O.W.N. 1045=1938 Oudh 250. "Execution" meaning of. 37 A. 567=13 A.L.J. 769; 64 I.C. 152. O. 45, R. 15 is not applicable to an application for restitution under S. 144, C.P. Code; such an application is not one in execution. When a successful appellant before His Majesty in Council applies for restitution, it is not necessary for him to apply under O. 45, R. 15. He has a right to approach the Court which passed the decree and claim restitution, and the Court of first instance has an inherent power to order restitution. There is no law compelling such person to apply first to the High Court under R. 15 of O. 45. Nor has the High Court any power to decide on an application under O. 45, R. 15 to which Court an application for restitution has to be made. If the High Court decides that and directs the application to be presented in a particular Court, that is not final or conclusive; and the respondent to an application for restitution can raise the plea that the Court in which it is made pursuant to the direction of the High Court has no jurisdiction to decide the restitution application. 1937 A.L.J. 588=I. L. R. (1937) All. 670=1937 All. 510. Under O. 21, R. 15 some of the decree-holders who have obtained permission under O. 45, R. 15 can execute the Privy Council decree on behalf of all the decree-holders though some were dead at the time of the Privy Council decree. 58 I.C. 212=1 P.L.T. 426. Where the appellants had obtained leave to appeal to the Privy Council but before the transcript record had been sent to England the parties settled their disputes by a compromise and applied to the High Court for amendment of the decree in accordance with the terms of the compromise, held, that the decree could be so amended and that O. 45, R. 13 was not bar to the same. 116 I. “(1) Whoever desires to obtain execution of any order of His Majesty in Council shall apply by petition, accompanied by the original decree passed or order made in appeal and sought to be executed to the Court from which the appeal to His Majesty was preferred, provided that the Court may in its discretion, if for special reasons it thinks fit to do so, act on a certified copy of the decree passed or order made in appeal.”

NOTES.

O. 45, R. 15, sub-R. (2).—The mandamus of R. 15, sub-R. (2) is clear and obligatory on a Sub-Court. The Court is bound to execute the decree of the Privy Council and neither the Sub-Court nor even the High Court has the power to stay execution or adjourn an application for execution on the ground that an application for revision of the Privy Council decree sought to be executed was pending before the Privy Council. 12 Pat.L.T. 145=132 I.C. 359=1931 P. 203. Where Privy Council directs that the costs, incurred by the successful appellant in the Judicial Commissioner’s Court, should be paid by the respondent, such costs include the printing charges and other expenses incurred by the appellant in the Judicial Commissioner’s Court for presentation of the appeal to the Privy Council, and the appellant is also entitled to the costs of the execution. 167 I.C. 879=1937 Pesh. 3.

Code, by the Government of India (Adaptation of Indian Laws) Order, 1937, assumes that a certificate under S. 205 of the Constitution Act has already been given, and an application to the High Court, under O. 45 is, therefore, irregular where no such certificate has been granted. 52 L.W. 122=72 C.L.J. 142=44 C.W.N. ORDER XLVI.

Reference.

1. Where, before or on the hearing of a suit or an appeal in which the decree is not subject to appeal, or where, in the execution, of any such decree, any question of law or usage having the force of law arises, on which the Court trying the suit or appeal, or executing the decree, entertains reasonable doubt, the Court may, either of its own motion or on the application of any of the parties, draw up a statement of the facts of the case and the point on which doubt is entertained, and refer such statement with its own opinion on the point for the decision of the High Court.

NOTES.

Appeal lies to the Federal Court from a final order of a single Judge of a High Court when a certificate has been granted under S. 205 (1) of the Government of India Act of 1935. The provisions of S. 111-A and O. 45, R. 17, do not preclude the admission of the appeal. When matters have proceeded as far as R. 8 of O. 45, a formal order of admission by the High Court is not necessary, but if all the requirements of the law, up to that stage have been complied with, it would be improper for the High Court not to declare the appeal admitted. When the certificate under S. 205 (1) of the Government of India Act has been given, no further certificate, is necessary, and the person aggrieved, is entitled to go to the Federal Court provided he complies with so much of R. 7 of O. 45 as is incumbent upon him. 54 L.W. 295=(1941) 2 M.L.J. 514.

O. 46, R. 1.—No reference lies to the High Court of the N.-W. Provinces where the question involved is one of fact and not of law. 11 I.C. 671. Under R. 1, a reference to the High Court on a question of law is only permissible when the Court trying the suit or appeal or executing the decree entertains a reasonable doubt; but where the Court had no doubt about the matter but was faced with the problem of having to decide between law and equity, it is for the Court to decide the question for itself and a reference is incompetent. 141 I.C. 572=1933 L. 402. The words “any such decree” in O. 46, R. 1, must mean either (a) a decree in a suit where no appeal is provided against the decree, or (b) a decree in an appeal where no further appeal is provided. 43 Bom.L.R. 733. The words ‘not subject to appeal in O. 46, R. 1, must mean that the law provides no appeal in any circumstances. They do not mean that no appeal has in fact been made. If in the case of a decree of a High Court, there might have been an appeal, it cannot be said that the decree is not such to appeal, although it is very unlikely that such an appeal would have been made or that the High Court would have granted leave to appeal to the Privy Council. If there might have been an appeal, the decree is subject to appeal, and no reference can be made under O. 46, R. 1 in such a case. 43 Bom.L.R. 733. A reference is incompetent where the order or decree is appealable. 10 P. 471=133 I.C. 766=1931 P. 253. O. 46, R. 1, cannot apply except in cases where there is a pending suit or appeal in which the decree is not subject to appeal. 42 Bom.L.R. 1093. In order that a Court shall have jurisdiction to make a reference under O. 46, R. 1, in connection with a question of law arising during the execution of a decree, it must be shown that the decree itself was not subject to appeal. A second condition necessary to give a Court jurisdiction to make such a reference is that the Court itself shall entertain reasonable doubt on the question to be referred. If it has come to a definite decision on the question, it has no jurisdiction to make a reference. 44 C.W.N. 1067=72 C.L.J. 522. It is not the object of R. 1 that subordinate Courts should be enabled to relieve themselves of the necessity of deciding difficult questions arising before them and to make a reference to High Court calling upon it to do what could have been done by the subordinate Courts. 55 A. 648=1933 A.L.J. 1468=1933 A. 597. Reference—Distinction between right of

2. The Court may either stay the proceedings or proceed in the case notwithstanding such reference, and may pass a decree or make an order contingent upon the decision of the High Court on the point referred ;

but no decree or order shall be executed in any case in which such reference is made until the receipt of a copy of the judgment of the High Court upon the reference.

3. The High Court, after hearing the parties if they appear and desire to be heard, shall decide the point so referred, and shall transmit a copy of its judgment, under the signature of the Registrar, to the Court by which the reference was made ; and such Court shall, on the receipt thereof, proceed to dispose of the case in conformity with the decision of the High Court.

4. The costs (if any) consequent on a reference for the decision of the High Court shall be costs in the case.

5. Where a case is referred to the High Court under rule 1, the High Court reference and right of appeal—Reference to be limited to cases of reasonable doubts as to question of law. 50 A. 839=115 I. C. 630. An error of law is included in the second category of R. 1 but the error must be apparent on the face of the record. There cannot be such an error where the question is highly difficult and controversial and the Court has arrived at a decision after consideration of all the points. Where, however, the judgment was delivered without notice to the parties and by reason of the fact that the Judge ceased to hold office subsequently, the aggrieved person lost a right to apply for leave to appeal under cl. (13) of the Letters Patent, held, that there was an error of procedure apparent on the face of the record and that it was a fit case for reversing the entire judgment on that ground. 6 R. 794=114 I.C. 687=1929 R. 70. Section 113 read with R. 1 permits reference to High Court of only such cases as do not admit of further appeal. 130 P. R. 1916=37 I.C. 227. Subordinate Courts in the Punjab are bound to follow the decisions of Chief Court and cannot make a reference on a question of law, already decided by Chief Court, unless such decision is questioned by a judgment of the Privy Council. 20 I.C. 194=8 P.R. 1914. Where no appeal lies to an appellate Court, Court has no jurisdiction to make a reference to High Court under R. 1. 18 I.C. 314=61 P.R. 1913. No reference can under R. 1 be made in suits or appeals in which the decrees are subject to an appeal. 54 M.L. J. 66. Where the referring Court has no reasonable doubt on the question of law referred, no reference can be made. 54 M. L.J. 66. The word "Court" means Court of Civil Judicature. 54 I.C. 564=22 O.C. 319. The functions of a Collector in execution of a decree do not make him such a Court as to empower him to make a reference. (Ibid.) Reference cannot be made to High Court on the mere ground that there are conflicting rulings on any particular matter of law. 18 I.C. 977=15 O.C. 380. Where a Court entertains a reasonable doubt regarding a question of law a reference to High Court can be made. 48 A. 188=93 I.C. 24=1926 A. 204; 50 A. 839=115 I.C. 630. O. 46, R. 1 contemplates a pending proceeding. If a Court gives its decision in a matter, it becomes functus officio and is not competent to refer the matter thereafter under the rule. Where after the Court gives its decision on a certain point a Government letter expressing a view contrary to that held by the Court is brought to its notice, and the Court refuses to act upon that view, even assuming the Court is not functus officio, the fact that the Government letter expresses a contrary view is not sufficient for the Court to say that it entertains a "reasonable doubt" on the point and a reference by it in such circumstances is therefore incompetent. 44 C. W. N. 446. A reference can only be made in a suit or an appeal and not in proceedings under S. 93 of the Bengal Tenancy Act which are in the nature of an application. 151 I.C. 721 (1)=38 C.W.N. 499=1934 C. 566. The condition precedent to a reference under O. 46, R. 1 is that the Court which refers is either hearing a suit or an appeal in which the decree is not subject to an appeal, or is hearing proceedings in execution of any such decree. An application to execute an award made under the provisions of the Bombay Co-operative Societies Act, 1925, is not a suit or the execution of a decree in a suit; so that, O. 46, R. 1 can have no application. I.L.R. (1940) Kar. 411=1940 Sind 111. O. 46, R. 5.—Rule 5 is wide enough to enable High Court to quash the order of reference made by a Subordinate Judge under R. 1. 30 Bom.L.R. 1627; 118 I.C. 692; 1929 B. 30. When High Court hears out of which the reference arose, and make such order as it thinks fit.

Power to refer to High Court questions as to jurisdiction in small causes.

6. (1) Where at any time before judgment a Court in which a suit has been instituted doubts whether the suit is cognizable by a Court of Small Causes or is not so cognizable, it may submit the record to the High Court with a statement of its reasons for the doubt as to the nature of the suit.

(2) On receiving the record and statement, the High Court may order the Court either to proceed with the suit or to return the plaint for presentation to such other Court as it may in its order declare to be competent to take cognizance of the suit.

7. (1) Where it appears to a District Court that a Court subordinate thereto has, by reason of erroneously holding a suit to be cognizable by a Court of Small Causes or not to be so cognizable, failed to exercise a jurisdiction vested in it by law, or exercised a jurisdiction not so vested, the District Court may, and if required by a party shall, submit the record to the High Court with a statement of its reasons for considering the opinion of the subordinate Court with respect to the nature of the suit to be erroneous.

(2) On receiving the record and statement the High Court may make such order in the case as it thinks fit.

(3) With respect to any proceedings subsequent to decree in any case submitted to the High Court under this rule, the High Court may make such order as in the circumstances appears to it to be just and proper.

(4) A Court subordinate to a District Court shall comply with any requisition which the District Court may make for any record or information for the purposes of this rule.

a reference, it acts like a Court of Appeal quite as much as it undoubtedly does when it hears an application for revision. 25 C. W.N. 81=32 C.L.J. 433. But a power of reference is not a modified form of appellate jurisdiction. A Court to which a reference can be made is not necessarily authorised to hear appeals from the Court making a reference. 47 A. 513=23 A.L.J. 385=1925 A. 380 (F.B.).

O. 46, Rr. 6 and 7.—See 21 C.W.N. 784=27 C.L.J. 96.

O. 46, R. 7.—Under R. 7, District Judge is bound, if required by a party to submit the record to High Court with a statement of his reasons. For that purpose, it is immaterial whether the order forming the subject-matter is that of a Small Cause Court or a Sub-Judge. 28 N.L.R. 54=137 I.C. 88=1932 N. 70. When two Courts, namely, a Sub-Court and a Court of Small Causes, make contradictory orders as to jurisdiction to receive a plaint, it is the duty of the appellate Court to make a reference to High Court whether the party asks for it or not. 17 N.L.J. 169=1934 N. 257. A plaint was filed in Court of the Second Class Subordinate Judge. That Court considered that the case was cognizable by the Court of Small Causes and returned the plaint for presentation to appropriate Court. The latter Court however held that the suit was not triable by it and returned the plaint to the applicant. The applicant applied in revision asking High Court to determine which Court had jurisdiction to entertain the suit. Held, that the correct procedure would have been to make an application to the District Judge under the provisions of R. 7. (1932 N. 70, Ref.) 145 I.C. 261=1933 N. 221.

O. 47: APPLICABILITY.—Recourse to inherent powers of Court is not permissible to justify the Court in granting a review which is specifically provided for by R. 1. 141 I.C. 188=1933 L. 169. See also I.L.R. (1939) Kar. 330. The provisions of O. 47 are applicable to an insolvency Court. 1927

The discretionary powers of revision vested in High Court by S. 115 are not in any way controlled by the provisions of O. 47; such powers are intended to apply even to orders disallowing a review application. (26 A. 572, Diss. from; 29 A. 468 and 31 A. 610, Rel. on.) 115 I.C. 314=1929 S. 38. An application for review of an order under R. 1, if found to be barred by limitation, may under appropriate circumstances be treated as an application under S. 151 if the Court is satisfied that there has been a flagrant abuse of its own process and it is also open to the appellate Court under similar circumstances to treat a barred application for review, made to the first Court, as one made under S. 151 in order to remove an apparent injustice done to the applicant and to prevent an abuse of the process of the Court. 116 I.C. 427=1929 N. 185. Execution case dismissed for default—Review or application to restore under S. 151—Remedy. 1935 R.D. 318. Non-service of notice of proceedings—Aggrieved party—Remedy, if by review or appeal. 1936 R. As to application for refund of Court-fee, in view of appellate decree, see 1935 A.W.R. 368=1935 A. 455.

O. 47, R. 1: GROUNDS FOR REVIEW.—The grounds on which a review is competent are different from those on which an appeal under Cl. 10 of the Letters Patent (Lahore) will lie. Consequently, when a petition for leave to appeal under Cl. 10 is refused, it cannot be treated as an application for review of judgment. 16 L. 602=1935 L. 330 (1). A Court can correct arithmetical or clerical errors under S. 152. But it has no power to review and modify its judgment when neither party has applied for review under O. 47, R. 1. 43 P.L.R. 88. Under R. 1 a party has a right to apply for a review of judgment to the Court that has decided the case before an appeal has been preferred. The grounds on which such an application may be made are specifically set forth in R. 1. 2 P. 676=50 I.A. 183=45 M.L.J. 578 (P.C.). In a review application, Court should confine only to the matter for which it has been filed; and where Court does so decide about other matters, there is an illegality or material irregularity in the proceedings. 145 I.C. 158=1933 R. 151. S. 114 has to be read with R. 1 which prescribes the grounds upon which an application for review may be made; and unless the case can be shown to be within the terms of this rule, a review ought not to be granted. R. 1 must be read as in itself definitive of the limits within which review is permitted and the words "any other sufficient reason" may be taken as meaning a reason sufficient on grounds at least analogous to those specified immediately previously. (49 I.A. 144, Foll.) 151 I.C. 41=1934 P.C. 213=67 M.L.J. 608 (P.C.). Accordingly no review lies against an order dismissing a suit for default. 1935 O.W.N. 446=1935 O. 405. So also in the case of appeal dismissed for default. 21 A.L.J. 416=74 I.C. 528; 101 I.C. 766=1927 B. 232=29 Bom.L.R. 371. No application for review lies against a decision in appeal under the Letters Patent. 134 I.C. 630=12 Pat.L.T. 652. (1931 A. L.J. 187 and 40 M. 651, Foll.) Though a petition for review of the Board's order may be admitted to hearing on the ground that there is an order from another appellate Court which is not in harmony with the decision of the Board, yet there is no case for review, where the appellate order in question was passed some months before the Board's order and where the very basis of that appellate order had been negatived by the Board in the order sought to be reviewed. 1938 A. W. R. (B.R.) 256=1938 R.D. 560. A Commissioner in order to take accounts may in his discretion and on proper grounds reopen the enquiry into any one or more of the items before his report is made. Until then he decides nothing that is final and conclusive. 47 B. 593=25 Bom.L.R. 280. Revenue Court has no power to review a judgment. 138 I.C. 465=1932 A.L.J. 437. Court under S. 8 (1) of Presidency Town Insolvency Act in reviewing, rescinding or varying its orders than in proceedings which fall exclusively under R. 1. That the order was made without jurisdiction is sufficient reason for reviewing the order. 139 I.C. 587=34 Bom.L.R. 1175=1932 B. 569; 27 C.W.N. 916=1924 C. 83. Misapprehension by both parties and the Judge as to the nature of the jurisdiction exercised by Court is a sufficient ground for review. (46 M. 955, Ref.) 14 L. 543=142 I.C. 640=34 P. L.R. 400=1933 L. 476. The mere failure of a Counsel to lay apposite law before the Court is by itself no ground for a review under O. 47, R. 1. 41 P.L.R. (J. and K.) 89. If owing to a misapprehension the counsel for the respondent to an appeal does not urge all his arguments in support of the finding of the trial Court in favour of his client, and an erroneous impression is created in the mind of the judge that counsel had no arguments to urge to meet all the points raised by the appellant's counsel, that would be analogous enough to an error apparent on the face of the record to be a sufficient reason for review under O. 47, R. 1. There is a power of review in cases of mistake of counsel or mistake of the Judge leading to errors in the judgment though not apparent on the face of the record. 1940 M. 17=50 L.W. 568= (1939) 2 M.L.J. 809. Where the decision is based on an obvious misapprehension of the nature of attachment it is sufficient reason for review. 163 I.C. 374=1936 L. 486. Fraud practised upon a party in connection with a petition of compromise upon which a decree was made, is a good ground for review. A remedy by suit is an alternative and a more appropriate remedy. 64 I.C. 259. Point not raised at trial cannot be raised in review. 47 A. 881. Where lower Court had decided a case following the decision of High Court in a connected case which was subsequently reversed on appeal by Privy Council the reversal of High Court's judgment is not a ground for review of lower Court's judgment. 43 M.L.J. 33=70 I.C. 741=1922 M. 227. High Court in dismissing an appeal on the ground of limitation, remarked that in case the view of law taken by the High Court were overruled by the Privy Council in an appeal then pending before that tribunal, the appellant might apply for a review of judgment. Subsequently Privy Council reversed the view of High Court in that appeal and thereupon they applied for a review. Held, that the application should be granted, because the decision of the Privy Council subsequent to the dismissal of the appeal should, in the special circumstances of the case, be treated as a sufficient reason ejusdem generis with the discovery of new and important matter, which should be deemed to be a ground which was in contemplation at the date of the decree. 11 O.W.N. 1287=1934 O. 445. See also 184 I.C. 689=2 Fed.L.J. 112. in the award, is maintainable. 52 I.C. 696. A mere mistake of law is not, in itself a sufficient mistake or error apparent on the face of the record so as to form a ground for review of judgment. 44 I.C. 161. See also 1932 M.W.N. 153 (F.B.); 141 I.C. 188=1933 L. 169; 133 I.C. 206=1931 M. 608. Where it is alleged that the defendant's advocate thought that the Court had formed a certain opinion of the plaintiff's evidence and because of this belief he abandoned a certain contention which was one of the contentions to be put before the Court, this is not sufficient reason for allowing review. 189 I.C. 570=1940 Rang. 144. Where the mistake arises from the negligent conduct of the applicant for review the mistake cannot even be pleaded. 44 I.C. 161. It is doubtful whether an erroneous admission of fact made by Counsel can be considered to be a good ground for review. 161 I.C. 444=1936 L. 48. It is wrong procedure for a lower Court to review its former order merely on the ground that a ruling of the High Court had not been brought to its notice on the previous occasion. 132 I.C. 815=1931 A.L.J. 889. As to want of jurisdiction, see 21 C.W.N. 1109=27 C.L.J. 594; 14 L. 453=1933 L. 476. Where there is an error of law, which obviously and without research into the rulings involves a lack of jurisdiction to pass the order of which review is sought, is eminently a case in which the error, though technically an error of law, is apparent on the face of the record and should be corrected at the earliest possible time without driving the parties to the expense of an appeal or revision petition to which there would be no answer. (45 M.L.J. 309; 46 Mad. 955 and 1935 Cal. 153, Foll.) 49 L. W. 147=1939 Mad. 293=(1939) 1 M.L.J. 120. R. 1 of O. 47, is definitive of the limits within which review is permitted. A mistake of law is not in itself a sufficient mistake or error apparent on the face of the record to warrant a review. The fact that a judgment proceeds upon an incorrect exposition of the law is not sufficient to found a review. It makes no difference whether that mistake is due to inadvertence, forgetfulness, ignorance, or other error, unless that mistake or error is apparent on the face of the record, that is to say, unless it amounts to an error which can be disclosed without referring to anything beyond the record. There is no difference between a real blunder and a debatable point. An error de hors the record is not analogous to an error apparent on the face of the record. Nor would an omission to raise a point of law amount to a mistake or error on the face of the record. I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 151=1938 N.L.J. 48=1938 Nag. 145. An order under O. 45 rejecting an application to grant leave to appeal may be reviewed by the Court which made the order. 39 C. 1037=16 C.W.N. 1089. Erroneous view as to cognizability of a suit by a Court is a sufficient cause for review. 11 I.C. 15=195 P.L.R. 1911. Where a Court passes a personal decree where it ought not to have done so, and the same is found out by the party aggrieved only when it is sought to be executed, his remedy is not by way of amendment but by way of review. 18 L.W. 876=76 I.C. 786=1924 M. 225. See also 11 P. 519=132 I.C. 533=1932 P. 275. The mere fact that an application to set aside the decree is headed as made under S. 151 (which is clearly inapplicable to the case) does not preclude the Court from dealing with the application as one for review. 43 M.L.J. 290=70 I.C. 425=1922 M. 446. The Court has jurisdiction to review its judgment on the ground that the previous finding was wrong. 9 I.C. 273=9 M.L.T. 361; 36 I.C. 83=3 O.L.J. 267; 1 P.L.T. 561=57 I.C. 147. Error of law apparent on the face of judgment—Review lies. 105 I.C. 710=5 R. 610. See also 1935 R. 32; 930 A. 621; 28 N.L.R. 295.

O. 47, R. 1: "ERROR APPARENT ON FACE OF RECORD"—MEANING.—See 1939 Pat. 678 (F.B.); 18 Pat. 777=20 Pat.L.T. 859; 40 Bom. L. R. 952 (decree passed on an unregistered award without noticing that it is compulsorily registrable. An error apparent on the face of the record may be an error of law. It cannot of course be held that whenever a Judge have overlooked a ruling he has a power to review his decision; nor can it be held that whenever, after a judgment has been pronounced, a subsequent ruling changes the accepted view of the law, that subsequent ruling can be a ground for review. But when there is a legal position clearly established by a well-known authority and by some unfortunate oversight the Judge has gone palpably wrong by the omission to draw his attention to the authority, it may in a proper case be a ground for review, coming within the category of an error apparent on the face of the record under O. 47, R. 1. 54 L.W. 263=(1941) 2 M. L.J. 390. The meaning of "an error apparent on the face of the record" is an error which can be seen by a mere perusal of the record without reference to any other matter. A failure to consider a precedent bearing upon the case and binding upon Court is not a mistake or an error apparent on face of the record, but is really discovery of a new and important matter by the party who ought to have brought this precedent to the notice of Court, and therefore he cannot apply for review of judgment and decree on this ground unless he can show that his failure to bring it to notice was excusable. 13 R. 220=154 I.C. 590=1935 R. 32. Rang.L.R. 382. The error has got to be patent, and an ordinary error of law, a mere failure to interpret the law correctly when the point of law is complicated, is not necessarily an error of law apparent on the face of the judgment. 167 I.C. 449=1937 R. 56. Where the sole ground upon which the judgment proceeded is found to be untenable in view of certain provisions of law to which the attention of the Court was not drawn, the Court is empowered under O. 47, R. 1 (1), to review its judgment and to correct the error which is apparent on the face of the record. 1937 O.W.N. 496. Where the evidence of the peon who effected the service is found to be untrustworthy, the case should be restored and retried on the merits. 1939 A. W.R. (B.R.) 68. An error of law which could be established only after argument and reference to authorities is not one "apparent on the face of the record" so as to justify an application for review. [3 L. 127 (P. C.), Foll.] 1933 A.L.J. 75=55 A. 196=146 I.C. 756=1933 A. 274. Where the utmost that could be said is that a different view on certain questions of law is possible, and where the so-called error of law is not apparent on the face of the record, there is hardly any ground for review. 1939 A.L.J. 555=1939 All. 619. An erroneous view of the law on a debatable point or a wrong exposition of the law or a wrong application of the law cannot be considered a mistake or error on the face of the record, and as such cannot be a ground for review. 175 I.C. 586=1938 All. 308; 1941 R.D. 880. A clerical error not affecting the decision of the case is not an error apparent on the face of the record which will justify a review; nor can there be an error apparent on the face of the record when considerable research would be necessary to establish them if at all. 19 N.L.J. 276. See also 1941 Rang.L.R. 382; 31 N.L.R. 372=1935 N. 245. In order that a mistake can be corrected in review it must be apparent on the face of the record. But an order alleged to be based upon a mistaken impression of an admission by a party is not such an order as could be modified in review. 1940 O.W.N. 1074. There will be no finality to the decision of a Court if, after judgment is pronounced, the parties or advocates are allowed to come forward and say that a certain argument was addressed or given up in the course of the trial as the result of their not remembering certain material facts. It will not be correct to allow an application for review in such cases. 50 L.W. 903=1940 Mad. 203. The going into evidence in a second appeal is not an error apparent on the face of the record within the meaning of R. 1. 145 I.C. 810 (2)=14 Pat.L.T. 234=1933 P. 433. See also 141 I.C. 427=1933 L. 223. The trial Court found that it had no jurisdiction to try the suit as against defendant 2. The suit was accordingly dismissed as against defendant 2. On appeal by defendant 1 the question of jurisdiction did not arise in the appellate Court and was not discussed but the Court passed a decree against defendant 2. Held, that no decree could be passed against defendant 2 and as this was a defect apparent on the face of the record review should be allowed. 1935 C. 153 (1). Where two judgments constitute the "judgment" of one single Court, if one is vitiated by mistake or error apparent on the face of the record, that one cannot be a valid material on which a decree can be founded. The necessary consequence of the situation is that the other judgment, though not vitiated by such mistake or error, cannot by itself constitute the proper basis of the decree of the Court, for either one conjoint judgment or two concurring judgments are needed as the basis of the decree of the Court and hence application for review should be granted. 167 I.C. 449=1937 R. 56.

NEW EVIDENCE.—The discovery of a reasonable ground for adjournment by Court at a later stage is a good ground for granting review. 140 I.C. 226=1932 M. W.N. 1262. An applicant for review on the ground of discovery of new evidence should show that (i) such evidence was available, and of undoubted character; (ii) that the evidence was so material that its absence might cause a miscarriage of justice; (iii) that it could not with reasonable care and diligence have been brought forward at the time of the decree. I.L.R. (1938) 2 Cal. 361. High Court cannot, in a second appeal, entertain review, based on the ground that since the disposal of the appeal, new documentary evidence has been discovered. 45 A. 458=21 A.L.J. 377. The consideration that, if due diligence had been exercised; the evidence subsequently discovered, or not then within knowledge of the party, would have been found, is not the test for judging if the case falls under R. 1. Each case must be judged on the peculiar circumstances of that case. 1930 P. 63. See also 146 I.C. 830=10 O.W.N. 454=1933 O. 328; 1940 All. 519=1940 A.L.J. 632; 1939 P. W.N. 909; 31 Bom.L.R. 436. Newly discovered evidence must be conclusive. 119 I.C. 99=1929 A. 545; 1940 All. 519; 156 I.C. 733=1935 R. 184. Application for review will not lie on the ground of the discovery of a new and effective argument arising from a document which was before the Court and the terms of which were put in issue and were perfectly well known to the parties. 141 I.C. 881=1933 M. 290. Fresh documentary evidence cannot be admitted in review, unless and until it is shown that the evidence in question could not be produced at the trial for the reasons given in R. 1. 146 I.C. 830=10 O.W.N. 454=1933 O. 328. See also 39 P.L.R. (J & K.) 145; 1937 R. D. 264. The applicant praying for review of judgment on the ground of discovery of new evidence must prove his inability to produce it during trial in spite of due diligence. 38 A. 280=14 A.L.J. 204; 19 N. L.J. 276. Review on the sole allegation that new evidence had been discovered which was not within the applicant's knowledge cannot be granted without strict proof of such obligation. 9 I.C. 26. High Court will not accept a review of a judgment in a second appeal dismissed under O. 41, R. 11 on the ground that new evidence to prove a fact has been discovered. 36 C.L.J. 76=27 C.W.N. 918. The new important matter alleged to have been discovered must have existed at the date of the decree. (24 M. 1; 50 I.C. 119; Foll.; 51 I.C. 625, Dist.) 64 I.C. 324; 144 I.C. 103=1933 M. 485. The greatest care ought to be exercised in granting a review when it is asked for on the ground of discovery of fresh evidence after judgment. 45 C. 60=21 C.W.N. 1076=42 I.C. 484; 64 I.C. 324; 47 C. 568=31 C. L.J. 134; 50 I.C. 119=23 C.W.N. 242; 26 I.C. 281=41 C. 809. The application should be rejected when the applicant has not filed an affidavit or mentioned any relevant dates to support his theory that the new piece of evidence only came to his notice after the decision sought to be reviewed, especially when he is not even ready with any proof. 1936 R.D. 486 (1). The new evidence must be such as would entitle the Court to modify or cancel the decree. 38 I.C. 142. An application to receive fresh evidence discovered out of Court by the parties to an appeal comes under O. 47, I. 1, and not under O. 41, R. 27. 19 C.W.N. 401=42 C. 675. Discovery of document after judgment containing an admission of liability by defendant is a good ground for review. 11 I.C. 15=195 P.L.R. 1911; 135 P.L.R. 1916=35 I.C. 342. Discovery of new and important matter—Plaintiff failing to produce papers called for by defendant on false pretext—Subsequent tracing of papers by defendant after decree—Right to apply for review, after disposal of suit by High Court in Second Appeal. 15 P. 295=17 P.L.T. 575=1936 P. 595. Where a suit for restitution of conjugal rights was decreed and; subsequently, the wife filed a petition to the Ecclesiastical Court for a decree for nullity and the Ecclesiastical Court found out the relation between the parties to be that of cousins and upon this finding gave a decree for nullity. Held, that the matter which came to light by reason of investigation of the Ecclesiastical Court was a matter of evidence which after the exercise of due diligence was not within the wife's knowledge and, therefore, a valid ground for reviewing the decree for restitution of conjugal rights. 120 I.C. 465. Fraud practised upon the Court or upon the party may be discovered after the order complained of is made and may be new and important matter which could not be within the knowledge of the applicant at the time when the decree was passed or the order made and an application for review on the ground of such fraud must be considered on merits. A decree vitiated by fraud may be set aside by (i) suit, and (ii) by review of judgment; the latter being the more regular procedure. 33 C.W.N. 572; 19 I.C. 371=1929 C. 513. Though the case of a pardashin lady is neglected by her agents, she cannot apply for re-hearing of the case in review. 42 I.C. 970; 40 I.C. 79. Review—Duty whether confined to the evidence on the basis of which review was granted. 53 C. 856=31 C.W.N. 1035=1927 C. 21.

BURDEN OF PROOF.—In an application for review on the ground that evidence was overlooked by excusable misfortune, the burden lies heavily upon the applicant to prove that this misfortune is excusable; and that the evidence which he now seeks to adduce could not be produced at the proper time after the exercise of due diligence as laid down by the provisions of R. 1. 143 I.C. 720=1933 S. 110. When a tenant who is served with a notice under S. 81 of the Agra Tenancy Act does not pay up the arrears or contest the claim for ejectment within the period allowed by law and allows an order of ejectment to be passed against him, it is for him to explain; if he seeks a review of that order, why he did not exercise the options given to him by the law within the period allowed by the law. 1936 R.D. 466.

OTHER SUFFICIENT REASON.—Rule 1 must be read as defining the limits within which review is under the new Code, permitted; and reference to practice under former and different statutes is misleading. 43 M.L.J. 332=3 L. 127=49 I.A. 144=1922 P.C. 112 (P.C.); 13 L. 546=138 I.C. 379=1932 L. 596. So construing, the words; "any other sufficient reason" are to be interpreted as meaning a reason sufficient on grounds at least analogous to those specified immediately previously. (Ibid.); 49 B. 839; 1939 Lah. 460; 1939 Cal. 628=2 Fed.L.J. 112=43 C.W.N. 913; 1938 Nag. 221; 4 R. 266=1927 R. 20; 96 I.C. 832=1926 L. 665; 92 I.C. 1013; 5 R. 675; 146 I.C. 231=1933 A. 778; 100 I.C. 30; 104 I.C. 136=31 C.W.N. 822; 11 L. 158=123 I.C. 845=1930 L. 37; 113 I.C. 887; 33 C.W.N. 883=1929 C. 470; 11 P. 519=139 I.C. 533. In all applications for review based on mistake or error or any sufficient reason the applicant has to show a mistake or error apparent on the face of the record or a mistake or error analogous thereto. Where a Court applies a particular statute to a given set of events whereas on the said date it is obvious from the record that a wholly different statute applies, it may be a mistake apparent on the face of the record. 175 I. C. 649=1938 Nag. 221. The 'other sufficient reason' which would justify a review under O. 47, R. 1, must be of a cognate nature. A mistaken view of the law or of the facts is not a matter which can be covered by the expression 'some other reason'. 1941 A.W.R. (Rev.) 683=1941 O.A. (Supp.) 623. The negligence on the part of a party or his agent is not any sufficient reason analogous to those mentioned in R. 1 (1). Where therefore through negligence, the agent or pleader of a party has certified full satisfaction of decree, the executing Court has no power to review the order striking off the execution as fully satisfied. 150 I.C. 44=1934 N. 143. The "discovery of new and important evidence" in R. 1 would refer only to a discovery made since the order sought to be reviewed was passed. 66 I.C. 558=1922 A. 366. See also 1939 P.W.N. 909. Review is not to be granted on the ground that if the Court allowed the applicants another opportunity of producing evidence they might persuade the Judge that the view taken by him on the previous occasion was erroneous. 37 A. 440=13 A.L.J. 673; 57 I.C. 145; 14 I.C. 837. The mere fact that the party seeking a review desires to have a fresh sifting of the evidence is clearly not a sufficient reason for review. 19 N.L.J. 276. Where a judgment is based on the decision of the Revenue Court, the reversing of the Revenue Court's decision in appeal is a good ground for granting a review of the judgment. 33 A. 566=8 A. L.J. 584; 19 I.C. 689. That the meaning of proviso to O. 44, R. 1 is not as understood by the Court is no ground for review of an order rejecting the application to appeal in forma pauperis. 154 I.C. 943=1935 Pesh. 22. The omission of the Court and the pleaders to notice certain provisions of the Code which apply to a case is a sufficient reason within O. 47, R. 1, for granting a review. 52 I.C. 29=30 C.L.J. 200. A mistake as regards procedure or law is not a sufficient ground for allowing a review. Though a plea of inadequate service of notice may not be good ground for review of certain ex parte execution proceedings, ignorance of such proceedings though due to faulty service, would be a good ground to justify a review of the ex parte proceedings. 1940 R.D. 332=1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 141=1940 O.A. 864. The expression "where the ground of such appeal is common to the applicant and the appellant" refers to a case where the grounds of appeal and review are the same and does not refer to a comparison between the actual appeal by a party and a possible appeal by the applicant for review. 24 C. L. J. 517=21 C. W. N. 430. An application for restoration of an appeal rejected under O. 41, R. 10 (2) may be treated as an application for review of the order rejecting appeal. 32 I.C. 86. The discovery of the ruling of the High Court contrary to another ruling of equal authority of the same High Court on which the Court has passed an order is not a sufficient cause for review. 18 I.C. 275=17 C.L.J. 416; 1927 M. 998; 1926 M. 764=50 M.L.J. 493. An application for review of judgment can be granted in part. 11 I.C. 102=15 C.L.J. 339. See also 28 N.L.R. 245=140 I.C. 21. A Court can review its order, which was passed on the alleged consent of both parties on an application by one of the parties that he never consented to it. 15 C.L.J. 408=17 C.W.N. 631. A review of the decree, which was right when it was made on the ground of the happening of some subsequent event is not justified. 48 I.C. 157=111 P.W.R. 1918; 104 I.C. 136=31 C.W.N. 822. A review cannot be granted on ground other than those enumerated in O. 47. 22 I.C. 785=197 P.L.R. 1914. A Court can entertain review of an order of dismissal for default even in cases where no application for restoration of the suit is made within time. 109 P.R. 1913=19 I. C. 481; 4 P. 704 (dismissal for non-payment of printing fees). See also 37 C.W.N. 1045; 1933 P. 557. Default of appearance is not a reason contemplated by R. 1, nor is it analogous to any such reason. 52 M.L.J. 123=1927 M. 355=99 I.C. 954; 37 C.W.N. 1045. Where Court refused to grant adjournment because appellant's counsel was unprepared to argue, and did not permit the appellant to file a written argument and further its judgment did not state that it considered certain aspects of the question of limitation a review was not granted. 115 I. C. 173=1929 N. 89. No application for review will lie on the ground of the discovery of a new and effective argument arising from a document which was before the Court and the terms of which were put in issue and were perfectly well known to the parties. [13 L. 127 (P.C.), App.] 141 I.C. 381=1933 M. 290. A party can only ask for a review on the ground of other 'sufficient cause' if he can show the judgment to be incorrect. 13 I.C. 318=131 P.W.R. 1912; 17 L.W. 254=1923 M. 392. The words "for any other sufficient reason" in R. 1 mean a reason sufficient on grounds at least analogous to those specified immediately previous to discovery of new and important matter or mistake or error apparent on the face of the record. A deliberate order passed by a Bench of the High Court with a view to obtain a just decision of the dispute between the parties does not constitute a reason for review analogous to discovery of fresh evidence or a manifest mistake on the record. A review cannot therefore be granted against an order deliberately passed by a bench for the benefit of the parties in order to meet the circumstances of a particular case. 7 O.W.N. 741 =126 I.C. 677=1930 O. 392. See also 1934 R. 233; 1939 Lah. 460. Where in an execution application, an objection was raised that the decree was not executable for want of engrossment on a non-judicial stamp; and the Judge who heard the application did not say a word about it in his order, such an omission would clearly amount to 'other sufficient reason' under R. 1, of O. 47; even if it did not constitute a 'mistake or error apparent on the face of the record' entitling a succeeding Judge to review the order of his predecessor. 47 L.W. 51=1938 Mad. 307. The general body of creditors should not be allowed to suffer by the bona fide mistake of the Official Receiver in allowing an order of discharge to be passed ex parte. That is a sufficient cause for the Court to review or set aside the order. 61 M.L.J. 719. A misconception on the part of the pleader in consequence of which the evidence on a certain point had been shut out and the issue found against the party is a matter of considerable importance and would come under the words "for any sufficient reason." 1931 S. 3. Where a decision is erroneous owing to the fact that a decision of High Court binding upon the Court was not referred to it, the Court can grant a review. 26 I.C. 366=1915 M.W. N. 22. But see 1926 M. 764=50 M.L.J. 493; 1927 M. 998=106 I.C. 514. Where a Judge who heard the case issues notice on an application for review, his successor is not prohibited from disposing of it. (Ibid.) Review—Notice to the opposite side. See 92 I.C. 800=1926 M. 133 (2). The phrase "or for any other sufficient reason" means that the reason must be one sufficient to satisfy the Court. 62 I.C. 253=4 N.L.J. 16; 11 L. 158=123 I.C. 845=1930 L. 37. The mere fact of failing to produce evidence on account of wrong advice of counsel is no ground for re-hearing the case. 48 I.C. 918=4 O.L.J. 695. For review there should be more than simple non-reference by the Judge to evidence in favour of either party. 2 P. 765. A point of law which could have been raised but was not raised does not justify grant of review. 5 P.L.J. 344=57 I.C. 11. Where there has been an abandonment of a specific question involved in an issue which was raised at the instance of the plaintiff in the suit, he is not entitled to apply for review of judgment on the ground that the abandonment of the question involved was the result of an erroneous view taken by the plaintiff's pleader. That would not constitute "sufficient reason" for a review under O. 47, R. 1. 50 L.W. 903=1940 Mad. 203. An order rejecting a memorandum of appeal, as being insufficiently stamped is open to review. 55 I.C. 502. See also 1938 Pat. 111 (dismissal of appeal for non-payment of printing charges—Application to restore; if one for review).

NOTES.

C.C.M.—178

Where appeal was summarily rejected as out of time; when it was within time in accordance with the practice prevailing regarding the supply of copy stamps, and this was overlooked in rejecting the appeal, review would lie. 1936 L. 650. Wrong information given by the copying department in copy of judgment regarding dates, may be 'sufficient cause' to review an order summarily rejecting on appeal as having been filed out of time. 155 I.C. 88=1935 N. 109. The fact that the judgment as it stood was open to misconstruction and that the points raised involved questions of importance and of frequent occurrence and that it was desirable to have the views of the appellate Court declared are good grounds for review. 19 I.C. 363=6 S.L.R. 127. See on this point 139 I.C. 788=1932 R. 129. Where the mistake though apparent is only of a clerical nature and does not affect the actual decision of the case it is no ground for review. 148 I.C. 718=1934 N. 111. Where the recital in a document was found to be false and collusive and the Court gave its judgment based on this finding; held, that even if the document was genuine the judgment could not be reviewed on that ground. 161 I.C. 501=1936 S. 7. A review of an order of Court cancelling a reference to arbitration and fixing the case for evidence is competent, and it depends upon circumstances whether the order passed in review is correct or not. 189 I.C. 466=1940 Lah. 276.

Per Sathe, J.M.—It cannot be laid down once for all that illness can never be a sufficient cause for granting a review application under O. 47, R. 1. Each case must be considered on its merits. 1940 R.D. 502.

Per Harper, S.M.—A review is justified only when there is something intrinsically wrong in the order against which the application is made. Illness is not a sufficient ground. 1940 R.D. 502. Absence owing to illness on the date of the order is not sufficient ground for asking for review of the order passed on that day without contest by him. 1941 O.A. (Supp.) 863=1941 A.W. R. (Rev.) 1070. Application for review is one of the three remedies open to a person against whom an ex parte decree has been passed and hence there is nothing inherently wrong in such an application being presented. 1939 A.W.R. (B.R.) 42. See also 18 R.D. 586=16 L.R. 9 (Rev.); 1929 Sind 110.

NOTICE.—A Judge is not justified in passing an order reviewing his prior order without giving notice to the person affected by the order. 116 I.C. 714. See also 46 I.C. 458=1933 P. 643. Under O. 47 the Court should re-hear the case on the merits after the review is granted. But where the review relates to the correction of an error apparent on the face of the decree all that the Court has to do is to decide after notice to the party whether or not to make correction. 1930 M.W.N. 166.

NOTES.

MISCELLANEOUS: APPEAL AND REVIEW.—Effect of filing appeal—Review—Duty and power of appellate Court. 2 P. 676=45 M.L.J. 578=50 I.A. 183 (P.C.). Rules of procedure are not made for the purpose of hindering justice. 2 P. 676 (P.C.). R. 1 of O. 47 is intended to provide against action in two Courts simultaneously. Where a person prefers an appeal and then applies to the lower Court for review the order of the lower Court on the review application is invalid and its illegality is not affected by the subsequent withdrawal of the appeal. 33 Bom.L.R. 378; 14 R.D. 294 (1). The fact that the party could have appealed from an order which on the face of it is erroneous is no bar to an application for review. 14 L. 55=1933 L. 226. R. 1 does not apply where after filing an application for review the opposite party prefers an appeal. 63 I.C. 841. When an appeal is withdrawn, it must be treated as if it had never been "presented" within the meaning of O. 47, R. 1. 43 A. 288=19 A.L.J. 24. A Court can entertain an application for review and dispose of it on the merits even though subsequently an appeal is filed against the decree originally passed. 18 A.L.J. 135=42 A. 317; 17 A.L.J. 1021=42 A. 79. See also 148 I.C. 496=1934 A. 250. The application for review is not maintainable after preferring an appeal against the same decree. 35 I.C. 867; 1927 B. 232=29 Bom.L.R. 371=101 I.C. 766; 30 C.W.N. 968. See also 1941 R.D. 428=1941 O.W.N. 813; 1941 P.W.N. 557. On the withdrawal of the appeal the original Court has jurisdiction to entertain an application for review of its judgment. 14 I.C. 327. Where an appeal against judgment by the High Court is dismissed under O. 41, R. 11, the District Court cannot deal with an application for review of the same judgment. 23 Bom.L.R. 597=46 B. 1. If an application for review is made and also an appeal is preferred, the Court to which the review application is made, can still entertain the application for review. 38 B. 416=23 I.C. 513=16 Bom.L.R. 189; 41 I.C. 497=44 C. 1011. Where a surety against whom execution has been ordered applied for review of the order on the ground that the Court had no jurisdiction to do so without calling upon him to show cause why execution could not be ordered, held, as the surety had a right of appeal, it was not open to him to invoke the remedies by way of review or revision. 1931 M.W.N. 963. An appeal may be preferred even after an application for review; the Court in such a case can proceed with application for review; but the hearing of the appeal must be stayed. 57 I.C. 785; 65 I.C. 125. A lower Court cannot review its order after it has been confirmed on appeal. 40 P.R. 1918=45 I.C. 84. It is illegal for an inferior Court to review the judgment of a superior Court. 50 I.C. 910. An application for review can be continued after the filing of appeal from the decree. If the review succeeds then the appeal becomes incompetent and cannot be heard. 50 I.C. 329=15 N.L.R. 65; 31 Bom.L.R. 137=116 I.C. 227=1929 B. 183. But see 11 I.C. 343=14 O.C. 108; 24 O.C. 280=66 I.C. 205. Every order in which in granting a review a Court fails to observe the terms of O. 47 should not be interfered with in revision. 104 I.C. 746. Appeal against original decree—Supersession of the decree on review appeal cannot be heard. 30 C.W.N. 738=96 I.C. 384=1926 C. 943. Appeal—Right of—No appeal lies from an order rejecting an application for review. Where the appellate Court entertains the appeal, its order is liable to be set aside by a superior tribunal. 14 R.D. 294 (2). But an appeal lies from an order granting the review. 36 C.W.N. 212=1932 C. 552. While there is a right of appeal, if the provisions of R. 4 of O. 47 are contravened, there is none if R. 1 of O. 47 is contravened. 116 I.C. 221=1929 L. 26. In appealable cases the review application should be filed before the appeal is lodged. 36 C.W.N. 40=1932 C. 171. When the lower appellate Court has postponed the consideration of an application for review, there is no appeal as the order cannot be construed as a final order. Again such an order is not included in the list of appealable orders in O. 47, R. 1. Hence the only remedy is revision under S. 115. 119 I.C. 561=1929 A. 375. There is nothing in R. 1 or in other provisions of the Code which would justify Courts in refusing to entertain an application for review merely on the ground that, subsequent to the making of the application, an appeal has been filed. The policy of the Code appears to be that a person cannot, after filing a second appeal, be allowed to obtain a review of judgment in lower Court which should have the effect of altering the judgment and decree from which he has appealed. 119 I.C. 561=1929 A. 375.

COURT-FEE.—Review application relating only to a portion of reliefs in plaint—Court-fee. See 57 C. 679.

ORDER ACCEPTING REVIEW—REVISION.—Where trial Court had jurisdiction to decide whether any irregularities were committed, and if so, whether those irregularities amounted to an error apparent on the face of the record within the purview of R. 1, even if that point had been wrongly decided, it could not be said that it had assumed jurisdiction which it did not possess or that it had lost it on account of an erroneous decision on a question of law and therefore such a decision is not open to revision. 152 I.C. 620=1934 L. 825. See also 141 I.C. 188=1933 L. 169; 1934 A. 971.

PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE.—If a judge wants to review his own order, he should follow the provisions of R. 1. He should

(2) A party who is not appealing from a decree or order may apply for a review of judgment notwithstanding the pendency of an appeal by some other party except where the ground of such appeal is common to the applicant and the appellant, or when, being respondent, he can present to the Appellate Court the case on which he applies for the review.

2. An application for review of a decree or order of a Court, not being a High Court, upon some ground other than the discovery of such new and important matter or evidence as is referred to in rule 1 or the existence of a clerical or arithmetical mistake or error apparent on the face of the decree, shall be made direct the pleader of the party who wants such review to advise his clients to file an application for review on which notice should be issued to the opposite party and the judge should then in their presence determine whether a review ought to be granted and the case reopened or not. But he cannot without notice to opposite party cancel his previous order and re-open the case. 146 I.C. 458=1933 P. 643 (2). An appeal which has been withdrawn must be treated as if it had never been preferred within the meaning of O. 47, R. 1. An application for review filed after the appeal is withdrawn is competent. Where a judgment-debtor filed a review application against an ejectment order, on the ground that he could not appear on the last day on account of his mother's death, and his own subsequent illness, and prayed for its cancellation and the Tahsildar dismissed it, but the Collector set it aside and granted the review and cancelled the original order of ejectment on the ground that the adjournments given for the payment of arrears were inadequate, it was held that the Collector's action in granting the review application was entirely irregular and could not be justified. It was further held that though a ground not taken in the memo. of appeal could be raised in arguments, it could not travel beyond the original case as made out in the trial Court and that no decision could rest on any such ground unless the party who might be affected thereby has had sufficient opportunity of contesting the case on that ground. 1940 R.D. 378=1940 A.W.R. (B.R.) 234. The Court which can review its judgment is the Court which has pronounced it and not the appellate Court before which the appeal is pending. The only remedy open to a party who has discovered new and important matter, which could not with due diligence have been found before, is to move the Court for a review of the judgment. 147 I.C. 339=1934 A. 175. An application under O. 47, R. 1 designed merely to escape the consequences of the law of limitation, maintainable. 1933 P. 557=147 I.C. 179. If an application for review of judgment is presented on the original side of the High Court before an appeal is preferred, the Court is not deprived of its jurisdiction to entertain the application for review, on the ground that, when the application comes on to be dealt with, an appeal is pending under Rr. 2, 3 and 34 of the Rules and Orders of the High Court, Original Side Chapter 32, the application for review must be held to be presented when the memorandum of review is filed and not when it is urged in Court. The person who files a memorandum of review takes a step which initiates proceedings for review, and by so doing applies for review of judgment within the meaning of O. 47, R. 1. 41 C.W.N. 129=170 I.C. 653.

O. 47, R. 1 (2).—The word "party" in this sub-rule is properly used in its context. It pre-supposes that the person to whom it refers is a party to the decree. 159 I.C. 186=1935 R. 364. Persons who have never been parties to a suit or to an appeal at all, need neither file a suit to set aside the original decree or the appellate decree, nor need they file an application for review. 159 I.C. 186=1935 R. 364. Father and son were defendants in mortgage suit and a mortgage decree was passed against both. In an appeal filed by the father alone, the son was not impleaded but the Court substituted decree ordering the son to pay the whole amount out of his pocket and the decree was sought to be executed by arresting him. Held, that the appellate Court had no power to do so nor was the son bound to apply for review of the appellate decree as he was no party to the appeal. (Ibid.) Irrespective of the time when a person aggrieved by a decree discovers material evidence, viz., whether before or after an appeal is filed, he has no right to apply for a review if he has already preferred an appeal. He being incompetent to apply for a review, his application is invalid and the Court will have no jurisdiction to inquire into the application. The subsequent withdrawal of the appeal cannot validate the application for a review which was initially void so as to confer on the Court a jurisdiction which it had none when the application was filed. 157 I.C. 366=31 N.L.R. 418=1935 N. 174. Application for review—Subsequent presentation of appeal—Competency—Grant of review—Effect. 43 L.W. 542.

O. 47, R. 2.—Review cannot be granted where applicant has mismanaged his case and wishes to secure a re-hearing thereof. 23 I.C. 394. R. 2 would prevent an application for review being filed against the order of a deceased Judge, if the Judge

A. B., the above-named plaintiff, states as follows:—

LEG. REF.

¹ Words within brackets have been substituted by A.O., 1937, for the former words, viz., "The Secretary of State for India in Council".

NOTES.

APPENDIX A.—The forms in Appendix A must be used with caution. They seem to have been drafted by some one with an imperfect knowledge of pleading and sometimes are in direct conflict with the Code.

For example, where they provide that original documents which are part of the evidence should be annexed to the plaint, they are to be taken as the standard of the requisite brevity and also no doubt as specimens of the character of pleadings required. But they are not to be adhered to slavishly, they are in fact not perfect by any means. 58 C. 418=134 I.C. 538=1931 C. 458. Forms in the Appendix—Necessity for adherence. See 1938 R. 478.

1. On the day of 19 , he lent the defendant rupees re-payable on the day of .
2. The defendant has not paid the same, except rupees paid on the day of 19 .
- [If the plaintiff claims exemption from any law of limitation, say:—]
3. The plaintiff was a minor [or insane] from the day of till the day of .
4. [Facts showing when the cause of action arose and that the Court has jurisdiction.]
5. The value of the subject-matter of the suit for the purpose of jurisdiction is rupees and for the purpose of Court-fees is rupees.
6. The plaintiff claims rupees, with interest at per cent. from the day of 19 .

No. 2.

MONEY OVERPAID.

(Title.)

A.B., the above-named plaintiff, states as follows:—

1. On the day of 19 , the plaintiff agreed to buy and the defendant agreed to sell bars of silver at annas per tola of fine silver.
2. The plaintiff procured the said bars to be assayed by E.F., who was paid by the defendant for such assay, and E.F. declared each of the bars to contain 1,500 tolas of fine silver, and the plaintiff accordingly paid the defendant rupees.
3. Each of the said bars contained only 1,200 tolas of fine silver, of which fact the plaintiff was ignorant when he made the payment.
4. The defendant has not repaid the sum so overpaid.
[As in paras. 4 and 5 of Form No. 1, and Relief claimed.]

No. 3.

GOODS SOLD AT A FIXED PRICE AND DELIVERED.

(Title.)

A.B., the above-named plaintiff, states as follows:—

1. On the day of 19 , E.F. sold and delivered to the defendant [one hundred barrels of flour, or the goods mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed, or sundry goods].
2. The defendant promised to pay rupees for the said goods on delivery [or on the day of , some day before the plaint was filed.]
3. He has not paid the same.
4. E.F. died on the day of 19 . By his last will he appointed his brother, the plaintiff, his executor.
[As in paras. 4 and 5 of Form No. 1.]
7. The plaintiff as executor of E.F. claims [Relief claimed].

No. 4.

GOODS SOLD AT A REASONABLE PRICE AND DELIVERED.

(Title.)

A.B., the above-named plaintiff, states as follows:—

1. On the day of 19 , plaintiff sold and delivered to the defendant [sundry articles of house-furniture], but no express agreement was made as to the price.
2. The goods were reasonably worth rupees.
3. The defendant has not paid the money.
[As in paras. 4 and 5 of Form No. 1, and Relief claimed.]

No. 5.

GOODS MADE AT DEFENDANT'S REQUEST, AND NOT ACCEPTED.

(Title.)

A.B., the above-named plaintiff, states as follows:—

1. On the day of 19 , E.F. agreed with the plaintiff that the plaintiff should make for him [six tables and fifty chairs] and that E.F. should pay for the goods on delivery rupees.
2. The plaintiff made the goods, and on the day of 19 , offered to deliver them to E.F., and has ever since been ready and willing so to do.
3. E.F. has not accepted the goods or paid for them.
[As in paras. 4 and 5 of Form No. 1, and Relief claimed.]

No. 6.

DEFICIENCY UPON A RE-SALE [GOODS SOLD AT AUCTION].

(Title.)

A.B., the above-named plaintiff, states as follows:—

1. On the day of 19 , the plaintiff put up at auction sundry [goods], subject to the condition that all goods not paid for and removed by the purchaser within [ten days] after the sale should be re-sold by auction on his account, of which condition the defendant had notice.

2. The defendant purchased [one crate of crockery] at the auction at the price of rupees.

3. The plaintiff was ready and willing to deliver the goods to the defendant on the date of the sale and for [ten days] after.

4. The defendant did not take away the goods purchased by him, nor pay for them within [ten days] after the sale, nor afterwards.

5. On the day of 19 , the plaintiff re-sold the [crate of crockery], on account of the defendant, by public auction, for rupees.

6. The expenses attendant upon such re-sale amounted to rupees.

PRELIMINARY DECREE FOR FORECLOSURE.

(O. 34, R. 2.—Where accounts are directed to be taken.)

(Title.)

This suit coming on this _____ day, etc.; it is hereby ordered and decreed that it be referred to _____ as the Commissioner to take the accounts following:—

(i) an account of what is due on this date to the plaintiff for principal and interest on his mortgage mentioned in the plaint (such interest to be computed at the rate payable on the principal or where no such rate is fixed, at six per cent. per annum or at such rate as the Court deems reasonable);

(ii) an account of the income of the mortgaged property received up to this date by the plaintiff or by any other person by the order or for the use of the plaintiff or which without the wilful default of the plaintiff or such person might have been so received;

(iii) an account of all sums of money properly incurred by the plaintiff up to this date for costs, charges and expenses (other than the costs of the suit) in respect of the mortgage-security, together with interest thereon (such interest to be computed at the rate agreed between the parties or, failing such rate at the same rate as is payable on the principal, or failing both such rates at nine per cent. per annum);

(iv) an account of any loss or damage caused to the mortgaged property before this date by any act or omission of the plaintiff which is destructive of, or permanently injurious to, the property or by his failure to perform any of the duties imposed upon him by any law for the time being in force or by the terms of the mortgage-deed.

2. And it is hereby further ordered and decreed that any amount received under clause (ii) or adjudged due under clause (iv) above, together with interest thereon, shall first be adjusted against any sums paid by the plaintiff under clause (iii) together with interest thereon, and the balance, if any, shall be added to the mortgage-money or, as the case may be, be debited in reduction of the amount due to the plaintiff on account of interest on the principal sum adjudged due and thereafter in reduction or discharge of the principal.

3. And it is hereby further ordered that the said Commissioner shall present the account to this Court with all convenient despatch after making all just allowances on or before the _____ day of _____, and that upon such report of the Commissioner being received, it shall be confirmed and countersigned, subject to such modification as may be necessary after consideration of such objections as the parties to the suit may make.

4. And it is hereby further ordered and decreed—

(i) that the defendant do pay into Court on or before the _____ day of _____ or any later date up to which time for payment may be extended by the Court, such sum as the Court shall find due, and the sum of Rs. _____ for the costs of the suit awarded to the plaintiff;

(ii) that, on such payment and on payment thereafter before such date as the Court may fix of such amount as the Court may adjudge due in respect of such costs of the suit and such costs, charges and expenses as may be payable under rule 10, together with such subsequent interest as may be payable under rule 11 of Order XXXIV of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, the plaintiff shall bring into Court all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property in the plaint mentioned, and all such documents shall be delivered over to the defendant, or to such person as he appoints, and

PRELIMINARY DECREE FOR SALE.

(O. 34, R. 4.—Where accounts are directed to be taken.)

(Title.)

¹ Words not required to be deleted.

(i) an account of what is due on this date to the plaintiff for principal and interest on his mortgage mentioned in the plaint (such interest to be computed at the rate payable on the principal or where no such rate is fixed, at six per cent. per annum or at such rate as the Court deems reasonable);

(ii) an account of the income of the mortgaged property received up to this date by the plaintiff or by any other person by the order or for the use of the plaintiff or which without the wilful default of the plaintiff or such person might have been so received;

(iii) an account of all sums of money properly incurred by the plaintiff up to this date for costs, charges and expenses (other than the cost of the suit) in respect of the mortgage security, together with interest thereon (such interest to be computed at the rate agreed between the parties, or, failing such rate, at the same rate as is payable on the principal, or, failing both such rates, at nine per cent. per annum);

(iv) an account of any loss or damage caused to the mortgaged property before this date by any act or omission of the plaintiff which is destructive of, or permanently injurious to, the property or by his failure to perform any of the duties imposed upon him by any law for the time being in force or by the terms of the mortgage deed.

2. And it is hereby further ordered and decreed that any amount received under clause (ii) or adjudged due under clause (iv) above, together with interest thereon, shall first be adjusted against any sums paid by the plaintiff under clause (iii), together with interest thereon, and the balance, if any, shall be added to the mortgage-money or, as the case may be, be debited in reduction of the amount due to the plaintiff on account of interest on the principal sum adjudged due and thereafter in reduction or discharge of the principal.

3. And it is hereby further ordered that the said Commissioner shall present the account to this Court with all convenient despatch after making all just allowances on or before the day of and that upon such report of the Commissioner being received, it shall be confirmed and countersigned, subject to such modification as may be necessary after consideration of such objections as the parties to the suit may make.

4. And it is hereby further ordered and decreed—

(i) that the defendant do pay into Court on or before the day of or any later date up to which time for payment may be extended by the Court, such sum as the Court shall find due and the sum of Rs. for the costs of the suit awarded to the plaintiff;

(ii) that, on such payment and on payment thereafter before such date as the Court may fix of such amount as the Court may adjudge due in respect of such costs of the suit and such costs, charges and expenses as may be payable under rule 10, together with such subsequent interest as may be payable under rule 11 of Order XXXIV of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, the plaintiff shall bring into Court all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property in the plaint mentioned, and all such documents shall be delivered over to the defendant, or to such person as he appoints and the plaintiff shall, if so required, reconvey or re-transfer the said property free from the mortgage and clear of and from all incumbrances created by the plaintiff or any person claiming under him or any person under whom he claims and shall, if so required, deliver up to the defendant quiet and peaceable possession of the said property.

5. And it is hereby further ordered and decreed that, in default of payment as aforesaid, the plaintiff may apply to the Court for a final decree for the sale of the mortgaged property; and on such application being made the mortgaged property or a sufficient part thereof shall be directed to be sold; and for the purposes of such sale the plaintiff shall produce before the Court, or such officer as it appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property.

6. And it is hereby further ordered and decreed that the money realised by such sale shall be paid into Court and shall be duly applied (after deduction therefrom of the expenses of the sale) in payment of the amount payable to the plaintiff under this decree and under any further orders that may be passed in this suit and in payment of any amount which the Court may adjudge due to the plaintiff in respect of such costs of the suit, and such costs, charges and expenses as may be payable under rule 10, together with such subsequent interest as may be payable under rule 11 of Order XXXIV of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, and that the balance, if any, shall be paid to the defendant or other persons entitled to receive the same.

7. And it is hereby further ordered and decreed that, if the money realised by such sale shall not be sufficient for payment in full of the amount payable to the plaintiff as aforesaid, the plaintiff shall be at liberty (where such remedy is open to him under the terms of his mortgage and is not barred by any law for the time being in force) to apply for a personal decree against the defendant for the amount of the balance; and that the parties are at liberty to apply to the Court from time to time as they may have occasion, and on such application or otherwise the Court may give such directions as it thinks fit.

And it is hereby further ordered and decreed that the money realised by such sale shall be paid into Court and be duly applied (after deduction therefrom of the expenses of the sale) first in payment of the amount due to the plaintiff as specified in clause 1 above with such costs of the suit and other costs, charges and expenses as may be payable under rule 1, together with such subsequent interest as may be payable under rule 11 of Order XXXIV of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, and that the balance, if any, shall be applied in payment of the amount due to defendant No. 2; and that if any balance be left, it shall be paid to defendant No. 1 or other persons entitled to receive the same.

6. And it is hereby further ordered and decreed that, if the money realised by such sale shall not be sufficient for payment in full of the amounts payable to the plaintiff and defendant No. 2, the plaintiff or defendant No. 2 or both of them, as the case may be, shall be at liberty (if such remedy is open under their respective mortgages and is not barred by any law for the time being in force) to apply for a personal decree against defendant No. 2 or defendant No. 1 (as the case may be) for the amount of the balance.

7. And it is hereby further ordered and decreed that, if defendant No. 2 pays into Court to the credit of this suit the amount adjudged due to the plaintiff, but defendant No. 1 makes default in payment of the amount due to defendant No. 2, defendant No. 2 shall be at liberty to apply to the Court for a final decree for foreclosure or sale (as the case may be)—(declarations in the ordinary form to be introduced according to the nature of defendant No. 2's mortgage and the remedies open to him thereunder.)

8. And it is hereby further ordered and decreed that the parties are at liberty to apply to the Court as they may have occasion, and on such application or otherwise the Court may give such directions as it thinks fit.

PROCLAMATION OF SALE. (O. 21, R. 66.)
 (Title.)

Notice is hereby given that, under R. 64 of O. 21 of the Code of Civil Procedure, (1) S. No. _____ of 1908, an order has been passed by this Court for the sale of the _____ decided by attached property mentioned in the annexed schedule, in satisfaction of the claim of the decree-holder in the suit mentioned in the margin (1) amounting with costs and interest up to date of _____ was plaintiff and _____ was defendant. sale to the sum of _____

The sale will be by public auction, and the property will be put up for sale in the lots specified in the schedule. The sale will be of the property of the judgment-debtors abovenamed as mentioned in the schedule below; and the liabilities and claims attaching to the said property, so far as they have been ascertained, are those specified in the schedule against each lot.

In the absence of any order of postponement, the sale will be held by _____ at the monthly sale commencing at _____ o'clock on the _____ at _____

In the event, however of the debt above specified and of the costs of the sale being tendered or paid before the knocking down of any lot, the sale will be stopped.

At the sale the public generally are invited to bid, either personally or by duly authorised agent. No bid by, or on behalf of, the judgment-creditors abovementioned, however will be accepted, nor will any sale to them be valid without the express permission of the Court previously given. The following are the further Conditions of Sale.

1. The particulars specified in the schedule below have been stated to the best of the information of the Court, but the Court will not be answerable for any error, mis-statement or omission in this proclamation.

2. The amount by which the biddings are to be increased shall be determined by the officer conducting the sale. In the event of any dispute arising as to the amount bid, or as to the bidder, the lot shall at once be again put up to auction.

3. The highest bidder shall be declared to be the purchaser of any lot, provided always that he is legally qualified to bid, and provided that it shall be in the discretion of the Court or Officer holding the sale to decline acceptance of the highest bid when the price offered appears so clearly inadequate as to make it advisable to do so.

4. For reason recorded, it shall be in the discretion of the officer conducting the sale to adjourn it subject always to the provisions of R. 69 of O. 21.

NOTES.

App. E, Form No. 29.—The effect of condition 3 in form No. 29, App. E, is to give the Court a Quasi revisional discretion in the matter and not to require the Court itself to knock down the property. 9 Rang. 608=135 I.C. 654=1932 Rang. 17 (19 C. W.N. 633, Ref.).

5. In the case of movable property, the price of each lot shall be paid at the time of sale or as soon after as the officer holding the sale directs and in default of payment the property shall forthwith be again put up and re-sold.

6. In the case of immovable property, the person declared to be purchaser shall pay immediately after such declaration a deposit of 25 per cent. on the amount of his purchase-money to the officer conducting the sale, and in default of such deposit the property shall forthwith be put up again and re-sold.

7. The full amount of the purchase-money shall be paid by the purchaser before the Court closes on the fifteenth day after the sale of the property exclusive of such day, or if the fifteenth day be a Sunday or other holiday, then on the first office day after the fifteenth day.

8. In default of payment of the balance of purchase-money within the period allowed, the property shall be re-sold after the issue of a fresh notification of sale. The deposit, after defraying the expenses of the sale, may, if the Court thinks fit, be forfeited to Government and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claim to the property or to any part of the sum for which it may be subsequently sold.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Court, this day of 19 Judge.

NOTES.

App. F, Form No. 6.—Per Kemp, A. C. J.—The words "Court may adjudge" in Form 6, Appendix F mean that the Court is to be the arbitrator and not that it is merely to decree what the parties consent to. Per Blackwell, J.—The words "as the said Court may adjudge" at the end of Form 6 apply only to a question which might arise in execution in proceedings against the surety. They have no application to the decree which the Court must pass before requiring the defendant to produce and place at the disposal of the Court the property specified or the value of the same or such portion thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the decree. Having regard to the definition of the word 'decree' in S. 2 (2) the recording of a compromise and the passing of a decree in accordance therewith would be an adjudication by the Court in the suit. 54 B. 113. =31 Bom.L.R. 1442=1930 B. 122.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.
[Repealed by Act X of 1940, which consolidates the law as to Arbitration.]

THE THIRD SCHEDULE.

EXECUTION OF DECREES BY COLLECTORS.

Powers of Collector.

1. Where the execution of a decree has been transferred to the Collector under section 68, he may—

(a) proceed as the Court would proceed when the sale of immovable property is postponed in order to enable the judgment-debtor to raise the amount of the decree; or

(b) raise the amount of the decree by letting in perpetuity, or for a term, on payment of a premium, or by mortgaging, the whole or any part of the property ordered to be sold; or

(c) sell the property ordered to be sold or so much thereof as may be necessary.

NOTES.

Sch. III.—A decree was satisfied by a lease of the judgment-debtor's properties by the Collector. Attempts were made to alter the terms of the lease but the Governor-in-Council disallowed such alteration and directed certain proceedings in respect of defaulting lessees. The lessees having defaulted in paying the lessees money the Collector cancelled the lease and sold the property which was purchased by the decree-holder. The order of the Collector confirming the sale was affirmed by the Deputy Commissioner. Held, in revision by the Governor-in-Council, that the order cancelling the lease and confirming the sale were illegal and without jurisdiction, as being in contravention of the prior order of the Governor-in-Council and that the sale must therefore be set aside. 19 N.L.J. 22.

Para. 1.—Where a decree is transferred to a Collector for execution, it is not open to the Collector to allow the validity of the order for sale to be questioned. In that respect, he can be in no better position than a Court executing a decree transferred to it—he cannot go behind the decree. Conversely, as it is not within the Collector's competence to consider this question, it must be open to the Court to consider it, on a proper application and assuming that there is no bar of res judicata. The mere fact that the carrying out of the Court's order has been delegated to the Collector cannot deprive the Court of jurisdiction to consider the validity of the order. 60 B. 516=38 Bom.L.R. 221=1936 B. 227. When a decree is transferred to the Collector for execution he can send back the papers, if he fails in effecting a sale of the property. 42 A. 152=24 C.W.N. 394=38 M.L.J. 259 (P.C.). For good reasons the Court which passed the decree can also send back the papers to the Collector without fresh application for execution. In this case the Court enforces what it has already ordered. 42 A. 152 (P.C.).

All that is delegated to the Collector is to consider the proper mode in which a decree may be satisfied by an agriculturist debtor so as to save, if possible, the sale of his property and the Court passing the decree can enquire into the question whether the decree amount is satisfied or not and order a further execution when the Collector has returned the papers under an erroneous belief that the whole amount had been liquidated. 26 S. L.R. 506=1933 S. 112. Where a decree is sent to a Collector for execution he should let the land on premium so that the decree amount might be raised. But the Civil Court has no jurisdiction to interfere with the order passed by the Collector in respect of the transferred decree. 35 Bom.L.R. 761=1933 Bom. 369. After a Civil Court passes a decree for joint possession of a revenue paying estate the Collector not only has to make allotment but to complete the partition by delivery of possession and he fails to exercise a jurisdiction vested in him by law if he refers the parties to the Civil Court for this purpose. 56 I.C. 806. Collector to whom execution of a decree has been transferred may lease any property for a term on payment of a premium but he cannot provide for payment by instalments of the decree amount. Held also, that the Collector has no jurisdiction to reduce the amount of the decree by reducing the rate of interest. 50 A. 827=115 I.C. 125=1928 A. 558. The date on which the Collector ceases to have power to deal with the property under Sch. III of the C.P. Code is the date on which the deposit was made in Court of the amount to satisfy the decree fully and an alienation effected after the payment is made, is not invalid merely because the proceedings of the Collector formally continue. 122 I.C. 371=1930 N. 220. Collector becomes functus officio when the decree becomes adjusted between the parties. 19 N.L.J. 175=1937 Nag. 217. "Ancestral land" as defined in (All.) General Rules, Ch. IV, R. 8 (a) means property owned continuously from 1-1-1860 by the proprietor. Land gifted to the judgment-debtor after that date is not, therefore, "ancestral land".

2. Where the execution of a decree, not being a decree ordering the sale of immovable property in pursuance of a contract specifically affecting the same, but being a decree for the payment of money in satisfaction of which the Court has ordered the sale of immovable property has been so transferred, the Collector, if, after such inquiry as he thinks necessary, he has reason to believe that all the liabilities of the judgment-debtor can be discharged without a sale of the whole of his available immovable property, may proceed as hereinafter provided.

Procedure of Collector in special cases.

Notice to be given to decree-holders and to persons having claims on property.

3. (1) In any such case as is referred to in paragraph 2, the Collector shall publish a notice, allowing a period of sixty days from the date of its publication for compliance and calling upon—

(a) every person holding a decree for the payment of money against the judgment-debtor capable of execution by sale of his immovable property and which such decree-holder desires to have so executed, and every holder of a decree for the payment of money in execution of which proceedings for the sale of such property are pending, to produce before the Collector a copy of the decree, and a certificate from the Court which passed or is executing the same, declaring the amount recoverable thereunder ;

(b) every person having any claim on the said property to submit to the Collector a statement of such claim, and to produce the documents (if any) by which it is evidenced.

(2) Such notice shall be published by being affixed on a conspicuous part of the court-house of the Court which made the original order for sale, and in such other places (if any) as the Collector thinks fit ; and where the address of any such decree-holder or claimant is known, a copy of the notice shall be sent to him by post or otherwise.

4. (1) Upon the expiration of the said period, the Collector and the sale thereof need not be by the Collector. 1933 A.L.J. 91=1933 A. 138 (1) =147 I.C. 185.

LIMITATION.—The thirty days period of limitation for making an application for setting aside sale counts from the date of acceptance of the bid by the sub-divisional Officer and not from the date of sale held by the Tahsildar, Naib Tahsildar under orders of the sub-divisional officer. 17 N.L.J. 41.

Paras. 1 and 2; SCOPE OF.—Where a mortgage is executed over properties, some items of which were under the Collector's management in execution of a money decree, under Sch. III, the mortgage is void only in respect of the items in the management of the Collector but is valid as regards the rest of the items. 122 I.C. 369=1930 N. 237.

Para. 2.—An alienation by a judgment-debtor, whose property is under the management of the Collector under Sch. III, is void ab initio and not merely voidable at the instance of the Collector or the decree-holder. Where a judgment-debtor privately sells such property under the management of the Collector before the date fixed for sale, to the decree-holder himself and the Collector accepts it and sale deed is registered thereafter, the sale is void in as much as the Collector's powers had not terminated before the sale became effective and the decree also had not been extinguished by them. 1940 N.L.J. 616.

Paras. 3 and 4 (3).—Where gifted property has been attached and execution sent to Collector, it is the duty of the Collector to send notice to the donee under para. 3, calling upon her to state her objections. Where even without such notice, the donee raises objection, Collector should proceed under para. 4 (3), and not merely inform the donee that she should apply to the Court which passed the decree. 1935 O.W.N. 879.

Para. 4.—The Collector cannot adjudicate upon questions of title. 11 A. 94. On this section, see also 18 A. 315. An appeal from the decision by which a disputed claim is settled under this section is cognizable as a miscellaneous appeal. 4 M. 420. But see 7 A. 565.

Amount of decrees for payment of money to be ascertained, and immovable property available for their satisfaction. shall appoint a day for hearing any representations which the judgment-debtor and the decree-holders or claimants (if any) may desire to make, and for holding such inquiry as he may deem necessary for informing himself as to the nature and extent of such decrees and claims and of the judgment-debtor's immovable property, and may, from time to time, adjourn such hearing and inquiry.

(2) Where there is no dispute as to the fact or extent of the liability of the judgment-debtor to any of the decrees or claims of which the Collector is informed, or as to the relative priorities of such decrees or claims, or as to the liability of any such property for the satisfaction of such decrees or claims, the Collector, shall draw up a statement, specifying the amount to be recovered for the discharge of such decrees, the order in which such decrees and claims are to be satisfied, and the immovable property available for that purpose.

(3) Where any such dispute arises, the Collector shall refer the same, with a statement thereof and his own opinion thereon, to the Court which made the original order for sale, and shall, pending the reference, stay proceedings relating to the subject thereof. The Court shall dispose of the dispute if the matter thereof is within its jurisdiction, or transmit the case to a competent Court for disposal, and the final decision shall be communicated to the Collector, who shall then draw up a statement as above provided in accordance with such decision.

5. The Collector may, instead of himself issuing the notices and holding the inquiry required by paragraphs 3 and 4, draw up a statement specifying the circumstances of the judgment-debtor and of his immovable property so far as they are known to the Collector or appear in the records of his office, and forward such statement to the District Court ; and such Court shall thereupon issue the notices, hold the enquiry and draw up the statement required by paragraphs 3 and 4 and transmit such statement to the Collector.

6. The decision by the Court of any dispute arising under paragraph 4 or paragraph 5 shall, as between the parties thereto, have the force of and be appealable as a decree.

7. (1) Where the amount to be recovered and the property available have been determined as provided in paragraph 4 or paragraph 5, the Collector may,—

(a) if it appears that the amount cannot be recovered without the sale of the whole of the property available, proceed to sell such property ; or

(b) if it appears that the amount with interest (if any) in accordance with the decree, and, when not decreed, with interest (if any) at such rate as he thinks reasonable, may be recovered without such sale, raise such amount and interest (notwithstanding the original order for sale)—

(i) by letting in perpetuity or for a term, on payment of a premium, the whole or any part of the said property ; or

(ii) by mortgaging the whole or any part of such property ; or

(iii) by selling part of such property ; or

NOTES.

Para. 7 (1) (b).—Under para. 7 (1) (b) Collector has to take into account the whole decretal amount with interest. 37 Bom. 32 = 17 I.C. 142 = 14 Bom. L.R. 787. Though judgment-debtor makes no real attempt to pay off the decree amount for a long time after the passing of the decree, when he pays a portion and undertakes to make further payments by a certain date, it is not advisable to order the sale of the property, especially when there is no definite valuation of the property or order to be sold by Court. Collector is competent to have recourse to sale or lease or other methods to recover the decretal amount. 19 N.L.J. 27.

(iv) by letting on farm, or managing by himself or another, the whole or any part of such property for any term not exceeding twenty years from the date of the order of sale ; or

(v) partly by one of such modes, and partly by another or others of such modes.

(2) For the purpose of managing the whole or any part of such property the Collector may exercise all the powers of its owner.

(3) For the purpose of improving the saleable value of the property available or any part thereof, or rendering it more suitable for letting or managing or for preserving the property from sale in satisfaction of an incumbrance, the Collector may discharge the claim of any incumbrancer which has become payable or compound the claim of any incumbrancer whether it has become payable or not, and, for the purpose of providing funds to effect such discharge or composition, may mortgage, let or sell any portion of the property which he deems sufficient. If any dispute arises as to the amount due on any incumbrance with which the Collector proposes to deal under this clause, he may institute a suit in the proper Court, either in his own name, or in the name of the judgment-debtor, to have an account taken, or he may agree to refer such dispute to the decision of two arbitrators, one to be chosen by each party, or of an umpire to be named by such arbitrators.

(4) In proceeding under this paragraph, the Collector shall be subject to such rules, consistent with this Act as may, from time to time, be made in this behalf by the Provincial Government.

8. Where, on the expiration of the letting or management under paragraph 7, the amount to be recovered has not been realised, the Collector shall notify the fact in writing to the judgment-debtor or his representative in interest, stating at the same time that, if the balance necessary to make up the said amount is not paid to the Collector within six weeks from the date of such notice, he will proceed to sell the whole or a sufficient part of the said property ; and, if on the expiration of the said six weeks the said balance is not so paid, the Collector shall sell such property or part accordingly.

9. (1) The Collector shall, from time to time, render to the Court which made the original order for sale an account of all moneys which come to his hands and of all charges incurred by him in the exercise and performance of the powers and duties conferred and imposed on him under the provisions of this schedule, and shall hold the balance at the disposal of the Court.

(2) Such charges shall include all debts and liabilities from time to time due to ¹[the Crown] in respect of the property or any part thereof, the rent (if any) from time to time due to a superior holder in respect of such property or part, and, if the Collector, so directs, the expenses of any witnesses summoned by him.

(3) The balance shall be applied by the Court—

(a) in providing for the maintenance of such members of the judgment-debtor's family (if any) as are entitled to be maintained out of the income of the property, to such amount in the case of each member as the Court thinks fit ; and

(b) where the Collector has proceeded under paragraph 1, in satisfaction of the original decree in execution of which the Court ordered the sale of immovable property, or otherwise as the Court may under section 73 direct ; or

(c) where the Collector has proceeded under paragraph 2—

LEG. REF.

¹ For words "the Government" the words "the Crown" have been substituted by A. O., 1937.

NOTES.

Para. 9.—Collector holds any money which may be realised in execution, at the disposal of the Civil Court by which the decree was sent to him for execution. S. 73 applies to such proceeds. 16 A. I. See also 133 I.C. 423=1931 A.L.J. 1064=1931 A. 700. As to the right of revenue authorities, to recover expenses of sale as in cases under the Land Revenue Code, see 28 Bom.L.R. 1191=99 I.C. 289=1927 B. 17.

- (i) in keeping down the interest on incumbrances on the property ;
- (ii) where the judgment-debtor has no other sufficient means of subsistence in providing for his subsistence to such amount as the Court thinks fit ; and
- (iii) in discharging rateably the claims of the original decree-holder and any other decree-holders who have complied with the said notice, and whose claims were included in the amount ordered to be recovered.

(4) No other holder of a decree for the payment of money shall be entitled to be paid out of such property or balance until the decree-holders who have obtained such order have been satisfied, and the residue (if any) shall be paid to the judgment-debtor or such other person as the Court directs.

10. Where the Collector sells any property under this schedule, Sales how to be conducted. he shall put it up to public auction in one or more lots as he thinks fit, and may—

- (a) fix a reasonable reserved price for each lot ;
- (b) adjourn the sale for a reasonable time, whenever, for reasons to be recorded, he deems the adjournment necessary for the purpose of obtaining a fair price for the property ;
- (c) buy in the property offered for sale, and re-sell the same by public auction or private contract, as he thinks fit.

11. (1) So long as the Collector can exercise or perform in respect of the judgment-debtor's immovable property, or any part thereof, any of the powers or duties conferred or imposed on him by paragraphs 1 to 10, the judgment-debtor or his representative in interest shall be incompetent to mortgage, charge, lease or alienate such property or part except with the written permission of the Collector, nor shall any Civil Court issue any process against such property or part in execution of a decree for the payment of money.

NOTES.

Para. 10.—As to whether a sale of Collector is subject to the confirmation of the Civil Court, and whether Collector can set aside a sale, see 11 B. at p. 484.

Para. 11 : SCOPE OF PARA.—Para. 11 must be construed strictly. 6 O.W.N. 843=1929 O. 435. The object of Para. 11, Sch. III is that there shall be a fully substantial and certain permission on the part of the Collector, which is to be given in such a manner that the fact of its having been given is indisputable. The essence of the paragraph is that there shall be a written permission as opposed to an oral permission, which would be susceptible of evidence of varying degrees of credibility in order to establish the necessary proof. What is required is certainty, and where there is a written record of facts which cannot be disputed, an unmistakable inference drawn from this written record that permission was given, fulfils the requirements of the paragraph and a formal permission is then unnecessary. I.L.R. (1938) Nag. 573=1938 Nag. 309. It is perfectly clear that para. 11 does not forbid, in terms or otherwise, the transfer of the property in respect of which Collector can exercise or perform any of the powers or duties conferred upon him in the earlier paragraph of Sch. III. Indeed, such property can be the subject of transfer with the permission of Collector. All it does is to impose a partial disability on the judgment-debtor in the matter of transfer during the time Collector can exercise his powers and duties respectively conferred and imposed by paras. 1 to 10. 144 I.C. 373=1933 A.L.J. 1522=1933 A. 468. A transfer made in contravention of para. 11, is void and of no legal effect whatsoever. A person who is incompetent to transfer property by reason of para. 11, is on the same footing as a minor or lunatic, who is incompetent to contract. S. 65, Contract Act, cannot be applied to such a case or invoked by the vendor in order to entitle him to a refund of the purchase-money paid by him in consideration of the transfer which is void. Nor does S. 73 of the contract apply to the case, because the law will not presume or imply a contract where there could not have been a contract. I.L.R. (1937) Nag. 111=1937 Nag. 330. See also 1933 A.L.J. 1564=1933 A. 908; 11 O.W.N. 1626=1935 Oudh 156. But a family settlement entered into by judgment-debtors does not contravene the provisions of this para. as it is not a mortgage, charge, or lease or alienation within the meaning of this para. 1935 O. W.N. 278=1935 Oudh 245. The C form sent by the Civil Court embodied Mouza R, 12 annas share for Mouza B and the absolute occupancy fields of Mouza A. Collector provisionally withheld Mouza R from sale as he estimated that the sale proceeds of the other two items would be sufficient to satisfy the debt. Held, that because R village was the last in the order, in which the attached property was intended to be sold, it could not be said that the Collector could not exercise his power in respect of it. The judgment-debtor was therefore no more competent to transfer R than he was to transfer the other two items of property. 1934 Nag. 285=153 I.C. 687. Where law has imposed a personal disability of an absolute character, as in the case of a minor or a person of unsound mind, every contract made by him is void. Where the disability is partial, as in the case of a judgment-debtor to whom Sch. III applies, an alienation made by him is invalid; but any agreement to pay money recoverable from his person and other property, movable or immovable, is unaffected by the partial disability imposed by Para. 11. Such agreement is enforceable in law and is as valid as any other contract. The executant admitted in a deed that a sum of Rs. 20,000 had been advanced to him and he undertook to repay it on demand. This covenant was quite distinct and separate from the other part of the agreement under which the debtor gave security for the payment of the amount due from him. The debtor was incompetent to mortgage the property by virtue of Para. 11. Held, that the creditor was entitled to enforce his remedy under the first part of the agreement. 1933 A.L.J. 1522=1933 A. 468. See also 164 I.C. 945=1936 O. W. N. 1033=1937 Oudh 87) enforceability of personal covenant in mortgage). The Collector cannot return the decree as satisfied till the whole amount including interest up to date of satisfaction has been paid. 37 B. 32=14 Bom.L.R. 787. Para. 11 does not apply to the case of non-ancestral property comprised in a decree for sale. Such a decree cannot be transferred for execution to Collector. But, if so transferred through a mistake, the prohibition against alienation in Para. 11, will not apply, and an alienation, without Collector's permission is not invalid. 153 I.C. 612=11 O.W.N. 1626=1935 O. 156. See also 11 O.W.N. 1571=1935 O. 121. A junior member of a Hindu joint family cannot be allowed to deal with family property which has been placed in charge of Collector under para. 11. 132 I.C. 568=1931 A.L.J. 400. This para. is a bar to the relinquishment by a person of his interest in immovable property, and such relinquishment is invalid. 163 I.C. 672=1936 A.L.J. 680=1936 A. 452. The word "incompetent" is to be read in the exact and plain sense that the word implies. 46 183=45 I.A. 219=35 M.L.J. 733 (P.C.). See also 6 O.W.N. 843=1929 O. 435; 121 I.C. 888.

The object of para. 11 is to protect the debtor as far as possible from the risk of losing his property wholly or for all time, and mere attachment before judgment cannot defeat that object. 68 I.C. 188=1922 N. 238; 46 C. 183=45 I.A. 219=35 M.L.J. 733 (P.C.). See also 121 I.C. 888=1929 O. 441=6 O.W.N. 750. An order transferring decree for execution to Collector takes effect the moment it is passed; a transfer made between the passing of the order and the date of its reaching the Collector, is void. 92 I.C. 44=1926 N. 246. The incompetency created by this section does not extend to the lessee from Collector. 53 I.C. 776. Para. 11 no doubt prohibits the transfer of any property by way of mortgage but the stage at which any person entitled to plead that the mortgage was void is when the suit is instituted on the mortgage. Where such an objection is not open to the judgment-debtor or his representative to contest the validity of the previous decree in a later proceeding. 1930 A.L.J. 1594=1931 A. 38. A party seeking to avoid transfer under para. 11, must show that on the date of transfer Collector was exercising powers under the Code and the decree was still unsatisfied. 17 I.C. 887=8 N.L.R. 182; 66 I.C. 642=8 O.L.J. 358. See also 1937 O.W.N. 784=13 Luck. 531=1937 Oudh 410. While a decree is under execution by Collector it is illegal for a Civil Court to issue process against the property. 66 I.C. 642=8 O.L.J. 358. Even where the Civil Court releases subsequently some of the properties from attachment so long as decree is under execution by Collector, judgment-debtor cannot mortgage even property released from attachment without permission of Collector. 164 I.C. 945=1936 O. W. N. 1033=1937 Oudh 87. An order by a Court executing a money decree against judgment-debtor directing Collector to pay surplus sale proceeds if any to the money decree-holder and not to judgment-debtor, does not amount to issuing a process and is not illegal. 102 I.C. 94=1927 O. 216. So long as the property is under attachment in Collector's proceedings, a mortgage of the property by the debtor would be invalid. But once Collector's power has terminated as a result of satisfaction or payment into Court by the debtor, a subsequent alienation by the debtor would not be invalid merely on the ground of formal continuation of proceedings before Collector, or on the ground that the formal order releasing the property had not yet been passed by Collector. 15 N.L.J. 173; 144 I.C. 267. A decree which has been fully satisfied out of Court is one that is incapable of execution and Collector cannot exercise any of the powers conferred upon him by the Code and thereupon the incompetency of judgment-debtor to mortgage his property ceases. A mortgage therefore executed by the judgment-debtor on the date of sale fixed by Collector to

(2) During the same period no Civil Court shall issue any process of execution either against the judgment-debtor or his property in respect of any decree for the satisfaction whereof provision has been made by the Collector under paragraph 7.

(3) The same period shall be excluded in calculating the period of limitation applicable to the execution of any decree affected by the provisions of this paragraph in respect of any remedy of which the decree-holder has been temporarily deprived.

pay off decree-holder is not void, if decree-holder has been on that date paid off. (1930 N. 237 and 8 N.L.R. 182, Rel. on.) 1933 N. 238. But where on transfer of execution to Collector, the sale officer returns the file to Civil Court to find out the extent and correct description of the property, and the Civil Court orders thereon, it cannot be said that the Collector had not seizin of the case in the interval. Any mortgage effected in the interval by judgment-debtor would be invalid. 1936 O.W.N. 489=1936 O. 280. The question whether Collector can exercise powers or not, should be judged not from a purely theoretical point of view, but from the standpoint as to whether he can practically and effectively exercise any of his powers with respect to the property alienated under Sch. III. After Collector's certification of payment of the decree, the property, the sale of which is subsequently set aside, must be considered to have gone out of the jurisdiction of Collector. 1934 N. 285. The permission of Collector for a mortgage by judgment-debtor need not take the form of a certificate under O. 21, R. 83. It is enough if Collector knows of the mortgage and gives sanction to it in writing. 102 I.C. 94=1927 O. 216. Permission can be inferred from written words employed by the Collector from time to time there was written permission granted in the case. 7 O.W.N. 988=1930 O. 510. It is not necessary for judgment-debtor to inform Collector that a decree-holder is about to attach the property, and permission to mortgage obtained from Collector suppressing that fact, would not render mortgage invalid. 19 N.L.J. 94. 'Such property' in paragraph 11 means the judgment-debtor's property over which Collector had power to deal with under the provisions of the Sch. III. 1930 A.L.J. 1594=1931 A. 38. Where part of judgment-debtor's property is under Collector's management, judgment-debtor can validly mortgage the rest of his property. The words "such property or part" relate back to the earlier words the judgment-debtor's immovable property "or any part thereof in respect of which Collector is exercising his functions. Any part of the property in respect of which such functions are not being exercised is available to the owners thereof to deal with as they wish. 30 N.L.R. 331=1934 N. 264. Sch. III, Para. 11 (3)—If controls S. 48—Twelve years' period, if extended when decree-holder not deprived of remedy.

DELEGATION OF POWERS.—A Collector acting under Para. 11, is not competent to delegate his power to permit an alienation of the property by the judgment-debtor. The granting of such permission is not a mere routine work. 11 O.W.N. 1626=1935 O. 156.

Para. 11 (2).—This clause applies to all cases where Collector is making arrangements for sale of property; and when he is so acting any order of Civil Court for arrest of judgment-debtor or demanding security from him is ultra vires and illegal. 1935 N. 52 (1)=18 N.L.J. 138.

Para. 11 (3).—The words "period of limitation" in Para. 11 (3) apply to the restrictions placed upon the right of a decree-holder to take out execution of his decree both by the Limitation Act and S. 48 of the Code. 17 A.L.J. 1140=42 A. 118. Collector's powers under Para. 11 do not come to an end as soon as the property is sold by auction and fetches more than the decretal amount. 60 I.C. 310=16 N.L.R. 194. But see also 122 I.C. 371 1930 N. 220. Collector's power over property attached in execution of a decree terminates as soon as a payment sufficient to satisfy the decree has been made, and an alienation effected after such payment is not invalid. 122 I.C. 371. They exist at least till the confirmation of the sale. 60 I.C. 310=16 N.L.R. 194. If an objection has been raised as to a sale by a Collector his powers to confirm the sale are suspended and he must refer the objection to the Civil Court. 45 B. 812=61 I.C. 287=23 Bom. L.R. 254. A purchaser's suit, to establish his title to the property sold, is not barred by S. 47. 45 B. 812=23 Bom. L.R. 254. On this rule, see also 64 I.C. 855; 45 I.C. 240.

COLLECTOR GIVING PERMISSION TO MORTGAGE—NEGOTIATIONS FALLING—COLLECTOR DIRECTING SALE—PERMISSION, IF IMPLIEDLY REVOKED.—The effect of Collector giving the permission to mortgage a certain property in writing is to remove the incapacity which is imposed by Para. 11, on a judgment-debtor, and to confer upon him a capacity to transfer the property in such a manner as to avoid conflict with the rights of decree-holder. Any transfer made after such a permission is liable to be set aside not as being void ab initio but only at the instance of decree-holder if he is prejudiced. The permission to mortgage, not of a limited nature, is therefore not impliedly revoked on account

12. Where the property of which the sale has been ordered is situate in more districts than one, the powers and duties conferred and imposed on the Collector by paragraphs 1 to 10 shall be exercised and performed by such one of the Collectors of the said district as the Provincial Government may by general rule or special order direct.

Powers of Collector to compel attendance and production.

13. In exercising the powers conferred on him by paragraphs 1 to 10 the Collector shall have the powers of a Civil Court to compel the attendance of parties and witnesses and the production of documents.

THE FOURTH SCHEDULE.

Year.	No.	Short title.	Amendment.
1870	VII	The Court-Fees Act, 1870.	In article 1 of Schedule I, after the word "plaint" the words "written statement pleading a set-off or counter-claim" and after the word "Act" the words "or of cross-objection" shall be inserted. From article 11 of Schedule II the words "from an order rejecting a plaint or" shall be omitted. For the entry in the first column of Schedule II relating to article 19 the following entry shall be substituted, namely:— "Agreement in writing stating a question for the opinion of the Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908."

THE FIFTH SCHEDULE.

(See section 156.)

ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

[Repealed by Sch. II of Act XVII of 1914.]

THE INDIAN COINAGE ACT (III OF 1906).

Year.	No.	Short title.	How repealed or otherwise affected by legislation.
1906	III	The Indian Coinage Act, 1906.	Repealed in part, X of 1914. Amended, IV of 1918; XXI of 1919; X of 1924; IV of 1927; II of 1934; VI of 1940.

PREFATORY NOTE.—The currency of British India is regulated by two modern Acts which supersede all prior legislation on the subject. The first, The Indian Paper Currency Act (III of 1905), deals with the issue, legal tender, and payment of currency notes. The second, the Indian Coinage Act (III of 1906) provides for the coining of silver (rupees), nickel (one-anna pieces) and bronze (pice). The standard coin of India is the silver of the failure of the negotiations relating to the contemplated mortgage and the subsequent order of Collector directing sale of that property. 1934 N. 285=153 I.C. 687.

Government rupee Other forms of rupee, such as the Portuguese rupee and Hyderabad or Sicca rupees are, however, in circulation. Gold coin of London Mint or the branch Mints which has not been decreed is legal tender at a fixed sum of rupees for one sovereign. Provision is made as to the amount of Indian coin which is legal tender. Provision is also made for the currency of certain coin made under former Acts, and the Indian Government is authorized to mint other coin for issue by the Government of territories beyond British India. (S. 23.)

The coinage of Ceylon (1892), Mauritius (1876) and East Africa and Uganda (1905) is based on the silver rupee as a standard; but in these possessions and protectorates the subsidiary pieces are the rupee-cents, and not annas and pies as in India.
